Purpose of the KDE SBDM Election Handbook

The purpose of this handbook is to provide schools, principals, teachers, and parents with a quick and easy guide to School Based Decision Making elections. This handbook is meant to be a supplement to the Kentucky Department of Education (KDE) SBDM Handbook and is not meant to replace or alter it. All questions regarding SBDM elections should be directed to the district SBDM coordinator or to KDE.

SBDM Parent Basics

Who makes up the council: A school council consists of three (3) teachers, two (2) parents, and the school principal. Teacher representatives are elected by teachers and parent representatives are elected by parents.

This administrative structure may increase proportionately without Kentucky Board of Education (KBE) approval in schools with more than one administrator.

Term of office: One year

A school council, once elected, may adopt a policy setting different terms of office for parent and teacher members subsequently elected.

Votes to be elected: Elected by plurality vote

The parent members shall be elected by the parents of students pre-registered to attend the school during the term of office in an election conducted by the parent and teacher organization of the school or, if none exists, the largest organization of parents formed for this purpose.

If a school will not be using a PTA organization to conduct voting, the chosen group needs to be representative of the school population and should not be a group such as a booster organization. While those groups may be the largest parent organization in the school, they may not represent the school population as a whole.

Eligible candidates: Parents must have a student enrolled or pre-registered to attend the school for the year they will be serving on the school council.

The definition of parent is defined to include parent, step-parent, foster parent and/or a person who has legal custody of a student pursuant to a court order and with whom the student resides.

Ineligible candidates:

- Parent who is an employee, or the relative of an employee, of the school in which they wish to serve
- An employee or a relative of an employee in the district administrative offices
- A local board of education member or member's spouse.

Minority Elections: Schools with 8 percent or more student minority population shall have at least one minority representative on the school council. For the purposes of SBDM, minority is defined as "American Indian; Alaskan native; African-American; Hispanic, including persons of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, and Central- or South-American origins; Pacific Islander; or other ethnic group underrepresented in the school" [KRS 160.345(1)(a)].

For more information regarding minority elections, see the Minority Election Guide and the Minority Representative Flow Chart, included in this handbook.

Who votes: Any parent of a child pre-registered to attend the school during the term the council being elected will serve may vote. Also step-parents, foster parents, and legal guardians if the child lives with them may vote.

Nominations: The statute does not explicitly cover the nominations process for parents to SBDM council. However, the largest parent organization in the school will be conducting the election and the election process will be determined by that organization.

- Procedures for election: Where will the elections take place? When will the elections take place? Who will be responsible for holding the election? Are absentee ballots allowed? What will be the process for absentee ballots?
- Procedures for determining representative: What will be the method for counting the votes? What will be the method for informing the school community of the results of the election? What will be the process for conducting a run-off election if needed?
- Documentation of the election process including ballots and tallies for the election should be kept by the custodian of records. These most often are placed and sealed in a labeled envelop and filed with other school council records. This is extremely important if there is a challenge to the election for the parent representatives to the school council.

Election documentation: Ballots and any other documentations (e.g., tally sheets, procedures) must be retained from the election. Open Records statutes require that these documents be retained for a minimum of three (3) years.

Documentation of the election should be submitted to the principal following the election and should be stored in a secure location.

Parent volunteer: If the parent is a volunteer in the school that their child attends or is registered, they may serve on the school council as a parent representative in that school.

If the parent is paid for volunteering, even if it is a one-time stipend, they are considered an employee and may not serve as parent representative at the school.

Minority Elections

Does your SBDM council require a minority representative? Schools with 8 percent or more student minority population shall have at least one minority representative to the school council.

What is the definition of a minority according to the SBDM statute? Minority is defined as “American Indian; Alaskan native; African-American; Hispanic, including persons of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, and Central- or South-American origins; Pacific Islander; or other ethnic group underrepresented in the school” [KRS 160.345(1)(a)].

How is the 8 percent minority population calculated? Combined minority population is determined by the annual reporting of attendance and ethnicity to the Kentucky Department of Education [Superintendents Annual Attendance Report (SAAR)]. However, a district may opt to use internal data of enrollment from the previous October 1 Infinite Campus report. If so, the district is responsible for maintaining the documentation in the SBDM office for five (5) years.

If a school council is formed and has not obtained minority representation in either of the three role groups (i.e., teacher, parent, or administrator), where does the minority representation come from? The principal will be responsible for carrying out the following:

- a. Organizing a special election to elect an additional minority parent member. The principal shall call for nominations and shall notify the parents of students of the date, time, and location of the election to elect a minority parent to the council by ballot; all minority parents with students enrolled and pre-registered for the school are eligible to serve as council members; and
- b. Allowing the teachers in the building to select one (1) minority teacher to serve as a teacher member on the council. If there are no minority teachers who are members of the faculty, an additional teacher member shall be elected by a majority of all teachers. Term limitations shall not apply for a minority teacher member who is the only minority on faculty.

What if a school has no minority teachers? If the school has no minority teachers, the school faculty shall elect, by majority, an additional teacher member to the school council for the purposes of increasing membership proportionately. The council will then need a parent to serve as the minority representative. If a school has attempted to get a minority teacher to serve on the board, but none are willing or the school only has one minority and they are unavailable or unwilling to serve, what happens to the minority seat? If only one minority teacher is on staff, teachers must select and offer the position to that teacher. The minority council member may remain on the council until the next election. If the only minority teacher is unavailable or unwilling to serve on the council, the position is listed as vacant. A non-minority teacher cannot be substituted to serve as a minority representative.

What if a school with at least 8 percent minority population has no minority on staff? An additional faculty member shall be elected by a majority of all the teachers and will serve on the council as a teacher representative, but not as the minority representative. The purpose of the election of this teacher is to ensure that council membership is increased proportionately. In this situation, the minority parent would be the only minority representative on the council.

What are the term limitations for a specially elected minority representative? Term limitations shall not apply for a minority teacher member who is the only minority on faculty.

A parent minority representative will serve for a one (1) year term, per statute, unless the council has set its own term lengths for all members in its bylaws.

If no minority parent or teacher were elected in the general election, and a special election is needed, will the school need to apply for an Alternative Model application since the result would be an increase from six members? An election for minority representation will result in an increase from six members on a single council. This does not require an Alternative Model application to be filed as this is fulfilling the statute for minority representation.

Our school has a minority principal; do we still need to have a special election for a minority teacher and parent? No you do not. The special election process for minority representation only applies if there were no minority members elected during the general election or if there is no minority administrator serving with the council.

Can a parent of a minority child, though the parent themselves are not a minority, still serve as the minority representative on the council? The candidate who wishes to be elected to the school council as a minority representative must be the minority themselves.

SBDM Teacher Basics

Who makes up the council: A school council consists of three (3) teachers, two (2) parents, and the school principal. Teacher representatives are elected by teachers and parent representatives are elected by parents.

This administrative structure may increase proportionately without Kentucky Board of Education (KBE) approval in schools with more than one administrator.

Votes to be elected: A majority vote of all teachers assigned to the building. 50%+1

If there are 30 teachers assigned to the building then 16 votes are needed to be elected.

Eligible candidates: All full and part-time teachers assigned to the school building, including school counselors, are eligible to serve on the school council and vote in a school council election.

All certified staff, as defined by the Educational Professional Standards Board (EPSB), in the school, including itinerant teachers, part-time teachers, counselors and library media specialist is eligible to run for SBDM council.

Curriculum Coaches/Instructional Coaches may be considered a teacher for the purpose of SBDM as long as they do not have administrative powers/duties (ex: duties or roles pertaining to evaluating other teachers). This determination is made at the district level.

Ineligible candidates: Principals, assistant principals and other administrative staff with evaluative duties

Minority elections: Schools with eight percent or more student minority population will have at least one minority representative to the school council. For the purposes of SBDM, minority is defined as “American Indian; Alaskan native; African-American; Hispanic, including persons of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, and Central- or South-American origins; Pacific Islander; or other ethnic group underrepresented in the school” [KRS 160.345(1)(a)].

If a school council is formed and has not obtained minority representation in either of the three role groups (i.e., teacher, parent, or administrator), the principal will be responsible for ensuring both of the following:

1. An additional election is held for parents to elect a minority parent representative to the school council.
2. Organization of the teachers to select a minority teacher to the school council.

Non-tenured teachers: A non-tenured teacher, one who has not been guaranteed a position for the next school year, may be nominated and run for school council. If the teacher is elected, that does not guarantee him/her a teaching position for the next school year.

Depending on the terms of the council service, any teacher that is not employed after June 30, the end of most limited teachers' contracts, that teacher is no longer an employee in the school. This will place a vacancy on the school council.

Who votes: All full and part-time teachers assigned to the school building, including school counselors, are eligible to serve on the school council and vote in a school council election.

While a teacher is on leave of absence, the teacher is considered a school district employee and is not eligible to participate in school council elections. A teacher on a leave of absence status would not be assigned to a particular position or school and therefore would not be included in the total number of staff assigned to the building for the purpose of electing a teacher representative. (This does not include a teacher on maternity leave).

Nominations: The teachers in the building should determine the nomination and election process to elect the teacher representatives of the building.

This process should address the following:

- Nomination process: How will people be nominated? What will be the timeline? How will the ballots be prepared once nominations are made?
- Voting: How will the voting process take place? What is the time frame for voting? How will ballots be secured? How will the election be monitored? How will candidates be notified of the results? How will tie votes and candidates not receiving a majority of all the eligible votes be handled?
- Vacancies: What are the procedures of notification and voting for vacant positions?

Election documentation: Documentation of the election process including ballots and tallies for the election should be kept by the custodian of records. These most often are placed and sealed in a labeled envelop and filed with other school council records. This is extremely important if there is a challenge to the election for the teacher representatives to the school council.

Open Records statutes require that these documents be retained for three years after the election.
