

Pearson Tech Notes

We have received reports of database issues that are causing the CIITS system to not display instructional materials/lesson plans. This has been seen in the materials search function and when creating Instructional Units for Curriculum. The database issue also appears to affect the ability to click on student names in the Report Bank reports, which will result in a "We're Sorry" message.

The Pearson team is investigating the issues and they have been escalated for the fastest possible resolution. We will send a notification once the issues are resolved or more information becomes available.
