Period Count Report (SIS-63427)

The following changes have been made to the Period Count Report:

A Report Type option has been added to the report, with the options of Total Count or Count by Period.

Total Count (default selection) evaluates the Having at least/at most parameters against the student's total attendance marks over the date range.

If a student falls within the total count range specified by the Having at least/at most parameters, all of the periods will display attendance mark counts.

If a student does not fall within the total count range by the Having at least/at most parameters, the student's attendance information will not be included on the report.

Count By Period evaluates the Having at least/at most parameters against each period of the student's attendance marks over the date range.

If a student has a period that falls within the Having at least/at most range, the student and each period that falls within the least/most range prints.

If a student has periods that fall within the range but other periods do not, the student name prints but no period information prints if the period does not meet the least/most range requirements.

If a student does not meet the least/most range requirements on any period, the student is not included on the report.

Validation for Having at least/at most

Negative values cannot be entered.

The At Least value cannot be greater than the At Most value.

When using the Count By Period option, the Having At Most field requires a value that is not zero (0).

If one of the having at least or having at most fields is left blank but the other field is populated, the report displays greater than or less than symbols in the header.

- The Report Editor note has been updated to include these changes.

To find students who do not have any attendance marks in any period (Perfect Attendance), use the Total Count option and enter zero (0) in both of the Having at least/at most fields. Only students who have zero absence attendance marks display.

Messenger - Improvements for Messenger Preferences (SIS-63002) [Enhancement]

Messenger Preferences were consolidated and more logically organized in System Administration > Messenger > Messenger Preferences. This change created a common area for districts to set up Email, Voice and Text (SMS) preferences.

The "Dialer Preferences" tab was renamed "Voice Settings."

The "Redial Preferences" tab was removed. The preferences from this tab were moved to the new Voice Settings tab.

The "Allow Teacher Messaging With Phones" System Preference (System Administration > Preferences > System Preferences) was moved to the new Voice Settings tab.

The "Email Preferences" tab was renamed "Email Settings."

A new option called "Limit Email Attachment File Size" was added to the Email Settings tab. This option allows you to set size limits for email attachments. The default maximum file size is 100 MB (set in the Campus XML file). If a user tries to attach a file that is larger than the limit set in this field, an error message will display explaining that their file is too large.

Emergency Messenger Performance Improvement (SIS-64686)

A performance problem was causing a Emergency Messages to be delayed. Performance has been improved and this problem has been fixed.

The Remote Dial-In extract was changed to use personID as the reference number instead of staff or student IDs since staff or student IDs may not be unique to each individual and also can be null.

Non-unique and null values caused records to error out and not export to ShoutPoint. If a file had more than 500 record error out, ShoutPoint did not upload the Remote Dial-In extract.
