OAG 74-92.

Although KRS 26.270 (repealed) provides that the legislative body of a sixth-class city shall provide by ordinance who shall act in the place of the police judge, the legislative body cannot designate a councilman to act in the place of the police judge since both a city councilman and a city police judge are municipal officers and both subsection (4) of this section and Ky. Although Ky. Const., § 165 and this section state that no person shall at the same time fill two (2) municipal offices, either in the same or different municipalities, there are no legal prohibitions against holding the position of police chief and the position of city manager at the same time since a police chief is a city officer and according to KRS 89.560 (now repealed) a city manager is an employee of the city rather than a city officer. OAG 74-125.

by the city, since it would constitute a municipal office and this section and Ky. An assistant Commonwealth's Attorney may be employed by a city under a personal service contract since the attorney would be considered an independent contractor; thus, there Const., § 165, which prohibit a person from holding two (2) municipal offices or a municipal and a county office at the same time. OAG 81-240.

Under Kentucky law a city policeman is considered to be a municipal officer and thus a city cannot employ as a part-time police officer a person who is presently serving as a police officer in another city without creating an incompatibility prohibited by subsection (4) of this section and Ky. The employment of a county attorney as attorney for the county board of education does not violate this section and Ky. OAG 81-308.

A person who is the master commissioner of the county Circuit Court can lawfully be appointed to serve as a member of the water commission, since the office of master commissioner is, under KRS 31A.010, merely a position filled by and under the jurisdiction of, the Circuit Court, rather than a state, county or city office; thus, no incompatibility exists under this section and Ky. Const., § 165, between the two (2) positions. OAG 81-313.

An employee of a city or county can act as a court commissioner appointed to appraise real estate pursuant to KRS 416.580 and receive compensation therefor, since the court commissioner position is an office of the court at most and thus not a state, county or municipal office; the holding of both positions does not violate this section or Ky. Const., § 165. OAG 81-368.

The appointment by a Circuit Court Judge of a city comptroller to the position of court commissioner to appraise real estate pursuant to KRS 416.580 would at most constitute appointment to an office of the court which is not a state, county or municipal office; accordingly, the holding of both offices would violate neither this section nor Ky. Const., § 165. OAG 81-368.

An ordinance which created the office of city alcoholic control administrator in a fourth class city and vested the powers and duties of the administrator in the mayor was in violation of KRS 241.160, which provides that such office may either be created or its duties assigned to an existing office, and also violated subsection (3) of this section and Ky. Const., § 165 which prohibit any person from filling two (2) municipal offices at the same time; however, the city council could amend or revise the ordinance to state that the duties of the administrator should be assigned to the office of the mayor, thereby avoiding the creation of a separate municipal office. OAG 81-390.

Constitution, § 165 and this section do not prohibit a county judge/executive from appointing a firefighter from one fire department to serve on the board of trustees of a fire protection district which does not include that department, since city and county firefighters are considered employees of their employing entity rather than governmental officers, and trustees of a fire protection district are district officers rather than state, county or city officers. OAG 82-127.

Constitution, § 165 and this section, involving holding two (2) offices at the same time, do not apply to a situation where a county attorney enters into a contractual agreement to act for a city which has not created an "office" embracing the city attorney. OAG 82-150.

OAG 82-282.

The executive director of the Kentucky Higher Education Authority must be considered a state employee within the meaning of Ky. Thus, when a member of the commission is appointed to fill the office of mayor, he automatically vacates his position on the commission, as no person can hold two (2) municipal offices at the same time under Ky. Const., § 165 and this section. OAG 82-397.

Fire protection district trustees and officers are not state, city or county officers for purposes of this section and Ky. Const., § 165, but would be considered district officers; not only are there no statutory or constitutional prohibitions against a fire district fire chief serving at the same time as a member of the fire district's board of trustees, but, KRS 75.031(1)(a) requires that two (2) members of the board be elected by the members of the volunteer fire fighters of the district and be members thereof. The General Assembly obviously intended that the interests of the fire fighters be represented on the board since two (2) board members must be members of the district's fire department. OAG 82-409.

The fire chief of a fire protection district organized pursuant to KRS Ch. 75 is not prevented by statutory or constitutional provisions from serving at the same time as one of the two (2) required members of the fire department on the fire district's board of trustees. On those particular occasions where a conflict does occur, the fire chief should remove himself from the proceedings rather than merely abstaining or passing on the matter. OAG 82-409.

Const., § 165 and this section; therefore the Kentucky Municipal League and the Kentucky Association of Counties must submit the names of persons who do not hold a city or county office. OAG 82-429.

Being a jailer and a school bus driver at the same time involves no statutory incompatibility. However, it is possible that such dual roles will, in a particular county, present a common law incompatibility in that the jailer may not be able to execute both functions in the manner required by law. OAG 82-452.

Since employment as a school bus driver is not an office, this section has no application in determining whether or not the office of jailer and the employment as a regular high school bus driver are incompatible. OAG 82-452.

Due to the fact that the urban county government is a hybrid form of government not contemplated by Ky. Const., § 165 or this section, the officers of such government cannot be considered either county or city officers, and, as a consequence, there would exist no constitutional or statutory incompatibility where an officer or employee of such government was appointed to the enterprise zone authority. OAG 82-482.

If a city has either established a position of legal advisor as a form of city employment or created the office of city attorney, no one could, at the same time, serve in state office of trial commissioner and serve in the office of city attorney or as a city employee without violating Ky. Const., § 165 and this section. However, if an attorney is employed on a personal service contract basis, he would be considered an independent contractor and there would be no constitutional or statutory objection to his serving as trial commissioner of the District Court. OAG 82-502.

Since members of the water district commission are neither state, county or city officers, no incompatibility would exist where a person serves as a member of the commission and at the same time serves on the city council; of course where any business develops between the water district and the city concerning which a vote must be taken, the councilman in question should refrain from participating or voting on the matter as this would be against public policy. OAG 82-635.

No conflict of interest or incompatibility existed where an auxiliary police officer of a city was at the same time a full-time instructor-coordinator of the Department of Training at Eastern Kentucky University; an auxiliary police officer of a city has the same powers as a regular police officer and is, therefore, considered a municipal officer while the position of instructor-coordinator for a department at Eastern Kentucky University would at most be considered a form of state employment. Neither Ky. Const., § 165 nor this section prohibits a state employee from holding a municipal office. OAG 83-29.

There is no statute prohibiting a night deputy in a jail from serving both as a deputy and radio dispatcher. OAG 83-34.

While there is nothing in Kentucky law which would prevent a full-time county employee from seeking the office of railroad commissioner, Ky. Const., § 165 and this section and KRS 61.090 would clearly prohibit a county employee from holding both his county position and the office of railroad commissioner simultaneously; it would, therefore, be necessary for the employee to resign the county position in order to assume the office of railroad commissioner if he is elected. OAG 83-66.

The position of financial secretary to a zoning and planning commission would not constitute a municipal office since there is no statutory authority for creating such position as an office under KRS Chapter 100 which governs planning and zoning; consequently, neither Ky. Const., § 165 nor this section prohibits a municipal officer from holding municipal employment and serving as financial secretary at the same time and receiving compensation from both sources. OAG 83-72.

The mayor of a city could legally serve as financial secretary to the planning and zoning commission whether it was strictly a city commission or a joint city-county commission. OAG 83-72.

There was no statutory conflict of interest where a member of the county fiscal court served as a director on the board of a nonprofit corporation with which the county had a contractual arrangement for the contribution of county funds for the operation of a park system, except that KRS 61.220 prohibits members of fiscal court from being interested in claims against the county. OAG 83-98.

If a municipal utility commission is simply an agency of the city, the city attorney should probably represent both the city and the commission since the utility commission is an agency of the city; if the commission is an independent agency, the attorney could be employed by the commission under a personal service contract which would make him an independent contractor. In neither event would the question of his holding two (2) municipal offices at the same time be involved. OAG 83-119.

If a member of county fiscal court should apply for and receive a job as a full-time merit system employee, he would be required to resign as a member of the fiscal court since a county employee serves under the management authority of the fiscal court and since KRS 61.220 prohibits a member of fiscal court from being interested, directly or indirectly, in a claim against the county treasury (except for his own salary as a member of fiscal court) and as a county employee, he would have a direct claim against the county treasury. OAG 83-252.

An employee of a county department of correction does not possess peace officer powers; therefore, there would be no constitutional or statutory objection to his holding the office of chief of police of a city at the same time since he would be a county employee. OAG 83-291.

Since a private, nonprofit corporation is not a public agency, no statutory or constitutional incompatibility would exist if a member of a city council and a member of the board of directors of an urban renewal agency also served on the board of directors of a nonprofit corporation established to operate a community center in the same city. OAG 83-317.

Membership on a school board constitutes a state office. OAG 83-318.

Membership on a county fair board does not constitute a public office, in the sense of being established by or pursuant to a specific statute or the Constitution, which would involve this section or Ky. Const., § 165. OAG 83-318.

A member of the board of education can at the same time serve as a member of a county fair board. OAG 83-318.

There is no statutory or constitutional conflict of interest involved where an elected magistrate serves as a special deputy. OAG 83-448.

A city council member could serve as a paid county employee other than an officer, provided there was no practical or common-law incompatibility; the mere payment for the work performed as an "employee" is not significant in this context. OAG 83-466.

A city council member is prohibited by subsection (3) of this section from serving at the same time as a deputy jailer. OAG 83-466.

The offices of city attorney and county attorney are incompatible under the terms of subsection (3) of this section; accordingly, where a city had in fact created the office of city attorney pursuant to the terms of KRS 83A.080(1), and assuming that the individual appointed thereafter to the position of city attorney was in fact the present county attorney, he could continue to legally serve as city attorney but would vacate his position as county attorney under the terms of KRS 61.090. OAG 83-495.

The office of deputy coroner and that of city councilman are incompatible under the terms of this section, because a deputy coroner is a county officer with the same powers as those possessed by the coroner which includes peace officer powers. OAG 84-23.

Where a regular deputy jailer continued to hold her office as a deputy jailer after accepting the office of city councilman, she became a usurper of the office of deputy jailer and the salary paid to her as deputy jailer out of the county treasury should be returned to the county from the beginning date of usurpation to the present. Thus, if she refuses to return the money the county can sue in Circuit Court to recover the compensation paid out of the county treasury while she has been a usurper; the parties defendant should include the usurper, the jailer, and the county treasurer, provided the proof shows that the jailer and county treasurer issued salary checks to the usurper after knowing that she was a usurper, a mere de facto officer. OAG 84-25.

There was no conflict of interest or incompatibility of offices where the fiscal court magistrates served on the board of directors of a county solid waste corporation which was a nonprofit corporation run under authority of the fiscal court. OAG 84-42.

There is no incompatibility under this section where the county judge/executive serves on county boards, especially since this section does not prohibit holding at the same time two (2) county offices. OAG 84-46.

Neither Ky. Const., § 165 nor this section dealing with incompatible offices prohibits a person, who holds a particular office that may or may not be incompatible with the one he seeks, from becoming a candidate for public office; it is only when the person is elected and holds an office that is incompatible with one to which he is elected that Ky. Const., § 165 and this section are affected. OAG 84-101.

Where a city which had a volunteer fire department had not established the position of fire chief as an office, the position of fire chief could only be considered as a form of employment; accordingly, there was no constitutional or statutory conflict involved when the county magistrate was appointed as fire chief of the city. OAG 84-150.

While this section does not prohibit the holding of two (2) county offices at the same time, subsection (2) of this section explicitly provides in part that the offices of deputy sheriff and constable are incompatible. OAG 84-171, modifying OAG 84-31.

There is no statutory prohibition that would prevent an employee of a county hospital district, established pursuant to KRS 216.310 and related statutes, from becoming a candidate for the General Assembly. OAG 84-204.

The county judge/executive's secretary may also hold positions as finance officer or, deputy county judge/executive as well as secretary without violating any statutes; however, the triple function would be subject to the common-law rule which prohibits holding more than one office where the other office and the additional work will not permit the proper performance of all the jobs. OAG 84-253.

Since an airport board is a joint board, it is a hybrid agency authorized by statute between the cities and county; thus, a municipal officer could be appointed to such board without violating the prohibition against a municipal officer holding any other municipal, county or state office at the same time, as contained in this section and Ky. Const., § 165, provided the appointment is made jointly by the mayor of the other city and the county judge/executive, and the appointee is not present during the voting. OAG 84-384, modifying OAG 74-755.

Section 165 of the Constitution and this section do not prohibit a person from holding a state office and state employment at the same time unless the duties are incompatible; thus, the position of member of local board of education would not be incompatible with a position as an instructor at the Hazard Area Vocational School since the local board would have no control over the appointment of the instructor. OAG 85-23.

A person is not prohibited by subsection (2) of this section from holding at the same time the offices of county coroner and deputy jailer. OAG 85-149.

A constable may also serve as part-time deputy jailer. OAG 91-84.

As no statutory incompatibility is established as between the office of deputy jailer, and another county office, it follows that there is no incompatibility under subsection (2) of this section as between the office of constable and that of deputy jailer, assuming that there is no overlapping of governmentally established working hours or pay. OAG 91-84.

Fiscal court not prohibited from hiring, as a county employee, one also holding the office of constable, to assist in transporting or guarding prisoners as long as there is no statutory incompatibility between the two (2) positions. OAG 91-175.

One who holds the office of constable cannot simultaneously be employed as either a deputy jailer or deputy sheriff. OAG 91-175.

The office of deputy sheriff is incompatible with that of constable. OAG 91-181.

Subject to a constable's employment being within the scope of approval of the fiscal court pursuant to KRS 64.530, a proper mechanism for a sheriff's employment of a constable to assist in patrolling the county could be established. OAG 91-181.

From the standpoint of the incompatible offices provisions of Ky. Const., § 165 and this section, state officers are not prohibited from holding positions on the boards of directors of the Kentucky Housing Corporation and the Kentucky Higher Education Student Loan Corporation when those officers are holding positions specifically authorized by KRS 198A.030(3) and KRS 164A.050(3), because where a statute provides for the appointment of specifically designated public officers to hold another public office, these public officers hold their second public office in an "ex officio" capacity, which eliminates the possibility of a constitutional or statutory incompatibility. OAG 91-208.

There is neither statutory nor constitutional incompatibility between the office of deputy sheriff and that of deputy coroner. However, the office of deputy sheriff appears to be incompatible under common law with the office of deputy coroner. Employing a deputy sheriff also as a deputy coroner potentially compromises the independence of a coroner's inquiry in a death case. OAG 92-116.

While it would be incompatible for a county attorney to hold, at the same time (either through election or appointment) the office of Commonwealth's Attorney, it is not a conflict under Ky. Const., § 165 or under this section for the county attorney, on a temporary basis, to assume the duties of the Commonwealth's Attorney for an interim period until another person can be either appointed or elected to fill the office. OAG 92-162.

A mayor of a city of the third class is not prohibited by KRS 76.030, this section or Ky. Const., § 165 from serving on the board of the Louisville and Jefferson County Metropolitan Sewer District. OAG 93-43.

Since a state motor vehicle enforcement officer is a state officer and a special deputy sheriff is a county officer and since subsection (1) of KRS 61.080 bans one from serving at the same time as a state officer and as an officer of any county, selected motor vehicle enforcement officers may not be appointed as special deputy sheriffs. OAG 93-61.

A county jail guard (deputy jailer), absent a proper local rule, is not banned from candidacy for office of constable while holding the office of deputy jailer, and a deputy jailer (county jail guard) may also serve as a constable while holding the office of deputy jailer. OAG 93-66.

Since this section makes two (2) specific deputy positions, but not that of deputy jailer, incompatible with the office of constable, the offices of constable and county jail guard are not incompatible and one could serve as a constable and a county jail guard; however, a constable must not be, on one hand, the arresting officer as constable, and on the other, the booking deputy jailer, of one he has arrested, as conflicting concerns would be present. OAG 93-66.

While the office of constable and deputy jailer (county jail guard) are not incompatible, a county jail guard could not lawfully use time for which he or she is being paid as a jail guard, or the resources of the jail, to conduct his or her political campaign as such would involve direction of public resources for other than public purposes in violation of Ky. Const., § 171, and would presumably involve official misconduct. OAG 93-66.

A person employed by an entity, such as the Louisville Waterfront Development Corporation, established jointly by a city, a county and the state, while a public officer or employee, would not for purposes of the incompatible offices provisions be considered a state, county, or city officer or employee; thus, the incompatible offices provisions would not preclude a person from serving concurrently as a member of the Kentucky General Assembly and as an officer or employee of the Louisville Waterfront Development Corporation. OAG 95-24.

The position of trustee of the Kentucky Retirement Systems Board is a "State Office" and, therefore, Section 165 of the Kentucky Constitution and KRS 61.080 apply in determining the qualifications of potential board members. OAG 00-7.

An urban county is a county with an urban county form of government, such that officers of an urban county are county officers for purposes of Section 165 of the Constitution of Kentucky and KRS 61.080. Therefore, a member of the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Council may not also serve as a division director within the Cabinet for Health and Family Services. OAG 2004-10.

A state position which is carried out under direct supervision, and which does not exercise a delegated portion of the sovereign power of government, is a position of state "employment" rather than a state "office." Therefore, the particular Division Director II position in the Cabinet for Health Services (now Health and Family Services) should be classified as one of state "employment," rather than as a state "office," for purposes of KRS 61.080(1). OAG 2004-12.

The position of executive director of the Office of the Ombudsman of the Cabinet for Health and Family Services is a "state office," and one who holds that position is a "state officer," such that one cannot hold that position and lawfully remain a member of the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Council. OAG 2006-02.

61.373. Restoration of public employee to position after military duty — Right to leave of absence — Appeals.

(1) Any public employee who leaves a position after June 16, 1966, voluntarily or involuntarily, in order to perform military duty, and who is relieved or discharged from such duty under conditions other than dishonorable, and who has not been absent from public employment due to military duty in time of war or national or state emergency for a period of time longer than the duration of the war or national or state emergency plus six (6) months or in time of peace for a period of time not longer than six (6) years, and makes application for reemployment within ninety (90) days after he is relieved from military duty or from hospitalization or treatment continuing after discharge for a period of not more than one (1) year:

(a) If still physically qualified to perform the duties of his position, shall be restored to such position if it exists and is not held by a person with greater seniority, otherwise to a position of like seniority, status and pay;

(b) If not qualified to perform the duties of his position by reason of disability sustained during such service, the public employee shall be placed in another position, the duties of which he is qualified to perform and which will provide him like seniority, status and pay, or the nearest approximation thereof consistent with the circumstances of his case.

(2)(a) Officers and employees of this state, or any department or agency thereof, shall be granted a leave of absence by their employers for the period required to perform active duty or training in the National Guard or any reserve component of the Armed Forces of the United States.

(b) Upon the officer's or employee's release from a period of active duty or training, except as provided in KRS 61.394, he or she shall be permitted to return to his or her former position of employment or a position with equivalent seniority, status, pay, and any other rights or benefits that would have been bestowed if he or she had not been absent.

(c) An officer or employee who is not permitted to return to his or her former position may appeal the dismissal in accordance with KRS Chapter 18A.

(3) In the case of any person who is entitled to be restored to a position in accordance with KRS 61.371 to 61.379, if the personnel board finds that the department or agency with which such person was employed immediately prior to his military duty:

(a) Is no longer in existence and its functions have not been transferred to any other agency; or

(b) For any reason it is not feasible for such person to be restored to employment by the department or agency, the board shall determine whether or not there is a position in any other department or agency of the same public employer for which the person is qualified and which is either vacant or held by a person having a temporary appointment thereto. In any case in which the board determines that there is such a position, the person shall be restored to the position by the department or agency in which the position exists.

The state is under no compulsion to re-employ a veteran, who was a seasonal employee employable from season to season at the mere option of the state, because such seasonal employee is not entitled to restoration. OAG 69-550.

A teacher returning to employment with a board of education after being discharged from military service is entitled to those increments which normally would have accrued if employment with the board had not been interrupted by military service. OAG 70-709.

The principles applicable to reinstatement of veterans in employment by the central branch of state government are equally applicable to employment with a board of education. OAG 70-709.

When a teacher is relieved from military service and makes proper application to be reemployed, the school district is required to promptly reinstate said teacher with all the rights and benefits provided by statute in KRS 61.371 to 61.379 even though the day of his return is after the school year has begun. OAG 74-258.

61.375. Restored employee discharged only for cause for year — Seniority.

(a) In the performance of duty or training in the service of a state or of the United States under competent orders as specified in this section;

(b) Physically disabled as a result of an injury, illness, or disease incurred or aggravated in the line of duty while performing active-duty or inactive-duty training; or

(c) Entitled to incapacitation pay pursuant to 37 U.S.C. sec. 204.

Leave pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (c) of this subsection shall not exceed six (6) months unless approved by the employee’s appointing authority.

(2) In any one (1) federal fiscal year, officers or employees, while on military leave, shall, upon request, be paid their salaries or compensations for a period or periods not exceeding twenty-one (21) calendar days. OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

This section is controlling in the computation of salaries and/or compensation which may be paid during periods of military leave. OAG 67-448.

This section is the latest pronouncement of the legislature and its provisions limiting and delineating how leave shall be computed should prevail where they conflict with KRS 38.250(2) in paying all officers and employees of the state who are members of the national guard or any reserve component of the armed forces of the United States while they are on active duty. OAG 73-48; 76-358.

The expenditure of public funds by local governments to pay employees their salaries while those employees who are members of the National Guard and reserve components of the armed forces of the United States are on annual military leave, does not violate state constitutional provisions concerning the expenditure of public funds. OAG 82-305.

When KRS 61.396 is read in conjunction with this section, local governments are now required to grant two (2) work weeks of paid military leave to employees who are members of the Kentucky National Guard or any reserve component of the armed forces of the United States. OAG 82-305.

61.395. Leave time for state employee who is disaster services volunteer — Short title.

(1) As used in this section:

(a) “Disaster” means disasters designated at level III and above in the American National Red Cross Regulations and Procedures; and

(b) “State agency” means all departments, offices, commissions, boards, institutions, and political and corporate bodies of the state, including the offices of the clerk of the Supreme Court, clerks of the appellate courts, the several courts of the state, and the legislature, its committees, or commissions.

(2) An employee of a state agency who is a certified disaster services volunteer of the American Red Cross may be granted leave from work with pay for not to exceed thirty (30) work days in any twelve (12) month period to participate in specialized disaster relief services for the American Red Cross for the services of that employee and upon the approval of that employee’s agency, without loss of seniority, pay, vacation time, sick time, compensatory time, or earned overtime accumulation. The agency shall compensate an employee granted leave under this section at the regular rate of pay for those regular work hours during which the employee is absent from work.

(3) This section may be cited as the Disaster Services Volunteer Leave Act.

61.396. Employees of political subdivisions eligible.

All officers and employees of counties, municipalities, school districts or other political subdivisions of the state who are members of the National Guard or of any reserve component of the Armed Forces of the United States, including the United States Public Health Service, shall be granted annual military leave by their respective employers as provided in KRS 61.394.

History.

Enact. Acts 1962, ch. 51, § 2; 1978, ch. 38, § 2, effective June 17, 1978.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A local school board has the authority to either grant or deny military leave with pay to its employees. OAG 75-685.

School boards have the option of granting military leave with pay to teachers and such option permits the crediting against such pay the money earned by the teacher for military duty. OAG 76-358.

Between KRS 38.250(2), KRS 61.394, and this section, the latter two (2) statutes are the latest pronouncement of the legislature and where they conflict with the earlier statute (KRS 38.250) they should prevail; therefore KRS 61.394 is controlling in the computation of salaries and/or compensation which may be paid during periods of military leave. OAG 76-358.

The Kentucky General Assembly intended to require the payment of annual military leave by municipalities in the same manner that state employers were required to pay for such leave. OAG 79-625.

The expenditure of public funds by local governments to pay employees their salaries while those employees who are members of the National Guard and reserve components of the armed forces of the United States are on annual military leave, does not violate state constitutional provisions concerning the expenditure of public funds. OAG 82-305.

The title of Acts 1978, ch. 38, "An act relating to the Kentucky National Guard," which act in part amended this section, was sufficient to comply with the requirements of Const., § 51 as the provisions of the act were all reasonably embraced within the title's general subject matter. OAG 82-305.

When this section is read in conjunction with KRS 61.394, local governments are now required to grant two (2) work weeks of paid military leave to employees who are members of the Kentucky National Guard or any reserve component of the armed forces of the United States. OAG 82-305.

SOCIAL SECURITY FOR PUBLIC EMPLOYEES

61.410. Declaration of policy.

(1) It is declared to be the policy of the General Assembly to extend the federal old-age, survivors, disability, and hospital insurance coverage to all public employees regardless of whether the employees are occupying positions which are covered by a retirement system; but no employee occupying a position to which KRS 161.220 to 161.710 are applicable shall be held to fall within the class of persons sought to be affected by this statement of policy except for employees of the state universities and public junior colleges.

(2) It is also the policy of the General Assembly that the protection afforded public employees by membership in a retirement system or by the right to receive periodic benefits under a retirement system will not be impaired as a result of any agreement made between the Commonwealth and the commissioner pursuant to KRS 61.410 to 61.500.

(3) The General Assembly ratifies the extension of federal old-age, survivors, disability, and hospital insurance coverage to public employees in positions covered by a retirement system prior to June 14, 1962, if the procedures specified by former KRS 61.430(6) were substantially followed.

History.

Enact. Acts 1951 (Ex. Sess.), ch. 3, § 1; 1956, ch. 32, § 1; 1962, ch. 12, § 1; 1968, ch. 152, § 26; 1998, ch. 436, § 1, effective July 15, 1998.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The contribution to be paid by the county as the employer should be based upon the actual net compensation of the county official (which would include official fees and salary) subject to the maximum base amount prescribed under the federal social security law. OAG 69-34.

Under this section, participation in the social security program is mandatory for all public employees of the Commonwealth except those employees occupying positions to which the provisions of KRS 161.220 to 161.710 are applicable, and consequently, the executive secretary, assistant executive secretary, senior accountant and administrative officer of the teachers' retirement system are neither subject to, nor eligible for, participation in the social security program. OAG 69-355.

If additional teaching activity falls within the category of being in fact a part of the regularly approved program of the public school district or the vocational school for which certification or a professional level of training is required as a condition of employment, then teachers' retirement applies and the teacher would not be eligible for social security participation. OAG 69-430.

The Gateway Area Development District, Inc. is not a "political subdivision" within the meaning of KRS 61.410 to 61.500 and must report wages and pay taxes for social security purposes directly to the United States Internal Revenue Service. OAG 70-226.

A person who contributed to social security for certain service can also contribute to teachers' retirement if he should have been included. OAG 71-254.

For the purpose of KRS 61.410 to 61.500:

(1) "Wages" means all remuneration for employment as defined in subsection (2) of this section, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash, except that the term shall not include that part of the remuneration which, even if it were for "employment" within the meaning of Federal Insurance Contributions Act, would not constitute "wages" within the meaning of that act;

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Political Subdivision.

A county school district is a political subdivision of the state, the members of which are state officers and an indictment drawn under KRS 434.240 (now repealed) for submitting a false claim to county board of education charged a public offense. Runyon v. Commonwealth, 393 S.W.2d 877, 1965 Ky. LEXIS 248 (Ky. 1965), cert. denied, 384 U.S. 906, 86 S. Ct. 1341, 16 L. Ed. 2d 359, 1966 U.S. LEXIS 1852 (U.S. 1966).

Cited:

International Brotherhood of Firemen & Oilers v. Board of Education, 393 S.W.2d 793, 1965 Ky. LEXIS 245 (Ky. 1965).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A special tax collector selected by an independent school district pursuant to KRS 160.500(2) is an officer of the school district and an employee of the school district under the definition of that term in the social security act and enabling legislation enacted by the Kentucky General Assembly. OAG 67-95.

The Gateway Area Development District, Inc. is not a "political subdivision" within the meaning of KRS 61.410 to 61.500 and must report wages and pay taxes for social security purposes directly to the United States Internal Revenue Service. OAG 70-226.

Mental health-mental retardation boards, when considered in light of KRS 210.380 clearly are instrumentalities of the Commonwealth and therefore a political subdivision for the purposes of this section. OAG 73-203.

Where a city and county establish an ambulance board, such board is merely an arm or instrumentality of the city and county and is a political subdivision, as defined in subsection (5), for social security coverage purposes. OAG 73-790.

The state active duty pay of national guard units ordered into active state service in connection with tornadic storms is excluded by subsection (2) from social security coverage and not subject to the FICA tax. OAG 74-278.

Only specifically isolated expenses which are actual reimbursements for actual official expenses may be deducted from the subject state expense allowances money in the case of the county judge (now county judge/executive), county attorney and county sheriff, in determining the wage amount for social security purposes and the remainder of such allowance would constitute wages up to the maximum compensation base of $13,200 per year for 1974 or $14,100 for 1975. OAG 75-48 (modifying OAG 71-266 and 66-416).

Based upon the literal wording of this section and the fact that the subject corporation was created solely for the eight county governments, the Jackson Purchase Local Officials Organization, Inc., is an instrumentality of the eight (8) county governments and thus the corporation is a "political subdivision" for social security purposes and this construction promotes the centralized administration of the social security program applied to such public employees, otherwise the administration would have to be broken into eight (8) different county units. OAG 75-497.

Where the ordinance making the city attorney position elective was repealed and the office became appointive, the city attorney would no longer be excluded from social security coverage. OAG 76-740.

Since a county and city are clearly political subdivisions as provided by subsection (5) of this section, if they, pursuant to KRS 79.110 to 79.180 or KRS 65.210 to 65.300, agree to provide for the joint operation of a city-county ambulance service and create a board to govern the program, that board or entity could be an arm or instrumentality of the city and county and, therefore, a "political subdivision" for social security purposes. OAG 79-104.

Until such time that this section is amended by the General Assembly, the city of Louisville has no authority under KRS 83.520 to provide for any treatment of sick leave benefits in any other way than that which is set out in KRS 61.410 to 61.500. OAG 79-267.

Since East Kentucky Utilities Inc. was performing the function of an instrumentality of Floyd County in providing utility services to the county, using the county's own plant, its employees were covered for social security purposes through Floyd County. OAG 79-583.

Where a city of Louisville ordinance stated a sick leave policy for its employees, where the amounts appropriated for sick pay payments were budgeted and accounted for separately, where the worksheets for each agency showed a separate account for sick leave from which payments for sick leave were deducted as paid, and where the amount of sick leave paid was separately stated on the employee's paycheck stub, the method of providing for sick leave to employees of the city was sufficiently definite to constitute a "plan or scheme" under 42 USCS § 409(b) and 26 USCS § 3121(a)(2), and, therefore, the sick leave payments would be excluded from wages for determining the amount deducted as social security contributions. OAG 80-220.

Although the articles of incorporation of an entity purported to show that the apparent purpose of the corporation was to perform governmental activity, specifically to assist those political subdivisions of the state of Kentucky located in Campbell County in performing their municipal functions, the articles did not fully comply with KRS 65.250 and there was no indication that it had complied with KRS 65.260; therefore, since the entity had no formal statutory authority that would make it an instrumentality of a political subdivision as defined in subsection (5) of this section for social security purposes, social security should be paid by the entity directly to the social security administration as any other nonprofit corporation would do. OAG 80-348.

Acts 1980, Ch. 275, accomplishes a statutory change which authorizes sick leave with pay as an exclusion to the term wages for determining an employee's wages from which social security payments are to be deducted; however, the mere passage of the amendatory language per se does not permit the deduction of sick pay from being considered as wages without some additional administrative acts, including making the needed changes in an employer's personnel rules dealing with sick leave, and getting the federal social security administration's approval of the new plan. OAG 80-366.

A county hospital district is a political subdivision of Kentucky pursuant to this section and KRS 216.320 so that its employees are "employees" under subsection (3) of this section and thus subject to the jurisdiction of the state agency for social security. OAG 81-196.

Where a city passes an ordinance creating a personal service contract with an attorney to advise the city in legal matters, the attorney is an independent contractor rather than a nonelected city officer appointed under KRS 83A.080 or an employee under subsection (3) of this section thus, he would not be subject to social security as a result of his contract. OAG 81-225.

The Boone County Planning Commission is a separate political subdivision consisting of members representative of other political subdivisions in a cooperative, joint effort to provide consolidated planning and zoning activities for the various political subdivisions which make up the entity. Therefore, the Commission is a separate political subdivision for purposes of the definition of a political subdivision found in subdivision (5) of this section governing social security for public employees and is not part of Boone County which is governed by Boone County Fiscal Court. OAG 82-278.

The Office of Social Security is an office to handle public employees' social security matters; the definition of office in subsection (7) of KRS 12.010 applies to the office for social security. OAG 82-593.

Where the membership of a local officials' organization was composed of the county judge/executive of each of the participating counties, the mayors of the largest incorporated city within each county (voting members) and other mayors of smaller communities (nonvoting members) and where the organization's purpose was to operate an emergency medical service for eight counties and certain other services to benefit the local units of government, such unit was a governmental subdivision or instrumentality of such a subdivision. OAG 83-227.

Where a training center created by a local officials' organization was separated from such organization and was incorporated as a nonprofit corporation, where its membership was not exclusively composed of governmental officials and where the center could not carry on propaganda, influence legislation, or engage in any political campaign, the training center as it had evolved was no longer an instrumentality of a subdivision or other governmental unit, but was an independent, nonprofit corporation operated for charitable, educational, and scientific purposes and was no longer subject to the State Office of Social Security. OAG 83-227.

61.430. Federal-state agreement.

Consistent with the terms and conditions of KRS 61.410 to 61.500, the state agency, with the approval of the Governor, is hereby authorized to enter into an agreement with the commissioner for the purpose of extending insurance coverage to employees with respect to services specified in the agreement which constitute employment as defined in KRS 61.420. An agreement entered into under this section may contain provisions relating to coverage, benefits, contributions, effective date, modification and termination of the agreement, administration and other appropriate provisions as the state agency and commissioner shall agree upon. Any agreement, subject to the provisions of the Social Security Act, shall provide in effect that:

(1) Insurance coverage shall be provided for employees whose services are described in the agreement, and their dependents and survivors on the same basis as though the services constituted employment within the meaning of Title II of the Social Security Act;

(2) The state shall pay to the Secretary of the Treasury, at times prescribed under the Social Security Act, contributions with respect to wages equal to the sum of the taxes imposed by sections 3101 and 3111 of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act if the services covered by the agreement constitute employment within the meaning of that act;

(3) Insurance coverage will be afforded with respect to services performed after an effective date specified in the agreement or modification thereof; except that the effective date shall not be earlier than January 1, 1955, in the case of an agreement or modification made between January 1, 1955, and January 1, 1958; or earlier than January 1, 1956, in the case of an agreement or modification made at any time in the years 1958 or 1959; or earlier than the first day of the year in which the agreement or modification was made, in the case of an agreement or modification made at any time between January 1, 1960, and July 1, 1962; or earlier than the first day of the fifth year preceding the year in which the agreement or modification is made, in the case of an agreement or modification made at any time after July 1, 1962;

(4) Insurance coverage shall be afforded with respect to all services constituting employment; except that in order for insurance coverage to be afforded with respect to services performed in the employ of a political subdivision of the state there must be in existence in regard to those services a plan which meets the requirements of KRS 61.460;

(5) Subject to the provisions of KRS 61.435, insurance coverage shall be afforded with respect to all services in positions covered by a retirement system; except that no agreement shall be effective to afford insurance coverage to any services performed in positions to which KRS 161.220 to 161.710 are applicable except for services performed in positions in a state university or public junior college.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Under existing federal and state legislation, the members of the faculty of Murray State University may not be withdrawn as a separate group from social security coverage. In view of their status as state employees who are covered under the original 1951 agreement by virtue of a modification thereto, their coverage may be terminated only through termination of the 1951 agreement between the state and the secretary of health, education and welfare. OAG 68-450.

When professional staff members of the division of disability determination were a part of the department of education they were allowed to participate in the teacher retirement system and were exempt from participation in the federal social security program but when this division was transferred to the department of human resources, professional staff members had the option of retaining their membership in the teachers' retirement system or joining the state employees' retirement system but participation in the federal social security program is mandatory. OAG 73-767.

61.440. Interstate instrumentalities.

Any instrumentality jointly created by this state and any other state or states is hereby authorized, to the extent that this Commonwealth may confer authority,

(1) to enter into an agreement with the commissioner whereby the benefits of the federal old-age, survivors, disability, and hospital insurance system shall be extended to employees of the instrumentality, (2) to require its employees to pay (and for that purpose to deduct from their wages) contributions equal to the amounts which they would be required to pay under subsection (1) of KRS 61.450 if they were covered by an agreement made pursuant to KRS 61.430, and (3) to make payments to the Secretary of the Treasury in accordance with the agreement, including payments from its own funds, and otherwise to comply with the agreement. The agreement shall, to the extent practicable, be consistent with the terms and provisions of KRS 61.430, and all other terms and provisions, of KRS 61.410 to 61.500.

History.

Enact. Acts 1951 (Ex. Sess.), ch. 3, § 4; 1998, ch. 436, § 5, effective July 15, 1998.

61.450. Contributions by state employees.

(1) Every employee of the state whose services are covered by an agreement entered into under KRS 61.430 shall be required to pay for the period of coverage, into the contribution fund established by KRS 61.470, contributions, with respect to wages received for each calendar year at the rate established by the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, as amended, and the Social Security Act, as amended. Such liability shall arise in consideration of the employee's retention in the service of the state, or his entry upon such service after March 14, 1951.

(2) The contribution imposed by this section shall be collected by deducting the amount of the contribution from wages as and when paid, but failure to make such deduction shall not relieve the employee from liability for such contribution.

(3) If more or less than the correct amount of the contribution imposed by this section is paid or deducted with respect to any wages, proper adjustment, or refund if adjustment is impracticable, shall be made, without interest, in such manner and at such times as the state agency shall prescribe.

61.460. Plans for coverage of employees of political subdivisions.

(1) Each political subdivision of the state is hereby authorized to submit for approval by the state agency a plan for extending insurance coverage to employees of the political subdivision; except that no plan shall provide insurance coverage to an employee occupying a position to which KRS 161.220 to 161.710 are applicable except for employees of the state universities and public junior colleges. Each plan and any amendments thereof shall be approved by the state agency if it finds that the plan, or the plan as amended, is in conformity with requirements as are provided in administrative regulations of the state agency, except that no plan shall be approved unless:

(a) It is in conformity with the requirements of the Social Security Act and with the agreement entered into under KRS 61.430;

(b) It provides that all services which constitute employment and are performed in the employ of the political subdivision by employees thereof, shall be covered by the plan;

(c) It specifies the source or sources from which the funds necessary to make the payments required by paragraph (a) of subsection (3) and by subsection (4) of this section are expected to be derived and contains reasonable assurance that those sources will be adequate for that purpose;

(d) It provides for methods of administration of the plan by the political subdivision as are found by the state agency to be necessary for the proper and efficient administration thereof; and

(e) It provides that the political subdivision will make reports, in the form and containing the information, as the state agency may from time to time require, and will comply with any provisions the state agency or the commissioner may from time to time find necessary to assure the correctness and verification of the reports.

(2) The state agency shall not finally refuse to approve a plan submitted by a political subdivision under subsection (1) of this section without reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing to the political subdivision affected thereby.

(3)(a) Each political subdivision for which a plan has been approved under this section is authorized to and shall pay into the contribution fund, with respect to contributions due for wages paid prior to 1987, at the time or times as the state agency may by administrative regulation prescribe, contributions in the amounts and at the rates specified in the applicable agreement entered into by the state agency under KRS 61.430; and, furthermore, in anticipation of the due date of any payments of contributions required by this paragraph, is authorized to and shall make any advancements the state agency, by administrative regulation or contract, may require.

(b) Each political subdivision is authorized to and shall make the payments as are determined by the state agency to be necessary for the purpose of defraying the expenses incurred by the state agency in administering KRS 61.410 to 61.500 for the benefit of those employees covered under any plan approved under subsection (1) of this section, but in no event shall such amount be greater than five percent (5%) of the contributions required under paragraph (a) of this subsection. The payments shall be made into the State Treasury and shall be credited to a separate trust and agency fund to be used by the state agency solely for the purpose stated in this paragraph.

(c) Each political subdivision required to make payments under paragraph (a) of this subsection is authorized, in consideration of the employee's retention in, or entry upon, employment after the effective date of KRS 61.410 to 61.500, to impose upon each of its employees, as to services which are covered by an approved plan, a contribution with respect to wages received for each calendar year, at the rate established by the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, as amended, and the Social Security Act, as amended. Contributions so collected for wages paid prior to 1987 shall be paid into the contribution fund in partial discharge of the liability of the political subdivision under paragraph (a) of this subsection. Failure to deduct the contribution shall not relieve the employer of liability therefor.

(4) Delinquent payments due under paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section, with interest at the rate prescribed by Section 218 (j) of the Social Security Act, may be recovered by action in the Franklin Circuit Court against the political subdivision liable therefor or may, at the request of the state agency, be deducted from any other moneys payable to the subdivision by any department or agency of the state.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Where the wife of a jailer has never been appointed as a deputy or a matron under KRS 71.060 and the county has never fixed any compensation for her as a jailer deputy, as matron, or county employee, the social security contributions must be paid by the jailer, the actual employer, and not by the county. OAG 69-7.

Employees of emergency medical service district corporations which are "instrumentalities" of political subdivisions must be covered under the plan for social security coverage if such a plan for employee coverage has been submitted by the political subdivisions. OAG 77-372.

Acts 1980, ch. 275, accomplishes a statutory change which authorizes sick leave with pay as an exclusion to the term wages for determining an employee's wages from which social security payments are to be deducted; however, the mere passage of the amendatory language per se does not permit the deduction of sick pay from being considered as wages without some additional administrative acts, including making the needed changes in an employer's personnel rules dealing with sick leave, and getting the Federal Social Security Administration's approval of the new plan. OAG 80-366.

Fees received by the volunteer firemen for fire runs they actually make are to be considered as reimbursement for expenses, rather than salary or wages from the fire district, and are not subject of F.I.C.A. withholding and matching requirements. OAG 80-635.

For the purpose of obtaining employee fringe benefits, the county is responsible for paying on behalf of jail personnel, as county employees, social security payments (KRS Ch. 61), workers' compensation premiums (KRS Ch. 342), unemployment insurance premiums (KRS Ch. 341) and medical insurance coverage (KRS Ch. 67). OAG 82-346.

61.470. Contribution fund and contingent liability fund.

(1) There is hereby established a special fund to be known as the contribution fund. Such fund shall consist of and there shall be deposited therein:

(a) All contributions, interest, and penalties under KRS 61.450 and 61.460;

(b) All moneys appropriated or otherwise contributed thereto;

(c) Any property or securities and earnings thereof acquired through the use of moneys belonging to the fund;

(d) Interest earned upon any moneys in the fund, and

(e) All sums recovered from the bond of the custodian or otherwise for losses sustained by the fund, and all other moneys received for the fund from any other source. All moneys in the fund shall be mingled and undivided. Subject to the provisions of KRS 61.410 to 61.500, the state agency is vested with full power, authority and jurisdiction over the fund, including all moneys and property or securities belonging thereto, and may perform any and all acts whether or not specifically designated, which are necessary to the administration thereof and are consistent with the provisions of KRS 61.410 to 61.500.

(2) The contribution fund shall be a trust and agency fund which shall not lapse and shall be held separate and apart from any other funds or moneys of the state and shall be used and administered exclusively for the purposes of KRS 61.410 to 61.500. Withdrawals from such fund shall be made for, and solely for:

(a) Payment of amounts required to be paid to the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to an agreement entered into under KRS 61.430;

(b) Payment of refunds provided for in subsection (3) of KRS 61.450;

(c) Refunds of overpayments, not otherwise adjustable, made by a political subdivision; and

(d) For payment of administrative costs for the administration of KRS 61.410 to 61.500 to the extent of the interest earned on investments of the contribution fund.

(3) From the contribution fund the custodian of the fund shall pay to the Secretary of the Treasury such amounts at such time or times as may be directed by the state agency in accordance with any agreement entered into under KRS 61.430.

(4) At the end of each fiscal year, the state agency shall make an estimate of the necessary operating costs of the state agency for the next fiscal year, including a contingent liability fund. After approval of this amount needed for necessary costs and contingent liability fund by the secretary of finance and administration, the realized investment earnings of the contribution fund available at the end of any fiscal year shall be reduced to this approved amount, and any excess is hereby authorized for transfer to the credit of the general fund.

(5) The Treasurer of the state shall be ex officio treasurer and custodian of the contribution fund and shall administer such fund in accordance with the provisions of KRS 61.410 to 61.500 and the directions of the state agency, and shall pay all warrants drawn upon the fund in accordance with the provisions of this section and with such regulations as the state agency may prescribe pursuant thereto.

61.480. State contributions authorized.

Authorization is hereby granted to all offices, departments, boards, commissions, institutions, and all other agencies of the state government of the Commonwealth of Kentucky to make payments to the contribution fund out of moneys, not required by law or contract to be expended for other purposes, in any revolving, trust or agency fund, or out of appropriations for recurring expenses heretofore or hereafter made by the General Assembly from the general expenditure fund or special funds.

History.

Enact. Acts 1951 (Ex. Sess.), ch. 3, § 8.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A resigned state employee cannot receive service credit in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System for the time he spent as a county employee. OAG 61-695.

A person retired pursuant to this section who has been reemployed by the state on a full time basis and who is presently participating in the retirement system pursuant to KRS 61.637 may purchase military service credit under KRS 61.555 providing that the reemployed retired member meets the requisites of KRS 61.559 and such military service credit is to be applied to the formula set out in KRS 61.637 in recomputing the employee's retirement benefits at the time of the termination of his reemployment. OAG 74-373.

61.552. Credit for service — Purchases and grants.

(1) Called to Active Duty Military Service. An employee of an employer participating in the system who is called to active military duty in the Armed Forces of the United States shall be credited in accordance with 38 U.S.C. sec. 4318 with service credit, creditable compensation, and in the case of employees participating in the hybrid cash balance plan, employee contributions, employer credits, and interest credits, for a period of active military duty of up to six (6) years, provided:

(a) The employee was called to active military duty in the Armed Forces of the United States:

1. After he or she began participating in the system and provided the employee was on leave of absence from the employer and did not withdraw his or her accumulated account balance; or

2. Prior to the date he or she began participating in the system and terminated employment with his or her employer;

(b) The employee entered active military service within three (3) months of his or her last day of paid employment;

(c) His or her discharge military service was terminated in a manner other than as described in 38 U.S.C. sec. 4304; and

(d) He or she returns to work with an employer participating in the system within two (2) years after completion of the period of active military duty, or upon the subsequent termination of any total disability which existed at the expiration of the two (2) years after discharge.

For periods of active military duty that meet the requirements of this subsection, the employer shall pay the employer contributions payable under KRS 61.565, 61.702, 78.5536, and 78.635.

(2)(a) Omitted Service. Any person who is entitled to service credit for employment which was not reported by the employer in accordance with KRS 16.543, 61.543, or 78.615 may obtain credit for the service subject to the provisions of this subsection.

(b) Provided the person pays for the omitted service within six (6) months of notification by the system, the cost of the service shall be equal to the employee contributions that would have been paid if the person had been correctly reported in accordance with KRS 16.543, 61.543, or 78.615.

(c) Any employee participating in one (1) of the state-administered retirement systems entitled to service credit under paragraph (a) of this subsection who has not repaid the employee contributions due within six (6) months of notification by the system may purchase the credit after the six (6) months by paying to the system the employee contributions plus interest at the actuarially assumed rate from the date of initial notification under paragraph (b) of this subsection.

(d) Omitted service purchased under this subsection shall:

1. Be considered service credited under KRS 16.543(1), 61.543(1), or 78.615(1) for purposes of determining eligibility for retirement benefits under KRS 78.510 to 78.852; and

2. Not be credited to the member's account until the employer contributions due and any interest or penalties on the delinquent employer contributions for the period of omitted service are received by the system.

(e) Employees who begin participating on or after January 1, 2014, in the hybrid cash balance plan provided by KRS 16.583 or 61.597 or 78.5512 or 78.5516 shall, upon payment of the employee and employer contributions due under this subsection, have their accumulated account balance increased by the employee contributions, employer pay credits, and interest credits that would have been credited to their member's account if the contributions had been paid on time.

(f) Contributions payable by the employer under this subsection for omitted service shall be considered delinquent from the date the employee should have been reported and received service credit in accordance with KRS 16.543, 61.543, and 78.615.

(3)(a) Recontribution of a Refund. Any employee participating in one (1) of the state-administered retirement systems who has been refunded his or her accumulated account balance under the provisions of KRS 61.625, thereby losing service credit in the system, may regain the credit by paying to the system the amount or amounts refunded by the system with interest at a rate determined by the board. Service purchased under this subsection on or after January 1, 2014, shall not be used to determine the member's participation date in the systems.

(b) Recontribution of a refund purchased under this subsection shall not be used in determining a retirement allowance until the member has accrued at least six (6) months of service credit in a state-administered retirement system, excluding the service purchased under this subsection. If the member does not accrue at least six (6) months of service credit in a state-administered retirement system, then the payment plus interest as provided in KRS 16.560, 61.575, or 78.640 shall be refunded upon retirement, death, or written request following termination of employment. The service requirement shall be waived if the member dies or becomes disabled as provided for by KRS 16.582, 61.600, 61.621, 78.5522, or 78.5524.

(4)(a) Summer Months. Any employee participating in one (1) of the state-administered retirement systems who is or has been employed by a school board or community action agency participating in the County Employees Retirement System or a state-operated school under KRS Chapter 167 or an institution of higher learning participating in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System, who receives service credit for less than twelve (12) months each year, may purchase the additional months of service credit needed to total one (1) year of service credit, except the amount purchased for any specific year shall not exceed three (3) months.

(b) The cost of the summer months service credit shall be determined by the formula established by subsection (10) of this section and may be purchased by the employee, or the employer on behalf of the employee, or the cost may be paid by both the employer and employee in which case the employer and employee shall each pay fifty percent (50%) of the cost. Service credit shall not be credited to the member's account until both the employer's and employee's payment are received by the system.

(c) If the employee has purchased service credit under this subsection based on months reported by the employer for the fiscal year, and an audit of the employee's account reduces the number of months of service credit for which the employee is eligible to no fewer than nine (9) months, the employee shall retain credit for the months purchased unless the employee is ineligible for any service in the fiscal year. The employee shall be eligible to purchase the additional months under this subsection to total one (1) year.

(d) This subsection shall not apply to members who began participating in the County Employees Retirement System on or after January 1, 2014.

(5) Vested Service Purchases. Any employee who began participating in the County Employees Retirement System, the Kentucky Employees Retirement System, or the State Police Retirement System prior to January 1, 2014, who is vested may purchase service credit for:

(a) Past service. "Past service" means periods of employment:

1. Between July 1, 1956, in the case of the Kentucky Employees Retirement System, or July 1, 1958, in the case of the County Employees Retirement System, and the effective date of participation by the employer;

2. Where the employee did not participate in the system due to the employee not electing to participate as provided in KRS 61.525(2) or 78.540(1); and

3. With a public agency that did not participate in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System but would have been eligible to participate under KRS 61.520 or a political subdivision that did not participate in the County Employees Retirement System but would have been eligible to participate under KRS 78.530, provided the public agency or political subdivision has merged with or been taken over by a participating employer;

(b) State university service, provided the university does not participate in a state-administered retirement system and the university service being purchased was in a nonteaching position that did not participate in a defined benefit retirement program;

(c)1. Up to ten (10) years of out-of-state service. "Out-of-state" means service credited to a state or local government-administered public defined benefit plan in another state that is not a defined benefit plan for teachers.

2. Up to ten (10) years of out-of-state hazardous service. "Out-of-state hazardous service" means service in a regular full-time position that was credited to a defined benefit retirement plan administered by a state or local government in another state, if the service could be certified as hazardous pursuant to KRS 61.592 or 78.5520, as applicable. The employee may purchase out-of-state hazardous service under this subparagraph provided the employee is vested to receive benefits from the State Police Retirement System or hazardous duty benefits from the Kentucky Employees Retirement System or the County Employees Retirement System.

The employee must purchase out-of-state service or out-of-state hazardous service in the system in which he or she is vested based solely upon the service in that system;

(d) Active military duty, which means periods of active military duty in the Armed Forces of the United States, provided:

1. The employee's military service was terminated in a manner other than as described in 38 U.S.C. sec. 4304; and

2. The service has not been credited as free military service under subsection (1) of this section;

(e) National Guard service. An employee may purchase one (1) month of service for each six (6) months of service in the National Guard or the military reserves of the United States. The service shall be treated as service earned prior to participation in the system;

(f) Federal service. "Federal service" means service with the United States government, that is not service in the Armed Forces;

(g) Seasonal, emergency, interim, probationary, or temporary employment or part-time employment as provided by KRS 61.510(21) or 78.510(21) averaging one hundred (100) or more hours of work per month on a calendar or fiscal year basis. If the average number of hours of work is less than one hundred (100) per month, the member may purchase credit for only those months he or she receives creditable compensation for one hundred (100) hours of work;

(h) Part-time employment in a noncertified position at a school board prior to the 1990-91 school year which averaged eighty (80) or more hours of work per month on a calendar or fiscal year basis. If the average number of hours of work is less than eighty (80) per month, the noncertified employee of a school board shall be allowed to purchase credit only for those months he or she receives creditable compensation for eighty (80) hours of work;

(i) Any period of:

1. Authorized maternity leave without pay or sick leave without pay;

2. Unpaid leave authorized under the federal Family and Medical Leave Act;

3. Approved educational leave; and

4. Agency-approved leave to work for a work-related labor organization if the agency subsequently participated in the County Employees Retirement System, but only if the board receives a favorable private letter ruling from the United States Internal Revenue Service or a favorable opinion letter from the United States Department of Labor;

(j) Non-participating employer service, which means periods of employment with the following types of agencies provided the agency does not participate in a state-administered retirement system:

1. A regional community services program for mental health organized and operated under the provisions of KRS 210.370 to 210.480;

2. A community action agency created under KRS 273.405 to 273.453. The service provided by this subparagraph shall be purchased in the County Employees Retirement System;

3. An area development district created pursuant to KRS 147A.050; or

4. A business development corporation created pursuant to KRS 155.001 to 155.230, provided the system receives a favorable private letter ruling from the United States Internal Revenue Service or a favorable opinion letter from the United States Department of Labor;

(k) Urban-county government service, which means employment in an urban-county government position that would qualify for hazardous duty coverage under KRS 61.592 or 78.5520. The provisions of this paragraph shall only be applicable to vested members participating in the State Police Retirement System or in a hazardous position in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System or the County Employees Retirement System;

(l) Periods of service as assistants to officers and employees of the General Assembly for persons who were unable to acquire service under KRS 61.510(20) for service performed after January 1, 1960;

(m) Service as a volunteer in the Kentucky Peace Corps, created by KRS 154.1-720; and

(n) Employment with a vocational technical school in a noncertified part-time position averaging eighty (80) or more hours per month, determined by using the number of months actually worked within a calendar or fiscal year. The service provided by this paragraph shall be purchased in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System.

(6) Non-qualified service. Provided the employee's participation date in the system is prior to July 15, 2002, and provided the employee has total service in all state-administered retirement systems of at least one hundred eighty (180) months of service credit, the employee may purchase a combined maximum total of five (5) years of service credit, known as non-qualified service, which is not otherwise purchasable under any of the provisions of KRS 16.505 to 16.652, 61.510 to 61.705, or 78.510 to 78.852. The service purchased under this paragraph shall not be used in determining a retirement allowance until the member has accrued at least two hundred forty (240) months of service, excluding service purchased under this subsection. If the member does not accrue at least two hundred forty (240) months of service, excluding service purchased under this subsection, upon retirement, death, or written request following termination, the payment, plus interest as provided in KRS 16.560, 61.575, or 78.640, as applicable, shall be refunded.

(7) For purposes of service purchased under subsections (2) to (6) of this section:

(a) Except for subsection (6) of this section, the service must qualify as regular full-time as provided by KRS 61.510 and 78.510;

(b) No service credit may be purchased for periods already credited to the system or another public defined benefit retirement fund, including non-qualified service purchased in another state-administered retirement system;

(c) Except as provided by paragraph (a)2.a. of subsection (9) of this section, the employee payment for service purchases shall not be picked up, as described in KRS 16.545(4), 61.560(4), or 78.610(4), by the employer;

(d) Except for service purchased under subsection (2) or (3) of this section, service purchases made pursuant to this section may be purchased by the entire amount of service available or by increments. Service purchases made pursuant to subsections (2) and (3) of this section shall only be purchased by the entire amount of service available; and

(e) Service purchases as provided by subsections (5)(b), (5)(d) to (f), (5)(j)1., and (6) of this section may be purchased in any system in which the member has service credit.

(8)(a) Employer purchase of past service. Any employer participating in the system may purchase service credit, between July 1, 1956, in the case of the Kentucky Employees Retirement System, or July 1, 1958, in the case of the County Employees Retirement System, and the participation date of the employer, for present employees of the county or department who have elected coverage under KRS 61.525(2) or 78.540(1), provided the employee began participating in the system prior to January 1, 2014.

(b) A Kentucky Employees Retirement System employer shall pay the cost of the service credit within the fiscal year the election is made to purchase the service credit. A County Employees Retirement System employer may purchase the service, with interest at the rate actuarially assumed by the board, over a period not to exceed ten (10) years.

(c) If an employer elects to purchase service under the provisions of this subsection, any present employee who would be eligible to receive service credit under the provisions of this subsection and has purchased service credit under subsection (5)(a) of this section shall have his or her payment for the service credit refunded with interest at the rate paid under KRS 61.575 or 78.640; and

(d) Any payments made by an employer under this subsection shall be deposited to the retirement allowance account of the system and these funds shall not be considered accumulated contributions of the individual members.

(9)(a) An employee participating in the system may purchase service credit under any of the provisions of KRS 16.505 to 16.652, 61.510 to 61.705, or 78.510 to 78.852 for which he or she is eligible to purchase, or as otherwise required by 38 U.S.C. ch. 43, by:

1. Making a lump-sum payment on a before-tax basis as provided in subparagraph 3. of this paragraph, or on an after-tax basis if the employee is purchasing service credit under subsection (1) or (3) of this section, service available pursuant to 38 U.S.C. ch. 43 not otherwise provided for in this section, or grandfathered service as defined in paragraph (b) of this subsection;

2. Entering into an agreement to purchase service credit through an installment purchase of service agreement with the systems as provided by paragraph (c) of this subsection:

- a. On a before-tax basis in which the service is purchased pursuant to the employer pick-up provisions in 26 U.S.C. sec. 414(h)(2); or

- b. On an after-tax basis if the employee is purchasing service credit under subsection (1) or (3) of this section, service available pursuant to 38 U.S.C. ch. 43 not otherwise provided for in this section, or grandfathered service as defined in paragraph (b) of this subsection; or

3. Transferring funds to the system through a direct trustee-to-trustee transfer as permitted under the applicable sections of the Internal Revenue Code and any regulations or rulings issued thereunder, through a direct rollover as contemplated by and permitted under 26 U.S.C. sec. 401(a)(31) and any regulations or rulings issued thereunder, or through a rollover of funds pursuant to and permitted under the rules specified in 26 U.S.C. secs. 402(c) and 408(d)(3). The system shall accept the transfer or rollover to the extent permitted under the rules specified in the applicable provisions of the Internal Revenue Code and any regulations and rulings issued thereunder.

(b) For purposes of this subsection, "grandfathered service" means service purchases for which a member, whose membership date in the system is prior to July 1, 1999, is eligible to purchase under KRS 16.505 to 16.652, 61.510 to 61.705, or 78.510 to 78.852, that were available for all members of the system to purchase on August 5, 1997.

(c)1. For service purchased under a before-tax or after-tax installment purchase of service agreement as provided by paragraph (a)2. of this subsection, the cost of the service shall be computed in the same manner as for a lump-sum payment which shall be the principal, except that interest compounded annually at the actuarial rate in effect at the time the member elects to make the purchase shall be added for the period that the installments are to be made.

2. Multiple service purchases may be combined under a single installment agreement, except that no employee may make more than one (1) installment purchase at the same time.

3. For after-tax installment purchase of service agreements, the employee may elect to stop the installment payments by notifying the system; may have the installment purchase recalculated to add one (1) or more additional service purchases; or may pay by lump sum the remaining principal or a portion of the remaining principal.

4. Before-tax installment purchase of service agreements shall be irrevocable, and the employee shall not be able to stop installment payments or to pay off the remaining balance of the purchase of service agreement, except upon termination of employment or death.

5. One (1) year of installment payments shall be made for each one thousand dollars ($1,000) or any part thereof of the total cost, except that the total period allowed for installments shall not be less than one (1) year and shall not exceed five (5) years.

6. The employee shall pay the installments by payroll deduction for after-tax purchase of service agreements, and the employer shall pick up installments for before-tax purchase of service agreements. Upon notification by the system, the employer shall report the installment payments monthly continuously over each twelve (12) month period at the same time as, but separate from, regular employee contributions on the forms or by the computer format specified by the board.

7. The system shall determine how much of the total cost represents payment for one (1) month of the service to be purchased and shall credit one (1) month of service to the member's account each time this amount has been paid. The first service credited shall represent the first calendar month of the service to be purchased and each succeeding month of service credit shall represent the succeeding months of that service.

8. If the employee utilizing an installment purchase of service agreement dies, retires, does not continue employment in a position required to participate in the system, or elects to stop an after-tax installment purchase of service agreement, the member, or in the case of death, the beneficiary, shall have sixty (60) days to pay the remaining principal or a portion of the remaining principal of the installment purchase of service agreement by lump sum, subject to the restrictions of paragraph (a)1. of this subsection, or by transfer of funds under paragraph (a)3. of this subsection, except that payment by the member shall be filed with the system prior to the member's effective retirement date. If the member or beneficiary does not pay the remaining cost, the system shall refund to the member or the beneficiary the payment, payments, or portion of a payment that does not represent a full month of service purchased, except as provided by subsection (6) of this section.

9. If the employer does not report installment payments on an employee for sixty (60) days for an after-tax installment purchase of service agreement, except in the case of employees on military leave or sick leave without pay, the installment purchase shall cease and the system shall refund to the employee the payment, payments, or portion of a payment that does not represent a full month of service purchased.

10. Installment payments of employees on military leave or sick leave without pay shall be suspended during the period of leave and shall resume without recalculation upon the employee's return from leave.

11. If payments have ceased under subparagraph 8. or 9. of this paragraph and the member later becomes a participating employee in the County Employees Retirement System, Kentucky Employees Retirement System, or State Police Retirement System, the employee may complete the adjusted original installment purchase by lump sum or installment payments, subject to the restrictions of this subsection. If the employee elects to renew the installment purchase, the cost of the remaining service shall be recalculated in accordance with subsection (10) of this section.

(d) Member payments, including interest, properly received pursuant to this subsection, shall be deposited to the member's account and considered as accumulated contributions of the individual member. (10)(a) The cost of purchasing service credit under any provision of this section, except as provided by subsections (1) to (3) of this section, shall be determined by multiplying the higher of the employee's current rate of pay, final rate of pay, or final compensation as of the end of the month in which the purchase is made times the actuarial factor times the number of years of service being purchased. The actuarial factor used to determine the cost of purchasing service credit shall assume the earliest date the member may retire without a reduction in benefits and the cost-of-living adjustments provided to members upon retirement.

(b) Service purchased on or after August 1, 2004, under the provisions of KRS 16.505 to 16.652, 61.510 to 61.705, or 78.510 to 78.852, except for service purchased under subsections (1) to (3) of this section or service purchased as described by paragraph (d) of this subsection, shall not be used to determine eligibility for or the amount of the monthly insurance contribution under KRS 61.702 or 78.5536.

(c) For a member whose participation begins on or after August 1, 2004, service purchased under the provisions of KRS 16.505 to 16.652, 61.510 to 61.705, or 78.510 to 78.852, except for service purchased under subsections (1) to (3) of this section or service purchased as described by paragraph (d) of this subsection:

1. Shall not be used to determine eligibility for a retirement allowance under disability retirement, early retirement, normal retirement, or upon death of the member under any of the provisions of KRS 16.505 to 16.652, 61.510 to 61.705, or 78.510 to 78.852; and

2. Shall only be used to determine the amount of the retirement allowance of a member who is eligible for a retirement allowance under disability, early retirement, normal retirement, or upon death of the member under any of the provisions of KRS 16.505 to 16.652, 61.510 to 61.705, or 78.510 to 78.852, based on service earned as a participating employee.

(d) Paragraphs (b) and (c) of this subsection shall not apply to a member who was bound by an educational contract as a conditional employee to the state of Kentucky prior to December 31, 2003, regardless of participation date or membership date in the system. Educational leave, seasonal service, or any other qualified service purchased by a member with this classification under this section shall be used to determine eligibility for benefits, membership dates or participation dates, and the amount of benefit for:

1. A retirement allowance under disability retirement, early retirement, normal retirement, or death under any of the provisions of KRS 16.505 to 16.652, 61.510 to 61.705, and 78.510 to 78.852; and

2. The monthly insurance contribution under KRS 61.702 or 78.5536.

Legislative Research Commission Notes.

(6/29/2021). 2021 Ky. Acts ch. 96, sec. 15 provides, "Notwithstanding the provisions of 2017 Ky. Acts ch. 32 to the contrary, the implementation date of the amendments in subsection (28) of Section 9 of 2017 Ky. Acts ch. 32 [KRS 61.552] by the Kentucky Retirement Systems shall be December 1, 2019."

(4/1/2021). In codification, a correction has been made to subsection (2)(e) of this statute. Section 52 of 2021 Ky. Acts ch. 102, which amended this statute, contains a reference to "KRS 16.597," a number that does not correspond to any existing section of the Kentucky Revised Statutes. It is clear from the context that the reference was intended to read "KRS 61.597." Under the authority of KRS 7.136, the Reviser of Statutes has corrected this manifest clerical or technical error.

(12/13/2018). On December 13, 2018, the Kentucky Supreme Court ruled that the passage of 2018 SB 151 (2018 Ky. Acts ch. 107), did not comply with the three-readings rule of Kentucky Constitution Section 46 and that the legislation is, therefore, constitutionally invalid and declared void. That ruling applies to changes made to this statute in that Act.

61.595. Annual retirement allowance — Limitations.

(1) Effective July 1, 1990, upon retirement at normal retirement date or subsequent thereto, a Kentucky Employees Retirement System member may receive an annual retirement allowance, payable monthly during his or her lifetime, which shall consist of an amount equal to one and ninety-seven hundredths percent (1.97%) of final compensation multiplied by the number of years of service credit, except that:

(a) Effective February 1, 1999, a member of the Kentucky Employees Retirement System who was participating in one (1) of the state-administered retirement systems as of January 1, 1998, and continues to participate through January 1, 1999, shall receive an annual retirement allowance, payable monthly during his or her lifetime, which shall consist of an amount equal to two percent (2%) of final compensation multiplied by the number of years of service credit. Any Kentucky Employees Retirement System member whose effective date of retirement is between February 1, 1999, and January 31, 2009, and who has at least twenty (20) years of service credit in one (1) of the state-administered retirement systems and who was participating in one (1) of the state-administered retirement systems as of January 1, 1998, and continues to participate through January 1, 1999, shall receive an annual retirement allowance, payable monthly during his or her lifetime, which shall consist of an amount equal to two and two-tenths percent (2.2%) of final compensation multiplied by the number of years of service credit. Notwithstanding the provisions of KRS 61.565, the funding for this paragraph shall be provided from existing funds of the retirement allowance account;

(b) The annual normal retirement allowance for members of the General Assembly, who serve during the 1974 or 1976 General Assembly, and will have eight (8) years or more of total legislative service as of January 6, 1978, shall not be less than two hundred forty dollars ($240) multiplied by the number of years of service as a member of the General Assembly;

(c) For a member of the Kentucky Employees Retirement System who begins participating on or after September 1, 2008, the annual retirement allowance upon retirement shall be equal to:

1.a. One and one-tenth percent (1.1%) of final compensation for each year of service if the member has earned ten (10) or less years of service at retirement;

b. One and three-tenths percent (1.3%) of final compensation for each year of service if the member has earned greater than ten (10) but no more than twenty (20) years of service at retirement;

c. One and one-half percent (1.5%) of final compensation for each year of service if the member has earned greater than twenty (20) but no more than twenty-six (26) years of service at retirement; or

d. One and three-quarters percent (1.75%) of final compensation for each year of service if the member has earned greater than twenty-six (26) but no more than thirty (30) years of service at retirement; and

2. Two percent (2.0%) of final compensation for each year of service earned in excess of thirty (30) years of service at retirement;

(d) The annual normal retirement allowance for members of the General Assembly who will have fewer than eight (8) years of service as of December 31, 1975, shall be as prescribed in Chapter 116, section 36(1), Acts of the 1972 General Assembly for legislative service prior to January 1, 1974;

(e) Former members of the General Assembly who have eight (8) or more years of legislative service prior to the 1976 Regular Session are eligible for an increased retirement allowance of two hundred forty dollars ($240) times the years of legislative service, if the member pays to the Kentucky Employees Retirement System thirty-five percent (35%) of the actuarial cost of the higher benefit, as determined by the system, except that a former member with sixteen (16) or more years of legislative service, or his or her beneficiary, who is receiving a retirement allowance, also is eligible under this section and may apply for a recomputation of his retirement allowance. The employer's share of sixty-five percent (65%) of the computed actuarial cost shall be paid from the State Treasury to the Kentucky Employees Retirement System upon presentation of a properly documented claim to the Finance and Administration Cabinet. If any member with sixteen (16) or more years of legislative service previously applied for and is receiving a retirement allowance, he or she may reapply and his or her retirement allowance shall be recomputed in accordance with this paragraph, and he or she shall thereafter be paid in accordance with the option selected by him or her at the time of the reapplication; and

(f) The annual normal retirement allowance for a member with ten (10) or more years of service, in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System, at least one (1) of which is current service, shall not be less than five hundred twelve dollars ($512).

(2)(a) Upon service retirement prior to normal retirement date, a member may receive an annual retirement allowance payable monthly during his or her lifetime which shall be determined in the same manner as for retirement at his or her normal retirement date with years of service and final compensation being determined as of the date of his or her actual retirement, but the amount of the retirement allowance so determined shall be reduced at an amount determined by the board's actuary to reflect the earlier commencement of benefits.

(b) A member of the Kentucky Employees Retirement System who begins participating before September 1, 2008, who has twenty-seven (27) or more years of service credit, at least fifteen (15) of which are current service, may retire with no reduction in the retirement allowance. A member who begins participating before September 1, 2008, who has earned vested service credit in a retirement system, other than the Teachers' Retirement System, sponsored by a Kentucky institution of higher education, the Council on Postsecondary Education, or the Higher Education Assistance Authority, may count the vested service toward attaining the necessary years of service credit as provided in KRS 61.559(2)(c) and (d) to qualify for a retirement allowance. The credit from a Kentucky institution of higher education, the Council on Postsecondary Education, or the Higher Education Assistance Authority shall not be used toward the minimum fifteen (15) years of current service required by KRS 61.559(2)(c) and (d) or to calculate his or her retirement allowance pursuant to this section. The provisions of this paragraph shall not be construed to limit the use of Teachers' Retirement System credit pursuant to KRS 61.680(2)(a).

(c) A member of the Kentucky Employees Retirement System who begins participating on or after September 1, 2008, may retire with no reduction in benefits if the member is fifty-seven (57) years of age or older and has an age and years of service total of at least eighty-seven (87) years. The years of service used to determine eligibility for an unreduced retirement allowance under this paragraph shall only include years of service credited under KRS 16.543(1), 61.543(1), or 78.615(1) or another state-administered retirement system.

(3) Subsections (1) and (2) of this section shall not apply to members who begin participating in the system on or after January 1, 2014. Members who begin participating in the system on or after January 1, 2014, shall receive the retirement benefits prescribed by KRS 61.597.

Compiler's Notes.

Section 42 of Acts 1976, ch. 321 provides: "This Act shall not be construed as repealing any of the provisions of 1976 House Bill 142 [ch. 224 amending KRS 61.595 by adding provisions relating to members of general assembly] but shall be held and construed as ancillary and supplementary thereto."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Construction with Other Laws.

Commonwealth's retirement statutes, KRS 16.582, 16.576, 16.577 and 61.595, which together calculated retirement eligibility based on age and years of service, were not facially discriminatory, as a matter of law, under the federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 29 USCS § 621 et seq., because the fact that a combination of service years and age was used to compute retirement eligibility was itself an actuarial reality and not proof of age discrimination. EEOC v. Jefferson County Sheriff's Office, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18998 (W.D. Ky. Sept. 3, 2003), aff'd, 424 F.3d 467, 2005 FED App. 0397P, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 20053 (6th Cir. Ky. 2005), rev'd, 467 F.3d 571, 2006 FED App. 0405P, 2006 U.S. App. LEXIS 26981 (6th Cir. Ky. 2006).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The term "employment covered by the Kentucky employees' retirement system" in KRS 161.607 embraces the term "service" as defined in KRS 61.510 and as referred to in this section so an employee of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture for the three years immediately preceding July 1, 1956, when there was no Kentucky Employees' Retirement System in existence, would still be entitled to purchase credit in the Teachers' Retirement System for the three (3) years in question pursuant to the option contained in KRS 161.607. OAG 73-749.

A person who has been granted disability retirement is no longer a "member" of the retirement system and therefore is not eligible to seek or receive retirement benefits under this section. OAG 77-319.

(b) If the member is at least age fifty-seven (57) and has an age and years of service total of at least eighty-seven (87) years. The years of service used to determine eligibility for retirement under this paragraph shall only include years of service credited under KRS 16.543(1), 61.543(1), 78.615(1), or another state-administered retirement system.

(7) A member eligible to retire under subsection (6) of this section may elect to:

(a) Receive a monthly retirement allowance payable for life by having his or her accumulated account balance annuitized by the retirement systems in accordance with the actuarial assumptions and actuarial methods adopted by the board and in effect on the member's retirement date;

(b) Receive the actuarial equivalent of his or her retirement allowance calculated under paragraph (a) of this subsection payable under one (1) of the options set forth in KRS 61.635, except for the option provided by KRS 61.635(11); or

(c) Take a refund of his or her account balance as provided by KRS 61.625.

(8) The provisions of this section shall not apply to members who began participating in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System prior to January 1, 2014, except for those members who make an election pursuant to KRS 61.5955.

Legislative Research Commission Notes.

(12/13/2018). On December 13, 2018, the Kentucky Supreme Court ruled that the passage of 2018 SB 151 (2018 Ky. Acts ch. 107), did not comply with the three-readings rule of Kentucky Constitution Section 46 and that the legislation is, therefore, constitutionally invalid and declared void. That ruling applies to changes made to this statute in that Act.

61.598. Limitations and exclusions on increases in creditable compensation in last five years of service for employees retiring on or after January 1, 2018 — Exceptions — Employer to pay actuarial costs resulting from certain increases in creditable compensation — Inquiries from employers — Hearing and appeal — Reporting of exemptions — Inapplicability to hybrid cash balance and money purchase plan participants.

(1) For purposes of this section, "bona fide promotion or career advancement":

(a) Means a professional advancement in substantially the same line of work held by the employee in the four (4) years immediately prior to the final five (5) fiscal years preceding retirement or a change in employment position based on the training, skills, education, or expertise of the employee that imposes a significant change in job duties and responsibilities to clearly justify the increased compensation to the member; and

(b) Does not include any circumstance where an elected official participating in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System or the County Employees Retirement System takes a position of employment with a different employer participating in any of the state-administered retirement systems.

(2)(a) For employees retiring from the Kentucky Employees Retirement System, the County Employees Retirement System, or the State Police Retirement System on or after January 1, 2018, the systems shall, for each of the retiring employee's last five (5) fiscal years of employment, identify any fiscal year in which the creditable compensation increased at a rate of ten percent (10%) or more annually over the immediately preceding fiscal year's creditable compensation. The employee's creditable compensation in the fiscal year immediately prior to the employee's last five (5) fiscal years of employment shall be utilized to compare the initial fiscal year in the five (5) fiscal year period.

(b) Except as limited or excluded by subsections (3) and (4) of this section, any amount of increase in creditable compensation for a fiscal year identified under paragraph (a) of this subsection that exceeds ten percent (10%) more than the employee's creditable compensation from the immediately preceding fiscal year shall not be included in the creditable compensation used to calculate the retiring employee's monthly retirement allowance. If the creditable compensation for a specific fiscal year identified under paragraph (a) of this subsection as exceeding the ten percent (10%) increase limitation is not used to calculate the retiring employee's monthly retirement allowance, then no reduction in creditable compensation shall occur for that fiscal year.

(c) If the creditable compensation of the retiring employee is reduced as provided by paragraph (b) of this subsection, the retirement systems:

1. Shall refund the employee contributions and interest attributable to the reduction in creditable compensation; and

2. Shall not refund the employer contributions paid but shall utilize those funds to pay down the unfunded liability of the pension fund in which the retiring employee participated.

(3)(a) In order to ensure the prospective application of the limitations on increases in creditable compensation contained in subsection (2) of this section, only the creditable compensation earned by the retiring employee on or after July 1, 2017, shall be subject to reduction under subsection (2) of this section. Creditable compensation earned by the retiring employee prior to July 1, 2017, shall not be subject to reduction under subsection (2) of this section.

(b) If the reductions in creditable compensation during a retiring member's entire last five (5) years of employment results in a reduction in his or her monthly retirement allowance of less than twenty-five dollars ($25) per month or an actuarially equivalent value under the various payment options, then no reduction in creditable compensation or retirement allowances shall occur under subsection (2) of this section.

(4) Subsection (2) of this section shall not apply to:

(a) A bona fide promotion or career advancement as defined by subsection (1) of this section;

(b) A lump-sum payment for compensatory time paid to an employee upon termination of employment;

(c) A lump-sum payment made pursuant to an alternate sick leave program under KRS 78.616(5) that is paid to an employee upon termination of employment;

(d) Increases in creditable compensation in a fiscal year over the immediately preceding fiscal year, where in the immediately preceding fiscal year the employer reported the employee as being on leave without pay for any reason, including but not limited to sick leave without pay, maternity leave, leave authorized under the Family Medical Leave Act, and any period of time where the employee received workers' compensation benefit payments that were not reported to the plan as creditable compensation;

(e) Increases in creditable compensation directly attributable to an employee's receipt of compensation for:

1. Overtime hours worked while serving as a participating employee under any state or federal grant, grant pass-through, or similar program that requires overtime as a condition or necessity of the employer's receipt of the grant; or

2. The first one hundred (100) hours of mandatory overtime hours that the employee is individually required to work by the employer during a fiscal year. This subparagraph shall not be construed to apply to overtime hours voluntarily worked by the employee or in situations in which the employee has the option to elect out of participation in overtime hours. Any mandatory overtime hours exempt under this subparagraph shall be in addition to any overtime hours otherwise exempt under the provisions of this subsection; and

(f) Increases in creditable compensation directly attributable to an employee's receipt of compensation for overtime performed during and as a result of a state of emergency declared by:

1. The President of the United States or the Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky; or

2. A local government in which the Governor authorizes mobilization of the Kentucky National Guard pursuant to KRS 38.030 and 39A.950 during such time as the National Guard is mobilized.

(5)(a) For employees retiring on or after January 1, 2014, but prior to July 1, 2017, the last participating employer shall be required to pay for any additional actuarial costs resulting from annual increases in an employee's creditable compensation greater than ten percent (10%) over the employee's last five (5) fiscal years of employment that are not the direct result of a bona fide promotion or career advancement. The cost shall be determined by the retirement systems.

(b) Lump-sum payments for compensatory time paid to an employee upon termination of employment shall be exempt from this subsection.

(c) The Authority shall be required to answer inquiries from participating employers regarding this subsection. Upon request of the employer prior to the employee's change of position or hiring, the systems shall make a determination that is binding to the systems as to whether or not a change of position or hiring constitutes a bona fide promotion or career advancement.

(d) For any additional actuarial costs charged to the employer under this subsection, the systems shall allow the employer to pay the costs without interest over a period of one (1) year from the date of receipt of the employer's final invoice.

(6) The Authority shall determine whether increases in creditable compensation during the last five (5) fiscal years of employment prior to retirement constitute a bona fide promotion or career advancement and may promulgate administrative regulations in accordance with KRS Chapter 13A to administer this section. All state-administered retirement systems shall cooperate to implement this section.

(7) Any employer who disagrees with a determination made by the system in accordance with this section regarding whether an increase in compensation constitutes a bona fide promotion or career advancement for purposes of subsection (5) of this section may request a hearing and appeal the decision in accordance with KRS 61.645(16) or 78.782(16).

(8) For the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2017, and subsequent years, the Kentucky Retirement Systems and the County Employees Retirement System shall provide a means for employers to separately report the specific exceptions provided in subsection (4) of this section within the reporting system utilized by the employers for making employer reports under KRS 16.645, 61.675, and 78.545. The Kentucky Retirement Systems and the County Employees Retirement System shall continually provide communication, instructions, training, and educational opportunities for employers regarding how to appropriately report exemptions established by subsection (4) of this section.

(9) This section shall not apply to employees participating in the hybrid cash balance plan as provided by KRS 16.583, 61.597, 78.5512, and 78.5516.

(4/8/2022). 2022 Ky. Acts ch. 100, sec. 2 provides, "The amendments to subsection (4)(f) of Section 1 of this Act [this statute] shall be retroactive to May 28, 2020, and shall for purposes of local government emergencies issued on or after May 28, 2020, but prior to October 5, 2020, apply to any overtime worked from May 28, 2020, through May 11, 2021, regardless of whether or not the National Guard was mobilized for the entire period. The Kentucky Public Pensions Authority shall adjust the benefits of members, retirees, and recipients accordingly."

(12/13/2018). On December 13, 2018, the Kentucky Supreme Court ruled that the passage of 2018 SB 151 (2018 Ky. Acts ch. 107), did not comply with the three-readings rule of Kentucky Constitution Section 46 and that the legislation is, therefore, constitutionally invalid and declared void. That ruling applies to changes made to this statute in that Act.

Analysis

1. Constitutionality.
2. Burden of Proof.
3. Construction.
4. Bona Fide Promotion or Career Advancement.
5. Due Process.

1. Constitutionality.

Statute is not arbitrary on its face or as applied because it affects all employers similarly and only under specified circumstances, and it is reasonably designed to rehabilitate and preserve the pension system; the statute is meant to be a bloat-limiting balancing measure and is written to serve that purpose, and it authorizes the Kentucky Retirement Systems to pass regulations and take prescribed actions to assess increased actuarial costs attributable to employee compensation increases. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

Statute is not unconstitutional as an ex post facto law, because, although the statute operates retroactively, the assessment is not a punishment for a criminal act, and ex post facto laws apply only to criminal or penal matters, not generally to civil or private matters; the assessment is a civil assessment incurred for non-criminal actions. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

Assessment of actuarial costs against a city following the retirement of one of its employees did not violate the prohibition against ex post facto laws because the assessment was a civil assessment incurred for non-criminal actions; the assessment was to redistribute actuarial costs according to statute, not to punish the city for a lawful employment decision. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

There was no violation of the Contracts Clause when the Kentucky Retirement Systems assessed actuarial costs against a city following the retirement of one of its employees because the relationship between the city and the Retirement Systems was one purely of statute, not contract; the relationship between the city and the employee, the rights and obligations owed between them, was left completely unaffected. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

2. Burden of Proof.

Kentucky Retirement Systems correctly placed the burden on the county sheriff's office, the employer, because the statute did not impose a penalty, and the assessment was clearly not a revocation of a benefit grant; an assessment under Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 67.598(3) is not punitive because employers are not prohibited or bound by law not to increase employee compensation, but they may do so at their discretion, and even up to a 10 percent increase, there is no effect at all on the employer. Jefferson Cty. Sheriff's Office v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 626 S.W.3d 554, 2021 Ky. LEXIS 146 (Ky. 2021).

Burden of proof was properly assigned to a city because the Kentucky Retirement Systems's assessment was not a penalty, and the city was not deprived of a benefit previously granted by the Retirement Systems; assigning the burden of proof to the city made practical sense because it was in the best position to gather evidence pertaining to an employee or a purported promotion. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

3. Construction.

Statute directs the Kentucky Retirement Systems to apply the statute retroactively in some circumstances, that is, to calculate creditable compensation and assess costs for compensation paid before the statute took effect on July 1, 2013; as a matter of statutory construction, the statute properly applies retroactively according to its plain language. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

Five-year lookback pertaining to assessments against employers, effective in some form since its original enactment in 2013, demonstrates the intent of the General Assembly to apply the statute retroactively; the lookback is inherently and clearly retrospective and, therefore, is intended to apply accordingly. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

While the 2017 amendment clearly abrogated any retrospective interpretation as to the calculation of a retiring employee's benefits, the General Assembly evinced a completely different intention for subsection (5)(a) by leaving alone, thereby practically reiterating, the five-year lookback applied to any employer of an employee retiring after January 1, 2014, only adding "January 1, 2017" as the other end of the currently applicable time frame; the statute properly applies retroactively. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

Statute is simply a mechanism of shifting the costs of an employment decision to the employer under predetermined formulae, and like a tax, it is not assessed to punish unlawful behavior or wrongdoing; increasing an employee's pay is not forbidden, disallowed, or otherwise unlawful, nor is it deemed wrong, and the assessment is simply the price the General Assembly placed on employer-participants in a state pension system who bear a primary responsibility of financially supporting the system. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

Statute is not overbroad because the decision to raise an employee's compensation is not constitutionally protected, like speech, religion, or interstate travel, and the statute 61.598 reasonably "regulates" that behavior for a legitimate reason; even if the assessment amounts to a regulation of protected conduct, this conduct is not prohibited by the statute or otherwise impinged. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

4. Bona Fide Promotion or Career Advancement.

City did not provide that an employee experienced a bona fide promotion because the employee's two roles were different lines of work, and his actual service to the city did not fundamentally change; "bona fide promotion or career advancement" pertains to a change in type, quality, or tier of an employee's responsibility, not a change in the quantity of work performed. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 628 S.W.3d 94, 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. 2021).

Kentucky Retirement System did not err in disregarding the extent of a city employee's overtime pay in determining that he did not experience a bona fide promotion because the employee's pay increase from both overtime and increased retirement benefits was not a result of a bona fide promotion or career advancement; although his official job duties as a city employee of the local police department were augmented in the most diaphanous sense, it was not on account of a true promotion. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

Statute does not require consideration of overtime pay in determining the existence or authenticity of a promotion; overtime pay generally is not in and of itself evidence of a bona fide promotion, and overtime compensation is, just as the term describes, compensation for fulfilling essentially the same job duties in a given role but in a number of hours exceeding, "over," the standard expected time working a job in a given period, typically about 40 hours a week. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

5. Due Process.

City was afforded and enjoyed adequate procedural due process because it was first allowed to object to the initial notice of assessment to initiate reconsideration, then it was able to appeal the unfavorable determination to the Board of Trustees of the Kentucky Retirement Systems for review, and it had been afforded three levels of judicial review; the city was given ample opportunity to put on evidence that an employee's raises were the result of a bona fide promotion. City of Villa Hills v. Ky. Ret. Sys., 2021 Ky. LEXIS 301 (Ky. Aug. 26, 2021).

61.599. Calculation of retirement allowance for members of Kentucky Employees Retirement System.

(1) The annual retirement allowance for a member of the Kentucky Employees Retirement System shall not exceed the maximum benefit as set forth in the Internal Revenue Code.

(2)(a) The retirement allowance for a member of the Kentucky Employees Retirement System shall be calculated by using the member's known creditable compensation prior to his or her last month's employment and an estimate of his or her creditable compensation during the last month he or she was employed. Based upon this calculation, the State Treasurer shall be requested to issue the initial retirement payment.

(b) A new calculation shall be made when the official report has been received of the member's creditable compensation during his or her last month's employment. However, the retirement allowance determined in accordance with paragraph (a) of this subsection shall be the official retirement allowance unless the new calculation derives an amount which is two dollars ($2) greater or less than the amount of the initial retirement payment. If the member or beneficiary chose an actuarial equivalent refund payment option, the amount of estimated retirement allowance shall be the official retirement allowance unless the new calculation produces an amount which is one hundred dollars ($100) greater or less than the amount of the initial retirement payment.

61.691. Increase of benefits.

(1) Effective August 1, 1996, to July 1, 2008, a recipient of a retirement allowance under KRS 16.505 to 16.652 and 61.510 to 61.705 shall have his or her retirement allowance increased on July 1 of each year by the percentage increase in the annual average of the consumer price index for all urban consumers for the most recent calendar year as published by the federal Bureau of Labor Statistics, not to exceed five percent (5%). In determining the annual employer contribution rate, only the cost of increases granted as of the most recent valuation date shall be recognized. The benefits of this subsection as provided on August 1, 1996, to July 1, 2008, shall not be considered as benefits protected by the inviolable contract provisions of KRS 16.652 and 61.692. The General Assembly reserves the right to suspend or reduce the benefits conferred in this subsection if in their judgment the welfare of the Commonwealth so demands.

(2)(a) Effective July 1, 2009, and on July 1 of each year thereafter, a recipient of a retirement allowance under KRS 16.505 to 16.652 and 61.510 to 61.705 shall have his or her retirement allowance increased by one and one-half percent (1.5%), if:

1. The funding level of the system is greater than one hundred percent (100%) and subsequent legislation authorizes the use of any surplus actuarial assets to provide an increase in retirement allowances described by this subsection for the system which has the surplus actuarial assets; or

2. The General Assembly appropriates sufficient funds or directs payment of funds to fully prefund the increase described by this subsection in the year the increase is provided.

(b) The board of trustees of the Kentucky Retirement Systems shall, at least thirty (30) days prior to the beginning of regular sessions of the General Assembly held in even-numbered years, advise the General Assembly of the following:

1. Which systems have a funding level greater than one hundred percent (100%) and can support an increase in recipients' retirement allowances as provided by paragraph (a) of this subsection over the next budget biennium without reducing the funding level of the system below one hundred percent (100%); and

2. If no surplus actuarial assets are available, the level of funds needed to fully prefund an increase for system recipients over the next budget biennium if a one and one-half percent (1.5%) increase is provided annually over the biennium.

(c) For purposes of this subsection, "funding level" means the actuarial value of assets divided by the actuarially accrued liability expressed as a percentage that is determined and reported by the system's actuary in the system's actuarial valuation.

(d) The full increase described by this subsection shall only be provided if the recipient has been receiving a benefit for at least twelve (12) months prior to the effective date of the increase. If the recipient has been receiving a benefit for less than twelve (12) months prior to the effective date of the increase provided by this subsection, the increase shall be reduced on a pro rata basis for each month the recipient has not been receiving benefits in the twelve (12) months preceding the effective date of the increase.

(e) In determining the annual employer contribution rate, only the cost of increases granted as of the most recent valuation date shall be recognized.

(f) The benefits of this subsection as provided on July 1, 2009, and thereafter shall not be considered as benefits protected by the inviolable contract provisions of KRS 16.652 and 61.692. The General Assembly reserves the right to suspend or reduce the benefits conferred in this subsection if, in its judgment, the welfare of the Commonwealth so demands.

(3) A reemployed retired member whose payments are suspended as provided under KRS 61.637 shall be eligible for an increase in his or her suspended retirement allowance as provided under this section, computed as if he or she were receiving the retirement allowance at the time the increase under this section is effective.

(4) In addition to the increase to a recipient's retirement allowance as provided by subsection (2) of this section, the General Assembly may, by subsequent legislation, provide supplemental increases to a recipient's retirement allowance to help adjust for actual changes in the recipient's cost of living if the General Assembly appropriates sufficient funds to fully prefund the benefit in the year the increase is provided.

61.702. Group hospital and medical insurance plan coverage — Inclusion in Kentucky Employees Health Plan — Employee and employer contributions — Minimum service requirements — Members with service in other retirement systems — Exemption from premium tax — Administrative regulation.

(1) For purposes of this section:

(a) "Hospital and medical insurance plan" may include, at the board's discretion, any one (1) or more of the following:

1. Any hospital and medical expense policy or certificate, provider-sponsored integrated health delivery network, self-insured medical plan, health maintenance organization contract, or other health benefit plan;

2. Any health savings account as permitted by 26 U.S.C. sec. 223 or health reimbursement arrangement or a similar account as may be permitted by 26 U.S.C. sec. 105 or 106. Such arrangement or account, at the board's discretion, may reimburse any medical expense permissible under 26 U.S.C. sec. 213; or

3. A medical insurance reimbursement program established by the board through the promulgation of administrative regulation under which members purchase individual health insurance coverage through a health insurance exchange established under 42 U.S.C. sec. 18031 or 18041;

(b) "Monthly contribution rate" is the amount determined by the board based upon the requirements of subsection (4)(a) to (d) of this section, except that for members who began participating in the system on or after July 1, 2003, the term shall mean the amount determined in subsection (4)(e) of this section; and

(c) "Months of service" means the total months of combined service used to determine benefits under the system, except service added to determine disability benefits or service otherwise prohibited from being used to determine retiree health benefits under KRS 16.505 to 16.652 or 61.510 to 61.705 shall not be counted as "months of service." For current and former employees of the Council on Postsecondary Education who were employed prior to January 1, 1993, and who earn at least fifteen (15) years of service credit in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System, "months of service" shall also include vested service in another retirement system other than the Kentucky Teachers' Retirement System sponsored by the Council on Postsecondary Education.

(2)(a)1. The board of trustees of the system shall arrange by appropriate contract or on a self-insured basis to provide a group hospital and medical insurance plan coverage for:

a. Present and future recipients of a retirement allowance from the Kentucky Employees Retirement System and the State Police Retirement System; and

b. The spouse and each qualified dependent of a recipient who is a former member or the beneficiary, provided the spouse and dependent meet the requirements to participate in the hospital and medical insurance plans established, contracted, or authorized by the system.

2. Any recipient who chooses coverage under a hospital and medical insurance plan shall pay, by payroll deduction from the retirement allowance, electronic funds transfer, or by another method, the difference between the premium cost of the hospital and medical insurance plan coverage selected and the monthly contribution rate to which he or she would be entitled under this section.

(b)1. For present and future recipients of a retirement allowance from the system who are not eligible for Medicare and for those recipients described in subparagraph 3.b. of this paragraph, the board may authorize these participants to be included in the Kentucky Employees Health Plan as provided by KRS 18A.225 to 18A.2287 and shall provide benefits for recipients in the plan equal to those provided to state employees having the same Medicare hospital and medical insurance eligibility status. Notwithstanding the provisions of any other statute except subparagraph 3.b. of this paragraph, system recipients shall be included in the same class as current state employees for purposes of determining medical insurance policies and premiums in the Kentucky Employees Health Plan as provided by KRS 18A.225 to 18A.2287.

2. Regardless of age, if a recipient or the spouse or dependent child of a recipient who elects coverage becomes eligible for Medicare, he or she shall participate in the plans offered by the systems for Medicare eligible recipients. Individuals participating in the Medicare eligible plans may be required to obtain and pay for Medicare Part A and Part B coverage, in order to participate in the Medicare eligible plans offered by the system.

3. The system shall continue to provide the same hospital and medical insurance plan coverage for recipients and qualifying dependents after the age of sixty-five (65) as before the age of sixty-five (65), if:

a. The recipient is not eligible for Medicare coverage; or

b. The recipient would otherwise be eligible for Medicare coverage but is subject to the Medicare Secondary Payer Act under 42 U.S.C. sec. 1395y(b) and has been reemployed by a participating agency which offers the recipient a hospital and medical insurance benefit or by a participating agency which is prevented from offering a hospital and medical benefit to the recipient as a condition of reemployment under KRS 70.293, 95.022, or 164.952. Individuals who are eligible, pursuant to this subdivision, to be included in the Kentucky Employees Health Plan as provided by KRS 18A.225 to 18A.2287 may be rated as a separate class from other eligible employees and retirees for the purpose of determining medical insurance premiums.

(c) For recipients of a retirement allowance who are not eligible for the same level of hospital and medical benefits as recipients living in Kentucky having the same Medicare hospital and medical insurance eligibility status, the board shall provide a medical insurance reimbursement plan as described in subsection (6) of this section.

(d) Notwithstanding anything in KRS Chapter 16 or 61 to the contrary, the board of trustees, in its discretion, may take necessary steps to ensure compliance with 42 U.S.C. secs. 300bb-1 et seq.

(3)(a) Each employer participating in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System or the State Police Retirement System as provided in KRS 16.505 to 16.652 or 61.510 to 61.705 shall contribute to the insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701 the amount necessary to provide the monthly contribution rate as provided for under this section. Such employer contribution rate shall be developed by appropriate actuarial method as a part of the determination of each respective employer contribution rate determined under KRS 61.565.

(b)1. Each employer described in paragraph (a) of this subsection shall deduct from the creditable compensation of each member whose membership date begins on or after September 1, 2008, an amount equal to one percent (1%) of the member's creditable compensation. The deducted amounts shall, at the discretion of the board, be credited to accounts established pursuant to 26 U.S.C. sec. 401(h), within the funds established in KRS 16.510 and 61.515, or the insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701. Notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph, a transfer of assets between the accounts established pursuant to 26 U.S.C. sec. 401(h), within the funds established in KRS 16.510 and 61.515, and the insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701 shall not be allowed.

2. The employer shall file the contributions as provided by subparagraph 1. of this paragraph at the retirement office in accordance with KRS 61.675. Any interest or penalties paid on any delinquent contributions shall be credited to accounts established pursuant to 26 U.S.C. sec. 401(h), within the funds established in KRS 16.510 and 61.515, or the insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701. Notwithstanding any minimum compensation requirements provided by law, the deductions provided by this paragraph shall be made, and the compensation of the member shall be reduced accordingly.

3. Each employer shall submit payroll reports, contributions lists, and other data as may be required by administrative regulation promulgated by the board of trustees pursuant to KRS Chapter 13A.

4. Every member shall be deemed to consent and agree to the deductions made pursuant to this paragraph, and the payment of salary or compensation less the deductions shall be a full and complete discharge of all claims for services rendered by the person during the period covered by the payment, except as to any benefits provided by KRS 16.505 to 16.652 or 61.510 to 61.705. No member may elect whether to participate in, or choose the contribution amount to accounts established pursuant to 26 U.S.C. sec. 401(h) within the funds established in KRS 16.510 and 61.515, or the insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701. The member shall have no option to receive the contribution required by this paragraph directly instead of having the contribution paid to accounts established pursuant to 26 U.S.C. sec. 401(h) within the funds established in KRS 16.510 and 61.515, or the insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701. No member may receive a rebate or refund of contributions. If a member establishes a membership date prior to September 1, 2008, pursuant to KRS 61.552(2) or (3), then this paragraph shall not apply to the member and all contributions previously deducted in accordance with this paragraph shall be refunded to the member without interest. The contribution made pursuant to this paragraph shall not act as a reduction or offset to any other contribution required of a member or recipient under KRS 16.505 to 16.652 or 61.510 to 61.705.

5. The board of trustees, at its discretion, may direct that the contributions required by this paragraph be accounted for within accounts established pursuant to 26 U.S.C. sec. 401(h) within the funds established in KRS 16.510 and 61.515, or the insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701, through the use of separate accounts.

(4)(a) The premium required to provide hospital and medical insurance plan coverage under this section shall be paid wholly or partly from funds contributed by:

1. The recipient of a retirement allowance, by payroll deduction from his or her retirement allowance, or by other method;

2. The insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701 or accounts established pursuant to 26 U.S.C. sec. 401(h) within the funds established in KRS 16.510 and 61.515;

3. Another state-administered retirement system, including the County Employees Retirement System, under a reciprocal arrangement, except that any portion of the premium paid from the funds specified by subparagraph 2. of this paragraph under a reciprocal agreement shall not exceed the amount that would be payable under this section if all the member's service were in the systems administered by the Kentucky Retirement Systems. If the board provides for cross-referencing of insurance premiums, the employer's contribution for the working member or spouse shall be applied toward the premium, and the insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701 or accounts established pursuant to 26 U.S.C. sec. 401(h) within the funds established in KRS 16.510 and 61.515 shall pay the balance; or

4. A combination of the fund sources described by subparagraphs 1. to 3. of this paragraph.

Group rates under the hospital and medical insurance plan shall be made available to the spouse, each dependent child, and each disabled child, regardless of the disabled child's age, of a recipient who is a former member or the beneficiary, if the premium for the hospital and medical insurance for the spouse, each dependent child, and each disabled child, or beneficiary is paid by payroll deduction from the retirement allowance, electronic funds transfer, or by another method. For purposes of this subsection only, a child shall be considered disabled if he or she has been determined to be eligible for federal Social Security disability benefits or meets the dependent disability standard established by the Department of Employee Insurance in the Personnel Cabinet.

(b) For a member who began participating in the system prior to July 1, 2003, the monthly contribution rate shall be paid by the system from the funds specified under paragraph (a)2. of this subsection and shall be equal to a percentage of the single premium to cover the retired member as follows:

1. One hundred percent (100%) of the monthly premium for single coverage shall be paid for a retired member who had two hundred forty (240) months of service or more upon retirement or for a retired member who when he or she was an employee became disabled as a direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in KRS 16.505 or as a result of a duty-related injury as defined in KRS 61.621;

2. Seventy-five percent (75%) of the monthly premium for single coverage shall be paid for a retired member who had less than two hundred forty (240) months of service but at least one hundred eighty (180) months of service upon retirement, provided such retired member agrees to pay the remaining twenty-five percent (25%) by payroll deduction from his or her retirement allowance, electronic funds transfer, or by another method;

3. Fifty percent (50%) of the monthly premium for single coverage shall be paid for a retired member who had less than one hundred eighty (180) months of service but had at least one hundred twenty (120) months of service upon retirement, provided such retired member agrees to pay the remaining fifty percent (50%) by payroll deduction from his or her retirement allowance, electronic funds transfer, or by another method; or

4. Twenty-five percent (25%) of the monthly premium for single coverage shall be paid for a retired member who had less than one hundred twenty (120) months of service but had at least forty-eight (48) months of service upon retirement, provided such retired member agrees to pay the remaining seventy-five percent (75%) by payroll deduction from his or her retirement allowance, electronic funds transfer, or by another method.

(c) Notwithstanding paragraph (b) of this subsection, for a member participating in the system prior to July 1, 2003, who:

1. Dies as a direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in KRS 16.505 or dies as a result of a duty-related injury as defined in KRS 61.621, the monthly premium shall be paid for his or her spouse so long as the spouse remains eligible for a monthly retirement benefit;

2. Becomes totally and permanently disabled as defined in KRS 16.582 as a direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in KRS 16.505 or becomes disabled as a result of a duty-related injury as defined in KRS 61.621 and is eligible for the benefits provided by KRS 61.621(5)(a), the monthly premium shall be paid for his or her spouse so long as the member and the spouse individually remain eligible for a monthly retirement benefit; and

3. Dies as a direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in KRS 16.505, dies as a result of a duty-related injury as defined in KRS 61.621, becomes totally and permanently disabled as defined in KRS 16.582 as a direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in KRS 16.505, or becomes disabled as a result of a duty-related injury as defined in KRS 61.621 and is eligible for the benefits provided by KRS 61.621(5)(a), the monthly premium shall be paid for each dependent child as defined in KRS 16.505, so long as the member remains eligible for a monthly retirement benefit, unless deceased, and each dependent child individually remains eligible under KRS 16.505.

(d)1. For a member who began participating in the system prior to July 1, 2003, who was determined to be in a hazardous position in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System or in a position in the State Police Retirement System, the funds specified under paragraph (a)2. of this subsection shall also pay a percentage of the monthly contribution rate sufficient to fund the premium costs for hospital and medical insurance coverage for the spouse and for each dependent child of a recipient.

2. The percentage of the monthly contribution rate paid for the spouse and each dependent child of a recipient who was in a hazardous position in accordance with subparagraph 1. of this paragraph shall be based solely on the member's service in a hazardous position using the formula in paragraph (b) of this subsection.

(e) For members who begin participating in the system on or after July 1, 2003:

1. Participation in the insurance benefits provided under this section shall not be allowed until the member has earned at least one hundred twenty (120) months of service in the state-administered retirement systems, except that for members who begin participating in the system on or after September 1, 2008, participation in the insurance benefits provided under this section shall not be allowed until the member has earned at least one hundred eighty (180) months of service credited under KRS 16.543(1) or 61.543(1), or another state-administered retirement system.

2. A member who meets the minimum service requirements as provided by subparagraph 1. of this paragraph shall upon retirement be eligible for the following monthly contribution rate to be paid on his or her behalf from the funds specified under paragraph (a)2. of this subsection:

a. For members with service in a nonhazardous position, a monthly insurance contribution of ten dollars ($10) for each year of service as a participating employee in a nonhazardous position; and

b. For members with service in a hazardous position or who participate in the State Police Retirement System, a monthly insurance contribution of fifteen dollars ($15) for each year of service as a participating employee in a hazardous position or the State Police Retirement System.

c. Upon the death of the retired member, the beneficiary, if the beneficiary is the member's spouse, shall be entitled to a monthly insurance contribution of ten dollars ($10) for each year of service the member attained as a participating employee in a hazardous position.

3. The minimum service requirement to participate in benefits as provided by subparagraph 1. of this paragraph shall be waived for a member who receives a satisfactory determination of a hazardous disability that is a direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in KRS 16.505, and the member shall be entitled to the benefits payable under this subsection as though the member had twenty (20) years of service in a hazardous position.

4. The minimum service required to participate in benefits as provided by subparagraph 1. of this paragraph shall be waived for a member who is disabled as a result of a duty-related injury as defined in KRS 61.621 and is eligible for the benefits provided by KRS 61.621(5)(b), and the member shall be entitled to the benefits payable under this subsection as though the member had twenty (20) years of service in a nonhazardous position.

5. Notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph, the minimum service requirement to participate in benefits as provided by subparagraph 1. of this paragraph shall be waived for a member who dies as a direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in KRS 16.505, who becomes totally and permanently disabled as defined in KRS 16.582 as a direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in KRS 16.505, who dies as a result of a duty-related injury as defined in KRS 61.621, or who becomes disabled as a result of a duty-related injury as defined in KRS 61.621 and is eligible for the benefits provided by KRS 61.621(5)(a), and the premium for the member, the member's spouse, and for each dependent child as defined in KRS 16.505 shall be paid in full by the systems so long as the member, member's spouse, or dependent child individually remains eligible for a monthly retirement benefit.

6. Except as provided by subparagraph 5. of this paragraph, the monthly insurance contribution amount shall be increased:

a. On July 1 of each year by one and one-half percent (1.5%). The increase shall be cumulative and shall continue to accrue after the member's retirement for as long as a monthly insurance contribution is payable to the retired member or beneficiary but shall not apply to any increase in the contribution attributable to the increase specified by subdivision b. of this subparagraph; and

b. On January 1 of each year by five dollars ($5) for members who have accrued an additional full year of service as a participating employee beyond the career threshold, subject to the following restrictions:

i. The additional insurance contribution provided by this subdivision shall only be applied to the monthly contribution amounts provided under subparagraph 2.a. and b. of this paragraph;

ii. The additional insurance contribution provided by this subdivision shall only be payable towards the health plans offered by the system to retirees who are not eligible for Medicare or for reimbursements provided to retirees not eligible for Medicare pursuant to subsection (6)(a)2. of this section; and

iii. In order for the annual increase to occur as provided by this subdivision, the funding level of retiree health benefits for the system in which the employee is receiving the additional insurance contribution shall be at least ninety percent (90%) as of the most recent actuarial valuation and be projected by the actuary to remain ninety percent (90%) for the year in which the increase is provided.

7. The benefits of this paragraph provided to a member whose participation begins on or after July 1, 2003, shall not be considered as benefits protected by the inviolable contract provisions of KRS 16.652 or 61.692. The General Assembly reserves the right to suspend or reduce the benefits conferred in this paragraph if in its judgment the welfare of the Commonwealth so demands.

8. An employee whose membership date is on or after September 1, 2008, who retires and is reemployed in a regular full-time position required to participate in the system or the County Employees Retirement System shall not be eligible for health insurance coverage or benefits provided by this section and shall take coverage with his or her employing agency during the period of reemployment in a regular full-time position.

9. For purposes of this paragraph:

a. "Career threshold" for a member with service in a nonhazardous position means twenty-seven (27) years of service credited under KRS 16.543(1), 61.543(1), 78.615(1), or another state-administered retirement system and for a member with service in a hazardous position means the service requirements specified by KRS 16.577(2) or (3) or 16.583(6)(b), as applicable; and

b. "Funding level" means the actuarial value of assets divided by the actuarially accrued liability expressed as a percentage that is determined and reported by the system's actuary in the annual actuarial valuation.

(f) For members with service in another state-administered retirement system who select hospital and medical insurance plan coverage through the system:

1. The system shall compute the member's combined service, including service credit in another state-administered retirement system, and calculate the portion of the member's premium monthly contribution rate to be paid by the funds specified under paragraph (a)2. of this subsection according to the criteria established in paragraphs (a) to (e) of this subsection. Each state-administered retirement system shall pay annually to the insurance trust fund established under KRS 61.701 the portion of the system's cost of the retiree's monthly contribution for single coverage for hospital and medical insurance plan which shall be equal to the percentage of the member's number of months of service in the other state-administered retirement plan divided by his or her total combined service and in conjunction with the reciprocal agreement established between the system and the other state-administered retirement systems. The amounts paid by the other state-administered retirement plans and by the Kentucky Retirement Systems from funds specified under paragraph (a)2. of this subsection shall not be more than one hundred percent (100%) of the monthly contribution adopted by the respective boards of trustees;

2. A member may not elect coverage for hospital and medical benefits through more than one (1) of the state-administered retirement systems; and

3. A state-administered retirement system shall not pay any portion of a member's monthly contribution for medical insurance unless the member is a recipient or annuitant of the plan.

(5) Premiums paid for hospital and medical insurance coverage procured under authority of this section shall be exempt from any premium tax which might otherwise be required under KRS Chapter 136. The payment of premiums by the funds described by subsection (4)(a)2. of this section shall not constitute taxable income to an insured recipient. No commission shall be paid for hospital and medical insurance procured under authority of this section.

(6)(a) The board shall promulgate an administrative regulation to establish a medical insurance reimbursement plan to provide reimbursement for hospital and medical insurance plan premiums of recipients of a retirement allowance who:

1. Are not eligible for the same level of hospital and medical benefits as recipients living in Kentucky and having the same Medicare hospital and medical insurance eligibility status; or

2. Are eligible for retiree health subsidies as provided by subsection (4)(d) of this section, except for those recipients eligible for full premium subsidies under subsection (4)(e)5. of this section. The reimbursement program as provided by this subparagraph shall be available to the recipient regardless of the hospital and medical insurance plans offered by the systems.

(b) An eligible recipient shall file proof of payment for hospital and medical insurance plan coverage with the retirement office. Reimbursement to eligible recipients shall be made on a quarterly basis. The recipient shall be eligible for reimbursement of substantiated medical insurance premiums for an amount not to exceed the total monthly contribution rate determined under subsection (4) of this section.

(c) For purposes of recipients described by paragraph (a)1. of this subsection, the plan shall not be made available if all recipients are eligible for the same coverage as recipients living in Kentucky.

Legislative Research Commission Notes.

(7/14/2022). This statute was amended by 2022 Ky. Acts chs. 152 and 216, which do not appear to be in conflict and have been codified together.

(7/14/2022). 2022 Ky. Acts ch. 152, sec. 4, provides that the amendments made to subsection (6) of this statute shall be applicable for retiree health plans offered to recipients on or after January 1, 2023.

(4/1/2021). This statute was repealed and reenacted with all new language in 2021 Ky. Acts ch. 102, sec. 73 and amended in 2021 Ky. Acts ch. 106, sec. 4. The repeal and reenactment prevails over the amendment under KRS 446.260.

(4/13/2018). This statute was amended in 2018 Ky. Acts ch. 151, sec. 6. Section 8 of that Act reads as follows:

"Notwithstanding KRS 16.505 to 16.652, 61.510 to 61.705, 78.510 to 78.852, 161.220 to 161.716, or any provision of Sections 1 to 7 of this Act to the contrary, the Kentucky Retirement Systems shall provide the following benefit adjustments to surviving spouses and dependent children of those members who died prior to the effective date of this Act [April 13, 2018] and whose death was determined by the systems to be a direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in subsection (19) of Section 1 of this Act [KRS 16.505] or whose death resulted from a duty-related injury as defined in Section 5 of this Act [KRS 61.621]:

(1) In the month following the effective date of this Act [April 13, 2018], the surviving spouse, if the spouse is receiving a monthly benefit due to a member's death, shall have his or her monthly benefit increased to the amount specified by Section 2 or 5 of this Act [this statute or KRS 61.621], as applicable, except that the amount shall not be increased above a level that exceeds 100 percent of the member's monthly average pay when combined with any dependent child payments from the systems;

(2) In the month following the effective date of this Act [April 13, 2018], any dependent child who is receiving a monthly benefit due to a member's death shall have his or her monthly benefit increased to the amount specified by Section 2 or 5 of this Act [this statute or KRS 61.621], as applicable, if the member was not married at the time of death;

(3) In the month following the effective date of this Act [April 13, 2018], a surviving spouse who was married to the deceased member at the time of death but who was ineligible for monthly benefits payable to the surviving spouse under KRS 16.601 as codified prior to the effective date of this Act [April 13, 2018], shall receive the monthly benefit payable to the surviving spouse in Section 2 of this Act [this statute], provided the member's death occurred on or after January 1, 2017; and

(4) In the month following the effective date of this Act [April 13, 2018], any surviving spouse and any dependent child of a deceased member who is receiving a monthly benefit shall be eligible for the health benefits specified by Section 6 of this Act [KRS 61.702].

The provisions of this section shall only be construed to provide benefit adjustments to surviving spouses and dependent children of those members who died prior to the effective date of this Act [April 13, 2018] and only in situations where the member's death was determined by the systems to be the direct result of an act in line of duty as defined in subsection (19) of Section 1 of this Act [KRS 16.505] or resulted from a duty-related injury as defined in Section 5 of this Act [KRS 61.621]."

(6/27/2008). 2008 (1st Extra. Sess.) Ky. Acts ch. 1, sec. 43, provides "Notwithstanding any provision of KRS 61.565 or 61.702 to the contrary, the employer contribution rates for the County Employees Retirement Systems (sic) from July 1, 2008, through June 30, 2009, shall be 13.5 percent, consisting of 7.76 percent for pension and 5.74 percent for insurance, for nonhazardous duty employees; and 29.5 percent, consisting of 15.04 percent for pension and 14.46 percent for insurance, for hazardous duty employees."

61.703. Collection of benefit less than $1,000 by surviving relative.

(1) Upon the death of a member, retiree, or recipient who has an existing account or other benefit in a retirement system administered by the Kentucky Retirement Systems that totals no more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), the surviving spouse, or if none, a surviving child, or if none, a surviving parent, or if none, a surviving brother or sister, may without formal administration of the estate collect the account subject to the provisions of this section.

(2) The surviving spouse, child, parent, or brother or sister who makes demand for the deceased member, retiree, or recipient account shall file with the retirement office an affidavit stating that he or she is entitled to payment of the account. The affidavit shall conform to the requirements of the administrative regulation promulgated by the board.

(3) After having paid the account to the surviving spouse, child, parent, or brother or sister, the retirement system shall be discharged and held harmless to the same extent as if conducting business with a personal representative. The retirement system shall not be required to inquire into the truth or veracity of any statement made in the affidavit. In the event any person or entity establishes a superior right to the account, the surviving spouse, child, parent, or brother or sister, and not the retirement system or the Kentucky Public Pensions Authority, shall be answerable and accountable to any appointed personal representative for the estate.

61.705. Death benefit — Designation of beneficiary — Debt owed at death — Assignment of benefit.

(1) Upon the death of a retired member of the Kentucky Employees Retirement System or State Police Retirement System who was receiving a monthly retirement allowance based on a minimum of forty-eight (48) months of service or whose retirement allowance based on a minimum of forty-eight (48) months was suspended in accordance with KRS 61.637, a death benefit of five thousand dollars ($5,000) shall be paid. If the retired member had more than one (1) account in the Kentucky Employees Retirement System or State Police Retirement System, or was eligible for a benefit under KRS 78.5538 from the County Employees Retirement System, the systems shall pay only one (1) five thousand dollar ($5,000) death benefit. Each system's cost shall be prorated between the systems based upon the level of service credit in each system. Application for the death benefit made to the Kentucky Retirement Systems shall include acceptable evidence of death and of the eligibility of the applicant to act on the deceased retired member's behalf.

(2) The death benefit shall be paid to a beneficiary named by the retired member. Upon retirement or any time thereafter, the retired member may designate on the form prescribed by the board, death benefit designation, a person, the retired member's estate, a trust or trustee, or a licensed funeral home, as the beneficiary of the death benefit provided by this section or KRS 78.5538. The beneficiary for the death benefit may or may not be the same beneficiary designated in accordance with KRS 61.590(1) but only one (1) designation shall be available to a retired member who has service in both the County Employees Retirement System and the Kentucky Retirement Systems. If the beneficiary designated under this section is a person and that person dies prior to the member, or if the beneficiary was the retired member's spouse and they were divorced on the date of the retired member's death, then the retired member's estate shall become the beneficiary, unless the retired member has filed a subsequent death benefit designation. If a licensed funeral home is designated as beneficiary and the licensed funeral home cannot be reasonably identified or located by Kentucky Retirement Systems at the time of the retired member's death, then the retired member's estate shall become the beneficiary of the death benefit.

(3) If, at the time of the retired member's death, a debt to the Kentucky Retirement Systems remains on his or her account, the balance owed shall be deducted from the five thousand dollars ($5,000) death benefit.

(4) Upon the death of a retired member, the death benefit provided pursuant to this section may be assigned by the designated beneficiary to a bank or licensed funeral home.

Legislative Research Commission Notes.

(12/13/2018). On December 13, 2018, the Kentucky Supreme Court ruled that the passage of 2018 SB 151 (2018 Ky. Acts ch. 107), did not comply with the three-readings rule of Kentucky Constitution Section 46 and that the legislation is, therefore, constitutionally invalid and declared void. That ruling applies to changes made to this statute in that Act.

(6)(a) The Finance and Administration Cabinet shall separately account for each contribution, gift, or donation made to the trust fund and shall publish on its Web site a listing of each contribution, gift, or donation made and a cumulative total of the value of all contributions, gifts, or donations, including the cumulative total, since the creation of the fund, for each donor or association of donors or entities, other than those wishing to remain anonymous.

OPEN MEETINGS OF PUBLIC AGENCIES

61.800. Legislative statement of policy.

The General Assembly finds and declares that the basic policy of KRS 61.805 to 61.850 is that the formation of public policy is public business and shall not be conducted in secret and the exceptions provided for by KRS 61.810 or otherwise provided for by law shall be strictly construed.

History.

Enact. Acts 1992, ch. 162, § 1, effective July 14, 1992.

NOTES TO DECISIONS1. Coverage.

While the coverage of the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800, was broad enough to include a police captain's termination hearing, the police captain did not follow the procedures in KRS 61.846 and 61.848, and so was not entitled to relief. Howard v. City of Independence, 199 S.W.3d 741, 2005 Ky. App. LEXIS 230 (Ky. Ct. App. 2005), abrogated in part, Pearce v. Univ. of Louisville, 2011 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 998 (Ky. Ct. App. Nov. 18, 2011).

School board ran afoul of the Kentucky Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800 et. seq., when it negotiated the terms of a resignation and personal services contract with a superintendent for consulting services behind closed doors. Carter v. Smith, 2010 Ky. App. LEXIS 66 (Ky. Ct. App. Apr. 2, 2010), op. withdrawn, sub. op., 2010 Ky. App. LEXIS 117 (Ky. Ct. App. June 25, 2010).

County Board of Education's negotiation of a consulting contract with a superintendent as an independent contractor during a closed session violated the Kentucky Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800 et seq. Carter v. Smith, 2010 Ky. App. LEXIS 117 (Ky. Ct. App. June 25, 2010), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 366 S.W.3d 414, 2012 Ky. LEXIS 66 (Ky. 2012).

County Board of Education violated Kentucky's Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800- 61.850, by discussing in a closed session the resignation of the superintendent of schools and his appointment as a consultant to the school district. Neither the litigation exception in KRS 61.810(1)(c) nor the personnel exception in KRS 61.810(1)(f) applied; there was only a remote possibility of litigation, and the enumerated personnel topics did not include either an employee's resignation or a contractor's hiring. Carter v. Smith, 366 S.W.3d 414, 2012 Ky. LEXIS 66 (Ky. 2012).

City did not violate the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800 et seq., when it conducted settlement negotiations privately with the property owners regarding a zoning matter where the settlement agreement itself was voted on in an open meeting. Although the residents claimed that the private settlement negotiations violated that law, an exception in the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.810(1)(c), allowed discussion regarding proposed or pending litigation to be conducted privately so long as the final settlement agreement itself was voted on in an open meeting. Cunningham v. Whalen, 373 S.W.3d 438, 2012 Ky. LEXIS 109 (Ky. 2012), cert. denied, 568 U.S. 1158, 133 S. Ct. 1245, 185 L. Ed. 2d 179, 2013 U.S. LEXIS 1105 (U.S. 2013).

Litigation exception to open public meetings was not applicable to the school board's decision directing legal counsel to pursue a challenge to the petition to recall the board's nickel tax because it was a "final action" of the board to authorize litigation. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

Action of the school board at a closed meeting could not be ratified at the open public meeting because no vote was taken during an open session and because consensus was not established. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

General Assembly declared that all citizens have a direct interest in public agencies' compliance with the requirements of the Open Meetings Act, and the particularized injury arises from the agency's violation of the Act itself, not specifically from the action taken; the rights accorded under the Act are not merely procedural but also grant the public at large a direct interest in its enforcement, and in other words, the violation of the Act itself constitutes the direct and personal injury. Lincoln Trail Grain Growers Ass'n v. Meade Cty. Fiscal Court, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 89 (Ky. Ct. App. Aug. 6, 2021).

Trial court erred by dismissing a complaint for lack of standing because the Open Meetings Act permitted an association to recover attorney fees and costs, and the availability of the remedy met the redressability requirement for constitutional standing; because actions taken in violation of the Act were not void ab initio, third parties not involved in the allegedly unlawful conduct could be entitled to rely on the validity of the agreement executed by the county fiscal court and public board. Lincoln Trail Grain Growers Ass'n v. Meade Cty. Fiscal Court, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 89 (Ky. Ct. App. Aug. 6, 2021).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The interview and discussion portion of a parole release hearing with the prisoner are meetings open to the public, but the deliberations for decisions of the parole board may be conducted in closed sessions. The hearings conducted pursuant to subsection (5) of KRS 439.340 may be closed pursuant to a closure request by the persons having a right to appear at such hearings for reasons of personal security. OAG 92-146.

The litigation exception of subdivision (1)(c) of KRS 61.810, like other exceptions to the basic policy of open and public meetings, must be narrowly construed; it cannot be invoked when the agency does nothing more than monitor cases which have not been filed against or on behalf of the public agency attempting to utilize the exception. OAG 93-OMD-119.

When university board of regents was considering an appointment or several appointments to a presidential search committee the appointees were not employees of the university or the board but were persons filling positions on an entity created by the board and their temporary existence would end when their task was complete; the board was not appointing, at that time, a university employee, the university president and thus the board incorrectly relied on KRS 61.810(1)(f) to close an otherwise public meeting to discuss the appointment of persons to the search committee. OAG 97-OMD-80.

Public agency violated the Open Meetings Act when it invoked the exceptions set forth in KRS 61.810(1)(f) and gave as its reasons the intent to discuss individual personnel matters or specific employee matters. Since the only personnel matters which can be discussed in a closed session pertain to the possible appointment, discipline, or dismissal of personnel of that particular agency, the public agency should have indicated which of those particular authorized exceptions it was utilizing and why the session was being closed (which frequently involves privacy considerations). OAG 97-OMD-110.

1. Legislative Intent.

Clearly, the intent of the legislature in enacting the Open Meetings Act was to ensure that the people of the Commonwealth are given advance notice of meetings conducted by public agencies. E.W. Scripps Co. v. Maysville, 790 S.W.2d 450, 1990 Ky. App. LEXIS 71 (Ky. Ct. App. 1990).

2. Executive Sessions.

Public bodies may discuss proposed or pending litigation with their counsel in executive session. Fiscal Court of Jefferson County v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 554 S.W.2d 72, 1977 Ky. LEXIS 480 (Ky. 1977).

3. Injunctive Relief.

Injunction directing members of fiscal court to obey the Kentucky Open Meetings Act was both overbroad and vague and, thus, erroneously granted. Fiscal Court of Jefferson County v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 554 S.W.2d 72, 1977 Ky. LEXIS 480 (Ky. 1977).

Injunction was proper under KRS 61.848 — even without a showing that petitioners had no adequate remedy at law — when a school board violated the Open Meeting Law by discussing a personnel reorganization plan in closed “executive” meetings; the preparation-for-litigation exception would not apply to mere discussion of whether dismissed administrators might sue the board. Also, the board failed to adhere to KRS 61.815, which requires that, before going into a closed session, a public body must state the exact exception it relies on to go into a closed meeting. Floyd County Bd. of Educ. v. Ratliff, 955 S.W.2d 921, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 145 (Ky. 1997).

Action of the school board at a closed meeting could not be ratified at the open public meeting because no vote was taken during an open session and because consensus was not established. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

4. Violations.

Closed meetings of the fiscal court which were held at a luncheon at a boat club and thereafter on a boat to discuss the continuing effort of the county police to have the fraternal order of police recognized as their bargaining agent, the operation of the park and recreation department and the Belle of Louisville, and the potential acquisition of an island were illegal under the Kentucky Open Meetings Law. Fiscal Court of Jefferson County v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 554 S.W.2d 72, 1977 Ky. LEXIS 480 (Ky. 1977).

Closed meeting of fiscal court with county attorney to discuss draft of a proposed county ordinance prepared by the county attorney which would permit electioneering near the polls was illegal under the Kentucky Open Meetings Law; however, discussion at meeting of the implied threat of legal action by organized political group was not illegal. Fiscal Court of Jefferson County v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 554 S.W.2d 72, 1977 Ky. LEXIS 480 (Ky. 1977).

Telephone votes of fiscal court which promoted and set the salary of a county employee and which approved the lease by the county of real estate for use of the social services department are void under the Kentucky Open Meetings Law. Fiscal Court of Jefferson County v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 554 S.W.2d 72, 1977 Ky. LEXIS 480 (Ky. 1977).

Fiscal court considering zoning plan violated the Open Meetings Act when it improperly considered the record of a previous zoning request; therefore, the proceedings were sufficiently prejudicial to void the action of the fiscal court. Ridenour v. Jessamine County Fiscal Court, 842 S.W.2d 532, 1992 Ky. App. LEXIS 202 (Ky. Ct. App. 1992).

Adoption of a dress code by a middle school did not violate the Kentucky Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.805 et seq.; the council minutes stated that a second reading of the dress code was conducted and the minutes recorded the action taken, which was all that was required under KRS 61.835. Further, adoption of the dress code by “consensus” was an “action taken” within the meaning of KRS 61.805(3). Blau v. Fort Thomas Pub. Sch. Dist., 401 F.3d 381, 2005 FED App. 0058P, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 1969 (6th Cir. Ky. 2005).

5. Local Ordinances and Resolutions.

“Resolution” as used in this section refers to an action of a municipal legislative body such as the resolutions referred to in KRS 83.090(3) (now repealed), KRS 84.100(2), (3) (now repealed), KRS 85.110(3) (now repealed); it is not intended to include resolutions of another public agency but refers to local ordinances and resolutions used interchangeably. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co. v. University of Louisville Bd. of Trustees, 596 S.W.2d 374, 1979 Ky. App. LEXIS 524 (Ky. Ct. App. 1979).

6. University Foundations.

As long as the bylaws of the University of Louisville Foundation, Inc. provide for a membership of a quorum of the Board of Trustees of the University of Louisville, meetings of the University of Louisville Foundation, Inc. are subject to the Open Meetings Law. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co. v. University of Louisville Bd. of Trustees, 596 S.W.2d 374, 1979 Ky. App. LEXIS 524 (Ky. Ct. App. 1979).

7. Public Agency.

The State Board of Accountancy is not a quasi-judicial body excluded from the definition of “public agency” found in this section, since otherwise any administrative agency which occasionally held hearings on certain matters could exempt itself from the open meetings statutes and, moreover, there would be no need for the exception to the open meeting requirement found in KRS 61.810(6) (now (1)(f)), because any agency which held any disciplinary hearings would be quasi-judicial; accordingly, the board violated the open meeting laws by conducting its final deliberations on the question of whether to censure an accountant in a closed session. Stinson v. State Bd. of Accountancy, 625 S.W.2d 589, 1981 Ky. App. LEXIS 304 (Ky. Ct. App. 1981).

A public agency is any agency which is created by statute, executive order, local ordinance or resolution or other legislative act, or any committee, ad hoc committee, subagency or advisory body of said public agency. Lexington Herald-Leader Co. v. University of Kentucky Presidential Search Committee, 732 S.W.2d 884, 1987 Ky. LEXIS 227 (Ky. 1987).

The Board of Trustees of the University of Kentucky was created by statute, so that the Presidential Search Committee, which was created by formal action of the Board of Trustees, was a public agency and therefore subject to the provisions of this section. Lexington Herald-Leader Co. v. University of Kentucky Presidential Search Committee, 732 S.W.2d 884, 1987 Ky. LEXIS 227 (Ky. 1987).

8. Meeting.

For a meeting to take place within the meaning of the Open Meetings Act, public business must be discussed or action must be taken by the agency. Yeoman v. Commonwealth Health Policy Bd., 983 S.W.2d 459, 1998 Ky. LEXIS 140 (Ky. 1998).

Kentucky Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.805 et seq., does not impose upon government agencies the requirement to conduct business only in the most convenient locations at the most convenient times. Knox County v. Hammons, 129 S.W.3d 839, 2004 Ky. LEXIS 74 (Ky. 2004).

While the coverage of the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800, was broad enough to include a police captain’s termination hearing, the police captain did not follow the procedures in KRS 61.846 and 61.848, and so was not entitled to relief. Howard v. City of Independence, 199 S.W.3d 741, 2005 Ky. App. LEXIS 230 (Ky. Ct. App. 2005), abrogated in part, Pearce v. Univ. of Louisville, 2011 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 998 (Ky. Ct. App. Nov. 18, 2011).

Action of the school board at a closed meeting could not be ratified at the open public meeting because no vote was taken during an open session and because consensus was not established. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

Litigation exception to open public meetings was not applicable to the school board’s decision directing legal counsel to pursue a challenge to the petition to recall the board’s nickel tax because it was a “final action” of the board to authorize litigation. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

9. Action Taken.

Vote was not rendered unnecessary at the school board meeting under KRS 61.805 because it was not possible to determine if a consensus or collective decision was made. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

Court of appeals properly found that the exception to open meetings related to the acquisition of real property did not apply because a board of commissioners went into closed session to discuss its intention to bid on real property offered for sale pursuant to an absolute auction, an auction without reserve; the board’s post-auction approvals, while public, were window-dressing because the city was already compelled to complete the purchase or answer a complaint for specific performance. Bd. of Comm’rs of Danville v. Advocate Commun., 527 S.W.3d 803, 2017 Ky. LEXIS 501 (Ky. 2017).

The State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors was established by the Governor and performs a governmental function, and therefore it is a “public agency.” OAG 74-497.

The Personnel Board created by KRS 18.160 (now repealed) is exempt from the Open Meeting Law as it is primarily a quasi-judicial body and not a “public agency” within the definition in subsection (2) of this section. OAG 74-605.

An in-office meeting of school staff and employees is not covered by KRS 61.805 to 61.991 and, while the school board is an administrative body created by statute and is covered by the Open Meetings Law, this does not mean that the board may not attend a school staff meeting in the role of guests or observers as long as the meeting does not in any way become a board meeting. OAG 75-125.

The meetings of the citizens advisory subcommittee on legislative compensation should be open to the public under KRS 61.805 to 61.991 as the Legislative Research Commission and the interim committees that operate under its auspices are not to be considered a part of the General Assembly and not entitled to any exemption from the Open Meetings Law. OAG 75-142.

The fiscal court is a public agency and any private session it holds is illegal unless the meeting comes within the exceptions to the open meetings provision in KRS 61.810. OAG 75-280.

A community mental health board established by a non-profit corporation is not a public agency and thus the meetings of an organization operated by said board, such as comprehensive care centers, are not subject to KRS 61.805 to 61.850. OAG 75-402.

Community mental health boards organized pursuant to KRS 210.380 to govern the management of regional mental health programs are public agencies and the meetings of any organizations which are operated by said boards, such as comprehensive care centers, are subject to the Open Meetings Law. OAG 75-402.

A private or voluntary association is not a "public agency" and since the citizen's advisory committee was not created pursuant to any statute, ordinance or executive order it does not come under the jurisdiction of the open meetings law and, if the membership votes to do so, the association may legally exclude the news media from its meetings. OAG 75-501.

A coroner may, in his discretion, close inquest proceedings to the public as an inquest is a quasi-judicial function and thus not a public agency. OAG 76-37.

The practice of a school board in scheduling a meeting at a given time and then all the members showing up forty-five (45) minutes early and holding a little private session in the back room of which meeting the press is neither notified, nor admitted to is contrary to the spirit and the letter of the Open Meetings Law for which a person attending such meeting could be punished as provided in KRS 61.991. OAG 76-378.

Since KRS 61.870(1) contains a different definition of a public agency than this section, in that it includes "any other body which is created by state or local authority in any branch of government or which derives at least twenty-five percent (25%) of its funds from state or local authority" some organizations which are not under the purview of the Open Meetings Law may be under the purview of the Open Records Law. OAG 76-648.

A special district created when a group of public agencies combine together to carry out a special purpose is required to comply with the Open Meetings Law and the Open Records Law. OAG 76-663.

A decision by the city council of a fourth class city to authorize the mayor to request a grant of funds for the city could not be made by a poll of the members over the telephone, instead the action should be in the form of an ordinance or a resolution. OAG 77-302.

A hospital district created under KRS 216.310 to 216.360 is a public agency within the meaning of the Open Meetings Law, although the meetings of a board of a hospital district shall, of course, be allowed the subject matter exemptions in KRS 61.810. OAG 78-138.

There is nothing in the Open Meetings Law which prescribes divulging information about a closed meeting but if an agency has a provision in its bylaws or has adopted a rule to that effect, a person violating a bylaw or rule would be guilty of official misconduct in the first degree under KRS 522.020(1)(c) providing he divulged information with the intent to obtain or confer a benefit or to injure another person. OAG 78-182.

As a policymaking board of an institution of education and as a subagency of a public agency created pursuant to statute, the regular and special meetings of the board of control of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association are subject to the requirements of the Open Meetings Law. OAG 78-191.

Although the Kentucky Dental Association is assigned certain prerogatives by statute, it is a private professional association and not a public agency as defined by this section and, accordingly, is not subject to the Open Meetings Law. OAG 78-203.

The Harrison County Water Association, Inc., is a nonprofit, nonstock private corporation and as such it would not be subject to the Open Meetings Law, KRS 61.805 to 61.850; however, a water district organized under the provisions of KRS Chapter 74 is subject to the provisions of both the Open Meetings and Open Records laws since a water district organized under KRS 74.012 is not a private nonprofit corporation and is therefore a public agency. OAG 78-395.

All gatherings of a public agency, wherever held, and whether regular or special and whether formally convened or casual gatherings held in anticipation of or in conjunction with a regular or special meeting, where a quorum is present and any public business is discussed, are subject to all of the provisions of the Open Meetings Law, KRS 61.805 to 61.850 and 61.991. OAG 78-411.

The city-county planning and zoning commission, in voting at a meeting, has no authority to vote by secret ballot; since it is an open meeting, it must be conducted strictly out in the open in order that the public will know precisely how each member of that agency votes on public matters. OAG 78-488.

A committee created by formal action of a public agency is subject to the Open Meetings Law to the same extent that the agency itself is, and school boards are public agencies under the law, and therefore the committee formed by the school board is subject to the open meetings requirements. OAG 78-496.

One of the exceptions to the open meeting requirements is collective bargaining negotiations between public employers and their employees or their representatives, but where the board of education has not committed itself to recognize and bargain with the teacher's committee, the meetings cannot be called bargaining negotiations, and therefore they do not come under the exception to the Open Meetings Law. OAG 78-496.

A committee appointed by the superintendent of schools at the discretion of the board of education is a public agency within the meaning of the Open Meetings Law. OAG 78-571.

A public agency cannot conduct its business by telephone in lieu of an open meeting, moreover the deciding of policy matters by memorandum alone and simple acquiescence by the agency members could not be condoned but it cannot be said that the Frankfort electric and water plant board has committed any violation of the Open Meetings Law simply because its meetings are short. OAG 78-710.

The joint planning commission of Jessamine County-City of Wilmore improperly went into a closed session after its regular meeting for the purpose of adopting procedures for zoning map amendment, adoption of procedures for major subdivision plat applications, and approval of the expenditure of funds for preparation of the community's comprehensive plan, thus violating the Open Meetings Law. OAG 78-804.

A conference telephone call is a gathering or meeting within the statutory definition. OAG 78-808.

Where three (3) women not hired as firemen for a city of the third class filed a complaint of sex discrimination with the city human rights commission, a conference, held under KRS 344.200, designed to achieve conciliation, need not be meeting open to the public under KRS 61.805 to 61.850. OAG 79-412.

A port authority is clearly a "public agency" as defined in this section. OAG 79-512.

The meeting of four (4) councilmen, constituting a quorum of the six-man council, at which they discussed and decided how they would vote on a matter subsequently brought before the council at a regular meeting, constituted a public meeting open to the public and requiring public notice and specific notification in compliance with the Open Meetings Act. OAG 80-81.

A private nonprofit corporation is not subject to the Open Meetings Law under the definition of a "public agency" in subsection (2) of this section; a private corporation does not have the power to levy taxes, and even though it makes a contract with a tax levying authority to provide fire protection, it is not a public agency. OAG 80-292.

If a county school board's affirmative action advisory committee was created by formal action of the county board of education, then the committee is a public agency which is required to conduct its meetings according to the Open Meetings Law, KRS 61.805 to 61.850. OAG 80-398.

Telephone conversations among members of a port authority board prior to one of its regularly scheduled meetings did not violate the Open Meetings Law because the board accepted the resignation of the executive director and appointed an interim director in formal action at the regularly scheduled meeting; regardless, the accepting of a resignation and the appointment of an interim director were personnel matters which are exempt from the Open Meetings requirement by KRS 61.810(6) (now (1)(f)). OAG 80-426.

The board of trustees of the policemen's and fire fighters' pension fund in a city of the second class constitutes a "public agency," and the meetings of such a "public agency" are open to the public at all times unless the particular meeting in question comes within the exceptions to the "Open Meetings" Law. OAG 80-569.

Where newspaper reporter sought records of unrestricted expenditures of the University of Louisville Foundation, Inc. for certain years, it was improper for university custodian of records to deny inspection of records on the basis of a judicial determination that the foundation was not a public agency under this section and the Open Meetings Law since the request for the records and the response thereto was not made by or to the foundation but by the university which is a public agency under KRS 61.870 and the Open Records Law. OAG 81-2.

A nonprofit water corporation organized under KRS Chapter 273 which is not a water district and which has no rights and liabilities of a water district in its articles of incorporation is not a "public agency" pursuant to subsection (2) of this section and thus the attendance policies for who will be allowed to attend corporation meetings are governed by the corporation's bylaws rather than the Open Meetings Law. OAG 81-238.

The meetings of a county hospital board of a nonprofit corporation which operates the hospital are not subject to the Open Meetings Law, since a nonprofit corporation is not a public agency as defined in this section, even though the fiscal court is designated by the articles of incorporation to appoint the members of the board of directors. OAG 81-266.

A county hospital foundation, incorporated as a nonprofit corporation is not, as a nonprofit, nonstock private corpora-

A fire protection district or department existing pursuant to KRS Ch. 75 is a "type of municipal corporation," and is a public agency within the meaning of the "Open Meetings Act" and, thus, meetings of the board of trustees are open meetings and the board may only hold closed meetings or executive sessions under specifically enumerated conditions; however, even when an exception to the open meetings provision arises, such exceptions are permissive rather than mandatory and the board of trustees is not required to hold a closed session. OAG 82-182.

An appointment of a city councilman's family member to a nonelective office must be approved by the council at a regular or special meeting that is required to be open to the public under the Open Meetings Act; such person cannot be legally hired at a closed meeting. OAG 82-184.

Implementation of anticipated budget cuts in the Title I program was a general personnel matter which should not have been discussed in secret as long as the county board of education was discussing which positions to eliminate, if the issue was, for example, whether to eliminate social workers or music teachers or science teachers; on the other hand, if a decision had been reached to eliminate two (2) out of four (4) social worker positions and the question became which two (2) of the four (4) persons holding those positions would be dismissed, it then being necessary for the board to discuss qualifications and personalities, the board would have been justified in going into closed session for the purpose of that discussion. OAG 82-300.

When an administrative board which sometimes performs a quasi-judicial function is conducting a fact finding hearing, upon notice to the parties, wherein it will make a decision according to its discretion, it is performing a quasi-judicial function and the hearing must be open to the public as is required of courts. After the evidence has been received and arguments heard the commission can retire into closed session to deliberate and reach a decision. OAG 83-259.

The Kentucky Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission (KOSHRC) is an exclusively quasi-judicial body and is not subject to the Open Meetings Law; its hearings must be open to the public when it is receiving evidence but after a hearing it may deliberate in private as a jury would. OAG 83-259.

When a public agency, such as a city council, after giving notice to the parties, is conducting a fact-finding hearing which will affect the substantial rights of an individual and will render a decision based on its discretion, the agency is performing a quasi-judicial function. Hearings held by a city council regarding rezoning proposals are open to the public, as mandated in rezoning amendments by KRS 100.211; however, once arguments are heard and evidence received, the city council can then retire into closed session to deliberate and reach a decision. OAG 83-446.

The Fayette County Board of Education is a public agency subject to the Open Meetings Law pursuant to subdivision (2) of this section. OAG 83-455.

Where a land use regulation ordinance proposed an informal meeting between land developers and owners of adjacent property regarding site approval for land development projects, where it would be up to the assembled land developers and property owners to make any decisions or compromises and where no members of the county planning commission or the fiscal court were required or expected to attend, the meeting in the proposed ordinance was not subject to the Open Meetings Law as long as a quorum of either public agency was not present. OAG 84-45.

A county hospital board was a "public agency," as defined in subdivision (2) of this section; however, where a closed meeting of such board involved a substantial discussion of the suspension of a county hospital employee, such discussions brought it under the personnel discussion exception to open meetings stated in KRS 61.810(6) (now (1)(f)). OAG 84-46.

Where newspapers were prohibited from covering a closed hospital board meeting, but county judge/executive, who served on the board, also controlled one (1) newspaper, there was no impropriety on part of county judge/executive since his newspaper carried no mention of the discussions of the closed meeting. OAG 84-46.

Where city council was comprised of twelve (12) members, seven (7) members of the council constituted a quorum; consequently, where private meetings in the mayor's office were attended by six (6) and four (4) members, respectively, the absence of a quorum of council members in the mayor's office at each meeting rendered the Open Meetings Law inapplicable. OAG 84-49.

A planning and zoning commission was acting as a quasi-judicial body when it went into closed session to discuss and reach a decision following a public hearing on rezoning, held pursuant to KRS 100.211(1); accordingly, as a quasi-judicial body, the commission was not subject to and therefore did not violate the Open Meetings Law. OAG 84-162.

Private, nonprofit, nonstock corporations are not public agencies and are therefore not subject to the Open Meetings Law; thus, a nonprofit, nonstock corporation formed under KRS Ch. 273 for the purpose of local approval of loans for small businesses is not subject to the Open Meetings Law. OAG 84-186.

A nonprofit corporation which was formed pursuant to KRS Ch. 273 for the purpose of community development through making loans to small businesses, and which received no funds from state or local authority was not a public agency and thus was not subject to the Open Records or the Open Meetings laws. OAG 84-237.

A closed session meeting held by a city council following one (1) of its regular meetings, for the announced purpose of discussing burglary charges against certain resident teenagers, as well as discussing the public belief that these and other teenagers had been conducting cult rituals in the city, was an improper meeting since the topic of discussion did not fit any of the enumerated exceptions to the Open Meetings Law. OAG 84-317.

Advisory committee appointed by the superintendent of a county board of education, on his own initiative and without any formal direction by the board, was subject to the Open Meetings Act since committee was created by executive order; to the extent it conflicts with this opinion, OAG 78-571 is hereby modified. Where in the purchase of the recycling equipment the mayor and the executive department of the city were proceeding pursuant to authority conferred upon them by budget ordinance in the form of an appropriation by the city council and no meeting was held as none was required at the time, the provisions of the Open Meetings Act were not applicable. The mayor by authorizing phone calls to be made to council members concerning the recycling equipment, as the head of the executive branch of government, was merely advising and updating the legislative branch on the proceedings undertaken pursuant to the budget appropriation. OAG 92-OMD-1688.

City's response to complaint that meeting of city commissioners violated the Open Meetings Act with no citations or explanations, merely concluding that no meeting was held in violation of the Open Meetings Act and that if any violation occurred "it was purely accidental and unintentional" was completely unacceptable as a response or solution to a complaint alleging a violation of the Open Meetings Act. Where city council at a public meeting made a choice as to what particular architect it had selected, that decision constituted "action taken" pursuant to subsection (3) of this section and the public, including the media, was entitled to know at that specific point in time the nature of the action taken which in this situation would involve the name of the architect selected. OAG 94-OMD-127.

OAG 95-OMD-71.

A meeting of a group of public officials, officers, and employees from various governmental entities where none of those entities is represented by a quorum and where the group does not exist pursuant to statute, ordinance, order, resolution, or any act of any public agency does not constitute a meeting of a public agency governed by the terms and provisions of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 96-OMD-174.

On the basis of the evidence made available at this time, a nonprofit corporation providing mental health services to the community is not a public agency pursuant to subsection (2) of this section of the Open Meetings Act and thus not subject to the constraints on closed sessions of public meetings set forth in the Open Meetings Act. OAG 96-OMD-180.

The Workers' Compensation Advisory Council, which serves in an advisory capacity and makes recommendations to the Governor and the General Assembly on all matters relating to workers' compensation, is obviously a "public agency" for purposes of the applicability of the Open Meetings Act. 96-OMD-261.

The Housing Appeals Committee of Eastern Kentucky University is a public agency subject to the terms and provisions of the Open Meetings Act and its meetings are open to the public unless it can invoke an exception to open and public meetings; pursuant to KRS 61.810(1)(k) and 20 USCS, § 1232g, it may properly go into closed session to discuss student housing appeals. OAG 97-OMD-139.

While the Housing Appeals Committee of Eastern Kentucky University, a public agency, may properly go into closed session to discuss student housing appeals pursuant to KRS 61.810(1)(k) and is required to do so under 20 USCS, § 1232g, an eligible student, that is a student who is eighteen (18) or is attending an institution of postsecondary education, may waive his privacy rights under the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act by written consent, thus permitting public discussion of his housing appeal; however, if such appeal raises housing issues or evidence concerning other students, the Housing Committee would be bound by 20 USCS, § 1232g(b)(1) and thus required to conduct the hearing in closed session. OAG 97-OMD-139.

The Financial Aid Professional Judgment Committee is a public agency because its members act as a unit, authority has been officially delegated to it, specific matters are entrusted to it, and its responsibility is to consider, investigate, take action on, or report to a higher authority; it is therefore subject to the Open Meetings Act. OAG 98-OMD-142.

The Finance and Budget Committee of the Franklin County Fiscal Court is a public agency as defined in subsection (2)(g), and such conclusion is not altered by the fact that the committee does not have authority to take action. OAG 99-OMD-77.

A complaint that the outcome of a meeting was "greased," "rigged," or "rubber stamped" was not cognizable under the Open Meetings Act insofar as it does not state a violation of the provisions of KRS 61.805 to 61.850. OAG 99-OMD-183.

A county schools local facility planning committee was a public agency within the meaning of the statute. OAG 99-OMD-196.

The Telecommunications Board of Northern Kentucky was a public agency formed under the Interlocal Cooperation Act by Kenton and Boone counties, and cities located therein, and, therefore, was a public agency pursuant to subsection (2)(g). OAG 00-OMD-96.

A city council did not violate the Open Meetings Act by conducting a meeting, meetings, or series of less than quorum meetings for the purpose of discussing public business outside of the requirements of the Act and authoring a letter that was distributed to the media regarding their decision where the evidentiary record was insufficient to support the allegation that a meeting or meetings occurred and, even if the evidentiary record supported this allegation, the record did not support the claim that a single meeting was conducted where a quorum was present, or that a series of less than quorum meetings was conducted where the members attending one (1) or more of the meetings collectively constituted at least a quorum. OAG 00-OMD-2.

The evidence was insufficient to support a claim that a county industrial development authority committed specific violations at meetings pertaining to certain real property, where the complainant alleged only that the meetings were improperly held sessions of the authority. OAG 00-OMD-109.

A meeting of seven (7) Kentucky Department of Education employees, four (4) contractor representatives, and one (1) employee of the Office of Education Accountability did not constitute a meeting of a public agency within the statute. OAG 00-OMD-141.

The Kentucky Bourbon Festival, Inc., a private non-profit corporation formed for the purpose of "directing the celebration and annual promotion of all facets of the Bourbon Industry," is not a public agency as defined in KRS 61.805(2), and is not bound by the requirements of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 01-OMD-34.

The Board of Directors of the Assistance Center Fund, Inc. does not meet the criteria of KRS 61.805(2)(f) in that only four of the eight Directors are appointed by a public agency. Four appointed directors would not constitute a majority of the governing body. Thus, the Assistance Center Fund, Inc. is not a "public agency" under KRS 61.805(2)(f) or any other of the subsections of KRS 61.805(2). OAG 02-OMD-87.

An absent member cannot be counted as part of a quorum, and, by logical extension, an absent member cannot vote although he or she may be constructively present by audio connection. The statute only permits video teleconferencing. OAG 02-OMD-206.

Where five (5) of the six (6) newly sworn council members participated in a meeting at the mayor's office in which the mayor distributed a memorandum of city business, even though the mayor's comments were succinct, unilateral, and not delivered for the purpose of inviting discussion or debate, and that there was no action taken, there was nevertheless a meeting which was not properly noticed pursuant to the Act. OAG 03-OMD-22.

The Kuttawa Relocation Foundation, Inc., formed as a private non-profit corporation "to aid in the plans of the city of Kuttawa for relocations which were made necessary by the construction of Barkley Dam and the formation of Lake Barkley," is not a public agency as defined in KRS 61.805(2), and is not bound by the requirements of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 03-OMD-27.

A violation of the Open Meetings Act occurred when a quorum of the members of the SBDM met in the office between the 4:30 work session and the 5:30 special meeting for the purpose of discussing potential applicants for employment, notwithstanding the fact that those in attendance made no collective decision or promise to make a positive or negative decision or took an actual vote. OAG 03-OMD-192.

A private, non-profit corporation may be a public agency for purposes of the Open Records Act, though it is not a public agency for purposes of the Open Meetings Act; this dichotomy arises from the differences in the definition of "public agency" found in each of the Acts. The definition of "public agency" which appears at KRS 61.805(2) does not include "any body which derives at least twenty-five percent (25%) of its funds expended by it in the Commonwealth of Kentucky from state or local authority funds." OAG 04-OMD-02.

The Case Review Committee of the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy is a public agency for purposes of the Open Meetings Act; the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy is a public agency within the meaning of KRS 61.805(2)(a), and any committee established, created, and controlled by it is a public agency pursuant to KRS 61.805(2)(g). OAG 04-OMD-148.

The faculty of the Lincoln County High School is not a public agency for open meetings purposes, and the faculty did not violate the Open Meetings Act by failing to provide notice of its February 25 meeting. OAG 04-OMD-230.

Since the Master Plan Review Committee was established, created, and controlled by the City Council, the Committee is a public agency as defined at KRS 61.805(2)(g), and meetings of the committee are required to conform to the requirements of the Open Meetings Act. This conclusion is not altered by the fact that the committee is not empowered to take action but instead operates in an advisory capacity. By its express language KRS 61.805(2)(g) applies to advisory committees established, created, and controlled by a public agency. OAG 05-OMD-117.

A committee formed by the City Council consisting of members of the council and the public to review a zoning ordinance, consider possible amendments and present to the City Council a proposed text amendment at the next regular meeting, was "established, created and controlled" by the City, a public agency; thus, the committee is a public agency pursuant to KRS 61.805(2)(g). It does not matter that there is not a quorum of council members on the committee. OAG 06-OMD-068.

Insofar as the Reorganization Subcommittee, standing alone, constitutes a public agency for purposes of the Open Meetings Act, the total composition of the Subcommittee itself, rather than the total composition of the District Board, is used in determining whether a quorum of the Subcommittee was present. If a quorum of the Subcommittee comes together to discuss public business, a meeting occurs. Such meetings must be open to the public unless one of the exceptions codified at KRS 61.810(1) is properly invoked. This conclusion is not altered by the fact that the Subcommittee does not have authority to take action. OAG 06-OMD-211.

When viewed in conjunction, KRS 61.805(2)(e) and the mandatory language of KRS 311A.055 remove any doubt as to whether the Board is properly characterized as a public agency in this context. Insofar as the Review Board, standing alone, constitutes a public agency for purposes of the Open Meetings Act, the attorney general considers the total composition of the Board itself, rather than the total composition of the KBEMS, in determining whether a quorum of the Board was present on the date in question. OAG 06-OMD-262.

61.810. Exceptions to open meetings.

(1) All meetings of a quorum of the members of any public agency at which any public business is discussed or at which any action is taken by the agency, shall be public meetings, open to the public at all times, except for the following:

(a) Deliberations for decisions of the Kentucky Parole Board;

(b) Deliberations on the future acquisition or sale of real property by a public agency, but only when publicity would be likely to affect the value of a specific piece of property to be acquired for public use or sold by a public agency;

(c) Discussions of proposed or pending litigation against or on behalf of the public agency;

(d) Grand and petit jury sessions;

(e) Collective bargaining negotiations between public employers and their employees or their representatives;

(f) Discussions or hearings which might lead to the appointment, discipline, or dismissal of an individual employee, member, or student without restricting that employee's, member's, or student's right to a public hearing if requested. This exception shall not be interpreted to permit discussion of general personnel matters in secret;

(g) Discussions between a public agency and a representative of a business entity and discussions concerning a specific proposal, if open discussions would jeopardize the siting, retention, expansion, or upgrading of the business;

(h) State and local cabinet meetings and executive cabinet meetings;

(i) Committees of the General Assembly other than standing committees;

(j) Deliberations of judicial or quasi-judicial bodies regarding individual adjudications or appointments, at which neither the person involved, his representatives, nor any other individual not a member of the agency's governing body or staff is present, but not including any meetings of planning commissions, zoning commissions, or boards of adjustment;

(k) Meetings which federal or state law specifically require to be conducted in privacy;

(l) Meetings which the Constitution provides shall be held in secret;

(m) That portion of a meeting devoted to a discussion of a specific public record exempted from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(m). However, that portion of any public agency meeting shall not be closed to a member of the Kentucky General Assembly; and

(n) Meetings of any selection committee, evaluation committee, or other similar group established under KRS Chapter 45A or 56 or other state or local law, to select a successful bidder for award of a state or local contract.

(2) Any series of less than quorum meetings, where the members attending one (1) or more of the meetings collectively constitute at least a quorum of the members of the public agency and where the meetings are held for the purpose of avoiding the requirements of subsection (1) of this section, shall be subject to the requirements of subsection (1) of this section. Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prohibit discussions between individual members where the purpose of the discussions is to educate the members on specific issues.

(3/16/2005). The Office of the Kentucky Attorney General requested that amendments in 2005 Ky. Acts ch. 93, sec. 1, to the arrangement of the paragraphs of subsection (1) of this section be changed. The change was requested “in the interest of preventing confusion to the public and public agencies” and was made by the Statute Reviser under the authority of KRS 7.136.

1. Acquisition or Sale of Property.

Notice given in open meeting preparatory to closed session that the closed meeting would be held to discuss “property and negotiations” was not sufficient compliance with the requirement of notice of subsection (1) of KRS 61.815 for the term “property” fails to reveal whether it is real or personal, for purchase or for sale or whether publicity would affect its value. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

In order to fully comply with subsection (2) of this section and KRS 61.815(1) notice of the county board of education of the business intended to be discussed in a closed session should contain information that the board of education intends to conduct an executive session for the purpose of discussing the sale or acquisition of real property and that the reason for privacy is due to the fact that publicity at the deliberation stage might be likely to affect the value instead of merely saying that the business to be discussed was “property and negotiations.” Jefferson County Board of Education v.

Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

Court of appeals properly found that the exception to open meetings related to the acquisition of real property did not apply because a board of commissioners went into closed session to discuss its intention to bid on real property offered for sale pursuant to an absolute auction, an auction without reserve; the board’s post-auction approvals, while public, were window-dressing because the city was already compelled to complete the purchase or answer a complaint for specific performance. Bd. of Comm’rs of Danville v. Advocate Communs., 527 S.W.3d 803, 2017 Ky. LEXIS 501 (Ky. 2017).

2. Proposed or Pending Litigation.

There is no requirement in the Open Meetings Law that the county board of education and its governing body give notice of an executive session in order to confer with their attorneys concerning proposed or pending litigation, for this matter is expressly excluded by the terms of this section and moreover involves the attorney-client relationship. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

Where a planning commission explained it was going into closed session, the minutes reflected the discussion concerning litigation, motions to authorize the litigation were made in open meetings, and there was no record of anyone requesting to address the commission or voice concern about the commission’s actions, there was no evidence that the owners were prejudiced by a planning commission’s failure to state a specific provision of KRS 61.810(1)(c), 61.815(1) when it went into closed session. Chandler v. Bullitt County Joint Planning Comm’n, 125 S.W.3d 851, 2002 Ky. App. LEXIS 2358 (Ky. Ct. App. 2002).

Exception to the mootness doctrine for cases that were capable of repetition, yet evading review was not applied on appeal when a county government’s declaratory judgment action against a newspaper asking for closed council meetings under the litigation exception to the Open Meetings Act was dismissed as moot because the county government did not show that a similarly-situated party would be subject to the same action again. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Gov’t v. Lexhl, L.P., 315 S.W.3d 331, 2009 Ky. App. LEXIS 218 (Ky. Ct. App. 2009).

City did not violate the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800 et seq., when it conducted settlement negotiations privately with the property owners regarding a zoning matter where the settlement agreement itself was voted on in an open meeting. Although the residents claimed that the private settlement negotiations violated that law, an exception in the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.810(1)(c), allowed discussion regarding proposed or pending litigation to be conducted privately so long as the final settlement agreement itself was voted on in an open meeting. Cunningham v. Whalen, 373 S.W.3d 438, 2012 Ky. LEXIS 109 (Ky. 2012), cert. denied, 568 U.S. 1158, 133 S. Ct. 1245, 185 L. Ed. 2d 179, 2013 U.S. LEXIS 1105 (U.S. 2013).

Litigation exception to open public meetings was not applicable to the school board’s decision directing legal counsel to pursue a challenge to the petition to recall the board’s nickel tax because it was a “final action” of the board to authorize litigation. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

3. Collective Bargaining Negotiations.

Whenever a public agency is formulating its demands or position preparatory to collective bargaining negotiations, either by way of deliberation or instructions to its advocates, such type of sessions are within the purview of subsection (5) (now (e)) of this section and thus such meetings of a public agency may be in closed session. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

A report by an associate superintendent on the status of a proposed contract between the county board of education and two (2) teachers' associations and a recommendation to the board that negotiations should take place did not come under the exception of subsection (5) (now (e)) of this section so as to permit such discussion to take place in a closed meeting. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

The collective bargaining negotiations referred to in subsection (5) (now (e)) of this section means the settling of disputes by negotiation between employer and the representatives of the employees and does not embrace reports or status briefings on the labor negotiations. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

4. Discipline Hearings.

The hearing and the board's decision based on the evidence are separate phases of the termination proceeding, and the school board's power to reach its decision in closed session is preserved by this section despite the requirement of KRS 161.790 that the hearing be public. Bell v. Board of Education, 557 S.W.2d 433, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 836 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977); Carter v. Craig, 574 S.W.2d 352, 1978 Ky. App. LEXIS 626 (Ky. Ct. App. 1978).

A discussion by a county board of education concerning the termination of the expenditure of funds on an educational television station operated by the county board of education and the attendant potential dismissal of all the employees of such station dealt only with a general personnel matter and therefore did not come under the exemption of subsection (6) (now (f)) of this section as an exemption to the requirement of the Open Meetings Law that all meetings be public meetings. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

Nothing in subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section permits a public agency to condition an employee's right to a public hearing upon written or timely notice. Reed v. Richmond, 582 S.W.2d 651, 1979 Ky. App. LEXIS 417 (Ky. Ct. App. 1979).

Where disciplinary action was brought against the chief of police and eight officers, pursuant to KRS 95.450, at a session closed to the public despite the accused's request for an open hearing pursuant to subsection (6) (now (f)) of this section, and with neither a motion for a closed meeting nor announcement of it at an open meeting, in violation of KRS 61.815, the action taken must be voided and a new hearing held. Reed v. Richmond, 582 S.W.2d 651, 1979 Ky. App. LEXIS 417 (Ky. Ct. App. 1979).

The vote of the board of education to demote a school principal need not be held in public. Miller v. Board of Educ., 610 S.W.2d 935, 1980 Ky. App. LEXIS 414 (Ky. Ct. App. 1980).

The State Board of Accountancy is not a quasi-judicial body excluded from the definition of "public agency" found in KRS 61.805, since otherwise any administrative agency which occasionally held hearings on certain matters could exempt itself from the open meetings statutes and, moreover, there would be no need for the exception to the open meeting requirement found in subsection (6) (now (f)) of this section, because any agency which held any disciplinary hearings would be quasi-judicial; accordingly, the Board violated the open meeting laws by conducting its final deliberations on the question of whether to censure an accountant in a closed session. Stinson v. State Bd. of Accountancy, 625 S.W.2d 589, 1981 Ky. App. LEXIS 304 (Ky. Ct. App. 1981).

While the coverage of the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800, was broad enough to include a police captain's termination hearing, the police captain did not follow the procedures in KRS 61.846 and 61.848, and so was not entitled to relief. Howard v. City of Independence, 199 S.W.3d 741, 2005 Ky.

App. LEXIS 230 (Ky. Ct. App. 2005), abrogated in part, Pearce v. Univ. of Louisville, 2011 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 998 (Ky. Ct. App. Nov. 18, 2011).

5. Personnel Matters.

Where a university board of trustees, during its July 18, 1977, meeting, closed said meeting to consider the election of one (1) of two (2) individual members to the position of chairman of the board of trustees, the meeting was a properly closed session. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co. v. University of Louisville Bd. of Trustees, 596 S.W.2d 374, 1979 Ky. App. LEXIS 524 (Ky. Ct. App. 1979).

The Presidential Search Committee created by the Board of Trustees of the University of Kentucky was not excepted from declaring public meetings when discussing the appointment of a president. Lexington Herald-Leader Co. v. University of Kentucky Presidential Search Committee, 732 S.W.2d 884, 1987 Ky. LEXIS 227 (Ky. 1987).

Although a quorum of the commissioners may have discussed the issue among themselves at a gathering other than a regular meeting, the trial court specifically found that no secret meetings were held in violation of the Open Meetings Act, where the entire matter concerning the salaries was publicly aired in the press and broadcast media, and there was testimony at trial that the police officers, themselves and through counsel, engaged in discussions with the commissioners regarding the reduction of their salaries. Beckham v. Bowling Green, 743 S.W.2d 858, 1987 Ky. App. LEXIS 603 (Ky. Ct. App. 1987).

Injunction was proper under KRS 61.848 — even without a showing that petitioners had no adequate remedy at law — when a school board violated the Open Meeting Law by discussing a personnel reorganization plan in closed "executive" meetings; the preparation-for-litigation exception would not apply to mere discussion of whether dismissed administrators might sue the board. Also, the board failed to adhere to KRS 61.815, which requires that, before going into a closed session, a public body must state the exact exception it relies on to go into a closed meeting. Floyd County Bd. of Educ. v. Ratliff, 955 S.W.2d 921, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 145 (Ky. 1997).

County Board of Education violated Kentucky's Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800-61.850, by discussing in a closed session the resignation of the superintendent of schools and his appointment as a consultant to the school district. Neither the litigation exception in KRS 61.810(1)(c) nor the personnel exception in KRS 61.810(1)(f) applied; there was only a remote possibility of litigation, and the enumerated personnel topics did not include either an employee's resignation or a contractor's hiring. Carter v. Smith, 366 S.W.3d 414, 2012 Ky. LEXIS 66 (Ky. 2012).

6. University Foundations.

As long as the bylaws of the University of Louisville Foundation, Inc. provide for a membership of a quorum of the Board of Trustees of the University of Louisville, meetings of the University of Louisville Foundation, Inc. are subject to the Open Meetings Law. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co. v. University of Louisville Bd. of Trustees, 596 S.W.2d 374, 1979 Ky. App. LEXIS 524 (Ky. Ct. App. 1979).

7. Absence of a Quorum.

In the absence of a quorum of board of adjustment members, the Open Meetings Act was not applicable to the private review of a taped public meeting by a committee of two (2) board members, an administrative employee, and legal counsel for the purpose of preparing amended findings pursuant to Circuit Court order. Bourbon County Bd. of Adjustment v. Currans, 873 S.W.2d 836, 1994 Ky. App. LEXIS 36 (Ky. Ct. App. 1994).

8. Evidence of Meeting.

The mere fact that a quorum of members of a public agency are in the same place at the same time, without more, is not sufficient to sustain a claim of a violation of the Open Meetings Act. Yeoman v. Commonwealth Health Policy Bd., 983 S.W.2d 459, 1998 Ky. LEXIS 140 (Ky. 1998).

9. Consequences of Failure to Comply.

Because a closed session in a meeting of a county board of education was not justified by any of the statutory exceptions in KRS 61.810, substantial compliance could not be found under KRS 61.848. There cannot be substantial compliance when an agency entirely fails to comply with the law by entering a closed session to which none of the exceptions apply. Carter v. Smith, 366 S.W.3d 414, 2012 Ky. LEXIS 66 (Ky. 2012).

Trial court properly exercised its authority to void the action of the school board directing legal counsel to pursue litigation because the board did not substantially comply with the Open Meetings Act. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

10. Standing.

General Assembly declared that all citizens have a direct interest in public agencies' compliance with the requirements of the Open Meetings Act, and the particularized injury arises from the agency's violation of the Act itself, not specifically from the action taken; the rights accorded under the Act are not merely procedural but also grant the public at large a direct interest in its enforcement, and in other words, the violation of the Act itself constitutes the direct and personal injury. Lincoln Trail Grain Growers Ass'n v. Meade Cty. Fiscal Court, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 89 (Ky. Ct. App. Aug. 6, 2021).

Trial court erred by dismissing a complaint for lack of standing because the Open Meetings Act permitted an association to recover attorney fees and costs, and the availability of the remedy met the redressability requirement for constitutional standing; because actions taken in violation of the Act were not void ab initio, third parties not involved in the allegedly unlawful conduct could be entitled to rely on the validity of the agreement executed by the county fiscal court and public board. Lincoln Trail Grain Growers Ass'n v. Meade Cty. Fiscal Court, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 89 (Ky. Ct. App. Aug. 6, 2021).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The open meeting requirement applies to "work sessions" held by a board of education preceding a regular or special meeting. OAG 74-370.

A meeting to discuss and decide whether to negotiate with teacher's association on a collective bargaining agreement does not fit under the exception stated in subsection (5) (now (e)) of this section and thus should be a meeting open to the public. OAG 74-441.

A licensing board's meetings must be open to the public when considering an application for a license, but meetings may be closed to the public when considering complaints against a licensee unless the licensee demands a public hearing. OAG 74-497.

If a representative of an industrial prospect is present at a meeting of the Kentucky Industrial Development Finance Authority to discuss a proposed project, that portion of the meeting in which the project is discussed by the board and the industrial prospect may be legally closed to the public under subsection (7) (now (g)) of this section. OAG 74-523 (opinion prior to 1992 amendment).

Not all meetings of the Kentucky Industrial Development Finance Authority are exempt from the provision of the Open Meetings Law but only such meetings as precisely fit one or more of the exceptions. OAG 74-523.

"Public agency" does not include a chamber of commerce under the generally accepted definition of that kind of organization and, whether organized under KRS Chs. 102 or 273, the organization is not subject to the open meetings law. OAG 74-566.

Whether or not meetings of a student government association are open to the news media and the public may be decided by the organization which created the association or by the by-laws adopted by the association since it is a private association not covered by the Open Meetings Law. OAG 74-639.

Meetings of the State Fair Board to consider sealed preliminary hotel proposals submitted in response to the Board's invitation would be exempt under subsection (2) (now (b)) of this section but when final bids are opened the bidders and the public are entitled to know what they contain and to witness the deliberations of the Board as to which bid is to be accepted. OAG 74-665.

A complaint to the city council by a private citizen is not an exception to the Open Meetings Law and thus the city council should have either heard the complaint in a public hearing or requested that said complaint be put in writing and placed on the agenda for a future meeting rather than hearing said complaint in a closed session since the city council is a public agency and therefore subject to the requirements of KRS 61.805 to 61.850. OAG 75-3.

School board members may attend an in-office meeting of school staff and employees as guests or observers and the requirements of this section for an open meeting do not apply as long as the meeting in no way becomes a school board meeting. OAG 75-125.

The entire school board or any part thereof may participate in a professional negotiation session since this subject matter is expressly exempted from the open meetings requirement. OAG 75-125.

The citizens' advisory subcommittee on legislative compensation, an interim committee of the General Assembly, is a public agency. OAG 75-142.

The fiscal court is a public agency as defined in KRS 61.805 and any private session it holds is illegal unless the meeting comes within the exceptions to the open meetings provision in this section. OAG 75-280.

At a county board of education's special meeting, the discussion in closed session concerning the adoption of a regulation pertaining to payment of per diem allowances to board members was not within any exception to the requirement of open public meetings. OAG 75-299.

Where the procedure followed by members of a county board of education in discussing a regulation pertaining to a per diem allowance violated the requirement of open public meetings, the decision of the board would remain in effect in the absence of a court judgment declaring the action valid. OAG 75-299.

Meetings of the city board of commissioners dealing with the granting of individual salary increases to city employees must be open to the public since the subject matter of the meeting does not come within an exception to either this section or KRS 61.815. OAG 75-340.

An employee being given a hearing by a city civil service board under KRS 90.360 or 95.450 may compel the exclusion

The discussion and election of a new school board member, by the school board, upon resignation of one (1) of the board members should be in an open meeting. OAG 76-4.

Since the collective bargaining negotiations exception provided for in subsection (5) (now (e)) of this section applies only when a governmental agency is negotiating with an authorized union or association representing the employees when the terms of a contract are being discussed, a meeting of a board of commissioners in an executive session to discuss recommendations regarding salaries of police officers and a list of grievances between city employees and the city manager where no contractual relationship between the city or employees existed and where the city had not recognized any union or association of city employees such meeting did not come within the exception provided for in subsection (5) (now (e)) of this section. OAG 76-456.

Since public agency discussions concerning litigation are expressly exempted from the requirements of the Open Meetings Law under subsection (3) (now (c)) of this section, the prohibition of subsection (3) (now (c)) of KRS 61.815 does not apply to those discussions. OAG 76-643.

Since a county school board's consideration of the reappointment of the superintendent does not come under the exception provided by this section, documents presented at a board meeting by the superintendent in support of his candidacy for reappointment should be made available for public inspection. OAG 77-69.

Since it is not necessary that any discussion occur or any action be taken to bring a meeting under the open meetings requirement, a meeting of the county fiscal court for the sole purpose of receiving a briefing by staff members of the county planning commission should be open to the public. OAG 77-171.

The consideration by a board of education of the appointment of a superintendent may be conducted in a closed meeting, where such consideration includes personal interviews with candidates, but the final action of voting on whether to employ and appoint a particular candidate should take place in an open session. OAG 77-392.

Inasmuch as threats or intimidation are not included in the exceptions to the open meetings requirement, a board of zoning adjustment could not meet in closed session because of threatening phone calls. OAG 77-464.

A joint meeting of a city commission and the county magistrates to discuss setting ambulance service rates should be held in open session. OAG 77-529.

Any person who a board of education believes can contribute information or advice on the subject matter under discussion may be invited into a closed executive session but he should remain only so long as is necessary to make his contribution to the discussion. OAG 77-560.

Since a condemnation suit is litigation and therefore a proper subject for a closed session, a county board of education could go into executive session to discuss the acquisition of a tract of land. OAG 77-577.

As long as no final action is taken, a public agency may meet in closed session to discuss the appointment of employees. OAG 77-758.

It is permissible for a public agency to hold a closed meeting on the subject of personnel matters; however, this does not include the election of officers. OAG 78-176.

The legislative intent of the exception to the closed meeting requirement of the statute is to assure the agency's right to keep its litigation strategy confidential when necessary. OAG 78-227.

The procedure for closed sessions does not have to be followed when the subject of the meeting is pending litigation against or on behalf of a public agency and it does not make any difference what the subject of the litigation is. OAG 78-227.

The open meetings exception of subsection (5) (now (e)) of this section has been broadened by judicial interpretation in the case of Jefferson County Bd. of Educ. v. Courier Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. App. 1955) to allow a public agency which is formulating its demands or position preparatory to collective bargaining negotiations either by way of deliberations or instructions to its advocate to be held in closed session. OAG 78-371.

The reasons for which a closed session may be held by a public agency are set forth in this section and do not include the negotiation of a franchise or any such matter as the rate to be charged for TV cable service. OAG 78-469.

When a quorum of the river development commission attends a meeting which is convened by an authority or association other than the commission, such a meeting is not a meeting of a quorum of the commission within the meaning of this section, rather it is only when the commission itself by the direction of the chairman or some of its members convenes the meeting that the Open Meetings Law comes into play. OAG 78-634.

A student is entitled to an orderly hearing, either closed or open, as the student desires, at which he must be given full opportunity to give his or her side of the story before the board and to produce either oral testimony or written affidavits of witnesses in his or her behalf, and the opportunity should be given to cross-examine witnesses. OAG 78-673.

Discussion regarding suspension of a local superintendent may be held in closed session by the state board. OAG 79-394.

"Financial problems" are not a legal subject of a closed session. OAG 79-516.

If a school board discovers that, either deliberately or inadvertently, it has dealt with a matter in closed session which is not authorized under the law, it should take corrective action by acting on the same matter again in an open meeting to demonstrate its good faith in complying with the Open Meetings Law before the matter is adjudicated. OAG 79-516.

If a school board proposes to go into closed session to discuss "a personnel problem," a motion should be made and passed in open session to go into closed session to discuss a personnel problem involving a particular employee or employees; it is not necessary to name the employee or employees to be discussed. OAG 79-516.

Subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section allows a closed session for discussions or hearings which might lead to the appointment, discipline or dismissal of an individual employee, but not to discussions of general personnel questions involving all employees or a group of employees and does not apply to the business of fixing salaries or the financial matters before the school board. OAG 79-516.

The meeting of four (4) councilmen, constituting a quorum of the six-man council, at which they discussed and decided how they would vote on a matter subsequently brought before the council at a regular meeting, constituted a public meeting open to the public and requiring public notice and specific notification in compliance with the Open Meetings Act. OAG 80-81.

Where a county board of education was considering applicants for the office of superintendent of schools and had been conducting interviews with applicants in closed session, there was no violation of the Open Meetings Law in the proposal of the board to have a select committee sit with it in closed session and take an active part in the interviews and discussions. OAG 80-247.

Telephone conversations among members of a port authority board prior to one of its regularly scheduled meetings did not violate the Open Meetings Law because the board accepted the resignation of the executive director and appointed an interim director in formal action at the regularly scheduled meeting; regardless, the accepting of a resignation and the appointment of an interim director were personnel matters which are exempt from the Open Meetings requirement by paragraph (6) (now (f)) of this section. OAG 80-426.

Confidentiality per se is not the purpose of paragraphs (2) (now (b)) and (7) (now (g)) of this section but, rather, confidentiality is only permissible when the public interest will be directly affected financially. OAG 80-530.

The exception provided by paragraph (7) (now (g)) of this section applies only in a case where a representative of an industrial prospect is present at a meeting with the governing body of a public agency; the meeting must be between the public agency and the industrial prospect. OAG 80-530.

Where an agency is discussing whether it will buy or sell a specific piece of property and the discussion, if made public, would affect the purchase or sale price of that property or other property to be bought or sold on the same project, the agency may discuss the matter in a closed session. OAG 80-530.

An urban county airport board is a public agency and all of its papers are public records under KRS 61.870. OAG 80-586.

Paragraph (6) (now (f)) of this section which provides an exception to the Open Meetings Law allowing hearings on personnel matters to be held in closed session, has no pertinence as to whether documents concerning the dismissal of five (5) employees should be made available for public inspection; in denying inspection of a public record a public agency must rely on one (1) of the exceptions provided in the Open Records Law, KRS 61.878(1). OAG 80-586.

Where a disciplinary hearing about a particular student in a public school is held, the hearing is exempt from the formalities of going into a closed session under subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section or the necessity of taking final action in an open session according to the procedure set forth in KRS 61.815. OAG 81-135.

A board of education cannot meet in closed session to discuss either the acquisition or transfer of real estate resulting from one school district ceasing to exist and transferring its assets and liabilities to another district, since no public property is being bought or sold, and the merger will not affect the value of the property being transferred to the surviving school district; thus the exemption under subdivision (2) (now (b)) of this section would not apply. OAG 81-136.

A board of education cannot meet in closed session to discuss items related to a merger with another board of education since the merger of school districts is not one (1) of the five (5) subject matter exemptions under this section. OAG 81-136.

A board of education cannot meet in closed session to discuss personnel issues created by a move for the consolidation of two (2) school districts when those issues relate to a group of employees affected by a disagreement surrounding the terms of a merger, since subdivision (6) (now (b)) of this section cannot be interpreted to permit discussion of general personnel matters in secret. OAG 81-136.

When a closed session of a school board is held as authorized by this section, minutes of the closed session should be made, but the board, in its discretion, may require the minutes to be sealed and withheld from public inspection and such minutes will not be part of the regular minutes of the meeting required by subsection (2) of KRS 160.270. OAG 81-235.

A county hospital, as a public agency, is not permitted by any exception to this section to discuss the annual audit of its books in a closed session, unless the audit revealed a mishandling of funds leading in turn to a discussion of personnel matters involving named personnel, which would come under subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section. OAG 81-343.

A city commission hearing held to evaluate the city manager's performance for the past two (2) years can properly be held in closed session pursuant to subsection (6) (now (f)) of this section since the discussions held might lead to some personnel action. OAG 81-413.

A closed session can be held on a personnel matter without formal charges being made against the person who is the subject of the session and such a discussion can be either preliminary to deciding whether to reject the idea of disciplinary dismissal action or preliminary to a decision to make formal charges and hold another hearing. OAG 81-413.

A county fiscal court work session dealing with the preparation of the county budget and attended by a quorum of the fiscal court is an open meeting as defined in KRS 61.805 and this section. OAG 82-91.

The Open Meetings Law permits the holding of a meeting by telephone conference call by the State Board of Education on the subject of the expulsion of a student of one of the schools of which the State Board has the direct oversight in disciplinary matters and the news media should be notified, at least twenty-four (24) hours in advance, that the meeting by conference telephone is to be held on disciplinary matters and will be closed to the public; however, this opinion is confined to the following circumstances: (1) the State Board of Education meets regularly only every two (2) months and the membership of the Board may reside anywhere within the boundaries of the commonwealth; (2) by regulation there has been established an appeal procedure utilizing hearing officers to review disciplinary cases where expulsion may be ordered; (3) the hearing officer shall hear proof, oral arguments and/or may request written briefs and shall make findings of fact, conclusions of law and recommendations to the State Board, and the State Board is required to make a final determination of the case within thirty (30) days; (4) before the appeal procedure is begun the student has been provided a due process hearing at the local level; (5) the role of the State Board of Education on expulsion appeals is to review the record made up under the presiding of the hearing officer and to approve or disapprove the hearing officer's recommendation. OAG 82-179.

The State Board of Education may meet in closed session to act on a recommendation of a hearing officer on the expulsion of a student without any preliminary action in an open meeting and may take final action on the matter in a closed session. OAG 82-179.

Implementation of anticipated budget cuts in the Title I program was a general personnel matter which should not have been discussed in secret as long as the county board of education was discussing which positions to eliminate, if the issue was, for example, whether to eliminate social workers or music teachers or science teachers; on the other hand, if a decision had been reached to eliminate two (2) out of four (4) social worker positions and the question became which two (2) of the four (4) persons holding those positions would be dismissed, it then being necessary for the board to discuss qualifications and personalities, the board would have been justified in going into closed session for the purpose of that discussion. OAG 82-300.

Advisory committees are not public agencies under the Open Meetings Law. OAG 82-331.

Committees which are created by legislative act of the city council are public agencies and are required to hold open meetings subject to the provisions of this section. OAG 82-331.

A meeting between two (2) school districts to discuss the matter of a mutual contract agreement, whereby students residing within the boundaries of one district could attend school in the other district, concerned the placement of over 400 students which would affect the employment and assignment of professional personnel in the two (2) school districts; this issue was a general personnel matter which did not involve the reputation of individual persons and therefore did not come within the exemption of subsection (6) (now (f)) of this section and, thus, such meeting could not be held in secret. OAG 82-566.

Except when the Personnel Board is deliberating a decision on a particular case involving an individual, or discussing a matter which is exempt under this section, its meetings are required to be open to the public under the provisions of KRS 18A.070(3). OAG 83-20.

The Personnel Board may go into closed session at the time of its deliberation on recommended orders submitted by hearing officers and/or board members, or to deliberate after it has received evidence in an open hearing, by following the procedure set forth in KRS 61.815. The Personnel Board is authorized to conduct such closed sessions for the purpose of deliberation under subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section; however, no final action by vote may be taken on such matter in the closed session. OAG 83-20.

It was permissible for the fiscal court to allow the members of the board of directors of a nursing home to attend a closed session to discuss the possible sale of the nursing home; on the other hand, it was not proper to allow the representatives of some prospective buyers of the property to attend the closed session since there could well be other prospective buyers and the consideration of the sale of public property should not be limited to negotiations with a limited number of prospective purchasers. OAG 83-61.

While the presence and the input of the representatives of the prospective buyers of nursing home may have influenced the decision of the fiscal court not to sell the property and may have been in the public interest, the Open Meetings Law does not permit this type of closed negotiations to decide whether the property is surplus to public purpose and whether it should be sold or retained in the public interest. OAG 83-61.

A newspaper reporter has the same standing as any other citizen and a reporter cannot be barred from a meeting unless all other nonparticipants in the meeting are also barred. OAG 83-102.

Under this section, whenever a quorum of the members of any public agency meet and discuss any public business the meeting is a public meeting as defined in the Open Meetings Law; thus, where the entire county board of education called itself a "committee" and added several other people to the "committee" before conducting a private session with representatives of the county education association, the school board was required to comply with the Open Meetings Law. OAG 83-102.

Where a proposed meeting between the Special Commission on Youth Residential Facilities and employees of the Department for Social Services would involve discussions with employees as to their job performance and the performance of their colleagues, where reputations would be involved and where this type of investigation might lead to the disciplining or dismissal of employees, it could be held in closed session. OAG 83-127.

An electric and water plant board's stated proposal to discuss "personnel matters" at a closed session was a sufficient notice and reason given under KRS 61.815(1). OAG 83-377.

The discussion of a salary increase by an electric and water plant board for its general manager in closed session was violative of the Open Meetings Law. OAG 83-377.

Before going into closed session notice must be given by the board of education in a regular open meeting of the general nature of the business to be discussed in the closed session and a motion must be made and carried by majority vote to go into closed session. It is sufficient if the notice and motion to go into closed session simply states that the purpose of the session is to discuss personnel matters affecting certain individuals; the names of the individuals do not have to be stated in the notice and motion. OAG 83-379.

Discussion by a city board of aldermen of "an ordinance ratifying and approving the collective bargaining agreement between the city and the fraternal order of police" would not be exempt from the open meetings requirement; the topic indicates that the dispute had been settled and the collective bargaining negotiations completed. Since the meeting was held to discuss ratification and approval of the agreement instead of negotiations between employers and employees, it was not exempt from open meetings under subdivision (5) (now (e)) of this section. OAG 83-389.

A metropolitan sewer district (MSD) cannot discuss in closed session whether to accept the resignation of an individual MSD official. Subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section provides for closed session only to discuss appointment, discipline, or dismissal of an individual in order to protect his reputation; any other personnel matters are prohibited as subjects for closed meetings pursuant to subdivision (6) (now (f)) as they constitute discussion of general personnel matters in secret. OAG 83-415, modifying OAG 80-246.

When a public agency, such as a city council, after giving notice to the parties, is conducting a fact-finding hearing which will affect the substantial rights of an individual and will render a decision based on its discretion, the agency is performing a quasi-judicial function. Hearings held by a city council regarding rezoning proposals are open to the public, as mandated in rezoning amendments by KRS 100.211; however, once arguments are heard and evidence received, the city council can then retire into closed session to deliberate and reach a decision. OAG 83-446.

The board is only required to announce the general nature of the business to be discussed in the closed session; no particular candidate need be named in the announcement of a closed session to discuss appointment of a new superintendent, as that would subvert the intent of subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section. OAG 83-455.

Discussion by county board of education about selection inquiries and qualification suggestions concerning appointment of a new superintendent of schools was not exempted from open session by subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section since no individual was involved to whom reputational damage might occur; accordingly, board acted improperly in discussing such matters in closed session and subsequently taking action, in open session, to direct inquiries and suggestions concerning the appointment to a certain person. OAG 83-455.

Where a school board heard evidence in an open meeting regarding the proposed expulsion of a student and then properly went into closed session pursuant to subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section in order to deliberate, the school superintendent's presence at the closed session was improper where the superintendent had represented the school board in a quasi-attorney role throughout the open session. OAG 83-488.

Although subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section allows closed sessions to discuss appointment, discipline, or dismissal of an individual employee it is designed to protect the reputation of individual persons and should not be interpreted to permit discussion of general personnel matters in secret; in other words, discussion in closed session is specifically limited to discussions pertaining to the appointment, discipline, or dismissal of a specific individual. Accordingly, the Morehead State University Board of Regents erred when they went into closed session and merely discussed the selection process for a new president rather than specific individual candidates. OAG 83-489.

Where a land use regulation ordinance proposed an informal meeting between land developers and owners of adjacent property regarding site approval for land development projects, where it would be up to the assembled land developers and property owners to make any decisions or compromises and where no members of the county planning commission or the fiscal court were required or expected to attend, the meeting in the proposed ordinance was not subject to the Open Meetings Law as long as a quorum of either public agency was not present. OAG 84-45.

A county hospital board was a "public agency," as defined in KRS 61.805(2); however, where a closed meeting of such board involved a substantial discussion of the suspension of a county hospital employee, such discussions brought it under the personnel discussion exception to open meetings stated in subdivision (6) (now (f)) of this section. OAG 84-46.

Where newspapers were prohibited from covering a closed hospital board meeting, but county judge/executive, who served on the board, also controlled one newspaper, there was no impropriety on part of county judge/executive since his newspaper carried no mention of the discussions of the closed meeting. OAG 84-46.

The city council of a third-class city is a public agency pursuant to KRS 61.805(2) and is thus subject to the Open Meetings Law; however, the Open Meetings Law only applies when a quorum of the public agency meets to discuss public business. OAG 84-49.

Where city council was comprised of twelve members, seven members of the council constituted a quorum; consequently, where private meetings in the mayor's office were attended by six (6) and four (4) members, respectively, the absence of a quorum of council members in the mayor's office at each meeting rendered the Open Meetings Law inapplicable. OAG 84-49.

Where one of the magistrates of fiscal court filed a suit against county to prevent the performance of contract with hospital corporation, the fiscal court could meet in closed session to discuss various pertinent aspects of the hospital contract and the pending litigation and the magistrate who brought the suit against the county could be excluded from the closed session while the contract and the suit were subjects of discussion and action. OAG 84-234.

Where a cable authority announced at an open meeting that it was going into closed session to discuss possible litigation brought against the authority by a cable service company over the regulation of cable rates, the nature of the closed session was proper and the notice of the session was sufficient; also, the authority properly limited discussion during the closed session to the topic of litigation with the cable company. OAG 84-240.

City council improperly closed meeting after the affected individuals requested that the meeting remain open; the council, pursuant to subsection (6) (now (f)) of this section should have honored that request. OAG 84-302.

A closed session meeting held by a city council following one (1) of its regular meetings, for the announced purpose of discussing burglary charges against certain resident teenagers, as well as discussing the public belief that these and other teenagers had been conducting cult rituals in the city, was an improper meeting since the topic of discussion did not fit any of the enumerated exceptions to the Open Meetings Law. OAG 84-317.

Advisory committee appointed by the superintendent of a county board of education, on his own initiative and without any formal direction by the board, was subject to the Open Meetings Act since committee was created by executive order; to the extent it conflicts with the opinion, OAG 78-571 is hereby modified. OAG 89-25.

The Buckley Amendment cannot be invoked to close an otherwise public meeting of a public agency, as that amendment is concerned with the release of the "educational records" of students and not with the holding of meetings of public agencies; in addition, the Buckley Amendment cannot be invoked to prohibit comment on or discussion of facts about a student learned independently of his school records; however, the Buckley Amendment can be invoked by the University of Louisville to prohibit the release of material, the source of which is a student's educational records. OAG 90-125.

Where meetings have not involved the appointment of specific persons by the University of Louisville or the discipline or dismissal of specific persons employed by or working or studying at the University, the assertion of subsection (6) (now (f)) of this section as the ground for closing a public meeting of a university committee is inapplicable and invalid. OAG 90-125.

Merely speculation about the possibility of litigation at some point in the future does not trigger the exception codified in subdivision (3) of this section. OAG 91-141.

In absence of a contract between the parties, discussions between the school board and a prospective school superintendent, involving his specific salary and the length of his contract, were subject to the exceptions to open meetings. OAG 91-144.

Since three (3) members of the Parole Board constitute a quorum concerning parole hearings (KRS 439.320(4)) any hearing conducted under KRS 439.340(2) by three (3) or more members of the Parole Board would be a public meeting of a public body and open to the public. Two (2) members of the Parole Board do not constitute a quorum and thus prior to the 1992 amendments to the Open Meetings Act, such a hearing would not be a public meeting of a public agency. However, the Open Meetings Act as amended in 1992, in KRS 61.810(2), deals with "less than quorum meetings." KRS 61.810(2) would prohibit the Parole Board from adopting a procedure whereby it utilizes two-person panels to conduct hearings and to prohibit public accessibility when panels of three (3) or more Parole Board members conducting the same kinds of hearings would be clearly open meetings open to the public. Thus, if the Parole Board utilizes two-person panels to conduct the hearings required by KRS 439.340(2) such hearings are open to the public. OAG 92-146.

The interview and discussion portion of a parole release hearing with the prisoner are meetings open to the public, but the deliberations for decisions of the parole board may be conducted in closed sessions. The hearings conducted pursuant to subsection (5) of KRS 439.340 may be closed pursuant to a closure request by the persons having a right to appear at such hearings for reasons of personal security. OAG 92-146.

University's board of regents did not forfeit its right to invoke the legitimate exceptions to the Open Meetings Act just because it violated the Open Meetings Law. The records reviewed by the board relative to the proposed budget which occurred during an improperly closed meeting, and all other records of a preliminary character, still enjoyed the protection of KRS 61.878(1)(i), independent of the Open Meetings issue, until final action was taken by the Board. OAG 92-ORD-1346.

A university's board of regents denial of a request for access to certain records which were generated in the course of a closed session conducted by the board of regents in its regular meeting was improper. The board of regents violated this section to the extent that its closed discussions focused on classes of, as opposed to specific, individuals. However, only those records which reflected discussions of classes of individuals were subject to inspection. OAG 92-ORD-1346.

City properly invoked the provisions of subsection (1)(c) of this section when it met in a closed session to discuss matters pertaining to ongoing litigation and person bringing objection to the closed session presented no evidence in this regard to contradict assertions that only matters pertaining to the litigation were discussed; moreover since the city council properly invoked the litigation exception and met in a closed session to discuss specific litigation involving the city, the city was not legally obligated to reveal what transpired at that closed session relative to its strategy, tactics, possible settlement and other matters pertaining to that particular case. OAG 92-OMD-1728.

Where unidentified person invited into the executive session at some point after city council had concluded its discussion relative to litigation involving the city was a paving contractor and the city was invoking the litigation exception to the Open Meetings Act in this matter because either the paving contractor or his attorney or both of them had threatened the city with litigation over work done by the paving contractor for the city, the city properly invoked the litigation exception because the threat of a lawsuit by the company against the city in such situation was more than a "remote" possibility of litigation involving the city. OAG 92-OMD-1728.

Where three (3) physicians met with hospital board during a closed session to discuss "an agreement" with the physicians and there was no evidence that the board was considering the physicians as possible employees of the public hospital subsection (1)(f) of this section would not authorize a public agency to conduct a closed session with persons not being considered for employment with the agency or to discuss the general subject of "an agreement" with those persons and since the services being rendered or to be rendered by a public hospital are a matter of public interest, subsection (1)(g) of this section would not justify the closing of the meeting relative to the matters concerning business opportunities. OAG 92-OMD-1735.

Where a draft of an ordinance was being prepared for discussion at an open and public meeting and the person preparing the draft merely sought comments and suggestions from the individual fiscal court members relative to the terms and provisions of that ordinance, there was no violation of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 93-OMD-20.

A public agency cannot go into a closed session to discuss personnel matters generally. The only personnel matters which can be discussed in a closed session by a public agency are those which might lead to the appointment, discipline or dismissal of personnel of that particular agency. Therefore, a committee created by the mayor violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into a closed session to discuss personnel matters other than those which might lead to the appointment, discipline or dismissal of municipal personnel. OAG 93-OMD-49.

City council violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into a closed session to discuss personnel matters other than those which might lead to the appointment, discipline or dismissal of municipal personnel. OAG 93-OMD-49.

The Board of Commissioners of hospital did not violate the Open Meetings Act when the Board went into a closed session to deliberate the proposed sale of the hospital building and the property on which it is located as the Board was of the opinion that publicity would likely affect the value of the property to be sold. OAG 93-OMD-56.

A meeting of House Members who had gathered for the purpose of obtaining information about the Governor's health care reform proposal was not a public meeting under the Open Meetings Act where a quorum was not present. OAG 93-OMD-63.

In order to utilize the exception in subsection (2) of this section it must be shown that the public agency is meeting with less than a quorum over a series of meetings to avoid the application of the provisions relating to open and public meetings. OAG 93-OMD-63.

The litigation exception of subdivision (1)(c) of this section, like other exceptions to the basic policy of open and public meetings, must be narrowly construed; it cannot be invoked when the agency does nothing more than monitor cases which have not been filed against or on behalf of the public agency attempting to utilize the exception. OAG 93-OMD-119.

Generally the discussion of cases in which a public agency is not a party or defendant must be conducted in open and public sessions; when a public agency has become a party plaintiff or defendant in a lawsuit, when a public agency has been threatened with litigation, or when the chance of litigation involving that agency is more than a remote possibility, the agency can then legally and properly invoke the exception set forth in subdivision (1)(c) of this section and can at that time discuss in closed session such matters as strategy, tactics, possible settlement and other matters pertaining to that case or that anticipated or probable case. OAG 93-OMD-119.

A public agency cannot invoke subdivision (1)(c) of this section to discuss, generally, in closed sessions, cases which have not been filed against or on behalf of that particular public agency; to the extent that such agency went into closed session merely to discuss litigation to which it was not a party, it was in violation of the Open Meetings Law but to the extent the session involved discussion of threatened litigation, the closed session was proper. OAG 93-OMD-119.

The House Democratic Caucus, an entity established by the Legislative Research Commission, does not qualify as a committee of the General Assembly; therefore, it is subject to the provisions of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 94-OMD-23.

Where negotiations and discussion with an employee of county planning and zoning commission did not involve the possible appointment, discipline, or dismissal of that person, the negotiations and discussions should not have taken place in a closed session — the exception in subdivision (1)(f) of this section was not applicable. OAG 94-OMD-63.

County planning and zoning commission properly went into a closed session pursuant to subdivision (1)(f) of this section to consider possible disciplinary charges against a commission employee. OAG 94-OMD-63.

Where the agenda for the special meeting listed as the only item a matter pertaining to a change or an addition to contracts, the city's committee violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into a closed session during that special meeting to discuss matters involving litigation. OAG 94-OMD-78.

City did not violate the Open Meetings Act merely because everyone at a particular board of aldermen meeting could not be admitted into the meeting room where the meeting was held in a facility which normally could accommodate all those desiring to attend and where the city offered to allow the overflow crowd to view the meeting from another room by television. OAG 94-ORD-87.

County board of education violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into a closed session to discuss the possibility of creating a new position with the school system. OAG 94-OMD-103.

Fiscal court violated the provisions of the Open Meetings Act when its members met individually or in small groups in a series of meetings with the county's industrial recruiter and persons from a private corporation relative to the possible location of that corporation in the county. While subdivision (1)(g) of this section could not be invoked to justify such meetings, that such subdivision could probably have been utilized at a properly called regular or special meeting of the fiscal court as a body to discuss the issue of a specific corporate entity locating in the county. OAG 94-OMD-106.

Municipal utility officials violated the Open Meetings Act as they improperly invoked the litigation exception to close a meeting to discuss cancellation of a contract. The fact that the company whose contract was to be terminated might file a bankruptcy petition in response to the contract cancellation did not justify the invoking of subdivision (1)(c) of this section. OAG 94-OMD-110.

“Industrial prospects” exception to open and public meetings under former subsection (7) of this section was repealed by the 1992 amendments to the Open Meetings Act (1992 Acts, ch. 162, HB 16) and replaced by subdivision (1)(g) of this section. Under the new provision a meeting between a city and a representative of a business entity or a meeting of the city commission pertaining to a specific proposal could only be closed if an open and public discussion would jeopardize, among other things, the locating of the business in the area. OAG 94-OMD-119.

Where business has already publicly announced at a ceremony attended by the Governor and other officials that it is locating in the area, city could not invoke subdivision (1)(g) of this section to close a meeting pertaining to discussions concerning that firm locating in the area. OAG 94-OMD-119.

A city may properly invoke subdivision (1)(f) of this section to go into a closed or executive session to discuss the possible dismissal of a particular employee. That specific section does not require that the affected employee be given notice of the discussion or an opportunity to attend that discussion. However, city was required to announce in the open and public portion of its meeting that it was invoking the provisions of subdivision (1)(f) of this section to go into a closed session to discuss the possible termination of a particular municipal employee. OAG 94-OMD-122.

Where city council at a public meeting made a choice as to what particular architect it had selected, that decision constituted “action taken” pursuant to KRS 61.805(3) and the public, including the media, was entitled to know at that specific point in time the nature of the action taken which in this situation would involve the name of the architect selected. OAG 94-OMD-127.

If a public agency is to utilize the exception set forth in subsection (1)(b) of this section, it must be involved in the sale or acquisition of real estate and any publicity relative to the matter would likely affect the value of the property to be sold or acquired, thus justifying a closed proceeding. OAG 95-OMD-57.

At the time of the closed council meeting, the purpose of which was to discuss the city’s obligations and liabilities relative to certain property and to discuss a Memorandum of Understanding executed between the urban county government and the Commonwealth involving that property, there was no indication that the urban county government was a party to litigation concerning the property involved, had been threatened by the Commonwealth with a law suit, or that litigation involving the urban county government and the specific property involved was more than a remote possibility; thus, the urban county government was precluded from relying upon subsections (1)(b) and (c) of this section’s litigation exception, to close an otherwise public meeting. OAG 95-OMD-57.

Where the stated purpose of a Revenue Commission meeting was to discuss the matter of whether or not a Revenue Commission employee would be retained, this subject matter was a proper subject for a closed session under KRS 61.810(1)(f); however, the closed session had to be limited to whether or not the Revenue Commission employee would be terminated, and matters such as the development or selection of a search procedure to fill the position were not proper subjects for a closed session, regardless of whether or not the Revenue Commission had complied with KRS 61.815(1)(d), by publicly announcing the matters to be discussed during the closed session. OAG 95-OMD-93.

The Open Meetings Act gives a municipal employee the right to an open and public hearing if the hearing has been scheduled by the municipal authorities concerning a termination proceeding and dismissal, but the Open Meetings Act does not require notice and a hearing if the city merely announces that it is going into a closed session to discuss the possible dismissal of a particular employee. OAG 95-OMD-93.

A quorum of the members of a public agency may attend a professional or social event, such as a convention, without violating the Open Meetings Act. OAG 95-OMD-136.

Attendance by a quorum of the members of the urban county council at a convention or conference organized by someone other than the council does not in and of itself constitute a meeting of the council within the meaning of this section. Council members attending such a convention or meeting are not authorized to take action affecting their city nor are they permitted to discuss matters directly affecting their city. OAG 95-OMD-136.

Where a complaint was filed as to the legality of the Workers’ Compensation Advisory Council adjourning into private caucuses meeting separately as business and labor interests, there could not be a definitive finding made by the Office of the Attorney General because the evidence was insufficient as to whether there was contemplated a “series of less than quorum meetings” or whether the purpose of these less than quorum gatherings was to avoid the requirements of the Open Meetings Act. If there were a series of less than quorum meetings and if those meetings were conducted for the purpose of avoiding the requirements of the Open Meetings Act, the Open Meetings Act would be violated. OAG 96-OMD-261.

When university board of regents was considering an appointment or several appointments to a presidential search committee the appointees were not employees of the university or the board but were persons filling positions on an entity created by the board and their temporary existence would end when their task was complete; the board was not appointing, at that time, a university employee, the university president and thus the board incorrectly relied on subsection (1)(f) of this section to close an otherwise public meeting to discuss the appointment of persons to the search committee. OAG 97-OMD-80.

Public agency violated the Open Meetings Act when it invoked the exceptions set forth in subsection (1)(f) of this section and gave as its reasons the intent to discuss individual personnel matters or specific employee matters. Since the only personnel matters which can be discussed in a closed session pertain to the possible appointment, discipline, or dismissal of personnel of that particular agency, the public agency should have indicated which of those particular authorized exceptions it was utilizing and why the session was being closed (which frequently involves privacy considerations). OAG 97-OMD-110.

Mayor and city council violated Open Meetings Act, specifically subsection (1)(f) of this section, when stated reason for going into open session was ‘discussion of personnel’; since the only personnel matters which can be discussed in a closed session pertain to the possible appointment, discipline, or dismissal of personnel of that particular agency, the public agency should have indicated which of those particular exceptions it was utilizing and why the session was being closed. OAG 97-OMD-124.

A public agency’s authority to go into closed session relative to personnel matters is severely restricted. General personnel matters cannot be discussed in a closed session; the only personnel matters which can be discussed in a closed session by a public agency are those which might lead to the appointment, discipline, or dismissal of personnel of that particular agency. OAG 97-OMD-124.

The Housing Appeals Committee of Eastern Kentucky University is a public agency subject to the terms and provisions of the Open Meetings Act and its meetings are open to the public unless it can invoke an exception to open and public meetings; pursuant to subsection (1)(k) of this section and 20 USCS, § 1232g, it may properly go into closed session to discuss student housing appeals. OAG 97-OMD-139.

While the Housing Appeals Committee of Eastern Kentucky University, a public agency, may properly go into closed session to discuss student housing appeals pursuant to subsection (1)(k) of this section and is required to do so under 20 USCS, § 1232g, an eligible student, that is a student who is 18 or is attending an institution of postsecondary education, may waive his privacy rights under the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act by written consent, thus permitting public discussion of his housing appeal; however, if such appeal raises housing issues or evidence concerning other students, the Housing Committee would be bound by 20 USCS, § 1232g(b)(1) and thus required to conduct the hearing in closed session. OAG 97-OMD-139.

In general, meetings of a quorum of the members of the Financial Aid Committee at which public business is discussed or at which action is taken must be open to the public at all times; however, the committee is authorized to go into closed session to discuss student financial aid appeals pursuant to subsection (1)(k) and 20 USCS § 1232, which restricts discussion of personally identifiable information in education records in a public meeting without a parent or eligible student's prior written consent. OAG 98-OMD-142.

A county regional airport board properly conducted an executive session to discuss proposed or pending litigation where, prior to the meeting, the board had received written notice from a group of pilots demanding reconsideration of parts of the fueling policy adopted by the board and giving notice of areas of the policy which would be contested in the absence of action on the issue. OAG 99-OMD-6.

An agency complies with the requirements of KRS 61.815(1)(a) and KRS 61.810(1)(f) by announcing, in open session, that pursuant to KRS 61.810(1)(f) it is going into closed session to discuss either the appointment, the discipline, or the dismissal of an employee or employees of the agency, indicating which of these particular actions is contemplated; however, the agency is not required to identify, by name, the employee or employees who will be discussed, nor is it restricted to a discussion of one individual employee at a time. OAG 99-OMD-49.

A planning and zoning task force violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into closed session to discuss personnel issues as the task force had no authority with regard to personnel issues. OAG 99-OMD-94.

Although it did not comply with the procedural requirements of the Open Meetings Act in responding to a complaint concerning a closed session, and although it initially relied on the wrong exceptions, a city council subsequently justified its actions on the basis of subsection (1)(g) where the closed session pertained to a sale and leaseback of real property. OAG 99-OMD-104.

A county school system violated the Open Meetings Act when it failed to give notice of a meeting of its local facility planning committee. OAG 99-OMD-117.

A closed session of a planning and zoning commission with regard to a controversial conditional use permit was not justified by the pending litigation exception, notwithstanding a statement that "this matter has been in litigation and inevitably will end up in litigation again." OAG 99-OMD-146.

A county fiscal court violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into closed session at a regular meeting in order to discuss the payment of an employee's claim for reimbursement of expenses as such did not constitute a personnel matter. OAG 99-OMD-221.

A county fiscal court violated the statute when a judge conducted a series of separate meetings with other individual members of the court to discuss newly received information regarding a jail site, even if no collective decision was reached through these meetings, as it was apparent that the matters discussed in the meetings influenced the court's ultimate decision in some manner and were, therefore, the public's business. OAG 00-OMD-63.

A city commission properly relied on subsection (1)(b) in conducting a closed session discussion of issues relating to the purchase of a building. OAG 00-OMD-64.

A county fiscal court violated the Open Meetings Act at a special meeting when it went into closed session to discuss personnel matters where the court's discussion in closed session apparently consisted of recommendations relating to a new job description and the hiring of a part-time employee, rather than the qualifications of an individual applicant, and the pros and cons of hiring him or her. OAG 00-OMD-86.

To the extent that a closed session discussion of a city commission went beyond a discussion of the personnel discipline issue, it was not authorized under subsection (1)(f) and constituted a violation of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 00-OMD-113.

A city council violated the Open Meetings Act when a quorum of its members conducted an informal discussion prior to a regular meeting while waiting for the courtroom in which the regular meeting was to be held to become available. OAG 00-OMD-114.

A city council properly relied on subsection (1)(b) in conducting a closed session discussion of issues relating to the purchase of the real estate that were likely to affect its value, and insufficient evidence existed to support the allegation that action was taken in the course of the closed session discussion. OAG 00-OMD-146.

A city council did not violate the statute when a quorum of the members met at a local restaurant following a regular meeting where those present stated under oath that they did not discuss public business. OAG 00-OMD-147.

A county fiscal court violated the Open Meetings Act by failing to establish that discussions in an executive session were authorized under the "pending litigation" exception and by failing to offer sufficient justification for the admission of a single media representative and the exclusion of all others, as well as the general public. OAG 00-OMD-219.

An inquiry by a board of ethics charged with enforcement of the code into allegations of code violations may be conducted in closed session if authorized under one of the exceptions to the general rule of openness for the public good under KRS 61.810(1)(f); such a closed session must conform in all particulars with the requirements of KRS 61.815(1)(a) through (d), including the requirement that no final action may be taken during the closed session. OAG 01-OMD-18.

Since a meeting takes place within the meaning of the Open Meetings Act if a quorum is present and public business is discussed or action is taken, the January 15 meeting of five (5) of the members of the fiscal court and the county judge to discuss the progress of renovations on the old post office building constituted a violation KRS 61.810(1) inasmuch as it was conducted without proper notice to the public. OAG 01-OMD-30.

A lawsuit need not be pending by or against a public agency before it can properly rely on KRS 61.810(1)(c) so long as there have been "direct suggestions of litigation conditioned on the occurrence or nonoccurrence of a specific event." Since it appears that the Planning Commission will be named as a party in the pending legal action, and/or will initiate legal action against the developer, if settlement is not reached, KRS 61.810(1)(c) authorized the closed session, and specific and complete notification of the topic to be discussed was given in open session. OAG 01-OMD-41.

The Hopkins County Fiscal Court violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into closed session pursuant to KRS 61.810(1)(b) and (g) at its February 14, 2001, special meeting "to discuss cost estimates for remodeling the old Post Office building” with an architect; the fiscal court’s reliance on the cited exceptions was misplaced. OAG 01-OMD-45.

The Taylor County Fiscal Court violated the Open Meetings Act by engaging in whispered discussions of the public’s business at its May 15 public meeting. Because a quorum of the members were present, and public business was being discussed, the meeting was required to be “open to the public at all times . . .,” and not interrupted by whispered discussions to which the public was effectively denied access. OAG 01-OMD-110.

Because the Meade County Fiscal Court is not named as a party defendant in the tort action against a deputy sheriff, it is therefore not entitled to invoke KRS 61.810(1)(c) for the purpose of conducting a closed session discussion of the case, regardless of whether that discussion focuses on appellate procedures, reasons for the verdict against the deputy sheriff, or avoidance of future liability. OAG 01-OMD-130.

The Martin County Fiscal Court violated the Open Meetings Act at its August 9, 2001, special meeting when it went into executive session to discuss the issue of seeking legal advice regarding a suit filed against it, since, although litigation has been initiated against the fiscal court, the closed session discussion was not “of proposed or pending litigation,” but of the need to hire legal counsel, and that even if the topic discussed fell within the parameters of KRS 61.810(1)(c), the presence of persons who were not members of the public agency in the closed session was inconsistent with the fiscal court’s invocation of the exemption. OAG 01-OMD-152.

Where the nonmember (the State Manager) was invited into the closed session “to provide his perspective on pending litigation especially the case on which authority to settle was granted,” since it was the State Manager who gathered all evidence available to the school district in defense of that civil action, and the State Manager who had the right pursuant to statute and written agreement with the school district to exercise veto power over actions of the board of education, his presence in the Floyd County Board of Education’s closed session was justified. OAG 01-OMD-181.

KRS 61.810(1)(g) applies to meetings between a public agency and a representative of a business entity, or a meeting of the agency to discuss a specific proposal, but in either case, only if open discussion could jeopardize the siting, retention, expansion, or upgrading of the business. Since neither of the conditions for invocation of this exemption were met when the Governor’s Council of Economic Advisors retired to executive session to discuss the “potential plans” of the companies they represent based on current economic conditions, the Council’s reliance on KRS 61.810(1)(g) was misplaced, and it violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into closed session at its November 6 meeting. OAG 01-OMD-227.

Although the applicants for the vacant instructor positions were already under contract with the Board of Education for their normal teaching jobs, the vacant positions were separate from the positions they held, no offer of employment had been made to any of the applicants to fill the vacant positions, and no contracts had been executed relative to the vacant positions. The closed session discussion therefore focused not on securing the employees continued employment by renegotiating the terms and conditions of their existing contracts, but on the comparative qualifications of the competing applicants for the purpose of selecting the best qualified to fill the vacant positions. This is, and has long been, recognized as an appropriate subject for closed session discussion under KRS 61.810(1)(f). OAG 02-OMD-21.

Where the Commission took the occasion of the closed session to permit the employee the opportunity to address the Commission members on the topic of her termination, if the employee had already been terminated by unilateral action of the Mayor under the authority vested in him by city ordinance, the closed session discussion could not have led to her dismissal, as required by KRS 61.810(1)(f), and was therefore improper. OAG 02-OMD-153.

Since KRS 61.810(2) prohibits all less than quorum meetings where the members attending one or more of the meetings collectively constitute at least a quorum, and not just those which culminate in a collective decision, the series of less than quorum discussions between the Mayor and the Commission members was a discussion of public business, a discussion of the various alternatives to a given issue about which the Commission had the option to take action, and not merely an update from the Mayor. OAG 02-OMD-153.

To the extent that the purchase of the real property could not be consummated until the offer on the table was approved by the council, acquisition of the property was prospective, or in the future, when the council conducted its May 16 closed session, pursuant to KRS 61.810(1)(b), to deliberate its various options. OAG 02-OMD-166.

Although the board could discuss the value assigned to particular properties in closed session under KRS 61.810(1)(b), with respect to the 48%-28% formula, however, the board adopted a general policy relating to all PDR participants and the public is completely in the dark as to why the policy was adopted. To the extent that the Board’s closed session discussions focused on the formula, as opposed to the formula applied to a particular property, it was improper. OAG 02-ORD-86.

Because the record is devoid of evidence that publicity was likely to affect the value of the ten (10) acres of real property owned by the Authority that are adjacent to the industrial park, and because confidentiality is only permissible when the public interest will be directly affected financially, the Authority’s reliance on KRS 61.810(1)(b) in holding a closed session was misplaced. OAG 03-OMD-47.

Since the primary focus of the meeting was which, if any, of the three (3) alternate proposals submitted by CHP to “change the member relationship between CHP and ODCH, or have either CHP or ODCH acquire the member interest of the other,” was most attractive, the dismissal of an individual employee was not the focus of the closed session discussion but was instead an unavoidable consequence which would flow from selection of two (2) of the three (3) proposals, and the employee’s reputational interest was implicated, if at all, only indirectly. Therefore, ODCH’s liberal construction of KRS 61.810(1)(f) in this context is not supported by the language of the exception. OAG 03-OMD-89.

Standing alone, a single telephone conversation between two members of a public agency cannot constitute a violation of the Open Meetings Act. Where, however, that telephonic meeting follows an earlier less than quorum meeting of the members of a public agency, and the members attending one or more of the meetings collectively constitute at least a quorum, that series of less than quorum meetings constitutes a violation of KRS 61.810(2) if the meetings are held for the purpose of avoiding the requirements of KRS 61.810(1). OAG 03-OMD-92.

Because discussions relating to the propriety of posting a position constitute general personnel matters, and because the Board had no authority to resolve that question, or questions relating to relieving an employee of extra duties, and because relieving an employee of extra duties cannot be equated with “discipline or dismissal,” the Board’s reliance on KRS 61.810(1)(f) was misplaced. OAG 03-OMD-148.

The Commission violated KRS 61.810(1) in that access to the meeting was temporarily blocked, albeit unintentionally, when the doors to the building were locked while the meeting was in session. OAG 03-OMD-169.

The private discussion between an attorney and a quorum of the members of the Spencer County Board of Education, during which he instructed the board members on the formal and procedural requirements of a hearing designed to provide due process to an individual whose employment status was at issue, constituted a violation of KRS 61.810(1). OAG 03-OMD-178.

The record supports the City's position that it was warranted in conducting a closed session to engage in mediation discussion of the possible settlement of the then pending litigation and thus, the mediation discussion fell squarely within the parameters of KRS 61.810(1)(c). OAG 03-OMD-234.

The protection afforded by KRS 61.810(1)(c) is broad enough to extend to closed session briefings by agency counsel on the strengths and weaknesses of a case, actual or threatened, based on legal precedent and in light of the status of current litigation. The fact that the actual or threatened litigation relates to an ordinance does not deprive the agency of the right to shield its litigation strategy from public scrutiny. OAG 04-OMD-39.

The record is devoid of evidence that a quorum of the members of the Smaller Learning Communities Committee met in advance of the scheduled meeting in contravention of KRS 61.810(1). Although public business, namely the freshman transition strategy, was discussed by four members of the twenty-four member committee, and a proposal formulated, no final decisions or commitments were made prior to consideration of the proposal by the full committee at its regularly scheduled meeting. OAG 04-OMD-73.

The record on appeal does not support the city's position that public discussion is likely to affect the value of the specific piece of property because the city already executed an option on the property and the price of that property has been agreed upon and will culminate in a sale, or no sale, based on studies which are underway. Moreover, the language of KRS 61.810(1)(b) does not support the city's position relative to the purchase or condemnation of another property; these alternate sites do not qualify as "a specific piece of property" within the meaning of KRS 61.810(1)(b). OAG 04-OMD-127.

Citation to the specific exception authorizing the closed session is not simply "the best practice," so that the failure to do so is a mere "technical" violation, but it is instead a statutory requirement along with the requirement that the agency describe the general nature of the business to be discussed. OAG 04-OMD-179.

Because the Judge-Executive was not bringing a discipline issue to the court regarding the director, nor does the evidence of record indicate that the Fiscal Court was engaged in a discussion regarding the performance evaluation process as applied to the director which might have led to the discipline or dismissal of the director as authorized by KRS 61.810(1)(f), the Fiscal Court expanded the scope of the personnel exception and improperly concealed matters otherwise appropriate to the view of the public. OAG 04-OMD-225.

KRS 61.810(1)(j) permits the Board of Medical Licensure to go into closed session to consider and deliberate a grievance against a physician, including the Governor. Such a closed session must conform in all particulars with the requirements of KRS 61.815(1)(a) through (d), including the requirement that no final action may be taken during the closed session. OAG 05-OMD-17.

The Mayor's telephonic discussions with individual City Council members cannot be properly characterized as "informational," "educational," or "advisory." By voting on the loan guarantee issue at a regular meeting, the City Council exercised its option to take action on that issue, which, perforce, must be characterized as public business. The series of less than quorum private discussions which preceded the vote therefore fell within the zone of conduct prohibited by KRS 61.810(2). OAG 05-OMD-26.

Because publicity "would be likely to affect" the value of the specific piece or pieces of property to be acquired or sold, and there is not sufficient evidence to support the allegation that a vote on the purchase proposal submitted by the Public Health Board was the sole purpose for conducting the closed session, the Fiscal Court properly relied upon KRS 61.810(1)(b). OAG 05-OMD-32.

Discussions concerning the course of action to take with the entire fire department do not qualify under the exception KRS 61.810(1)(f) because they do not constitute discussions which might lead to the appointment, discipline, or dismissal of an individual employee. Instead, such discussions relate to general personnel matters, and KRS 61.810(1)(f) expressly prohibits discussion of general personnel matters in secret. Accordingly, the City violated the Open Meetings Act in going into closed session to discuss the fire department. OAG 05-OMD-82.

By its express terms, KRS 61.810(1)(f) authorizes discussions or hearings "which might lead to the appointment, discipline, or dismissal of an individual employee, member, or student." Based on the common and approved meaning of the term removal, removal is the functional equivalent of dismissal among those specific topics encompassed by the literal language of KRS 61.810(1)(f). Because the individual qualifies as a "member" of the Student Government Association, whose removal or "dismissal" was being contemplated, the SGA properly relied upon KRS 61.810(1)(f) in holding the closed session. OAG 05-OMD-86.

Because the mere fact that a quorum of members of a public agency are in the same place at the same time, without more, is not sufficient to sustain a claim of a violation of the Act, there is no violation when the members lingered after properly adjourning the meeting to engage in small talk and private conversations. OAG 05-OMD-96.

Under a strict construction of the exemption and in light of its underlying policy, KRS 61.810(1)(g) does not authorize closed session discussions relating to the selection of a consultant to provide consulting services to a public agency. OAG 05-OMD-148.

Unless the Personnel Board is deliberating a decision on a particular case involving an individual, within the meaning of KRS 61.810(1)(j), or discussing a matter which is otherwise exempt under one or more of the twelve remaining exceptions, its meetings are required to be open to the public under the provisions of KRS 18A.070(23) and the Open Meetings Act. OAG 05-OMD-159.

The Governor's Office of Agricultural Policy did not violate the Open Meetings Act by conducting unpublicized roundtable discussions across the state with members of county agricultural development councils and county extension agents to discuss the operations and future of the Agricultural Development Fund. Although the matters discussed during these discussions were clearly of public interest, since a quorum of the members of GOAP or its governing body was not present at any of the discussions, KRS 61.810(1) did not require that the discussions be open to the public. OAG 05-OMD-164.

Although employment status was tangentially related to the subject of the closed session discussion, the primary focus of the discussion was the hiring of a bookkeeping service. The elimination of the employee's position was the unavoidable consequence that proceeded from the hiring of a bookkeeping service. Inasmuch as there is no exception in the existing Open Meetings Act for discussions relating to the hiring of a bookkeeping service, or, for that matter, the elimination of a current position, the Board's reliance on KRS 61.810(1)(f) was misplaced. OAG 06-OMD-257.

The Preliminary Inquiry Board violated the Open Meetings Act in relying upon KRS 61.810(1)(f) to conduct the closed session to discuss discipline of a licensee since this exception does not encompass licensees. Additionally, although the Board was operating as a "quasi-judicial" body engaged in deliberations regarding "individual adjudications," the presence of "the person involved, his representatives," and/or an individual "not a member of the agency's governing body or staff" rendered KRS 61.810(1)(j) inapplicable. OAG 06-OMD-262.

61.815. Requirements for conducting closed sessions.

(1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, the following requirements shall be met as a condition for conducting closed sessions authorized by KRS 61.810:

(a) Notice shall be given in regular open meeting of the general nature of the business to be discussed in closed session, the reason for the closed session, and the specific provision of KRS 61.810 authorizing the closed session;

(b) Closed sessions may be held only after a motion is made and carried by a majority vote in open, public session;

(c) No final action may be taken at a closed session; and

(d) No matters may be discussed at a closed session other than those publicly announced prior to convening the closed session.

(2) Public agencies and activities of public agencies identified in paragraphs (a), (c), (d), (e), (f), but only so far as (f) relates to students, (g), (h), (i), (j), (k), (l), and (m) of subsection (1) of KRS 61.810 shall be excluded from the requirements of subsection (1) of this section.

Analysis

1. Notice.
2. Action Void.
3. Final Actions.
4. Action Voidable.

1. Notice.

This section instructs that notice of a closed session must come prior to every such session in the regular open meeting and must supply the general nature of the business to be considered and the reason for the secrecy. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

In order to fully comply with KRS 61.810(2) and subsection (1) of this section notice of the county board of education of the business intended to be discussed in a closed session should contain information that the board of education intends to conduct an executive session for the purpose of discussing the sale or acquisition of real property and that the reason for privacy is due to the fact that publicity at the deliberation stage might be likely to affect the value instead of merely saying that the business to be discussed was “property and negotiations.” Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

Notice given in open meeting preparatory to closed session that the closed meeting would be held to discuss “property and negotiations” was not sufficient compliance with the requirement of notice of subsection (1) of this section for the term “property” fails to reveal whether it is real or personal, for purchase or for sale or whether publicity would affect its value. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

Injunction was proper under KRS 61.848 — even without a showing that petitioners had no adequate remedy at law — when a school board violated the Open Meeting Law by discussing a personnel reorganization plan in closed “executive” meetings; the preparation-for-litigation exception would not apply to mere discussion of whether dismissed administrators might sue the board. Also, the board failed to adhere to this section, which requires that, before going into a closed session, a public body must state the exact exception it relies on to go into a closed meeting. Floyd County Bd. of Educ. v. Ratliff, 955 S.W.2d 921, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 145 (Ky. 1997).

2. Action Void.

Where disciplinary action was brought against the chief of police and eight officers, pursuant to KRS 95.450, at a session closed to the public despite the accuseds’ request for an open hearing pursuant to subsection (6) (now (1)(f)) of KRS 61.810, and with neither a motion for a closed meeting nor announcement of it at an open meeting, in violation of this section, the action taken must be voided and a new hearing held. Reed v. Richmond, 582 S.W.2d 651, 1979 Ky. App. LEXIS 417 (Ky. Ct. App. 1979).

Trial court properly exercised its authority to void the action of the school board directing legal counsel to pursue litigation because the board did not substantially comply with the Open Meetings Act. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

3. Final Actions.

By conducting its final deliberations in a closed session without substantial compliance with this section, the State Board of Accountancy rendered its action in censuring an accountant voidable under KRS 61.830 (now repealed); however, since the accountant raised no objection and demonstrated no prejudice as a result of the Board’s action, the action was not void. Stinson v. State Bd. of Accountancy, 625 S.W.2d 589, 1981 Ky. App. LEXIS 304 (Ky. Ct. App. 1981).

Where a planning commission explained it was going into closed session, the minutes reflected the discussion concerning litigation, motions to authorize the litigation were made in open meetings, and there was no record of anyone requesting to address the commission or voice concern about the commission’s actions, there was no evidence that the owners were prejudiced by a planning commission’s failure to state a specific provision of KRS 61.810(1)(c), 61.815(1) when it went into closed session. Chandler v. Bullitt County Joint Planning Comm’n, 125 S.W.3d 851, 2002 Ky. App. LEXIS 2358 (Ky. Ct. App. 2002).

Litigation exception to open public meetings was not applicable to the school board’s decision directing legal counsel to pursue a challenge to the petition to recall the board’s nickel tax because it was a “final action” of the board to authorize litigation. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

4. Action Voidable.

Pursuant to KRS 61.848, a consulting contract that had been improperly approved following a closed session in a meeting of a county board of education, the attempted ratification of which was an action taken without substantial compliance with KRS 61.815, was voidable by the circuit court. As such, the contractor could retain amounts already paid for services under the contract but was not entitled to any additional payments. Carter v. Smith, 366 S.W.3d 414, 2012 Ky. LEXIS 66 (Ky. 2012).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Meetings of the city board of commissioners dealing with the granting of individual salary increases to city employees must be open to the public since the subject matter of the meeting does not come within an exception of either this section or KRS 61.810. OAG 75-340.

In view of this section, closed hearings of a city civil service board under KRS 90.360 or 95.450 require no public notice. OAG 75-354.

A properly called special meeting may be conducted in closed session if the subject matter to be discussed falls within one of the exceptions to open meetings provided in KRS 61.810 and if the motion for closed session is made and carried by a majority vote in open public session. OAG 75-709.

Since public agency discussions concerning litigation are expressly exempted from the requirements of the Open Meetings Law under subsection (3) (now (1)(c)) of KRS 61.810, the prohibition of subsection (3) (now (1)(c)) of this section does not apply to those discussions. OAG 76-643.

A county school board may go into closed session for the purpose of interviewing candidates it is considering to fill a vacancy on the school board. OAG 77-674.

Where the purpose of a school board meeting in a discussion or hearing which might lead to the disciplining of a student, the board is not required to give notice in a regular meeting, or to make a motion in open session to conduct a closed session, or to take final action in an open session. OAG 77-674.

Conditions precedent to conducting a valid closed session are: notice of a closed session given at a regular open meeting, majority vote to hold the closed session, no final action taken at the closed session, and subject matter limited to that announced at the public session. OAG 77-758.

The minutes of the closed session should be made available to the public as soon as practicable and when the revelation of the minutes will not defeat the purpose for the holding of the closed session. OAG 78-227.

The procedure for closed sessions does not have to be followed when the subject of the meeting is pending litigation against or on behalf of a public agency and it does not make any difference what the subject of the litigation is. OAG 78-227.

It is sufficient under subsection (1) of this section for a governing body going into a closed session to state that the reason for the closed session is "litigation." OAG 80-248.

The general rule to be followed is that in every case where an agency goes into closed session because of a subject matter exemption, except in the case involving the disciplining of a student, the procedures of this section must be observed. OAG 80-248.

The legislative intent of this section is that agencies, per se, which are exempt from complying with the Open Meetings Law, such as the Parole Board, juries, the Governor's cabinet, committees of the general assembly and other agencies exempted by statute or by the Constitution do not have to go through the formalities set forth in this section, and that agencies which are not exempt per se but which go in closed session to deal with an excepted subject matter must observe those formalities. OAG 80-248.

Where a disciplinary hearing about a particular student in a public school is held, the hearing is exempt from the formalities of going into a closed session under subdivision (6) (now (1)(f)) of KRS 61.810 or the necessity of taking final action in an open session according to the procedure set forth in this section. OAG 81-135.

The minutes of the State Board of Education must be recorded and open to public inspection pursuant to KRS 61.835, but they need show only the formal action taken and the votes cast by the members; the minutes of a closed session should show that the statutory formality of this section was observed before going into a closed session and should indicate the general subject of the closed session but they need not show information which would defeat the purpose of holding a closed session on the authorized subject matter. OAG 81-387.

Where a city commission wishes to hold a closed session to discuss an employee's performance, all that is required is that the motion to go into closed session should state that the purpose of the closed session will be to discuss a personnel matter involving a particular employee; if any negative action is taken against the employee in the closed session without giving him the option of an open hearing, he will be entitled to an open hearing later if he so desires. OAG 81-413.

A task force formed by a city commission to study the problems of the city's community development department could not exclude the press from its meetings without first observing the formalities of this section. OAG 82-56.

The Open Meetings Law permits the holding of a meeting by telephone conference call by the State Board of Education on the subject of the expulsion of a student of one (1) of the schools of which the State Board has the direct oversight in disciplinary matters and the news media should be notified, at least 24 hours in advance, that the meeting by conference telephone is to be held on disciplinary matters and will be closed to the public; however, this opinion is confined to the following circumstances: (1) the State Board of Education meets regularly only every two months and the membership of the Board may reside anywhere within the boundaries of the commonwealth; (2) by regulation there has been established an appeal procedure utilizing hearing officers to review disciplinary cases where expulsion may be ordered; (3) the hearing officer shall hear proof, oral arguments and/or may request written briefs and shall make findings of fact, conclusions of law and recommendations to the State Board, and the State Board is required to make a final determination of the case within thirty (30) days; (4) before the appeal procedure is begun the student has been provided a due process hearing at the local level; (5) the role of the State Board of Education on expulsion appeals is to review the record made up under the presiding of the hearing officer and to approve or disapprove the hearing officer's recommendation. OAG 82-179.

The State Board of Education may meet in closed session to act on a recommendation of a hearing officer on the expulsion of a student without any preliminary action in an open meeting and may take final action on the matter in a closed session. OAG 82-179.

An agency holding a properly conducted closed session may take a straw vote by secret ballot for the purpose of reaching a general consensus among the members, as the purpose of a closed session is to allow free discussion by the members and there are no statutory restrictions on how the discussion may be conducted. But if final action is finally taken, it must be taken in open session (with certain exceptions) and the vote of each member, or his abstention, must be recorded in the minutes. OAG 82-341.

The Personnel Board may go into closed session at the time of its deliberation on recommended orders submitted by hearing officers and/or board members, or to deliberate after it has received evidence in an open hearing, by following the procedure set forth in this section. The Personnel Board is authorized to conduct such closed sessions for the purpose of deliberation under KRS 61.810(6) (now (1)(f)) which exempts from the open meetings requirement discussion or hearings which might lead to the appointment, discipline or dismissal of an individual employee; however, no final action by vote may be taken on such matter in the closed session. OAG 83-20.

It was proper for the fiscal court to decide in its closed session not to sell certain property but, in order to be in technical compliance with the Open Meetings Law, it should have taken a vote on the question in an open session after the closed session since the action was "final action." OAG 83-61.

Under KRS 61.810, whenever a quorum of the members of any public agency meet and discuss any public business, the meeting is a public meeting as defined in the Open Meetings Law, KRS 61.805 to 61.850; thus, where the entire county board of education called itself a "committee" and added several other people to the "committee" before conducting a private session with representatives of the county education association, the school board was required to comply with the Open Meetings Law. OAG 83-102.

A newspaper reporter has the same standing as any other citizen and a reporter cannot be barred from a meeting unless all other nonparticipants in the meeting are also barred. OAG 83-102.

The minutes of a public agency should show that the Open Meetings Law was complied with when a closed session was held. OAG 83-102.

If an electric and water plant board granted a salary increase to its general manager and a utility right-of-way at a closed meeting, those actions were violative of the Open Meetings Law as they constitute final board action; any final action must be passed in open meeting after the closed session. OAG 83-377.

Where an electric and water plant board called for a closed session in order to discuss "personnel matters," it was improper for the board to discuss a utility right-of-way at the closed session. OAG 83-377.

An electric and water plant board's stated proposal to discuss "personnel matters" at a closed session was a sufficient notice and reason given under subdivision (1) of this section. OAG 83-377.

Before going into closed session notice must be given by the board of education in a regular open meeting of the general nature of the business to be discussed in the closed session and a motion must be made and carried by majority vote to go into closed session. It is sufficient if the notice and motion to go into closed session simply states that the purpose of the session is to discuss personnel matters affecting certain individuals; the names of the individuals do not have to be stated in the notice and motion. OAG 83-379.

Where a cable authority announced at an open meeting that it was going into closed session to discuss possible litigation brought against the authority by a cable service company over the regulation of cable rates, the nature of the closed session was proper and the notice of the session was sufficient; also, the authority properly limited discussion during the closed session to the topic of litigation with the cable company. OAG 84-240.

Where the agenda for the special meeting listed as the only item a matter pertaining to a change or an addition to contracts, the city's committee violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into a closed session during that special meeting to discuss matters involving litigation. OAG 94-OMD-78.

A city may properly invoke KRS 61.810(1)(f) to go into a closed or executive session to discuss the possible dismissal of a particular employee. That specific statute does not require that the affected employee be given notice of the discussion or an opportunity to attend that discussion. However, city was required to announce in the open and public portion of its meeting that it was invoking the provisions of KRS 61.810(1)(f) to go into a closed session to discuss the possible termination of a particular municipal employee. OAG 94-OMD-122.

Subdivision (1)(c) of this section specifically states that no final action may be taken in a closed session; thus, city commission, after discussing the matter of the termination of municipal employee in a closed session, was required to go back into an open and public session and at that time make its decision to terminate the employment of municipal employee. OAG 94-OMD-122.

Where the open and public session of a county's board of education meeting began in the school library, the open and public session should have resumed in the school library following a tour of the school, and the gathering of board members in the home economics classroom, where the closed meeting was to be held later, was in violation of this section, which as applied, would require the board members to have returned to the designated site for the open and public meeting, to have made a motion for a closed session and vote, before adjourning to the site of the closed or executive session of the otherwise public meeting. OAG 95-OMD-92.

When the notice, motion, and vote relative to a closed session of a county's board of education meeting were given, made and taken at a site which did not constitute the forum for the open and public board meeting, the members of the board of education violated the Open Meetings Act. OAG 95-OMD-92.

Where the stated purpose of a Revenue Commission meeting was to discuss the matter of whether or not a Revenue Commission employee would be retained, this subject matter was a proper subject for a closed session under KRS 61.810(1)(f); however, the closed session had to be limited to whether or not the Revenue Commission employee would be terminated, and matters such as the development or selection of a search procedure to fill the position were not proper subjects for a closed session, regardless of whether or not the Revenue Commission had complied with subdivision (1)(d) of this section, by publicly announcing the matters to be discussed during the closed session. OAG 95-OMD-93.

If the agenda incorporated into the written notice of a special meeting, held by the board of regents of university, listed only one substantive item for discussion, then discussion of any other substantive matter, whether discussed in an open or closed session is a violation of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 95-OMD-149.

While a public agency may meet in a closed session to discuss proposed or pending litigation, including topics such as litigation tactics and strategy, a final decision as to whether to litigate a particular situation cannot be made in closed session. If the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Employers' Mutual Insurance Authority decided in a closed session to file suit in regard to a specific situation, such decision was made in violation of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 97-OMD-96.

Public agency violated the Open Meetings Act when it invoked the exceptions set forth in KRS 61.810(1)(f) and gave as its reasons the intent to discuss individual personnel matters or specific employee matters. Since the only personnel matters which can be discussed in a closed session pertain to the possible appointment, discipline, or dismissal of personnel of that particular agency, the public agency should have indicated which of those particular authorized exceptions it was utilizing and why the session was being closed (which frequently involves privacy considerations). OAG 97-OMD-110.

A public agency's authority to go into closed session relative to personnel matters is severely restricted. General personnel matters cannot be discussed in a closed session; the only personnel matters which can be discussed in a closed session by a public agency are those which might lead to the appointment, discipline, or dismissal of personnel of that particular agency. OAG 97-OMD-124.

Mayor and city council violated Open Meetings Act, specifically KRS 61.810(1)(f), when stated reason for going into open session was "discussion of personnel"; since the only personnel matters which can be discussed in a closed session pertain to the possible appointment, discipline, or dismissal of personnel of that particular agency, the public agency should have indicated which of those particular exceptions it was utilizing and why the session was being closed. OAG 97-OMD-124.

An agency complies with the requirements of subsection (1)(a) and KRS 61.810(1)(f) by announcing, in open session, that pursuant to KRS 61.810(1)(f) it is going into closed session to discuss either the appointment, the discipline, or the dismissal of an employee or employees of the agency, indicating which of these particular actions is contemplated; however, the agency is not required to identify, by name, the employee or employees who will be discussed, nor is it restricted to a discussion of one (1) individual employee at a time. OAG 99-OMD-49.

A planning and zoning commission violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into closed session as there was no motion made and carried in open session and the specific exception which authorized the closed session was not stated. OAG 99-OMD-146.

The Open Meetings Act contemplates more than agency recitation of language of the exception authorizing the closed session, but less than a detailed description of the matter to be discussed. OAG 00-OMD-64.

Because it was incumbent on the Floyd County Board of Education to provide more than a single word descriptor, such as "litigation, property, and personnel," of the reason for, and general nature of the business to be discussed in, its closed session, to the extent that the Board failed to strictly comply with the requirements for conducting a closed session, it violated the Open Meetings Act. OAG 01-OMD-181.

KRS 61.810(1)(g) applies to meetings between a public agency and a representative of a business entity, or a meeting of the agency to discuss a specific proposal, but in either case, only if open discussion could jeopardize the siting, retention, expansion, or upgrading of the business. Since neither of the conditions for invocation of this exemption were met when the Governor's Council of Economic Advisors retired to executive session to discuss the "potential plans" of the companies they represent based on current economic conditions, the Council's reliance on KRS 61.810(1)(g) was misplaced, and it violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into closed session at its November 6 meeting. OAG 01-OMD-227.

KRS 61.815(1)(c) specifically states that no final action may be taken in closed session. Thus, the Board, after discussing the matter of termination of the employee in closed session, would have been required to go back into open and public session and, at that time, vote to take final agency action on the question of the termination. OAG 02-OMD-126.

Violations arising under KRS 61.815(1)(d) typically occur when the agency directly or indirectly acknowledges discussion of matters tangential to the matter publicly announced in open session. In this instance, no description of the general nature of the business to be discussed in closed session was given in open session, and thus the ensuing closed session discussion contravened KRS 61.815(1)(d). OAG 03-OMD-47.

The Meade County Solid Waste and Recycling Board's discussions in closed session of matters not publicly announced prior to convening that closed session constituted a violation of the Open Meetings Act regardless of who initiated them and whether or not strict compliance with the law was administratively inefficient. OAG 03-OMD-170.

Where the Hopkins County Fiscal Court did not identify the general nature of the business to be discussed in its October 2 closed session and made only vague reference to "litigation" as the reason for the closed session, this is not enough. The fiscal court must not only identify the exception but must also describe the business to be discussed in closed session with sufficient specificity to enable the public to assess the propriety of its action. OAG 03-OMD-221.

The City Commission did not violate either KRS 61.823(3) or KRS 61.815(1)(a) in electing to discuss the personnel matter, originally scheduled to be discussed in closed session, in an open session. OAG 04-OMD-199.

The legislative intent on KRS 61.815(2) is that agencies, per se, which are exempt from complying with the Open Meetings Law, such as the Parole Board, juries, the Governor's cabinet, committees of the General Assembly and other agencies exempted by statute or by the Constitution do not have to go through the formalities set forth in KRS 61.815; and agencies which are not exempt per se but which go in closed session to deal with an excepted subject matter must observe those formalities. The Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure is not exempt, per se, from complying with the Open Meetings Act, and therefore it is required to comply with the requirements for conducting a closed session codified at KRS 61.815(1). OAG 05-OMD-17.

61.820. Schedule of regular meetings to be made available.

(1) All meetings of all public agencies of this state, and any committees or subcommittees thereof, shall be held at specified times and places which are convenient to the public. In considering locations for public meetings, the agency shall evaluate space requirements, seating capacity, and acoustics.

(2) All public agencies shall provide for a schedule of regular meetings by ordinance, order, resolution, by-laws, or by whatever other means may be required for the conduct of business of that public agency. The schedule of regular meetings shall be made available to the public.

History.

Enact. Acts 1974, ch. 377, § 4; 1992, ch. 162, § 5, effective July 14, 1992; 2013, ch. 124, § 10, effective June 25, 2013.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. No Violation Found.

County did not violate the Kentucky Open Meetings Act, specifically KRS 61.820 and KRS 61.840, in passing a county occupational tax ordinance at a meeting held in the county courthouse during a festival held on the courthouse square, even though the date and location of the meeting might not have been the most convenient time and location to hold the meeting; the fact that a large number of citizens attended the meeting proved that the time and location were not inconvenient, and there was nothing to indicate that persons wishing to attend or participate in the meeting were effectively prevented from doing so. Knox County v. Hammons, 129 S.W.3d 839, 2004 Ky. LEXIS 74 (Ky. 2004).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The county fiscal court is a public agency and any committees which it has created by ordinance or resolution are also public agencies within the meaning of the law and should comply with the Open Meetings Law. OAG 75-508.

There is no provision in the Open Records Law that an agency must announce the agenda of matters to be discussed in a regular or special meeting. OAG 78-499.

This section does not require a newspaper to advertise the time and place of regular meetings of a levee board. OAG 82-412.

The statutes do not prescribe any particular method of publicizing the schedule of regular meetings of a levee board. The board may use such method of publicity as it sees fit including paid announcements in the newspaper or a news item in the local newspaper concerning the meeting. OAG 82-412.

The city council of a fourth-class city may enact an ordinance providing that regular meetings shall be held at different locations, specifically identified, within the city on stated dates and at specified times. OAG 83-208.

When the city deviated from its regular meeting schedule and rescheduled that regular meeting, any rescheduled meeting became a special meeting even if it eventually ended up being rescheduled again on the original regular meeting date. The meeting was a special meeting which required the city to follow the requirements of KRS 61.823 including those pertaining to notice and posting. Failure to follow these provisions constituted a violation of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 92-OMD-1473.

While this section provides in part that meetings of public agencies shall be held at specified times and places which are convenient to the public, there is no provision in the Open Meetings Act prohibiting meetings after a certain hour and while a late night council meeting conducted past midnight may be inconvenient to the public in many instances, other than the adjournment of the meeting, where late night activity consisted of a closed session pertaining to two (2) items of litigation involving the city, the city did not violate the Open Meetings Act. OAG 92-OMD-1728.

Fiscal court meetings which normally began at 9:00 a.m. were not at an inconvenient time for the public. OAG 93-OMD-20.

Since council meeting held August 10 was an adjourned meeting and as an adjourned meeting was a continuation of the regular meeting of August 9 as opposed to a special meeting with the various notice and posting requirements, as a meeting pursuant to an adjournment of a regular meeting such meeting was itself a regular meeting and any business which could have been transacted at the regular meeting could have been transacted at the adjourned meeting. OAG 93-OMD-123.

County Fiscal Court violated the Open Meetings Act where the "Notice" of the magistrates did not conform to the provisions of this section, concerning notice of regular meetings, or the provisions of KRS 61.823, pertaining to notice of special meetings. OAG 94-OMD-50.

Because no agenda is required for a regular meeting under KRS 61.820, public agencies are not bound by any limitation relative to the discussion of, or actions on, matters with which they are entrusted in the course of those meetings. The description of items to be discussed or acted upon in the non-mandatory agenda for a regular meeting need not be sufficiently specific to insure fair notice to the public. OAG 01-OMD-181.

Unless the work session is a regularly scheduled meeting, within the meaning of KRS 61.820, it must be treated as a special meeting and is subject to all the notice requirements appertaining thereto. OAG 02-OMD-11.

Neither KRS 164.340, nor the provision in the Board of Regent's bylaws relating to quarterly meetings in regular session, is sufficient in content to be a schedule of regular meetings. Because the November 2 meeting was not a regular meeting within the meaning of KRS 61.820, it was a special meeting. OAG 02-OMD-22.

KRS 61.820 requires city commissions, and other local government agencies such as county fiscal courts, to conduct their meetings within the jurisdictional limits of the governmental units they serve. Anything, that tends to inhibit the public's ability to freely attend local government agency meetings, including distance, is destructive of the rights granted to the public, and the duties imposed on public agencies, by the Open Meetings Act. OAG 02-OMD-78.

The thirty minute delay in convening the February 17 regular meeting of the council was occasioned by the parent-teacher conferences conducted earlier in the evening and an apparent desire to insure that all interested parties could attend the meeting in its entirety; there is no error for a half hour delay in starting time when such a delay could easily result from other unforeseen circumstances such as inclement weather. To hold otherwise would be tantamount to elevating form over substance, resulting in the unnecessary cancellation of properly "noticed" regular meetings. OAG 04-OMD-56.

Although the location at which the City held its August meeting was clearly not the most convenient, the location was also not inconvenient as evidenced by the large turnout. The meeting was announced to the public, and there is nothing on the record to indicate that persons wishing to attend or participate in the proceeding were effectively prevented from doing so. Accordingly, no violation of KRS 61.820 or KRS 61.840 occurred at the meeting. OAG 04-OMD-145.

The City Council did not violate the Open Meetings Act in changing its meeting location of the special meeting due to unforeseen exigency, such as a scheduling conflict, as long as the change could not otherwise be avoided and the Council took the reasonable measures described to notify the public of the change. OAG 05-OMD-11.

City did not violate the Open Meetings Act merely because everyone at a particular board of aldermen meeting could not be admitted into the meeting room where the meeting was held in a facility which normally could accommodate all those desiring to attend and where the city offered to allow the overflow crowd to view the meeting from another room by television. OAG 94-ORD-87.

Although the county judge/executive has the unilateral authority to fix the dates of commencement of the regular terms of the fiscal court, no statute expressly provides the unilateral authority to designate the beginning time of regular meetings of the fiscal court; however, if the fiscal court properly passes a resolution providing, for example, that the regular term meetings of the fiscal court shall begin at 7:30 p.m., there being no statute to the contrary, it would be the duty of the county judge/executive to ensure the execution of such resolution. OAG 95-26.

The county board of education's response to party complaining that at meeting some people could not hear, that the meeting site was inadequate and that people were forced to stand in the hallway and outside in the winter cold, violated the Open Meetings Act in that its written answer to the complaining party did not address the specific issues of accessibility to the meeting, noise in the meeting room, persons outside the meeting room in the hallway, and persons outside the building on a winter night; in addition, the response did not cite a section of the Open Meetings Act in support of the public agency's position and it did not provide a brief explanation of how that particular statutory provision applied to the situation involving the public agency. OAG 97-OMD-28.

Board of education violated the Open Meetings Act because even if the board met in a facility that would accommodate the number of persons normally expected to attend such meetings, where there was an overflow of attendees the board of education should have made a good faith effort to handle the overflow crowd so that persons in the hallway and outside the building could have observed the public proceedings. OAG 97-OMD-28.

When the school board moved the meeting site of the board meeting which began in the school board office from the office to the school library, the latter location became the designated site from which all remaining proceedings and actions relative to the meeting should have been conducted and in the absence of any compelling reason to do so, the school board was not justified in moving the meeting to yet another location as such action is inconvenient to the public. OAG 97-OMD-84.

The failure of a park board to establish a regular schedule of meetings did not constitute a violation of the statute. OAG 99-OMD-166.

The statute does not require that a fiscal court hold its meetings at the county seat or other county government centers and, therefore, a fiscal court may hold a meeting at a state park. OAG 99-OMD-213.

A county fiscal court appeared to have violated either this section or KRS 61.823 in connection with meetings of the jail commission where it did not appear that the commission adopted a schedule of regular meetings and made that schedule available to the public, thus obviating the need for special meeting notice pursuant to KRS 61.823, or whether the meeting was a special meeting and proper notice was given in full compliance with KRS 61.823. OAG 00-OMD-63.

61.823. Special meetings — Emergency meetings.

(1) Except as provided in subsection (5) of this section, special meetings shall be held in accordance with the provisions of subsections (2), (3), and (4) of this section.

(2) The presiding officer or a majority of the members of the public agency may call a special meeting.

(3) The public agency shall provide written notice of the special meeting. The notice shall consist of the date, time, and place of the special meeting and the agenda. Discussions and action at the meeting shall be limited to items listed on the agenda in the notice.

(4)(a) As soon as possible, written notice shall be delivered personally, transmitted by facsimile machine, or mailed to every member of the public agency as well as each media organization which has filed a written request, including a mailing address, to receive notice of special meetings. The notice shall be calculated so that it shall be received at least twenty-four (24) hours before the special meeting. The public agency may periodically, but no more often than once in a calendar year, inform media organizations that they will have to submit a new written request or no longer receive written notice of special meetings until a new written request is filed.

(b) A public agency may satisfy the requirements of paragraph (a) of this subsection by transmitting the written notice by electronic mail to public agency members and media organizations that have filed a written request with the public agency indicating their preference to receive electronic mail notification in lieu of notice by personal delivery, facsimile machine, or mail. The written request shall include the electronic mail address or addresses of the agency member or media organization.

(c) As soon as possible, written notice shall also be posted in a conspicuous place in the building where the special meeting will take place and in a conspicuous place in the building which houses the headquarters of the agency. The notice shall be calculated so that it shall be posted at least twenty-four (24) hours before the special meeting.

(5) In the case of an emergency which prevents compliance with subsections (3) and (4) of this section, this subsection shall govern a public agency's conduct of a special meeting. The special meeting shall be called pursuant to subsection (2) of this section. The public agency shall make a reasonable effort, under emergency circumstances, to notify the members of the agency, media organizations which have filed a written request pursuant to subsection (4)(a) of this section, and the public of the emergency meeting. At the beginning of the emergency meeting, the person chairing the meeting shall briefly describe for the record the emergency circumstances preventing compliance with subsections (3) and (4) of this section. These comments shall appear in the minutes. Discussions and action at the emergency meeting shall be limited to the emergency for which the meeting is called.

Analysis

1. Change of Meeting Date.
2. Notice.
3. Order of Censure.
4. Standing.

1. Change of Meeting Date.

Where school board changed monthly meeting date in open meeting, where press release had been issued, where newspaper article appeared, and where citizens appeared at the meeting, there was no positive showing that the board had decided any matters regarding closing the school in closed session. Coppage v. Ohio County Bd. of Educ., 860 S.W.2d 779, 1992 Ky. App. LEXIS 182 (Ky. Ct. App. 1992).

2. Notice.

A newspaper was entitled, upon request, to receive notice of special commission meetings called by a city which was located within the 12-county region in which the newspaper was distributed; the newspaper was ruled a local newspaper with general circulation because of its limited distribution region and because it gathered and reported economic, educational, sports, human interest, government and court news at the local level. E.W. Scripps Co. v. Maysville, 790 S.W.2d 450, 1990 Ky. App. LEXIS 71 (Ky. Ct. App. 1990) (decided under prior law).

To be entitled to notice of special meetings, a newspaper must show that it serves a limited geographical area and that its coverage of news in a particular city or county is regular and intensive. E.W. Scripps Co. v. Maysville, 790 S.W.2d 450, 1990 Ky. App. LEXIS 71 (Ky. Ct. App. 1990) (decided under prior law).

3. Order of Censure.

By conducting its final deliberations in a closed session without substantial compliance with KRS 61.815, the State Board of Accountancy rendered its action in censuring an accountant voidable under former law making action of public agency void for noncompliance with the requirements of these statutes; however, since the accountant raised no objection and demonstrated no prejudice as a result of the Board's action, the action was not void. Stinson v. State Bd. of Accountancy, 625 S.W.2d 589, 1981 Ky. App. LEXIS 304 (Ky. Ct. App. 1981) (decided under prior law).

4. Standing.

Former members of a public board had constitutional standing to raise violations of the Open Meetings Act with respect to a county fiscal court's action in removing them and the subsequent action by the board approving a lease termination agreement because they clearly alleged distinct and palpable injuries caused by the actions of the fiscal court and the board for which they would be entitled to a remedy under the Act; any action taken by the fiscal court in violation of the Act was voidable. Lincoln Trail Grain Growers Ass'n v. Meade Cty. Fiscal Court, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 89 (Ky. Ct. App. Aug. 6, 2021).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

When the city deviated from its regular meeting schedule and rescheduled that regular meeting, any rescheduled meeting became a special meeting even if it eventually ended up being rescheduled again on the original regular meeting date. The meeting was a special meeting which required the city to follow the requirements of this section including those pertaining to notice and posting. Failure to follow these provisions constituted a violation of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 92-OMD-1473.

Since council meeting held August 10 was an adjourned meeting and as an adjourned meeting was a continuation of the regular meeting of August 9 as opposed to a special meeting with the various notice and posting requirements, as a meeting pursuant to an adjournment of a regular meeting such meeting was itself a regular meeting and any business which could have been transacted at the regular meeting could have been transacted at the adjourned meeting. OAG 93-OMD-123.

County Fiscal Court violated the Open Meetings Act where the "Notice" of the magistrates did not conform to the provisions of KRS 61.820, concerning notice of regular meetings, or the provisions of this section, pertaining to notice of special meetings. OAG 94-OMD-50.

Where the agenda for the special meeting listed as the only item a matter pertaining to a change or an addition to contracts, the city's committee violated the Open Meetings Act when it went into a closed session during that special meeting to discuss matters involving litigation. OAG 94-OMD-78.

If the agenda incorporated into the written notice of a special meeting, held by the board of regents of university, listed only one substantive item for discussion, then discussion of any other substantive matter, whether discussed in an open or closed session is a violation of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 95-OMD-149.

While the school board violated the Open Meetings Act by its failure to file a written response to the complaint within the statutorily mandated time frame, its decision to not renew the superintendent's contract was not a violation of the Open Meetings Act as that action was within the agenda of activities set forth in the notice for that special meeting which stated that "The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss renewal/or action of the superintendent's contract." OAG 97-OMD-43.

Where city clerks have certified or, in the case of the May 9, 1996 meeting, would certify that notices of the special meetings were timely faxed to the newspaper of record and there was no evidence that the newspaper was not timely notified of the special meetings, the city has complied with the requirements of subdivision (4)(a) of this section as the record indicates that notices of special meetings were timely faxed to the newspaper which had filed a written request with the city to be notified of special meetings. OAG 97-OMD-49.

Where city's fax machine did not provide printed proof of times and dates faxes containing notices or special meetings were sent to newspapers, city did not violate the provisions of the Open Records Act when it failed to furnish copies of documents which it did not have or which did not exist. OAG 97-OMD-49.

County Board of Education and Superintendent of County Schools violated the Open Meetings Act, specifically subsection (4)(a) of this section, by their failure to notify in writing all board members of the special meetings of the school board at least twenty-four (24) hours prior to the commencement of those meetings even though the Board and the Superintendent had complied with the requirements of KRS 160.270(1). OAG 97-OMD-90.

The failure of a city park board to fail to give notice and record minutes constituted violations of KRS 61.823 and 61.835, respectively. OAG 99-OMD-166.

Notices of meetings were insufficient where they did not contain an agenda of the items to be discussed at the meetings, in addition to the date, time, and place of the meetings, and where there was no evidence that the notices were posted in a conspicuous place in the building where the meetings took place or in a conspicuous place in the building which housed the headquarters of the agency. OAG 99-OMD-184.

The statute does not require the term "public" to appear in a notice of a meeting. OAG 99-OMD-184.

There was no violation of the statute where a local facility planning committee provided correct information to a newspaper regarding the date, time, and place of a meeting, but the newspaper printed incorrect information; further, the agenda advertised for the meeting was adequate. OAG 99-OMD-203.

Newspaper articles about the timeline and meeting agendas of a committee do not serve as a substitute for strict compliance with the statute, since the notice must still contain the date, time, and place of the special meeting and the agenda; however, publication of the timeline for the committee's meetings and their agendas in the local newspaper and a posting of the same in the building where the special meetings took place and in the building which housed its headquarters constituted a substantial compliance with the notification requirements, and any noncompliance was mitigated by the committee's efforts to furnish additional information to the media and the public. OAG 99-OMD-203.

Notice of special meetings of a county fiscal court was deficient where the notice only stated the date, time, and place of an initial meeting, but did not state the date, time, or place of subsequent work sessions/meetings or the topic to be discussed at those meetings. OAG 99-OMD-213.

A county fiscal court appeared to have violated either KRS 61.820 or this section in connection with meetings of the jail commission where it did not appear that the commission adopted a schedule of regular meetings and made that schedule available to the public, thus obviating the need for special meeting notice pursuant to this section, or whether the meeting was a special meeting and proper notice was given in full compliance with this section. OAG 00-OMD-63.

A streetscape committee did not fully comply with the statute in notifying the public of a meeting where the record was devoid of evidence that the committee complied with subsection (4)(b) by posting notice of the meeting in a conspicuous place in the building where the special meeting was held and in the building which houses the headquarters of the committee at least fourteen (14) hours before the meeting. OAG 00-OMD-65.

A community college board of directors erred in characterizing a meeting as an emergency meeting and in failing to identify the subject to be discussed in the notice of that meeting; however, because the board complied with the requirements for conducting a special meeting, with the exception of identifying the matter to be discussed, and because the record was devoid of evidence that the complainant newspaper submitted a request for written notification of special meetings of the board, the only violation of the Open Meetings Act consisted of the deficiency in the content of the notice otherwise delivered and posted in a timely manner. OAG 00-OMD-80.

A telecommunications board violated the statute with regard to a series of special meetings that preceded a special meeting of the board of directors at which an executive director was appointed where proper written notice was not delivered or posted as required by the statute. OAG 00-OMD-96.

A city commission complied in all particulars with the requirements of the statute prior to, and in the course of, a special meeting where a majority of the commission members called the meeting, written notice was prepared consisting of the date, time, and place of the special meeting and the agenda, written notice was faxed to the media in excess of twenty-four (24) hours before the meeting, the notice was posted on the public bulletin board at city hall on the same morning, and the mayor did not dispute that a copy of the notice was placed on her desk twenty-four (24) hours before the meeting. OAG 00-OMD-142.

The record contained insufficient evidence to support the contention that the a county board of education rescheduled a regular 4:00 p.m. meeting when it issued an agenda which mistakenly stated that the meeting would begin at 6:00 p.m., thus triggering the posting and notice requirements of the statute. OAG 99-OMD-153.

A city commission did not violate the statute as the items discussed, and acted upon at a special meeting were limited to items listed on the agenda, with one (1) exception not complained of. OAG 00-OMD-154.

The Kentucky Access Subcommittee of the Department of Insurance's Health Insurance Advisory Committee violated the Open Meetings Act by failing to comply with the statute prior to a special meeting; the record was devoid of proof that the subcommittee delivered the required written notice of the meeting or that the subcommittee posted written notice, at least twenty-four (24) hours before the special meeting, in a conspicuous place in the building where the meeting took place, and in the building that housed its headquarters. OAG 00-OMD-227.

The Cumberland High School Site Based Council violated the Open Meetings Act by failing to comply with the notice requirements set forth in KRS 61.823 prior to its June 2, June 18, and June 25, 2001, special meetings by failing to include an agenda in the written notices of special meetings directed to the media organizations which had requested notification. OAG 01-OMD-135.

The Nominating Committee's failure to strictly comply with the notice requirements codified at KRS 61.823 constituted a violation. While there is nothing wrong with the Board of Commission's public announcement of the upcoming Nominating Committee meeting at its January and February regular meetings, inclusion of the meeting on the Hospital's March 2001 calendar of events, and reference to the meeting date in correspondence directed to various officials, these steps should have been taken in addition to, rather than in lieu of, the requirements found at KRS 61.823(2), (3), and (4). OAG 01-OMD-141.

The discussion that occurred at the close of the June 19 special meeting of the Child Support Guidelines Review Commission exceeded the scope of any of the items listed on the agenda for that meeting, and was therefore improper. KRS 61.823(3) does not contain an exception for educational discussions, or discussion of items previously discussed. The fact that no formal action was taken as a consequence of the discussion does not alter that conclusion. OAG 01-OMD-154.

KRS 61.823(3) does not prohibit revision of regular meeting agendas, since no agenda is required for a regular meeting, and discussions at regular meetings are not restricted to items listed on the agenda. Nor can the statute be read so narrowly as to prohibit a public agency from revising the order of the agenda items to be discussed at a special meeting. KRS 61.823(3) does not place such severe restrictions on agency action, and revision of the order of agenda items is permissible. OAG 01-OMD-154.

While notice that was calculated to be delivered closer in time to the date of the meeting, but not less than twenty-four (24) hours before it, might have been preferred, the June 26 notice of the July 24 meeting was not deficient. OAG 01-OMD-154.

The Paintsville City Council violated the Open Meetings Act at its September 18, 2001, special meeting by including agenda items on its notice of special meeting that included "discussion of old business," "discussion of new business," "open to floor," and "open to counsel." The express purpose of the Open Meetings Act to maximize notice of public meetings and actions mandate special meetings agendas that give fair notice of the particular topics to be discussed or acted upon. OAG 01-OMD-175.

There was not a sufficient basis for declaring that an emergency existed; the perceived necessity of enacting an ordinance to facilitate a new negotiating posture, under these circumstances, cannot be equated to "a serious, unexpected situation or occurrence that demands immediate action," especially in view of the fact that the proposed ordinance had apparently been under consideration for several months; organized opposition cannot generally be equated to "civil unrest" unless it is accompanied by acts of lawlessness that necessitate an immediate official response; finally, discussions pertaining to the renewal of an option to purchase real property and the payment of bills, as well as a consultant's report and litigation concerning a separate and unrelated ordinance, were tangential to the alleged emergency for which the meeting was called. OAG 02-OMD-91.

The language of the statute directing agency action is exact. It requires the public agency to deliver written notice, consisting of the date, time, and place of the meeting and the agenda, to members of the public agency, and media organizations that have requested notification, at least 24 hours before the meeting is to occur. The statute makes no distinction between the written notice delivered to agency members and the media and the written notice posted in the named locations. Failure to include an agenda in the posted notice clearly constitutes less than strict compliance with the law. OAG 02-OMD-121.

Because there was not a quorum present at the April 1 meeting, the decision to adjourn and reconvene had not legal effect. The rescheduled April 15 meeting was not a recessed meeting, an adjourned meeting, or a continued meeting. Instead, it was a special meeting subject to the notice and agenda requirements codified at KRS 61.823. OAG 02-OMD-127.

Since the circumstances prevented the council from conducting its meeting per its regular meeting schedule, and because it rescheduled the regular meeting to a later date, the council was obligated to treat the meeting as a special meeting. Further, because discussions and action at a special meeting must be limited to items listed on the agenda in the notice that it is obligated to provide pursuant to KRS 61.823(3), the council's refusal to permit comments and questions from the members of the public attending the September 4, special meeting cannot be said to have violated the Open Meetings Act inasmuch as the Act itself does not endow the public with the right to participate by comment. OAG 02-OMD-181.

If the December 6 meeting was a regular meeting and a motion was made to recess or adjourn the meeting to December 13, and a quorum of the Board voted to do so, then the December 13 meeting would constitute an "adjourned meeting." An "adjourned meeting" should be treated as a special meeting so far as giving notice to the media is concerned. OAG 03-OMD-21.

The work session of the School Site Based Decision Making Council was a special meeting for purposes of open meetings analysis, and the apparent omission of an agenda for the meeting and the location of the meeting violated KRS 61.823(3). OAG 03-OMD-192.

The SBDM satisfied the requirement of sufficient specificity when it employed the phrase "Student Dress Code" to describe the topic to be discussed. OAG 03-OMD-192.

The Danville Board of Ethics violated KRS 61.823(3) and (4)(a) by failing to personally deliver, fax, or mail the members of the Board written notice of the June 23 meeting. Such notice as was communicated by telephone or email did not satisfy the strict legal requirements codified in that statute, and should have been utilized in addition to, rather than in lieu of, the statutorily required methods of communication. OAG 03-OMD-197.

The Kentucky General Assembly has not particularized a place on which notice of special meetings must be posted, and, absent proof of an attempt to conceal such notices, discretion rests with the public agency to determine what constitutes a conspicuous place. A bulletin board that is accessible to the public is “conspicuous,” notwithstanding the fact that more conspicuous places may be available or the fact that it may not be conspicuous to the public for the full twenty-four (24) hours preceding the special meeting. OAG 03-OMD-250.

Because the Open Meetings Act does not recognize the validity of oral notification, delivered in person or by telephone, the Council violated KRS 61.823(3) and KRS 61.823(4)(a), requiring written notice of special meetings to be delivered personally, by fax, or by mail. Oral notice may be utilized in addition to, but not in lieu of, the statutorily required methods of communication. OAG 04-OMD-184.

Since written notice was posted only eight hours before the scheduled meeting time, the belated posting did not constitute strict, or even substantial, compliance with the explicit requirements of the Open Meetings Act. Also, the availability of the written agenda for the special meeting on the posted meeting notice did not satisfy the requirement that the Council provide written notice, including the date, time, and place of the meeting, and the agenda for the special meeting to the Council members at least twenty-four hours before the meeting. OAG 04-OMD-184.

The fact that the City has no regular office open to the public during regular business hours and holds its regular meetings in another building may complicate compliance with the Open Meetings Act. However, a proper posting of the notice of the special meeting would have required that it be posted at the home of the city clerk, where its records are kept, and in the room in the house where the special meeting was to be held. OAG 04-OMD-194.

The City Commission did not violate either KRS 61.823(3) or KRS 61.815(1)(a) in electing to discuss the personnel matter, originally scheduled to be discussed in closed session, in an open session. OAG 04-OMD-199.

Since the Advisory Team has not established a schedule of regular meetings as required of all public agencies, and committees and subcommittees thereof, by KRS 61.820, the March 14 meeting was therefore a special meeting for which KRS 61.823 notice was required. OAG 05-OMD-114.

The City Council violated the Open Meetings Act in failing to include the date with the time, place, and agenda in the notice of the special meetings posted on the front door of City Hall, and discussing matters outside the scope of the item listed on the agenda in the posted notice. OAG 05-OMD-138.

The meeting of the County Fiscal Court on June 29, 2006, was an emergency meeting, notwithstanding the fact that the emergency resulted from its own failure to enact a budget ordinance before the expiration of the fiscal year. Whatever the circumstances that accounted for the delay, the Fiscal Court presented adequate proof of an imminent emergency that would result from its failure to enact a budget ordinance, specifically, the cessation of all vital services to the citizens of the County. OAG 06-OMD-156.

61.826. Video teleconferencing of meetings.

(1) A public agency may conduct any meeting through video teleconference.

(2) Notice of a video teleconference meeting shall:

(a) Comply with the requirements of KRS 61.820 or 61.823 as appropriate;

(b) Clearly state that the meeting will be a video teleconference;

(c) Provide specific information on how any member of the public or media organization may view the meeting electronically; and

(d) In any case where the public agency has elected to provide a physical location, or in any circumstance where two (2) or more members of the public agency are attending a video teleconference meeting from the same physical location, precisely identify a primary physical location of the video teleconference where all members can be seen and heard and the public may attend in accordance with KRS 61.840.

(3) The same procedures with regard to participation, distribution of materials, and other matters shall apply in all video teleconference locations. Members of the public agency who participate in a video teleconference shall remain visible on camera at all times that business is being discussed.

(4) Any interruption in the video or audio broadcast of a video teleconference at any location shall result in the suspension of the video teleconference until the broadcast is restored.

(5) If a regular meeting is changed to a video conference, the meeting shall remain a regular meeting if the meeting occurs on the same date and time as originally scheduled and the public agency follows the provisions of KRS 61.823(4) to provide a notice that meets the requirements of subsection (2)(b) to (d) of this section.

61.835. Minutes to be recorded — Open to public.

The minutes of action taken at every meeting of any such public agency, setting forth an accurate record of votes and actions at such meetings, shall be promptly recorded and such records shall be open to public inspection at reasonable times no later than immediately following the next meeting of the body.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Compliance.

Adoption of a dress code by a middle school did not violate the Kentucky Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.805 et seq.; the council minutes stated that a second reading of the dress code was conducted and the minutes recorded the action taken, which was all that was required under KRS 61.835. Further, adoption of the dress code by “consensus” was an “action taken” within the meaning of KRS 61.805(3). Blau v. Fort Thomas Pub. Sch. Dist., 401 F.3d 381, 2005 FED App. 0058P, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 1969 (6th Cir. 2005).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A public agency which has a board and board meetings speaks through its minutes as to actions taken and the minutes of the public agency should be made available to the public as soon as they are finally approved by the board and such approval should be no later than the next meeting of the board. OAG 80-421.

The minimum statutory requirement for minutes are a record of formal motions made in a meeting and the vote of the members on the motion; anything more than such a record is a matter of parliamentary procedure and the discretion of the public body. OAG 81-387.

The minutes of the State Board of Education must be recorded and open to public inspection pursuant to this section, but they need show only the formal action taken and the votes cast by the members; the minutes of a closed session should show that the statutory formality of KRS 61.815 was observed before going into a closed session and should indicate the general subject of the closed session but they need not show information which would defeat the purpose of holding a closed session on the authorized subject matter. OAG 81-387.

An agency holding a properly conducted closed session may take a straw vote by secret ballot for the purpose of reaching a general consensus among the members, as the purpose of a closed session is to allow free discussion by the members and there are no statutory restrictions on how the discussion may be conducted. But if final action is finally taken, it must be taken in open session (with certain exceptions) and the vote of each member, or his abstention, must be recorded in the minutes. OAG 82-341.

When final action is taken by a public agency in open session the vote cannot be by secret ballot and it must be recorded in the minutes how each member voted. OAG 82-341.

This section does not require that the levee board commissioner who made a motion, the commissioner who seconded the motion and the names of each commissioner voting for and against the motion be specified. It is required, however, that the minutes show how each member voted or if he abstained; if the vote was unanimous it is sufficient to so state in the minutes. OAG 82-412.

Both the Open Meetings Statute, KRS 61.805 to 61.850, and the Open Records Statute, KRS 61.870 to 61.884, mandate public access to the minutes of a public body. Since the Open Meetings Statute allows closed or executive sessions on the discussion of five (5) subjects listed in KRS 61.810, the minutes of an agency may omit matters decided in such discussions; otherwise, no final action is to be taken in a closed session and action taken in an open session after a closed session should be recorded in the minutes and made available to the public. OAG 83-139.

The names, positions, and addresses of all the persons who were on the disciplinary board which found for student's suspension were open to student's inspection under this section; however, the selection and appointment documents were exempt as "preliminary recommendations" under KRS 61.878. OAG 83-332.

This section provides that a city is required to accurately record the minutes of all of its meetings and make such records available for public inspection; if a city does not do this, then it has violated the provisions of this section and the Open Records Act since the council minutes are public records under subsection (2) of KRS 61.870. OAG 86-20.

Minutes of a properly conducted executive or closed session of a meeting of a public agency need not be made available for public inspection or even recorded to the extent that so doing would defeat the purpose of conducting the closed session. OAG 87-16.

Tape recordings of board of education meetings were public records within the meaning of KRS 61.870(2), although inspection thereof could be denied on the ground that the recordings were preliminary drafts regarding preparation of the official minutes, as inspection of preliminary drafts may be denied pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(g). OAG 89-93.

The Judicial Retirement and Removal Commission is a quasi-judicial body expressly exempted from the provisions of the Open Meetings Act and is not bound by this section, which requires disclosure of the minutes of meetings held by public agencies. OAG 91-45.

The Judicial Retirement and Removal Commission was not required to disclose the minutes of a meeting because it is clearly not a "public agency" within the meaning of KRS 61.805(2), and was therefore not bound by this section. OAG 91-45.

The Board of Adjustments, a public body, cannot vote by secret ballot and the minutes of the meetings must indicate how each member voted on each issue before the Board. OAG 91-196.

The Madison County Fiscal Court, through its subcommittee, violated both the Open Meetings and Open Records Act by failing to record its minutes and make them available to the public. OAG 92-32.

After a request for certain public records under the Open Records Act, the custodian of such records need only advise the requester that his or her request will be honored and either append the records or notify the requester that they are available for immediate inspection per subdivision (3)(a) or (b) of KRS 61.872; failure of the custodian to state that the requested records exist or that the records provided are those requested does not constitute a violation of the statute. OAG 94-ORD-15.

The Open Records Act does not require the custodian of records to state that meeting minutes which were released to the requester per his request were created under the mandate of this section. OAG 94-ORD-15.

A public agency would not be violating the Open Meetings Act if it failed to keep minutes concerning a properly conducted and legally authorized closed session to the extent that doing so would defeat the purpose of conducting the closed session and no final action was taken at that closed session. OAG 94-OMD-110.

A copy of minutes from an improperly closed meeting should be made available for public inspection pursuant to this section. OAG 95-OMD-57.

The President's Cabinet and the President's Leadership Team, established, created, and controlled by the university president, do not fall within the meaning of "public agencies" as defined in KRS 61.805(2); consequently, these groups do not have to record minutes of their meetings or meet other requirements of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 95-OMD-71.

The failure of a city park board to fail to give notice and record minutes constituted violations of KRS 61.823 and this section, respectively. OAG 99-OMD-166.

The statute does not require that records reflecting final action taken be appended to the minutes. OAG 99-OMD-183.

A telecommunications board violated the statute with regard to a series of special meetings that preceded a special meeting of the board of directors at which an executive director was appointed where minutes of the meetings were not recorded. OAG 00-OMD-96.

Notwithstanding the fact that the ballots used by the members of the Nominating Committee would have been made available for inspection, upon request, at the Committee's March 14 meeting, the method used for conducting the vote for the Board of Commissioners candidates can only be described as a secret ballot. To the extent that the public was unable to ascertain how each member of the Committee voted on each candidate, either by observing the vote, or by reviewing the minutes of the meeting reflecting the vote, the Nominating Committee failed to comply with the requirements of KRS 61.835. OAG 01-OMD-141.

The City Council did not violate the Open Meetings Act in refusing to amend its minutes to reflect the discussion relating to the city police car which occurred at its November 4 regular meeting. Although it is within the discretion of any public agency, including the Council, to record discussions occurring in the course of its meetings, it is not required to do so; the minutes of a public meeting need show only the formal actions taken and the votes cast by the members. OAG 03-OMD-06.

The Board did not violate the Open Records Act in failing to provide a copy of the minutes of its regular December 6th meeting and the December 13th recessed or adjourned meeting on the basis that they had not been approved and adopted as the official minutes of the Board, since the approval would not occur until the next regularly scheduled meeting in March. OAG 03-ORD-33.

Because KRS 61.835 requires public agency's to maintain "an accurate record of votes and actions taken" at every meeting, the agency may not direct the modification of the draft minutes to show something other than what had actually occurred at the previous meeting. Since the modifications to the minutes approved by the City Commission change the minutes to show something other than what actually occurred at the previous meeting, those modifications violate KRS 61.835. OAG 04-OMD-179.

With reference to ad-hoc committees whose functions are entirely advisory, the minutes must be maintained even if those minutes only reflect that the meeting was convened, the minutes of the last meeting approved, and the meeting was adjourned. OAG 04-OMD-182.

If at the meeting in question nothing was decided or acted upon or voted upon the minutes could, under KRS 61.835, consist of nothing more than a record of the actions which opened and adjourned the meeting. This material would be subject to public inspection. While some agencies may by their own regulations require more thorough minutes, the Open Meetings Act requires only what is set forth in KRS 61.835 relative to the minutes. OAG 04-OMD-182.

Because the corporation does not fall within the parameters of KRS 61.805(2)(a) through (h), defining the term "public agency" for purposes of open meetings analysis, the corporation was not governed by the Open Meetings Act. Thus, the corporation has no obligation under the Open Meetings Act to create, or otherwise afford the public access to, minutes of its meetings, and the corporation properly denied the open records request for its minutes. OAG 04-ORD-12.

An industrial development corporation erred in redacting portions of the minutes from regular public meetings provided to requester regardless of whether the material would otherwise be removed from application of the Open Records Act pursuant to one or more of the exemptions in KRS 61.878(1) or could have properly been discussed during a closed session. OAG 05-ORD-209.

Because inclusion of "clarification" in the minutes of the County Fiscal Court's meeting did not result in inaccuracies in the records of votes and actions taken at the meeting, within the meaning of KRS 61.835, no violation of the Open Meetings Act can be imputed to the Fiscal Court. Nevertheless, such practice compromises the value of minutes as record evidence, undermining the public's faith in the verity thereof, and should be avoided. OAG 06-OMD-103.

61.840. Conditions for attendance.

No condition other than those required for the maintenance of order shall apply to the attendance of any member of the public at any meeting of a public agency. No person may be required to identify himself in order to attend any such meeting. All agencies shall provide meeting room conditions, including adequate space, seating, and acoustics, which insofar as is feasible allow effective public observation of the public meetings. All agencies shall permit news media coverage, including but not limited to recording and broadcasting.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. No Violation Found.

County did not violate the Kentucky Open Meetings Act, specifically KRS 61.820 and KRS 61.840, in passing a county occupational tax ordinance at a meeting held in the county courthouse during a festival held on the courthouse square, even though the date and location of the meeting might not have been the most convenient time and location to hold the meeting; the fact that a large number of citizens attended the meeting proved that the time and location were not inconvenient, and there was nothing to indicate that persons wishing to attend or participate in the meeting were effectively prevented from doing so. Knox County v. Hammons, 129 S.W.3d 839, 2004 Ky. LEXIS 74 (Ky. 2004).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The requirement that the fiscal court make only those provisions necessary to keep order at its meetings applies to the attendance of the public and does not affect the court's ability to establish rules regulating the handling of county's business and the presentation of new business. OAG 76-128.

A public body may prohibit news photographs during a public meeting only where such prohibition is required to maintain order. OAG 77-755.

The Open Meetings Law applies to fiscal courts under the definition of "public agency" as set out in KRS 61.805. OAG 77-755.

Since a coroner's inquest is a criminal investigatory proceeding and in nature a quasi-judicial proceeding, the Open Meetings Law and the provisions for the attendance and operation of the news media have no application. OAG 78-28.

If a woman, who attended a fiscal court meeting and took photographs, was from one of the news media, the fiscal court was required to permit her to take photographs of the fiscal court; however, where there was nothing in connection with the attire or equipment of the woman that suggested her connection with the news media, she should have identified herself as representing one of the news media in order to take advantage of her right to engage in news media coverage, including taking photographs. OAG 80-156.

Where the fiscal court can visually note the connection of an observer with the news media by way of some obviously identifying insignia, or other device, or equipment, identification on the part of the news media representative is not necessary for the representative to assert his or her right to engage in coverage of the meeting, and the representative may photograph the proceedings even though they tend to be somewhat disruptive of the meeting. OAG 80-156.

If the room in the post office where a levee board meeting was held was large enough to accommodate the members of the public who wanted to attend and was accessible to the public, it was a suitable meeting place. OAG 82-412.

Under this section, the Personnel Board is not required to permit television coverage when it is hearing an appeal under KRS 18A.095 as a quasi-judicial body, but may do so if it adopts administrative regulations so permitting and stating restrictions and procedures for such coverage, pursuant to KRS 13A.100. OAG 84-371.

This section is compatible with Supreme Court holdings on the First Amendment. OAG 85-74.

Under this section, the fiscal court must permit news media coverage, including recording and broadcasting, use of television and other cameras and tape recording, subject only to the condition that order must be maintained. OAG 85-74.

Persons not connected with the media must have permission of the fiscal court in order to photograph or tape court proceedings. OAG 85-74.

With limited exceptions as provided for open meetings of public agencies, a local school board may prohibit nonstudents from entering upon school property, irrespective of the nature of activities which at the time are being conducted upon the property. OAG 90-11.

As a general rule a public meeting of a public body is either open to everyone under the Open Meetings Act or it is closed to everyone under a statutorily recognized exception to the Open Meetings Act; there is no principle of selective admission set forth in the Act. OAG 92-146.

A regulation, rule, or policy of a public body which uniformly prohibits the tape recording of a public meeting is arbitrary, capricious, restrictive, and unreasonable, and a person should be permitted to tape record a public meeting so long as that person and his or her taping equipment do not interfere with the orderly conduct of the public meeting. To the extent that OAG 85-74 conflicts with the decision and principles set forth in this decision, the earlier opinion is modified. OAG 96-ORD-143.

The county board of education's response to party complaining that at meeting some people could not hear, that the meeting site was inadequate and that people were forced to stand in the hallway and stand outside in the winter cold, violated the Open Meetings Act in that its written answer to the complaining party did not address the specific issues of accessibility to the meeting, noise in the meeting room, persons outside the meeting room in the hallway, and persons outside the building on a winter night; in addition, the response did not cite a section of the Open Meetings Act in support of the public agency's position and it did not provide a brief explanation of how that particular statutory provision applied to the situation involving the public agency. OAG 97-OMD-28.

Board of education violated the Open Meetings Act because even if the board met in a facility that would accommodate the number of persons normally expected to attend such meetings, where there was an overflow of attendees, the board of education should have made a good faith effort to handle the overflow crowd so that persons in the hallway and outside the building could have observed the public proceedings. OAG 97-OMD-28.

When the school board moved the meeting site of the board meeting which began in the school board office from the office to the school library, the latter location became the designated site from which all remaining proceedings and actions relative to the meeting should have been conducted and in the absence of any compelling reason to do so, the school board was not justified in moving the meeting to yet another location as such action is inconvenient to the public. OAG 97-OMD-84.

A city's practice of asking its residents to identify themselves in order to receive preferential seating at a city council meeting impermissibly places a condition upon attendance other than that required for maintenance of order; moreover, a person's place of residence is, in itself a personal identifier, and the city's practice contravenes this section by impermissibly requiring attendees to provide identifying information. OAG 98-OMD-44.

A county school system violated the Open Meetings Act when it reconvened a meeting in a high school library after a break from the public hearing held in the high school auditorium. OAG 99-OMD-117.

A county schools local facility planning committee violated the Open Meetings Act when it denied requests that committee members use microphones so that persons attending its meetings could hear the committee's discussion. OAG 99-OMD-196.

A county fiscal court violated the statute where it placed a sign-in sheet at the entrance to the fiscal court's meeting room, accompanied by a posted notice advising attendees to sign in before entering, and security men enforced the requirement, notwithstanding that the court asserted that no one was denied admittance for refusing to sign in and that the sheets were placed at the entrance for the purpose of determining how many people were present, where they lived, and their sentiments. OAG 00-OMD-63.

The Kentucky Board of Emergency Medical Services did not violate KRS 61.840 by conducting its January 4, 2001, meeting in the Public Health Auditorium of the Human Resources Building, a secure state facility at which visitor registration is required; the Board did not instruct the security officers attached to the Human Resources Building to require identification as a condition of attendance at the meeting. OAG 01-OMD-23.

A regulation, rule, or policy of a public body which uniformly prohibits the tape recording of a public meeting is arbitrary, capricious, restrictive, and unreasonable, and a person should be permitted to tape record a public meeting so long as that person and his or her taping equipment do not interfere with the orderly conduct of the public meeting. OAG 01-OMD-166.

The School Board effectively denied the request to record the May 26 meeting while it "studies all issues surrounding the issue of televising and videotaping its meetings." The Open Meetings Act invests all members of the public with the right to tape that meeting and future meetings unless his, or their, individual conduct poses a threat to the maintenance of order; there is no legal basis for the Board's proposal to adopt "procedures to ensure that the recording of its meetings will be done in a manner so as not to significantly interfere with the conduct of" its business. Instead, the Board must permit the media and the public to record its meetings, and may impose restrictions or prohibitions only where individual circumstances warrant. OAG 04-OMD-102.

Although the location at which the City held its August meeting was clearly not the most convenient, the location was also not inconvenient as evidenced by the large turnout. The meeting was announced to the public, and there is nothing on the record to indicate that persons wishing to attend or participate in the proceeding were effectively prevented from doing so. Accordingly, no violation of KRS 61.820 or KRS 61.840 occurred at the meeting. OAG 04-OMD-145.

The Fiscal Court's guidelines for the meeting, published in the local paper, clearly evidenced the agency's intention that there would be a sign-up sheet at the door for all individuals attending the meeting and people would be required to give their name and address, a violation of KRS 61.840 and the Open Meetings Act. However, the Fiscal Court's violation was mitigated by the fact that compliance with such a guideline was neither required nor made a condition for attendance at the meeting. OAG 04-OMD-227.

Since it appears that the City Council does not condition attendance on signing the sign-in sheet that is passed around during the meetings, and because the Open Meetings Act does not prohibit inclusion of the names of attendees in the minutes of its meetings, and because attendees can "opt out" of inclusion in the minutes by refusing to identify themselves, the City Council's conduct does not constitute a violation of the Act. OAG 05-OMD-200.

61.846. Enforcement by administrative procedure — Appeal.

(1) If a person enforces KRS 61.805 to 61.850 pursuant to this section, he shall begin enforcement under this subsection before proceeding to enforcement under subsection (2) of this section. The person shall submit a written complaint to the presiding officer of the public agency suspected of the violation of KRS 61.805 to 61.850. The complaint shall state the circumstances which constitute an alleged violation of KRS 61.805 to 61.850 and shall state what the public agency should do to remedy the alleged violation. The public agency shall determine within three (3) days, excepting Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, after the receipt of the complaint whether to remedy the alleged violation pursuant to the complaint and shall notify in writing the person making the complaint, within the three (3) day period, of its decision. If the public agency makes efforts to remedy the alleged violation pursuant to the complaint, efforts to remedy the alleged violation shall not be admissible as evidence of wrongdoing in an administrative or judicial proceeding. An agency's response denying, in whole or in part, the complaint's requirements for remedying the alleged violation shall include a statement of the specific statute or statutes supporting the public agency's denial and a brief explanation of how the statute or statutes apply. The response shall be issued by the presiding officer, or under his authority, and shall constitute final agency action.

(2) If a complaining party wishes the Attorney General to review a public agency's denial, the complaining party shall forward to the Attorney General a copy of the written complaint and a copy of the written denial within sixty (60) days from receipt by that party of the written denial. If the public agency refuses to provide a written denial, a complaining party shall provide a copy of the written complaint within sixty (60) days from the date the written complaint was submitted to the presiding officer of the public agency. The Attorney General shall review the complaint and denial and issue within ten (10) days, excepting Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, a written decision which states whether the agency violated the provisions of KRS 61.805 to 61.850. In arriving at the decision, the Attorney General may request additional documentation from the agency. On the day that the Attorney General renders his decision, he shall mail a copy to the agency and a copy to the person who filed the complaint.

(3)(a) If a public agency agrees to remedy an alleged violation pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, and the person who submitted the written complaint pursuant to subsection (1) of this section believes that the agency's efforts in this regard are inadequate, the person may complain to the Attorney General.

(b) The person shall provide to the Attorney General:

1. The complaint submitted to the public agency;
2. The public agency's response; and
3. A written statement of how the public agency has failed to remedy the alleged violation.

(c) The adjudicatory process set forth in subsection (2) of this section shall govern as if the public agency had denied the original complaint.

(4)(a) A party shall have thirty (30) days from the day that the Attorney General renders his decision to appeal the decision. An appeal within the thirty (30) day time limit shall be treated as if it were an action brought under KRS 61.848.

(b) If an appeal is not filed within the thirty (30) day time limit, the Attorney General's decision, as to whether the agency violated the provisions of KRS 61.805 to 61.850, shall have the force and effect of law and shall be enforceable in the Circuit Court of the county where the public agency has its principal place of business or where the alleged violation occurred.

(5) A public agency shall notify the Attorney General of any actions filed against that agency in Circuit Court regarding enforcement of KRS 61.805 to 61.850.

Enact. Acts 1992, ch. 162, § 7, effective July 14, 1992.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Application.

Where court found that closed meeting of county board of education had violated the open meetings of public agencies law and declared all action taken at the meeting void and enjoined the board from holding future closed sessions on certain topics discussed at the meeting, the court remained within the authority supplied it by former law regarding enforcement of law concerning open meetings in granting such relief and as long as the board and its members made a good faith effort to obey they would not be cited for contempt. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977) (decided under prior law).

While the coverage of the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800, was broad enough to include a police captain's termination hearing, the police captain did not follow the procedures in KRS 61.846 and 61.848, and so was not entitled to relief. Howard v. City of Independence, 199 S.W.3d 741, 2005 Ky. App. LEXIS 230 (Ky. Ct. App. 2005), abrogated in part, Pearce v. Univ. of Louisville, 2011 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 998 (Ky. Ct. App. Nov. 18, 2011).

In this Open Records Act action, the order was reversed in part because the circuit court lacked subject matter jurisdiction to conclude the university violated the Open Meetings Act where neither party invoked the circuit court's jurisdiction to enforce provisions. Univ. of Ky. v. Hatemi, 636 S.W.3d 857, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 114 (Ky. Ct. App. 2021).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

When the city deviated from its regular meeting schedule and rescheduled that regular meeting, any rescheduled meeting became a special meeting even if it eventually ended up being rescheduled again on the original regular meeting date. The meeting was a special meeting which required the city to follow the requirements of KRS 61.823 including those pertaining to notice and posting. Failure to follow these provisions constituted a violation of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 92-OMD-1473.

No matter how many requests or complaints a city may receive under the Open Meetings Act relative to the events of a certain date, each one must be responded to in the manner required by subsection (1) of this section and the fact that the city has previously responded to other complaints about the events does not lessen or eliminate the city's duties and responsibilities. OAG 92-OMD-1840.

City's response to complaint that meeting of city commissioners violated the Open Meetings Act with no citations or explanations, merely concluding that no meeting was held in violation of the Open Meetings Act and that if any violation occurred "it was purely accidental and unintentional" was completely unacceptable as a response or solution to a complaint alleging a violation of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 92-OMD-1840.

A person cannot seek relief from Attorney General's Office under this section when the same and additional questions under the Kentucky Open Meetings Act are currently pending before a circuit court under KRS 61.848. OAG 93-OMD-81.

Where the school board, at an open and public meeting, voted to employ a certain law firm as of the date of that meeting, the school board did not violate the Open Meetings Act even though prior to such meeting the chairman and one member of the board hired such firm and paid for their services with their personal funds; nothing in the Open Meetings Act prohibits public officials from securing legal representation and advice with their personal funds outside the scope of a public meeting. OAG 94-OMD-83.

As a public agency subject to the terms and provisions of the Open Meetings Act, the Workers' Compensation Advisory Council violated subsection (1) of this section by failing to furnish a timely written response to the person filing a complaint as to the legality of the Council adjourning into private caucuses meeting separately as business and labor interests. OAG 96-OMD-261.

Had the complaint as to the legality of the Workers' Compensation Advisory Council adjourning into private caucuses meeting separately as business and labor interests been an appeal under the Open Records Act (KRS 61.870 to KRS 61.884), which imposes the burden of proof in sustaining a denial of a request upon the public agency, KRS 61.880(2)(c), the matter could have been conclusively resolved in favor of the complaining party, however, because the Open Meetings Act contains no such provision relative to the public agency's burden of proof, it could not be decided that the public agency failed to meet its burden of proof and no definitive finding could be made. OAG 96-OMD-261.

Where a complaint was filed as to the legality of the Workers' Compensation Advisory Council adjourning into private caucuses meeting separately as business and labor interests, there could not be a definitive finding made by the Office of the Attorney General because the evidence was insufficient as to whether there was contemplated a "series of less than quorum meetings" or whether the purpose of these less than quorum gatherings was to avoid the requirements of the Open Meetings Act. If there were a series of less than quorum meetings and if those meetings were conducted for the purpose of avoiding the requirements of the Open Meetings Act, the Open Meetings Act would be violated. OAG 96-OMD-261.

The county board of education's response to party complaining that some at meeting some people could not hear, that the meeting site was inadequate and people were forced to stand in the hallway and outside in the winter cold, violated the Open Meetings Act in that its written answer to the complaining party did not address the specific issues of accessibility to the meeting, noise in the meeting room, persons outside the meeting room in the hallway, and persons outside the building on a winter night; in addition, the response did not cite a section of the Open Meetings Act in support of the public agency's position and it did not provide a brief explanation of how that particular statutory provision applied to the situation involving the public agency. OAG 97-OMD-28.

While the school board violated the Open Meetings Act by its failure to file a written response to the complaint within the statutorily mandated time frame, its decision to not renew the superintendent's contract was not a violation of the Open Meetings Act as that action was within the agenda of activities set forth in the notice for that special meeting which stated that "The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss renewal/or action of the superintendent's contract." OAG 97-OMD-43.

The function of the Attorney General's Office relative to the handling of an appeal under the Open Meetings Act is to issue a written decision stating whether the public agency violated the Act. The Attorney General cannot void actions taken or impose penalties for violations of the Act; only the Circuit Court can do that. OAG 97-OMD-90.

A city commission violated subsection (1), requiring an agency response to an open meetings complaint in writing and within three (3) business days, by failing to respond to complaint; a letter directed to the Attorney General following initiation of an open meetings appeal does not satisfy the statutory requirement. OAG 99-OMD-49.

A city council's failure to respond in writing and within three (3) business days to a complaint constituted a procedural violation of the statute. OAG 99-OMD-104.

A planning and zoning commission's failure to respond in writing, and within three (3) days, to a complaint, constituted a violation of the statute. OAG 99-OMD-146.

The failure of a county fiscal court to respond to an open meeting complaint within three (3) business days constituted a violation of the statute. OAG 99-OMD-213.

A county fiscal court's response to a combined meetings complaint and records request was procedurally deficient insofar as it was not issued within three (3) business days, it failed to cite a statutory basis for the fiscal court's position, and it failed to contain a brief supporting explanation. OAG 99-OMD-221.

A streetscape committee violated the statute by failing to respond in writing, and within three (3) business days, to an open meetings complaint. OAG 00-OMD-65.

The Attorney General is not authorized by the statute to declare actions taken at an improperly held meeting to be null and void. OAG 00-OMD-109.

A city commission's failure to respond in writing to a complaint pertaining to a special meeting constituted a violation of the statute. OAG 00-OMD-142.

A complaint pertaining to a meeting of a city council failed to substantially conform to the requirements of subsection (1) where the complaint was not addressed to the mayor and did not propose a remedy. OAG 00-OMD-156.

Since KRS 61.846(2) assigns to the Attorney General the role of dispute mediator in an open meetings appeal, and since the statute directs the Attorney General to review appeals without reference to the identity of the requester or to the agency issuing the denial, and since it does not provide for the appointment of an "independent authority" under circumstances which might appear to compromise his impartiality, or indeed, under any circumstances, the Attorney General will endeavor to research the law thoroughly and to apply that law to the facts presented without favoritism or bias. OAG 01-OMD-154.

By its express terms, KRS 61.846(2) forecloses Attorney General review of an open meetings appeal that is not initiated within sixty (60) days of the date of receipt of the agency's denial of an open meetings complaint or within sixty (60) days of the date the complaint was submitted if the agency refuses to provide a written denial. Accordingly, the appeal is time barred. OAG 03-OMD-53.

Where the complaint was placed in the mail on November 22, a Saturday, and presumably reached the Mayor on Monday or Tuesday of the following week, and where the City's offices were no doubt closed on Thursday and Friday, November 27 and 28, for the Thanksgiving holiday, and this appeal was initiated on the following Tuesday, December 2, no more than three (3) business days after his complaint reached the Mayor, the appeal was therefore premature, and the Council did not violate KRS 61.846(1). OAG 03-OMD-250.

61.848. Enforcement by judicial action — De novo determination in appeal of Attorney General's decision — Voidability of action not substantially complying — Awards in willful violation actions.

(1) The Circuit Court of the county where the public agency has its principal place of business or where the alleged violation occurred shall have jurisdiction to enforce the provisions of KRS 61.805 to 61.850, as they pertain to that public agency, by injunction or other appropriate order on application of any person.

(2) A person alleging a violation of the provisions of KRS 61.805 to 61.850 shall not have to exhaust his remedies under KRS 61.846 before filing suit in a Circuit Court. However, he shall file suit within sixty (60) days from his receipt of the written denial referred to in subsections (1) and (2) of KRS 61.846 or, if the public agency refuses to provide a written denial, within sixty (60) days from the date the written complaint was submitted to the presiding officer of the public agency.

(3) In an appeal of an Attorney General's decision, where the appeal is properly filed pursuant to subsection (4)(a) of KRS 61.846, the court shall determine the matter de novo.

(4) Except as otherwise provided by law or rule of court, proceedings arising under this section take precedence on the docket over all other causes and shall be assigned for hearing and trial at the earliest practicable date.

(5) Any rule, resolution, regulation, ordinance, or other formal action of a public agency without substantial compliance with the requirements of KRS 61.810, 61.815, 61.820, and KRS 61.823 shall be voidable by a court of competent jurisdiction.

(6) Any person who prevails against any agency in any action in the courts regarding a violation of KRS 61.805 to 61.850, where the violation is found to be willful, may be awarded costs, including reasonable attorneys' fees, incurred in connection with the legal action. In addition, it shall be within the discretion of the court to award the person an amount not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100) for each instance in which the court finds a violation. Attorneys' fees, costs, and awards under this subsection shall be paid by the agency responsible for the violation.

2. Order of Censure.
3. Substantial Compliance.

1. Application.

Where court found that closed meeting of county board of education had violated the open meetings of public agencies law and declared all action taken at the meeting void and enjoined the board from holding future closed sessions on certain topics discussed at the meeting, the court remained within the authority supplied it by this section in granting such relief and as long as the board and its members made a good faith effort to obey they would not be cited for contempt. Jefferson County Board of Education v. Courier-Journal, 551 S.W.2d 25, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 693 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977) (decided under prior law).

Injunction was proper under this section — even without a showing that petitioners had no adequate remedy at law — when a school board violated the Open Meeting Law by discussing a personnel reorganization plan in closed “executive” meetings; the preparation-for-litigation exception would not apply to mere discussion of whether dismissed administrators might sue the board. Also, the board failed to adhere to KRS 61.815, which requires that, before going into a closed session, a public body must state the exact exception it relies on to go into a closed meeting. Floyd County Bd. of Educ. v. Ratliff, 955 S.W.2d 921, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 145 (Ky. 1997).

While the coverage of the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800, was broad enough to include a police captain's termination hearing, the police captain did not follow the procedures in KRS 61.846 and 61.848, and so was not entitled to relief. Howard v. City of Independence, 199 S.W.3d 741, 2005 Ky. App. LEXIS 230 (Ky. Ct. App. 2005), abrogated in part, Pearce v. Univ. of Louisville, 2011 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 998 (Ky. Ct. App. Nov. 18, 2011).

Pursuant to KRS 61.848, a consulting contract that had been improperly approved following a closed session in a meeting of a county board of education, the attempted ratification of which was an action taken without substantial compliance with KRS 61.815, was voidable by the circuit court. As such, the contractor could retain amounts already paid for services under the contract but was not entitled to any additional payments. Carter v. Smith, 366 S.W.3d 414, 2012 Ky. LEXIS 66 (Ky. 2012).

Trial court properly exercised its authority to void the action of the school board directing legal counsel to pursue litigation because the board did not substantially comply with the Open Meetings Act. Webster County Bd. of Educ. v. Newell, 392 S.W.3d 431, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 31 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

While a board of commissioners violated the Open Meetings Act, the court of appeals erred in assessing fees and costs against it because the violation was not willful; the violation stemmed more from the board's effort to avoid the publicity adversely affecting the value of the property and its misconception of the law applicable to bidding at public auction without reserve, than from a willful attempt to violate the Act. Bd. of Comm'rs of Danville v. Advocate Communs., 527 S.W.3d 803, 2017 Ky. LEXIS 501 (Ky. 2017).

Former members of a public board had constitutional standing to raise violations of the Open Meetings Act with respect to a county fiscal court's action in removing them and the subsequent action by the board approving a lease termination agreement because they clearly alleged distinct and palpable injuries caused by the actions of the fiscal court and the board for which they would be entitled to a remedy under the Act; any action taken by the fiscal court in violation of the Act was voidable. Lincoln Trail Grain Growers Ass'n v. Meade Cty. Fiscal Court, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 89 (Ky. Ct. App. Aug. 6, 2021).

General Assembly declared that all citizens have a direct interest in public agencies' compliance with the requirements of the Open Meetings Act, and the particularized injury arises from the agency's violation of the Act itself, not specifically from the action taken; the rights accorded under the Act are not merely procedural but also grant the public at large a direct interest in its enforcement, and in other words, the violation of the Act itself constitutes the direct and personal injury. Lincoln Trail Grain Growers Ass'n v. Meade Cty. Fiscal Court, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 89 (Ky. Ct. App. Aug. 6, 2021).

Trial court erred by dismissing a complaint for lack of standing because the Open Meetings Act permitted an association to recover attorney fees and costs, and the availability of the remedy met the redressability requirement for constitutional standing; because actions taken in violation of the Act were not void ab initio, third parties not involved in the allegedly unlawful conduct could be entitled to rely on the validity of the agreement executed by the county fiscal court and public board. Lincoln Trail Grain Growers Ass'n v. Meade Cty. Fiscal Court, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 89 (Ky. Ct. App. Aug. 6, 2021).

In this Open Records Act action, the order was reversed in part because the circuit court lacked subject matter jurisdiction to conclude the university violated the Open Meetings Act where neither party invoked the circuit court's jurisdiction to enforce provisions. Univ. of Ky. v. Hatemi, 636 S.W.3d 857, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 114 (Ky. Ct. App. 2021).

2. Order of Censure.

By conducting its final deliberations in a closed session without substantial compliance with KRS 61.815, the State Board of Accountancy rendered its action in censuring an accountant voidable under this section; however, since the accountant raised no objection and demonstrated no prejudice as a result of the Board's action, the action was not void. Stinson v. State Bd. of Accountancy, 625 S.W.2d 589, 1981 Ky. App. LEXIS 304 (Ky. Ct. App. 1981) (decided under prior law).

3. Substantial Compliance.

Because a closed session in a meeting of a county board of education was not justified by any of the statutory exceptions in KRS 61.810, substantial compliance could not be found under KRS 61.848. There cannot be substantial compliance when an agency entirely fails to comply with the law by entering a closed session to which none of the exceptions apply. Carter v. Smith, 366 S.W.3d 414, 2012 Ky. LEXIS 66 (Ky. 2012).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A person cannot seek relief from Attorney General's Office under KRS 61.846 when the same and additional questions under the Kentucky Open Meetings Act are currently pending before a circuit court under this section. OAG 93-OMD-81.

The function of the Attorney General's Office relative to the handling of an appeal under the Open Meetings Act is to issue a written decision stating whether the public agency violated the Act. The Attorney General cannot void actions taken or impose penalties for violations of the Act; only the Circuit Court can do that. 97-OMD-90.

61.850. Construction.

KRS 61.805 to 61.850 shall not be construed as repealing any of the laws of the Commonwealth relating to meetings but shall be held and construed as ancillary and supplemental thereto.

1. Constitutionality.

Pre-amendment version of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.870(1)(h) was constitutional as it was sufficiently definite that a common man of ordinary intelligence could read and subscribe meaning to it. Pike Cnty. Fiscal Court v. Util. Mgmt. Grp., LLC, 2015 Ky. App. LEXIS 88 (Ky. Ct. App. June 12, 2015, sub.

op., 2015 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 880 (Ky. Ct. App. June 12, 2015).

Former Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.870(1)(h) was not unconstitutional for being vague because the statute was not void-as-unintelligible, as (1) the people the statute affected could understand the statute, and (2) courts could deduce the legislature’s will, as undefined terms found to render the statute unintelligible were commonly defined. Util. Mgmt. Grp., LLC v. Pike Cty. Fiscal Court, 531 S.W.3d 3, 2017 Ky. LEXIS 441 (Ky. 2017).

2. Public Records.

Due process does not require an appellate court to lay out for inspection by the appellant, even in a capital case, all of the information in its hands from which it may seek perspective and guidance in reviewing the propriety of his sentence. Ex parte Farley, 570 S.W.2d 617, 1978 Ky. LEXIS 390 (Ky. 1978).

The custody and control of the records generated by the courts in the course of their work are inseparable from the judicial function itself, and are not subject to statutory regulation. Ex parte Farley, 570 S.W.2d 617, 1978 Ky. LEXIS 390 (Ky. 1978).

The materials compiled for purposes of reviewing death sentences will be open to the public and, perforce, to all who may be interested, as soon as the Supreme Court has the occasion and opportunity to examine and consider them, and until then they are in the same category as any other source of knowledge or information, apart from the record of proceedings relating to an individual appellant, from which the members of the court may properly seek assistance or inspiration in the formulation of their judgments. Ex parte Farley, 570 S.W.2d 617, 1978 Ky. LEXIS 390 (Ky. 1978).

State university’s response to inquiry by collegiate athletic association into rules violation was not exempt from disclosure under Open Records Act exemption for public records. It is clear that the university is a “public agency” and the entire response submitted by the university to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) constitutes a public record. Where the university spent over $400,000.00 for the response and the public has a legitimate interest in its contents, the response is not exempt. Furthermore, the contents of the response are a matter of public interest and release would not constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. University of Kentucky v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 830 S.W.2d 373, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 55 (Ky. 1992).

Any common law regarding access to records maintained by public agencies was codified and preempted by the General Assembly’s passage of the Open Records Act. University of Kentucky v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 830 S.W.2d 373, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 55 (Ky. 1992).

Medical records of patients in public hospital were not related to the functioning of the hospital, the activities carried on by the hospital, its programs or its operations and, as such, were not public records under this section. Hardin County v. Valentine, 894 S.W.2d 151, 1995 Ky. App. LEXIS 48 (Ky. Ct. App. 1995).

KRS 61.878 exempts Governor’s daily appointment ledgers from media inspection and summary judgment denying their availability to newspaper under the Open Records Act was appropriate. Courier-Journal v. Jones, 895 S.W.2d 6, 1995 Ky. App. LEXIS 58 (Ky. Ct. App. 1995).

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) did not bar a university from releasing to a newspaper all records sought under the Open Records Act because, while FERPA barred release of unredacted education records contained in a Title IX investigation file, not all the records sought were education records directly relating to a student. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op.), 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019).

4. Prosecutorial File.

The Open Records Act neither intends nor provides that a convicted criminal should have complete access to the prosecutorial file once his conviction has been affirmed on direct appeal. Skaggs v. Redford, 844 S.W.2d 389, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 164 (Ky. 1992), overruled in part, City of Fort Thomas v. Cincinnati Enquirer, 406 S.W.3d 842, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 375 (Ky. 2013).

5. Public Agency.

The Kentucky State University Foundation is a “public agency” as defined in this section and therefore subject to the Open Records law. An interpretation of this section which does not include the Foundation as a public agency is clearly inconsistent with the natural and harmonious reading of this section considering the overall purpose of the Kentucky Open Records law. The obvious purpose of the Open Records law is to make available for public inspection all records in the custody of public agencies by whatever label they have at the moment. The phrase “or agency thereof” in subsection (1) prior to the 1992 amendment is applicable to all units of government listed before it in the same subsection. It is the clear intent of the law to make public the records of all units of government by whatever title for public inspection. Frankfort Pub. Co. v. Kentucky State University Foundation, Inc., 834 S.W.2d 681, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 103 (Ky. 1992) (decision prior to 1992 amendment).

The role of the Commissioner of the Department of Insurance as “rehabilitator” is legally separate from his official role as the regulator of the state’s insurance department, and although he is appointed by and responsible to the court, the commissioner is not a “governing body” as contemplated in subsection (1)(i) of this section nor does he qualify as a “public agency” as described in subsection (1)(a) of this section. Kentucky Cent. Life Ins. Co. by & Through Stephens v. Park Broadcasting, 913 S.W.2d 330, 1996 Ky. App. LEXIS 6 (Ky. Ct. App. 1996).

The Kentucky State Penitentiary, and other Kentucky facilities, are required to comply with open records requests. Blair v. Hendricks, 30 S.W.3d 802, 2000 Ky. App. LEXIS 69 (Ky. Ct. App. 2000), overruled in part, Lang v. Sapp, 71 S.W.3d 133, 2002 Ky. App. LEXIS 452 (Ky. Ct. App. 2002).

As the status of a public university’s foundation as a public entity under KRS 61.870 had not been clearly established, it was reasonable for donors to the foundation who requested anonymity to expect their request to be honored. Therefore, a newspaper was properly denied access to donor identities and the amounts of their donations under Kentucky’s Open Records Act. Cape Pub’ns, Inc. v. Univ. of Louisville Found., Inc., 260 S.W.3d 818, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 176 (Ky. 2008).

Future donors to the University of Louisville Foundation are on notice that their gifts are being made to a public institution and, therefore, are subject to disclosure under KRS 61.871 regardless of any requests for anonymity. Cape Pub’ns, Inc. v. Univ. of Louisville Found., Inc., 260 S.W.3d 818, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 176 (Ky. 2008).

Names of donors to a public university’s foundation who had not requested anonymity were subject to the disclosure requirement of KRS 61.871, as the foundation was a public entity under KRS 61.870, and the donors had no reasonable expectation of privacy. Cape Pub’ns, Inc. v. Univ. of Louisville Found., Inc., 260 S.W.3d 818, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 176 (Ky. 2008).

Circuit court properly found that the operator of a hospital was a public agency and within the scope of Kentucky’s Open Records Act because a majority of the operator’s board of directors were appointed by a university, itself a public agency. Univ. Med. Ctr., Inc. v. ACLU of Ky., Inc., 467 S.W.3d 790, 2014 Ky. App. LEXIS 159 (Ky. Ct. App. 2014).

6. — Agent.

By virtue of county attorney’s election to participate in program relating to state’s goal of reducing welfare roles by collecting child support payments for welfare recipients, attorney acted as an agent of the Cabinet for Human Resources with respect to administration of the program, and to that extent, attorney was subject to the Open Records Act which governed disclosure of documents related to the program. Edmondson v. Alig, 926 S.W.2d 856, 1996 Ky. App. LEXIS 124 (Ky. Ct. App. 1996).

7. Private Corporation.

The confidential audited financial reports of privately owned, corporate marina operators were exempt from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(c)(1). The Legislative Program Review and Investigation Committee could not obtain nor disclose such records under the Open Records Act, but could obtain access to them for its use in evaluation pursuant to KRS 6.910 without disclosure to the public. Marina Management Servs. v. Cabinet for Tourism, Dep’t of Parks, 906 S.W.2d 318, 1995 Ky. LEXIS 62 (Ky. 1995).

Private company was subject to the former Open Records Act because (1) the company could be a “body” under Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.870(1)(h), and (2) the company derived virtually all the company’s income from a water district and city. Util. Mgmt. Grp., LLC v. Pike Cty. Fiscal Court, 531 S.W.3d 3, 2017 Ky. LEXIS 441 (Ky. 2017).

Amendment to Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.870(1)(h) which exempted a private company from the Open Records Act was not retroactive because (1) no authority showed the amendment simply clarified existing law, (2) the amendment was not remedial, and (3) a fiscal court’s right to inspect the company’s records vested when the fiscal court requested the records before the amendment was enacted. Util. Mgmt. Grp., LLC v. Pike Cty. Fiscal Court, 531 S.W.3d 3, 2017 Ky. LEXIS 441 (Ky. 2017).

8. Attorney-Client Privilege.

Public records protected by the attorney-client privilege are ordinarily excludable from the disclosure requirements of the Open Records Act. Hahn v. Univ. of Louisville, 80 S.W.3d 771, 2001 Ky. App. LEXIS 84 (Ky. Ct. App. 2001).

The Governor’s administration was properly ordered to release service description statements on attorney billing records reflecting the general nature of legal services rendered by nongovernmental lawyers retained in connection with an investigation of hiring practices. Such statements were not protected by the attorney-client privilege of KRE 503, and the trial court’s solution of allowing the administration to submit descriptions it believed to be privileged for in camera review balanced the administration’s interest in the confidentiality of privileged materials and the public interest in disclosure. Commonwealth v. Scorsone, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 18 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 18, 2008), op. withdrawn, sub. op., 251 S.W.3d 328, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 40 (Ky. Ct. App. 2008).

Blanket redaction of descriptions of particular services rendered by nongovernment lawyers to various agencies in the governor’s administration was improper under the Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 to 61.884, as the attorney-client privilege under KRE 503 did not apply to every communication between an attorney and a client. Commonwealth v. Scorsone, 251 S.W.3d 328, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 40 (Ky. Ct. App. 2008).

9. Defamation.

Kentucky Lottery Corporation did not have absolute privilege with respect to a termination memo in a defamation claim by discharged employees. The employees’ alleged more than the simple disclosure of documents prepared in the regular course of business and placed in their personnel files; they presented evidence that their supervisors maliciously created defamatory memoranda so that they would be subject to an open records disclosure, and concealed the existence of the documents to impede the employees’ ability to invoke an exemption to the Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 et. seq. Hill v. Ky. Lottery Corp., 2010 Ky. LEXIS 82 (Ky. Apr. 22, 2010), sub.

op., 327 S.W.3d 412, 2010 Ky. LEXIS 317 (Ky. 2010), modified, 2010 Ky. LEXIS 318 (Ky. Dec. 16, 2010).

Absolute privilege does not extend so far as to cloak with immunity one who, with a malicious purpose and under no legal compulsion to do so, creates defamatory material with the expectation that it would be published. Therefore, in a defamation case, a former employer was unable to argue that it was absolutely privileged because it was required to release a termination memorandum under the Kentucky Open Records Act. Hill v. Ky. Lottery Corp., 327 S.W.3d 412, 2010 Ky. LEXIS 317 (Ky. 2010).

10. Harm.

Nothing in the Kentucky Open Records Act conditions an individual's right to obtain public records on his purpose in seeking those records; further, the propriety of assessing a penalty against non-compliant officials does not depend on whether harm befell the person who is denied records under KRS 61.882(5). Therefore, the fact that an inmate might not have been harmed by the failure to disclose jail records was irrelevant. Eplion v. Burchett, 354 S.W.3d 598, 2011 Ky. App. LEXIS 215 (Ky. Ct. App. 2011).

Ann. § 61.870(1)(h), the management group, which provided management and operational services for the county public waterworks district and other services for a local city, and received funds from state and local authorities, qualified as a public agency. Pike Cnty. Fiscal Court v. Util. Mgmt. Grp., LLC, 2015 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 880 (Ky. Ct. App. June 12, 2015), aff'd, 531 S.W.3d 3, 2017 Ky. LEXIS 441 (Ky. 2017).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A request to police department for records pertaining to the criminal history of a certain person which pertained only to the records of criminal prosecutions which had as of the day of the request been completed or in which a determination not to prosecute was made and did not pertain to information gathered for use in respective law enforcement action not yet instituted should have been honored under the Criminal History Records Act, KRS 17.110 to 17.157 and the Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 to 61.884. OAG 76-424.

Unless a particular record of the police court is covered by a particular exception set forth in KRS 61.870 to 61.884 the record is subject to public inspection by any person without the necessity of showing a reason for the inspection. OAG 76-443.

There is nothing in KRS Chapter 315 or the Open Records Law (KRS 61.870 to 61.884) prohibiting the release of scores on examinations administered by the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy to applicants for a pharmacist license under KRS 315.050 to colleges of pharmacy or other institutions or agencies. OAG 76-573.

Since subsection (1) of this section contains a different definition of a public agency than KRS 61.805, in that it includes "any other body which is created by state or local authority in any branch of government or which derives at least 25% of its funds from state or local authority" some organizations which are not under the purview of the Open Meetings Law may be under the purview of the Open Records Law. OAG 76-648.

If a citizen requests to see the appointing documents for five (5) employees of the school board or even for twenty-five (25) employees there is no reason he should not be allowed access to the records and requests by school board that when specific individuals are involved in the requests they should be asked for on a one (1) individual at a time basis was not justified. OAG 76-756.

The State Board of Medical Licensure is a public agency and thus the official actions of the Board including disciplinary action are subject to public disclosure to any citizen. OAG 77-55.

The "police blotter" or police "incident report" is not exempt from public inspection; if a police department feels it necessary to withhold certain items from public inspection in order to protect a police officer or an informant, it may do so under KRS 17.150 but the burden is upon the custodian to justify the refusal of inspection with specificity, otherwise records of police departments showing complaints received from citizens in other incidences occurring in its daily operation are open to public inspection. OAG 77-102.

It is not lawful to permanently remove the official seals from land warrants; however, in order to make the land warrants suitable for lamination, such seals may be removed so long as they are replaced so that the warrant is restored to its original condition with the exception of the intervening sheet of plastic laminate, for to hold that the removal and replacement constitutes an unlawful alteration of a public record under KRS 519.060(1)(b) would render such restoration impossible; moreover since a literal reading of subsection (1)(b) of KRS 519.060 would defeat the legislative policy of preserving these warrants it cannot stand to prevent temporary removal of these seals and their subsequent replacement. OAG 77-516.

After an inquest verdict and testimony have been filed in the circuit clerk's office pursuant to KRS 72.060 (now repealed), such record at that point becomes a public record and is subject to the Open Records Law. OAG 78-28.

OAG 79-374.

While "incident reports" should be open to public inspection, there is no requirement that a police department prepare a special report for the news media unless it sees fit to do so voluntarily. OAG 79-387.

A notation "Do Not Publish" on a public record would have no effect on the right to inspect, copy and publish the information in the record. OAG 79-413.

OAG 79-496.

It is not necessary for an agency to make a list of items from its records if such a list does not already exist. OAG 79-547.

OAG 80-308.

OAG 80-454.

OAG 81-2.

Where letter response to person requesting inspection of housing agency records stated that agency would respond once request had been cleared with United States Department of Housing and Urban Development Area Council but cited no state or federal statute authorizing the denial or delay of inspection and where request did not on its face suggest any exemption from inspection under KRS 61.878, there was improper denial or delay of inspection under the Open Records Law. Where a public agency has not adopted its own rules and regulations with respect to the storage of agency records, the uniform regulations adopted by the Department of Finance (now Finance and Administration Cabinet) would apply to determine where such records can be kept; thus, in the absence of agency regulations, the records of the board of physical therapy may be kept in the home of the executive director of the board when the residence is designated as the official office of the agency and the responsibility for the keeping of the records is placed on the executive director as the official custodian, with no further precautions necessary; moreover, the listing of the home address in the state directory and city telephone directory serves as sufficient notice as to where the records may be found and inspected under the Open Records Law. OAG 81-269.

It was a violation of the Open Records Law when a custodian of records did not either send the requester the records he requested, tell him where and when he could inspect the requested records or give him a written response denying the record with an explanation based on a statutory exception. OAG 81-288.

City records which will disclose the names of employers who are delinquent in paying occupational taxes are open to public inspection, since a city is a public agency and is subject to the provisions of the Open Records Law, and, even though KRS 131.190 prohibits the disclosure of information from tax records "insofar as the information may have to do with the affairs of the person's business", it does not prohibit the disclosure of the fact that a person is delinquent in paying his taxes, for although tax records cannot be made totally available for public inspection because of the restrictions of KRS 131.190, non-exempt information can and must be made available under KRS 61.878(3). OAG 81-309.

The Department (now Cabinet) for Human Resources properly denied the inspection of all statistical compilations or raw data which it had in its custody concerning the number of children allegedly dependent, neglected or abused who were in the Department's custody between 1978 and 1981, and other related information, since the Open Records Law only requires an agency to release documents for which a list or compilation has been made, but if no list exists, the agency cannot be required to make one. OAG 81-333.

An application form provided by a city to open records requesters, which required that the requester state under oath that he is a Kentucky citizen, that he give his home address and telephone number, that he state the reason for his request and that the form be given under oath and certified by a notary public, was defective in that "any person" can inspect public records under KRS 61.872, so that access is not limited to Kentucky citizens; a requester does not need to give any personal information or his reason for the request under KRS 61.870 to 61.884, and the application need not be given under oath or notarized. OAG 81-345.

An individual may inspect the records of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources in order to compile a list of licensed trappers, since the records of the Department are opened to inspection by subsection (2) of KRS 150.190 and trapper's licenses are not made confidential by any statute. OAG 81-362.

The registrar of vital statistics cannot refuse a request to inspect all death certificates and death verification certificates in the possession or control of a county health department based upon the confidentiality of vital records provision in KRS 213.200 (now repealed), since that section can only be interpreted as preventing the Department (now Cabinet) for Human Resources from requiring a physician to disclose to the Department confidential communications between the physician and his patient, but does not authorize the registrar to withhold vital statistic records from public inspection. OAG 81-400.

Both a proposed budget and the final approved budget of a fiscal court are public records under this section and are open to inspection by the public under KRS 61.872. OAG 82-91.

When any one (1) of the local officers named in KRS 197.170 receives formal notice from the superintendent of the penitentiary that a named convict has been released to reside in his jurisdiction, the formal notice is a public record which any person has a right to inspect under the Open Records Law. The local officer is not required to make any publication of the fact that he has received notice of a prisoner's release and, therefore, any person desiring such information will have to make an inquiry from time to time and request to inspect any notices which the local officer has received. OAG 82-115.

All libraries may refuse to disclose for public inspection their circulation records. As far as the Open Records Law is concerned, they may also make the records open if they so choose; however, the privacy rights which are inherent in a democratic society should constrain all libraries to keep their circulation lists confidential. OAG 82-149.

No person can demand as a matter of right to inspect the circulation records of any type of library — school, public, academic or special — under the Open Records Law. OAG 82-149.

(KMSF), under an agreement between the University and KMSF whereby KMSF reimburses the University for expenses and disburses clinical income to faculty physicians on the basis of their services, does not at any time become public money so as to constitute funding by state or local authority. OAG 82-216.

The Kentucky Medical Services Foundation, Inc. is a nonprofit corporation organized under KRS Ch. 273, which receives no state or local funding, and therefore is not a public agency under the Open Records Law. OAG 82-216.

The purpose for which a person seeks access to a public record is not relevant to the Open Records Law, and a public agency has no right to inquire as to the purpose for the inspection and copying of the record. Any inspection request form which requires the statement of the purpose of inspection is contrary to the law. OAG 82-234.

Because, as of January 15, 1982, the Kentucky Department of Energy's (now Energy Cabinet) previous operational and funding relationship with the Kentucky Export Resources Authority was terminated, there was no basis upon which to conclude that the authority, subsequent to that time, was receiving any funding from state or local authorities. Therefore, unless that situation should change, the authority would no longer be a public agency whose records were subject to disclosure after January 15, 1982. OAG 82-277. Withdrawing OAG 82-27.

Since the Kentucky Export Resources Authority, Inc. was run by Kentucky Department of Energy (now Energy Cabinet) personnel, and the operating expenses of the corporation were primarily paid for with Kentucky Department of Energy funds, from the date the authority was incorporated (March 3, 1981) until January 15, 1982 when the authority became self-sufficient and its personnel were removed from the payroll of the Kentucky Department of Energy, the Authority was a public agency as defined in subdivision (1) of this section from March 3, 1981, until January 15, 1982, and a request made during that period for access to records of the authority was improperly denied. OAG 82-277. Withdrawing OAG 82-27.

A member of the city council is entitled to inspect and make copies of any public records of the city located in the clerk's office during normal office hours and at other times in emergencies. OAG 82-311.

OAG 82-311.

Minutes of open meetings are open to public inspection; minutes of closed meetings may be withheld from public inspection. OAG 83-60.

District health departments are public agencies as defined in subsection (1) of this section. OAG 83-235.

Generally, when an agency makes an official inspection of one (1) of its licensees and objectively grades the performance or conditions existing on the premises of the licensee, the report and grade is open to public inspection; on the other hand, a report by an agency employee to his superior expressing opinions and making recommendations of policy may be exempted from mandatory public disclosure by KRS 61.878(1)(h). OAG 83-235.

The fact that a health department report was involved in a class-action lawsuit did not necessarily mean that it was exempt from mandatory public inspection unless the judge issued an order to that effect. OAG 83-235.

A health department report relating to an outbreak of hepatitis in a certain country club was a "public record." OAG 83-235.

School activity funds are under the control, and are the responsibility, of the principal and the principal is the official custodian of the records; any person is entitled to inspect the business records concerning such funds, but any items in the records which are made confidential by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 or any state law may be deleted from the records before they are made available for public inspection. OAG 83-248.

The State Board of Accountancy is a public agency pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. OAG 83-308.

The Department of Corrections (now Corrections Cabinet) is a public agency as defined by subdivision (1) of this section; therefore the records prepared, owned, used, or in possession of the Department of Corrections are public records pursuant to subdivision (2) of this section and are open to public inspection unless exempted under KRS 61.878. OAG 83-313; 83-337.

As a public agency pursuant to subdivision (1) of this section, the documentary materials prepared by the Kentucky Department of Labor (now Labor Cabinet) are public records under subdivision (2) of this section and are open to public inspection unless exempted under KRS 61.878. OAG 83-326.

Audit reports are exempt from public inspection when there is a possibility of prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication; after the law enforcement action or administrative adjudication is complete or a decision is made to take no action, the final audit is open to public inspection. OAG 83-326.

Requested documents concerning change of control of several banks were federal documents filed with the Department of Banking and Securities (now Department of Financial Institutions) by federal regulatory agencies and, therefore, the Department of Banking and Securities was just the casual possessor, not the official custodian, of these documents which were still possessed by the federal agencies; the "official custodian" is the proper official to make decisions on policy concerning the release of records and, accordingly, the Department acted properly in denying request for such records and notifying requester of the official custodians with whom he could file a Freedom of Information Act request. OAG 83-342.

A county ambulance service was a public agency pursuant to subsection (1) of this section since it was created and budgeted by the county fiscal court; therefore, the records prepared by the ambulance service were public records pursuant to subsection (2) of this section and open to public inspection unless exempted. OAG 83-344.

A decision rendered by referee for unemployment compensation division was a public record under subdivision (2) of this section, and thus open to public inspection unless exempted by KRS 61.878; since the referee's decision was evidence of a final action by the agency, the exemptions of KRS 61.878 did not apply. OAG 83-352.

Where report was requested by the county judge/executive in order to investigate alleged misuse of county road equipment by an elected magistrate, KRS 61.878(1)(h) would apply to exempt the document from public inspection since the report was not indicative of any final action taken by the fiscal court and as such was preliminary; at most, the report could merely be preliminary memoranda gathered by the county attorney in his investigation. OAG 83-469.

Since a report concerning investigation of alleged misuse of county equipment, which was made at the request of the county judge/executive, was documentary material in the possession of a public agency, it was a "public record" under subdivision (2) of this section and open to public inspection unless exempted pursuant to KRS 61.878(1). OAG 83-469.

A fiscal court is a "public agency" pursuant to subdivision (1) of this section and subject to the Open Records Law. OAG 83-469.

Absentee ballots and applications are public records open to public inspection while in the custody of the circuit clerk; however, pursuant to KRS 30A.080(3) restricting the removal of public records from the circuit clerk's office, removal may only be gained by court order. OAG 83-476.

Absentee ballots and applications which were in the custody of the circuit clerk pending an election contest suit were "public records" in the possession of a "public agency" pursuant to KRS 61.870 and open to public inspection while in the clerk's custody. OAG 83-476.

Photographs belonging to defendant which were in custody of police officer were subject to the Open Records Law as they fell under the definition of a "public record" in subdivision (2) of this section. OAG 84-178.

A city budget is a public record under this section and is thus open to public inspection; current budgets are required to be published pursuant to KRS 424.240. Previous budgets and current budgets are both open to public inspection, as previous budgets have lost any "preliminary" quality by being closed and current budgets are "working" budgets indicative of final action; for the same reasons, the budget ordinances of the city would also be open to inspection. OAG 84-217.

A nonprofit corporation which was formed pursuant to KRS Ch. 273 for the purpose of community development through making loans to small businesses, and which received no funds from state or local authority was not a public agency and thus was not subject to the Open Records or the Open Meetings laws. OAG 84-237.

The coroner's records are public records, as defined in subsections (1) and (2) of this section. OAG 84-246.

A city-county human rights commission created under KRS 344.310 is a "public agency" as that term is defined in subsection (1) of this section. OAG 84-376.

A request to inspect public records under the Open Records Law was properly denied to the extent that the request related to documents of the Kentucky Educational Foundation, Inc., as the Foundation is not a public agency and does not appear to derive at least 25% of its funds from state or local authority; however, the request to inspect public records was improperly denied to the extent that the request related to records of the State Department of Education concerning the actual contributions, expenditures and services rendered by the Department to the Kentucky Educational Foundation, Inc. OAG 84-382.

The signature log of employees and visitors eating meals in the Kentucky State Penitentiary facilities, which the Corrections Cabinet's policies and procedures document requires each institution to maintain, is a public record, and furthermore, the list of meal tickets sold is a public record, as the Cabinet's policies and procedures document requires employees and visitors to purchase a meal ticket for each meal eaten in the Cabinet facilities. Thus, the denial of a request to inspect the list of meal tickets was improper and in violation of the Open Records Act. OAG 85-89.

Since a school district is a public agency under the Open Records Law and the certificates required by KRS 161.020 are public records as defined in Subsection (2) of this section, denial of a request to inspect the certificates required by KRS 161.020 to be filed with the Board of Education was improper under the Open Records Law, except that information, if any, on the certificates of a personal nature, such as social security numbers, home addresses and telephone numbers, need not be released. OAG 85-109.

A requesting party cannot be required to state or verify why he needs to inspect and copy public records. OAG 85-120.

The Kentucky Open Records Act does not require that a requesting party state the reason for his request to inspect or copy public records. OAG 85-120.

The Personnel Board improperly denied the request, made under the Open Records Act, to the Board to inspect and copy the hearing tapes of a hearing conducted by the Board, to the extent that the request was made after the hearing tapes had been submitted to the Board pursuant to its regulations and while those tapes were in the possession of or retained by the Board. OAG 86-15.

KRS 61.835 provides that a city is required to accurately record the minutes of all of its meetings and make such records available for public inspection; if a city does not do this, then it has violated the provisions of KRS 61.835 and the provisions of the Open Records Act since the council minutes are public records under subsection (2) of this section. OAG 86-20.

The public agency's actions in not making public records available for public inspection on the grounds that the documents could not be found and that the request for other records was vague and imprecise were proper responses and actions under the terms and provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 86-65.

The school system improperly denied the applicant-teacher's request for a copy of that portion of a tape containing the applicant-teacher's answers to questions propounded by the school system, the questions having been asked as part of the school system's teacher selection process. OAG 87-56.

The tapes of the hearing concerning a teacher contract termination proceeding conducted pursuant to KRS 161.790 were available for public inspection under the Open Records Law even though the tapes were in the possession of the reporter-transcriber rather than the Board of Education, as the teacher requested a public hearing and the matter had not reached the courts. OAG 87-62.

While there is no specific provision in the Open Records Act requiring that information pertaining to ambulance reports be kept confidential, there is a provision that a public agency need not permit the inspection of documents if to do so would involve the unwarranted invasion of a person's privacy. OAG 88-42.

A university's copy of a letter from the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) addressed to counsel representing the University's assistant coach was a public record subject to public inspection unless one of the exceptions to public inspections could be properly invoked. OAG 88-47.

Where the private college did not receive any grants or loans from the Higher Education Assistance Authority, there was no evidence that the college was a "public agency" within the meaning of subdivision (1) of KRS 61.870, and the college properly denied the request to inspect its records and documents as it was not subject to the terms and provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 88-61.

A water works company of which a city is the sole shareholder is a public agency within the meaning of subdivision (1) of this section. OAG 88-72.

If records, though regarding private donations and disbursements, are in the possession of or retained by a state agency, they are, in general, subject to inspection; the open records statutes, however, do not require state personnel to identify private entities that might have records regarding private donations and expenditures from such donations; thus, to the extent agencies have allowed inspection of (or provided) records that they had possession of or retained, and truthfully indicated that they do not have certain records sought by the requests, they have substantially complied with the open records statutes. OAG 89-7.

A public agency is not required to disseminate, to the public, records which a court has placed under a seal of confidentiality when the person requesting such records was not a party to the litigation. OAG 89-22.

Kentucky's Open Records laws do not empower the attorney general's office to order creation of records, nor do those laws require agencies to create records, e.g., resumes, written recollections, etc. OAG 89-32.

Where there was a request (and a supplement thereto) for certain records, and the agency promptly responded to the request(s), indicating in substance that records sought by the request(s) did not exist, this office must accept as truthful, absent clear evidence to the contrary, an agency's response that records of the type requested do not exist. OAG 89-32.

Records related to an official trust account, such as one maintained for receipt of bail bonds, are clearly related to functions — operation of the bonding program — funded by state or local authority. Checks drawn on a publicly owned account do not take on a private character because they were used for a private purpose. Records of the account, including checks drawn thereon, are public records within the meaning of subdivision (2) of this section. OAG 89-35.

A county property valuation administrator failed to act consistently with the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 in failing to respond in writing to a verbal request for access to records, and in responding to a written request by forwarding it to another agency. OAG 89-40.

A request to provide addresses of individuals for whom the requestor had names and social security numbers was a request for research to be performed, rather than for inspection of reasonably identified public records. Open records provisions do not require public agencies to carry out research or compile information to conform to a given request. OAG 89-45.

Because it derives at least 25 percent of its funds from local authority, West Lincoln County Emergency Medical Services, Inc., a nonprofit corporation, is subject to provisions of Kentucky's Open Records Laws. OAG 89-46.

A bond instrument, or copy thereof, in the hands of the clerk, and any entries or recordations in such regard, e.g., in an "order book," or "miscellaneous bonds" book, are recognized as being subject to public inspection. No exception set forth in Open Records provisions would support a denial of inspection of records of this type. No court order for inspection is required. OAG 89-47.

The Elizabethtown Airport Board is a public agency subject to Open Records provisions. OAG 89-53.

The Pike County Correctional Facilities Corporation is an instrumentality of the fiscal court, and thus is a public agency subject to Open Records provisions within the meaning of subdivision (1) of this section. OAG 89-55.

Records held by a private entity are beyond the reach of Open Records provisions. OAG 89-55.

The purpose of the Open Records Law is not to provide information but to provide access to public records not exempted from inspection by law. OAG 89-61.

Open Records provisions do not empower the Attorney General to order an agency to provide information or prepare records that contain information that perhaps should appear on records sought. OAG 89-66.

The Property Valuation Administrator, and the office thereof, is a public agency within the meaning of subdivision (1) of this section, and is thus subject to Open Records provisions. OAG 89-66.

The Kentucky State University Foundation, Inc., is a recognized fund-raising instrumentality of Kentucky State University, and is thus an "agency thereof," within the meaning of subdivision (1) of this section. OAG 89-92.

Tape recordings of board of education meetings were public records within the meaning of this section, although inspection thereof could be denied on the ground that the recordings were preliminary drafts regarding preparation of the official minutes, as inspection of preliminary drafts may be denied pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(g). OAG 89-93.

As court records are outside the purview of Open Records provisions, the Circuit Court clerk did not act other than consistently with Open Records provisions refusing to furnish copies of certain court records to a penitentiary inmate who requested the same. OAG 90-4.

Where city manager's response on behalf of city to request to inspect all documents relating to settlement of legal action against city addressed only records in the possession of the city manager, and not the city as an agency, the response was not consistent with Open Records provisions, and in particular, KRS 61.880(1). OAG 90-36.

Because an ambulance service received over 25% of its funds from "local authority," it was a public agency for purposes of the Open Records Act and must comply with act's requirements. OAG 90-59.

The request for information to indicate when the Commonwealth's Attorney's office first became involved in a particular case was a request for information and not a request for documents as contemplated under the Open Records Act. OAG 90-77.

Local law enforcement agencies are required to make available for public inspection the arrest records of all persons, and police departments are required to maintain daily logs of arrests made by police officers and to make them available for public inspection; no provision in the Domestic Violence and Abuse Act makes arrest records and incident reports confidential. OAG 91-12.

While reporters are entitled to inspect the arrest records and incident reports, the public agency is not required to compile the material in a list form nor is it required to make available the material on diskettes or tapes if it already does not exist in that format; basically, what the public gets is what the agency has and in the format in which the agency has it. OAG 91-12.

A public agency cannot provide records which have been reviewed by public officials and returned to the private individuals; such records would have to be obtained from the individuals involved because obviously a public agency cannot furnish access to documents for which the public agency no longer has custody. OAG 91-15.

Records maintained by individuals related to the financial operations of the city's golf courses that pertain to concession monies collected, for which the city gets no percentage, are not open records, but records of monies received by the city for green fees are records open for inspection. OAG 91-15.

Where an Alderman requested that some or all of the five city golf professionals permit inspection of certain financial records and there was no indication that this request was authorized by a majority of the Board of Aldermen while in session, the records which these golf professionals voluntarily provided to the Alderman in his individual capacity does not constitute "use" of records by the City of Louisville; even if the Alderman were acting in his official capacity on behalf of the Board of Aldermen, the financial records voluntarily produced for review by an individual and then returned to that individual are not converted into "public records." OAG 91-15.

Under the Kentucky Open Records Act, a public agency is not required to create a document which does not already exist, so where an agency refuses to disclose a written settlement agreement not yet prepared, there is no violation of the Kentucky Open Records Act yet. OAG 91-20.

Both microfiche copies and index books of the Kentucky Register of Births & Deaths are public records under subsection (2) of this section and are available for public inspection under KRS 61.872(1) and 213.131(2) and (3); and since the Register has been available for public inspection for many years, the new legislation somewhat limiting public access to vital records, does not in any way make confidential records which have been open to the public for such a lengthy period of time. OAG 91-25.

If a state employee makes an unlawful disclosure of confidential birth records, for the Cabinet of Human Resources to be liable for such disclosure the aggrieved party would have to prove that the Commonwealth or its agent was negligent. OAG 91-25.

The fact that sets of the Register of Births and Deaths are presently available for public inspection would not violate any Kentucky statutes, simply because at the time the Register was published the information contained in the Register was not confidential, and the Cabinet of Human Resources had no affirmative duty to restrict public access to the information. OAG 91-25.

The most recent index book of Births and Deaths published by the Cabinet bears the date of 1969, and under the authority of KRS 44.110, an alleged injury resulting from the release of birth records would have occurred at the moment the record was released for public inspection and under the applicable statute of limitations for negligence cases against the Commonwealth or its agents, an action for damages cannot be brought if more than two years has elapsed from the date of the alleged negligent act; therefore, the Cabinet is not liable for divulging information that has been available for public inspection for at least twenty-one (21) years. OAG 91-25.

The custody and control of records maintained by the Judicial Retirement and Removal Commission, including those containing the names of the members of the commission who heard requestor's complaints, is vested in the Supreme Court. Accordingly, if a requestor is aggrieved by the denial of a record generated by the court, or an agency of the court, he must take his appeal to the Chief Justice. OAG 91-45.

The Judicial Retirement and Removal Commission is a quasi-judicial body expressly exempted from the provisions of the Open Meetings Act and is not bound by KRS 61.835, which requires disclosure of the minutes of meetings held by public agencies. OAG 91-45.

The Open Records Act does not apply generally to records generated by the Judicial Retirement and Removal Commission inasmuch as the commission is an agency of the Court of Justice, created under authority of the Kentucky Constitution and Supreme Court Rule; records of the court and agencies of the court enjoy a special status and are placed under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Court of Justice pursuant to KRS 26A.200 and KRS 26A.220. OAG 91-45.

Inasmuch as the Kentucky Bar Association and the Board of Bar Examiners are creatures of the court and the constitution, and not statutory creatures, they are not subject to the Open Records Act, and cannot be considered “public agencies” within the meaning of the act; if a requesting party is aggrieved by denial of a record maintained by the court, or an agency of the court, they must take their appeal to the Chief Justice. OAG 91-47.

The Kentucky Bar Association is not a “public agency” within the meaning of the Open Records Act. OAG 91-47.

Although marina management services is a private corporation, and not a “public agency” within the meaning of subsection (1) of this section, its records are “public records” within the meaning of subsection (2) of this section to the extent that they are transmitted to, and retained by, the Department of Parks, and since under subsection (2) of this section the term “public record” includes records that are prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency if records of private entities or agents are in the possession of or retained by a state agency, they are, in general, subject to inspection. If the records are not retained by a public agency, on the other hand, they are private records and are therefore beyond the reach of the Open Records Act. OAG 91-72.

While an agency must release public records stored on a database, subject to the exceptions codified at KRS 61.878(1)(a) through (j), if requested for a noncommercial purpose, it may, in its discretion, withhold the same records if requested for a commercial purpose. OAG 91-116.

Clearly, the Open Records Act in no way supersedes a protective order entered by a court of competent jurisdiction when a public agency is properly before that court as a party to the litigation. Indeed, the entry of a protective order removes a document within its terms from the application of the Act; that order is not less valid because it was entered into by agreement of the parties. OAG 91-121.

Where county airport board entered into agreement with Delta to build a terminal and issued special facilities revenue bonds to finance the project, records of the project manager hired by Delta were excluded from the application of this section. OAG 91-184.

Tax maps, mapping cards, and property assessment cards are “public records,” within the meaning of subsection (2) of this section and should be made available for review; however, certain information contained in these documents may be exempt pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 92-30.

Kentucky Revised Statutes 61.870, et seq., contemplates the appointment of an official custodian of records to whom all requests are directed for proper disposition; it is imperative that every employee of the Kentucky State Penitentiary acknowledge the authority of the offender records specialist in handling these requests. OAG 92-31.

Where the Western Kentucky Corrections Complex Grievance Coordinator’s response to an open records request by an inmate did not constitute final agency action, inasmuch as it was not issued by the official custodian or under her authority, the inmate’s appeal was not ripe for review by the Attorney General. OAG 92-51.

The Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils at Eastern Kentucky University may be deemed “public agencies” for purposes of the Open Records Act, only if they derive at least 25% of their funds from state or local authority; the term “funds” refers to a sum or sums of money and while it is true that the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils derive an appreciable benefit from the University this benefit cannot be quantified, or otherwise translated into a monetary figure; therefore the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils are not public agencies within the meaning of KRS 61.870, et seq. and are not public agencies within the meaning of, or subject to, the Open Meetings Law. OAG 92-62.

Where records are kept on file in the City Clerk’s office under the terms of lease agreements, and are possessed and retained by that public agency, they must be considered public records for the purposes of the Open Records Act. OAG 92-66.

The definition of “public record” clearly embraces a taped interview between an inmate and a prison officer. OAG 92-109.

A tape recording of a public meeting falls within the definition of a “public record” and must also be treated as a public record if the tape is prepared, owned, used, or in the possession of a public agency, and is made at the direction of the agency. OAG 92-111.

Minutes of a meeting of a public agency are public records within the meaning of this section. OAG 92-111.

Medicare and Medicaid funds do not constitute “state or local authority funds” in determining whether a body receives 25% or more of its funds from public coffers as provided in subdivision (1)(h) of this section in determining if a body is a public agency. OAG 93-ORD-90.

University Diagnostic Imaging Associates, P.S.C., was not a “public agency” within the meaning of subsection (1) of this section, and was therefore not subject to the Open Records Law. OAG 93-ORD-90.

Since the Kentucky association of counties derives at least 25% of its funds expended by it in the Commonwealth from state or local authority funds, it is a “public agency” for purposes of the Open Records Act and is subject to KRS 61.872(5), relating to timely access to public records, as well as the other provisions of the Act. OAG 93-ORD-96.

By the express terms of subsection (3) of KRS 341.281 and subdivision (1)(k) of this section the KACo Unemployment Insurance Fund is a public agency, and is therefore subject to the Open Records Act. OAG 93-65.

The KACo Reinsurance Trust Program (KRT) is an inter-agency body of two (2) or more public agencies within the meaning of subdivision (1)(k) of this section and is therefore subject to the Open Records Act. OAG 93-65.

The Commissioner of Insurance acting as a rehabilitator of an insurance company is a public agency within the meaning of this section and documents which disclose the names of corporations or individuals who submitted bids for insurance company under KRS 304.33-010 et seq. are public records of a public agency and are not excluded from public inspection under subdivision (1)(h) of KRS 61.878 and thus are subject to disclosure. OAG 93-ORD-113.

Since records of the court are not governed by the Open Records Act and as a jury list is a court record, jury lists are not subject to inspection under the Open Records Act. OAG 93-ORD-122.

Records which were properly destroyed and therefore no longer available cannot be the subject of inspection under the Open Records Act. OAG 93-ORD-122.

Third party administrators of programs operating under the Kentucky Association of Counties (KACo) umbrella, Governmental Services, Inc., KACo Administrative Services, Inc., and Kentucky Risk Insurance Services, Inc., were “public agencies” as defined in subsection (1) of this section since each satisfied the 25% public funding threshold. Selective Management Services, Inc., and Multi-Benefits Systems, Inc., could not be characterized as “public agencies” since neither derived 25% or more of its funds from state or local authority funds. OAG 93-78.

Records which are prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by the Commissioner of Insurance must be treated as “public records” as defined in subsection (2) of this section. OAG 93-ORD-139.

Since the general counsel of Department of Insurance represents the Commissioner of Insurance as rehabilitator and outside attorneys appointed by the court also represent the Commissioner as the rehabilitator, each represents the same client, and confidential communications between them made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of professional legal services are protected from disclosure by attorney client privilege; therefore, the Department of Insurance properly denied request of newspaper reporter for correspondence between general counsel of Department and outside counsel since the documents requested were protected from disclosure by the attorney client privilege of KRE Rule 503 and were therefore exempt from public inspection under subdivision (1) (k) of KRS 61.878. OAG 93-ORD-139.

Since the Open Records Act does not regulate management practices of keeping public records and since the Attorney General's decisions are limited to whether a requested document is in the possession of a public agency and whether such document is subject to public inspection, the request that university, in not identifying one person as the official custodian in charge of enforcing proper records keeping practices, be charged with violating the Open Records Act, as well as the request for provision of a copy of the contract of the person thought to be the official custodian of the university's records, were denied. OAG 94-ORD-8.

The Governmental Services Corporation (GSC) is a public agency for purposes of the Open Records Act. (Affirming OAG 93-78). OAG 94-ORD-13.

Subdivision (1) (h) of this section does not require that in order to be characterized as a public agency, for Open Records purposes, an entity be both created by state or local authority, and receive at least 25% of its funds from that state or local authority. OAG 94-ORD-13.

The terms "public agency" and "state or local authority" as used in this section are synonymous. OAG 94-ORD-13.

Since the Workers' Compensation Board is a public agency as defined in subdivision (1) (b) of this section, KACo-KLC, which owes its existence to the Board and the Board continues to regulate or control it, is also a public agency within the meaning of subdivision (1) (j) of this section. OAG 94-ORD-13.

Documents reflecting the identities of corporations and/or individuals who submitted bids for insurance company being rehabilitated or its subsidiaries are public records subject to disclosure under the Open Records Act. OAG 94-ORD-102.

Records containing contents of bids submitted for purchase of insurance company being rehabilitated are public records, within the meaning of subsection (2) of this section, for the same reasons that documents revealing the identities of bidders are public records; specifically, the bids are used in the possession of or retained by a public agency, the Commissioner of the Department of Insurance, in his role as Rehabilitator, and in the discharge of his duties, relative to the bidding process. OAG 94-ORD-102.

Examination reports of insurance company undergoing rehabilitation were public records, within the meaning of subsection (2) of this section, insofar as they were prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency. Moreover, those portions of the examination report showing the insurer's current financial condition are subject to inspection under the Open Records Act. OAG 94-ORD-102.

Appraisals conducted on behalf of the Department of Insurance relative to its examination of an insurance company undergoing rehabilitation are public records within the meaning of subsection (2) of this section because they are prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency. Although such appraisals are clearly a part of the examination report, and subject to the confidentiality provision found at KRS 304.2-270, the appraisals, like the comparative financial statements which supplement the Statement of Financial Condition, relate to the insurer's current financial condition, and must be disclosed. OAG 94-ORD-102.

Handwritten notes taken by a public employee in the discharge of his public duties may properly be treated as public records. While in most instances, such notes would be excluded from public inspection by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(h), KRS 61.878(3) mandates the release of "any record including preliminary and other supporting documentation" to a public employee, including a university employee, upon request, as long as those records "relate to him." OAG 94-ORD-108.

County board of education did not violate the provisions of the Open Records Act by failing to afford access to teacher evaluations of cheerleading tryouts where those records had "disappeared," insofar as county board could not make available records which have disappeared or otherwise do not exist. OAG 94-ORD-142.

Commercial use of public records is consistent with the spirit of the Open Records Act. OAG 95-ORD-12.

Where an employee of the Lottery Corporation denied an open records request with only a vague reference to "certain proprietary information" and without any further explanation of how the exceptions of KRS 61.880(1) applied to the withheld information, the Lottery Corporation failed to meet its statutory burden of proof. OAG 95-ORD-27.

Where the University's official custodian of records failed to cite any of the "exceptions" to the general rule, found at KRS 61.872(4), (5), and (6), the University was obligated to physically retrieve and make available for inspection and for copying those specifically identified requested public records that were housed in a separate location. OAG 95-ORD-52.

Where a private investigator, who was retained by a driver involved in an accident to locate the other driver involved in the collision, requested copies of motor vehicle registration records and records reflecting insurance coverage, the Transportation Cabinet did not violate the Open Records Act by partially denying the private investigator's commercial request since the strong privacy interest outweighed the nominal public interest which would be served by disclosing the owner's address, birthdate and social security number. OAG 95-ORD-151.

The Jefferson County Department of Animal Control did not violate the provisions of the Open Records Act by denying attorney's request for animal licensure records, where the records were to be used for mail solicitation, a commercial purpose, and not for the purpose of exposing public agency to public scrutiny, which is fundamental to the Act, and where disclosure of the information contained in these records would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 95-ORD-153.

Records of transcripts, tapes and completed interview questionnaires generated by a study of the Revenue Commission that were not prepared, owned, used, or in possession of the City of Louisville could not be characterized as public records for purposes of the Open Records Act; thus, the City's denial of a request for access to these records on the grounds that they were not public records was consistent with the Open Records Act. OAG 95-ORD-156.

County public schools system properly relied upon KRS 61.878(1)(a) in denying newspaper reporter's request for information as to each individual employee's race and gender. Providing the requester with alternative information, through a computer printout, as to the specific number of employees at each location which included personnel totals by race and sex broken down by schools, salaried employees and hourly employees met the principal purpose of the Open Records Act. This alternative information allowed the citizen to monitor the functioning and operations of the public agency and to be informed as to what their government was doing. OAG 96-ORD-232.

The Legislative Research Commission (LRC) violated the Open Records Act in denying newspaper access to a search warrant issued by a federal court and executed by a federal agency relating to an LRC employee and travels of state legislators. The search warrant was a "public record" for purposes of Kentucky's Open Records Act and it has never been held that a public agency can rely on an exemption under the federal Freedom of Information Act, the federal Privacy Act, or a federal regulation applicable to the United States Department of Justice as an exception under KRS 61.878(1)(k). 96-ORD-244.

City police division did not have to respond to newspaper's request to obtain copies of all traffic accident reports within the jurisdiction on a weekly basis. Although traffic accident reports prepared by law enforcement officers pursuant to KRS 189.635 are not confidential and are open records, the right to inspect public records attaches only after those records have been "prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency." No such right attaches for records which have not yet come into existence. The Open Records Act governs access to existing public records, not to prospective requests. City can require newspaper to submit a new application each time copies of records are requested and city need only honor requests for existing records. OAG 97-ORD-18.

Kentucky Employers' Mutual Insurance Authority is a public agency, as that term is defined in subdivisions (1)(b), (f), and (i) of this section, and its records must be made available to the public unless excluded from inspection by one or more of the exceptions codified at KRS 61.878(1)(a) through (l). OAG 97-ORD-66.

Kentucky Employers' Mutual Insurance Authority is a public agency, as defined in KRS subdivisions (1)(b), (f), and (i) of this section, and its records are public records, as defined in subsection (2) and its operational records, including its personnel handbook, documents reflecting hotel and car rental reservations, leases, contracts for public relations or advertising services, financial audits, travel agency invoices, and contracts and billing records for its attorneys do not qualify for exemption under KRS 61.878(1)(a) and these records must be released; however, with respect to employee personnel files, records unrelated to public employment which are found in those files are excluded from public inspection by KRS 61.878(1)(a) and because both exempt and nonexempt records are commingled in those files, it is incumbent on requester to specifically identify the personnel records he wishes to inspect. OAG 97-ORD-66.

The obvious purpose of the 1992 amendment to KRS 61.878(3) was to broaden the scope of the provision to insure that all public employees, not just state employees governed by KRS Chapter 18A, enjoyed an equal right of access to records relating to them. An interpretation of this provision which does not include former public employees is clearly inconsistent with the natural and harmonious reading of this section considering the overall purpose of the Open Records Act. 97-ORD-87.

As a precondition to inspection, a requesting party must identify with "reasonable particularity" those documents he wishes to review; where inmate requested "all copies" of records in specified classes, his complaint that he received and was charged for records he did not request was unfounded; the proper alternative would be for him to review the records and indicate the exact ones desired. OAG 98-ORD-88.

The General Assembly did not exclude itself from the Open Records Act, but made the Act binding upon itself by defining the term public agency to include "any body created by state or local authority in any branch of government"; the General Assembly is created by the legislative branch of the government, and as there is no reasonable basis for excluding it from the definition of a public agency, its records are subject to public inspection unless otherwise exempt pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a) though (l). OAG 98-ORD-92.

The policy of a county 911 center to defer requests for audiotapes of telephone calls to the responding agency was improper as the 911 center was itself a public agency and, therefore, it was required itself to respond to such requests; however, the 911 center could consult with the responding agency before replying to such a request. OAG 99-ORD-10.

It is incumbent on all public agencies to designate an employee to fill the role of official custodian and to adopt and post rules and regulations identifying that employee as official custodian so that open records requests can be directed to him for processing and final agency action; if he does not have custody or control of the public record requested, he must notify the requester and furnish the name and location of the official custodian of those records. OAG 99-ORD-30.

The denial by a training center of an open records request for a copy of Kentucky statutes and a case from the Supreme Court Reporter, both of which were available in the institution's law library, was not a violation of the Open Records Act as such items were not "public records" subject to the act. OAG 99-ORD 35.

A privately owned corporation which had the contract to administer the vehicle emission testing program in a county failed to establish what percentage of the funds it expended in the Commonwealth were derived from the county testing program and, thus, failed to substantiate that it was not a "public agency" as defined in subsection (1)(h) and exempt from application of the Open Records Act. OAG 99-ORD-41.

Even if a privately owned corporation which had the contract to administer the vehicle emission testing program in a county was a "public agency" as defined in subsection (1)(h), the salaries of its highest ranking directors were not subject to disclosure as such information was not directly related to the vehicle testing service which the corporation performed in the county. OAG 99-ORD-41.

The Kentucky Correctional Psychiatric Center properly denied a request for a copy of the court ordered evaluation of the requester to determine his competency to stand trial where the court which ordered the evaluation directed that a copy of the report be given to the Commonwealth's Attorney and to the requester's defense counsel, but did not specify that the requester be given a copy of the report; although the evaluation was a "public record" within the meaning of subsection (2), because it was a record which was prepared and retained by a public agency, the court's order removed it from the application of the act. OAG 99-ORD-109.

Audio recordings and handwritten notes of private investigators hired by the Kentucky Board of Psychology did not constitute public records where those recordings and notes were not in the possession of the board nor relied upon by the board in its final actions against the psychologists under investigation. OAG 99-ORD-156.

The statutes and Supreme Court Reporter case law in an inmate law library are publications or library reference materials rather than records which reflect the daily functioning, programs, and operations of the correctional facility or the Department of Corrections and, therefore, are not public records subject to the provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 99-ORD-181.

The Finance and Administration Cabinet did not violate the Open Records Act in partially denying a reporter's request to inspect invoices or correspondence received by the cabinet related to the renovation and landscaping of the home of the Kentucky State University President and all bids received by the cabinet regarding the renovation project as the disputed records, namely records reflecting the cost of individual items, including but not limited to subcontractor invoices, were not prepared, owned, used, in the possession of, or retained by the cabinet. OAG 99-ORD-202.

A volunteer fire and rescue department was not a public agency within the meaning of the statute and, therefore, its records were not subject to public inspection as it received little or no funds from state or local governments. OAG 99-ORD-208.

Three (3) corporations were not public agencies within the meaning of the statute where none of the corporations derived at least 25% of the funds expended by it in the state from state or local funds. OAG 99-ORD-216.

An agreement reached between a school district and a former employee was a public record, notwithstanding the "limited" role that the school district played in negotiating the terms of the agreement, as there was no doubt that it was a party to the agreement and that the agreement was owned, used, in the possession of or retained by the school district. OAG 00-ORD-5.

A county public defender corporation was a public agency for purposes of the statute, notwithstanding that it was a private corporation, as it received more than 25 percent of its funds from state or local authority. OAG 00-ORD-6.

The question of whether a corporation is a public or private corporation for purposes of a NLRB proceeding is not relevant to the issue of whether the organization is a public agency subject to the application of the Open Records Act. OAG 00-ORD-6.

An eighty-four (84) page document prepared by a consultant for a university board of regents, which evaluated the president of the university, was a public record within the meaning of the statute as it was owned, used, and in the possession of a public agency. OAG 00-ORD-46.

An agency may properly require all records requests to be routed through its official custodian to ensure the timely and orderly processing of open records requests. OAG 00-ORD-73.

The Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center is not a public agency for purposes of the Open Records Act as the center is a private nonprofit corporation and Medicare and Medicaid funds do not constitute "state or local funds" in determining whether an entity receives 25% or more of its funds from public coffers. OAG 00-ORD-91.

A volunteer fire department was a public agency for open records purposes because it received 25 percent or more of its funds from state or local authority funds. OAG 00-ORD-93.

The state penitentiary did not violate the Open Records Act when it denied a request by an inmate for a lateral view x-ray of his wrist based on the nonavailability of the record. OAG 00-ORD-120.

The Transportation Cabinet did not violate the Open Records Act by denying a request for information pertaining to vehicles and officers assigned to enforcement details in a particular county where the Division of Motor Vehicle Enforcement did not maintain such records. OAG 00-ORD-121.

A police department did not violate the Open Records Act by denying a request for a "dash cam videotape" of a particular pursuit where the videotape no longer existed. OAG 00-ORD-122.

A correctional complex properly denied an inmate's request for records pertaining to information gathered from the records of an inmate and through direct questioning prior to his release and provided to Kentucky State Police as it constituted a request for research to be performed, rather than a request for inspection of reasonably identified public records, and as the records did not pertain to the inmate. OAG 00-ORD-130.

The Department of Corrections properly denied a request by an inmate for any information or document regarding whether he fell under specified bills as such was a request for information, rather than a specifically identified record. OAG 00-ORD-131.

The Department of Local Government properly denied a request for identified e-mails where the e-mails had been deleted by the user and backups had already been deleted. OAG 00-ORD-132.

The Office of the Attorney General did not violate the Open Records Act in responding to a request for information relating to "eavesdropping guidelines" as such request was, in reality, a request for research as opposed to a request for precisely described public records. OAG 00-ORD-176.

Computerized criminal record data maintained by the Department of Corrections was a public record, notwithstanding the contention of the department that such data was not related to its functions, activities, programs, or operations. OAG 00-ORD-206.

A city was required to disclose records relating to the settlement of a lawsuit against the city, notwithstanding its contention that it did not have any such records and that the records were in the possession of its insurance carrier, as the insurance carrier held the settlement agreement at the instance of and as custodian on the city's behalf. OAG 00-ORD-207.

Once in the possession of the Department of Military Affairs, the investigative report generated by Criminal Investigations Division of the United States Department of Defense becomes a public record for purposes of the Open Records Act, notwithstanding the fact that it originated in a federal agency. OAG 01-ORD-59.

Because teacher council member election records are scheduled public records for purposes of records retention and management, the school's inability to produce these records for inspection and copying because it does not maintain them constituted a subversion of the intent of both the Open Records Act and the State Archive and Records Act. OAG 01-ORD-94.

Experian, NCAC, a national consumer credit bureau and credit reporting service that provides individuals with copies of their personal credit reports, is a private corporation that does not fall within the definition of "public agency," as defined by KRS 61.870(1), and, thus, is not subject to the provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 01-ORD-134.

Since the city clerk purchased the audiotape with her own money, and was not directed by the city to tape the meeting, the audiotape is not a public record within the meaning of KRS 61.870(2). OAG 01-ORD-167.

The Office of United States Marshals Service, as a federal agency, is not subject to the provisions of the Kentucky Open Records Act. OAG 02-ORD-43.

A request submitted by an individual acting on behalf of a political candidate, whether paid or unpaid, cannot be characterized as a request submitted for a commercial purpose. OAG 02-ORD-89.

The Open Records Act does not require the Department to obtain itemized billing records from its cell phone provider listing the individual calls. OAG 02-ORD-164.

Records pertaining to honorary deputy sheriffs are public records insofar as they are "prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency" and notwithstanding the fact that the honorary post does not owe its existence to statute or regulation. Although honorary deputies possess no actual authority, the apparent authority that the title arguably carries, and the privileges that might be procured by virtue of the title, make their identities a matter of legitimate public concern. Accordingly, OAG 76-655 is overruled. OAG 02-ORD-175.

Appointment of a special deputy under either KRS 70.045(1) or (2) is clearly an official function of the sheriff's office and one in which the public has a legitimate interest. Accordingly, the Sheriff's reliance on OAG 76-655 as the basis for denying access to records containing information relating to past and present special deputies is misplaced. Although the Sheriff may withhold certain personal information relating to the special deputies, including home addresses and social security numbers, records containing the information sought are public records within the meaning of KRS 61.870(2). OAG 02-ORD-175.

Since a newspaper's use of a public record is specifically excluded from the definition of "commercial purpose," it cannot be required to state whether or not its request is for such purpose. Accordingly, requiring such a statement before processing the newspaper's open records request constitutes a violation of the Open Records Act. OAG 02-ORD-198.

Seven Counties Services, Inc., although it is organized as a private nonprofit corporation as provided for in KRS 210.370, is not the same as a private healthcare facility, but is instead a facility operating under the comprehensive scheme of legislation embodied in KRS Chapter 210. The monies it derives from the Cabinet do not represent claims payment or fees for services that can properly be analogized to Medicaid or Medicare claims submitted by private healthcare providers; because it derives more than twenty-five percent (25%) of the funds it expends in the Commonwealth from state or local authority funds, Seven Counties is a public agency within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1)(h). OAG 02-ORD-222.

The Master Commissioner of McCreary County, a quasi-judicial officer who serves at the pleasure of the judge or judges of the circuit court pursuant to KRS 31A.010(3) and CR 53.01, is not bound by the provisions of the Open Records Act and therefore did not violate the Act in failing to respond to requests for financial records of the Commissioner's office. OAG 02-ORD-235.

Electronic mail generated by public agency officials or employees is a public record as defined in KRS 61.870(2), and is therefore subject to the Open Records Act. It is for the records custodian, and not the email account holder, to locate and retrieve these records and to make the determination as to which are exempt and which must be disclosed. OAG 03-ORD-05.

The records of telephones whose numbers are listed on public registers as the contact numbers of the Office of the County Attorney and presumably are the phones upon which the public agency conducts its public business, would be of sufficient public character to constitute "public records," even though the cost of the phones and their usage are paid for with private funds, to the extent that they record the operation and functioning of the public agency and, thus, would be subject to the Open Records Act. OAG 03-ORD-19.

An audio tape of a public meeting falls squarely within the parameters of KRS 61.870(2) and must be treated as a public record if the tape is prepared, owned, used, or in the possession of the public agency, and is made at the direction of the agency; the audio tape may not properly be treated as a preliminary document, but should be made available to the public upon request. OAG 03-ORD-173.

A councilman for the City is a local government officer. Records generated and maintained by or for him in the discharge of his public function are public records for purposes of the Open Records Act, notwithstanding the fact that they remain in his custody and control. Such records are subject to inspection upon request unless otherwise exempt. OAG 03-ORD-196.

By the express terms of KRS 248.480(2), and without restriction, the Kentucky Tobacco Settlement Trust Corporation is deemed a public agency for open records and open meetings purposes. Neither KRS 248.480(2) nor KRS 61.870(1)(f) exclude from public inspection records of the Corporation that are "not related to functions, activities, programs, or operations funded by state or local authority." The latter phrase applies only to records owned or maintained by or for a body referred to in subsection (1)(h) of KRS 61.870; the Corporation does not fall within the parameters of KRS 61.870(1)(h). OAG 03-ORD-214.

A private, non-profit corporation may be a public agency for purposes of the Open Records Act, though it is not a public agency for purposes of the Open Meetings Act; this dichotomy arises from the differences in the definition of "public agency" found in each of the Acts. The definition of "public agency" which appears at KRS 61.805(2) does not include "any body which derives at least twenty-five percent (25%) of its funds expended by it in the Commonwealth of Kentucky from state or local authority funds." OAG 04-OMD-02.

Records generated by the corporation in 2001 that relate to functions, activities, programs, or operations funded by the infusion of $960,000 from the state through the city are accessible to the public under the Open Records Act. If the remaining state funds channeled to the corporation through the city represent at least 25% of its total funds in any subsequent year, records generated by the corporation that relate to functions, activities, programs, or operations funded by those remaining funds and in those years are also accessible under the Open Records Act. OAG 04-ORD-12.

If the Kentucky Animal Care and Control Association membership comprises for most part all or most of the tax-supported animal control programs in each county throughout Kentucky, KACCA could qualify as a "public agency," subject to the operation of the Open Records Act. OAG 04-ORD-19.

The Administrative Office of the Courts is not bound by the provisions of the Open Records Act. The AOC is part and parcel of the judicial department of the state and inseparable from the office of the Chief Justice itself; records generated by and for the AOC are indisputably records of the Court. It is for the Court to determine which policies evinced by the Open Records Law present interferences with the orderly conduct of its business, and which policies it will accept as a matter of comity. OAG 04-ORD-37.

The purpose for which Clark Publishing Communications obtained the requested records, namely to incorporate them into a professional development seminar for which participants will be assessed a registration fee, and from which Clark expects "a profit either through commission, salary, or fee," clearly constitutes a "commercial purpose" within the meaning of KRS 61.870(4)(a). OAG 04-ORD-54.

Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children, Inc., although it is organized as a private nonprofit corporation as provided for in KRS 199.640, is a facility operating under a plan and budget approved by the Cabinet and the comprehensive scheme of legislation. Because KBHC derives at least 25% of the funds it expends in the Commonwealth from state or local authority funds, approximately 56%, it is a public agency within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1)(h) and, therefore, is subject to the provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 04-ORD-111.

The United States Drug Enforcement Administration is a federal agency; thus the DEA is not a public agency within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1) and is not governed by the Open Records Act. OAG 04-ORD-140.

Pursuant to KRS 61.870(1)(a) and (2), the City Mayor is himself a public agency, and records which he prepares, owns, uses, possesses, or retains, including copies of the speech he gave at a City Council meeting, are public records for open records purposes. His status cannot be equated to that of a private citizen in this factual context. OAG 04-ORD-216.

Because the Court Clerk is not bound by the provisions of the Open Records Act insofar as "records in the hands of the clerk are records of the court," regardless of whether the requested records directly relate to a specific court action, the Clerk did not violate the Act in his disposition of the request for the specified records relating to the Clerk's bond. OAG 04-ORD-219.

As evidenced in its Articles of Incorporation, the Ballard County Economics and Industrial Development Board, Inc. was established in 1982 by a group of concerned citizens. Although incorporated as a non-profit organization, the Board does not owe its existence to the legislative act of a governmental body and therefore does not fall within the parameters of KRS 61.870(1)(b), (f), (g), and (j). Further, the Industrial Development Board does not fall within the parameters of KRS 61.870(1)(i). OAG 04-ORD-222.

Although the Kentucky High School Athletic Association was originally created as a private, voluntary, unincorporated association, it assumed a public character as a policy making board of an institution of education when, pursuant to KRS 156.070(2) and 702 KAR 7:065 Section 1, it was designated by the Kentucky Board of Education as the agency responsible for managing interscholastic athletics in the schools. Accordingly, the KHSAA is a public agency for purposes of the Open Records Act. OAG 04-ORD-244.

Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) is not a "public agency" within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1), and is therefore not bound by the provisions of the Open Records Act. In addition, CASA officials and volunteers must keep confidential all information contained in records of the type requested except in conferring with or reports to the court pursuant to KRS 620.505(8), incorporated into the Open Records Act by virtue of KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 05-ORD-004.

Where the Fiscal Court did not adequately explain why portions of invoices sent by a law firm representing the Court had amounts charged redacted, unless it could substantiate a proper basis for withholding the amounts charged, the redacted amounts should have been made available for the requester's inspection. OAG 05-ORD-29.

The Kentucky Correctional Psychiatric Center properly denied the request of an individual for a copy of his court ordered evaluation conducted for the purpose of determining his competency to stand trial because, under KRS 26A.200, the requested report is a "court record" under the exclusive jurisdiction of the court. OAG 05-ORD-56.

The American Farrier's Association, Inc., does not receive twenty-five (25) or more percent funding from any state or local authority to qualify as a "public agency," pursuant to KRS 61.870(1)(h). OAG 05-ORD-124.

A private corporation created to provide the community with a collaborative apolitical environment for discussion and project development is a public agency within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1), and it therefore violated the Open Records Act in denying requests to inspect its financial and operational records. OAG 05-ORD-156.

City did not violate the Open Records Act in denying a request for letters directed to local businesses by the city attorney because he sent the correspondence as a private citizen rather than in his official capacity and, therefore, the records do not fall within the definition of "Public record." codified at KRS 61.870(2) OAG 05-ORD-183.

The Center for Women and Families, Inc. is not a public agency within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1). OAG 05-ORD-187.

Because a volunteer fire department is a public agency pursuant to KRS 61.870(1)(h) and records relating to training received by the firefighters like those requested fall within the parameters of KRS 61.870(2), the department violated the Open Records Act in denying a request for such records. OAG 05-ORD-203.

Baptist Hospital East is not a "public agency" within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1). OAG 05-ORD-228.

The Correctional Psychiatric Center properly denied an individual's request for a copy of his court ordered evaluation conducted for the purpose of determining his competency to stand trial because the requested report is a "court record," and the Circuit Court has limited its distribution. OAG 05-ORD-257.

Because an oral and maxillofacial surgery association is not a public agency it was not subject to the provisions of the Open Records Act and documents requested from it did not qualify as public records; however, the requester was entitled to receive one free copy of his medical record pursuant to KRS 422.317(1). OAG 06-ORD-006.

The Open Records Act did not apply to an attorney appointed to represent the requester for sentencing purposes only because, as a private attorney, he did not fall within the definition of "public agency," nor could requested records properly be characterized as "public records." OAG 06-ORD-011.

Police department did not violate the Open Records Act in failing to produce a recording of a "traffic stop" that may or may not still have existed since the recording did not fall within the definition of a public record in KRS 61.870(2). OAG 06-ORD-039.

As a private attorney, the respondent does not fall within the definition of "public agency" codified at KRS 61.870(1); nor can the requested records properly be characterized as "public records" subject to inspection pursuant to KRS 61.870(2) since the records are not "prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency." OAG 2006-ORD-011.

The Kentucky State Law Library is not bound by the provisions of the Open Records Act, and therefore cannot be said to have violated the Act in failing to respond to an open records request. OAG 2006-ORD-038.

Since the officer was not ordered or directed to make any tape recording of the traffic stop and was not provided any equipment to make any tape recordings, any such tape is the private property of the officer and the recording does not fall into the definition of a public record. Since the recording is not a public record, not a part of the case report for the traffic stop, and is the personal property of an individual, the police department is unable to provide the requester with a copy. OAG 2006-ORD-039.

61.871. Policy of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 — Strict construction of exceptions of KRS 61.878.

The General Assembly finds and declares that the basic policy of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 is that free and open examination of public records is in the public interest and the exceptions provided for by KRS 61.878 or otherwise provided by law shall be strictly construed, even though such examination may cause inconvenience or embarrassment to public officials or others.

1. Standing.

Resident had standing to sue under Kentucky's Open Records Act (KORA), KRS 61.871, 61.872, and the trial court erred when it dismissed the resident's case for lack of standing; KORA granted the resident standing to sue for damages to which a person requesting public records may be entitled pursuant to that act. Taylor v. Barlow, 378 S.W.3d 322, 2012 Ky. App. LEXIS 170 (Ky. Ct. App. 2012).

Commonwealth of Kentucky, Cabinet for Health and Family Services' (Cabinet) failure to disclose the requested records constituted a "willful" violation of the Open Records Act, KRS 61.871; the Cabinet failed to make particularized analysis and instead relied on an all-encompassing policy of nondisclosure despite the purpose of the Act and despite the acknowledged applicability of KRS 620.050(12)(a) under these circumstances, and the circuit court concluded that these denials were made in "bad faith." Commonwealth v. Lexington H-L Servs., 382 S.W.3d 875, 2012 Ky. App. LEXIS 216 (Ky. Ct. App. 2012).

2. Civil Lawsuits.

An agreement which represents the final settlement of a civil lawsuit whereby a governmental entity pays public funds to compensate for an injury it inflicted is a public record and is open to inspection by any person as provided in subsection (1) of KRS 61.872 and the government is without any basis upon which to claim a right of privacy and unless such documents are excluded from disclosure by one (1) or more provisions of the Open Records Act, they must be produced. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Gov't v. Lexington Herald-Leader Co., 941 S.W.2d 469, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 38 (Ky. 1997).

3. Records of Donors.

Names of donors to a public university's foundation who had not requested anonymity were subject to the disclosure requirement of KRS 61.871, as the foundation was a public entity under KRS 61.870, and the donors had no reasonable expectation of privacy. Cape Pub'ns, Inc. v. Univ. of Louisville Found., Inc., 260 S.W.3d 818, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 176 (Ky. 2008).

4. Construction.

General Assembly did not intend to mandate an iron rule of non-disclosure whenever an exemption contained in the Kentucky Open Records Act applies because such a rule would run counter to the principle, fundamental in the law, that rights, even fundamental rights, may be waived, and the Act's express policy, is the free and open examination of public records. Lawson v. Office of the AG, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) did not bar a university from releasing to a newspaper all records sought under the Open Records Act because, while FERPA barred release of unredacted education records contained in a Title IX investigation file, not all the records sought were education records directly relating to a student. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

NOTES TO UNPUBLISHED DECISIONS

1. Final Rulings of Department of Revenue.

Unpublished decision: Department of Revenue was required to produce for inspection redacted copies of its final rulings because the production of the material a tax attorney and tax analysts sought was required by the Open Records Act; the Department's final rulings contained information related to its reasoning and analysis with respect to its task in administration of the tax laws, and that information could be made available without jeopardizing taxpayers' privacy interests under the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights. Fin. & Admin. Cabinet v. Sommer, 2017 Ky. App. LEXIS 9 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 13, 2017, sub. op., 2017 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 624 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 13, 2017)).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

KRS 154A.040(1)(c) was enacted in response to a concern that the integrity of the lottery might be compromised by disclosure of information bearing on the games, and not by its concern for the safety of the Lottery Corporation's retailers; therefore, the Lottery Corporation improperly denied a request for records containing cash sales by retailers. OAG 93-ORD-44.

The purpose and intent of the Open Record Act is to permit the free and open examination of public records; however, this right of access is not absolute and as a precondition to inspection, a requesting party must identify the records with sufficient clarity to enable the agency to locate and make them available; if the requester cannot describe the documents he wishes to inspect with specificity, there is no requirement that the public agency conduct a search for such documents. OAG 94-ORD-12.

Even though request for public record was far from a model of clarity it was not so ambiguous that it precluded custodian from determining the identity of the item sought, thus where custodian did not analyze the request for the record sought but merely informed requester that it did not exist, he violated Open Records Act. OAG 94-ORD-12.

The University of Kentucky subverted the intent of the Open Records Act, which is essentially related to the intent of the State Archives and Records Act, by failing to develop a coherent scheme for the organized maintenance of records at identified maintenance locations. OAG 94-ORD-121.

The University of Kentucky subverted the intent of the Open Records Act, which is essentially related to the intent of the State Archives and Records Act, by failing to develop an adequate program for ensuring records management through agency oversight of employee records handling practices. OAG 94-ORD-121.

For purposes of submitting an open records request, or appealing to the Attorney General, "person" may extend to an unincorporated association. OAG 95-ORD-9.

Where appellant had requested access to a specific type contractual document during a the tenure of a particular president of the Lottery Corporation, the request was specific enough to permit the custodian to determine what records it encompassed necessitating an obligatory search, as opposed to nonobligatory research. OAG 95-ORD-27.

The Open Records Act does not require an agency to conduct an exhaustive exhumation of records or to embark on an unproductive fishing expedition when the likelihood of finding records that fall within the outermost limits of the zone of relevancy is slight. It is, however, incumbent on an agency to make a good faith effort to conduct a search using methods which can reasonably be expected to produce the records requested. OAG 95-ORD-96.

Although subsection (3) of KRS 61.878 does not contain a specific reference to former employees, its expansive wording, coupled with the state of legislative intent underlying the Open Records Act, codified at this section, that free and open examination of public records is in the public interest, and the rule of statutory construction, codified at KRS 446.080(1), that all statutes are to be interpreted with a view to promote their objects and carry out the intent of the Legislature, compels the result that such subsection applies to former employees. OAG 97-ORD-87.

The Open Records Act exhibits a general bias towards disclosure, and the exceptions to public inspection codified at KRS 61.878(1)(a) through (j) should be given no broader application than is necessary to effectuate their purposes. OAG 97-ORD-168.

The courts and judicial agencies are not bound by the provisions of the Open Records Act except to the extent that those provisions are not in conflict with the court's rules and regulations governing access to its own records, and are accepted as a matter of comity. All records which are made by or generated for or received by any other court, agency, or officer responsible to the Court, are the property of the Court and are subject to the control of the Supreme Court. Court records are therefore given a special status, and placed under the exclusive jurisdiction of the court. OAG 98-ORD-6.

The General Assembly did not exclude itself from the Open Records Act, but made the Act binding upon itself by defining the term public agency to include "any body created by state or local authority in any branch of government"; the General Assembly is created the legislative branch of the government, and there is no reasonable basis for excluding it from the definition of a public agency; thus it is a "public" agency for purposes of the Open Records Act. OAG 98-ORD-92.

The General Assembly did not exclude itself from the Open Records Act, but made the Act binding upon itself by defining the term public agency to include "any body created by state or local authority in any branch of government"; the General Assembly is created by the legislative branch of the government, and as there is no reasonable basis for excluding it from the definition of a public agency, its records are subject to public inspection unless otherwise exempt pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a) through (l). OAG 98-ORD-92.

Public agencies are not required by the act to gather and supply information independent of that which is set forth in public records; the public has a right to inspect public documents and to obtain whatever information is contained in them, but the primary impact of the act is to make records available for inspection and copying and not to require the gathering and supplying of information. OAG 99-ORD-17.

The Transportation Cabinet was not required to answer a series of questions relating to construction, accidents, and the volume of traffic on various roads as public agencies are not required by the Open Records Act to gather and supply information independent of that which is set forth in public records, and such conclusion was not altered by the fact that past administrations have furnished the same information to other individuals since the Open Records Act does not prohibit a public agency from voluntarily providing information in response to a request for same, it simply does not require the agency to do so. OAG 99-ORD-71.

The preprinted form developed by the agency, requiring the requester to indicate whether he is a representative of the news media or the reasons for his request and requiring a requester to verify his identity by producing a driver's license or other form of identification, creates a potential chilling effect on submission of open records requests that is inconsistent with the basic policy of the Open Records Act codified at KRS 61.871. OAG 03-ORD-86.

61.8715. Legislative findings.

The General Assembly finds an essential relationship between the intent of this chapter and that of KRS 171.410 to 171.740, dealing with the management of public records, and of KRS 42.720 to 42.742, 45.253, 171.420, 186A.040, and 186A.285, dealing with the coordination of strategic planning for computerized information systems in state government; and that to ensure the efficient administration of government and to provide accountability of government activities, public agencies are required to manage and maintain their records according to the requirements of these statutes. The General Assembly further recognizes that while all government agency records are public records for the purpose of their management, not all these records are required to be open to public access, as defined in this chapter, some being exempt under KRS 61.878.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Commonwealth v. Chestnut, 250 S.W.3d 655, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 116 (Ky. 2008).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

In enacting KRS 61.8715 the General Assembly recognized that the intent of the Open Records Act, to provide full access to public records was essentially related to, and would be promoted by, efficient records management. This, of course, is the intent and purpose of the State Archives and Records Act. Subversion of the intent of the Archives and Records Act thus constitutes subversion of the intent of the Open Records Act. If a public agency fails to discharge its statutorily mandated duty to establish effective controls over the creation, maintenance, and use of records, and to make known to all of its officials and employees that no records are to be destroyed except in accordance with the law, the agency subverts the intent of the Open Records Act by frustrating full access to public records. OAG 94-ORD-121.

Since July 15, 1994, when the amendments to the Open Records Act took effect, there is a higher standard of review relative to denials based on the nonexistence, or the destruction, of the requested records. In order to satisfy its statutory burden of proof, a public agency must, at a minimum, document what efforts were made to locate the missing records. Because the agency failed to provide even a minimal explanation for the loss of the requested records, the agency failed to adequately manage its records. OAG 94-ORD-141.

The Attorney General is not empowered to order an agency to create records, or to declare its failure to do so a subversion of the intent of the Open Records Act. 95-ORD-48.

The Open Records Act does not require an agency to conduct an exhaustive exhumation of records or to embark on an unproductive fishing expedition when the likelihood of finding records that fall within the outermost limits of the zone of relevancy is slight. It is, however, incumbent on an agency to make a good faith effort to conduct a search using methods which can reasonably be expected to produce the records requested. OAG 95-ORD-96.

In the role as a dispute mediator in an open records appeal, the Attorney General is not authorized to conduct an investigation into the nonexistence of records the public agency declares do not exist and although there are occasions when under the mandate of this section, a records management issue is referred to the Department for Libraries and Archives for further inquiry. OAG 97-ORD-66.

Where an agency denies a request for disclosure of records based on the nonexistence of the requested records, the agency must, at a minimum, offer some explanation for the nonexistence of the records. OAG 99-ORD-22.

The University of Kentucky violated, or otherwise subverted the intent of, the Open Records Act in the disposition of a journalist's request for a copy of "the fax submitted by scholarship player to the UK Athletics Department regarding his decision to make himself available for the NBA draft." Because the fax was in the nature of official correspondence terminating the player's financial relationship with the University, and therefore should have been permanently retained, significant records management issues were raised that are appropriate for review by the Department for Libraries and Archives. OAG 05-ORD-141.

61.872. Right of Kentucky residents to inspect public records — Written application — Limitation.

(1) All public records shall be open for inspection by any resident of the Commonwealth, except as otherwise provided by KRS 61.870 to 61.884, and suitable facilities shall be made available by each public agency for the exercise of this right. No resident of the Commonwealth shall remove original copies of public records from the offices of any public agency without the written permission of the official custodian of the record.

(2)(a) Any resident of the Commonwealth shall have the right to inspect public records. The official custodian may require a written application, signed by the applicant and with his or her name printed legibly on the application, describing the records to be inspected. The official custodian may require the applicant to provide a statement in the written application of the manner in which the applicant is a resident of the Commonwealth under KRS 61.870(10)(a) to (f).

(b) The written application shall be:

1. Hand delivered;
2. Mailed;
3. Sent via facsimile; or
4. Sent via e-mail to the public agency's official custodian of public records or his or her designee at the e-mail address designated in the public agency's rules and regulations adopted pursuant to KRS 61.876.

(c) A public agency shall not require the use of any particular form for the submission of an open records request, but shall accept for any request the standardized form developed under KRS 61.876(4).

(3) A resident of the Commonwealth may inspect the public records:

(a) During the regular office hours of the public agency; or

(b) By receiving copies of the public records from the public agency through the mail. The public agency shall mail copies of the public records to a person whose residence or principal place of business is outside the county in which the public records are located after he or she precisely describes the public records which are readily available within the public agency. If the resident of the Commonwealth requesting the public records requests that copies of the records be mailed, the official custodian shall mail the copies upon receipt of all fees and the cost of mailing.

(4) If the person to whom the application is directed does not have custody or control of the public record requested, that person shall notify the applicant and shall furnish the name and location of the official custodian of the agency's public records.

(5) If the public record is in active use, in storage or not otherwise available, the official custodian shall immediately notify the applicant and shall designate a place, time, and date for inspection of the public records, not to exceed five (5) days from receipt of the application, unless a detailed explanation of the cause is given for further delay and the place, time, and earliest date on which the public record will be available for inspection.

(6) If the application places an unreasonable burden in producing public records or if the custodian has reason to believe that repeated requests are intended to disrupt other essential functions of the public agency, the official custodian may refuse to permit inspection of the public records or mail copies thereof. However, refusal under this section shall be sustained by clear and convincing evidence.

Analysis

1. Standing.
2. Purpose.
3. Legislative Intent.
4. Invasion of Privacy.
5. Civil Lawsuit.

6. Description of Records.
7. Unreasonable Burden.
8. Explanation Required.

1. Standing.

Resident had standing to sue under Kentucky's Open Records Act (KORA), KRS 61.871, 61.872, and the trial court erred when it dismissed the resident's case for lack of standing; KORA granted the resident standing to sue for damages to which a person requesting public records may be entitled pursuant to that act. Taylor v. Barlow, 378 S.W.3d 322, 2012 Ky. App. LEXIS 170 (Ky. Ct. App. 2012).

2. Purpose.

The Legislature in adopting the open records law clearly intended to grant any member of the public as much right to access to information as the next; the only relevant public interest in disclosure to be considered is the extent to which disclosure would serve the principle purpose of the Open Records Act. Zink v. Department of Workers' Claims, Labor Cabinet, 902 S.W.2d 825, 1994 Ky. App. LEXIS 141 (Ky. Ct. App. 1994).

Public has an interest in the investigatory methods used by its public agencies and to know that a publicly funded university has complied with all federal and state laws, including of the United States Education Amendments of 1972; an investigation into a professor's sexual abuse of a student is of public interest, not because of the identity of the victim or the details, but because of the interest in seeing universities in compliance with Title IX and allegations dealt with appropriately. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) did not bar a university from releasing to a newspaper all records sought under the Open Records Act because, while FERPA barred release of unredacted education records contained in a Title IX investigation file, not all the records sought were education records directly relating to a student. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

3. Legislative Intent.

In construing the term "party" in KRS 61.878(1), the appellate court attached significance to the Legislature's word choice, which was "party" not "person" and interpreted this to mean that a newspaper seeking to inspect records of a prison inmate was not a "party" in the litigation involving the inmate, thus KRS 61.878(1) was inapplicable, and the documents requested were open for inspection pursuant to this section. Department of Corrections v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times, 914 S.W.2d 349, 1996 Ky. App. LEXIS 10 (Ky. Ct. App. 1996).

General Assembly did not intend to mandate an iron rule of non-disclosure whenever an exemption contained in the Kentucky Open Records Act applies because such a rule would run counter to the principle, fundamental in the law, that rights, even fundamental rights, may be waived, and the Act's express policy, is the free and open examination of public records. Lawson v. Office of the AG, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

Kentucky takes the view that the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) prohibits disclosure of education records under the Kentucky Open Records Act; Kentucky has adopted its own version of FERPA, applicable to elementary and secondary schools indicating the General Assembly has determined that education records are not subject to the Open Records Act. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

4. Invasion of Privacy.

File of complaints by psychologist's clients alleging sexual misconduct was a public record containing information "of a very personal nature," disclosure of which would have constituted a serious invasion of personal privacy. Kentucky Bd. of Examiners of Psychologists v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 826 S.W.2d 324, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 35 (Ky. 1992).

In determining whether a request for certain public records constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of person privacy under KRS 61.878(1)(a), the court must first determine whether the subject information is of a "personal nature" and if it finds it is a must then determine whether public disclosure "would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." This latter determination entails a "comparative weighing of antagonistic interests" in which the privacy interest in nondisclosure is balanced against the general rule of inspection and its underlying policy of openness for the public good. Zink v. Department of Workers' Claims, Labor Cabinet, 902 S.W.2d 825, 1994 Ky. App. LEXIS 141 (Ky. Ct. App. 1994).

Unredacted copies of final settlement agreements which showed payments made by government in connection with lawsuits against the police department were not covered by the privacy exception contained in subdivision (1)(a) of KRS 61.878 even though two or three of the agreements contained confidentiality clauses whereby settlement recipients and their attorneys agreed not to disclose the terms of the agreements. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Gov't v. Lexington Herald-Leader Co., 941 S.W.2d 469, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 38 (Ky. 1997).

Conciliation agreement between the city and the employee was a settlement involving the payment of public funds, which remained a public record, and to the extent that the conciliation agreement contained personal information including the employee's salary and accommodations, the disclosure of that information was not an unwarranted invasion of her privacy such that it would have been highly offensive to the reasonable person. Therefore, because the conciliation agreement was a public record under KRS 61.870 et seq., the office manager did not intrude into the employee's right of seclusion by possessing a public record, and thus, the employee's claim against the office manager for unreasonable intrusion upon the seclusion of another based on her alleged possession of her conciliation agreement failed as a matter of law. Washington v. City of Georgetown, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16394 (E.D. Ky. Mar. 3, 2009).

5. Civil Lawsuit.

An agreement which represents the final settlement of a civil lawsuit whereby a governmental entity pays public funds to compensate for an injury it inflicted is a public record and is open to inspection by any person as provided in subsection (1) of this section and the government is without any basis upon which to claim a right of privacy and unless such documents are excluded from disclosure by one or more provisions of the Open Records Act, they must be produced. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Gov't v. Lexington Herald-Leader Co., 941 S.W.2d 469, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 38 (Ky. 1997).

Bid protestor was entitled to seek judicial review of the award of the contract for statewide genetic testing services for the 2004 fiscal year, which was made to another vendor, even though the contract had expired as a protestor has standing to seek judicial review as such a matter presents a case and controversy despite the contract ending. However, judgment in favor of the various Commonwealth of Kentucky agencies and the winning bid maker was upheld on appeal, because the substance of the protestor's complaint alleged alternative interpretation of the bid terms, which was a discretion afforded to the Commonwealth as a contracting officer in a negotiated procurement, and the protestor provided no valid reason, such as fraud, in challenging the award to the winning bid maker. Lab. Corp. of Am. Holdings v. Rudolph, 184 S.W.3d 68, 2005 Ky. App. LEXIS 169 (Ky. Ct. App. 2005).

Former medical resident student did not established that a university's initial decision to withhold records from her was done willfully, particularly when there was evidence that university officials were not aware that the other documents existed, and once they learned of the other records, they produced them to the student; also the student could not recover attorney's fees and other expenses after filing a lawsuit to obtain the documents. Shyamashree Sinha v. Univ. of Ky., 284 S.W.3d 159, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 375 (Ky. Ct. App. 2008).

Where a school district employee settled her lawsuit against one school district for sexual harassment by a district official and a second lawsuit against another district for allegedly wrongfully failing to hire her, the lower courts erred in denying a newspaper's request for access to the settlement agreements under the Kentucky Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 to 61.884, because the settlement of litigation between a government agency and one of its employees and a private citizen and a governmental entity were matters of legitimate public concern that the public is entitled to scrutinize. A confidentiality clause in such agreements was not entitled to protection. Cent. Ky. News-Journal v. George, 306 S.W.3d 41, 2010 Ky. LEXIS 72 (Ky. 2010).

Although the former employees alleged that the general manager's production of the disciplinary action forms in response to a record request was actionable because, at least as to two employees, the forms contained untrue statements about the employees acting dishonestly when they examined confidential information on the employer's computer system without permission following one of the employee's discharge, the general manager's decisions to discharge the employees were not conditional and did not need the board of directors' approval; the general manager had the authority to terminate employees, and the terminations represented his final action. That the discharges could potentially have been set aside by the board during the grievance hearing did not transform the disciplinary action forms into preliminary drafts, notes, or correspondence. Burgess v. Paducah Area Transit Auth., 387 Fed. Appx. 538, 2010 FED App. 0421N, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 14384 (6th Cir. Ky. 2010).

6. Description of Records.

Nothing in KRS 61.872(2) contains any sort of particularity requirement. Rather, KRS 61.872(2) only requires that one seeking to inspect public records may be required to submit a written application describing the records to be inspected. The General Assembly chose only to require the record to be described; it did not add any modifiers like "particularly" described. Commonwealth v. Chestnut, 250 S.W.3d 655, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 116 (Ky. 2008).

7. Unreasonable Burden.

Winnowing process required of the Department of Corrections by the General Assembly under KRS 197.025 did not rise to the level of an unreasonable burden under KRS 61.872(6), especially in light of the fact that the General Assembly had already mandated that all public agencies had to separate materials exempted from disclosure in a document from materials that were subject to disclosure. The obvious fact that complying with an open records request would have consumed both time and manpower was, standing alone, not sufficiently clear and convincing evidence of an unreasonable burden. Commonwealth v. Chestnut, 250 S.W.3d 655, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 116 (Ky. 2008).

Although the task of determining what materials were properly subject to an inmate's open records request was tedious and time-consuming work, complying with the request did not automatically constitute an unreasonable burden. Regardless of the specificity of the open records request, the Department of Corrections personnel were still obligated to sift through any requested materials in order to determine which documents (or portions of a document) had to be redacted or excised by reasons of privacy or for institutional safety under KRS 197.025. Commonwealth v. Chestnut, 250 S.W.3d 655, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 116 (Ky. 2008).

Kentucky State Police violated the Open Records Act, Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.870 et seq., by failing to produce its entire Uniform Citation File database when requested by a reporter where the time and manpower required to separate exempt material, standing alone, was not sufficiently clear and convincing evidence to show an unreasonable burden under Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.872(6). Moreover, the undisputed evidence noted that the necessary categorical extractions could be performed for $15,000, and electronically separating exempt material was not equivalent to creating a new record given the mandate in Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.878(4). Commonwealth v. Courier Journal, 601 S.W.3d 501, 2020 Ky. App. LEXIS 42 (Ky. Ct. App. 2020).

8. Explanation Required.

Once it has been determined that records requested under the Kentucky Open Records Act no longer exist, the responsible agency is required to provide the requester with a written explanation for the records' nonexistence. Therefore, an inmate was entitled to relief under the Act based upon a request for certain jail records, even though the records allegedly no longer existed. Eplion v. Burchett, 354 S.W.3d 598, 2011 Ky. App. LEXIS 215 (Ky. Ct. App. 2011).

NOTES TO UNPUBLISHED DECISIONS

1. Final Rulings of Department of Revenue.

Unpublished decision: Department of Revenue was required to produce for inspection redacted copies of its final rulings because the production of the material a tax attorney and tax analysts sought was required by the Open Records Act; the Department's final rulings contained information related to its reasoning and analysis with respect to its task in administration of the tax laws, and that information could be made available without jeopardizing taxpayers' privacy interests under the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights. Fin. & Admin. Cabinet v. Sommer, 2017 Ky. App. LEXIS 9 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 13, 2017, sub. op., 2017 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 624 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 13, 2017).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Copies of documentation pertaining to the purchase of federal excess and surplus property obtained by a county civil defense agency would constitute "public records" and should be open to inspection by a newspaper. OAG 76-235.

Blanket requests for information on a particular subject without specifying certain documents need not be honored for state employees may not be requested to make compilations of records, but the public has a right to inspect compilations which have been made in the course of business unless the subject matter is confidential by law. OAG 76-375.

The Open Records Act does not charge state agencies with the duty to provide records upon a request made by mail. OAG 76-375.

The right to have copies of records is an ancillary to the right of inspection and does not stand by itself; if a person has not inspected the records he desires to copy and cannot describe them with specificity, there is no requirement that copies of any records must be delivered to him; a citizen may make a fishing expedition through public records on his own time and under the restriction and safeguards of the public agency, but a willingness to pay for copies of records is not sufficient to put the state agency under obligation to furnish broad categories of records. OAG 76-375.

A person does not have a right to require a list to be made from public records if the list described does not already exist; if the list exists and is not otherwise confidential by law, a person may inspect a list and obtain a copy of it; a person desiring that list be made or that he have copies of broad categories of information must expend his own time in digging out the information unless it has already been compiled. OAG 76-375.

A county fiscal court could not deny a bidder access to inspection of a bid submitted by another office supply company upon an advertised invitation for bids. OAG 76-528.

Jury lists drawn from the drum by the judge are to be kept secret until the list is delivered to the sheriff and after that time the clerk is required to allow public inspection of the list and to provide a copy to any citizen requesting one for which the clerk may charge a reasonable fee. OAG 76-591.

Repeated requests to inspect the records of a public agency do not amount to harassment so as to justify an official custodian's refusal to permit inspection. OAG 77-151.

Under this section a person does not have to be a resident of any particular place to qualify for inspection of public records; therefore a school office could not withhold records from the inspection of a requestor who is not a resident of the school district. OAG 77-151.

There is no statutory requirement that an agenda be prepared for regular meetings of the school board but if an agenda is prepared it is a public record; an agenda is required for a special meeting of the school board and it is also a "public record"; such agendas are "public records" pursuant to this section and open for inspection by any person during the regular office hours of the public agency. OAG 77-221.

The public has the right to all the information regarding the settlement of a civil suit by the city. OAG 78-35.

The Kentucky Open Records Statute does not require that a requester must state the reason for his request to inspect or copy public records, and an executive order was in error in requiring a statement of a reason before allowing copying of a record. OAG 78-231.

Since a filed library district petition requires fiscal court to check its validity on its face, it does not become a full-blown public record, for purposes of the Open Records Law, until after fiscal court has determined its validity. OAG 79-265.

While a library district petition is needed by the clerk and his staff to check the validity of the signatures, etc., for fiscal courts, the custodian may reasonably delay inspection of the record and the making of copies until after the verification process has been concluded. OAG 79-265.

KRS 68.360 provides for a monthly statement of the county treasurer to be filed with the county judge/executive and the fiscal court, showing the balance of county funds available for governmental expenditure, and for the county judge/executive's filing similar quarterly reports as to status of county funds, showing receipts and expenditures of county funds, which records are public records, as defined in KRS 61.870, and are subject to inspection by any person under the conditions of this section. OAG 79-374.

An inmate of a county detention center has the right to inspect public records the same as any other person. OAG 79-546.

There is nothing wrong with making a request for inspection of public documents by mail, but the response of the agency need only be that the records will be made available for inspection at certain times and places. OAG 79-547.

The press has only such right of access to public records as the general public has. OAG 79-582.

The Kentucky Housing Authority should make a proper response to an attorney's request to inspect a July, 1979, audit of a corporation by agency accountants, and if there is no lawful reason for denying inspection of the audit record, the agency should comply with the request for the record by making it available; if the record is not in the possession of the agency but is in the possession of the agency's accountant, the agency should obtain a copy of the record and make it available, and a claim of confidentiality between the accountants and the corporation cannot be used to defeat the inspection of the record which is otherwise not exempt by law. OAG 80-207.

A request to inspect any standard contract or printed contract form used by a county's schools during the years 1978, 1979 or 1980, for the purchase of instructional materials was specific enough and should have been complied with. OAG 80-289.

Where a member of an electric plant board has requested to inspect numerous plant board records covering a five-year period and that certain lists be compiled for him, it will be sufficient under the Open Records Law for the board to allow the requester access to the records he wants to inspect if they exist and the board does not have to prepare lists which are not already in existence. OAG 80-308.

Where a requester sought to inspect the records of all moneys collected by a county from fees charged the public for the use of the county's copying machines for personal copies, the county clerk's response that the records would be made available for inspection five (5) weeks later did not comply with the Open Records Law, especially subsection (4) of this section, since the clerk gave no explanation for the five-weeks delay. OAG 80-367.

The Department (now Cabinet) for Human Resources must honor requests for information regarding payment to specific identifiable providers of health care through the Kentucky Medical Assistance Program since such records come under the mandatory inspection requirements of the Open Records Law. OAG 80-519.

Response to request to inspect certain public records of the city that the requesters would be allowed to review records one day a month and to examine two month's worth of records at a time placed an unreasonable and illegal restriction upon the right of the requesters to inspect the records and constituted a subversion of the intent of the Open Records Law and the requesters are entitled to inspect all of the described records immediately and continuously until the inspection is completed to their satisfaction. OAG 80-641.

Where a newspaper sought all records of agreed orders levying fines against coal companies for certain periods, all records relating to collection of such fines, and all records relating to forfeiture of bonds by coal companies for the same period, and the state environmental agency granted access to some of the records but denied access to all closed files located in a storage warehouse as placing an unreasonable burden on the agency pursuant to subsection (5) of this section, the agency's denial of access to the warehouse documents was improper, since the newspaper merely requested the right to inspect those documents at suitable facilities rather than requesting state employees to compile or copy the documents, which was not an unreasonable burden and since it was not evident that the newspaper was maliciously harassing and disrupting the operation of the agency. OAG 81-198.

An application form provided by a city to open records to requesters, which required that the requester state under oath that he is a Kentucky citizen, that he give his home address and telephone number, that he state the reason for his request and that the form be given under oath and certified by a notary public, was defective in that "any person" can inspect public records under this section, so that access is not limited to Kentucky citizens; a requester does not need to give any personal information or his reason for the request under KRS 61.870 to 61.884, and the application need not be given under oath or notarized. OAG 81-345.

County government records of occupational taxes should be open to public inspection, for the public has a right to know in addition to the name of the business licensed, the dates of applications and issuances of business licenses and; all the other information about a license issued by the government which is not expressly made confidential by statute. OAG 82-2.

The date of application and effective period of a county business license is not such information as reveals the affairs of a person's business contrary to subsection (1) of KRS 131.190; however, before making such information available to the public the division of tax collection should either delete confidential matter from the licenses prior to public inspection or provide the requested information in lieu of allowing personal inspection. OAG 82-2.

Both a proposed budget and the final approved budget of a fiscal court are public records under KRS 61.870 and are open to inspection by the public under this section. OAG 82-91.

A member of the city council is entitled to inspect and make copies of any public records of the city located in the clerk's office during normal office hours and at other times in emergencies. OAG 82-311.

If record is made available to one (1) member of the public for one (1) purpose, it must be made available to the public generally for any purpose. OAG 82-394.

The Kentucky Board of Nursing should make available to the public, including RN Magazine, the names and addresses of all licensed nurses as contained in the records of the Board without regard to the purpose for which the records are requested. OAG 82-394.

The Open Records Law requires that all public agencies, state and local, shall allow inspection and copying of public records in their custody, with the exception of certain types of documents named in KRS 61.878, without regard to the person who is making the request or the purpose for which the person wants to inspect the records; an agency cannot adopt a policy allowing inspection and copying of records for certain purposes and denying it for other purposes. It is the content of the record itself which makes it either mandatorily accessible to public inspection and copying or exempt from the mandatory requirement. OAG 82-394.

The purpose of licensing professions, such as nursing, is to protect the public, and the public is entitled to know who the licensees are. The public is also entitled to know the address of each licensee and if the only address which the board has for a licensee is a home address, the privacy exemption will not apply to that licensee. OAG 82-394.

The Open Records Law provides that any person can inspect the original record and cannot be required only to purchase a copy of the original record. OAG 82-396.

Under subsection (2) of this section it is not permissible to limit inspection of the dispatch log of a county dispatch service to one (1) day a week, and any person requesting to inspect the log should be permitted to do so during the regular office hours of the courthouse; since the dispatch service operates twenty-four (24) hours a day, seven (7) days a week, the inspection of the log can be limited to the regular office hours of the courthouse rather than to allow inspection of the log at any time the dispatcher is on the job. OAG 82-396.

The mayor of a fourth class city may not legally withhold the results of polygraph tests administered to personnel employed by the city police department when a city councilman wants to examine the data. OAG 83-518.

The only records from the investigation files of internal affairs of a police department which may be inspected by the public are those which reveal the disciplining of an officer by the chief and the reason for the action taken. OAG 82-547.

The requester is entitled to inspect the records of a named police officer to the extent of the final disciplinary action taken by the chief and the complaint which prompted this action; however, whether the requester is entitled to inspect all such records in the police chief's office of every police officer who has been the subject of disciplinary action depends on a factual determination by the chief, supported by substantial proof, of whether making the limited records available places an unreasonable burden on his office. OAG 82-547.

The Open Records Law does not contemplate that a public agency shall send requested records to a person who has not inspected them. OAG 82-629.

Records related to a criminal prosecution are public records and, if prosecution has been completed, they are open to public inspection. OAG 82-629.

Although a prison inmate has the same right to inspect public records as any other person, it is not incumbent upon a public agency to provide records to inmates who are unable to go to the office where the records are kept because of their legal confinement. OAG 82-629.

Attorney for Cabinet for Human Resources did not sufficiently comply with the spirit and the letter of the Open Records Law in responding to request for records by suggesting that requester direct his request to the Director of the Division of Unemployment Insurance; as an employee, agent and attorney for the Division, he should have directed the request to the proper person, i.e., the Director of the Division as official custodian, or to whomever the Director had designated to be the custodian of records. OAG 83-23.

Where proper request for records was made to attorney in Office of Counsel of Cabinet for Human Resources and attorney stated that he did not have records and instructed requester to make another request to Director of Division of Unemployment Insurance, such Division did not act in accordance with KRS 61.870 to 61.884 in its failure to allow inspection or make a proper response to such request to inspect records after three (3) months from the date of the initial request. OAG 83-23.

The Open Records Law does not require that a requester state the reason for his request to inspect or copy public records. OAG 83-42.

The Open Records Act does not require the county clerks of Kentucky to provide copies of public records upon a request made by mail. OAG 83-42.

Where the requesters of copies of records had not inspected any of the records, and had not described any specific records, custodian of records was under no duty to furnish the copies requested; the right to have copies of records is ancillary to the right of inspection and does not stand by itself. OAG 83-42.

Public agencies should accommodate requesters whenever they can within the bounds of the efficient operation of their office. Whenever only one (1) item is requested, or a few precisely described items which are readily available within the office, and no special search is required, it will be more convenient both to the agency and to the requester to answer the request through the mail; to require the requester to appear in person at the office of the agency in such a case would not be more convenient to either party and would only inhibit the intended purpose of the Open Records Law. OAG 83-204.

The provisions of KRS 61.872, 61.874 and 61.876, when taken together, require that public agencies have a policy of allowing inspection of public records, of protecting the records, of preventing excessive disruption of the agency's functions, of providing copies upon request, of providing efficient and timely action in response to applications for inspection and of charging a reasonable fee based on the actual cost of making copies not including the cost of staff required; these three (3) sections allow public agencies a certain amount of leeway as to handling requests for records by mail and mailing copies to requesters who have not personally inspected the records and selected the items which they want copied. OAG 83-204.

Requested documents concerning change of control of several banks were federal documents filed with the Department of Banking and Securities (now Department of Financial Institutions) by federal regulatory agencies and therefore, the Department of Banking and Securities was just the casual possessor, not the official custodian, of these documents which were still possessed by the federal agencies; the "official custodian" is the proper official to make decisions on policy concerning the release of records and, accordingly, the Department acted properly in denying request for such records and notifying requester of the official custodians with whom he could file a Freedom of Information Act request. OAG 83-342.

The Department of Transportation's (now Transportation Cabinet) denial of a request to inspect "all" records in the Kentucky Department of Transportation, Division of Right of Way, District 5, was proper under Open Records Law; the request did not have to be honored as it lacked specificity and it would have placed an unreasonable burden on the agency to separate exempted material from the nonexempted material before inspection. OAG 83-386.

Final disciplinary actions taken by the state's licensing boards or agencies against licensed professionals are public information since the public, upon request, has a right to know the final action taken by a state board or agency. OAG 84-55.

Requested records pertaining to annual copying costs and fees should be made available for public inspection, and any person inspecting the records and requesting a copy should be sold that copy. OAG 84-91.

A city could compile a list of occupational licensees in its discretion, or allow requestor to make his own list; the city could also separate exempted from nonexempted matter before allowing requestor access to the records. OAG 84-93.

A request to inspect city occupational license records was not a "blanket" request where requestor specified certain information from a specific document. OAG 84-93.

The requestor is not required under the Open Records Law to have a legitimate or public purpose for inspection. OAG 84-93.

The court clerk's denial of inspection of court records for the previous five (5) years pertaining to traffic violations for driving under the influence was improper, even though there were approximately 10,000 such cases, since the requests were not repetitious and the requestor was willing to inspect a few at a time. OAG 84-278.

Since subsection (2) of this section and KRS 61.880 provide that an agency must respond to a request for inspection of records within three (3) days timely access to records would thus be any time less than three (3) days from agency receipt of the request. OAG 84-300.

The denial of a request to inspect the complete institutional file of an inmate was proper, as requests to inspect personnel files must specify the particular documents within such files to be inspected. OAG 85-88.

A response denying the right to inspect public records was legally insufficient when it did not state what exception to the right to inspect was relied upon and how the exception applied to the records withheld. OAG 85-89.

There is no provision in the Open Records Act which requires that a person give a reason as to why he wants to inspect public records and that he state what he intends to do with information acquired as a result of inspecting public records. OAG 86-36.

The public agency's denial of the request for documents pertaining to adjustments for telephone and travel expenses was proper to the extent that the public agency declined to prepare and furnish lists which were at the time not in existence; however, the public agency was in violation of the Open Records Act to the extent that its response stated or implied that the requesting party would not be afforded the opportunity of examining otherwise nonexempt material of the public agency to attempt to secure the particular records and documents with which he was concerned. OAG 86-51.

The Department of Insurance's denial of the request for records pertaining to complaint files concerning claims' settlement practices was proper to the extent that the Department declined to prepare and furnish a list of data which at the time did not exist; however, the Department violated the Open Records Act to the extent that its response stated that the requesting party would not be afforded the opportunity of examining otherwise nonexempt material to attempt to secure the data with which he is concerned. OAG 86-52.

The public agency's actions in not making public records available for public inspection on the grounds that the documents could not be found and that the request for other records was vague and imprecise were proper responses and actions under the terms and provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 86-65.

The response of the public agency to the request to inspect documents that some of the requested documents did not exist was sufficient and proper; however, the public agency's attempt to restrict the requesting party's inspection of those records which did exist to one-half hour a week was an unreasonable and illegal restriction on the right to inspect public records, and such records were to be made available for inspection immediately. OAG 87-54.

The public agency's written response to the requesting party's request to inspect public documents was legally sufficient pursuant to this section and KRS 61.880 of the Open Records Act and afforded the requesting party a reasonable opportunity to inspect the records and materials requested to obtain the desired information. OAG 88-8.

It is not incumbent upon a public agency to provide documents to inmates who are unable to go to the office where the records are kept because of their confinement. OAG 88-44.

Where records accumulating or compiling the information sought did not exist, and a substantial research and compilation effort would be required to attempt to provide the data requested, a request for information on the number of state police officers assigned to executive security duty, and the hours of overtime accumulated by those officers, within specific time periods, could be properly denied. OAG 88-79.

If records, though regarding private donations and disbursements, are in the possession of or retained by a state agency, they are, in general, subject to inspection; the open records statutes, however, do not require state personnel to identify private entities that might have records regarding private donations and expenditures from such donations; thus, to the extent agencies have allowed inspection of (or provided) records that they had possession of or retained, and truthfully indicated that they do not have certain records sought by the requests, they have substantially complied with the open records statutes. OAG 89-7.

A request to inspect all records pertaining to two specifically named state troopers is too broad and too general to require a production of documents for inspection. OAG 89-8.

Denial of a request to view police radio transmission logs based upon subsection (5) of this section, regarding an unreasonable burden in producing voluminous records, is not substantiated where the records sought are of an identified, limited class, typically maintained by month or year, so that they may be made readily available by providing appropriate binders or boxes. OAG 89-20.

One does not have a right under Open Records provisions to require that a particular list be made. OAG 89-61.

If particular records sought don't exist, the individual seeking those records may be entitled to access to records that would enable him to determine the information he wanted; but he must describe, with reasonable particularity, the nature of those records. OAG 89-61.

City governments and employees are servants of the people, but they are servants of all the people, not just those who may make extreme and unreasonable demands on their time, and one desiring that lists be made, or that broad categories of information be provided, must expend their own time digging the information out unless it has already been compiled. OAG 89-61.

Compliance with KRS 132.530, which in part, requires a Property Valuation Administrator to make additions to each column of the tax rolls so that accuracy of calculations may be verified, is a matter not addressed by Open Records provisions. OAG 89-66.

Where a letter expressly requested permission to inspect all accident reports prepared for a period of four (4) weeks prior to the date of inspection, and where the letter identified without any ambiguity which accident reports were sought, the letter sufficiently described the records to be inspected. OAG 89-76.

A police department is not required to review voluminous numbers of accident reports and make selected copies of them for an individual, as that individual may be shown where the reports are filed and review the reports himself. OAG 89-76.

A person requesting to inspect public records does not have to state any reason as to why he wants to see those records and he does not have to show or establish any particular interest in the subject matter of those records; thus, the purpose of the requesting party in wanting to see the records in question has no bearing on whether the public agency should grant or deny his request. OAG 89-79.

A public agency cannot deny a request to inspect records because information from those documents may or will be used in some future legal action, although, if a legal action is in process when the request to inspect records is made, the public agency may be able to invoke the exception to inspection set forth in KRS 61.878(1)(f), otherwise, a decision not to make records available for inspection because of the possibility or even the probability of a legal action at some future time is a violation of the Open Records Act. OAG 89-79.

Where a public agency asserts that the number, detail and nature of requests for documents placed an unreasonable burden on the agency, or were intended to disrupt certain of its essential functions, the burden is on that agency to demonstrate, by more than merely referring to fifteen (15) such requests, that those requests either place an unreasonable burden on the agency or that they are intended to disrupt other essential functions of the agency. OAG 89-79.

While city workers do not have to compile or explain records, they must make a good faith effort to make available for inspection, records related to fiscal assets, receipts, and expenditures of the city, where there is a reasonable description of records sought. OAG 89-81.

Open Records provisions were not intended to serve as a comprehensive audit tool, or as a means of commanding compilation and production of specific information; Open Records provisions are intended to provide for inspection of reasonably described records held by public agencies. OAG 89-81.

Open Records provisions do not provide for, and agency workers are not required to provide under them, instruction in understanding of the meaning or import of information shown upon records produced. OAG 89-81.

Although the Cabinet for Human Resources properly declined to provide information which was not consistent with its method of filing and maintaining records, the Cabinet must give the person making the request a reasonable opportunity to inspect nonexempt records pertaining to designated facilities to enable him to attempt to obtain the information he has requested. OAG 89-84.

Agencies should have uniform policies regarding inspection of their records; if one person, in the absence of a court order, is allowed to inspect a record, all should be allowed to inspect. OAG 89-86.

Denial by the Department of Insurance, of inspection of some 800 records contained among seventy-seven (77) files, was proper as being unduly burdensome, where the difficulty of separating confidential from nonconfidential material was exacerbated by the substantial volume of records involved. OAG 89-88.

There may be no general denial of inspection of personnel records; in particular, inspection of employment applications and resumes, and records of educational qualifications — meaning educational levels obtained — insofar as reasonably related to qualification for public employment, must be permitted, where, under the facts of a given request to inspect, such review does not constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; information to be maintained as confidential may be masked or separated from information to be released, and employee evaluations, involving opinions, are not subject to inspection. OAG 89-90.

Under Open Records provisions there may not be a general or blanket denial of inspection of records contained in the personnel file of a public employee, or of a resume of application for employment, and to the extent that OAG 84-19 and OAG 87-77 uphold a general denial of inspection of the resume of a public employee, and OAG 79-275 upholds general denial of information on an employment application, they are overruled. OAG 89-90.

When the media attempts to carry out an evaluation regarding the quality of schools throughout the state, there is no unwarranted invasion of personal privacy in examining relevant prior work experience and educational qualifications of employees or former employees, and the same view applies to educational qualifications or levels attained by public employees. OAG 89-90.

A schoolteacher's college transcript is not subject to inspection, where a school board has denied inspection pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 89-90.

The Kentucky State University Foundation, Inc., is a recognized fund-raising instrumentality of Kentucky State University, and is thus an "agency thereof," within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1). OAG 89-92.

A state university acted consistently with Open Records provisions in denying inspection of records where the majority of the several hundred records sought contained "education records," as defined, and effectively made confidential by, the federal Buckley Amendment, such that virtually all of the records requested would require redaction or masking to remove information personally identifiable to a student; an unreasonable burden in view of the scope of the request(s), if the records were to be made available for inspection without jeopardizing federal aid. OAG 90-24.

A state university failed to act consistently with Open Records provisions in denying a request to inspect five (5) particular public safety dispatcher log cards, where the request for those specified items was particular, and narrow in scope, thus making redaction or masking of confidential information feasible without placing an unreasonable burden upon the agency. OAG 90-24.

Requests not to inspect public records, but for copies of records that had not been inspected were not proper requests under subsection (2) of this section. OAG 90-35.

City's actions were not consistent with Open Records provisions where, in contravention of subsection (1) of this section, it denied a requester the use of a film read-printer and a cassette tape player, thereby failing to provide suitable facilities for inspection of its records. Additionally, the city failed to act consistent with Open Records provisions where, in contravention of KRS 61.874(2), it established a twenty-five cents ($.25) per page fee for copies of records, when such fee was not based upon the actual cost, exclusive of personnel expenses, for making copies. OAG 90-50.

Where a request was made for portions of taped conversations between a police department hostage negotiation team and an individual who allegedly held his family hostage for several hours until he apparently killed his estranged wife and himself, and where these were all conversations in which the alleged perpetrator was a participant, since excepted information could properly be omitted from those portions of the tape, the remaining nonexcepted information had to be produced since the information requested was not so voluminous so as to constitute an unreasonable burden. OAG 90-56.

The Open Records Act makes no provision for a public agency to refuse to give an applicant access to public records just because the applicant already has obtained the requested information elsewhere. OAG 90-71.

Where a governmental board does have custody or control over some public records that contain certain requested information, according to the requirements of the Open Records Act, the board should have given the person making the request either: (1) access to the records, or (2) a statement of the specific exceptions authorizing the withholding of the records. OAG 90-71.

There is no specific exception in the Open Records Act that authorizes a public agency to withhold public records from an applicant because access to the records may be obtained from another public agency, even if the requested records might more appropriately or more easily be obtained from that other public agency. OAG 90-71.

The request for information to indicate when the Commonwealth's Attorney's office first became involved in a particular case was a request for information and not a request for documents as contemplated under the Open Records Act. OAG 90-77.

To the extent the request asked questions such as: How much money was spent for certain items? How many Owensboro-Daviess County Hospital vendors or HCA vendors are from the hospital's service area? What is the current status of the ODCH case reserve fund? or What banks does ODCH have accounts with?, the request was one for information as distinguished from a request to inspect reasonably identified records. OAG 90-100.

Although the requesting party has not been supplied with the information in the format he desires as he has not been furnished with an up-to-date computerized listing of the appointments to the various boards and commissions by the Governor, he is only entitled to such a computerized listing when such a list is actually in existence or when it is part of a database. OAG 90-101.

Determining when an application places an unreasonable burden upon an agency to produce voluminous public records is at best difficult; each request for inspection of public records must be assessed based upon the facts in that particular situation. OAG 90-112.

Responses denying inspection of public records should include reference to a specific statutory exception authorizing the withholding of the record. OAG 90-112.

The Office of The Attorney General has rarely, if ever, upheld an agency denial based solely upon subsection (5) of this section. OAG 90-112.

Where the records sought for inspection were precisely described as all "automobile accident reports prepared by the Kentucky State Police Department, London Post,... for a period of four (4) weeks prior to the date of inspection period.", there was no ambiguity in this request, and it did not constitute a blanket request for information; it was a request to inspect specific records during a specific and limited period of time. OAG 90-112.

Although water district has not complied with various procedural requirements set forth in KRS 61.880(1) and subsection (4) of this section relative to the handling and disposition of requests to inspect documents, the water district's refusal to permit the inspection of polygraph test results is justified under the Open Records Act as such documents may be excluded from public inspection pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 90-144.

If an agency elects to rely upon the additional exemption set forth in subsection (5) of this section for denial of access, the agency must sustain its burden by "clear and convincing evidence," and a more detailed explanation may be warranted. OAG 91-4.

If a public agency intends to rely upon subsection (5) of this section, indicating that producing records places an unreasonable burden upon the agency or that the requester intends to disrupt other essential agency functions, the refusal of the agency to produce documents for these reasons must be sustained by clear and convincing evidence, and where the requesting party has described the various categories of documents to which she seeks access with sufficient specificity to require the public agency to respond in a good faith manner to those requests by categories pursuant to KRS 61.880(1), documents withheld from inspection or unavailable should be identified and the specific reasons for withholding any documents should be stated in writing; a blanket denial of the request for access to documents was improper. OAG 91-7.

There is no specific exception in the Open Records Act that authorizes a public agency to withhold public records from an applicant because access to the records may be obtained from another public agency, even if the requested records might more appropriately or more easily be obtained from that other public agency. OAG 91-21.

Both microfiche copies and index books of the Kentucky Register of Births & Deaths are public records under KRS 61.870(2) and are available for public inspection under subsection (1) of this section and KRS 213.131(2) and (3); and since the Register has been available for public inspection for many years, the new legislation somewhat limiting public access to vital records, does not in any way make confidential records which have been open to the public for such a lengthy period of time. OAG 91-25.

If a state employee makes an unlawful disclosure of confidential birth records for the Cabinet of Human Resources to be liable for such disclosure the aggrieved party would have to prove that the Commonwealth or its agent was negligent. OAG 91-25.

The fact that sets of the Register of Births and Deaths are presently available for public inspection would not violate any Kentucky statutes simply because, at the time the Register was published, the information contained in the Register was not confidential and the Cabinet of Human Resources had no affirmative duty to restrict public access of the information. OAG 91-25.

The most recent index book of Births and Deaths published by the Cabinet bears the date of 1969, and under the authority of KRS 44.110, an alleged injury resulting from the release of birth records would have occurred at the moment the record was released for public inspection, and under the applicable statute of limitations for negligence cases against the Commonwealth or its agents, an action for damages cannot be brought if more than two years has elapsed from the date of the alleged negligent act; therefore, the Cabinet was not liable for divulging information that has been available for public inspection for at least twenty-one (21) years. OAG 91-25.

Rarely has an agency denial based exclusively upon the statutory exemption of subsection (5) of this section been upheld, however, the instant open record request and appeal, along with prior requests represented a flagrant abuse of the Open Records Law, and have produced an intolerable burden upon an agency to satisfy an unreasonable open records request, clearly disrupting essential functions of the agency. OAG 91-42.

The official custodian of public records may require written application describing the records to be inspected. This written application may be submitted either in person or by mail and any suggestion contained in OAG 76-375 which is contrary is hereby overruled. OAG 91-42.

A Water District is a public agency, created under authority of Chapter 74, and is therefore subject to the Open Records Act. Accordingly, its records are open for inspection by any person, unless those records are exempt under of the statutorily authorized exceptions. OAG 91-48.

Where university treated four (4) separate requests for inspection of certain documents as one request, its response was improper for while it may well have wished to expedite this matter by issuing a single response, it nevertheless erred in failing to address the four (4) requests in four (4) separate responses. OAG 91-111.

Subsection (4) of this section does not authorize an agency to withhold records not in active use, not in storage and otherwise available until those records which are not available can be located. OAG 91-111.

Statement advising requester that he would be furnished access to requested records "no later than 8:00 a.m., May 17, 1991" was clearly intended to conform to subsection (4) of this section. OAG 91-111.

Coroner's office erred in failing to advise attorney that the taped interviews with his client were in the possession of the Kentucky State Police. OAG 91-147.

If an agency invokes subsection (5) of this section to authorize nondisclosure of the requested records, then it bears the burden of establishing, by clear and convincing evidence, that the request places an unreasonable burden in producing voluminous public records. OAG 91-168.

The city failed to sustain its burden of proving, by clear and convincing evidence, that the application placed an unreasonable burden on it to produce voluminous records where the letter of denial did not describe with any degree of specificity the volume of records implicated by the request, the difficulty in accessing the records, or the problems associated with redacting exempt materials from those records. OAG 91-168.

Denial of inspection of case files involving four (4) criminal defendants on the grounds that these case files could not be located and therefore were not available for inspection from the Kentucky State Police, was consistent with the open records law and fully complied with the provisions of subsection (3). OAG 91-173.

A delay of one hundred twenty-eight (128) days before access to records is allowed suggests an improper disregard for the purpose and intent of the Open Records Law. OAG 91-200.

This section does not specify the mode or method by which a written request must be made and it is intended to circumvent disputes relative to the identity of the records requested, and not to create additional obstacles to the release of those records; therefore, a fax transmission satisfies this purpose. OAG 92-13.

Request for access to annual compliance reports prepared since January 1, 1980 by the Justice Cabinet under the Juvenile Justice and Protective Delinquency Act could be satisfied by production of eleven (11) or twelve (12) documents, and redaction of exempt materials should not constitute an undue burden; therefore, the cabinet should make these documents available for inspection. OAG 92-16.

Request for "All grant applications, proposals, responses and budgets by, for or from the Commonwealth of Kentucky under the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act" was properly denied pursuant to subsection (5) of this section and KRS 61.878(5). OAG 92-16.

Where requests were not limited to a particular subject, but instead all records of a particular character were requested, e.g., correspondence and memoranda of communication, relating to the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act for the period since January 1, 1984, given the vast number of documents which fell within the parameters of the request and the difficulties which would have attended any attempt to separate exempt from nonexempt materials, reliance on subsection (5) of this section in denial of the request was proper. OAG 92-16.

The privileges codified at KRS 421.215 (now repealed) and KRS 319.111 (now repealed) are incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of this provision, and those privileges do not expire after death; records generated in the course of psychiatric treatment, and protected by these privileges, are exempt from inspection, though they come into the hands of the coroner for the purpose of enforcing KRS 72.410, et seq; his use of the records must be confined to those purposes, and their distribution prohibited accordingly. OAG 92-24.

A determination of what is a "reasonable time" for inspection turns on the particular facts presented, i.e., the breadth of the request and the number of documents it encompasses, as well as the difficulty of separating exempt and nonexempt materials. Public agencies must work, in a spirit of cooperation, with individuals who request to inspect their records to insure that those individuals are afforded timely access to the records they wish to inspect. OAG 92-35.

Inmate mistakenly asserted that he must be afforded access to nonconfidential documents before he identified those documents; accordingly, the Attorney General opined that inmate must identify the specific documents that he wishes to inspect. OAG 92-56.

Inmate's request for a list of prison canteen items and their cost was properly denied where no such list existed. OAG 92-64.

The Kentucky State Penitentiary (KSP) should comply with KRS 61.880 by issuing responses within three (3) working days; if an open records request is misdirected, places an unreasonable burden on the KSP office, or the requested records are not immediately available, KSP's response should conform to subdivisions (3), (4) or (5) of this section. OAG 92-64.

Numerous, often duplicative, requests place an unreasonable burden on the agency. Where several categories of documents over a four (4) year period are requested, such production once entails some inconvenience to the agency but to produce them three (3) and four (4) times requires a level of "patience and long-suffering" that the Legislature could not have intended. OAG 92-91.

The burden is on the public agency to demonstrate, by clear and convincing evidence, that the request either place an unreasonable burden on the agency or that they are intended to disrupt other essential functions of the agency. Mere invocation of the statute is not sufficient to meet this burden of proof. OAG 92-91.

Subdivision (3) of this section stipulates that if the person to whom the application is directed does not have the custody of the public records requested, he or she should notify the applicant, and furnish the name and address of the custodian of the records. OAG 92-94.

A prison inmate has the same right to inspect public records as any other person. The identity of the requester is therefore irrelevant. Under existing law, an agency need not provide copies of records to inmates who are unable to go to the office where the records are kept because of their legal confinement, although it may elect to do so. After July 14, 1992, however, an agency will be required to supply copies of records if the applicant resides outside the county in which the records are located, the applicant precisely describes the records, and the records are readily available within the public agency, upon receipt of a reasonable fee for making copies. OAG 92-94.

Where agency denied request to make records available on the ground that such request placed an unreasonable burden on the office of a county hospital such denial consisted of little more than an invocation of the statute; the fact that the records were stored off-site was a relevant consideration only insofar as it related to their immediate availability since subdivision (4) of this section provides that if a public record is in active use, in storage or not otherwise available, the custodian should immediately notify the applicant and designate a place, time, and date for inspection not to exceed three

(3) days from receipt of the application, unless a detailed explanation of the cause for further delay is given and arrangements are made for inspection at the earliest possible date and did not relieve county hospital of its duty to furnish access to nonexempt public records. OAG 92-102.

Twenty-one (21) days did not constitute an inordinate delay in the release of public records, where the initial open records request was submitted on May 18, 1992, and the requestee responded on May 20, 1992, advising the requester that the requested records must be retrieved and forwarded to requestee's office to determine if the statutes permit release and that the earliest possible date that the records could be made available would be July 1, 1992, and in fact, the investigation was completed, and the records copied and forwarded to requestee within nineteen (19) work days and the requester was afforded access to the documents within twenty-one (21) work days of his initial request. OAG 92-117.

"Timely access" to public records has been defined as "any time less than three (3) days from agency receipt of the request." OAG 92-117.

The Open Records Act does not prescribe a reasonable time within which a requester must be afforded access to public records. However, subdivision (4) of this section normally requires an agency to notify the requester and designate an inspection date not to exceed three (3) days from agency receipt of the request. A determination of what is a "reasonable time" for inspection turns on the particular facts presented, i.e., the breadth of the request and the number of documents it encompasses, as well as the difficulty of retrieving those documents. Public agencies must work, in a spirit of cooperation, with individuals who request to inspect their records to insure that those individuals are afforded timely access to the records they wish to inspect. OAG 92-117.

A request can be made in person, by mail, or by fax transmission. An agency is not relieved of its duty of responding to an open records request simply because the applicant's request was not hand delivered. OAG 92-123. (Opinion prior to 1992 amendment.)

OAG 90-24 is overruled; records of a campus law enforcement unit maintained by the unit for the purpose of law enforcement are no longer subject to the federal law, but are instead governed by the Kentucky Open Records Law. OAG 93-3.

City Manager's abusive conduct created a hostile atmosphere which rendered the facilities provided by the city unsuitable for inspection. OAG 93-ORD-39.

While a requester cannot expect an agency to provide facilities offering the enforced silence of a library, he may certainly expect that those facilities will afford him adequate opportunity to inspect the records without interruption, and without harassment. OAG 93-ORD-39.

Any notification of a delay in affording access to records in excess of three (3) days must be accompanied by a detailed explanation of the cause and a statement of the earliest date, time, and place on which they will be available for inspection; therefore, the Department for Social Services erred in postponing notification until it could decide "how to best handle a request for records." OAG 93-ORD-43.

An agency may not elect to release copies of records in any format it chooses without regard to the requesting party's ability to access those records. OAG 93-ORD-46.

High school site based decision making council subverted the intent of the Open Records Law short of denial of inspection by releasing records to a requester in a format, a computer disk, to which he had no means of gaining access. OAG 93-ORD-46.

While the school superintendent was not the presiding officer of the school board, against whom a complaint was made, failure to direct the letter to the presiding officer is a mere technicality which will not prohibit the invoking of the Open Meetings Act. OAG 93-OMD-61.

Since the Kentucky Association of Counties derives at least 25% of its funds expended by it in the Commonwealth from state or local authority funds, it is a "public agency" for purposes of the Open Records Act and is subject to the provisions of subsection (5) of this section, relating to timely access to public records, as well as the other provisions of the Act. OAG 93-ORD-96.

After a request for certain public records under the Open Records Act, the custodian of such records need only advise the requester that his or her request will be honored and either append the records or notify the requester that they are available for immediate inspection per subdivision (3)(a) or (b) of this section; failure of the custodian to state that the requested records exist or that the records provided are those requested does not constitute a violation of the Act. OAG 94-ORD-15.

A public agency cannot demand or require more in regard to a request to inspect public records more than is required by subsection (2) of this section. OAG 94-ORD-101.

A public agency may require, if it desires to do so, that a request or application for copies of records be in writing. If a written request or application is required, the statute is satisfied if the written application, whether or not submitted on the public agency's form, contains the following: 1. applicant's signature, 2. applicant's name printed legibly, and 3. description of records to be inspected. OAG 94-ORD-101.

While a public agency may require a written application for copies of records, as opposed to an oral request, there is nothing in this section which authorizes a public agency to reject a request simply because the requester did not use the specific form devised by the public agency. A particular form may be desired or suggested by a public agency but failure to use that form cannot be the basis for rejecting a request to inspect records. OAG 94-ORD-101.

If a person cannot describe the documents he seeks to inspect with sufficient specificity there is no requirement that the public agency conduct a search for such material. OAG 95-ORD-2.

Objecting to a party's request to inspect open records kept by the Revenue Cabinet, the Cabinet claimed that the files requested were not readily accessible, that they would have to be manually retrieved and examined which would be "time consuming, unduly burdensome, and disruptive of the essential functions of the Cabinet" especially since the Cabinet's Legal Services Division already maintained a heavy case load; however, the facts presented by the Cabinet were found to be insufficient to satisfy the Cabinet's burden of establishing, by clear and convincing evidence, that the party's request imposed an unreasonable burden upon the agency. OAG 95-ORD-2.

By requesting only the "circuit court agreed judgments" which required payments to the State in excess of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) that were contained in closed files from January, 1993 through September, 1994, the requesting party who sought to inspect open records kept by the Revenue Cabinet satisfied the precondition to inspection, which requires the documents to be of a limited class and the requesting party to be able to identify with reasonable particularity the documents he seeks to inspect. OAG 95-ORD-2.

If an agency then invokes subsection (6) of this section to authorize nondisclosure of the requested records, it bears the burden of establishing, by clear and convincing evidence, that the request places an unreasonable burden on it. OAG 95-ORD-2.

A request for nonexempt public records which are maintained in a hard copy format, or electronically stored, must be honored regardless of whether the requester's purpose is commercial or noncommercial. OAG 95-ORD-12.

Where the Lottery Corporation agreed to release information requested but stated that because of the breadth of the request, the information would not be available within the three (3) days required by statute and where the Lottery did not indicate how many documents were implicated by the request or the difficulties it faced in retrieving them, the Lottery improperly delayed access to records since their response failed to contain a sufficiently detailed explanation of the cause for delay as required by this section. OAG 95-ORD-27.

Where appellant had failed to identify a specific record or records which he wished to inspect, but instead made a "standing request" to inspect records electronically stored with the county clerk's office, his request was not proper under law. OAG 95-ORD-43.

Where the University's official custodian of records failed to cite any of the "exceptions" to the general rule, found in subsections (4), (5) and (6), the University was obligated to physically retrieve and make available for inspection and for copying the specifically identified requested public records that were housed in a separate location. OAG 95-ORD-52.

The Department may discharge its duty under the Open Records Act by simply opening its records to a person so requesting and allowing him to expend his own time and efforts extracting the information in which he has an interest. Although such person may wish to assert his ancillary right to obtain copies of those records once he has inspected them, providing copies of five thousand (5000) documents is, in and of itself, unreasonably burdensome. OAG 96-ORD-155.

If the requested records are in active use, in storage, or not otherwise immediately available, the agency should refer to subsection (5) of this section to determine its obligations under the Act. OAG 96-ORD-135.

The language at the foot of a facsimile cover sheet warning against "unauthorized dissemination or copying," which is standard prescriptive language appearing on facsimile cover sheets, does not relieve a public agency of its duties under the Open Records Act, or otherwise abrogate, abridge, or nullify the Act. The language is aimed at notifying unintended recipients of the facsimile transmission that the records contained therein may be confidential, and should be returned to the sender. It does not constitute an independent basis for denying access to public records. OAG 96-ORD-267.

Where response from the Transportation Cabinet, Division of Driver Licensing to a request to inspect various records relating to a client's licensing process initially required payment to a rehabilitation center for $40.00 for an "in-car driver evaluation" performed at the center, later modified to a cost of $1.00 per page for the report, the Cabinet violated the reasonable fee provision of the Open Records Act, KRS 61.874(3). The courts and the Office of the Attorney General have determined that a charge of ten cents ($.10) per page is reasonable for a standard 8-½ inches x 11 inches paper copy. It should also be noted that under KRS 422.317(1), if the Cabinet had not retained a copy or if the requesting party had not proceeded under the Open Records Act, KRS 422.317(1) may have required a release of the records without charge. OAG 96-ORD-267.

Response of county board of education to request to inspect records containing the results of drug tests administered to school bus drivers that although records were available, counsel was reviewing the matter and a decision would be rendered in ten days was procedurally deficient as a public agency cannot postpone or delay the statutory deadline of KRS 61.880(1). Although the burden on the agency to respond in three (3) working days is an onerous one, the only exceptions to this general rule are found at subsection (4) of this section and did not apply. OAG 97-ORD-2.

City police division did not have to respond to newspaper's request to obtain copies of all traffic accident reports within the jurisdiction on a weekly basis. Although traffic accident reports prepared by law enforcement officers pursuant to KRS 189.635 are not confidential and are open records, the right to inspect public records attaches only after those records have been "prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency." No such right attaches for records which have not yet come into existence. The Open Records Act governs access to existing public records, not to prospective requests. City can require newspaper to submit a new application each time copies of records are requested and city need only honor requests for existing records. OAG 97-ORD-18.

Where requester who lived in one county and records were located in another county he satisfied the first requirement of subdivision (3)(b) of this section. OAG 97-ORD-46.

A requester satisfies the second requirement of subdivision (3)(b) of this section of precisely describing the records, if he describes in definite, specific, and unequivocal terms the records he wishes to access by mail. OAG 97-ORD-46.

Where request for records mirrored the language of KRS 337.522, although it covered a broad range of records, the request described, in definite, specific, and unequivocal terms, categories of documents which requestor wished to access by receipt of copies through the mail, he satisfied the requirement of subdivision (3)(b) of this section insofar as precisely describing the categories of records he wished to access. OAG 97-ORD-46.

Agency's response to request that if request were responded to fully it would be too voluminous and would pose a financial and personnel hardship on the Division of Employment Standards Apprenticeship and Training was not sufficient to establish that the requested records are not readily available within the public agency, for the agency did not indicate the number of records implicated by the request, the locations at which they might be stored, or the difficulty in accessing those records. OAG 97-ORD-46.

Upon request for records relating to recruitment and hiring in the Division of Police, the Civil Service Board improperly relied on KRS 61.878(1) to extend its response time to thirty days, under Fed. R. Civ. P. 34(b), and it was instead bound to conform to the procedural requirements of the Open Records Act, and in particular that it respond to the request within three (3) days, and its failure to do so constituted a violation of the Open Records Act. OAG 97-ORD-98.

Where requester of copies of various records relating to recruitment and hiring in Division of Police was engaged in federal litigation with city and Civil Service Board on issues relating to his eligibility as a police recruit and he was represented by an attorney, Board could not refuse to directly communicate with requester regarding his records request and instead communicate with his attorney relying on SCR 3.130, Rule 4.2, since there was no impediment to direct communication between the Board, the Board's attorney and the requester relative to his open records request. OAG 97-ORD-98.

Cabinet for Health Service properly relied on subsection (6) of this section and 61.878(1)(a), (k) and (l) and various confidentiality provisions found in both state (KRS 209.140, 210.235, 214.420, 214.625 and 620.050) and federal law, in denying request for inspection of all nursing facility licensure inspection reports for a two (2) year period where the Cabinet sustained the burden of showing that such request was an unreasonable burden on the Cabinet in describing with specificity the actual volumes of records implicated by the request and where the exemptions to disclosure provided by the state and federal law were mandatory and the difficulty of separation of confidential from releasable information constituted an unreasonable burden. OAG 97-ORD-88.

University could not and was not required to furnish former employee records that did not exist; however, the university was obligated to furnish former employee records that had been furnished to the EEOC and KCHR upon prepayment of reasonable copying charges as a public agency cannot withhold public records from an applicant simply because they may be obtained from another source. OAG 97-ORD-87.

Request for documents "pertaining to any sexual harassment complaints" implicating more than 2000 documents, did not place an unreasonable burden upon state agency where the agency offered no proof relative to the difficulty in accessing the records or the problems associated with redacting exempt information from the records, assuming that the records contain exempt information. OAG 98-ORD-45.

A request to examine phone records specifically identified by two telephone lines and eight telephone numbers belonging to known individuals or entities did not place an unreasonable burden upon the agency; it is therefore incumbent upon the agency to review and disclose the specific records; if no records exist which satisfy the request, or if any of the entries requested is properly excludable, the agency must cite the exception authorizing nondisclosure and briefly explain how it applies. OAG 98-ORD-92.

The Open Records Act does not require that an inmate who has been placed in disciplinary segregation be furnished with an escort so that he may exercise his right of on-site inspection, or that the records custodian bring the records to him. He may conduct an on-site inspection, subject to the facility's governing open records policies, after he is released from disciplinary segregation, or he may access the records by receipt of copies when there are sufficient funds in his inmate account to pay for those copies. Until that time, he must accept the necessary consequences of his confinement. OAG 98-ORD-157.

The Cabinet for Public Protection and Regulation of the Office of Petroleum Storage Tank Environmental Assurance Fund met its burden to establish that compliance with a request to inspect all claim forms containing a request for reimbursement of costs associated with four (4) types of work done and related documentation would place an undue burden on it since requiring the agency to search through 7,724 claim form files, in order to segregate them by categories of type of work, a format by which the agency did not retain its records, would constitute such a burden. OAG 99-ORD-1.

Requests for tax records did not become unduly burdensome on the basis that the requester made four (4) requests in a three and one half (3½) week period. OAG 99-ORD-4.

Public agencies must demonstrate, by clear and convincing evidence, that a requester's applications to inspect public records have become unreasonably burdensome. OAG 99-ORD-4.

An inmate's request to inspect his "entire medical file" was not too general and, therefore, the correctional institution's denial of the request was improper. OAG 99-ORD-7.

A response by the Kentucky State Police to a request for information regarding the investigation of allegations that involved any activity involving the requester and two (2) other specified persons was proper where the police responded in writing that they had no such records and that the matter was investigated by a specified local police department. OAG 99-ORD-9.

A city properly denied a request to inspect all records relating to the enforcement by the city of all its ordinances, municipal orders, executive orders, and resolutions put into effect by the city council during a certain period as such request did not identify with reasonable particularity any records he wished to review. OAG 99-ORD-12.

A request by an employee of the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet for "all documents, in whatever form, that contain [the requester's] name or relate to [her], including preliminary and other supporting documentation, from January 1, 1995, to the present" was impermissibly burdensome as the records to which access was requested were not identified with "reasonable particularity," were not of an identified, limited class, and could have numbered in the thousands. OAG 99-ORD-14.

KRS 61.878(3) vests public agency employees with a right of access to otherwise exempt public records which relate to them; however, it does not relieve public agency employees of the duty to describe those records with sufficient specificity to permit the agency from which the records are sought to identify, locate, and retrieve the records and does not impose an additional duty on the agency to conduct an exhaustive exhumation of records or embark on an unproductive fishing expedition in order to satisfy a nonspecific request. OAG 99-ORD-14.

Public agencies are not required by the act to gather and supply information independent of that which is set forth in public records; the public has a right to inspect public documents and to obtain whatever information is contained in them, but the primary impact of the act is to make records available for inspection and copying and not to require the gathering and supplying of information. OAG 99-ORD-17.

A county board of education did not violate the statute where the requester sought to inspect voluminous records, many of which were not immediately accessible, and the board arranged for the requester to inspect the documents over a two (2) day period beginning 20 days after the statutory deadline for inspection. OAG 99-ORD-26.

This section and KRS 61.874 contain no provision for waiver of the prepayment requirement for inmates; thus, it is entirely proper for a correctional facility to require prepayment and to enforce its standard policy relative to assessment of charges to inmate accounts, despite the delays this may entail. OAG 99-ORD-30.

It is incumbent on all public agencies to designate an employee to fill the role of official custodian and to adopt and post rules and regulations identifying that employee as official custodian so that open records requests can be directed to him for processing and final agency action; if he does not have custody or control of the public record requested, he must notify the requester and furnish the name and location of the official custodian of those records. OAG 99-ORD-30.

Because the requested records were not immediately available for inspection, it was incumbent on the agency to provide a detailed explanation of the cause of the delay and to designate the place, time, and earliest date on which the records could be reviewed. OAG 99-ORD-32.

The Transportation Cabinet afforded timely access to the records identified in a request where the cabinet received the request on January 22, the requester was notified that the records would be available for inspection on February 2, and the requester exercised his right of inspection on February 3; the cabinet exceeded the three (3) day statutory deadline by only four (4) days and, given the breadth of his request and the number of documents it encompassed, as well as the apparent difficulty in accessing and retrieving those records, this was not an unreasonable delay. OAG 99-ORD-32.

Where the requester sought information from a board of education which was contained in numerous records, the board properly afforded the requester an opportunity to examine the records and to compile the information herself. OAG 99-ORD-33.

The State Treasurer properly denied a request for copies of all unclaimed property reports filed by banks with the Treasury Department for a specified year as the reports contained information of a personal or confidential nature the disclosure of which would have constituted an unwarranted invasion of the owner's personal privacy and would have required unduly burdensome redaction in order to comply with the request. OAG 99-ORD-34.

A board of education unreasonably postponed the requester's right of access to public records where the board extended the deadline for inspection of an abbreviated list of records for an additional 27 days, noting that eight (8) of these days were weekends and that its offices would be officially closed on three (3) other days during the 27 day period. OAG 99-ORD-44.

A board of education could not restrict the requester's right of on-site access to three (3) hours on a single day, notwithstanding that the board elected to assign an employee and a law enforcement officer to monitor the requester's inspection of the records, where the board acknowledged that no restraining order was issued against the requester to prevent him from entering the board's offices. OAG 99-ORD-44.

A response by a county attorney to a request for records was sufficient where the response informed the requester that the county attorney was not the keeper of the records and furnished the requester with the name of the custodian of the records. OAG 99-ORD-46.

If a request is made by mail, the official custodian must mail copies of the requested copies upon receipt of all fees and the cost of mailing; there is nothing in the statute which authorizes a public agency to reject a request simply because the requester did not use the specific form devised by the agency. OAG 99-ORD-46.

The Revenue Cabinet did not establish by clear and convincing evidence that disclosure of the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet Protest and Appeals Guidelines, which could be characterized as a general summary of revenue statutes, regulations, and policies and the uniform operating standards and procedures to be followed by cabinet employees to ensure fair and consistent handling of taxpayer protests and appeals, would undermine the agency's ability to administer the tax laws, thus requiring constant revision of the document. OAG 99-ORD-51.

A requester who both lives and works in the same county where the public records are located may be required to inspect the records prior to receiving copies; but a requester who lives or works in a county other than the county where the public records are located may demand that the agency provide him with copies of records, without inspecting those records, if he precisely describes the records and they are readily available within the agency. OAG 99-ORD-63.

A requester satisfies the second requirement of subsection (3)(b) if he describes in definite, specific, and unequivocal terms the records he wishes to access by mail. OAG 99-ORD-63.

A request for records did not describe the records sought with reasonable particularity where the requester sought copies of various coal leases, but only identified those leases as leases in which a named person(s) was a party to the lease, without naming the other parties to the leases, the dates the leases were entered into, or the places the leases were entered into. OAG 99-ORD-63.

A request for records was not vague where, in response to a prior request, the requester received two pages which contained printing at the top indicating that they were part of a 14-page fax, and the requester then sought copies of the other 12 pages of that fax. OAG 99-ORD-65.

A request for records to be supplied by mail was sufficiently precise where the language used by the requester to describe the records was the agency's own language which it had used in a previous denial of another open records request; while such language might be characterized as indefinite, nonspecific, and equivocal if taken out of context, it was sufficiently precise when it appeared in its original context. OAG 99-ORD-66.

A county fiscal court violated the Open Records Act in denying a request that copies of various records relating to animal control in the county be mailed to the requester where the court did not argue that the requested records were excluded from public inspection by one or more of the exceptions codified at KRS 61.878(1) and did not argue that the requested records were not precisely described or not readily available with the agency and, instead, incorrectly asserted that it was not required to examine the records, sort through them, copy the records, and mail them to the requester. OAG 99-ORD-67.

The Department of Workers Claims did not violate the Open Records Act in a request for certain data from the department's coverage/compliance database as the department did not maintain the requested information in the format proposed by the requester and special programming would have been required to fulfill the request. OAG 99-ORD-68.

A request for records was sufficiently precise, as required by subsection (3)(b), as the description, although not precise as to date and other identifying information, was sufficiently specific and of an identified, limited class to enable the use of a search method reasonably expected to produce the records. OAG 99-ORD-70.

A request for any and all records which contain a name, a term, or a phrase is not a properly framed open records request, and it generally need not be honored; such a request places an unreasonable burden on the agency to produce often incalculable numbers of widely dispersed and ill-defined public records. OAG 99-ORD-70.

The Transportation Cabinet was not required to answer a series of questions relating to construction, accidents, and the volume of traffic on various roads as public agencies are not required by the Open Records Act to gather and supply information independent of that which is set forth in public records, and such conclusion was not altered by the fact that past administrations have furnished the same information to other individuals since the Open Records Act does not prohibit a public agency from voluntarily providing information in response to a request for same, it simply does not require the agency to do so. OAG 99-ORD-71.

The Kentucky State Penitentiary properly denied an inmate's request for a copy of all grievances he had filed against the medical department at the penitentiary since grievances were not filed under inmate names but by year and the grievance numbers, and it would have been unduly burdensome to manually retrieve the requested records from among 4,000 to 5,000 records. OAG 99-ORD-79.

The Office of Education Accountability (OEA) properly denied a request for records pertaining to its director's computer pursuant to subsection (6) based on information received by the OEA from a credible source that the requester intended to attempt to hack into the hard drive of the computer after receiving the records. OAG 99-ORD-96.

An agency is not required to satisfy an identical request a second time in the absence of some justification for resubmitting that request. OAG 99-ORD-107.

Where an agency did not describe with any degree of specificity the volume of records implicated by a request for records, the difficulty in assessing the records, or other problems associated with redacting exempt materials from those records, the agency's response was substantively deficient because the agency failed to meet its burden of establishing by clear and convincing evidence that producing the requested records would place an unreasonable burden on it, justifying a denial of the request. OAG 99-ORD-180.

Because the requester lived in the county in which the requested records were located, she could be required to view the requested records at the offices of the agency before obtaining copies. OAG 99-ORD-180.

A correctional facility's offer to provide an inmate in segregation with copies of a requested document upon prepayment of the appropriate copying fee or to reapply for the opportunity to inspect once he was released from segregation was consistent with the Open Records Act. OAG 99-ORD-181.

An agency complied with the statute when it responded to a request for records by informing the requester that it did not have the requested record, advised the requester of the name and location of the official custodian of the requested record, and forwarded the request accordingly. OAG 99-ORD-200.

In connection with a request for copies of any and all minutes of a city that mentioned the requester during a specified period of time, the city was not obligated to mail copies upon request inasmuch as the requester worked in the county where the records were maintained and he failed to precisely describe the records he wished to access by receipt of copies. OAG 99-ORD-210.

The temporary absence of a dog warden did not render unavailable financial information, expenditures, and other public records of a county fiscal court relative to the providing of animal control services. OAG 99-ORD-222.

A county fiscal court erred in postponing action on a request for ten (10) days without explanation and without reference to subsection (5) and in characterizing the request as so nonspecific as to preclude the fiscal court from determining what records were requested. OAG 99-ORD-225.

A request for records could not be denied on the basis of subsection (6) since mere invocation of the subsection did not sustain the agency's burden and the agency did not describe, with any degree of specificity, the volume of records implicated by the request, the difficulty in accessing the records, or the problems associated with redacting exempt material from these records. OAG 99-ORD-225.

Although the statute clearly authorizes a public agency to adopt a uniform policy requiring that requests for records be submitted in writing, it does not authorize a policy of selective enforcement. OAG 00-ORD-1.

A request for "Any and all records of the person(s) who made the decision to place [the requester] ... on agency directed sick leave" and, thereafter, to suspend her was properly denied since the request was a blanket request for information and failed to identify the records sought or the names of the persons whose records were being sought with sufficient specificity to enable the agency to identify, locate, and retrieve the records. OAG 00-ORD-7.

A county fiscal court did not violate the Open Records Act by affording the requester access to printouts of the records which were responsive to his request rather than permitting him to inspect the "original documents" which were stored in its computer database; however, the court could not recover its actual costs for reproduction where copies were not requested. OAG 00-ORD-8.

A county fiscal court violated the statute when it required that requests for records be submitted by means of first class mail, as opposed to hand delivery or facsimile. OAG 00-ORD-8.

An agency failed to establish that the requester's multiple requests for records had become unduly burdensome or intentionally disruptive where the record demonstrated a total of only thirty (30) requests in twenty (20) months. OAG 00-ORD-72.

An agency may properly require all records requests to be routed through its official custodian to ensure the timely and orderly processing of open records requests. OAG 00-ORD-73.

The policy of a county fiscal court that it would not allow on-site inspection of public records and instead only provide copies of the requested records through the mail constituted a violation of the Open Records Act since such a policy denied a requester of her statutory right to an on-site inspection and might subject a requester to payment for unwanted records which she may not have selected had the opportunity for on-site inspection been provided. OAG 00-ORD-74.

It is properly within the discretion of an agency and its official custodian of records to determine whether a requester may remove original records from the offices of the agency to be copied or whether she could use her own equipment and materials to copy the records. OAG 00-ORD-74.

An out-of-county requester failed to precisely describe the records that he wished to have copied and mailed to him where he described the general nature of the records he was seeking, i.e., records relating to granting of easements for connecting to sewer lines during a specified period and the relevant activities of the city's legal counsel and fees associated with the granting of the easements, but failed to describe the precise records he was seeking. OAG 00-ORD-79.

Although an agency timely responded to an initial open records request, the response was procedurally deficient to the extent that it failed to inform the requester as to the earliest date the requested records would be available for inspection; telling the requester that she would be advised "as soon as we learn" was not definite enough to meet the requirements of subsection (5). OAG 00-ORD-88.

A county fiscal court properly responded to a request for records where the request was addressed to the "Chief Administrative Officer of [the] County Fiscal Court c/o ... County Judge-Executive" and the court responded by informing the requester that he should send his request to the official records custodian at a specified address. OAG 00-ORD-94.

While the requester's refusal to observe established open records procedures was indicative of a lack of good faith, the record did not contain sufficient evidence to support the claim that the requests were intended to disrupt the agency's essential functions. OAG 00-ORD-94.

The requestor did not precisely describe the records sought and the records were not readily available and, therefore, she was not entitled to have copies of the records mailed to her, notwithstanding that her residence was outside the county in which the records were located, since her request was an "open ended any-and-all-records-that-relate-type of request" and the records were maintained by several different county entities. OAG 00-ORD-75.

The Department of Local Government properly denied broadly worded requests for internal communications containing specified words and phrases as such requests imposed an unreasonable burden on the department in producing public records. OAG 00-ORD-132.

A city improperly relied on the statute when it denied a request to inspect the computerized city check registry, notwithstanding the assertion that it would be too difficult to separate confidential from nonconfidential materials because of the substantial volume of records involved; the city's assertion that there were 800 records in 27 files and that more than 300 lines required redaction did not constitute clear and convincing evidence of an undue burden. OAG 00-ORD-133.

A response to a request for records properly noted that the records were in the custody of a different public official and provided the address for that official. OAG 99-ORD-154.

It was incumbent on a board of education to adopt a uniform policy relative to release of board packets for upcoming meetings. OAG 99-ORD-155.

A board of education was not obligated to honor a standing request for access to board packets for upcoming meetings. OAG 99-ORD-155.

The Department of Corrections failed to establish clear and convincing evidence of an unreasonable burden in producing complaints brought against the Kentucky Department of Corrections or any of its divisions or against the Kentucky Parole Board during the past two (2) years that involved the issue of drug testing by Kentucky probation and/or parole officers. OAG 00-ORD-180.

A city's delay of three (3) months in providing requested records constituted a procedural violation of the Open Records Act. OAG 00-ORD-184.

A city failed to establish that a request for records pertaining to a wastewater treatment facility placed an unreasonable burden on the city and was intended to disrupt essential functions where the request was for an identified, limited class of records for a discrete period of time and the only support for the city's contention was that the city clerk expended five (5) hours in redacting information for which exemption was claimed and that the requester continued to inquire into the status of his request after an informal agreement on an extension of the three (3) day deadline for agency response. OAG 00-ORD-188.

A requester was not entitled to have records mailed to him since he lived in the county in which the requested records were located. OAG 00-ORD-205.

The Labor Cabinet failed to produce clear and convincing evidence that disclosure of certain information pertaining to work-related fatalities over a multi-year period would have placed an unreasonable burden on the cabinet where the cabinet did not describe with any degree of specificity the volume of records implicated in the request or the difficulty in accessing the requested documents and the denial consisted of little more than a recitation that the 47 files at issue were large and that it would take two (2) weeks of full time work to retrieve and review the files. OAG 00-ORD-210.

A county fiscal court properly required the requester to inspect the records at issue before furnishing him with copies, as he lived and worked in the county in which the records were located, even though this might require that he use at least a portion of a vacation or personal day to briefly inspect, and then receive copies of the records. OAG 00-ORD-211.

A settlement agreement between a party litigant and a school district, sealed or unsealed, is a public record and cannot be withheld from public disclosure, unless the document is properly excluded from disclosure by one or more of the applicable exceptions of KRS 61.878(1) of the Open Records Act or other applicable law; if the settlement agreement is sealed by order of a court, the question of whether the document is subject to public inspection must be raised in the judicial system, and the burden of showing that the record is exempt from disclosure falls upon the public agency or the affected party. OAG 01-6.

Where requester sought records relating to the asbestos inspection and maintenance at local high school, the response of the school was in substantial compliance with the Open Records Act when the principal of the school notified the requester that he had not been able to find the requested records, and, in the alternative, he provided the requester with the address and telephone number of the architectural firm that drew up the requested records. OAG 01-ORD-2.

KRS 61.872(2) does not authorize public agencies to inquire into a requester's motives in seeking access to public records, or to consider those motives in determining whether the records should be released. The police department therefore erred in inquiring into and denying the request on the basis of the requester's "invalid" reasons for requesting these reports. OAG 01-ORD-8.

If an agency invokes KRS 61.872(6) as a basis for the nondisclosure of requested records, it bears the burden of establishing, by clear and convincing evidence, that the request places an unreasonable burden on it. This burden is not sustained by the bare allegation that the request is unreasonably burdensome. OAG 01-ORD-8.

Where police department proposed that requester inspect the requested documents in person rather than being provided copies, if the requester both resides and works in the county, there is no error in the department's position, notwithstanding the fact that the requester may be required to use his personal or vacation time to conduct an on-site inspection. If the requester works outside the county, the department is in error in refusing to furnish him with copies of records that are precisely described and readily available within the agency. OAG 01-ORD-8.

KRS 61.872(5) envisions designation of the place, time, and earliest date certain, not a projected or speculative date, when the records will be available for inspection. The response in this instance was deficient in failing to state the place, time, and earliest date certain on which the records would be available. OAG 01-ORD-38.

Since KRS 61.872(3)(b) and KRS 61.874(1) contain no provision for waiver of the prepayment requirement for inmates, it was entirely proper for the correctional facility to require prepayment and to enforce its prepayment policy relative to assessment of charges to inmate accounts. OAG 01-ORD-44.

The Department of Corrections did not violate the Open Records Act in denying an inmate's request to inspect records maintained in its central office in Frankfort since the inmate was restricted from on-site inspection by virtue of his incarceration and properly required prepayment for copies of non-exempt records from that facility. OAG 01-ORD-44.

The fact that the requester wished to obtain a copy of the specific and individual policy, as opposed to the entire policy handbook, did not transform his request for a document into a request for information. The fact that he could not identify the desired policy by page and section number did not render his request imprecise or nonspecific. The request was a properly framed request for an individual policy or policies pertaining to the subject, and the school district was statutorily obligated to furnish him with copies of the policy or policies, as opposed to the entire handbook, or unequivocally advise him that no responsive policy exists. OAG 01-ORD-51.

The fire districts must honor a request for copies of precisely described public records that are readily available within the districts' offices if the requester resides, or has his principal place of business, outside Campbell County, and if the requester pre-pays a reasonable copying charge not to exceed ten cents ($0.10) per page, plus postage. If the requester both resides and works in Campbell County, the districts may properly require on-site inspection as a precondition to furnishing him with copies, but may also accommodate the request "within the bounds of the efficient operation of" the districts by mailing him copies. OAG 01-ORD-75.

Although the records descriptions are certainly nonspecific when viewed in the abstract, it is not any and all "notes" generated by the districts that the requester wishes to access, but "notes" generated by the districts in relation to the April 9, 2000 fire on the NKU campus. The requests satisfy the standard insofar as they are definite, specific, and unequivocal as to category (i.e., notes, fire marshal reports, logs) and incident (i.e., the April 9, 2000, fire at the NKU campus). OAG 01-ORD-75.

The record does not suggest that the custodian of records made "a good faith effort to conduct a search using methods which could reasonably be expected to produce the requested records," but instead relied upon his limited knowledge of available records. The methodology employed did not constitute an adequate search. The custodian's exclusive reliance on his own knowledge of existing responsive records, and failure to document a good faith effort to identify and locate the requested records using methods that could reasonably be expected to produce the records, did not satisfy the agency's statutorily imposed burden of proof in sustaining its action. OAG 01-ORD-81.

Whatever the status of the ballots when the parents cast their votes at the PTA election, once they were conveyed to the school they became public records because they were "in the possession of or retained by a public agency." The record before us does not support the school's position that it lacked custody or control of the parent election records. Nothing in KRS 160.345(2)(b)1. addresses the disposition of open records requests for records generated in the course of a PTA election or in any way vests exclusive custody and control of parent election records in the PTA. OAG 01-ORD-94.

Because the requester affirmed that his principal place of business is outside the county, and the police department failed to produce any persuasive proof to the contrary, the department is required to mail the requester copies of the records identified in his request upon receipt of all fees and the cost of mailing. OAG 01-ORD-162.

Since the requester failed to describe the records he wished to access by receipt of copies through the mail in definite, specific, and unequivocal terms, and therefore failed to satisfy the requirements of KRS 61.872(3)(b), even though he resides and works outside of the county, the county may require him to conduct an on-site inspection of the records prior to furnishing him with copies of the records. OAG 01-ORD-185.

While the county went beyond its duties and obligations in creating a record containing the responsive information, and is to be commended for its attempt to accommodate the request, the requirements of the statute are not fully discharged until existing documents substantiating that information are disclosed. Acknowledging that the county's efforts in this matter were meritorious, the county must retrieve the records from which the information was extracted, calculate its actual costs at a rate of ten cents ($.10) per page for copies, plus postage, notify the requester of the costs, and mail copies of those records to him upon receipt of this amount. OAG 01-ORD-195.

Although the out-of-county request, notwithstanding the fact that it covers a broad range of records, satisfies the second requirement of KRS 61.872(3)(b) insofar as the requester's attorneys precisely describe the records to which access is sought, the record supports the agency's claim that the requested documents are not "readily available within the public agency" and the agency properly refused to copy and mail the requested documents. OAG 01-ORD-225.

An "outside the county" requester that elects to access public records through the mail rather than to make an on-site inspection bears a greater burden in describing the records he is asking the agency to locate, copy, and mail to him. OAG 02-ORD-26.

Although the agency's original response to the request failed to satisfy the requirements of KRS 61.872(5), relative to detailed notification to the requester of the cause for delay beyond three business days and the earliest date for inspection, the agency explained the problems associated with retrieving the records in its supplemental response. Given the broad parameters of the request, the difficulties in locating and retrieving responsive records, and the necessity of reviewing them for purposes of redacting private information pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a) and 61.878(4) prior to disclosure, the fourteen (14) day extension of the deadline for inspection was not unreasonable. OAG 02-ORD-62.

The information the requester was required to submit in the "Request for Reproduction of PVA Public Records," relating to his specific purpose in requesting the records, and including the "Non-Commercial Applicant's Certified Statement," exceeded the permissible limits of KRS 61.872 and KRS 61.874(4)(b). Further, a request submitted by an individual acting on behalf of a political candidate, whether paid or unpaid, cannot be characterized as a request submitted for a commercial purpose. OAG 02-ORD-89.

Where the school system employed mandatory language, instructing the requester to call or write to set an appointment to view and/or copy the records, notwithstanding the school system's earlier assertion that it would permit access to nonexempt public records during regular business hours of the school board office, this response required the requester to make an appointment. In so doing, the school system improperly restricted the hours of access to public records and thereby violated KRS 61.872(3)(a). OAG 02-ORD-114.

Where the records custodian directed her inquiry to the first, and most obvious source, of data relating to student athletes, it would not have been overly burdensome for her search to extend beyond the athletic directors to the assistant directors, or other personnel in the athletic departments or the schools' administrations, who could reasonably be expected to maintain records relating to the student athletes. The fact that a responsive database was located in one of the high schools on the third and final inquiry only after the appeal was initiated, suggests the inadequacy of the earlier searches. OAG 02-ORD-120.

Since the requester failed to describe the records she wishes to access by receipt of copies through the mail in definite, specific, and unequivocal terms, she failed to satisfy the requirements of KRS 61.872(3)(b). Because the records were not precisely described, they cannot be characterized as records that are readily available within the offices of the public agencies. This being the case, the agencies may require her to conduct an on-site inspection of the records prior to furnishing her with copies of the records. Having extended an offer to to conduct an on-site inspection, the agencies fully discharged their duties under the Open Records Act. OAG 02-ORD-129.

Given the broad parameters of the request and the difficulties in locating and retrieving responsive records, an extension of the deadline for inspection of just under one (1) month was not unreasonable, especially in view of its ongoing production of records within that time period. OAG 02-ORD-142.

The Kentucky Community and Technical College System is a public agency, and any documentation, regardless of physical form or characteristics, which is prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency is a public record pursuant to KRS 61.870(2). Records that are generated by or for KCTCS officials or employees who serve on their President's Cabinet or teams, or that are directed to KCTCS officials or employees, are public records and subject to the mandatory disclosure requirements of the Open Records Act unless otherwise exempt pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a) through (l). OAG 02-ORD-142.

The department apparently directed its inquiry to the first, and most obvious, source of responsive records, its computer. Since that computer having been infected by a virus, and the records stored therein having been rendered irretrievable, the department made no effort to extend its search beyond the obvious. In the absence of any verifiable statement that the only existing copies of the requested records were maintained on the department's computer, the department did not conduct a search using methods which could reasonably be expected to produce the records requested. OAG 02-ORD-149.

The record supports the estimated one month delay, where the requester requested copies of all preliminary and final development plans submitted to the planning commission for Houston Creek Drive and Bourbon Hills Drive, "including, but not limited to, plans for Houston Creek Villas, Bourbon Hills and Houston Creek Townhomes," and the minutes of meetings at which any of these plans was discussed, for a twenty-two (22) year period. OAG 02-ORD-158.

The request for any and all files or documents that relate to the requester is overbroad, and a search for all responsive records that cover a six (6) year period would impose an unreasonable burden on the agency. OAG 02-ORD-161.

Where, among other things, the request covers records maintained over a period of twenty-two (22) years, the agency does not maintain a compendium of the requested information, the Cabinet licenses and certifies over 300 nursing facilities in this state, the Cabinet maintains all records by facility/fiscal year, and the Cabinet does not maintain decisions on the rate, by appeal, by decisions on appeal, or by issue, the Cabinet properly denied the request as overbroad pursuant to KRS 61.872(6). OAG 02-ORD-196.

The medium in which the Kentucky State Police has elected to store the record should not operate as a bar to public inspection if the record is otherwise nonexempt. The agency cannot, for example, factor the ten (10) hours that it claims was required to restore the corrupted agency file into its calculations. Restoration of a corrupted agency file is an agency records management issue and not an open records issue. OAG 02-ORD-204.

The Child Support Division was not obligated to conduct legal research in order to locate records that contain the procedures and criteria, and proof of procedures, as requested, since the Division did not maintain a separate procedures manual. OAG 02-ORD-213.

The Jail's initial response did not conform to the specific requirements set forth at KRS 61.872(5). Although the Jail indicated that the records would be available for inspection some thirty (30) days later, its response did not contain a detailed explanation of the cause of the delay. OAG 02-ORD-217.

The broadly worded request, coupled with the requester's past pattern of conduct and his conviction for harassing communications related to activities aimed at causing annoyance and harm to past and present city employees and serving no purpose of legitimate communication, support the City's position that his October 2 request was intended to disrupt the city's essential functions. The city properly denied of the request on the basis of KRS 61.872(6). OAG 02-ORD-230.

While the Department's entire database may contain more or less information than the requester seeks, it clearly contains information that is responsive to her request and the Department is obligated to afford her access to it after redacting individual Medicaid recipient information and other information made confidential by federal enactment. Redaction of the latter information from an existing database is not equivalent to nonobligatory creation of a new record. OAG 03-ORD-04.

Campaigning for reelection, or discharging duties associated with private employment, do not provide a sufficient legal basis for temporarily suspending the legal obligations imposed on a public agency by KRS 61.880(1). Invocation of, and reliance upon, KRS 61.872(5) should occur on rare occasions and only when the circumstances are such as to clearly warrant extension of the standard three day deadline for agency response and release of records. OAG 03-ORD-05.

A request for access to a personnel file requires no greater degree of specificity than any other open records requests, and that the agency must therefore "determine what is and is not subject to Open Records." Pursuant to KRS 61.878(4), the agency must disclose the nonexcepted records and identify, in writing, any responsive records withheld, cite the statute(s) authorizing the withholding, and briefly explain how the statute applies to the record withheld. OAG 03-ORD-12.

Where the revised request was e-mailed to the head of the agency at his home via a private and unpublished e-mail account, since the request was not sent or delivered to the office of the public agency, but to a private e-mail address, it was not delivered in accordance with the requirements of KRS 61.872(2) and, thus, the failure to respond did not constitute a violation of the Open Records Act. OAG 03-ORD-19.

KRS 61.872(2) provides that a public agency may require that open records requests be in writing, but the Open Records Act does not mandate it. So long as an agency meets the minimum requirements of the Act in timely responding to an open records request, it cannot be said to be in violation of the Act. OAG 03-ORD-24.

The Board did not violate the Open Records Act in failing to provide a copy of the minutes of its regular December 6th meeting and the December 13th recessed or adjourned meeting on the basis that they had not been approved and adopted as the official minutes of the Board, since the approval would not occur until the next regularly scheduled meeting in March. OAG 03-ORD-33.

It is entirely proper for the City to require prepayment of a reasonable copying charge that does not exceed the actual cost of duplication, not including staff costs, and to enforce a standard policy relative to assessment of those charges. Moreover, KRS 61.872 and KRS 61.874 contain no provision for the waiver of such fees for any party. OAG 03-ORD-57.

The City's response to the request was deficient insofar as it failed to provide a detailed explanation for its inability to produce the records requested within three business days as required by KRS 61.872(5). "An extremely heavy workload" does not constitute a legitimate basis for postponing a requester's right of access, or even minimally constitute a "detailed explanation." OAG 03-ORD-83.

Where the City indicated that responsive records would be available for inspection on a certain date between the hours of 12:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m., this represents an unreasonable restriction on the right of inspection in contravention of KRS 61.872(3)(a); an individual has a right to inspect public records during the regular office hours of the public agency and any attempt by a public agency to limit the period of time within which a requester may inspect public records places an unreasonable and illegal restriction upon the requester's right of access. OAG 03-ORD-83.

The preprinted form developed by the agency, requiring the requester to indicate whether he is a representative of the news media or the reasons for his request and requiring a requester to verify his identity by producing a driver's license or other form of identification, creates a potential chilling effect on submission of open records requests that is inconsistent with the basic policy of the Open Records Act codified at KRS 61.871. OAG 03-ORD-86.

Western Kentucky Correctional Complex (WKCC) did not properly respond to an inmate's open records requests for "all" records from his inmate file. The request were sufficiently specific to require the WKCC to respond to the request, since the request was limited to a specific class of documents. In addition, WKCC was obligated to identify and withhold those documents for which statutory protection exists from the requested inmate file and to provide him with a written explanation including citation to the statute authorizing non-disclosure. OAG 03-ORD-117.

Thirty (30) Open Records requests in a period of approximately eighteen (18) months is not per se burdensome under the Open Records Act. OAG 03-ORD-157.

If the City refused to provide copies of the requested records because the requester did not sign the agency's official request form, its actions were contrary to the requirements of the Open Records Act; if the request that the requester faxed to the City contained his signature and his name was printed legibly and described the records to be inspected, that would have met the minimum requirements for inspection. There is no requirement in the Act that requires a requester to acknowledge receipt of the copies he receives prior to receiving the copies. OAG 03-ORD-183.

Although it is incumbent on the Fiscal Court to ascertain whether records exist that are responsive to the request, to promptly advise the requester of its findings, and to release to him all existing records identified in his request, it is not, however, incumbent on the Fiscal Court to certify the appropriate records in such manner that they may be introduced as evidence in a Court of Law. Such a requirement does not exist in the Open Records Act. OAG 03-ORD-207.

Where the City described, in detail, the problems associated with retrieving and duplicating the nearly 6,000 pages implicated by the request, provided a date on which the copies would be available, and the City extended an offer to the requester to conduct an onsite inspection of the requested records during regular business hours in the intervening period, the four (4) week delay in reproducing the voluminous and widely dispersed records was not inordinate, and the City's explanation for the delay was adequate for purposes of KRS 61.872(5). OAG 03-ORD-248.

Where the requester requested a broad range of financial and operational records of the City for periods of time as great as 23 years, and did not request a specific record or records, but categories of records such as invoices, check registers, documentation for income received, grant papers, and complaints or summons, such a description is not "clear" or "very specific." OAG 03-ORD-248.

The City is entirely correct in the view that its employees have no express obligation to assist the requester should he elect to conduct an onsite inspection of nonexempt public records. Public agency employees are not required to provide instruction in understanding the meaning or impact of information which appears upon records produced. Instead, they are required to make available for inspection, during normal office hours, the record requested and thereafter permit the requester to make a fishing expedition through public records on his own time and under the restrictions and safeguards of the public agency. OAG 03-ORD-248.

Where the Cabinet indicated that because the division's records were not indexed in a manner in which the requested information could be retrieved, the request would require that 1,485 over-time case files be pulled and reviewed manually to determine which files might meet the request, and once the relevant files had been pulled, they would have to be sanitized by separating exempt for nonexempt materials which would disrupt the Division of Employment Standards for several weeks, the Cabinet met its burden of establishing that compliance with the request would place an unreasonable burden on the agency. OAG 03-ORD-254.

Given the requester's confinement at EKCC, he is foreclosed from exercising the right to on-site inspection of the requested record codified at KRS 61.872(3)(a). Instead, he must "precisely describe" the record "which he wishes to access by mail." The inability to satisfy this threshold requirement relieves the County Clerk of the duty to conduct a search for a responsive record which may or may not exist, but that is clearly not readily available within the public agency. OAG 04-ORD-11.

Because the corporation does not fall within the parameters of KRS 61.805(2)(a) through (h), defining the term "public agency" for purposes of open meetings analysis, the corporation was not governed by the Open Meetings Act. Thus, the corporation has no obligation under the Open Meetings Act to create, or otherwise afford the public access to, minutes of its meetings, and the corporation properly denied the open records request for its minutes. OAG 04-ORD-12.

Unless the inmate can explain the necessity of reproducing the same records which either already have been provided or have been inspected by him at a prior facility, such as loss or destruction of the records, there is no reason why the agency must satisfy the same request a second time. OAG 04-ORD-18.

Since the agency does not indicate the locations at which the requested records might be stored or otherwise elaborate as to the difficulty in accessing those records, although the request may very well involve "thousands of documents," such a "voluminous" request is not necessarily unreasonably burdensome. In the absence of any evidence to support the bare allegation that granting the request places an unreasonable burden on the agency, the requested records are readily available within the agency. OAG 04-ORD-28.

Although some of the records requested may be privileged or contain exempt information, the fact that the agency will have to separate confidential documents from nonconfidential documents cannot serve as a basis for denying a request under KRS 61.872(6). OAG 04-ORD-28.

While the interest implicated may not rise to the level of public security and administrative order, it could not have been the Legislature's goal to require disclosure of football practice video tapes of state supported educational institutions. Open records requests for such tapes may properly be denied under KRS 61.872(6) as unreasonably burdensome because their disclosure will necessitate an immediate revision of the subject team's strategy, tactics, and plays. Thus, the Open Records Act authorizes nondisclosure of the requested records. OAG 04-ORD-58.

The city's four plus week extension of the deadline for inspection was unreasonable where the city belatedly acknowledged that it could produce records containing the information sought but stated that the process of counting the pages, sending an invoice, and removing protected information would "take an uncertain period of time." Clearly, this response did not satisfy the second requirement in KRS 61.872(5) because it did not indicate the place, time, and earliest date on which the records would be available for inspection. OAG 04-ORD-63.

The City failed to satisfy its statutory burden of proof in denying the request for access to the minutes and records of the Cemetery Caretaker Committee on the basis of KRS 61.872(6). The requester has not requested that copies of these records be mailed to him, but has only asked that he be afforded an opportunity to inspect records of a single city committee for a period of slightly more than two (2) years, and the city has adduced no proof of a single request of unreasonable scope or multiple requests collectively constituting an unreasonable demand. OAG 04-ORD-66.

The faculty meeting agendas for the high school faculty meetings and the schedule of regular faculty meetings for the academic year, if they exist, are clearly public records for which no statutory exemption is, or in all likelihood, can be invoked. Although they are generated by and/or for a group to which the Open Meetings Act has been determined not to extend, they are records that are prepared, owned, used, and, at some juncture, in the possession of a public agency, namely, Lincoln County High School. OAG 04-ORD-98.

The City's sending the requested records by certified mail and charging the requester for that cost is excessive and unnecessarily adds to the cost to the public for access to public records. While there may be circumstances on occasion for sending public records by certified mail, the extra cost in doing so must be absorbed by the public agency. Regular mail delivery is sufficient under the Act. OAG 04-ORD-100.

Since the hospital was not obliged to honor the first two (2) requests submitted, since it may recover a substantial portion of its costs pursuant to KRS 61.874(3), since the uses to which public records are put have no bearing on the validity of the requests that produce them, and since the records are of a discrete, limited class that have traditionally been treated as nonexempt public records, the record on appeal contains insufficient empirical evidence to support a claim under KRS 61.872(6). The record on appeal requester submitted three requests in a two (2) month period, but does not reflect the personnel hours expended or estimated costs incurred in fulfilling those requests. For this reason, the hospital's reliance on KRS 61.872(6) was misplaced. OAG 04-ORD-113.

Since the records requested are of an identified, but by no means limited, class, and based on the sheer volume of records implicated by the request, coupled with the difficulties associated with separating excepted and nonexcepted materials, invocation of KRS 61.872(6) is warranted in this case. There are some 20,000 files at issue, and each file contains attorney work product and privileged material, as well as property appraisals which may be protected by KRS 61.878(1)(f), even if the case is closed, if adjoining properties have not been acquired. OAG 04-ORD-117.

Regardless of where records pertaining to drainage matters are located, they were prepared, owned, and used at the instance of the city and are therefore essentially the city's documents. Although the private attorney holds them as custodian on the city's behalf it is their nature and purpose that is determinative of their status as public records. There is no support for the proposition that the city has no control over its own records, wherever they are reposed, and they are public records as defined at KRS 61.870(2). OAG 04-ORD-123.

Because these records are city records, it is reasonable to require their production on city premises. Since the City of Windy Hills maintains a city hall wherein the records can be inspected, the records consist of a single file which can easily be transported the seven (7) miles from the private attorney's downtown office to the Windy Hills City Hall, it is incumbent on the city to produce the requested records in suitable facilities located in its city hall. OAG 04-ORD-123.

Given the relatively narrow parameters of the request, by time frame as well as subject, a delay of over one month was unwarranted, particularly in light of the fact that the city offered no written explanation for that delay. OAG 04-ORD-138.

A public agency has no authority to ignore a misdirected request pursuant to KRS 61.872(4). The fact that the City Clerk is the official custodian of public records maintained by the City did not relieve the Police Chief or the Mayor of their statutory obligation to promptly so notify the requester, in writing, and to furnish the name and location of the official custodian of the agency's public records. OAG 04-ORD-216.

The school district violated KRS 61.880(1) in failing to respond to the request because the requester did not comply with a Board of Education policy requiring the submission of an open records request on a preprinted form developed by the Board. The October 25 request conformed, in all particulars, with the requirements found at KRS 61.872(2). It was therefore incumbent on the school district to respond in writing, and within three business days, to that request. OAG 04-ORD-242.

Insofar as the record did not contain clear and convincing evidence that an individual requesting all records pertaining to complaints against city employees intended to disrupt other essential functions performed by the city, or that honoring his request would otherwise be "unreasonably burdensome," the city did not satisfy its burden of proof relative to KRS 61.872(6). To the extent that the request was duplicative, an issue which could not be resolved on the existing record, the city was not statutorily obligated to honor the request absent some explicit justification for reproducing identical records. OAG 05-ORD-21.

Where in a jailer's initial denial of a request for grievances and in his supplemental response to notification of receipt of the open records appeal, he did not, for example, indicate how long he had held office, the number of grievances implicated by the request, the difficulties in accessing those grievances, or the problems otherwise associated with production, the jailer did not meet the requirements of KRS 61.872(6). OAG 05-ORD-24.

Where, in response to a question as to how many court actions for the collection of delinquent taxes were filed by his office, a county attorney affirmatively advised that such a record was not maintained and explained that the Circuit Court kept records of cases filed and might have records containing the information being sought, this response was consistent with the requirement of KRS 61.872(4). OAG 05-ORD-45.

A request for any and all records of a particular type, or which contain a specific name, term, or phrase, is not a properly framed open records request, and generally need not be honored; accordingly, a police department did not violate the Open Records Act in denying a request for "any and all complaints pertaining to any officer within the department" on this basis. OAG 05-ORD-57.

Although an agency expressed the good faith belief that requests for financial and operational records were unreasonably burdensome and intended to disrupt its essential function, the record did not contain clear and convincing evidence supporting that belief; the submission of two (2) requests per month or the allocation of staff resources of less than 10 hours per month was not indicative of an unreasonable burden or an intent to disrupt. OAG 05-ORD-67.

An individual's overly broad and blanket in character request for previously requested and provided records, coupled with his pattern of conduct in previous open records requests of requesting voluminous documents and, after being provided access to those records, he either did not inspect the records or inspected only a small portion of them, reflected an attempt to unduly burden the agency and disrupt its essential functions. Therefore, denial of his request on the basis of KRS 61.872(6) was affirmed. OAG 05-ORD-121.

Office of Charitable Gaming improperly relied on KRS 61.872(6) in denying a request for renewal applications submitted by charitable organizations and resulting appeals and temporary license issuance on the basis the request was submitted for the purpose of disrupting its essential functions or is otherwise unreasonably burdensome. The requester's right to inquire was not forfeited by the fact that he had signed an agreement not to engage in charitable gaming activities. OAG 05-ORD-152.

The Kentucky State Police violated the Open Records Act in denying a request to inspect lab reports on the basis of KRS 61.872(6) because, although the inspection may take some time, it was not established by clear and convincing evidence that granting the request would be unreasonably burdensome. OAG 05-ORD-172.

A county Judge-Executive violated the Open Records Act in denying, on the basis of KRS 61.872(6), a request to inspect documents pertaining to all money received from state and federal programs by the county during a two (2) year period. OAG 05-ORD-240.

Having affirmatively indicated to the requester in writing that no videotape matching the description provided existed, albeit belatedly, and offered a credible explanation as to why no such record existed, a police department complied with the Open Records Act. OAG 06-ORD-012.

Applying the search standard articulated in 95-ORD-96 to the electronic email at issue, the Transportation Cabinet did not conduct a search using methods that could reasonably be expected to produce the requested record. The Cabinet's search was confined to an individual's personal folders; the Cabinet does not indicate that its search extended beyond these files to other folders. Because the individual might have saved the message in, for example, an archive file, a message file, a text file, or an html file, it was incumbent on the Cabinet to expand its search to any such file which could reasonably have been expected to produce the responsive record using broader criteria (words, topics) for that search. Moreover, because email is easily propagated, it was incumbent on the Cabinet to search the mail server to determine if the message was forwarded to Cabinet employees or officials, as well as the "inboxes" of employees or officials who might reasonably have been expected to receive it. OAG 2006-ORD-022.

Because a city failed to adduce clear and convincing evidence that honoring a request would place an unreasonable burden on the city, or that the requester's repeated requests were intended to disrupt its essential functions, the city violated the Open Records Act in denying the request on the basis of KRS 61.872(6). OAG 06-ORD-028.

Police department complied with Open Records Act by providing requester with a copy of requested dispatch calls and affirmatively advising that it did not have records relating to the requested vehicle inventory and registration information and providing him with the name and location of the custodian of those records. OAG 06-ORD-029.

County Clerk fully discharged her duties under the Open Records Act by providing on-site access to the requester, or his representative, to inspect and copy requested records and she did not violate Act in denying request for copies of the records in an electronic format, when records were not maintained in such format. OAG 06-ORD-041.

Because the disputed email may properly be characterized as general correspondence, and the retention period for general correspondence is "no longer than two years," the record does not support the inference that the disputed email was prematurely, or otherwise improperly, destroyed. In the absence of proof that the requested email was prematurely or improperly deleted, the Transportation Cabinet was not obligated to conduct a search utilizing specialized data recovery processes over and above those search methods regularly employed. OAG 2006-ORD-022.

The requests were specific as to the type of record sought, namely, policies and procedures, as well as subject, namely, the unitary tax reporting procedure. As long as the custodian can identify what documents the applicants wish to see, KRS 61.872(2) is satisfied. OAG 2006-ORD-032.

Furnishing a requester with a website address and/or directing him/her to the local public library where the requested records are also available is not a substitute for complying with the mandatory terms of KRS 61.872(1)-(3). OAG 2006-ORD-036.

61.874. Abstracts, memoranda, copies — Agency may prescribe fee — Use of nonexempt public records for commercial purposes — Online access.

(1) Upon inspection, the applicant shall have the right to make abstracts of the public records and memoranda thereof, and to obtain copies of all public records not exempted by the terms of KRS 61.878. When copies are requested, the custodian may require a written request and advance payment of the prescribed fee, including postage where appropriate. If the applicant desires copies of public records other than written records, the custodian of the records shall duplicate the records or permit the applicant to duplicate the records; however, the custodian shall ensure that such duplication will not damage or alter the original records.

(2)(a) Nonexempt public records used for noncommercial purposes shall be available for copying in either standard electronic or standard hard copy format, as designated by the party requesting the records, where the agency currently maintains the records in electronic format. Nonexempt public records used for noncommercial purposes shall be copied in standard hard copy format where agencies currently maintain records in hard copy format. Agencies are not required to convert hard copy format records to electronic formats.

(b) The minimum standard format in paper form shall be defined as not less than 8½ inches x 11 inches in at least one (1) color on white paper, or for electronic format, in a flat file electronic American Standard Code for Information Interchange (ASCII) format. If the public agency maintains electronic public records in a format other than ASCII, and this format conforms to the requestor's requirements, the public record may be provided in this alternate electronic format for standard fees as specified by the public agency. Any request for a public record in a form other than the forms described in this section shall be considered a nonstandardized request.

(3) The public agency may prescribe a reasonable fee for making copies of nonexempt public records requested for use for noncommercial purposes which shall not exceed the actual cost of reproduction, including the costs of the media and any mechanical processing cost incurred by the public agency, but not including the cost of staff required. If a public agency is asked to produce a record in a nonstandardized format, or to tailor the format to meet the request of an individual or a group, the public agency may at its discretion provide the requested format and recover staff costs as well as any actual costs incurred.

(4)(a) Unless an enactment of the General Assembly prohibits the disclosure of public records to persons who intend to use them for commercial purposes, if copies of nonexempt public records are requested for commercial purposes, the public agency may establish a reasonable fee.

(b) The public agency from which copies of nonexempt public records are requested for a commercial purpose may require a certified statement from the requestor stating the commercial purpose for which they shall be used, and may require the requestor to enter into a contract with the agency. The contract shall permit use of the public records for the stated commercial purpose for a specified fee.

(c) The fee provided for in subsection (a) of this section may be based on one or both of the following:

1. Cost to the public agency of media, mechanical processing, and staff required to produce a copy of the public record or records;

2. Cost to the public agency of the creation, purchase, or other acquisition of the public records.

(5) It shall be unlawful for a person to obtain a copy of any part of a public record for a:

(a) Commercial purpose, without stating the commercial purpose, if a certified statement from the requestor was required by the public agency pursuant to subsection (4)(b) of this section; or

(b) Commercial purpose, if the person uses or knowingly allows the use of the public record for a different commercial purpose; or

(c) Noncommercial purpose, if the person uses or knowingly allows the use of the public record for a commercial purpose. A newspaper, periodical, radio or television station shall not be held to have used or knowingly allowed the use of the public record for a commercial purpose merely because of its publication or broadcast, unless it has also given its express permission for that commercial use.

(6) Online access to public records in electronic form, as provided under this section, may be provided and made available at the discretion of the public agency. If a party wishes to access public records by electronic means and the public agency agrees to provide online access, a public agency may require that the party enter into a contract, license, or other agreement with the agency, and may charge fees for these agreements. Fees shall not exceed:

(a) The cost of physical connection to the system and reasonable cost of computer time access charges; and

(b) If the records are requested for a commercial purpose, a reasonable fee based on the factors set forth in subsection (4) of this section.

Analysis

1. Constitutionality.
2. Reasonable Fee.
3. In Camera Inspection.

1. Constitutionality.

Because attorneys' and chiropractors' constitutional challenge to KRS 189.635 failed, thus generally keeping state police accident reports confidential from them, their simultaneous constitutional challenge to KRS 61.874 over the amount they were being charged for copies of those reports was moot since they were no longer entitled to receive them at all. Amelkin v. McClure, 330 F.3d 822, 2003 FED App. 0168P, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 10832 (6th Cir. Ky.), cert. denied, 540 U.S. 1050, 124 S. Ct. 827, 157 L. Ed. 2d 699, 2003 U.S. LEXIS 8627 (U.S. 2003).

2. Reasonable Fee.

A Kentucky State Reformatory inmate's complaint against the warden and other reformatory officials for failure to furnish his financial records was properly dismissed, where the record showed that he was offered his records upon payment of the ten cents ($.10) per page copying fee, and there was no genuine issue to be resolved. Friend v. Rees, 696 S.W.2d 325, 1985 Ky. App. LEXIS 656 (Ky. Ct. App. 1985).

A Kentucky State Reformatory inmate is entitled to copies of his records by complying with the reasonable charge of reproduction. Friend v. Rees, 696 S.W.2d 325, 1985 Ky. App. LEXIS 656 (Ky. Ct. App. 1985).

Newspaper reporter was not responsible for the expense under Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.874(3) as redaction was not the equivalent of a change in format, and § 61.878(4) did not specify that costs were to be borne by the requestor. Commonwealth v. Courier Journal, 601 S.W.3d 501, 2020 Ky. App. LEXIS 42 (Ky. Ct. App. 2020).

3. In Camera Inspection.

Where a teacher's open records request to view videotape recordings of her own classroom was denied on grounds this would violate the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), 20 USCS § 1232g, and the Kentucky Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (KFERPA), KRS 160.700 et seq., the Circuit Court properly denied her request to view the tapes in camera since this would have rendered the entire controversy void. Medley v. Bd. of Educ., 168 S.W.3d 398, 2004 Ky. App. LEXIS 305 (Ky. Ct. App. 2004).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A person does not have a right to require a list to be made from public records if the list described does not already exist; if the list exists and is not otherwise confidential by law, a person may inspect a list and obtain a copy of it; a person desiring that list be made or that he have copies of broad categories of information must expend his own time in digging out the information unless it has already been compiled. OAG 76-375.

Blanket requests for information on a particular subject without specifying certain documents need not be honored for state employees may not be requested to make compilations of records, but the public has a right to inspect compilations which have been made in the course of business unless the subject matter is confidential by law. OAG 76-375.

The Open Records Act does not charge state agencies with the duty to provide records upon a request made by mail. OAG 76-375.

The right to have copies of records is an ancillary to the right of inspection it does not stand by itself; if a person has not inspected the records he desires to copy and cannot describe them with specificity, there is no requirement that copies of any records must be delivered to him; a citizen may make a fishing expedition to public records on his own time and under the restriction and safeguards of the public agency, but a willingness to pay for copies of records is not sufficient to put the state agency under obligation to furnish broad categories of records. OAG 76-375.

If the Real Estate Commission prepares a list of applicants for the real estate examination in special form for the purpose of selling to real estate schools and others, it may charge for the staff required to prepare the list, but if a record is already in existence the fee can only be for the copying expense not including staff costs. OAG 78-132.

It is within the discretion of the custodian of public records to require a person inspecting and copying records of a county judge/executive to leave a copy of all such copies with the custodian of public records as a precondition of inspecting those records. OAG 78-399.

A clerk is not responsible in any way to any person who may be misled if a certified copy of an order of appointment is given to an administrator named in the copy who uses it to show his appointment, when actually the estate has been settled: the clerk has no duty to inform the public of the active or inactive status of each estate. OAG 79-136.

The clerk is not responsible for determining whether an estate has been settled before making certified copies of court orders showing appointment of administrators, executors, etc., in connection with the administration and settlement of estates. OAG 79-136.

Since a filed library district petition requires fiscal court to check its validity on its face, it does not become a full-blown public record, for purposes of the Open Records Law, until after fiscal court has determined its validity. OAG 79-265.

While a library district petition is needed by the clerk and his staff to check the validity of the signatures, etc., for fiscal court, the custodian may reasonably delay inspection of the record and the making of copies until after the verification process has been concluded. OAG 79-265.

It is not incumbent upon a public agency to provide records to inmates who are unable to go to the office where the records are kept because of their legal confinement. OAG 79-546.

All oral history records which have been taped and which have not been restricted by an agreement with the interviewee are open to both public inspection and copying regardless of whether the Kentucky Historical Society has obtained and has on file a signed release, and this rule applies whether the request for inspection is made by a researcher or any other person. OAG 79-648.

There is no distinction in the Open Records Law which would allow researchers access to records only for the purpose of auditing without allowing the obtaining of a copy. OAG 79-648.

Since the cost of staff time required in making copies of public records is excluded from the fee which may be charged for such copies, a charge of $1.00 a page for a copy of a public record is an unreasonable fee. OAG 80-421.

Where a requester seeks photocopies of all official minutes of any special or regular school board meetings held in a certain county in 1981 and photocopies of all regular or special meetings held in the future, it is discretionary, as to the past meetings, whether the agency should first require the requester to inspect the records before ordering copies or to provide copies of the complete records for a reasonable fee without first inspecting them, and, as to the future meetings, there is no right of the requester to request copies of future meetings, since the right to copies is ancillary to the right to inspect under subsection (1) of this section. OAG 81-212.

The registrar of vital statistics improperly denied a request from a newspaper reporter to inspect all death certificates and death verification certificates in the possession or control of a county health department where the registrar based such denial upon the requirement of KRS 213.190 (now repealed) that the applicant have a direct, tangible and legitimate interest in the record; the right to obtain a certified copy under KRS 213.190 (now repealed) is different from the right to inspect and obtain copies provided in this section and no special standing need be shown under the latter statute. OAG 81-400.

Fifty cents ($0.50) per page was not a reasonable fee for copying a record. OAG 82-396.

The Open Records Law provides that any person can inspect the original record and cannot be required only to purchase a copy of the original record. OAG 82-396.

A comprehensive care center does not have to comply with a request for a copy of records by the person who is the subject of the records and who is a minor or who has been legally adjudged incompetent, but if the person is a competent adult he is entitled to have a copy of the records. The center may charge him a reasonable fee per page for a copy of the record which shall not exceed the actual cost thereof not including the cost of staff required. OAG 82-414.

The Open Records Law does not contemplate that a public agency shall send requested records to a person who has not inspected them. OAG 82-629.

A sheriff's office is not required to send a copy of records which have not been inspected by the requester even though the requester is an inmate who is not able to personally inspect the records because of legal confinement. OAG 82-629.

The Open Records Act does not require the county clerks of Kentucky to provide copies of public records upon a request made by mail. OAG 83-42.

Where the requesters of copies of records had not inspected any of the records, and had not described any specific records, custodian of records was under no duty to furnish the copies requested; the right to have copies of records is ancillary to the right of inspection and does not stand by itself. OAG 83-42.

Subsection (2) of this section is a residual and general statute and applies where there is no other applicable and specific fee statute; KRS 64.012 will apply where the language on that schedule is appropriate and applicable to the particular clerk's record. OAG 83-42.

The fee charged for a copy of a will, a land purchase contract, and assignment of a land purchase contract would be governed by subsection (2) of this section, the general law, while the fee for copies of a deed of trust, a deed and a real estate mortgage would be governed by KRS 64.012. OAG 83-42.

Under subsection (2) of this section, the cost computation cannot include the officer personnel cost; it can only relate to the cost in terms of the copier machine, paper and allied supplies. OAG 83-42.

The provisions of KRS 61.872, 61.874 and 61.876, when taken together, require that public agencies have a policy of allowing inspection of public records, of protecting the records, of preventing excessive disruption of the agency's functions, of providing copies upon request, of providing efficient and timely action in response to applications for inspection and of charging a reasonable fee based on the actual cost of making copies not including the cost of staff required; these three (3) sections allow public agencies a certain amount of leeway as to handling requests for records by mail and mailing copies to requesters who have not personally inspected the records and selected the items which they want copied. OAG 83-204.

Public agencies should accommodate requesters whenever they can within the bounds of the efficient operation of their office. Whenever only one (1) item is requested, or a few precisely described items which are readily available within the office, and no special search is required, it will be more convenient both to the agency and to the requester to answer the request through the mail; to require the requester to appear in person at the office of the agency in such a case would not be more convenient to either party and would only inhibit the intended purpose of the Open Records Law. OAG 83-204.

The stated policy of the Finance and Administration Cabinet not to furnish copies of bids requested by mail was in accordance with the Open Records Law. OAG 83-204.

The "reasonable fee" provision of subsection (2) of this section applies only when there is no other applicable fee statute; KRS 64.012, pertaining to fees of county clerks, therefore governs over subsection (2) of this section in case of a conflict. OAG 84-91.

Requested records pertaining to annual copying costs and fees should be made available for public inspection, and any person inspecting the records and requesting a copy should be sold that copy; however, there is no requirement that the agency send copies of records until the requestor makes his inspection. OAG 84-91.

As long as full access is provided and the records are protected from damage and disorganization, there is no statutory prohibition against the agency waiving a fee for certain requestors. OAG 84-300.

The North Central Comprehensive Care Center, Inc. is a public agency subject to the Open Records Law since its revenue consists of substantially in excess of 25 percent funding from state grants and contracts for services and the five dollars ($5) fee for copies of the initial one (1) to five (5) pages of its records is unreasonable and inconsistent with the actual cost mandate of subsection (2) of this section. OAG 84-300.

Fee of public agency of $5.00 per page for copies of the initial one (1) to five (5) pages is unreasonable. OAG 84-300.

While the public agency should have responded in writing pursuant to subsection (1) of KRS 61.880, to the requesting party's letter pertaining to the request for copies of documents, the public agency was not mandatorily required to send copies of records to a requesting party by mail when the requesting party had not first inspected those records and then selected the items he wanted copied, particularly when numerous records and documents were involved. OAG 86-24.

While a public agency should accommodate mail requests when possible, particularly when only a few precisely described documents are requested, a public agency is not legally required to honor mail requests for copies of documents when numerous records and documents are involved; thus, the urban county government acted within the provisions of the Open Records Act when it afforded the requesting party (or her representative) the opportunity to inspect the documents in question at an office of the urban county government and declined to send copies of the documents prior to inspection, particularly where numerous records and documents were involved. OAG 86-80.

The response of the public agency to the request to inspect documents that some of the requested documents did not exist was sufficient and proper; however, the public agency's attempt to restrict the requesting party's inspection of those records which did exist to one-half hour a week was an unreasonable and illegal restriction on the right to inspect public records, and such records were to be made available for inspection immediately. OAG 87-54.

If the county clerk's office could not demonstrate that the fee list set forth in KRS 64.012 was applicable to the documents requested by the newspaper reporter, then subsection (2) of this section applied relative to the costs that a public agency could charge for copies of documents. OAG 87-80.

The public agency was not bound by the provisions of subsection (2) of this section, pertaining to costs levied for copies of existing public records, as the material requested by the requesting party involved a list which did not exist when the request was made, and the public agency could therefore charge what it cost to prepare, program, and reproduce a list containing the material in question. OAG 88-19.

It is not incumbent upon a public agency to provide documents to inmates who are unable to go to the office where the records are kept because of their confinement. OAG 88-44.

While the school system may refuse to disclose the home addresses of students, it may not withhold the names of students attending the school. A list of names should be furnished, if currently available, or the school system should prepare such a list, or let the requesting party prepare his or her own list from school system records. OAG 88-50.

The public agency is not mandatorily required to send copies of records by mail to a requesting party when that person has not first inspected those records and then selected the items he or she wants copied, particularly when numerous records and documents are apparently involved. OAG 88-60.

The Department of Insurance is bound by the provisions of subsection (2) of this section in calculating the fees it charges for copies of documents where such costs are not specifically covered by other statutory enactments; fees charged in excess of the actual costs are in violation of the Open Records Act, and the public agency should recalculate the fees imposed to conform to the statutory requirements. OAG 88-74.

If the county clerk cannot demonstrate that the records involved are included under the provisions of KRS 64.012, then the amount to be charged for copies of the records is governed by subsection (2) of this section; unless the county clerk can demonstrate that it actually costs fifty cents ($.50) per page to provide copies of documents, considering the applicable factors set forth in KRS 61.874(2), he should recalculate the fees imposed to conform to the statutory requirements. OAG 89-9.

Upon inspection, copying of the minutes of special meetings of a County School Board must be permitted; a reasonable fee, not exceeding the cost thereof, can be imposed for the copies. OAG 89-27.

One having inspected records is entitled to be furnished copies of them upon payment of a reasonable fee. Such fee shall not exceed the actual cost of copying, and may not include the cost of staff required. OAG 89-43.

An agency is not required, under Open Records provisions, to provide copies upon request, except after records have been inspected. OAG 89-53.

One who inspects public records shall have the right, upon inspection, to obtain copies of records inspected. OAG 89-66.

Copies of records need not be provided except upon inspection, and copies of records that have not been inspected do not have to be furnished by mail or by fax transmission. OAG 89-96.

The right to copies of public records is ancillary to inspection. OAG 90-8.

A county property valuation administrator did not act other than consistently with Open Records provisions in declining to provide copies of records that had not been inspected. OAG 90-31.

There is no requirement in the Open Records provisions that a public agency furnish copies of records that have not been inspected, and the opportunity to have copies of public records is ancillary to inspection. OAG 90-31.

Requiring inspection prior to furnishing copies is an important part of Open Records provisions, as requiring inspection prior to making copies aids in preventing frivolous requests, and may prevent controversy regarding whether the proper records were copied. OAG 90-31.

The opportunity to have copies of public records is ancillary to their inspection. OAG 90-35.

City's actions were not consistent with Open Records provisions where, in contravention of KRS 61.872(1), it denied a requester the use of a film read-printer and a cassette tape player, thereby failing to provide suitable facilities for inspection of its records. Additionally, the city failed to act consistent with Open Records provisions where, in contravention of subsection (2) of this section, it established a $.25 per page fee for copies of records, when such fee was not based upon the actual cost, exclusive of personnel expenses, for making copies. OAG 90-50.

The provision of subsection (2) of this section means that the fee charged for copies should be based on the actual expense to the agency, excluding the cost of staff. The fee is thus limited to the cost of maintaining copying equipment by purchase or rental, and the supplies involved. OAG 91-98.

If public agency from whom copies of records are requested cannot demonstrate that the cost of a copy is covered by another specific statutory enactment, the provisions of subsection (2) of this section govern. Any fee charged in excess of the actual cost violates the Open Records Act. OAG 91-98.

Since the University of Kentucky Medical Center is clearly a public agency, it is therefore subject to the Open Records Act and the demand of $153 reproduction fee by the Medical Center was inconsistent with subsection (2) of this section. OAG 91-98.

The right to obtain copies is ancillary to the right of inspection and does not stand by itself. OAG 91-159.

The record requested, a trial transcript, is clearly a court record, and is therefore not subject to the reasonable fee provision found in subsection (2) of this section. OAG 91-193.

Attorney General opined that Custodian of Records' actions, in denying inmate's request for a copy of his transfer authorization form pursuant to KRS 61.880 because inmate's account had no money to cover the reproduction costs, were entirely consistent with the Open Records Act because a public agency is authorized to prescribe reasonable fees for making copies of public records pursuant to KRS 61.876(1)(c) and subsection (2) of this section. OAG 91-210.

If the county clerk's office cannot demonstrate that the records requested by a citizens group are among those identified in KRS 64.012, and governed by that statute, the amount which may be charged for copies is governed by subsection (2) of this section; unless the county clerk's office can then demonstrate that the cost to the county clerk's office for providing copies is indeed 50¢ per page, based on the factors set forth in subsection (2) of this section, the county clerk's office should recalculate the fees imposed to conform to the statutory requirements. OAG 92-79.

A prison inmate has the same right to inspect public records as any other person. The identity of the requester is therefore irrelevant. Under existing law, an agency need not provide copies of records to inmates who are unable to go to the office where the records are kept because of their legal confinement, although it may elect to do so. After July 14, 1992, however, an agency will be required to supply copies of records if the applicant resides outside the county in which the records are located, the applicant precisely describes the records, and the records are readily available within the public agency, upon receipt of a reasonable fee for making copies. OAG 92-94.

A $100 "production cost" fee assessed by the Lottery Corporation was excessive and violative of subsection (2) of this section where a request for information was not made under the Public Access to Governmental Databases Act, and where the Lottery Corporation was not authorized to unilaterally treat it as a request under that Act without discussion and a meeting of the minds. OAG 93-ORD-44.

In imposing copying charges upon the general public, county clerk may lawfully charge only the specific amount provided by statute, where applicable, and otherwise, only a reasonable fee not exceeding the actual cost of such copies, not including the cost of staff required to furnish copies. OAG 94-38.

Since a police report does not appear to fall within the parameter of a separate fee statute, subsection (2) of this section governs, and any fee charged in excess of the Department's actual cost is a violation of the Open Record's Act. OAG 94-ORD-77.

A sign on the wall of police department stating that requestors will be charged $5.00 for copies, absent independent statutory authority, did not justify the department's charges for copies; therefore, the police department must recalculate the fee it imposes for copies to conform to the requirements of subsection (2) of this section and should also remove the sign which appears on its walls, and replace it with a revised notice which conforms to subsection (2) of this section and KRS 61.876. OAG 94-ORD-77.

The refusal of the State Police to waive the copying charge of case file requested by newspaper reporter was proper since the statutes contain no provision for waiver of such fees and the media has only such right of access to public records as the general public has. OAG 94-ORD-90.

The Department of Personnel may not read an additional requirement, such as entering into a contract, into the law by attempting to compel the Kentucky Association of State Employees (KASE), who had requested a copy of the Department's database, to enter into a contract permitting use of the database for a stated noncommercial purpose, and thus frustrate access to the records on the grounds that KASE lacks the capacity to contract. OAG 95-ORD-9.

Subsection (5) of this section, which provides severe penalties for persons who misrepresent the purpose for which the records they request will be used, applies in the event that the information requested is used, secondarily, for a commercial purpose, if a noncommercial purpose was given by the requester. OAG 95-ORD-9.

A public agency can no longer flatly deny a request for electronically stored records on the grounds that the intended use of the records is a commercial one, or otherwise treat electronically stored records any differently than it treats records in a hard copy format; if the nonexempt records exist in both standard electronic and standard hard copy format, and the requester complies with the requirements of subsection (4) of this section, the agency must permit inspection of and copying of the records in the format designated by the requester. OAG 95-ORD-12.

Nothing in the Open Records Act statutes permits an agency to restrict a person to whom records have been released from reproducing those records or sharing them with others; accordingly a county board of education cannot restrain a recipient from reproducing the records with which she has been furnished. OAG 95-ORD-77.

Although a public agency is not required to create a document that does not already exist in order to satisfy a request, the agency may, of course, elect to do so, and recover its staff costs; however, the mere deletion of exempt information from an existing database does not result in the creation of an entirely new record for which a public agency could recover costs. OAG 95-ORD-82.

Considering that KRS 61.878(4) mandates redaction of excepted material when it is commingled with nonexcepted material and that the reasonable fee provision found in subsection (3) of this section specifically excludes the staff cost required, it is clear that the General Assembly intended that public agencies bear the cost of redaction. OAG 95-ORD-82.

The deletion of juvenile law enforcement records, per KRS 610.320(3) and KRS 61.878, from an existing database of arrest records is not equivalent to the production of a record in a specially tailored or nonstandardized format within the meaning of subsection (3) of this section; thus, the Division of Police is required to discharge this duty under KRS 61.878(4), provide the requested records, and bear the cost of redaction. OAG 95-ORD-82.

The Department may discharge its duty under the Open Records Act by simply opening its records to a person so requesting and allowing him to expend his own time and efforts extracting the information in which he has an interest. Although such person may wish to assert his ancillary right to obtain copies of those records once he has inspected them, providing copies of 5000 documents is, in and of itself, unreasonably burdensome. OAG 96-ORD-155.

This section authorizes public agencies to prescribe a reasonable fee for making copies of nonexempt public records requested for noncommercial purposes which shall not exceed the actual cost of reproduction. These statutes contain no provision for the waiver of such fees for copies made for public officials under an open records request. In general, all persons have the same standing to inspect and receive copies of public records, and are subject to the same obligations for receipt thereof. Accordingly, a board member may be charged a reasonable fee for copies made pursuant to an open records request. OAG 96-ORD-110.

The Department of Medical Services improperly relied on the OAG 1994 amendments to the Open Records Act in adopting a policy which distinguishes between commercial and noncommercial use of public records. Any open records policy which impedes access to nonexempt public records by more than three (3) working days violates provisions of the Act. OAG 96-ORD-168.

To the extent that the Department for Medicaid Services' records policy incorporates the 1994 amendments to the Open Records Act, it is constitutionally infirm. The Department cannot require applicants to submit a certified statement of commercial or noncommercial use, nor can they assess higher copying charges for records requested for commercial use. OAG 96-ORD-168.

The burden on the public agency to respond in three (3) working days is, not infrequently, an onerous one. Nevertheless, the only exceptions to this general rule are found at KRS 61.872(4) and (5). Unless the person to whom the request is directed does not have custody and control of the records, or the records are in active use, in storage, or are not otherwise available, the agency is required to notify the requester of its decision within three (3) working days, and to provide the requester with timely access to the requested records. OAG 96-ORD-168.

Where response from the Transportation Cabinet, Division of Driver Licensing to a request to inspect various records relating to a client's licensing process initially required payment to a rehabilitation center for forty dollars ($40.00) for an "in-car driver evaluation" performed at the center; later modified to a cost of one dollar ($1.00) per page for the report, the Cabinet violated the reasonable fee provision of the Open Records Act, subsection (3) of this section. The courts and the Office of the Attorney General have determined that a charge of ten cents ($0.10) per page is reasonable for a standard 8-½ inches x 11 inches paper copy. It should also be noted that under KRS 422.317(1), if the Cabinet had not retained a copy or if the requesting party had not proceeded under the Open Records Act, KRS 422.317(1) may have required a release of the records without charge. OAG 96-ORD-267.

University could not and was not required to furnish former employee records that did not exist; however, the university was obligated to furnish former employee records that had been furnished to the EEOC and KCHR upon prepayment of reasonable copying charges as a public agency cannot withhold public records from an applicant simply because they may be obtained from another source. OAG 97-ORD-87.

The fee charged for copies is limited to the proportionate cost of maintaining copying equipment by purchase or rental and the supplies involved; providing copies of nonexempt public records is not a "sale" of records; it is a compliance with the legislative mandate to make public records open and available for inspection and at a reasonable cost; there is therefore no provision in the Open Records Act that authorizes an agency to charge a sales tax on copies of public records provided to an open records request. OAG 98-ORD-88.

KRS 61.872 and this section contain no provision for waiver of the prepayment requirement for inmates; thus, it is entirely proper for a correctional facility to require prepayment and to enforce its standard policy relative to assessment of charges to inmate accounts, despite the delays this may entail. OAG 99-ORD-30.

A county clerk did not violate the Open Records Act in imposing a one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) charge for certified copies of official bonds executed by public officials which he furnished in response to an open records request as KRS 64.012 authorized a charge of two dollars ($2.00). OAG 99-ORD-56.

The Department of Workers Claims did not violate the Open Records Act in a request for certain data from the department's coverage/compliance database as the department did not maintain the requested information in the format proposed by the requester and special programming would have been required to fulfill the request. OAG 99-ORD-68.

An agency cannot impose a standard $2.00 fee for copies of reports generated in response to open records requests unless the fee reflects its actual costs, excluding staff costs, or unless there is an independent statutory basis for the fee. OAG 99-ORD-74.

An agency subverted the intent of the Open Records Act, short of denial of inspection, by requiring a requester to pay sales tax for copies of public records in addition to the reasonable fee contemplated by subsection (3) as the provision of records under the act is not a sale of the records. OAG 99-ORD-102.

A university's fifteen cents ($0.15) per page copying fee for open records requests was excessive where the university charged its faculty and students five to eight cents ($0.05 to $0.10) per copy, while charging those not associated with the university ten cents ($0.10) to use the coin operated machines on campus, and fifteen cents ($0.15) for copies made pursuant to an open records request; the university explained that the graduated rate schedule served to cross-subsidize the discount rate given to its faculty and students, but the Open Records Act does not authorize such a fee arrangement for reproducing copies of public records and, instead, the fee charge must be based upon the agency's actual cost for reproducing records per page, based on the cost of media and mechanical processing. OAG 99-ORD-186.

Although subsection (4)(b) does not, by its express terms, require a requester to disclose her purpose if it is a noncommercial one, such a requirement is implicit; thus, an inquiry by an agency as to whether a request was for a commercial or noncommercial purpose was proper, and a response that an agency would hold in abeyance further response until the requested information was provided was also proper. OAG 99-ORD-222.

As a county failed to establish that its actual cost of reproducing records for copies of public records was twenty-five cents ($0.25) per copy, such a charge was an excessive copying fee. OAG 99-ORD-222.

A Fifteen dollar ($15) fee charged for a copy of a 36" by 42" map was excessive to the extent that such fee was not based on the agency's actual cost of making the copy of the map. OAG 00-ORD-74.

Twenty-five cents ($0.25) per copy is an excessive charge for copies of public records. OAG 99-ORD-154.

A correctional institution failed to establish that its actual cost for reproducing a copy of an audio tape was four dollars ($4) and, therefore, it was required to recalculate its copying fee to conform to the requirements of subsection (3) and to charge the inmate accordingly. OAG 99-ORD-159.

To the extent that fifty cents ($0.50) per page copying fee which a fiscal court imposed exceeded its actual costs, the fee was clearly excessive and subverted the intent of the Open Records Act. OAG 99-ORD-163.

The statute is residual and general and applies where there is no other applicable fee statute; if a county clerk furnishes copies of records specifically identified in the Uniform Fee List, which is found at KRS 64.012, the fees charged for copies may be based on that list, but if the clerk furnishes copies of records not identified in the list, he may charge a reasonable fee that does not exceed the actual cost of reproduction, and excluding staff costs. OAG 00-ORD-110.

A charge of one hundred dollars ($100) to serve as a down payment against the anticipated cost of the programming that would be necessary to generate requested data was proper. OAG 00-ORD-165.

A charge by a city for copies of records of twenty-five cents ($0.25) per page was improper where the city failed to establish that its actual cost for reproducing records was twenty-five cents ($0.25) per page, based on the cost of media and mechanical processing. OAG 00-ORD-184.

Because the requester requested information in a specially tailored format, the agencies properly exercised their discretion under KRS 61.874(3) to require payment of its actual costs, as well as its costs for the programming, if the requester elected to proceed under the Open Records Act. The agencies did not violate the provisions of KRS 61.870 through KRS 61.884 by underestimating the actual cost of the programming. OAG 01-ORD-19.

The city's policy of charging fifty cents ($0.50) per page is not a reasonable copying charge within the meaning of KRS 61.874(3). If a public agency charges more than ten cents ($0.10) per page, it has the burden of establishing that this is not an excessive fee. An agency can only assess a reasonable copying charge for public records not to exceed its actual costs, excluding staff time required. OAG 01-ORD-42.

KRS 61.874(3) directs that the fee charged for copies should be based on the agency's actual expense, not including staff costs. Accordingly, the school system cannot charge for staff time in reproducing a copy of the minutes. Such a charge is not authorized under KRS 61.874(3). The requester should make arrangements to inspect the requested minutes and should only be charged the school system's actual costs of copying the records, which the Superintendent's response indicates is ten cents ($0.10) per page. OAG 01-ORD-43.

Since KRS 61.872(3)(b) and KRS 61.874(1) contain no provision for waiver of the prepayment requirement for inmates, it was entirely proper for the correctional facility to require prepayment and to enforce its prepayment policy relative to assessment of charges to inmate accounts. OAG 01-ORD-44.

The copying charges of 25 cents per page imposed by the Community Program Center of the Telecommunications Board of Northern Kentucky violated the reasonable fee provision codified at KRS 61.874(3). OAG 01-ORD-50.

Since the General Assembly did not designate a standard format for videotapes, the concept of "standard format" has no place in a discussion of anything other than electronic or hard copy records maintained in the media described, and therefore the agency can only provide a copy of a videotape in the format that the agency maintains the record. OAG 01-ORD-50.

Unless an agency can establish that its actual cost for reproducing records is fifty cents ($0.50) per page, based on the cost of media and mechanical processing as defined in KRS 61.870(7) and (8), the charge is excessive and subverts the intent of the Open Records Act. If the county clerk charges fifty cents ($0.50) per page for records not covered by the Uniform Fee List, it must either substantiate the charge or recalculate its copying fee to conform to the requirements of KRS 61.874(3) and charge for copies of public records accordingly. OAG 01-ORD-91.

Unless the Division of Police can demonstrate that the actual cost it incurs in duplicating a recording of 911 calls and radio transmissions, based on media and mechanical processing costs, but excluding staff cost, is equal to $27.00, it must recalculate its copying charge for audiotapes to conform to the criteria set forth at KRS 61.874(3). The Division may not impose any additional fees for "research time" or time spent in examining the requested information for purposes of determining whether or not any matters contained therein were confidential. OAG 01-ORD-114.

The twenty cents ($0.20) per page copying fee imposed by the city is excessive, and KRS 61.874(3) requires it to adjust its copying fee to reflect its actual costs (four cents ($0.04) per page) or no more than ten cents ($0.10) per page. The city may not seek to defray the costs it incurs for providing free copies of records stored in other physical media (such as cassettes and disks) by assessing higher copying charges for records reproduced in hard copy format. OAG 01-ORD-136.

Although they are not required to do so, public agencies may agree to extract electronically stored information to conform to the parameters of an open records request and in so doing, incur "actual costs" in addition to media and mechanical processing costs. Such charges would constitute an actual cost to the agency that could properly be passed along to the requester. The fifty dollar ($50) per hour charge which the department seeks to impose is consistent with KRS 61.874(3) only if it reflects actual costs incurred, and can be substantiated. OAG 01-ORD-158.

A copying charge of $279.90, $208.00 of which is based on an hourly labor charge, is unreasonable and must be reduced to ten cents ($0.10) per page, excluding labor costs, unless the county can substantiate actual costs in excess of this amount. OAG 01-ORD-193.

The fact that the Treasury can, at additional programming costs, extract the unclaimed property information the requester seeks does not mean that it must. Public agencies are not required to extract electronically stored information to conform to the parameters of an open records request, but may do so at their discretion. The Treasury has properly exercised its discretion in the negative. OAG 02-ORD-48.

The information the requester was required to submit in the "Request for Reproduction of PVA Public Records," relating to his specific purpose in requesting the records, and including the "Non-Commercial Applicant's Certified Statement," exceeded the permissible limits of KRS 61.872 and KRS 61.874(4)(b). Further, a request submitted by an individual acting on behalf of a political candidate, whether paid or unpaid, cannot be characterized as a request submitted for a commercial purpose. OAG 02-ORD-89.

Since no evidence has been submitted to substantiate that the Board's actual costs for reproducing copies of its public records is 25 cents per page, the 25 cents per page charge is an excessive copying fee. Unless the Board can demonstrate that its actual cost for reproducing records, excluding staff costs, is greater than ten cents ($0.10) per page, it must recalculate its copying fee to conform to the requirements of KRS 61.874. OAG 02-ORD-198.

Kentucky State Reformatory is required by KRS 61.874(1) to supply the inmate with copies of the record he had already been permitted to inspect. OAG 02-ORD-210.

Since no evidence has been submitted to substantiate that the Jail's actual costs for reproducing copies of its public records, not including staff costs, is 15 cents per page, the 15 cents per page charge is an excessive copying fee. Unless the Jail can demonstrate that its actual cost for reproducing records, excluding staff costs, is greater than ten cents ($0.10) per page, it must recalculate its copying fee to conform to the requirements of KRS 61.874. OAG 02-ORD-217.

Although the county clerk substantiated a copying fee of 15 cents per page and may impose a fee in this amount, the better practice is to impose a fee of 10 cents per page inasmuch as this fee strikes a reasonable balance between the agency's right to recover its actual costs, excluding staff costs, and the public's right of access to copies of records at a nonprohibitive charge. OAG 02-ORD-218.

While the Department's entire database may contain more or less information than the requester seeks, it clearly contains information that is responsive to her request and the Department is obligated to afford her access to it after redacting individual Medicaid recipient information and other information made confidential by federal enactment. Redaction of the latter information from an existing database is not equivalent to nonobligatory creation of a new record. OAG 03-ORD-04.

The Property Valuation Office's charge for records requested for a commercial purpose were reasonable. The Revenue Cabinet indicated that the amount charged was $32.00, an amount calculated by reference to the PVA Open Records Commercial Fee Guidelines issued by the Cabinet in accordance with the Open Records Act and KRS 133.047. OAG 03-ORD-25.

It is not appropriate for the department to compel the requester to pay the additional cost of mailing the records by certified/return-receipt mail. The Open Records Act does not require the agency to use this method of mailing, and the agency does so at its own election. There is no support in the Act for the proposition that the cost of access to public records by mail can properly be driven up by the use of certified mail and the consequent imposition of additional postage costs, however valid the agency's reasons may be for electing to use certified mail. OAG 03-ORD-50.

It is entirely proper for the City to require prepayment of a reasonable copying charge that does not exceed the actual cost of duplication, not including staff costs, and to enforce a standard policy relative to assessment of those charges. Moreover, KRS 61.872 and KRS 61.874 contain no provision for the waiver of such fees for any party. OAG 03-ORD-57.

Discharge of the duties imposed by KRS 61.870 et seq. is required by law and is as much a legal obligation of a public agency as the provision of services to the public. If the Clerk is to act as the City's official custodian of records, she must accord her duties as such the same status as her other duties during regular business hours, including the duty to make copies at a cost not to exceed the actual cost of reproduction, but not including the cost of staff required. This is not a courtesy extended to the public by a public agency, but a legal duty imposed on the agency. OAG 03-ORD-83.

There is no error in the policies and procedure of the Luther Lockett Correctional Complex and the Department that require that copies of records requested pursuant to an open records request be paid for by check or money order and not by cash. OAG 03-ORD-174.

Under the Open Records Act, a correctional facility may properly require prepayment for copies of public records that are requested by inmates. OAG 03-ORD-189.

The agency may, as a matter of discretion, tailor its database to conform to the parameters of the request, and if it does so recover staff costs as well as actual cost incurred. If, however, it exercises its discretion not to tailor its database to satisfy the request, it must produce a copy of that database in standard format, as defined at KRS 61.874(2)(b), and assess a copying charge equivalent to its actual costs, including medium and mechanical processing costs, but not including staff costs or the costs associated with redaction of statutorily protected fields of information. OAG 03-ORD-214.

By enacting KRS 237.110(8), the General Assembly expressly restricted disclosure of the public records requested to "hard copy form only." Since KRS 61.878(1)(l) exempts from disclosure public records or information the disclosure of which is prohibited or restricted or otherwise made confidential by enactment of the General Assembly, the Kentucky State Police properly denied the request to produce the requested list of names of concealed permit holders in electronic format. OAG 03-ORD-222.

Although the city may properly require the requester to prepay reasonable copying and postage charges as a condition to mailing him copies of these audit reports, it cannot impose a flat charge of ten dollars ($10) unless it can substantiate that this charge reflects the actual cost of reproduction, including the costs of the media and any mechanical processing costs incurred, but not including the cost of staff required. OAG 03-ORD-224.

KRS 61.874(4)(a) expressly authorizes public agencies to recover the cost of staff required to produce a copy of a public record, and, in this respect, markedly differs from KRS 61.874(3), expressly excluding “the cost of staff required.” The statute fully supports imposition of an hourly rate for staff time expended in the assignment and research of an open records request, as well as the retrieval, redaction, and reproduction of responsive records, and ultimate review and disposition of that request. OAG 04-ORD-54.

Because the City failed to substantiate that its $.25 per square foot copying charge reflects the City’s actual costs, the $.25 copying charge imposed for the blueprints was excessive, and the City must, pursuant to KRS 61.874(3), recalculate its copying fee to reflect its actual costs of approximately $.80 per square foot or approximately $.50 per sheet ($.80 per square foot by 6 square feet as opposed to $.25 per square foot by 6 square feet). To this, the City may add the $.97 per sheet commercial scanning charge for a total cost of no more than $1.50 per copy. OAG 04-ORD-217.

Although an agency may properly exercise its discretion either affirmatively or negatively in deciding whether to provide online access to electronic records, having exercised that option affirmatively relative to one (1) or more requesters, it must exercise the option affirmatively as to all requesters who are willing and able to abide by the terms and conditions of online access established by the agency. OAG 05-ORD-25.

Unless a city can substantiate that its actual costs exceed ten cents ($.10) per page, it must recalculate its copying fee to conform to the requirements found at KRS 61.874(3); there is no support in existing legal authority for the fifty cents ($.50) per page copying fee that the city currently imposes. OAG 05-ORD-70.

A letter prepared by a public agency employee, an attorney, to opposing counsel in a civil action is clearly a public record, notwithstanding the fact that it is maintained in an attorney case file originating from the representation of a public employee in their individual capacity. OAG 05-ORD-72.

The Personnel Cabinet subverted the intent of the Open Records Act, short of denial of inspection, by requiring a requester to pay programming costs of $210 for production of payroll records for the Office of Security Coordination. OAG 05-ORD-116.

Where requested records have been retrieved and produced for inspection and the requester has identified and separated into “stacks” the records she wishes to have copied, the “burden” thereafter associated with production of copies of the records is one that agencies are statutorily required to shoulder per KRS 61.874(1). It is not incumbent on the requester to identify specific records for copying. OAG 05-ORD-201.

County Clerk fully discharged her duties under the Open Records Act by providing on-site access to the requester, or his representative, to inspect and copy requested records and she did not violate Act in denying request for copies of the records in an electronic format, when records were not maintained in such format. OAG 06-ORD-041.

KRS 61.874(6) authorizes public agencies to make online access available at their discretion and to require a party wishing to access records by electronic means to enter into a contract. The agency must retain the corollary right to terminate the contract if the party is found to have violated its terms. Indeed, KRS 61.8745 establishes a damages section for persons who violate, inter alia, KRS 61.874(6). OAG 2006-ORD-041.

- (a) The principal office of the public agency and its regular office hours;
- (b) The title, mailing address, and e-mail address of the official custodian of the public agency's records;

(2) Each public agency shall display in a prominent location accessible to the public, including on its Web site:

(4) The Attorney General shall promulgate by administrative regulation under KRS Chapter 13A a standardized form that may be used to request public records from a public agency. The form shall not allow any request for information other than the following:

- (c) Whether the request is for a commercial purpose;
- (d) A description of the documents requested;
- (e) A statement that the person making the request:

1. Is a resident of the Commonwealth under KRS 61.870(10); and

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Application to Courts.

Some details of the Open Records Law present interferences inconsistent with the orderly conduct of court business, to wit, the requirement that courts adopt and post rules and regulations, that they conform to the procedure set forth in KRS 61.880, and that as to the accessibility of their records they adhere to the list of exceptions stated in KRS 61.878, and such requirements will not be accepted. Ex parte Farley, 570 S.W.2d 617, 1978 Ky. LEXIS 390 (Ky. 1978).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

This section was intended for agencies whose primary function was not the keeping of records and who therefore need to adopt rules and regulations and the Circuit Court Clerk is not required to adopt regulations pertaining to records under this section. OAG 76-431.

This section is so detailed that an agency needs only to adopt rules as to its principal office, its regular office hours, its official custodian, fees to be charged, and the procedures to be followed in requesting public records. OAG 78-340.

This section mandates that each public agency shall adopt rules pertaining to access to public records and failure to do so constitutes a technical violation of the statute, but there is no penalty provided for failure to adopt and post regulations. OAG 78-340.

Where a public agency has not adopted its own rules and regulations with respect to the storage of agency records, the uniform regulations adopted by the Department of Finance (now Finance and Administration Cabinet) would apply to determine where such records can be kept; thus, in the absence of agency regulations, the records of the board of physical therapy may be kept in the home of the executive director of the board when the residence is designated as the official office of the agency and the responsibility for the keeping of the records is placed on the executive director as the official custodian, with no further precautions necessary; moreover, the listing of the home address in the state directory and city telephone directory serves as sufficient notice as to where the records may be found and inspected under the Open Records Law. OAG 81-269.

The provisions of KRS 61.872, 61.874 and 61.876, when taken together, require that public agencies have a policy of allowing inspection of public records, of protecting the records, of preventing excessive disruption of the agency's functions, of providing copies upon request, of providing efficient and timely action in response to applications for inspection and of charging a reasonable fee based on the actual cost of making copies not including the cost of staff required; these three (3) sections allow public agencies a certain amount of leeway as to handling requests for records by mail and mailing copies to requesters who have not personally inspected the records and selected the items which they want copied. OAG 83-204.

Public agencies should accommodate requesters whenever they can within the bounds of the efficient operation of their office. Whenever only one (1) item is requested, or a few precisely described items which are readily available within the office, and no special search is required, it will be more convenient both to the agency and to the requester to answer the request through the mail; to require the requester to appear in person at the office of the agency in such a case would not be more convenient to either party and would only inhibit the intended purpose of the Open Records Law. OAG 83-204.

If a public agency's rules and regulations do not conform to KRS 61.870 to 61.884 as required by this section, the rules and regulations promulgated by the Finance and Administration Cabinet then apply to that public agency until the agency brings its existing rules and regulations into conformance with the Open Records Act. OAG 84-300.

Attorney General opined that Custodian of Records' actions, in denying inmate's request for a copy of his transfer authorization form pursuant to KRS 61.880 because inmate's account had no money to cover the reproduction costs, were entirely consistent with the Open Records Act because a public agency is authorized to prescribe reasonable fees for making copies of public records pursuant to subsection (1)(c) of this section and KRS 61.874(2). OAG 91-210.

City manager's abusive conduct created a hostile atmosphere which rendered the facilities provided by the city unsuitable for inspection. OAG 93-ORD-39.

While a requester cannot expect an agency to provide facilities offering the enforced silence of a library, he may certainly expect that those facilities will afford him adequate opportunity to inspect the records without interruption, and without harassment. OAG 93-ORD-39.

While there is certainly an essential relationship between KRS Chapter 61, the Open Records Act, and KRS Chapter 171, state archives and records, insofar as effective records management facilitates efficient governmental operation and public accountability, this section requires each public agency to adopt rules and regulations in conformity with the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 which are aimed at insuring that each agency will educate the public on its particular policies and practices relative to open records; the records retention and disposal schedule envisioned by KRS Chapter 171 does not correspond to the rules and regulations for public agencies mandated by this section, nor are agencies required to formulate these rules and regulations under the direction of the Department for Libraries and Archives. OAG 94-ORD-12.

Since a police report does not appear to fall within the parameter of a separate fee statute, subsection (2) of this section governs, and any fee charged in excess of the Department's actual cost is a violation of the Open Record's Act. OAG 94-ORD-77.

A sign on the wall of police department stating that requesters will be charged $5.00 for copies, absent independent statutory authority, did not justify the department's charges for copies; therefore, the police department must recalculate the fee it imposes for copies to conform to the requirements of KRS 61.874(2) of this section and should also remove the sign which appears on its walls, and replace it with a revised notice which conforms to KRS 61.874(2) and this section. OAG 94-ORD-77.

Although the county clerk is required by KRS 61.878(4) to make all nonexempt portions of public records available for inspection or copying, the clerk is not required to designate an employee to assist the requesting party in inspecting nonexempt records stored in electronic or hardcopy format. OAG 95-ORD-43.

A county board of education did not violate the statute where the requester sought to inspect voluminous records, many of which were not immediately accessible, and the board arranged for the requester to inspect the documents over a two (2) day period beginning 20 days after the statutory deadline for inspection. OAG 99-ORD-26.

It is incumbent on all public agencies to designate an employee to fill the role of official custodian and to adopt and post rules and regulations identifying that employee as official custodian so that open records requests can be directed to him for processing and final agency action; if he does not have custody or control of the public record requested, he must notify the requester and furnish the name and location of the official custodian of those records. OAG 99-ORD-30.

A board of education could not restrict the requester's right of on-site access to three (3) hours on a single day, notwithstanding that the board elected to assign an employee and a law enforcement officer to monitor the requester's inspection of the records, where the board acknowledged that no restraining order was issued against the requester to prevent him from entering the board's offices. OAG 99-ORD-44.

Where a request for records was submitted to the director of a corrections education center at a correctional complex, a position created by a memorandum of agreement between the Department of Corrections and the Kentucky Community Technical College System (KCTCS), the director's response that the requester that he should submit his request to KCTCS's official records custodian did not constitute an intentional subversion of the Open Records Act. OAG 00-ORD-12.

An agency may properly require all records requests to be routed through its official custodian to ensure the timely and orderly processing of open records requests. OAG 00-ORD-73.

The Board's policy of destruction of open records requests, which apparently the Board considers to be general correspondence, would not be inconsistent with Records Retention Schedule, Series No. M0002, which states that general correspondence may be retained no longer than two (2) years. OAG 03-ORD-24.

61.878. Certain public records exempted from inspection except on order of court — Restriction of state employees to inspect personnel files prohibited.

(1) The following public records are excluded from the application of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 and shall be subject to inspection only upon order of a court of competent jurisdiction, except that no court shall authorize the inspection by any party of any materials pertaining to civil litigation beyond that which is provided by the Rules of Civil Procedure governing pretrial discovery:

(a) Public records containing information of a personal nature where the public disclosure thereof would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy;

(b) Records confidentially disclosed to an agency and compiled and maintained for scientific research. This exemption shall not, however, apply to records the disclosure or publication of which is directed by another statute;

(c)1. Records confidentially disclosed to an agency or required by an agency to be disclosed to it, generally recognized as confidential or proprietary, which if openly disclosed would permit an unfair commercial advantage to competitors of the entity that disclosed the records;

2. Records confidentially disclosed to an agency or required by an agency to be disclosed to it, generally recognized as confidential or proprietary, which are compiled and maintained:

a. In conjunction with an application for or the administration of a loan or grant;

b. In conjunction with an application for or the administration of assessments, incentives, inducements, and tax credits as described in KRS Chapter 154;

c. In conjunction with the regulation of commercial enterprise, including mineral exploration records, unpatented, secret commercially valuable plans, appliances, formulae, or processes, which are used for the making, preparing, compounding, treating, or processing of articles or materials which are trade commodities obtained from a person; or

d. For the grant or review of a license to do business.

3. The exemptions provided for in subparagraphs 1. and 2. of this paragraph shall not apply to records the disclosure or publication of which is directed by another statute;

(d) Public records pertaining to a prospective location of a business or industry where no previous public disclosure has been made of the business' or industry's interest in locating in, relocating within or expanding within the Commonwealth. This exemption shall not include those records pertaining to application to agencies for permits or licenses necessary to do business or to expand business operations within the state, except as provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection;

(e) Public records which are developed by an agency in conjunction with the regulation or supervision of financial institutions, including but not limited to banks, savings and loan associations, and credit unions, which disclose the agency's internal examining or audit criteria and related analytical methods;

(f) The contents of real estate appraisals, engineering or feasibility estimates and evaluations made by or for a public agency relative to acquisition of property, until such time as all of the property has been acquired. The law of eminent domain shall not be affected by this provision;

(g) Test questions, scoring keys, and other examination data used to administer a licensing examination, examination for employment, or academic examination before the exam is given or if it is to be given again;

(h) Records of law enforcement agencies or agencies involved in administrative adjudication that were compiled in the process of detecting and investigating statutory or regulatory violations if the disclosure of the information would harm the agency by revealing the identity of informants not otherwise known or by premature release of information to be used in a prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication. Unless exempted by other provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884, public records exempted under this provision shall be open after enforcement action is completed or a decision is made to take no action; however, records or information compiled and maintained by county attorneys or

Commonwealth's attorneys pertaining to criminal investigations or criminal litigation shall be exempted from the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 and shall remain exempted after enforcement action, including litigation, is completed or a decision is made to take no action. The exemptions provided by this subsection shall not be used by the custodian of the records to delay or impede the exercise of rights granted by KRS 61.870 to 61.884;

(i) Preliminary drafts, notes, correspondence with private individuals, other than correspondence which is intended to give notice of final action of a public agency;

(j) Preliminary recommendations, and preliminary memoranda in which opinions are expressed or policies formulated or recommended;

(k) All public records or information the disclosure of which is prohibited by federal law or regulation or state law;

(l) Public records or information the disclosure of which is prohibited or restricted or otherwise made confidential by enactment of the General Assembly, including any information acquired by the Department of Revenue in tax administration that is prohibited from divulgence or disclosure under KRS 131.190;

(m)1. Public records the disclosure of which would have a reasonable likelihood of threatening the public safety by exposing a vulnerability in preventing, protecting against, mitigating, or responding to a terrorist act and limited to:

a. Criticality lists resulting from consequence assessments;

b. Vulnerability assessments;

c. Antiterrorism protective measures and plans;

d. Counterterrorism measures and plans;

e. Security and response needs assessments;

f. Infrastructure records that expose a vulnerability referred to in this subparagraph through the disclosure of the location, configuration, or security of critical systems, including public utility critical systems. These critical systems shall include but not be limited to information technology, communication, electrical, fire suppression, ventilation, water, wastewater, sewage, and gas systems;

g. The following records when their disclosure will expose a vulnerability referred to in this subparagraph: detailed drawings, schematics, maps, or specifications of structural elements, floor plans, and operating, utility, or security systems of any building or facility owned, occupied, leased, or maintained by a public agency; and

h. Records when their disclosure will expose a vulnerability referred to in this subparagraph and that describe the exact physical location of hazardous chemical, radiological, or biological materials.

2. As used in this paragraph, "terrorist act" means a criminal act intended to:

a. Intimidate or coerce a public agency or all or part of the civilian population;

b. Disrupt a system identified in subparagraph 1.f. of this paragraph; or

c. Cause massive destruction to a building or facility owned, occupied, leased, or maintained by a public agency.

3. On the same day that a public agency denies a request to inspect a public record for a reason identified in this paragraph, that public agency shall forward a copy of the written denial of the request, referred to in KRS 61.880(1), to the executive director of the Kentucky Office of Homeland Security and the Attorney General.

4. Nothing in this paragraph shall affect the obligations of a public agency with respect to disclosure and availability of public records under state environmental, health, and safety programs.

5. The exemption established in this paragraph shall not apply when a member of the Kentucky General Assembly seeks to inspect a public record identified in this paragraph under the Open Records Law;

(n) Public or private records, including books, papers, maps, photographs, cards, tapes, discs, diskettes, recordings, software, or other documentation regardless of physical form or characteristics, having historic, literary, artistic, or commemorative value accepted by the archivist of a public university, museum, or government depository from a donor or depositor other than a public agency. This exemption shall apply to the extent that nondisclosure is requested in writing by the donor or depositor of such records, but shall not apply to records the disclosure or publication of which is mandated by another statute or by federal law;

(o) Records of a procurement process under KRS Chapter 45A or 56. This exemption shall not apply after:

1. A contract is awarded; or

2. The procurement process is canceled without award of a contract and there is a determination that the contract will not be resolicited;

(p) Client and case files maintained by the Department of Public Advocacy or any person or entity contracting with the Department of Public Advocacy for the provision of legal representation under KRS Chapter 31;

(q) Except as provided in KRS 61.168, photographs or videos that depict the death, killing, rape, or sexual assault of a person. However, such photographs or videos shall be made available by the public agency to the requesting party for viewing on the premises of the public agency, or a mutually agreed upon location, at the request of;

1.a. Any victim depicted in the photographs or videos, his or her immediate family, or legal representative;

b. Any involved insurance company or its representative; or

c. The legal representative of any involved party;

2. Any state agency or political subdivision investigating official misconduct; or

3. A legal representative for a person under investigation for, charged with, pled guilty to, or found guilty of a crime related to the underlying incident. The person under investigation for, charged with, pled guilty to, or found guilty of a crime related to the underlying incident or their immediate family shall not be permitted to have access to the photographs or videos; and

(r) Communications of a purely personal nature unrelated to any governmental function.

(2) No exemption in this section shall be construed to prohibit disclosure of statistical information not descriptive of any readily identifiable person.

(3) No exemption in this section shall be construed to deny, abridge, or impede the right of a public agency employee, including university employees, an applicant for employment, or an eligible on a register to inspect and to copy any record including preliminary and other supporting documentation that relates to him. The records shall include, but not be limited to, work plans, job performance, demotions, evaluations, promotions, compensation, classification, reallocation, transfers, lay-offs, disciplinary actions, examination scores, and preliminary and other supporting documentation. A public agency employee, including university employees, applicant, or eligible shall not have the right to inspect or to copy any examination or any documents relating to ongoing criminal or administrative investigations by an agency.

(4) If any public record contains material which is not excepted under this section, the public agency shall separate the excepted and make the nonexcepted material available for examination.

(5) The provisions of this section shall in no way prohibit or limit the exchange of public records or the sharing of information between public agencies when the exchange is serving a legitimate governmental need or is necessary in the performance of a legitimate government function.

(6) When material is made available pursuant to a request under subsection (1)(q) of this section, the public agency shall not be required to make a copy of the recording except as provided in KRS 61.169, and the requesting parties shall not be limited in the number of times they may view the material.

Compiler's Notes.

Section 38 of Acts 1994, ch. 450 provides that: "It is the intent of the General Assembly that the amendment to Section 34 of this Act shall be retroactive to July 15, 1992."

Legislative Research Commission Notes.

(6/29/2021). This statute was amended by 2021 Ky. Acts chs. 78 and 160, which do not appear to be in conflict and have been codified together.

(3/23/2021). 2021 Ky. Acts ch. 78, sec. 2 provides that the Act, which amended this statute, may be cited as the Bailey Holt-Preston Cope Victims Privacy Act.

(6/20/2005). The Office of the Kentucky Attorney General requested that amendments in 2005 Ky. Acts ch. 45, sec. 6, and ch. 93, sec. 3, to the arrangement of the paragraphs of subsection (1) of this section be changed. The change was requested “in the interest of preventing confusion to the public and public agencies” and was made by the Statute Reviser under the authority of KRS 7.136.

1. Construction.

Notwithstanding that KRS 61.884 allows any person to have access to any public record relating to him or in which he is mentioned by name, a citizen was not entitled to a copy of a tape recording of a 911 call reporting that the citizen had threatened to kill his own wife and other members of his family, as the disclosure of such recording would have constituted a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy of the 911 caller in violation of this section. Bowling v. Brandenburg, 37 S.W.3d 785, 2000 Ky. App. LEXIS 22 (Ky. Ct. App. 2000).

Fact that a complaint against a police officer was considered at a closed hearing, as required by a legislative enactment, did not mean that the complaint which gave rise to the hearing was exempt from public disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(l). Palmer v. Driggers, 60 S.W.3d 591, 2001 Ky. App. LEXIS 1165 (Ky. Ct. App. 2001).

While the interests reckoned on the privacy side of the balance generally do not dissipate, and in some instances even grow stronger, with the passage of time, it is no less true that the public’s interest in knowing what the government is up to includes a strong historical interest in knowing what the government was up to; the passage of time, therefore, while a factor relevant to the balancing of interests required by the privacy exemption, will seldom be dispositive in-and-of itself. Lawson v. Office of the AG, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

University violated the Open Records Act because the university did not (1) show a specific exemption applied to a particular record, (2) redact personally identifying information, or (3) show records were exempt through a proper index, and (4) refused to let the Attorney General review redacted records. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

2. Legislative Intent.

To infer that subdivision (1)(a) of this section may be invoked only where the subject information is already protected under a different paragraph would require a reading of the statute which is, to say the least, esoteric — and which, incidentally, would render subdivision (1)(a) a nullity. A plain reading of subdivision (1)(a) reveals an unequivocal legislative intention that certain records, albeit they are “public,” are not subject to inspection, because disclosure would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Judging by order, if nothing more, one might say that subdivision (1)(a) is the foremost exception to the disclosure rule. Certainly it is an independently viable exception, not subordinate to any other, and not restricted to preliminary materials or non-final matters. Kentucky Bd. of Examiners of Psychologists v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 826 S.W.2d 324, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 35 (Ky. 1992).

Since corporation sought investment tax credits through Kentucky Industry Revitalization Authority (KIRA) which was established by and administered through KRS Chapter 154 and the information submitted by corporation to KIRA was done in conjunction with said application for the tax credits and since by amending the Open Records Act, specifically KRS 61.878 (1)(c)(2)(b), to include documents submitted pursuant to KRS Chapter 154, it is evident that the Legislature sought to protect those companies which participate in the revitalization and development of industry in Kentucky, such documents were exempt from disclosure. Hoy v. Kentucky Indus. Revitalization Auth., 907 S.W.2d 766, 1995 Ky. LEXIS 125 (Ky. 1995).

The Legislature in adopting the open records law clearly intended to grant any member of the public as much right to access to information as the next; the only relevant public interest in disclosure to be considered is the extent to which disclosure would serve the principle purpose of the Open Records Act. Zink v. Department of Workers’ Claims, Labor Cabinet, 902 S.W.2d 825, 1994 Ky. App. LEXIS 141 (Ky. Ct. App. 1994).

In construing the term “party” in subsection (1) of this section, the appellate court attached significance to the Legislature’s word choice, which was “party” not “person” and interpreted this to mean that a newspaper seeking to inspect records of a prison inmate was not a “party” in the litigation involving the inmate; thus, this section was inapplicable, and the documents requested were open for inspection pursuant to KRS 61.872. Department of Corrections v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times, 914 S.W.2d 349, 1996 Ky. App. LEXIS 10 (Ky. Ct. App. 1996).

General Assembly did not intend to mandate an iron rule of non-disclosure whenever an exemption contained in the Kentucky Open Records Act applies because such a rule would run counter to the principle, fundamental in the law, that rights, even fundamental rights, may be waived, and the Act’s express policy, is the free and open examination of public records. Lawson v. Office of the AG, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

3. Attorney-Client Privilege.

The Governor’s administration was properly ordered to release service description statements on attorney billing records reflecting the general nature of legal services rendered by nongovernmental lawyers retained in connection with an investigation of hiring practices. Such statements were not protected by the attorney-client privilege of KRE 503, and the trial court’s solution of allowing the administration to submit descriptions it believed to be privileged in camera review balanced the administration’s interest in the confidentiality of privileged materials and the public interest in disclosure. Commonwealth v. Scorsone, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 18 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 18, 2008), op. withdrawn, sub. op., 251 S.W.3d 328, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 40 (Ky. Ct. App. 2008).

Blanket redaction of descriptions of particular services rendered by nongovernment lawyers to various agencies in the Governor's administration was improper under the Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 to 61.884, as the attorney-client privilege under KRE 503 did not apply to every communication between an attorney and a client. Commonwealth v. Scorsone, 251 S.W.3d 328, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 40 (Ky. Ct. App. 2008).

4. Application to Courts.

If subsection (2) of this section means materials and data in the process of being accumulated, or which already have been accumulated, to the end that the court may select from it such portions as it deems pertinent for comparison with the facts of a case or cases to be reviewed by it, then a compliance with the statute would interfere with the court's work. Ex parte Farley, 570 S.W.2d 617, 1978 Ky. LEXIS 390 (Ky. 1978).

Some details of the Open Records Act present interferences inconsistent with the orderly conduct of court business, to wit, the requirement that courts adopt and post rules and regulations, that they conform to the procedure set forth in KRS 61.880, and that as to the accessibility of their records they adhere to the list of exceptions stated in this section, and such requirements will not be accepted. Ex parte Farley, 570 S.W.2d 617, 1978 Ky. LEXIS 390 (Ky. 1978).

5. Standard for Nondisclosure.

In light of the clear recognition of an individual's right of privacy in Kentucky, the question of whether, absent a court order, information should be withheld from disclosure pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section, is subject to a test of balancing the interests of the parties as well as those of the public, measured by the standard of a reasonable man. Board of Education v. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Human Rights Com., 625 S.W.2d 109, 1981 Ky. App. LEXIS 302 (Ky. Ct. App. 1981).

Where county attorney did not attempt to establish that disclosure of records relating to child support payments requested by attorney representing father of minor child would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, and where county attorney did not reference relevant state or federal law barring disclosure or explain its application to the disputed records, county attorney's response failed to conform to KRS 61.880(2)(c) and KRS 61.882(3). Edmondson v. Alig, 926 S.W.2d 856, 1996 Ky. App. LEXIS 124 (Ky. Ct. App. 1996).

This section provides the proper standard for determining whether records may be excluded from disclosure in administrative hearings, such as those provided for under the Health Care Acts of 1994: "if a document is confidential or proprietary, and that disclosure to competitors would give them substantially more than a trivial unfair advantage, the document should be protected from disclosure to those who are not parties to the proceeding." Southeastern United Medigroup v. Hughes, 952 S.W.2d 195, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 90 (Ky. 1997), overruled in part, Hoskins v. Maricle, 150 S.W.3d 1, 2004 Ky. LEXIS 196 (Ky. 2004).

Records that a fired program coordinator requested from an urban county government were privileged as information obtained during an investigation conducted by a law firm that was acting as the urban government's attorney; therefore, the information was not discoverable. Meriwether v. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Gov't, 2002 Ky. App. LEXIS 1 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 4, 2002).

Department of Correction's argument regarding the unreasonable burden of complying with open records requests of inmates as a whole class of people missed the mark because the unreasonable burden language in KRS 61.872(6) focused on a singular "application," not a group of applications from an entire class of applicants. Commonwealth v. Chestnut, 250 S.W.3d 655, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 116 (Ky. 2008).

Because the Circuit Court never determined whether certain requested materials were subject to one of the fourteen exclusions listed in KRS 61.878(1), the matter had to be remanded to the Circuit Court to make a determination as to whether the materials an attorney requested were specifically excluded under one or more of the fourteen listed exclusions. Wyrick v. Dep't of Revenue, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 169 (Ky. Ct. App. May 30, 2008), aff'd, 323 S.W.3d 710, 2010 Ky. LEXIS 260 (Ky. 2010).

Since the privacy interests in not being identified by personal information was almost always substantial and the public interest in disclosure rarely so, the city's categorical redaction of such information was a reasonable application of KRS 61.878(1)(a). Ky. New Era v. City of Hopkinsville, 415 S.W.3d 76, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 644 (Ky. 2013).

Kentucky State Police violated the Open Records Act, Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.870 et seq., by failing to produce its entire Uniform Citation File database when requested by a reporter where the time and manpower required to separate exempt material, standing alone, was not sufficiently clear and convincing evidence to show an unreasonable burden under Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.872(6). Moreover, the undisputed evidence noted that the necessary categorical extractions could be performed for $15,000, and electronically separating exempt material was not equivalent to creating a new record given the mandate in Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.878(4). Commonwealth v. Courier Journal, 601 S.W.3d 501, 2020 Ky. App. LEXIS 42 (Ky. Ct. App. 2020).

6. Personnel Files.

There is no unqualified right for one governmental entity to examine the total personnel files of another governmental entity; accordingly, where the Human Rights Commission sought all personnel records of complainant and three (3) other school security officers in an employment promotion sex discrimination case, the Board of Education need only disclose such information as remains after it "sanitizes" the records, pursuant to subsection (3) of this section, to remove material not germane to the action. Board of Education v. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Human Rights Com., 625 S.W.2d 109, 1981 Ky. App. LEXIS 302 (Ky. Ct. App. 1981).

In a case where a newspaper sought disclosure, pursuant to the Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 et seq., of performance evaluations of an employee who was convicted of theft arising from his employment with an agency, redaction of the records to remove truly personal information was the best solution. Cape Publ'ns v. City of Louisville, 191 S.W.3d 10, 2006 Ky. App. LEXIS 101 (Ky. Ct. App. 2006).

Appellant was not entitled to inspect the personnel file of the prosecuting attorney in appellant's criminal case under the Kentucky Open Records Act because disclosure amounted to a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy under KRS 61.878(1)(a) and served no public purpose. Valentine v. Pers. Cabinet, 322 S.W.3d 505, 2010 Ky. App. LEXIS 139 (Ky. Ct. App. 2010).

7. Investigative Reports.

Although KRS 17.150(5) provides for common remedies by establishing that "[t]he provisions of KRS Chapter 61 dealing with administrative and judicial remedies for inspection of public records and penalties for violations thereof shall be applicable to this section," such provision does not automatically equate investigative reports relating to prosecutions (governed by KRS 17.150(2)) with those compiled for administrative adjudications (governed by subdivision (1)(f) of this section); these remain separate matters. Louisville v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 637 S.W.2d 658, 1982 Ky. App. LEXIS 232 (Ky. Ct. App. 1982).

The investigative files of the internal affairs unit of a city police department were exempt from public inspection as preliminary under subsections (1)(g) and (h) of this section; this exemption did not extend to the complaints against a police officer which initially spawned the investigations. The public upon request had a right to know what complaints had been made and the final action taken by the chief thereupon. Louisville v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 637 S.W.2d 658, 1982 Ky. App. LEXIS 232 (Ky. Ct. App. 1982).

County's redaction of a suspect's identity from a disclosed police investigation file was proper under circumstances in which the suspect was not charged with or arrested for the alleged rape investigated; although a newspaper maintained that the public had a legitimate interest in monitoring police conduct and in ensuring that the investigation was handled properly, the newspaper had been provided some 900 pages of documents concerning the investigation, and had never established or even maintained that these documents were insufficient to fully investigate the police conduct, and failed to show how disclosure of the suspect's identity would have furthered such an interest under the facts of this case. The suspect's intrinsic personal privacy interest outweighed the nebulously asserted public interest, and the KRS 61.878(1)(a) personal privacy exemption applied. Lexington H-L Servs. v. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Gov't, 297 S.W.3d 579, 2009 Ky. App. LEXIS 51 (Ky. Ct. App. 2009).

Proffer given to the Kentucky Office of the Attorney General relating to a company's business practices was not exempt from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(h) because there was no showing that the disclosure would have harmed the agency. Lawson v. Office of the Atty., 2012 Ky. App. LEXIS 44 (Ky. Ct. App. Mar. 2, 2012), aff'd, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

Circuit court properly affirmed an Attorney General's opinion on an Open Records Act request that the audit documents at issue were subject to disclosure because the preliminary-records exception did not apply where a university took its final action based upon the information revealed during the audits, the audits were not prepared or conducted under the direction of counsel or intended to be disclosed only to counsel for the purposes of preparing legal advice, and the audit documents were not subject to the work-product doctrine since they were prepared in the course of the university's normal business oversight of a clinic's operation, and only remotely in anticipation of potential litigation. Univ. of Ky. v. Lexington H-L Servs., 579 S.W.3d 858, 2018 Ky. App. LEXIS 238 (Ky. Ct. App. 2018).

Circuit court made an erroneous factual conclusion that all the records in the investigation file were covered by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) because although the university was prohibited from releasing for the Attorney General's in camera review education records with unredacted personally identifying information, not all the records requested were education records, and FERPA did not prohibit their release. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

Although the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act precluded a university from releasing to a student newspaper unredacted education records contained in a Title IX of the United States Education Amendments of 1972 investigation file, the circuit court's finding that all the requested records were exempt from disclosure was not supported by substantial evidence because some records were not directly related to any student, such as a camera manual, University policies, and scheduling notes. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

8. Preliminary Materials.

Once final disciplinary action is taken by the Board of Medical Licensure, any complaint, report, memorandum, or letter made part of the record in such action is not within the exceptions to the Open Records Act found in subdivisions

(1)(g) and (1)(h) of this section and must therefore be made available to the public. Kentucky State Bd. of Medical Licensure v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 663 S.W.2d 953, 1983 Ky. App. LEXIS 327 (Ky. Ct. App. 1983).

Those documents defined in subdivisions (1)(g) and (1)(h) of this section which become a part of the records adopted by the Board of Medical Licensure as the basis of its final action, become releasable as public records under subdivision (1)(f), unless exempted by other provisions of KRS 61.870 through 61.884. Kentucky State Bd. of Medical Licensure v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 663 S.W.2d 953, 1983 Ky. App. LEXIS 327 (Ky. Ct. App. 1983).

The attempt by the Board of Medical Licensure to categorize complaints against physicians as formal public complaints and private individual complaints has no bearing on whether such complaints must be released under the Open Records Act. Inasmuch as final actions stem from the complaints, they must be incorporated as part of the final determination and are therefore not exempt under subdivisions (1)(g) or (1)(h) of this section. Kentucky State Bd. of Medical Licensure v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 663 S.W.2d 953, 1983 Ky. App. LEXIS 327 (Ky. Ct. App. 1983).

Subsections (h) and (i) of this section exempt Governor's daily appointment ledgers as within the exception for preliminary materials from media inspection and that, as such, summary judgment denying their availability to newspaper under the Open Records Act was appropriate. Courier-Journal v. Jones, 895 S.W.2d 6, 1995 Ky. App. LEXIS 58 (Ky. Ct. App. 1995).

Fact that a police officer resigned before the conclusion of his termination hearing did not render the complaint which gave rise to the termination hearing "preliminary materials," which were not subject to public disclosure under the Kentucky Open Records Act, KRS 61.878. Palmer v. Driggers, 60 S.W.3d 591, 2001 Ky. App. LEXIS 1165 (Ky. Ct. App. 2001).

Since emails between a city mayor and the city council members were preliminary discussions concerning what course of action to take with respect to a financial controversy regarding a local convention center, they were within the exemption from disclosure of the Open Records Act pursuant to KRS 61.878(1), and a city and the mayor were not liable for willfully withholding records under KRS 61.882(5). Baker v. Jones, 199 S.W.3d 749, 2006 Ky. App. LEXIS 12 (Ky. Ct. App. 2006).

Where a university appealed a circuit's denial of its motion for summary judgment, the university had not violated the Open Records Act; the circuit court and the Officer of the Attorney General incorrectly determined that the four e-mails at issue lost the preliminary status afforded to them by KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j) because the e-mails were incorporated into a final agency action, a meeting, and thus had to be disclosed. There had been no final agency action. Univ. of Louisville v. Sharp, 416 S.W.3d 313, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 161 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

Circuit court did not err finding that the analysis of internal affairs (IA) documents under the Kentucky Open Records Act did not end once the documents had been classified under the preliminary exception of Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.878(i) and (j) as the files did not maintain an indefinite preliminary status. However, that same statutory authority provided the state police with a limited authority to withhold portions of the IA file concerning any disciplinary recommendations or opinions not relied upon by the Commissioner in his final decision. Commonwealth v. Trageser, 600 S.W.3d 749, 2020 Ky. App. LEXIS 52 (Ky. Ct. App. 2020).

9. Presentence Investigation Report.

A criminal defendant is not entitled to a copy of his or her presentence investigation report both at the presentence and post-conviction stages. Commonwealth v. Bush, 740 S.W.2d 943, 1987 Ky. LEXIS 264 (Ky. 1987).

To conform with the “fair opportunity” afforded a defendant by subsection (4) of KRS 532.050, a defendant is entitled to being advised by the prison official who has custody of the presentence investigation report of the factual contents and conclusions therein and to a reasonable time to controvert factual information contained therein, but in order to protect the sources of confidential information, matters of opinion and comments of a personal and nonfactual nature shall not be revealed, and a defendant is not entitled to a copy of the report. Commonwealth v. Bush, 740 S.W.2d 943, 1987 Ky. LEXIS 264 (Ky. 1987).

10. Invasion of Privacy.

File of complaints by psychologist’s clients alleging sexual misconduct was a public record containing information “of a very personal nature,” disclosure of which would have constituted a serious invasion of personal privacy. Kentucky Bd. of Examiners of Psychologists v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 826 S.W.2d 324, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 35 (Ky. 1992).

Because the privacy interests of injured employees in personal details, such as home address, telephone number, and social security numbers, appearing on the S.F1 forms required to be filed with Department of Worker’s Claims pursuant to Workers’ Compensation Act substantially outweigh the negligible Open Records Act related public interest in disclosure, such disclosure would constitute a “clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy” under subsection (1)(a) of this section. Zink v. Department of Workers’ Claims, Labor Cabinet, 902 S.W.2d 825, 1994 Ky. App. LEXIS 141 (Ky. Ct. App. 1994).

In determining whether a request for certain public records constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of person privacy under KRS 61.878(1)(a), the court must first determine whether the subject information is of a “personal nature” and if it finds it is a must then determine whether public disclosure “would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.” This latter determination entails a “comparative weighing of antagonistic interests” in which the privacy interest in nondisclosure is balanced against the general rule of inspection and its underlying policy of openness for the public good. Zink v. Department of Workers’ Claims, Labor Cabinet, 902 S.W.2d 825, 1994 Ky. App. LEXIS 141 (Ky. Ct. App. 1994).

Unredacted copies of final settlement agreements which showed payments made by government in connection with lawsuits against the police department were not covered by the privacy exception contained in subdivision (1)(a) of this section even though two (2) or three (3) of the agreements contained confidentiality clauses whereby settlement recipients and their attorneys agreed not to disclose the terms of the agreements. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Gov’t v. Lexington Herald-Leader Co., 941 S.W.2d 469, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 38 (Ky. 1997).

The trial court did not err by finding that individual property owners’ privacy interests outweighed the negligible public interest in releasing individualized valuation information regarding unclaimed property and that disclosure of such information as requested by the appellant would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Hines v. Commonwealth, 41 S.W.3d 872, 2001 Ky. App. LEXIS 39 (Ky. Ct. App. 2001).

Complaint against police officer, charging specific acts of misconduct while on duty, presented a matter of unique public interest; while the allegations were of a personal nature, their disclosure would not constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of the officer’s privacy and, therefore, be exempt from public disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(a). Palmer v. Driggers, 60 S.W.3d 591, 2001 Ky. App. LEXIS 1165 (Ky. Ct. App. 2001).

As the status of a public university’s foundation as a public entity under KRS 61.870 had not been clearly established, it was reasonable for donors to the foundation who requested anonymity to expect their request to be honored. Therefore, a newspaper was properly denied access to donor identities and the amounts of their donations under Kentucky’s Open Records Act. Cape Pub’ns, Inc. v. Univ. of Louisville Found., Inc., 260 S.W.3d 818, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 176 (Ky. 2008).

Future donors to the University of Louisville Foundation are on notice that their gifts are being made to a public institution and, therefore, are subject to disclosure under KRS 61.871 regardless of any requests for anonymity. Cape Pub’ns, Inc. v. Univ. of Louisville Found., Inc., 260 S.W.3d 818, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 176 (Ky. 2008).

Names of donors to a public university’s foundation who had not requested anonymity were subject to the disclosure requirement of KRS 61.871, as the foundation was a public entity under KRS 61.870, and the donors had no reasonable expectation of privacy. Cape Pub’ns, Inc. v. Univ. of Louisville Found., Inc., 260 S.W.3d 818, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 176 (Ky. 2008).

Proffer given to the Kentucky Office of the Attorney General relating to a company’s business practices was not exempt from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(a) because disclosure did not amount to a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy; the proffer was not inherently personal. Moreover, there was a diminished expectation of privacy in the information that was given since it was known that it could have been used in future civil or criminal litigation. Lawson v. Office of the Atty., 2012 Ky. App. LEXIS 44 (Ky. Ct. App. Mar. 2, 2012), aff’d, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

Lower courts properly found that the witnesses, victims, and uncharged suspects referred to in the police department’s arrest and incident reports, adults and juveniles alike, had privacy interests in addresses, phone numbers, social security numbers, and driver’s license numbers that implicated KRS 61.878(1)(a) given that citizens had more than a de minimus interest in the confidentiality of such information. Ky. New Era v. City of Hopkinsville, 415 S.W.3d 76, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 644 (Ky. 2013).

Newspaper’s unsupported speculation that the victims, witnesses, and uncharged suspects referred to in the police department’s arrest and incident reports may have shed light on police misconduct did not outweigh those citizens’ substantial privacy interests. Ky. New Era v. City of Hopkinsville, 415 S.W.3d 76, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 644 (Ky. 2013).

Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.878(1)(a) did not permit the withholding of the entire internal affairs files, but disclosure of information that was personal in nature, such as social security numbers, was prohibited and constituted an unwarranted invasion of privacy. Commonwealth v. Trageser, 600 S.W.3d 749, 2020 Ky. App. LEXIS 52 (Ky. Ct. App. 2020).

11. Standardized Tests.

Open Records Act did not authorize court to order standardized examination to be available for viewing by parents; the discretion given to courts under that act is not unbridled, and in the case of an examination, the individual’s interest must be balanced against the interest of the state in protecting the integrity of the examination. Triplett v. Livingston County Bd. of Educ., 967 S.W.2d 25, 1997 Ky. App. LEXIS 74 (Ky. Ct. App. 1997), cert. denied, 525 U.S. 1104, 119 S. Ct. 870, 142 L. Ed. 2d 771, 1999 U.S. LEXIS 599 (U.S. 1999).

12. Nonexempt Information.

State university’s response to inquiry by collegiate athletic association into rules violation was not exempt from disclosure under Open Records Act exemption for public records. It is clear that the university is a “public agency” and the entire response submitted by the university to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) constitutes a public record. Where the university spent over $400,000.00 for the response and the public has a legitimate interest in its contents, the response is not exempt. Furthermore, the contents of the response are a matter of public interest and release would not constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. University of Kentucky v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 830 S.W.2d 373, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 55 (Ky. 1992).

Litigation exception found in Open Records Act did not apply to disclosure of the specifics of settlement agreements made between local police department and litigants suing department, since such settlements were merely negotiated by counsel and not in closed meetings. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Gov't v. Lexington Herald-Leader Co., 941 S.W.2d 469, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 38 (Ky. 1997).

13. Prosecutorial File.

The Open Records Act neither intends nor provides that a convicted criminal should have complete access to the prosecutorial file once his conviction has been affirmed on direct appeal. Skaggs v. Redford, 844 S.W.2d 389, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 164 (Ky. 1992), overruled in part, City of Fort Thomas v. Cincinnati Enquirer, 406 S.W.3d 842, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 375 (Ky. 2013).

General Assembly mandated the non-disclosure of exempt records, a mandate the person or entity whose interest the exemption protects may seek to enforce in the circuit court; disclosure of an exempt record is not precluded if the intended beneficiaries waive their right to non-disclosure, and the statutory mandate that prosecutorial files be and remain totally exempt accords the prosecutor an unlimited discretion to deny disclosure, but it does not preclude him or her from allowing it. Lawson v. Office of the AG, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

It was proper to refuse to enjoin the Attorney General from disclosing a statement an owner gave because the breach of Transportation Cabinet contracting regulations and the Attorney General's response remained matters of sufficient public interest to warrant an invasion of the owner's limited interest in keeping his account under wraps; the possibility of a limited amount of purely personal information does not justify the blanket non-disclosure of a record with substantial public import. Lawson v. Office of the AG, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

14. — Ongoing Enforcement Action.

The defense of a prospective habeas corpus proceedings was part of the "law enforcement action" in the defendant's case; therefore, the records in the Commonwealth's Attorney's prosecution file fall within the provisions of subdivision (1)(g) of this section, as public records exempted until after enforcement action is completed. Skaggs v. Redford, 844 S.W.2d 389, 1992 Ky. LEXIS 164 (Ky. 1992), overruled in part, City of Fort Thomas v. Cincinnati Enquirer, 406 S.W.3d 842, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 375 (Ky. 2013).

15. Standing to Contest Agency Decision.

A party affected by the decision of a public agency to release records pursuant to the Kentucky Open Records Act had standing to contest the agency decision in court where the disclosure of information in the public record would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Beckham v. Board of Educ., 873 S.W.2d 575, 1994 Ky. LEXIS 22 (Ky. 1994).

16. Private Corporation.

17. — Financial Information.

The confidential audited financial reports of privately owned, corporate marina operators were exempt from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(c)1. The Legislative Program Review and Investigation Committee could not obtain nor disclose such records under the Open Records Act, but could obtain access to them for its use in evaluation pursuant to KRS 6.910 without disclosure to the public. Marina Management Servs. v. Cabinet for Tourism, Dep't of Parks, 906 S.W.2d 318, 1995 Ky. LEXIS 62 (Ky. 1995).

Because the Supreme Court is guided by the principle that under general rules of statutory construction it may not interpret a statute at variance with its stated language, the stated language of subdivision (1)(c)2.b. of this section seems quite clear: an entity seeking tax credits pursuant to KRS Chapter 154 need not disclose confidential information submitted in applying for such credits. Hoy v. Kentucky Indus. Revitalization Auth., 907 S.W.2d 766, 1995 Ky. LEXIS 125 (Ky. 1995).

Since corporation sought investment tax credits through Kentucky Industry Revitalization Authority (KIRA) which was established by and administered through KRS Chapter 154 and the information submitted by corporation to KIRA was done in conjunction with said application for the tax credits and since by amending the Open Records Act, specifically KRS 61.878(1)(C)2.b., to include documents submitted pursuant to KRS Chapter 154, it is evident that the Legislature sought to protect those companies which participate in the revitalization and development of industry in Kentucky, such documents were exempt from disclosure. Hoy v. Kentucky Indus. Revitalization Auth., 907 S.W.2d 766, 1995 Ky. LEXIS 125 (Ky. 1995).

The financial information required to be submitted by corporation in its application to Kentucky Industrial Revitalization Authority (KIRA) that detailed the company's business and revitalization project and included such information as a financial history of the corporation, a projected cost of the project, the specific amount and timing of capital investment, copies of financial statements and a detailed description of the company's productivity, efficiency and financial stability concerning the inner workings of the corporation is "generally recognized as confidential or proprietary" and falls within the wording of KRS 61.878(1)(c)2.b. Hoy v. Kentucky Indus. Revitalization Auth., 907 S.W.2d 766, 1995 Ky. LEXIS 125 (Ky. 1995).

18. Civil Litigation.

The statute does not exempt or exclude all records from the open records disclosure in favor of discovery in litigation or anticipated litigation cases, but limits the release of records specifically listed in subsection (1) to those records which parties can obtain through a court order; the gist of this wording is not to terminate a person's right to use an open records request during litigation, but to limit a court on an open records request on excluded records to those records that could be authorized through a court order on a request for discovery under the Rules of Civil Procedure governing pre-trial discovery. Ky. Lottery Corp. v. Stewart, 41 S.W.3d 860, 2001 Ky. App. LEXIS 18 (Ky. Ct. App. 2001).

Trial court properly granted summary judgment in favor of a doctor as to a patient's medical negligence claim because she could not compel involuntary testimony from an expert working for the Board of Medical Licensure even if it amounted to his preliminary recommendations, and preliminary memoranda in which his opinions were expressed for use by the Board. Pringle v. South, 2020 Ky. App. LEXIS 56 (Ky. Ct. App. May 8, 2020).

19. Statistical Information.

A county school system was required to release statistical information relating to student disciplinary hearings without redacting the particular school and offense that appeared on those records, while redacting all information that would reveal any personal characteristics of the student, including name or age, or information that would reasonably lead to identification of the student. Hardin County Schs v. Foster, 40 S.W.3d 865, 2001 Ky. LEXIS 45 (Ky. 2001).

20. Public Agency Employees.

KRS 61.878(1), specifically directing that no court shall authorize the inspection by any party of any materials pertaining to civil litigation beyond that which is provided by the Rules of Civil Procedure governing pretrial discovery, overrides the provisions of KRS 61.878(3), dealing with the rights of a public agency employee, including a university employee, to inspect and to copy any record that relates to him. Hahn v. Univ. of Louisville, 80 S.W.3d 771, 2001 Ky. App. LEXIS 84 (Ky. Ct. App. 2001).

Where a school district employee settled her lawsuit against one school district for sexual harassment by a district official and a second lawsuit against another district for allegedly wrongfully failing to hire her, the lower courts erred in denying a newspaper's request for access to the settlement agreements under the Kentucky Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 to 61.884, because the settlement of litigation between a government agency and one of its employees and a private citizen and a governmental entity were matters of legitimate public concern that the public is entitled to scrutinize. A confidentiality clause in such agreements was not entitled to protection. Cent. Ky. News-Journal v. George, 306 S.W.3d 41, 2010 Ky. LEXIS 72 (Ky. 2010).

21. Illustrative Cases.

Substantial evidence did not support a Circuit Court's finding that, under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), 20 USCS § 1232g, and the Kentucky Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), KRS 160.700 et seq., a teacher had no legitimate educational interest in viewing videotape recordings of her own classroom. The case was remanded for a hearing to determine whether her request under the Kentucky Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 et seq., was made pursuant to a legitimate educational interest as defined by FERPA and KFERPA. Medley v. Bd. of Educ., 168 S.W.3d 398, 2004 Ky. App. LEXIS 305 (Ky. Ct. App. 2004).

District Court vacated the denial of a transit authority's motion for summary judgment on two employees' defamation claims because the Kentucky Open Records Act required release of the documents at issue; because the employees were not required to grieve their terminations, the disciplinary actions taken by their manager could have been the final action and, therefore, KRS 61.878 did not exempt the records from the requirements of the Act. Because the Act applied, the transit authority was required by law to release the documents. Burgess v. Paducah Area Transit Auth., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 54136 (W.D. Ky. Aug. 2, 2006).

Disclosure of records arguably containing information of a private nature about a former state cabinet official and lobbyist was required by the Kentucky Open Records Act because the public's interest in inspection greatly outweighed any privacy interest that may have existed; thus, the privacy interest exception in KRS 61.878(1)(a) was inapplicable. Doe v. Conway, 357 S.W.3d 505, 2010 Ky. App. LEXIS 221 (Ky. Ct. App. 2010).

Although the former employees alleged that the general manager's production of the disciplinary action forms in response to a record request was actionable because, at least as to two employees, the forms contained untrue statements about the employees acting dishonestly when they examined confidential information on the employer's computer system without permission following one of the employee's discharge, the general manager's decisions to discharge the employees were not conditional and did not need the board of directors' approval; the general manager had the authority to terminate employees, and the terminations represented his final action. That the discharges could potentially have been set aside by the board during the grievance hearing did not transform the disciplinary action forms into preliminary drafts, notes, or correspondence. Burgess v. Paducah Area Transit Auth., 387 Fed. Appx. 538, 2010 FED App. 0421N, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 14384 (6th Cir. Ky. 2010).

Prosecution against a manslaughter victim's wife was incomplete and any law enforcement records exempt under KRS 61.878(1)(h) were not yet subject to disclosure. The wife had three years, from the date of the final judgment, to file a motion to vacate, set aside, or correct her sentence under RCr P. 11.42. Cincinnati Enquirer v. City of Fort Thomas, 2011 Ky. App. LEXIS 202 (Ky. Ct. App. Oct. 21, 2011).

Because records that identified registered payers of utility license tax easily could be redacted to comply with privacy requirements and a state website did not provide an alternative remedy, the records were not exempt from open records disclosure after redaction; moreover, the evidence supported a finding that the documents requested were maintained. Dep't of Revenue v. Eifler, 436 S.W.3d 530, 2013 Ky. App. LEXIS 140 (Ky. Ct. App. 2013).

When a newspaper sought a police department's entire file in a murder case, the file was not categorically exempt due to the potential that the defendant in the murder case would collaterally attack the defendant's conviction, due to the file's relation to a prospective law enforcement action, because, inter alia, the exemption in KRS 61.878(1)(h) was properly invoked only when a record's release, due to the record's content, posed more than a hypothetical risk of harm. City of Fort Thomas v. Cincinnati Enquirer, 406 S.W.3d 842, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 375 (Ky. 2013).

When a newspaper sought a police department's entire file in a murder case, the file was not categorically exempt due to the potential that the defendant in the murder case would collaterally attack the defendant's conviction, due to the file's relation to a prospective law enforcement action, because, inter alia, a city made no attempt to identify potentially exempt material in the file. City of Fort Thomas v. Cincinnati Enquirer, 406 S.W.3d 842, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 375 (Ky. 2013).

When a newspaper sought a police department's entire file in a murder case, the file was not categorically exempt due to the potential that the defendant in the murder case would collaterally attack the defendant's conviction, due to the file's relation to a prospective law enforcement action, because, inter alia, Skaggs v. Redford, exempting a prosecutor's litigation file from disclosure, did not apply to the police department's file. City of Fort Thomas v. Cincinnati Enquirer, 406 S.W.3d 842, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 375 (Ky. 2013).

Law enforcement exemption in KRS 61.878(1)(h) is appropriately invoked only when an agency can articulate a factual basis for applying the exemption when, because of a record's content, the record's release poses a concrete risk of harm to the agency in a prospective action, which must be something more than a hypothetical or speculative concern. City of Fort Thomas v. Cincinnati Enquirer, 406 S.W.3d 842, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 375 (Ky. 2013).

University had yet to fulfill its statutory responsibilities under the Kentucky Open Records Act because it had not separated the exempt from the nonexempt records, redacted any personally identifying information or provided sufficient proof that the records were exempt under the Open Records Act through a proper index. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) did not bar a university from releasing to a newspaper all records sought under the Open Records Act because, while FERPA barred release of unredacted education records contained in a Title IX investigation file, not all the records sought were education records directly relating to a student. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

Company's interest in relocating was extensively publicized, and this publicity amounted to a public disclosure of the company's interest in relocating within the Commonwealth, such that the exception to disclosure under Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.878(1)(d) did not apply. Louisville/Jefferson Cty. Metro

Gov't v. Courier-Journal, Inc., 605 S.W.3d 72, 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 147 (Ky. Ct. App. 2019).

Business's proposal lost its status as preliminary and therefore the exemption in Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.878(1)(i), (j) did not apply; the proposal was merely an offer submitted in response to the company's request, and the proposal remained subject to additional negotiation and approval by other agencies. However, once the company excluded the business from its list of finalists, the proposal was no longer subject to change, and thus the final action occurred at that point. Louisville/Jefferson Cty. Metro Gov't v. Courier-Journal, Inc., 605 S.W.3d 72, 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 147 (Ky. Ct. App. 2019).

22. Standing To Invoke Exemption.

Owner of a company did not have standing to invoke the exemption contained in subsection (1)(h), because he was not among the class of persons that exemption was intended to protect; the exemption is addressed to county and Commonwealth attorneys, not private citizens, and is intended to shield prosecutors from disclosures potentially harmful to their informants or their prosecutions and from the cost, inconvenience, and disruption that compliance would visit upon their offices. Lawson v. Office of the AG, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

Standing to assert the exemptions of the Kentucky Open Records Act is limited to those persons or entities the particular exemption was meant to protect; the privacy exemption was clearly intended to protect individuals from unwarranted disclosures of personal information lodged, for whatever reason, in the government's files. Lawson v. Office of the AG, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

NOTES TO UNPUBLISHED DECISIONS

1. Illustrative Cases.

Unpublished decision: Department of Revenue was required to produce for inspection redacted copies of its final rulings because the production of the material a tax attorney and tax analysts sought was required by the Open Records Act; the Department's final rulings contained information related to its reasoning and analysis with respect to its task in administration of the tax laws, and that information could be made available without jeopardizing taxpayers' privacy interests under the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights. Fin. & Admin. Cabinet v. Sommer, 2017 Ky. App. LEXIS 9 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 13, 2017, sub. op., 2017 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 624 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 13, 2017).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Appraisals of real estate to be purchased with public funds are not required to be made available to the news media. OAG 76-223.

In order to prevent misuse of the files of the Kentucky Heritage Commission which contain detailed information about historic buildings and sites by "pot hunters" who are trying to locate archeological sites which they can dig and loot which will destroy such sites for scientific study and by thieves and vandals who may utilize the files on privately owned historical buildings as a shopping list, the Commission is legally authorized to adopt regulations which will prevent public inspection of specific portions of its files under subsections (1)(a), (g) and (h) of this section. OAG 76-367.

Since interviews given to the Oral History Commission are made under agreement between the commission and the interviewee that the tapes will be handled in a certain manner including refusing access to the public for a certain number of years, such tape record is preliminary in nature and will not be a final public record until such time as provided in the agreement and is therefore under the exception provided for in subsection (1)(g) of this section. OAG 76-419.

Records of comprehensive care centers which directly or indirectly identify a patient or former patient are confidential and exempt from public inspection. OAG 76-420.

Divorce suit records do not come within the exception provided for by subsection (1)(a) of this section or any other exception provided for in this section. OAG 76-431.

All the records of the police department are subject to public inspection unless they are specifically exempted by a statute and there is no statute which exempts police accident reports from public inspection. OAG 76-478.

The law exempts data on the accounts of individual members of the Kentucky Retirement System from the Open Records Act and, therefore, information about a member's account is confidential and need not be subject to public inspection without a court order. OAG 76-479.

An agency need report the denial of an inspection of a public record only when the requester demands more information from the public record than the agency is willing to reveal. OAG 76-488.

There is no practical or legal reason why an agency should send a copy of its response to a request for personnel information to the Attorney General unless the correspondence states that the inspection of a public record is being denied because of a specific exemption in this section. OAG 76-488.

The classes of records kept by a county judge/executive, county clerk or circuit county clerk which are made confidential by statute and exempt from public inspection under the Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 to 61.884 are records pertaining to adoption made confidential by KRS 199.570(1), records pertaining to a juvenile which have been ordered expunged by the juvenile court judge as provided by KRS 208.275 (now repealed) and records of the juvenile court disclosing disposition of a juvenile's case; all other records kept in the courthouse are subject to public inspection under the Open Records Law. OAG 76-493, modified by OAG 77-26.

Since police arrest records do not contain information of a personal nature a city police department cannot withhold inspection of a client's arrest record from an attorney. OAG 76-511.

A listing of names and addresses of horse owners preparatory to a census of the state horse industry would be exempt from public disclosure, but any completed list would not be provided any exemption. OAG 76-512.

The detailed line item proposed budget for the Jefferson County School System for the fiscal year 1976-1977, call the "budget book," should be open to public inspection and the public should have access to the revisions made therein since the official nature of the budget book removes it from the classification of a preliminary draft or a preliminary recommendation and thus it does not come within the exemptions of subsections (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 76-551.

The names of persons transported by a county ambulance service may be kept confidential as an exception to the Open Records Law under subsection (1)(a) of this section. OAG 76-568.

A document containing a list of restrictions which a city was considering as a precondition to the rezoning of certain property was exempt under the provisions of the Open Records Law, KRS 61.870 to 61.884, under the exemptions provided by subsection (1)(g) and (h) of this section since such document is a preliminary draft or recommendation coming into existence in the course of business of a public agency. OAG 76-584.

A prospective employer, except the Kentucky Department of Personnel, may not be given a copy of the records pertaining to a prospective employee from the files of the centralized criminal history system since subsection (4) of KRS 17.150 provides that such records are not subject to public inspection. OAG 76-604, modified by OAG 77-28.

A prospective employer may not be given a copy of the records pertaining to a prospective employee from the files of the centralized criminal history system since subsection (4) of KRS 17.150 provides that such records are not subject to public inspection; however, since the Open Records Law mandates the sharing of information among departments of state government when the exchange is serving a legitimate governmental need and since the Criminal History Act incorporates the provisions of the Open Records Law, a criminal history check on prospective state employees should be provided at the request of the Department of Personnel. OAG 76-604, modified by OAG 77-28.

Since the city audit request contained information which, if prematurely released, would have impeded effective law enforcement because it revealed the possibility that violations of statutory and/or regulatory provisions of the law may have been or were being committed in the operation of the agency the immediate release of such audit would be denied under subsection (1)(f) of this section. OAG 76-633.

Inspection of the record pertaining to a complaint filed against a person involving an alleged zoning violation was improperly withheld from public inspection under the exception set forth in subsection (1)(f) of this section regarding identity of informants since no such informant was involved in the matter for the mere fact that a person who voluntarily informs of a violation of the law does not make him an informer and since zoning violations are prevailing conditions which can be proven by objective evidence. OAG 76-650.

Where some of the land which must be acquired for a flood control project has not yet been acquired by negotiation or condemnation, the appraisals on all of the property to be acquired for the project are exempt from inspection until all of the property has been acquired. OAG 76-656, affirmed by OAG 85-79.

The report of an investigation of a metropolitan department of corrections by a field investigator for the county human relations commission would be exempt from public inspection where the document contained the investigator's opinions which were derived from interviews with various individuals and which were directed toward the formulation of policy. OAG 76-692.

Although the public is entitled to know the name, position, work station and salary of a state employee, the social security number and the home address of the employee are confidential and thus exempt from public disclosure. OAG 76-717.

Disclosure of the disposition of a juvenile's case may not be made to the public. OAG 77-26.

Property record cards on which taxpayers list all their real and personal property and which are filed in the property valuation administrator's office would constitute public records containing information of a personal nature, the public disclosure of which would be an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 77-99.

Under the exemption to open inspection provided by this section, a state university could properly refuse the request of an instructor to inspect her annual evaluations. OAG 77-394.

There is no authority under this section for a county health department to deny access to restaurant inspection records or to attempt to place restrictions on their use. OAG 77-585.

Detailed reports by hotels and motels of their occupancy and gross revenues which are filed with the county department of finance are confidential and therefore would be exempt from open inspection. OAG 77-586.

A statement made to the police concerning alleged incidents of sexual abuse at an institutional home would be exempt from public inspection as long as an investigation is in process and the decision on enforcement is pending. OAG 77-633.

The salaries of city employees would not be exempt from public disclosure under the provision protecting information of a personal nature. OAG 77-723.

Under this section a person would be entitled to inspect documents of a regional planning and development agency concerning the agency's current budget, staff job descriptions and salaries of all employees. OAG 77-726.

Preliminary memoranda in which opinions were expressed were exempted under subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 78-133.

The custodian of the registration and circulation records of a public library is not required to make such records available for public inspection under the Open Records Law since subsection (1)(a) of this section prohibits disclosure which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, and an individual's privacy rights as to what he borrows from a public library, such as books, motion pictures, periodicals or any other matter is overwhelming and there is no countervailing public interest to be considered; however, since Kentucky has no privacy statute, the exceptions to mandatory disclosure of public records is permissive and no law is violated if they are not observed by the custodian. OAG 81-159.

Where a person who believes himself to be under surveillance makes a request under the Open Records Law as to whether he is under surveillance, whether his phone was tapped, and whether there was a court order on record, the police department could properly exclude any records of police surveillance from the requirement of mandatory disclosure under subsection (1)(f) of this section, which prevents disclosure of information which will be used in a prospective law enforcement action; under subsection (1)(g) of this section, which excludes preliminary drafts, notes and correspondence with private individuals; under subsection (1)(h), which excludes preliminary memoranda which express opinions or policies; and under subsection (1)(j), which excludes public information which the general assembly has made confidential, with subsection (1)(j) applying because subsection (2) of KRS 17.150 excludes certain information contained in intelligence and investigative reports maintained by criminal justice agencies; further, there is no need for the police to respond to make any indication of whether any such records in fact exist. OAG 81-161.

The cost estimates which a community development department rehabilitation counselor figures for individual loans to prospective applicants before loan approval is made are exempt from the mandatory requirement of public inspection, since such papers are preliminary drafts, notes and memoranda in which opinions are expressed in the form of cost estimates and thus are exempt under subsections (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 81-239.

Where a requester seeks laboratory work sheets dealing with industrial waste in a sewer district, such information was statistical data as the result of scientific measurements and tests rather than preliminary data in the sense used in the exemptions provided in subsections (1)(g) and (h) of this section; thus, the information is not exempt from disclosure, even though the wastewater constituents of a particular private industry would be useful information for the industry's competitors to have, since the information was gathered by sewer district employees rather than voluntarily supplied by the industry. OAG 81-246.

Where information sought by a requester was compiled in connection with a lawsuit and thus would be privileged as lawyer-client work product, the information can properly be withheld from public inspection by subsection (1)(j) of this section since it would be subject to the discovery rules created by the courts. OAG 81-246.

OAG 81-285.

Records held by the city finance director which show the total amount of the city payroll tax received by the city from a medical center are not exempt from public disclosure since the total amount of payroll tax paid by an employer is not exempt under KRS 131.190, as records of individual employee payroll tax would be, so that records of total payroll tax would not be exempt under subsection (1)(j) of this section, and similarly, the fact that such records are made confidential by a city ordinance would not prevent disclosure under subsection (1) of this section. OAG 81-286.

A report made to a state university by an accounting firm concerning charges made against a university official is a public record, not exempt by this section and should therefore be made available for public inspection. OAG 81-291.

Documents which consist of business records of a state university, including purchase requisitions, bills, purchase orders and a purchase contract, and which were used by the university attorney in preparing charges to be brought before the university board, were public records and not exempt from disclosure under this section. OAG 81-291.

The records of a law firm hired to investigate charges brought against a state university official are not public records, but rather are the work product of the attorneys of that firm, and, since such work product is confidential under a rule promulgated pursuant to KRS 447.154, they are exempt from disclosure by subsection (1)(j) of this section as records made confidential by enactment of the general assembly. OAG 81-291.

A community development department cannot deny the inspection of public records which disclose the names, addresses, and phone numbers of individuals on the waiting list for various loans from the department since subsection (1)(a) of this section does not warrant concealing this information, because an individual who applies for a loan of public money cannot expect the fact of his application to be kept private. OAG 81-305.

City records which will disclose the names of employers who are delinquent in paying occupational taxes are open to public inspection, since a city is a public agency and is subject to the provisions of the Open Records Law and, even though KRS 131.190 prohibits the disclosure of information from tax records "insofar as the information may have to do with the affairs of the person's business", it does not prohibit the disclosure of the fact that a person is delinquent in paying his taxes, for although tax records cannot be made totally available because of the restrictions of KRS 131.190, non-exempt information can and must be made available under subsection (3) of this section. OAG 81-309.

When a public record contains information of an excepted and non-excepted nature, the public agency can provide access to the non-excepted material either by (1) providing a copy of the record with the excepted material blotted out or deleted, or (2) by providing a list which it has created stating the non-excepted information as derived from the records in its files. OAG 81-309.

The custodian of municipal records may not respond to a request made under the Open Records Law by placing an "x" by the typed statement: "The records requested are exempted by law from mandatory disclosure" on a form letter since a form letter does not meet the specific statement requirement of KRS 61.880 and because the custodian did not cite any specific exemption in this section which would apply to the material requested. OAG 81-345.

The resignation letters of three (3) city policemen would not be exempted from disclosure by subsection (1)(a) of this section, since it only applies to matters which have absolutely no connection with public business or employment. OAG 81-345.

Police departments, which are required to maintain daily logs of arrests pursuant to KRS 17.150, must make all such records, except for intelligence and investigative reports during pre-prosecution periods, available for public inspection. OAG 81-379.

Since police arrest records are not exempted by the Open Records Law, no official has the authority to withhold the records from public inspection and a mayor could not bar reporters from access to logs of arrest or from publishing information therein; since a Mayor is not the custodian of the police records he has no jurisdiction over such records in any event. OAG 81-379.

Records which disclose the names of persons who are inmates of the county jail are not exempt from public disclosure under the personal privacy exemption of subsection (1)(a) of this section since it is contrary to the principles of personal liberty for persons to be secretly held in jail and the embarrassment caused to them or to members of their family is of secondary importance; moreover, the strict construction rule contained in subsection (4) of KRS 61.882 requires disclosure regardless of inconvenience or embarrassment caused to anyone. OAG 81-395.

It was improper for the registrar of vital statistics to deny a request to inspect all death certificates and death verification certificates in the possession or control of a county health department based upon the privacy exemption under subsection (1)(a) of this section; the exemption pertains only to "personal privacy", and that term applies only to the living. OAG 81-400.

Information concerning battered children which is received by the Bureau (now Department) of Social Services is statutorily restricted and confidential under subsection (9) to KRS 199.335 (now repealed); accordingly, it would be exempt from disclosure to a newspaper by subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 82-39.

Nothing in subdivision (1)(f) of this section would justify making an entire police log secret from the public; if any item in the log on a particular date is withheld from public disclosure because revealing the item would be harmful to law enforcement, the custodian has the burden of showing that the item is being properly withheld for that reason. OAG 82-70.

The log of a county dispatch service is not exempt from disclosure under this section, although the dispatch service may adopt a policy of not disclosing the names of ambulance transportees. OAG 82-70.

A custodian of records is not exposed to any penalty if he allows inspections of records which could be withheld from inspection under one of the exceptions in subsection (1) of this section since the Open Records Law does not prohibit inspection of records which are exempt from the mandatory disclosure requirement and the exceptions are only permissive. OAG 82-70.

The proceedings of the morbidity and mortality committee of the department of surgery at a university hospital are made confidential by KRS 311.377; accordingly, the university custodian of records properly denied inspection of records of those proceedings pursuant to subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 82-99.

All libraries may refuse to disclose for public inspection their circulation records. As far as the Open Records Law is concerned, they may also make the records open if they so choose; however, the privacy rights which are inherent in a democratic society should constrain all libraries to keep their circulation lists confidential. OAG 82-149.

No person can demand as a matter of right to inspect the circulation records of any type of library — school, public, academic or special — under the Open Records Law. OAG 82-149.

Generally, the contracts, vouchers, and other business records of a public agency are open to public inspection under the Kentucky Open Records Law. OAG 82-169.

The contract or contracts between a county board of education, which was involved in litigation, and its attorneys should be made available for public inspection; although such a contract might not be discoverable under court rules, contracts of public agencies must be openly made and available for inspection by the public and knowledge of the terms of such contracts would not hinder the agency in the prosecution of its law suits. OAG 82-169.

Where a county board of education was involved in litigation, the records of payments made to attorneys, bills and statements submitted to the board by its attorneys, and unprivileged communications between the board and its attorneys need not be made available for public inspection except by order of a court of competent jurisdiction and the Jefferson County board of education acted properly in denying inspection of said records. OAG 82-169.

Whether the litigation is civil or criminal, as long as it involves a public agency seeking to enforce the law in the public interest, subdivision (1)(f) of this section exempts from mandatory public inspection any records which will reveal information which will hinder the agency in prosecuting the litigation; once the litigation is completed, or otherwise terminated, the record should be made available for public inspection unless otherwise exempted by law. OAG 82-169.

A transcript of an informal hearing where testimony of witnesses was heard was not of a confidential meeting or conversation between employees and Department of Labor (now Labor Cabinet) compliance officers, but was rather an informal meeting between employees and management officials, was not considered to be confidential, and did not fall within any of the exceptions to the Open Records Law. OAG 82-192.

It is not sufficient to cite an administrative regulation as a reason for denying the inspection of a record because a public agency does not have the authority to make records confidential by regulation; the exception relied on to preclude inspection must be one of the exceptions provided in subsection (1) of this section. OAG 82-192.

The term "question privately" in KRS 338.101, which authorizes the Commissioner (now Secretary) of Labor to inspect working places, makes any statement taken from an employee, or other person authorized to be questioned by the statute, confidential, and, as such, it is exempted from mandatory public disclosure by subdivision (1)(j) of this section; accordingly, the Department of Labor (now Labor Cabinet) properly denied inspection of the statements of witnesses, taken in private interviews, concerning a fatal injury of a worker. OAG 82-192.

University officials properly withheld inspection of the personnel file of the requester, which included letters of evaluation by faculty members, because the university is entitled to protect the privacy of the faculty members who wrote the letters of evaluation and because the letters contained preliminary recommendations and preliminary memoranda in which opinions were expressed; such faculty letters were exempt from inspection under subdivisions (1)(a) and (1)(h) of this section. OAG 82-204.

Where a state university committee filed a letter with a dean concerning the promotion and tenure of a certain professor and the letter contained the advice and recommendation of the committee, the letter was exempt from the mandatory requirement of public inspection and could be withheld from the professor's inspection under either subdivision (1)(a) or (1)(h) of this section. OAG 82-211.

Ideas and operating techniques that have been devised by firms or individuals, and which are not required to be disclosed by KRS 367.805, come under the exemptions provided by subdivision (1)(b) of this section. OAG 82-215.

Since a public agency is required to make records available for inspection without regard to the purpose for which the requester wants to see the record, an agency should have a definite policy as to when it will invoke one or more of the exemptions in this section. In other words, the exemption should be invoked according to the nature of the record and not according to the person who is requesting the inspection or the stated or suspected purpose of the inspection. OAG 82-233.

The exemptions in the Open Records Law, set forth in this section, are inoperative as to records containing the information required under KRS 367.805(1). Any additional information gathered by the Division of Consumer Protection, however, in the course of the registration procedures of KRS 367.801 et seq. may be exempt from mandatory disclosure if it is covered by one (1) of the exemptions in this section. OAG 82-215.

On a payroll voucher, the name of the person being paid and the gross pay to that person is not exempt from public disclosure. However, other information on the voucher, such as withholding for taxes, insurance, retirement, credit union, bonds, charitable contributions and annuities are items which come under the exemptions provided by subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 82-233.

The exemptions from mandatory disclosure provided by this section are permissive and no law is violated when exempted material is made accessible to the public. A public agency, however, has the right, as a matter of policy, to refuse access to exempted material and may separate exempted material from the nonexempted. OAG 82-233.

A person's name is personal but it is the least private thing about him; and therefore, the name of a person should not be deleted from a public record unless there is some special reason provided by statute or court order (i.e., adoption records). OAG 82-234.

On a birth certificate, the mother's mailing address is private and may be blotted out, as may items dealing with complications of pregnancy and concurrent illness or conditions affecting the pregnancy. OAG 82-234.

The blotting out of some information on a form such as a certificate of live birth is permissible under subsection (3) of this section; however, information on a public form which is not exempted by a specific statute or by one of the exemptions provided by this section cannot be blotted out before the record is made available for inspection. OAG 82-234.

The full name of the mother, the father and the child cannot be deleted from a birth certificate before inspection. OAG 82-234.

The purpose for which a person seeks access to a public record is not relevant to the Open Records Law, and a public agency has no right to inquire as to the purpose for the inspection and copying of the record. Any inspection request form which requires the statement of the purpose of inspection is contrary to the law. OAG 82-234.

Complaints made to the Kentucky state Board of Medical Licensure by individual members of the public and by other doctors may be withheld from public inspection as correspondence with private individuals under subdivision (1)(g) of this section. OAG 82-263.

Documents containing complaints made to the Kentucky state Board of Medical Licensure from other state agencies, such as the Department (now Cabinet) for Human Resources, come under the exception of subdivision (1)(h) of this section; although exception (1)(h) is usually interpreted as applying to intra-office memoranda, in a proper case it can also be applied to inter-office communications of a preliminary nature and which only suggest or request that an investigation be made by the receiving office. OAG 82-263.

The Board of Medical Licensure may decline to allow access to documents connected with a complaint received by the Board, which documents were never used in a formal complaint against a licensee. OAG 82-263.

A request for records of the proceedings of a hospital committee of the University of Kentucky's Medical Center relating to "a nineteen-year-old girl who had her colon removed in an operation at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, and which after the removal of the colon it was revealed that the colon was normal in all respects" did not describe the records sufficiently for the custodian to be required to produce them. OAG 82-269.

The right of privacy involved in hospital records belongs to the patient, not to the medical center; if the patient consents to disclosure of the records of the case, inspection must be allowed except as to records which are made confidential by KRS 311.377(2). OAG 82-269.

Deferred compensation deductions from the pay checks of public employees are information of a personal nature where the public disclosure thereof would constitute clearly an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy and as such they come under the exemption in subdivision (1)(a) of this section. The Treasury Department can adopt a policy of withholding such information from all requesters. OAG 82-275.

Exemptions to the mandatory open records requirement provided by subdivision (1) of this section are permissive and not mandatory. A public agency can adopt a policy of not allowing inspection of exempt records but no law is violated if the exemption is ignored and the records are released. OAG 82-275.

If an agency withholds from inspection records which are exempt from mandatory disclosure, it should do so by a consistent policy and should treat all requests the same regardless of who the requester may be. OAG 82-275.

No law is violated if the Treasury Department releases information concerning deferred compensation deductions and it is not the concern of the Treasurer whether the records are requested by someone wanting to compete with the Kentucky Employees Deferred Compensation System or for some other purpose. The Treasurer should have the same policy on making the information available regardless of who makes the request. OAG 82-275.

The records of graduate council decisions pertaining to individual students are confidential by law; there is no exception for statistical information in KRS 164.283, and this specific statute takes precedence over the general statute, the Open Records Law. Therefore, the custodian of records of Eastern Kentucky University properly denied access to the minutes of the graduate council and the graduate appeals committee, even though the request was for statistical information which would not have been exempt under subsection (2) of this section provided that it existed in compiled form. OAG 82-279.

Under the Open Records Law, KRS 61.870 to 61.884, a public record is either open to public inspection by any person or it may be withheld from inspection by every member of the public under one of the exceptions listed in subsection (1) of this section. This often means that the Open Records Law cannot be used in lieu of discovery procedures provided by the court rules of civil procedure. OAG 82-280.

A request for records compiled by security officers of the county board of education in connection with the investigation of criminal charges involving the requesting attorney's client, which records might be used in a prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication before the board of education, was properly denied under subdivision (1)(f) of this section. The inspection of the described records could only be mandatorily required by a requester by order of a court until such time as the enforcement action was completed or a decision was made to take no action. OAG 82-280.

An opinion of the legal staff of the Department of Revenue (now Revenue Cabinet) as to the validity of two (2) permits of the Department's sales and use tax division was in-house memorandum from legal counsel to a client, namely, the department of revenue, and being an intra-office memorandum in which opinions were expressed and recommendations made it was exempt from the mandatory requirement of public disclosure by subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 82-295.

Records which are the work product of an attorney in the course of advising a client are not discoverable under CR 26.02(3) and are therefore exempt from public disclosure under KRS 447.154 and subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 82-295.

A report made by a state detective to his superior officer, regarding an investigation of an airplane landing, was in the nature of an intra-office memorandum, a preliminary memorandum in which opinions were expressed along with a report of actions taken during an investigation of an incident, and was not mandatorily required to be made available for public inspection. OAG 82-339.

Records which are preliminary in nature when they are created do not lose their exempt status after final action is taken based upon the preliminary recommendations; they continue to be preliminary records. This is all the more true if the preliminary memorandum expresses opinions and recommendations of the writer. OAG 82-339.

The report of the annual audit of a city is not exempt from mandatory public inspection by subdivision (1)(g) of this section or any other exception in the statute. An audit report made under the provisions of KRS 91A.040 is a public record and should be made available for public inspection. OAG 82-340.

A person does not have any privacy interest in local police records pertaining to him. OAG 82-388.

Inspection of requested records containing identifiable descriptions and notations of arrest, detentions, indictments, information or other formal criminal charges and any disposition arising therefrom, including sentencing, correctional supervision and release and/or all other information a local police department may have compiled on a named individual could not be denied on the grounds of "personal privacy." OAG 82-388.

Local law enforcement agencies are required to make available for public inspection arrest records of any person, subject to the exceptions stated in KRS 17.150(2). OAG 82-388.

If a record is made available to one member of the public for one purpose, it must be made available to the public generally for any purpose. OAG 82-394.

The Kentucky Board of Nursing should make available to the public, including RN Magazine, the names and addresses of all licensed nurses as contained in the records of the Board without regard for the purpose for which the records are requested. OAG 82-394.

The Open Records Law requires that all public agencies, state and local, shall allow inspection and copying the public records in their custody, with the exception of certain types of documents named in this section, without regard to the person who is making the request or the purpose for which the person wants to inspect the records; an agency cannot adopt a policy allowing inspection and copying of records for certain purposes and denying it for other purposes. It is the content of the record itself which makes it either mandatorily accessible to public inspection and copying or exempt from the mandatory requirement. OAG 82-394.

The purpose of licensing professions, such as nursing, is to protect the public, and the public is entitled to know who the licensees are. The public is also entitled to know the address of each licensee and if the only address which the board has for a licensee is a home address, the privacy exemption will not apply to that licensee. OAG 82-394.

Information about the confiscation of inmate property would generally be exempt from mandatory public disclosure because the privacy rights of the inmates involved outweigh the need for the public to be informed. OAG 82-395.

A deceased person has no right of privacy under subdivision (1)(a) of this section and police records pertaining to a decedent cannot be withheld from public inspection on that basis. Moreover, a requester is entitled to inspect the original records and is not required to submit specific questions regarding a deceased person. OAG 82-413.

Records which are preliminary recommendations, and preliminary memoranda in which opinions are expressed or policies formulated or recommended are exempt under subdivision (1)(h) of this section and do not lose their exempt status with the passage of time. However, records showing police action such as warrants, arrest records and investigations of complaints which do not contain opinions of the officer are not exempt from public inspection. OAG 82-413.

Some records pertaining to a deceased person may be withheld from public inspection under one of the exceptions provided in subsection (1) of this section other than subdivision (1)(a) of this section. However, it is the duty of the custodian to sort out the exempt material and allow the requester to inspect the remaining records. OAG 82-413.

Departmental reports to the Commissioner of Personnel are exempt from the mandatory requirement of public inspection under subdivision (1)(g) of this section since the documents in the report are clearly intra-office memoranda in which opinions are expressed or policies formulated or recommended to the Secretary of the Cabinet for Human Resources by commissioners of departments under the Human Resources Cabinet and the fact that they are transmitted to the Department of Personnel as part of the departmental report does not remove their exempt status. OAG 82-431.

Letters from individual employees to the Commissioner of Personnel are exempt from public inspection under subdivision (1)(g) of this section since they are correspondence with private individuals. OAG 82-431.

A city cannot by ordinance make records confidential or exempt from public inspection unless the particular records come under one of the exemptions from mandatory public inspection provided in this section. OAG 82-435.

One of the purposes of the Open Records Law is to allow any member of the public to personally check on the operation of the government by inspecting the original records of public agencies or by purchasing copies thereof, and the question whether taxes are being paid by all persons who are legally obligated to pay them is a legitimate interest of the public which any person has a right to check; accordingly, the confidentiality provisions of an ordinance which imposed an annual license for the privilege of doing business in the city contravened the Open Records Law since every licensee in the city was required to pay a $25 minimum license fee and the public disclosure of who had paid the fee revealed no private detail concerning a taxpayer's business. OAG 82-435.

A development potential analysis of certain property was exempted from the requirement of mandatory public inspection by subdivision (1)(h) of this section. The document was almost entirely opinion and recommendations and, while it was probably a final report of the corporation employed by the county to analyze the potential of such property, it was preliminary in that the county, if it chose to do so, could have other analyses made for its considerations. OAG 82-450.

Since subdivision (1)(d) of this section expressly mentions appraisals and feasibility estimates and evaluations relative to the acquisition of property, a development potential analysis of certain property could not be held exempt from public inspection under that subdivision. OAG 82-450.

A coroner's autopsy report is exempt from the requirement of mandatory public disclosure by subdivision (1)(f). OAG 82-458.

While a coroner's verdict filed with the circuit court clerk is open to public inspection, objects and reports, such as autopsy reports, are to be retained by the coroner and the prosecuting authority and are not required to be made open to public inspection until prosecution is completed or a decision not to prosecute has been made. OAG 82-458.

If a request is made to inspect personnel action laying off, hiring or rehiring faculty and staff of a university during a reasonable period, the request should be granted either by allowing inspection of records after private matters have been deleted or by preparing a list of nonexempt information; the name, position, salary and period of employment of each person subject to personnel action during a reasonable specified period is nonexempt information. OAG 82-506.

Where a newspaper reporter requested information as to the age and address of present and former university employees, she was asking for information of a personal nature which was made exempt from mandatory public disclosure by subdivision (1)(a) of this section and the university was correct in relying on that statutory provision in denying the request. The university's offer to provide statistical data and nonexempt information on named individual employees, which presumably would inform the requester of the name, position, work station and salary, satisfied the requirements of the law. OAG 82-506.

Where a request was made to inspect "lists or records that would designate laid-off faculty members as tenured or non-tenured" such contract status was a public matter and the university should comply with the request. OAG 82-506.

Since the address of a person licensed to practice a profession is not a matter of personal privacy which may be withheld from public disclosure under subsection (1)(a) of this section or any other exemption provided in the Open Records Law (KRS 61.870 to 61.884), the Kentucky Board of Nursing must make available to the public the home address of each nurse licensed by the Board. If a licensee furnishes the Board a business address or a post office box number, it would be sufficient to give that address to the public instead of the home address; the crucial factors are identification and general location of the licensee and these factors override any privacy interest the licensee may have in his private life. OAG 82-524.

Where requested records consisted of a summary of opinion expressed to Kentucky officers during interviews of law enforcement officials in Ohio, who were largely relying on opinions expressed to them by other persons, and constituted a three- or four-tier summary of unsubstantiated opinions as to persons involved in criminal activity, including deceased as well as other persons still living in Ohio and other states, and where such summary expressed suspicions of officers and referred to criminal investigations still being conducted, such communication was doubtless made with the understanding of confidentiality, the breach of which could have an adverse effect on the ongoing law enforcement investigations, and such records were exempt from the mandatory requirement of public disclosure under subsection (1)(f) of this section. OAG 82-532.

In denying a request for records which contained the names, addresses, and social security numbers of those individuals who had an unsatisfied obligation to support minors residing within the commonwealth of Kentucky whose custodial parent or guardian presently, or who had at times in the past, received benefits under the state and federal program entitled Aid to Families with Dependent Children, the Cabinet for Human Resources acted consistently with the provisions of the Open Records Law, KRS 61.870 to 61.884; these records have been made confidential by the General Assembly by KRS 205.730 which is a part of the Child Support Recovery Act, KRS 205.710 to 205.800. OAG 82-539; 82-641.

Although subsection (4) of this section does not use mandatory language, the clear legislative intent is that governmental agencies shall cooperate with one another and that one agency should assist another in carrying out its governmental functions. OAG 82-548.

The State Board of Physical Therapy is entitled to inspect the employment record of one of its licensees who was formerly employed by the University of Kentucky Medical Center in order to consider the licensee's fitness to maintain a license to practice physical therapy, since that is a governmental function of the licensing board. OAG 82-548.

Where the cause of death is an accident or where no criminal prosecution is pending or being considered, blood and urine test results made as a result of coroner's investigation are not exempt from public inspection. OAG 82-590.

Coroner's records showing the results of blood and urine tests made on six (6) named individuals killed in automobile accident could not be withheld from public inspection on ground of personal privacy since the records pertained to persons who were deceased and such right of privacy terminated at the time of their death. OAG 82-590.

Where records concerning investigation of police department concerning allegations of drug abuse were requested, but request made no reference to any specific complaint, and report to the city officials made no specific recommendation of disciplinary action against any officer, none of the requested records were mandatorily required to be made public, but fell within the exemptions of subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 82-630.

Request to inspect records pertaining to the identity of employers who had been granted "common paymaster status" was properly denied under subdivision (1)(j) of this section since there were currently no common paymaster accounts and since the identity of employers in the unemployment compensation program is made confidential by KRS 341.190(3). OAG 83-1.

Inspection of witness statements made by employees to a compliance officer of the Department of Labor (now Labor Cabinet) concerning a fatality at a construction company was properly denied under the Open Records Law. OAG 83-5.

Where there is a concurrent state and federal jurisdiction to prosecute for a crime, state and federal authorities have a mutual interest in the investigation made by either jurisdiction; the fact that state authorities have decided not to prosecute does not mean that their investigative records must be made available for public inspection if the joint investigation is still open and there is the possibility of federal prosecution. OAG 83-39.

Where the premature release of the state's investigative file concerning bid rigging on state highway construction contracts might interfere with prosecution by the federal authorities, the exceptions provided in subdivision (1)(f) of this section applied and inspection of the records was properly denied. OAG 83-39.

Request to inspect files compiled in connection with an administrative investigation by the Internal Affairs Division of the Bureau (now Department) of State Police regarding the conduct of persons involved in and the propriety of closing a bid rigging investigation was properly denied under subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 83-39.

The exemption provided by subdivision (1)(f) of this section cannot be telescoped out in every case as long as an appeal is pending and once an agency has taken final action the exemption ceases unless a special reason is shown why release of the records to inspection would harm the agency in a prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication; the burden is on an agency to show special reason for withholding records after final action has been taken. OAG 83-41.

If the investigative files concerning an officer dismissed by final action of agency head contain reports from individuals expressing opinions or recommending policies that material continues to be exempt as preliminary unless the agency head incorporates the reports into his final order. OAG 83-41.

Where individual had been dismissed as a police officer, the records showing the complaint against him and the final determination of the chief of police should be made available for public inspection; if the formal final determination of the chief of police incorporated by reference any investigative reports, such reports should also be made available for public inspection. OAG 83-41.

Where employee of Office of Public Advocacy stated that request to inspect investigative report was made on behalf of mother of one of the alleged victims of child abuse at institution and did not state that the request for the records was made for a governmental purpose, the Bureau (now Department) for Social Services was not required, under subsection (4), to make the investigative report available to the Office for Public Advocacy which avowedly was making the request on the behalf of an interested individual. OAG 83-48.

Request to inspect and copy cost reports filed with the Department of Revenue (now Revenue Cabinet) by group self-insureds was properly denied since KRS 131.190(1) makes confidential all tax records and reports to the Department of Revenue concerning taxes and that specific statute dealing with the subject prevails over any provisions of the Kentucky Open Records Law; moreover, the open records statute, in subdivision (1)(j) of this section, also expressly exempts public records or information the disclosure of which is prohibited or restricted or otherwise made confidential by enactment of the General Assembly. OAG 83-78.

Letter from company attorney to a riverport authority was plainly correspondence between a private individual and the authority rather than correspondence between two public officials on official business; the writer of the letter could make it public if he desired to do so, but the riverport authority had the permissive right to withhold the letter from public inspection under subdivision (1)(g) of this section. OAG 83-79.

It is implied in this section and its companion statute, KRS 17.150, that the investigative files which are to be open to public inspection are those pertaining to a named suspect after that suspect has been prosecuted or a decision has been made not to prosecute him; in a case where no suspect has been determined and active investigation has ceased because the investigators can find no other trails to follow, the case has become inactive but is not closed. To hold otherwise would be to open up to public inspection all of the police investigative files where the investigation has become fruitless and indefinitely suspended. OAG 83-123.

Statements of witnesses to a fatal construction accident, which were taken in private interviews by officials from the Department of Labor (now Labor Cabinet), were exempted from mandatory public disclosure by subdivision (1)(j); the mere fact that two (2) pages of a four-page statement by one (1) of the witnesses were mistakenly included in papers released to an attorney, did not estop the Department of Labor (now Labor Cabinet) from refusing to release the other two (2) pages of the statement. OAG 83-140.

Intraoffice memoranda from employees of the Corrections Cabinet in which they expressed opinions and made recommendations as to possible alternate sites for a medium security prison were exempt from mandatory public inspection under subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 83-143.

Where a technical report done for the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet consisted mainly of reports of test results and studies made by experts, the statistical and scientific data contained in the report were final records of a public agency and should have been made available for public inspection notwithstanding the fact that the document was an in-house draft of the Cabinet, that it was stamped as a "preliminary draft," and that it would not be finalized until after the Environmental Protection Agency commented upon the report. OAG 83-163.

Preliminary drafts of a county budget are not required to be available for public inspection; they are in the nature of intraoffice memoranda, preliminary, tentative and merely expressions of recommendations which may or may not be incorporated into the final document. OAG 83-166.

A request for the names and addresses of all taxpayers who had protested assessment of sales tax, resulting from audit or otherwise, by the sales and use tax section of the Revenue Cabinet was a request for a list which did not exist, and the request was properly denied since an agency is not required to prepare a list which is not already in existence; the subject request could also be denied under subdivision (1)(g) of this section which exempts from mandatory public disclosure "correspondence with private individuals." OAG 83-167.

Transcripts of depositions taken in a civil action brought against the Cabinet for Human Resources are not subject to the Open Records Law and, since there is no court rule requiring one party to a lawsuit to furnish a copy of a deposition in the suit to another party, the plaintiff could only obtain a copy of the depositions from the stenographer who reported the depositions upon the payment of the required fee. OAG 83-194.

The personal privacy exemption does not apply to police records. OAG 83-212.

Since the record disclosing the name of a person arrested or incarcerated is open to public inspection and copying, his photograph is also open to public inspection and copying and the personal privacy exemption does not apply. OAG 83-212.

If no photograph of arrestee is taken at the time of booking because the police already have a sufficiently up-to-date photograph of the arrestee, that photograph should be made available for public inspection and copying. OAG 83-212.

When a coroner's inquest finds that a death resulted from a crime being committed and a criminal prosecution arises, all evidentiary material should be turned over by the coroner to the prosecuting authority as provided by KRS 72.020(2) and such material may be withheld from public inspection pending the completion of the prosecution under subdivision (1)(f) of this section; but where the cause of death is an accident or where no criminal prosecution is pending or being considered, blood and urine test results are not exempt from public inspection. OAG 83-223.

Generally, when an agency makes an official inspection of one of its licensees and objectively grades the performance or conditions existing on the premises of the licensee, the report and grade is open to public inspection; on the other hand, a report by an agency employee to his superior expressing opinions and making recommendations of policy may be exempt from mandatory public disclosure under subdivision (1)(h). OAG 83-235.

The fact that a health department report was involved in a class-action lawsuit did not necessarily mean that it was exempt from mandatory public inspection unless the judge issued an order to that effect. OAG 83-235.

Company's technical proposal and oral presentation booklet, submitted in response to request of state agency for proposals for automated certification and issuance of food stamp program, contained material which could be classified as trade secrets, unpatented, secret commercially valuable plans, appliances, formulae, or processes and as such came under the trade secrets exception of subdivision (1)(b) of this section; since the request designated the proposal as a unit it could be rejected as a unit. The agency request for proposal, which was open to the public, supplied sufficient information about the food stamp program to satisfy the needs of the public in a general fashion. OAG 83-256; 83-302.

The Revenue Cabinet could not deny request for information regarding the motor vehicle tax account of deceased county clerk under either subdivision (1)(g) or (h) of this section or KRS 131.190(1) since the permissive exceptions provided by subdivision (1)(g) and (h) have no application to reports required to be filed by local officers with a state cabinet or department, and since KRS 131.190(1) provides a cloak of confidentiality for taxpayers, not for public officials, and applies only to living taxpayers who are still in business and not to deceased persons. OAG 83-257.

The denial of public inspection of a reference, in state police investigation file, to three (3) persons unconnected with the police investigation was proper, pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section, as protection against an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy and, pursuant to KRS 17.150(2)(b), because disclosure of such information would not promote a wholesome public interest. OAG 83-260.

Denial of public inspection of the polygraph test of a named person which was a part of the investigative file of state police was proper under KRS 17.150(2)(b) and subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 83-260.

The Revenue Cabinet properly denied request to inspect all correspondence sent or received regarding the feasibility of an unmined minerals tax because they consisted entirely of intraoffice memoranda which were preliminary in nature and which contained expressions of opinion, recommendations and proposals from subordinate state employees to their superiors and thus they were exempt from mandatory public disclosure by subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section; such records were not made confidential by KRS 131.190(1) because they made no mention of any individual taxpayer or information concerning any taxpayer's business. Since the records could be withheld from public inspection by the permissive exemptions of subdivisions (1)(g), (h), the Revenue Cabinet had the option of either allowing inspection of the records or keeping them confidential, provided that it treated all requests to inspect the records according to the same policy. OAG 83-263.

A letter written by a person in his capacity as city attorney, concerning a statement made by a county police officer questioning the eligibility of the present city chief of police to hold that position, was exempt from public inspection under subdivision (1)(h) of this section as a preliminary memorandum in which an opinion was expressed. OAG 83-272.

The incident reports and daily log sheets maintained at certain social services facilities and evaluative memoranda derived from inspections of those facilities are exempt from public inspection as a protection against an unwarranted invasion of the privacy rights of the residents of those facilities; the evaluative memoranda are also exempt as preliminary memoranda in which opinions are expressed. OAG 83-286.

The quarterly reports of the Kentucky Society of CPAs' Ethics Committee, made to the State Board of Accountancy for their Quality Review Program, are exempt from public inspection under subdivisions (1)(a), (g) and (h) of this section; such reports would contain names of practitioners or firms found to be substandard, which information is personal in nature and protected by the privacy exemption, and also would contain preliminary information and recommendations protected from disclosure by this section. OAG 83-308.

The Corrections Cabinet is a public agency as defined by KRS 61.870(1); therefore the records prepared, owned, used, or in possession of the Corrections Cabinet are public records pursuant to KRS 61.870(2) and open to public inspection unless exempted under this section. OAG 83-313; 83-337.

Deputy Warden of Operations for the Kentucky Corrections Cabinet at the Kentucky State Reformatory properly refused request to inspect purchase orders or recommendations to purchase motors for the exhaust system in the geriatrics unit as such records were exempt under subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 83-313.

As a public agency pursuant to KRS 61.870(1), the documentary materials prepared by the Kentucky Department of Labor (now Labor Cabinet) are public records under KRS 61.870(2) and open to public inspection unless exempted under this section. OAG 83-326.

Audit reports are exempt from public inspection when there is a possibility of prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication; after the law enforcement action or administrative adjudication is complete or a decision is made to take no action, the final audit is open to public inspection. OAG 83-326.

The audit reports and supporting documents concerning the demand for back pay prepared by the Department of Labor (now Labor Cabinet) in an audit of a city were exempt from public inspection until prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication occurred, or a decision was made to take no action. OAG 83-326.

Insofar as the Department of Labor's (now Labor Cabinet) audit report had been presented to the city being audited, subdivision (1)(h) of this section was not applicable since this document would constitute a final and complete report upon presentation and would no longer be considered preliminary; supporting documents that did not constitute part of the final report would, on the other hand, be exempt as preliminary drafts or notes, under subdivision (1)(g) of this section, and as preliminary recommendations and memoranda containing opinions under subdivision (1)(h) of this section. Therefore, although documents constituting the final audit report would be open to public inspection after prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication was complete or a decision was made to take no action, preliminary documents not constituting the final audit report but which were used in preparation of it would never be open to public inspection. OAG 83-326.

Personnel records fall under the exception of subdivision (1)(a) of this section to mandatory disclosure. OAG 83-329.

The exemptions in the Open Records Law provided in subsection (1) of this section are permissive, not mandatory and, since Kentucky has no privacy law, a records' custodian has the authority to release exempted records unless there is some statute which makes the records confidential; there is no such statute pertaining to personnel records and, therefore, a school superintendent would have the authority to make teacher personnel records available to the public unless the school district had a policy of keeping the records confidential. In such case, every person requesting to inspect the records should be treated alike. OAG 83-329.

Under the Kentucky Open Records Law and under Kentucky case law a school superintendent had the legal right to refuse to send the personnel files of other teachers to the EEOC on the grounds that to do so would violate their personal privacy. OAG 83-329.

Documents pertaining to student's suspension were open to inspection by him, except documents which contained preliminary drafts, notes, correspondence with private individuals or preliminary recommendations and memoranda in which opinions were expressed or policies formulated or recommended, which could be properly exempted from his inspection; any complaints against him were also open to his inspection as were any written decisions by the disciplinary board. OAG 83-332.

The names, positions, and addresses of all the persons who were on the disciplinary board which found for student's suspension were open to student's inspection under KRS 61.835; however, the selection and appointment documents were exempt as "preliminary recommendations." OAG 83-332.

Since compliance officer's worknotes, compiled during occupational safety and health investigation, may contain his hand-drawn diagrams of the worksite or work operations, plus his observations, opinions, and possibly preliminary drafts of citations which may or may not be finally issued, the worknotes are exempted from public inspection by subdivision (1)(h) of this section as preliminary memoranda in which opinions and recommendations are expressed. OAG 83-335.

Since occupational health and safety compliance officer's worknotes may contain notations of conversations with employees and employers, and since KRS 338.101, which authorizes the compliance officer to inspect the workplace and talk privately with employers and employees, makes any statement taken from an employee or employer confidential and therefore exempt from public inspection by virtue of subdivision (1)(j) of this section, such worknotes are exempt from inspection. OAG 83-335.

Compliance officer's worknotes compiled in the ordinary course of an occupational safety and health investigation of an employer worksite, which may contain preliminary handwritten drafts of possible citations and correspondence with private individuals which are not intended to give notice of final action are preliminary and do not evidence a final action; therefore, the exemption under subdivision (1)(g) of this section applies. OAG 83-335.

An order from the warden to the staff of the reformatory directing the staff to lock down the geriatrics unit from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. was an "intra-agency" memorandum and was exempt from public inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 83-337.

The back side of the Uniform Offense Report used by a city police department, which usually contained supplementary notes taken by the investigating officer, was exempted from public inspection (except upon court order) under the Open Records Law pursuant to subdivisions (1)(f), (g) and (h) of this section, because such supplementary notes were compiled during an investigation, because their disclosure might inhibit the officer's investigation, because they were inherently preliminary and because they contained the officer's recommendations and opinions. OAG 83-338.

The reports kept by a county ambulance service of ambulance runs, including the name, address and age of person transported, where the person was picked up and transported, and the nature of the run were exempted from public inspection as a protection against an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy under subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 83-344.

A decision rendered by referee for unemployment compensation division was a public record under KRS 61.870(2), and thus open to public inspection unless exempted by this section; since the referee's decision was evidence of a final action by the agency, the exemptions of this section did not apply. OAG 83-352.

Reports and documents involving a criminal prosecution and conviction are subject to discovery by the accused pursuant to Kentucky's Criminal Rules of Procedure and will be available to the public, unless otherwise properly exempted, once the appealed criminal conviction has been affirmed by the court of last resort to which the conviction is taken. OAG 83-356.

A letter written to the head of a university's art department by the university's president on behalf of the board of regents containing charges against the department head was exempt from inspection under subdivision (1)(a) of this section as a protection against an invasion of personal privacy of the department head, and under subdivision (1)(g) of this section as correspondence with a private individual which was not intended to give notice of a final agency action. OAG 83-358.

Where police incident reports and police internal affairs reports concerning the shooting of an individual are still active files, they are not open to public inspection until prospective law-enforcement action or administrative adjudication is complete or a decision is made to take no action. OAG 83-366.

Police internal affairs reports are exempt from public inspection as preliminary memoranda; only internal affairs reports which indicate the final action taken and the underlying complaint are open to public inspection. OAG 83-366.

The class and grade statistical data of the Comprehensive Tests of Basic Skills, a standardized test administered to 3rd, 5th, 7th, and 10th grade students, as compiled by the Jefferson County Public Schools and released to each individual school, are open to public inspection under the Open Records Law, as long as the class and grade reports are not descriptive of any readily identifiable person. OAG 83-371.

Letters written by a private individual to the Governor's office pertaining to proposed legislation concerning outdoor (billboard) advertising were properly exempted from public inspection. OAG 83-385.

The Department of Transportation's (now Transportation Cabinet) denial of a request to inspect "all" records in the Kentucky Department of Transportation, Division of Right of Way, District 5, was proper under Open Records Law; the request did not have to be honored as it lacked specificity and it would have placed an unreasonable burden on the agency to separate exempted material from the nonexempted material before inspection. OAG 83-386.

Final orders of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, which are cited by the Commission as precedent in subsequent decisions, should be open to public inspection as evidence of a final agency action; accordingly, the Commission acted improperly when, based on KRS 341.190, it denied an inspection request, since KRS 341.190 mandates confidentiality only for communications from the employer or worker to the Commission, and does not address communications from the Commission to the employer or worker. OAG 83-405.

Where one university student seeks the release of a tape or transcript of a student disciplinary hearing in which several other students were also involved, only those parts of the tape or transcript which relate to the student requesting access are available to him, since the other students have the right under subdivision (1)(a) of this section to nondisclosure of private information. OAG 83-427.

A student involved in student disciplinary proceedings at a university can be exempted from inspecting the records of the hearing (1) if public disclosure constitutes a clearly unwarranted invasion of another's privacy (such as another student); (2) if the records contain preliminary drafts, notes, correspondence with private individuals (other than a notice of final action); (3) if the records contain preliminary recommendations or memoranda which express opinions or policies; (4) and if disclosure is prohibited by federal law or regulation or by the Kentucky General Assembly. OAG 83-427.

Where report was requested by the county judge/executive in order to investigate alleged misuse of county road equipment by an elected magistrate, subdivision (1)(h) of this section would apply to exempt the document from public inspection since the report was not indicative of any final action taken by the fiscal court and as such was preliminary; at most, the report could merely be preliminary memoranda gathered by the county attorney in his investigation. OAG 83-469.

Since a report concerning investigation of alleged misuse of county equipment, which was made at the request of the county judge/executive, was documentary material in the possession of a public agency, it was a "public record" under KRS 61.870(2) and open to public inspection unless exempted pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. OAG 83-469.

Resumes of the fire chief, assistant fire chiefs, and city manager are personnel records and, as such, contain personal information, disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; accordingly, the city manager properly denied public inspection of such resumes. OAG 84-19.

The reports of two (2) fires prepared by a fire chief following his investigations were validly withheld from the public pursuant to KRS 227.370 and subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 84-19.

A licensing agency must make available the work addresses of licensees. OAG 84-51.

Home addresses of licensees are excluded from inspection under the privacy exemption; however, the home address of the licensee is available under the Open Records Law if no work address is listed. OAG 84-51.

Social security numbers and home addresses of Kentucky State Racing Commission licensees are excluded from public inspection under the privacy exemption of subdivision (1)(a) of this section; however, a licensee's home address must be made available in the absence of a work address, since the purpose of the license is to protect the public. OAG 84-51.

Social security numbers are exempted from public disclosure under the Open Records Law. OAG 84-51.

The requested inspection of a deceased veteran's military records was properly denied, where the federal Privacy Act of 1974 (5 USCS § 552) allowed such inspection only by the next of kin, and the requestor admitted that she was never married to the veteran even though she and the veteran had a son who purportedly took the veteran's name. OAG 84-84.

Records in the file on a proposed lease of property were not open for public inspection if they fell within the exemptions of subdivision (1)(d) of this section (evaluations made by or for a public agency relative to acquisition of property) or subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) (preliminary memoranda) but the bid advertisements and Department of Insurance request for more space were open to inspection; if the file contained exempted and nonexempted material, the nonexempted material must be separated out and made available for public inspection. OAG 84-90.

A requestor should be allowed to inspect city occupational licenses to obtain business names and addresses and was also entitled to access to the dates of license application and issuance, as well as to the identity of businesses delinquent in paying occupational taxes. OAG 84-93.

The public is not entitled to know information about a license which is made expressly confidential and, therefore, records disclosed to a city in order to obtain an occupational license or collect a license fee, such as social security numbers and federal identification numbers, would be confidential and exempt from public access; information which reveals the affairs of the business, such as profits, taxes, deductions, and salaries, would also be exempted. OAG 84-93.

An occupational license is a temporary grant of special privilege by the local government and, consequently, public access to the information contained in the license, such as business name and address, is not an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 84-93.

A city could compile a list of occupational licensees in its discretion, or allow requestor to make his own list; the city could also separate exempted from nonexempted matter before allowing requestor access to the records. OAG 84-93.

The application for an industrial revenue bond is not available for public inspection since subdivision (1)(c) of this section exempts public records pertaining to a prospective business or industry location where no previous public disclosure has been made of the business' or industry's interest in relocating or expanding in the commonwealth and since subdivision (1)(b) exempts from public inspection all records confidentially disclosed in conjunction with an application for a loan; although the county assumes no financial risks on the bonds, they are the issuing authority and review the bond applications as if they were loan applications. OAG 84-98.

Notification of approval or denial of an industrial revenue bond by the county Office of Economic Development is evidence of a final agency action and is therefore open to public inspection. OAG 84-98.

The amount of an industrial revenue bond issue being sought is exempt from public inspection under subdivisions (1)(b) and (c) of this section. OAG 84-98.

The intended use of an industrial revenue bond issue is open to public inspection if contained in correspondence which gives final action of the county Office of Economic Development; otherwise it is exempt as preliminary memoranda. OAG 84-98.

The decision by the fiscal court, Office of Economic Development and other county officials on whether to approve an industrial revenue bond issue is open to public inspection if it represents final agency action; otherwise, it is exempted as containing preliminary recommendations, opinions, and policies. OAG 84-98.

The reason for the decision on whether to approve an industrial revenue bond issue is open to public inspection if contained in correspondence indicating final agency action; it is otherwise exempt under subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section as preliminary memoranda. OAG 84-98.

County recommendations concerning industrial revenue bonds are exempt from public inspection as preliminary recommendations or preliminary memoranda in which opinions are expressed or policies recommended, unless contained or incorporated into correspondence indicating final action. OAG 84-98.

Correspondence between the county and an industrial revenue bond applicant regarding the application is exempt from public inspection as preliminary unless contained or incorporated into correspondence indicating final action. OAG 84-98.

Correspondence between county agencies regarding an industrial revenue bond application is exempt from public inspection as preliminary unless contained or incorporated into correspondence indicating final action. OAG 84-98.

Due to the permissive nature of the exemptions of subsection (1) of this section, as well as the custom of release of licensee social security numbers by the Kentucky State Racing Commission (KSRC) to the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association (HBPA), which has gone uncontested until recently, KSRC should continue to release the social security numbers of its licensees to HBPA; additionally, KSRC must release the social security numbers to Kentucky Racing Health and Welfare Fund (KRHWf) due to subsection (4) which provides for the exchange of public records between public agencies for a legitimate government function. OAG 84-115.

The personal privacy protection of subdivision (1)(a) of this section does not logically extend to time spent in public service which is compensated by public funds, and for which the public employee is accountable; accordingly, the time sheets for two (2) public employees were improperly withheld from inspection. OAG 84-161.

Although the exemptions of subsection (1) of this section are permissive and not mandatory, neither the statute, Attorney General opinions, or case law indicate that the exemptions may be waived by allowing inspection and then invoking an exemption. OAG 84-163.

The denial of inspection of two (2) requested letters was proper under subdivision (1)(h) of this section where the letters constituted intra-agency preliminary memoranda in which opinions were expressed. OAG 84-163.

Where police investigative file involving a charge of "terroristic threatening" was still open, such file was properly exempted from public inspection under subdivision (1)(f) of this section. OAG 84-178.

A city budget is a public record under KRS 61.870 and is thus open to public inspection; current budgets are required to be published pursuant to KRS 424.240. Previous budgets and current budgets are both open to public inspection, as previous budgets have lost any "preliminary" quality by being closed and current budgets are "working" budgets indicative of final action; for the same reasons, the budget ordinances of the city would also be open to inspection. OAG 84-217.

An agreement pursuant to KRS 65.210, the Interlocal Cooperation Act, is open to public inspection as it constitutes final action by the city; copies of such agreements must be filed with the county clerk of the county which is party to the agreement before the agreement becomes operative. OAG 84-217.

Compliance officer's worknotes compiled during an occupational safety and health investigation are exempt from public inspection under subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section, since the worknotes are strictly preliminary in nature. OAG 84-218.

An Occupational Safety and Health or Accident (OSHA) compliance officer's worknotes are strictly preliminary in nature and are exempt from public inspection; consequently, compliance officer's worknotes in regard to the Labor Cabinet's occupational safety and health investigation file on an accident at a municipal wastewater treatment plant were exempt from public inspection under subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 84-224.

Request to inspect audit report concerning unpaid overtime compensation of former city employee was premature and the Labor Cabinet properly withheld the records in reliance on subdivisions (1)(f) and (g) of this section where employee's claim was still under administrative investigation and the audit report requested was preliminary. OAG 84-225.

A proposal by private industry to sell private property to the Corrections Cabinet for the purpose of converting the property into a prison was exempt from inspection, under subdivision (1)(d) of this section, where although a recommendation had been made to the Governor, no decision had been made concerning the proposal. OAG 84-226.

Witness statements that were referred to during grand jury testimony on official misconduct were preliminary documents in police investigative files that were exempt from inspection under subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section, even after the charges were dropped; the preliminary status of the statements exempted them from inspection even by a person who was mentioned in the statements since KRS 61.884 is subject to the KRS 61.878 exemptions. OAG 84-249.

The release of records maintained by the Bureau for Manpower Services is subject to the United States Employment Service policies; thus, since a federal regulation allows public disclosure only for general information concerning employment opportunities, levels, and trends, the records subject to disclosure cannot include information identifying individual applicants, employers, or employing establishments. OAG 84-273.

The compliance officer's worknotes and the two (2) employee statements made during an investigation of an accident are exempt from public inspection as "preliminary" under subdivisions (1)(g) and (1)(h) of this section. OAG 84-275.

Where a city commission authorized private companies to bid for a contract to provide fire protection for the city and replace the present city fire department, as documentary material retained by a public agency, the bid invitation, correspondence pertaining to the bids, and the bids themselves were public records subject to the Open Records Law. Unless exempted by the provisions of this section, these records are open to public inspection once the bids are publicly opened. OAG 84-284.

Inspection of the presentence investigation report (PSI) remains closed except to the court, Parole Board, or Corrections Cabinet pursuant to subdivision (1)(j) of this section and KRS 439.510 although these agencies may order otherwise. Interpretation of KRS 532.050(4) indicates that there is a question as to whether the PSI itself should be released for inspection even to the defendant or his counsel. Statutory language only requires the court to advise of factual contents and conclusions; it does not require inspection. OAG 84-285.

The tape recordings of employee interviews taken during the investigation of internal criminal allegations against an assistant fire marshal are clearly preliminary to any final action taken by the Division of Fire or Department of Law; they are therefore exempt from public inspection (except upon court order) under subdivisions (1)(g) and (1)(h) of this section. OAG 84-298.

A citizen's complaint to a city's housing department, which spawned an inspection of the property complained about and a final order of the department to board up the property, should be open to public inspection, even though the final action taken by the department was not based on the complaint but on an inspection of the property by the department; however, the identity of the complainant is exempt from public disclosure pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 84-315.

Financial disclosure forms which are filled out and given to a mayor's advisory committee on ethics constitute public records which are open to public inspection due to the inapplicability of the exemptions in this section. OAG 84-320.

An occupational safety and health compliance officer's worknotes are exempt from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (1)(h) of this section. The compliance officer's worknotes are not intended to give notice of final action as they merely report possible violations and contain the officer's observations and opinions; the worknotes are therefore preliminary in nature. OAG 84-321.

The completed report to city on plans for the future economic development of the city constituted preliminary memoranda in which opinions were expressed and policies formulated and recommended and was therefore exempt from public inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 84-337.

A request to inspect any and all internal interoffice memoranda was properly denied under the Open Records Law. OAG 84-342.

The appointment calendars of persons in public agencies are exempt from public inspection under the provisions of subdivisions (1)(a), (1)(g), and (1)(h) of this section. OAG 84-342.

Disclosure of employee interview statements, included in records involving Labor Cabinet report relative to incident involving death of employee made under KRS 338.101(1)(a), were confidential and exempt from mandatory disclosure under subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 84-345.

Where worknotes are compiled in the ordinary course of an investigation of an employer worksite, and contain preliminary handwritten drafts of possible citations and correspondence with private persons which are not intended to give notice of final action, the material is preliminary and the exemption set forth in subdivision (1)(g) of this section applies; furthermore, work papers and intra-office memoranda are exempt from public inspection under subdivision (1)(h) of this section. Thus, worknotes containing the compliance officer's hand-drawn diagrams of the worksite or work operations and his observations, opinions and preliminary drafts of possible citations were exempt from public inspection by subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 84-361, 84-365.

The term "question privately," in KRS 338.101(1)(a) makes any statement taken from an employee confidential and therefore exempt from mandatory public disclosure by subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 84-365, 85-58.

Where a proceeding has been instituted under KRS 344.200 and has resulted in a dismissal of the complaint or the entering of a conciliation agreement, only the order of dismissal or the terms of the conciliation agreement are subject to public inspection. OAG 84-376.

Where a proceeding has been instituted under KRS 344.210 and a hearing has been held, the hearing transcript, all evidence introduced at the hearing and the subsequent decision of the commission are subject to public inspection under the Open Records Law. OAG 84-376.

KRS 131.190(1) makes tax records confidential only insofar as the information may have to do with the person's business; information such as the names of businesses licensed, the dates of the applications and the dates of the effectiveness of licenses are not such information as will reveal the affairs of a person's business, and access to such information is not an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy under subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 85-1.

Unless a proceeding has been instituted under KRS Ch. 344, all information obtained by the county human rights commission remains privileged and the commission must refuse to disclose such information without the person's consent, unless ordered to do so by a court of competent jurisdiction. If a proceeding has been instituted, what is available for public inspection is dependent upon the level at which the proceeding has progressed. OAG 85-5.

Court records are given a special status and placed under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Court of Justice pursuant to KRS 26A.200 and KRS 26A.220; these statutes apply to all records of agencies of the court, and the Board of Bar Examiners is an agency of the court, as it is created and supervised by the Supreme Court. If a court or an agency of the court denies access to a record, the requesting party should take his appeal to the Chief Justice. Thus, denial of a request to inspect documents pertaining to the Kentucky bar examination under this section was proper. OAG 85-9.

Records which are the work product of an attorney in the course of advising a client are not discoverable under the Kentucky Rules of Civil Procedure and are therefore exempt from public disclosure under KRS 447.154 and subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 85-20.

Where occupational safety and health compliance officer's worknotes are compiled in the ordinary course of an investigation of an employer worksite, and contain preliminary handwritten drafts of possible citations and correspondence with private persons which are not intended to give notice of final action, the material is preliminary and the exemption set forth in subsection (1)(g) of this section applies. OAG 85-58.

Work papers and intra-office memoranda are exempt from public inspection under subdivision (1)(h) of this section. Thus, worknotes containing occupational safety and health compliance officer's hand-drawn diagrams of the worksite or work operations and his observations, opinions and preliminary drafts of possible citations are exempt from public inspection. OAG 85-58.

Even if a settlement has been reached relative to Occupational Safety and Health Administration charges, material which was excluded from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g), (h) and (j) of this section and KRS 338.101(1)(a) may still be excluded in the absence of a court order to the contrary, as the status of this material as preliminary matters and confidential interviews will not change regardless of what happens relative to any charges which might have been filed. OAG 85-58.

Written instructions relative to employee conduct are not intra-office memoranda and preliminary recommendations excluded from the application of the Open Records Law pursuant to subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 85-59.

Denial of a request to inspect a document prepared by police chief concerning his investigation into an application for a municipal adult entertainment license, the document having been prepared at the city council's request in connection with its review of the application, was proper under the Open Records Act pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section so long as the requested document neither indicated final municipal action nor involved a preliminary report incorporated into a final municipal report. OAG 85-63.

Denial of request to inspect records involved with an ongoing competitive negotiation process is correct under KRS 45A.085(6) and subdivision (1)(j) of this section. However, the public agency is required to make available for public inspection those records associated with the competitive negotiation process, which are not otherwise precluded from inspection, at the final conclusion of the process, i.e., the final rejection of all proposals or the acceptance of a proposal and the awarding of a contract. OAG 85-68.

While KRS 61.884 provides that any person shall have access to any public record relating to him or in which he is mentioned by name, that section is subject to the provisions and exemptions set forth in this section. OAG 85-69.

Under the Open Records Law, a patrolman against whom a complaint was filed was entitled to inspect the final report of the police chief concerning the disposition of the complaint, the complaint which led to the investigation and the report, and the investigatory report arising out of the complaint, if the report was incorporated into the final report. OAG 85-77.

Denial of request to inspect records relating to the acquisition of property for a right-of-way project, including relocation assistance payments made relative thereto, is valid pursuant to subdivision (1)(d) of this section until such time as all of the property involved in the project has been acquired. OAG 87-32.

Denial of the request to inspect certain records in the custody of the state police was proper as the investigations pertaining to the death and the fire had not yet been completed, and a determination had not yet been made as to whether legal action would be taken; once the investigation was completed, and legal action had been completed or a decision had been made to take no legal action, the documents would be subject to public inspection unless exempted by another statutorily recognized exception to public inspection. OAG 87-35.

The State Penitentiary acted properly in denying the inmate's request to inspect conflict sheets or special notice forms in his institutional file, as such documents, which did not represent final agency action, which contained opinions of

The Labor Cabinet improperly denied the request to inspect documents submitted by the commonwealth employee and her attorney to the extent that the request pertained to preliminary handwritten notes concerning the employee which were prepared by her supervisor or boss and to the extent that the intra-office memoranda contained in the employee's file pertained or related to that particular employee. OAG 87-50.

Where the party requested copies of various documents concerning a proceeding with which he was involved, the documents were court records and, therefore, not subject to the terms and provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 87-53.

Denial of the request to inspect the Commercial and Industrial Property Record Card was supported by the provisions of subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section and KRS 133.045, as such a document was a preliminary working paper pertaining to the tax rolls as finally prepared by the Property Valuation Administrator. OAG 87-55.

The school system improperly denied the applicant-teacher's request for a copy of that portion of a tape containing the applicant-teacher's answers to questions propounded by the school system, the questions having been asked as part of the school system's teacher selection process. OAG 87-56.

The county improperly denied the request to inspect county records relative to occupational license fees or taxes to obtain the names of the contractors or construction companies that are paying the county occupational tax; the county may compile the list containing such information or allow the requesting party to prepare his or her own list, with the excepted material separated from the nonexcepted material before he or she examines the records. OAG 87-57.

The public agency acted properly in denying the request to inspect and copy documents pertaining to the obtaining of a permit to install a sewage disposal system, as such documents were not indicative of the agency's final decision as to whether a permit would issue and were merely preliminary documents which constituted part of the process to obtain a permit at some future time. OAG 87-58.

The public agency acted within the provisions of the Open Records Act when it refused to furnish a computerized listing of data to the requesting party, as the list was in the process of being prepared, and the computerized data system had not yet been completely prepared and installed. OAG 87-59.

The tapes of the hearing concerning a teacher contract termination proceeding conducted pursuant to KRS 161.790 were available for public inspection under the Open Records Law, even though the tapes were in the possession of the reporter-transcriber rather than the Board of Education, as the teacher requested a public hearing and the matter had not reached the courts. OAG 87-62.

If disciplinary reports involve disciplinary proceedings against a police officer, then the public is entitled to know the final action or decision of the city relative to those proceedings and is entitled to see the complaint which led to the initiation of such proceedings; however, if the disciplinary reports merely involve evaluations of the officer pursuant to which no action has been taken or opinions of others relative to his or her performance, such reports may be withheld from public inspection. OAG 87-64.

If the departmental memoranda concerning a police officer constituted preliminary intraoffice communications setting forth opinions, observations, and recommendations of various departmental personnel, and they did not represent the department's final decision or determination on any matter, then they could be withheld from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 87-64.

Denial of the request to inspect records in the custody of the state police was proper whereas the investigations pertaining to the deaths had not yet been completed, and a determination had not yet been made as to whether legal action would be taken; however, once the investigations were completed and legal action was completed or a decision was made to take no legal action, the documents would be subject to public inspection unless excluded by another statutorily recognized exception to public inspection. OAG 87-66.

If the state university is a recipient of federal funds, it must conform to the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (the Buckley Amendment) to retain its eligibility for those funds and, therefore, the denial by the university of requests for all material involving and pertaining to students' "education records" was proper and was supported by subdivision (1)(i) of this section and 20 USCS § 1232. OAG 87-67.

The State Police's refusal to furnish information and records pertaining to disbursements by the state Police Fund, which identify the officer on whose behalf the expenditure was made and the law firm or attorney who received a particular payment, was supported by the privacy exception to public inspection set forth in subdivision (1)(a) of this section since the Legal Fund consisted of voluntary contributions by police personnel of their personal funds. OAG 87-70.

The Open Records Act and the confidentiality provisions relative to adoption proceedings supported the decision of the Department for Social Services not to release the names of any persons appearing in adoption records, but the Open Records Act also requires the disclosure of statistical information not descriptive of any readily identifiable person, and such data relative to adoption and adoption proceedings should be made available by the public agency. OAG 87-71.

On the basis of subdivision (1)(j) of this section and KRS 210.235, and in the absence of a court order authorizing inspection, the State Correctional Psychiatric Center properly denied the newspaper's request under the Open Records Act for copies of documents of a state mental facility pertaining to the types of tests given to patients and personnel administering and supervising such tests. OAG 87-75.

A proper request for information pertaining to only the salaries of officers and employees of a public agency should be honored as that information is available in same format and within the range of material in which the public has a legitimate interest. OAG 87-76.

Denial of inspection of the compliance officer's work notes and the two (2) employee interview statements was proper under subdivisions (1)(g), (h), and (j) of this section and subdivision (1)(a) of KRS 338.101. OAG 87-79.

The Department for Social Services acted properly when it refused to make available for inspection to the alleged perpetrator of child abuse the names of informants and those portions of the statements of a judge and an informant wherein those parties set forth personal opinions, observations, and recommendations not related to the child abuse investigation and the findings resulting from that investigation. OAG 87-82.

The State Police's refusal to respond to a request for information, as opposed to a request to inspect and copy a specifically described document, was not a violation of the Open Records Act, while its refusal to furnish documents concerning preliminary data pertaining to a toxicology analysis report was supported by exceptions to public inspection dealing with preliminary drafts, notes, correspondence, recommendations and memoranda in which opinions are expressed, and refusal to furnish records pertaining to an employee's training, education, and experience was supported by the exception to public inspection protecting against an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 87-84.

The Department for Administration's decision not to release those documents consisting of consolidated financial statements, project narratives and summary experience charts, personnel resumes, the work plan, and pricing schedules was justified by the exceptions to public inspection set forth in subdivisions (1)(a) and (b) of this section. OAG 88-1.

The public agency's refusal to furnish records and documents to the requesting party relative to an investigation of an alleged instance of child abuse and neglect was supported by the provisions of subdivision (1)(j) of this section and subsection (4) of KRS 620.050. OAG 88-4.

The Labor Cabinet's denial of the request to inspect the compliance officer's work notes and the three (3) employee interview statements was justified under the Open Records Law pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g), (h), and (j) of this section and subdivision (1)(a) of KRS 338.101. OAG 88-9.

Denial of the request to inspect the property tax rolls was proper under subdivision (1)(j) of this section and subsection (2) of KRS 133.047 if the information obtained from the inspection was to be used for commercial or business purposes; however, the request could not be denied solely because it was not made during the specific time period set forth in subsection (1) of KRS 133.045. OAG 88-12.

The public agency's response to a request for materials pertaining to payroll and financial data concerning the officers and employees of a school district was sufficient and proper as the public agency furnished the requesting party with a list containing the annual salaries and hourly wage figures of those officers and employees. OAG 88-13.

The Corrections Cabinet, Department of Community Services and Facilities, properly denied, pursuant to subdivision (1)(j) of this section and KRS 439.510, the request to inspect documents prepared and submitted by a parole officer. OAG 88-14.

The decision of the state board of elections to deny the request for copies of precinct lists and mailing labels in connection with mailing the letter in question was supported by the provisions of subsection (1)(j) of this section and subdivision (3)(h) of KRS 117.025. OAG 88-16.

The refusal of the State Police to make available copies of documents setting forth the names of persons not connected with a police investigation was supported by the exceptions to public inspection set forth in subdivision (1)(a) of this section and subdivision (2)(b) of KRS 17.150. OAG 88-18.

Although the city and sewer commission's initial response to the requesting party should have followed the requirements of KRS 61.880(1) and a copy of the letter of denial should have been sent to the attorney general pursuant to KRS 61.880(2), denial of the request to inspect the draft audit prepared by the Environmental Protection Agency and sent to the city was supported by the exceptions to inspection set forth in KRS 61.878(1)(g), (h) and (i) as the item in question was a preliminary document containing opinions and observations. OAG 88-24.

The privacy exception to public inspection does not apply to the final disciplinary action taken against a public employee, and the final action taken by a public agency against a public employee is a matter of public record. OAG 88-25.

The State Police's denial of the request to inspect the photographs of the automobile accident justified pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(f) and (j) and KRS 17.150(2) as the investigation pertaining to the accident had not yet been completed and a determination had not yet been made as to whether legal action would be taken. OAG 88-27.

Denial of the request to inspect the records contained in a case file involving matters which were currently being litigated was proper until the litigation had been completed; at which time the documents in question would be subject to public inspection unless excluded by other statutorily recognized exceptions to public inspection. OAG 88-31.

A tape recording made during a meeting by the public agency to assist in the preparation of the official minutes could be excluded from public inspection as a preliminary document. OAG 88-32.

Documents which constitute the work product of an attorney and those which come within the attorney-client relationship may be excluded from public inspection. OAG 88-32.

The public agency properly excluded from public inspection those records and documents consisting of preliminary materials which set forth opinions, observations, and recommendations of various board members and which did not represent the public agency's final decision. OAG 88-32.

Where an administrative proceeding had not yet been concluded, and the tentative settlement had not yet been approved, the Labor Cabinet could withhold all documents and records pertaining to the investigation which was the subject of that administrative proceeding. OAG 88-36.

Worknotes containing a compliance officer's hand-drawn diagrams of the worksite or work operations and his observations, opinions, and preliminary drafts of possible citations can be exempt from public inspection; therefore, the public agency's denial of a request to inspect the compliance officer's worknotes in connection with an occupational safety and health investigation was supported by those exceptions to public inspection set forth in this section. OAG 88-36.

Denial of the request to inspect documents consisting of information, written statements, recordings, reports, and summaries of information pertaining to an investigation by school authorities of an incident involving students on school property was supported by exceptions to public inspection set forth in subdivisions (1)(g), (h) and (i) of this section and the federal Family Education and Privacy Rights Act. OAG 88-38.

Since the federal Family Educational and Privacy Rights Act sets forth provisions relative to the prohibition against the release of records pertaining to students in the absence of written consent of the parent or an appropriate court order, such records may be excluded from public inspection under subsection (1)(e) of this section. OAG 88-38.

The city's policy, relative to reports of ambulance runs by the public ambulance service, whereby it prohibited, pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section, public inspection of records relating to particular persons transported and specific facts pertaining to those persons and their injuries, was justified. OAG 88-42.

While there is no specific provision in the Open Records Act requiring that information pertaining to ambulance reports be kept confidential, there is a provision that a public agency need not permit the inspection of documents if to do so would involve the unwarranted invasion of a person's privacy. OAG 88-42.

A settlement agreement of an action against a public agency was subject to inspection, because a settlement had been reached, and there was no pending litigation; the privacy exception was not applicable because public funds were expended to settle the complaint, and the document itself was not within the attorney-client privilege. OAG 88-43.

Generally, the business records of a private firm are not subject to public inspection. OAG 88-44.

The public agency's denial of a request to inspect documents which were not in its possession and which constituted records of a private organization was justified; furthermore, the public agency's refusal to furnish documents which had not been inspected at the normal depository for such materials was justified even though the requesting party was an inmate who was not able to inspect the records because of his confinement. OAG 88-44.

A university's copy of a letter from the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) addressed to counsel representing the university's assistant coach was a public record subject to public inspection, and the exceptions to inspection were not applicable because the document in question was not correspondence between the university and a private party, and it was not a document prepared by anyone connected with the university. OAG 88-47.

While the school system may refuse to disclose the home addresses of students, it may not withhold the names of students attending the school. A list of names should be furnished, if currently available, or the school system should prepare such a list or let the requesting party prepare his or her own list from school system records. OAG 88-50.

A personnel folder of a public employee, by its very nature, contains a mixture of documents which are subject to inspection and which may be excluded from public inspection; rather than a "shotgun" approach or engaging in a sort of fishing expedition, a request to inspect personnel documents should be specific as to the kinds of records and documents which are the subject of the request to inspect. OAG 88-53.

A letter from the vice chancellor of a university to a member of the athletic department staff, which contained his preliminary impressions, observations, and opinions about various aspects of the operation of the basketball camp, did not represent the university's final decision or determination relative to the matter and could properly be withheld from public inspection. OAG 88-57.

A local police department may withhold from public inspection those copies of the uniform citations which require court disposition until such time as the legal proceedings involving those citations have been concluded or resolved. OAG 88-58 (supplemented by OAG 88-64).

Drafts generated in connection with the preparation by private persons and firms of the remedial investigation/feasibility study which was in progress, but incomplete, for the purpose of determining certain environmental problems and possible remedies, could be withheld from public inspection. OAG 88-60.

The public agency properly requested the person seeking to inspect records to furnish additional information in order that specific records might be located. OAG 88-60.

Where the private college did not receive any grants or loans from the Higher Education Assistance Authority, there was no evidence that the college was a "public agency" within the meaning of subdivision (1) of KRS 61.870, and the college properly denied the request to inspect its records and documents as it was not subject to the terms and provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 88-61.

Where no explanation was given as to why disclosure would constitute an invasion of privacy, the exceptions to public inspection set forth in subdivisions (1)(a) and (c) of this section were not applicable, and the public agencies incorrectly withheld from public inspection the list of names of persons who stayed at various hotels at state expense, in connection with the 1988 Kentucky Derby activities, and the list of names of persons who attended pre and post Kentucky Derby parties at the Governor's Mansion. OAG 88-62.

The State Police properly withheld from public inspection the arrest records of a particular person which were part of the state police's centralized criminal history records and which had been collected and compiled from materials supplied by local criminal justice agencies. OAG 88-63.

"Blanket" requests to law enforcement agencies on a "standing" basis are with few exceptions an abuse of the Open Records Act. OAG 88-64 (supplementing OAG 88-58).

The use of subsection (2) of KRS 17.150 by a law enforcement agency in denying public access to a uniform citation is a practice to be avoided. OAG 88-64 (supplementing OAG 88-58).

Work notes containing the compliance officer's hand-drawn diagrams of the worksite or work operations and his observations, opinions, and preliminary drafts of possible citations from an occupational safety and health investigation were exempt from public inspection. OAG 88-67.

The Division of Unemployment Insurance improperly denied a request to inspect records pertaining to the names of specific persons who had filed claims for benefits under the provisions of the unemployment insurance program. OAG 88-68.

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission regulations do not prohibit that agency from disclosing information to the parties involved; thus, subdivision (1)(c)(2) of this section would not apply to permit the Human Rights Commission to deny disclosure of its investigative file. OAG 88-69.

Where a decision had been made by the Human Rights Commission to proceed to an administrative hearing, the exemption of subdivision (1)(f) (now (1)(h)) of this section, even if applicable to the Commission's investigative file relating to an age discrimination allegation, would end. OAG 88-69.

Inspection of a report of the board of ethics of the General Assembly, on the basis of which the board had voted to file a formal complaint against a representative, could be properly denied pursuant to subdivision (1)(j) (now (1)(l)) of this section and subdivision (9) of KRS 6.820 (now repealed), until such time as the report was disclosed at a public hearing, or divulged by the board upon a finding of good cause for releasing it. OAG 88-80.

Since the actual complaint the board of ethics of the General Assembly voted to file against a representative had not yet been completed, its incomplete form would be termed a preliminary draft, and was thus excluded from inspection except as provided in subsection (1) of this section. OAG 88-80.

Where the secretary of the Cabinet for Economic Development prepared lists of persons he recommended for appointment to the Depressed Counties Economic Development Authority which he subsequently forwarded to the Governor's Office, the names on these lists were merely his recommendations and involved his personal opinions, and such documents were thus of a preliminary nature and, as an internal memorandum from a subordinate to a supervisor, expressed recommendations and opinions; therefore, the exceptions of subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) (now (1)(i) and (j)) of this section supported the denial of the request to inspect such documents. OAG 88-85.

The Labor Cabinet's denial of the request to inspect four (4) employee interview statements, in an occupational safety and health file regarding an investigation of two (2) deaths, was justified pursuant to subdivision (1)(j) of this section of the Open Records Act and subdivision (1)(a) of KRS 338.101. OAG 89-10.

"Records ... compiled in the process of detecting and investigating statutory or regulatory violations" as used in subdivision (1)(f) (now (1)(h)) of this section means those actively, specifically, intentionally, and directly compiled, as an integral part of a specific detection or investigation process; such phraseology does not encompass electronic recordings of general radio traffic or a police agency, not made uniquely in a specific detection or investigation process, which were "segregated" in connection with an investigation. OAG 89-11.

Exemption from public inspection set forth in subdivision (1)(f) (now (1)(h)) of this section applies until the administrative or judicial action has been completed or until it has been decided to take no such action; however, documents are subject to public inspection upon completion of the administrative or judicial action or the making of the decision not to take such action unless the documents may be exempted from inspection pursuant to another statutorily recognized exception to inspection. OAG 89-13.

If a "commendation" represents a final action by a university, then such a document should be made available for inspection; if a "commendation" is a preliminary action or part of an evaluative process or a recommendation made and passed along the chain of command, then it may be excluded from public inspection. OAG 89-17.

It is reasonable to assume that applications, resumes and vitae contain information of a personal nature, similar to an employee's personnel file; the custodian of such requested documents could sanitize them of all information of a personal nature. OAG 89-17.

The language of subdivision (1)(f) of this section speaks to particular records, not to an entire class of records, such as police dispatch logs. OAG 89-20.

Denial of a request to view police radio transmission logs based upon KRS 61.872(5), regarding an unreasonable burden in producing voluminous records, is not substantiated where the records sought are of an identified, limited class, typically maintained by month or year, so that they may be made readily available by providing appropriate binders or boxes. OAG 89-20.

A preliminary internal memorandum setting forth the opinions, observations and recommendations of a specific employee of the Corrections Cabinet did not represent a final investigative report of the Penitentiary or of the Corrections Cabinet nor did it represent any final action or decision of either of them as to the handling of the matter which had not been presented to the Board of Claims for investigation and disposition; as a preliminary document, the report could be withheld from public inspection. OAG 89-24.

Copies of documents, which were sent to the Department of Workers' Claims by the Kentucky Associated General Contractors Self-Insurers' Fund as required by KRS 342.350 and 803

KAR 25:025 which included a copy of a certified audit that was filed by the Associated General Contractors Self-Insurers' Fund and other pertinent financial information filed by the self-insurers' fund, were not exempt from inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(b) of this section; this information should have been available for public inspection in order that the potential insureds could have satisfied themselves about the financial stability and reliability of the insurance company. OAG 89-26.

Inspection of Visa charges must be permitted as they do not fall within any of the exceptions set forth in this section; a portion of the Visa Card account number could be masked to prevent improper use of the card number. OAG 89-27.

Bids, quotations, or proposals, submitted by or in the name of business firms, not private individuals, in soliciting state business cannot be considered as "correspondence with private individuals," within the meaning of subdivision (1)(g) (now (1)(i)) of this section; inspection of these records, when requested after selection of a vendor, must be permitted. OAG 89-31.

A report by the Environmental Protection Agency specifically termed a "draft report" was clearly a preliminary draft and did not lose that character by having been submitted to a state agency for review and comments. OAG 89-34.

Checks drawn upon a public account, and indicating disbursement of an amount of money therefrom, cannot be said to be public records "containing information of a personal nature," such that their public disclosure would constitute an "unwarranted invasion of personal privacy," so that denial of inspection could be properly based upon subdivision (1)(a) of this section; a check drawn upon a public account simply does not contain information of a personal nature. OAG 89-35.

Homeowners not having given releases, the possibility of litigation, or the lack of completion of work, are not reasons within the statutory exceptions set forth in this section, for denying inspection of public records regarding improvement of private property with federal grant moneys. OAG 89-36.

Write-up orders and inspectors' reports regarding building improvements funded with federal funds, are either orders for work to be done or statements of objective observations concerning work that has been done. Such orders or reports are not "preliminary recommendations or preliminary memoranda" within the meaning of subdivision (1)(h) (now (1)(j)) of this section. Accordingly, inspection of such documents may not be denied on such ground. OAG 89-36.

Subdivision (1)(a) of this section is a proper basis for denial of inspection of records pertaining to student disciplinary proceedings. OAG 89-38.

Internal notes of government personnel who inspected certain real property in regard to pollution from substances at that location were recorded opinions, observations and recommendations of government personnel. Consequently, inspection of them was properly denied pursuant to subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 89-39.

The records exempted from public inspection by subdivision (1)(d) of this section are so exempted until "... all of the property has been acquired ..." through completed condemnation proceedings or completed negotiations and purchase, with final consideration having been determined and deeds of conveyance having been delivered; such records are of course subject to inspection upon order of a court of competent jurisdiction. OAG 89-42.

End prices submitted to a public agency for major elements of a procurement are not trade secrets. Accordingly, bids or proposals containing such information must be made available for inspection when all bids have been rejected or a contract has been awarded. OAG 89-43.

For reasons expressed in OAG 89-43, records concerning end prices bid for certain major facets of a public procurement cannot be considered trade secrets. Accordingly, inspection of records containing such information must be permitted once all bids have been rejected or a contract has been awarded. OAG 89-44.

A request that addresses be provided to correspond with names and social security numbers presented by requester is not one properly founded upon Open Records provisions. In any event, the Revenue Cabinet had no compiled record corresponding to the request, and is banned by KRS 131.190 from divulging address information from tax returns, from which information conforming to request would have to have been extracted, thus its denial of address information was proper. OAG 89-45.

Blanket denial of inspection of property assessment and property record cards may not be properly based upon subdivisions (1)(a) and (1)(b) of this section; they must be made available for inspection following masking of confidential information contained thereon. OAG 89-50.

Property assessment and property record cards are not records confidentially disclosed to an agency; they are cards upon which property valuation administrators and their deputies record factual information concerning location, ownership, description, and valuation of property. OAG 89-50.

Even if the two (2) conditions contained in subdivision (1)(a) of this section are present, if a record contains some information that meets those conditions, and other information that does not, subsection (4) of this section requires, regarding material not excepted from inspection under this section, that the public agency shall separate the excepted material and make the nonexcepted material available for examination. OAG 89-50.

Information regarding the location of real property, its description, ownership history through time, and valuation history, as well as information concerning the description and valuation of tangible personal property such as vehicles, watercraft, and mobile homes, are the principal types of information recorded upon property assessment and property record cards, and such information, in being factual information about property, rather than a person, is not of a personal nature; however, information concerning stock holdings, and intangibles, and their valuation apart from the gross intangible assessment, may be deemed an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, to be disclosed only upon order of the court. OAG 89-50.

The tax rolls, pursuant to KRS 133.047(1), are an open public record for five (5) years, and if information is subject to routine public scrutiny under one statute, that same information, in general, cannot be properly termed confidential pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 89-50.

"Affairs of any person" and "affairs of the person's business," as used in KRS 131.190(1), refer to matters associated with a person that are recognized as being private, and not subject to routine public perusal; stock holdings and other intangibles, and business inventories fall in the category of information regarding the "affairs of a person or their business," and such information, in accordance with KRS 131.190(1) and subdivision (1)(j), may not be divulged by a property valuation administrator or employee thereof. OAG 89-50.

Information properly excepted from inspection pursuant to this section, or KRS 131.190, that is contained on property assessment and property record cards, must be separated from nonexcepted information, as by masking. OAG 89-50.

Where a person makes, to the Kentucky Labor Cabinet, a complaint that resulted in an OSHA inspection, as opposed to an employee making a statement in response to questioning during an OSHA inspection, KRS 338.101(1)(a) and subdivision (1)(j) of this section do not properly apply in support of a denial of the target employer's request for information concerning the source of the complaint. OAG 89-52.

Where the Labor Cabinet has determined to take no further action with regard to a particular complaint, the public record concerning that matter may be opened for inspection, although, pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section, unless there exists a court order to the contrary, the source of the complaint is exempt from public inspection. OAG 89-52.

The presence of litigation should not operate to prevent inspection of public records, since separate statutory grounds for inspection have been provided by the General Assembly; no exceptions to the general rules regarding inspection are provided for denying inspection of public records on the ground that litigation is either contemplated or in process. OAG 89-53.

Open Records provisions are not a substitute for requests under discovery procedures associated with civil actions as, where records may subsequently be offered as evidence in court, problems in establishing their integrity may be more difficult for those obtained under Open Records provisions, as compared with records obtained under discovery procedures. OAG 89-53.

A compliance officer's preliminary worknotes are exempt from release by subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 89-64.

An employee interview statement is exempt from release by KRS 338.101(1) and subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 89-64.

Open Records provisions should not be used as a substitute for discovery under Civil Rules where litigation is involved. OAG 89-65.

Police dispatch logs are subject to inspection without a court order, however, in some instances, particular entries could be properly denied pursuant to subdivision (1)(f) of this section. OAG 89-68.

If a letter from the Director of the Division of Air Quality for the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet is truly preliminary, then even though it is contained within agency records, it is excluded under this section. OAG 89-69.

Where the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet did adopt what was originally a preliminary legal memorandum as part of its final action, the legal memorandum was not preliminary as meant by subdivisions (1)(g) and (1)(h) of this section, and was therefore open for inspection. OAG 89-69.

If an informant chooses to accompany an inspector on an inspection made pursuant to informant's information, the informant's identity is no longer protected, but is not required to be disclosed. OAG 89-73.

Although under subdivision (1)(f) of this section, the identity of informants not otherwise known are disclosable after an enforcement action is completed or a decision is made to take no action, this subdivision of this section does not apply to the question of disclosing the identity of an informant who has requested confidentiality for two (2) reasons; first, the concern of this subdivision is with disclosure of information that would harm the agency, its thrust being not to guard the informant, but the agency; second, this subdivision speaks only of informants not otherwise known and this is a less select group than those who take the affirmative step of requesting confidentiality. OAG 89-73.

The Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet may refuse to disclose any citizens' complaints only until it decides that no action will be taken, or until the action it takes is completed, and only if an earlier disclosure would harm the agency in either of the two (2) ways set forth in subdivision (1)(f) of this section. OAG 89-73.

The terms and provisions of the Open Records Act were violated where a city refused to make available for public inspection those complaints which spawned investigations or resulted in hearings involving the named chief of the fire department. OAG 89-74.

"Subject enterprise" as it is used in subdivision (1)(b) of this section refers to motor carriers seeking to be granted a license or certificate to do business in Kentucky; it does not refer to third parties such as insurance companies which may provide insurance coverage for motor carriers. OAG 89-75.

Uniform police traffic accident reports prepared by law enforcement officers pursuant to KRS 189.635 are not confidential and are open records under the Open Records Law. OAG 89-76.

Social security numbers are exempt from public inspection under the provisions of subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 89-76.

The names of parties and witnesses regarding an automobile accident are not excluded from public inspection and the fact that some information contained in police accident reports may be exempted from public inspection does not relieve the public agency of providing the other information which is not exempted from public inspection. OAG 89-76.

The task of separating excepted material from nonexcepted material on voluminous numbers of police accident reports is admittedly burdensome, however, the decision to do so rests within the sound discretion of the public agency because the exemptions contained within subsection (1) of this section are permissive, not mandatory; therefore, a police department may make available all information contained on uniform police traffic accident reports or may expunge that information which is exempt from inspection, but may not deny inspection of the entire report. OAG 89-76.

A policy whereby a police department only provides copies of individual police reports to attorneys who advise that they represent one of the parties involved or a witness to the accident and who can identify the report by name of party and date or approximate date, or to individuals who are involved in an accident or witnesses thereto reflects a practice of providing public records to certain persons and denying the same records to other persons; this policy is in violation of the Open Records Law as the exemptions of subsection (1) of this section may be invoked according to the nature of the record, but not according to the person who is requesting the inspection or the stated or suspected purpose of the inspection. OAG 89-76.

While information derived from the property tax rolls may not be used for commercial or business purposes unrelated to property valuation or assessment, such ban does not apply to information obtained from other types of records of the Property Valuation Administrator's Office. OAG 89-77.

Requests for information, as distinguished from records, and requests that particular methods of inquiry into public records be provided, are outside the scope of Open Records provisions. OAG 89-77.

Where a property valuation administrator denied inspection of the tax rolls because the request involved the perceived use of information obtained or to be obtained from such rolls for commercial purposes, in contravention of KRS 133.047(2), the proper course was to make such denial in writing, citing subdivision (1)(j) of this section, and KRS 133.047(2); a brief explanation of how subdivision (1)(j) of this section applied to denying inspection of the tax rolls should have been set forth in the written denial, and a copy of the denial should have been promptly forwarded to the Office of the Attorney General. OAG 89-77.

A public agency cannot deny a request to inspect records because information from those documents may or will be used in some future legal action, although, if a legal action is in process when the request to inspect records is made, the public agency may be able to invoke the exception to inspection set forth in subdivision (1)(f) of this section; otherwise, a decision not to make records available for inspection because of the possibility or even the probability of a legal action at some future time is a violation of the Open Records Act. OAG 89-79.

Where a public agency invoked the exception found in subdivision (1)(f) of this section until its administrative or adjudicative process was completed, such basis was a proper one while enforcement action was still under consideration and final action had not been taken. OAG 89-80.

While city workers do not have to compile or explain records, they must make a good faith effort to make available for inspection, records related to fiscal assets, receipts, and expenditures, of the city, where there is a reasonable description of records sought. OAG 89-81.

Open Records provisions were not intended to serve as a comprehensive audit tool, or as a means of commanding compilation and production of specific information; Open Records provisions are intended to provide for inspection of reasonably described records held by public agencies. OAG 89-81.

Open Records provisions do not provide for, and agency workers are not required to provide under them, instruction in understanding the meaning or import of information shown upon records produced. OAG 89-81.

An attorney, under the facts of this case, was considered a "private individual" within the meaning of subdivision (1)(g) of this section. OAG 89-86.

The fact that individuals regarding whom records were sought had been the subject of wide publicity, and the fact that there had been substantial public concern regarding the events giving rise to the records sought, did not overwhelm subdivision (1)(g) of this section. OAG 89-86.

Agencies should have uniform policies regarding inspection of their records; if one person, in the absence of a court order, is allowed to inspect a record, all should be allowed to inspect. OAG 89-86.

Subdivision (1)(f) of this section supersedes the more ambiguous language in subdivisions (1)(a), (g), and (h) with regard to law enforcement actions. OAG 89-87.

Subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section have not been generally interpreted as being explicitly concerned with law enforcement actions, because of the existence of a quite explicit section on this point, namely subdivision (1)(f). OAG 89-87.

There may be no general denial of inspection of personnel records; in particular, inspection of employment applications and resumes, and records of educational qualifications — meaning educational levels obtained — insofar as reasonably related to qualification for public employment, must be permitted, where, under the facts of a given request to inspect, such review does not constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; information to be maintained as confidential may be masked or separated from information to be released, and employee evaluations, involving opinions, are not subject to inspection. OAG 89-90.

Under Open Records provisions there may not be a general or blanket denial of inspection of records contained in the personnel file of a public employee, or of a resume of application for employment, and to the extent that OAG 84-19 and OAG 87-77 uphold a general denial of inspection of the resume of a public employee, and OAG 79-275 upholds general denial of information on an employment application, they are overruled. OAG 89-90.

When the media attempts to carry out an evaluation regarding the quality of schools throughout the state, there is no unwarranted invasion of personal privacy in examining relevant prior work experience and educational qualifications of employees or former employees, and the same view applies to educational qualifications or levels attained by public employees. OAG 89-90.

A schoolteacher's college transcript is not subject to inspection, where a school board has denied inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 89-90.

Tape recordings of board of education meetings were public records within the meaning of KRS 61.870(2), although inspection thereof could be denied on the ground that the recordings were preliminary drafts regarding preparation of the official minutes, as inspection of preliminary drafts may be denied pursuant to subdivision (1)(g) of this section. OAG 89-93.

The City of Louisville failed to act consistent with Open Records provisions in making a blanket denial of a request to inspect a "performance appraisal" and related documents regarding the Louisville Police Chief, by (1) failing to provide a brief explanation of how statutory exceptions (to the general rule that inspection of public records is permitted) applied to records withheld from inspection, (2) by denying inspection of a record on the ground it was a "preliminary draft" when it was not of such character, and (3) by denying inspection of records on the ground they constituted "preliminary recommendations," when there was no indication they were other than final unto themselves, and no subsequent product was generated that the records could be considered preliminary to. OAG 90-1.

A contractor to a governmental entity must accept certain necessary consequences of involvement in public affairs. Such a contractor loses any character of a "private individual" as such phrase is used in subdivision (1) (g) of this section, that the contractor might be said to have, in connection with correspondence regarding administration or issues associated with administration of a governmental or public contract. OAG 90-7.

Letter which, although signed by an individual human being, was a letter of a corporate contractor under a public contract involving administration of that contract could not be properly characterized as "correspondence with a private individual" within the meaning of subdivision (1) (g) of this section. OAG 90-7.

Blanket denial by the division of waste management of inspection of a computer printout which contained some information subject to public inspection, and some which could be properly withheld as "notes," was not consistent with Open Records provisions. Pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, if a public record contains some material which is excepted from inspection pursuant to this section, and some material which is not, the public agency is to separate the excepted material, and make nonexcepted material available for inspection. OAG 90-10.

The cabinet for human resources failed to act consistent with Open Records provisions, by not explaining, in its initial response supplying copies of records, the "blanking out" of names of complainants and certain interviewees, upon copies of forms regarding complaints about possibly unlicensed day care facilities. Such deletion (blanking out) was nonetheless supported by subdivision (1) (a) of this section, which permits an agency to withhold from inspection, records of a personal nature, where disclosure thereof would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 90-12.

Where the return of survey forms completed by businesses affected by the Standiford field expansion plan at the request of the City of Louisville economic development office was purely voluntary, the information contained therein fell with the exemptions provided by subdivisions (1) (a) and (1) (g) of this section. OAG 90-13.

The word "person" within the meaning of subdivision (1) (a) of this section includes all of the definitions provided by KRS 446.010(26), which includes "bodies politic and corporate, societies, communities, the public generally, individuals, partnerships and joint stock companies." OAG 90-13.

Exemptions involving information of a personal nature, contents of real estate appraisals or preliminary drafts, and notes or correspondence with private individuals, were not applicable to request that city permit access to documents containing the names of all property owners who had received offers for their property from the City of Louisville and Jefferson County in connection with the airport expansion project. OAG 90-15.

In denying inspection of a particular record the agency shall advise the requesting party of the particular exception to public inspection it is relying upon and how it applies to the specific document and information being withheld. OAG 90-15.

Inspection of an investigating officer's memorandum, expressing as it does the investigating officer's opinion regarding the matter involved, and in view of its preliminary character, may be properly denied pursuant to subdivision (1)(h) of this section. A denial on such basis should be accompanied by a brief explanation of how the specific exception cited applies to the particular record withheld from inspection. OAG 90-16.

Requester should be allowed to inspect, should he wish to do so, materials he apparently furnished to the State Police in connection with an inquiry into allegations made by the requester and published in a letter to the editor, even though he may already have copies of such material, unless inspection of particular records is denied pursuant to a specific exception from among those set forth in this section, and the application of such exception is properly explained in keeping with subsection (1) of this section. Moreover, inspection of photographs contained in the file should be permitted, unless inspection is denied pursuant to a specific exception and the application of such exception is properly explained. OAG 90-16.

Where a request was for information, rather than to inspect records, and thus did not technically conform to Open Records provisions, the proper response was for the recipient of such request to promptly respond in writing, explaining that while Open Records provisions did not require a public agency to compile information, records that might yield the information sought would be made available for inspection during normal office hours; furthermore, parts of records withheld, such as the home address of an employee, or a social security number, should have been explained in a manner consistent with KRS 61.880. OAG 90-19.

Records disclosing salaries of public employees are subject to inspection by the public, however, since such records may contain personal information within the meaning of subdivision (1)(a) of this section (e.g., home address, social security number, etc.); such information may be masked or covered. OAG 90-19.

Salary and travel expense information is subject to public scrutiny; while the county clerk is not required to compile information, records that might reveal information sought, where reasonably identified, must be made available for inspection, subject to exceptions set forth in this section. OAG 90-19.

A state university acted consistent with Open Records provisions in denying inspection of records where the majority of the several hundred records sought contained "education records," as defined, and effectively made confidential by, the federal Buckley Amendment, such that virtually all of the records requested would require redaction or masking to remove information personally identifiable to a student; an unreasonable burden in view of the scope of the request(s), if the records were to be made available for inspection without jeopardizing federal aid. OAG 90-24.

A state university failed to act consistently with Open Records provisions in denying a request to inspect five (5) particular public safety dispatcher log cards, where the request for those specified items was particular, and narrow in scope, thus making redaction or masking of confidential information feasible without placing an unreasonable burden upon the agency. OAG 90-24.

Police dispatch cards are subject to public inspection where such dispatch logs are of a general jurisdiction police agency or sheriff's office; this does not apply, however, to logs generated by a university law enforcement unit subject to Buckley Amendment provisions. OAG 90-24.

In denying part of a request to inspect public records, a public agency failed to act consistently with Open Records provisions by not citing a proper statutory basis for its denial, and in failing to briefly explain how a statutory provision it did cite, applied to a record that appeared to be withheld from inspection. OAG 90-26.

The Department of Education was not required to compile a listing to conform to a given request to inspect public records. OAG 90-26.

A response to a request to inspect public records should accurately cite a particular exception from among those in this section, if it denies, or partially denies such a request; additionally, a brief explanation should be given, as called for by KRS 61.880(1), regarding how a given exception cited as a basis for denial of inspection applies to a record withheld from inspection. OAG 90-26.

If a record of which inspection is sought does not exist, the agency should specifically so indicate. OAG 90-26.

A county board of education failed to act consistently with Open Records provisions by failing to make a written response stating the specific basis for its denial of inspection of records reflecting exact beginning and ending salary payments to a teacher, and in refusing to allow inspection of such records. OAG 90-30.

Amounts paid from public coffers are perhaps uniquely of public concern and the public is entitled to inspect records documenting exact amounts paid from public monies, to include amounts paid for items, or for salaries, etc.; specific sums paid in salary from public monies to a teacher in the public schools fall within such purview, and are subject to inspection by the public and by the media, as disclosure of such payments does not constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy within the meaning of subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 90-30.

The Kentucky Parole Board acted consistently with Open Records provisions in denying, as privileged pursuant to statute, a parole officer's "Special Report." OAG 90-32.

A governmental record regarding employee time and attendance, in relation to which public moneys are expended, cannot be considered as being entirely of a personal nature, the disclosure of which would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; a time and attendance record (e.g., work schedule, time card, sick leave claim, etc.) operates as a bill or claim for public moneys, therefore such records cannot be properly treated, as a whole, as being information of a personal nature, disclosure of which would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy within the meaning of subsection (1)(a) of this section. OAG 90-34.

An employee's work schedule, time card, or sick leave record, associated with normal recordation of times worked or to be worked, cannot be said to be "compiled in the course of detecting or investigating statutory violations," within the meaning of subsection (1)(f) of this section; at the most, such records, in the case of a police officer, would be termed as being compiled collaterally to investigatory assignments and in any event, any information contained upon such records that would harm the agency by revelation of informants, or by premature release in relation to a prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication, may be masked, and a copy of the records showing the officer's scheduled or actual time and attendance, and any sick leave claimed, may be provided. OAG 90-34.

Evaluation recommendations which involve observations about state employees' performance of governmental work, given their specific character, are not information of a personal nature within the meaning of subsection (1)(a) of this section and where the evaluation recommendations of the successful applicant for a position have been released, there is no basis for withholding such recommendations regarding the unsuccessful applicants; the evaluation recommendations were no more personal in nature in relation to the unsuccessful applicants, than they were in relation to the successful applicant. OAG 90-35.

Since inspection of evaluation recommendations regarding a successful applicant for a position were not denied as preliminary recommendations, there was no appropriate basis for denying inspection of such recommendations regarding the unsuccessful applicants on the ground that such recommendations were of a personal nature, especially where the counsel of an unsuccessful candidate was requesting such information. OAG 90-35.

Where letters of the Transportation Cabinet denying access to certain public records did not state a basis of denial pursuant to one or more of the exceptions set forth in this section, and did not provide an accompanying brief explanation of how such exceptions applied to the records withheld from inspection, the Transportation Cabinet failed to act consistently with KRS 61.870 to 61.884. OAG 90-35.

In response to request to inspect all documents relating to settlement of legal action against city, if the city has a record or records setting forth moneys paid on behalf of the city in settling the suit in question, such record should be promptly made available for inspection; this view applies to any record of such nature in the possession of the attorney for the city, that would be considered a record of the city, though held by counsel; if the city has records regarding settlement of the suit in question, other than one setting forth the amount of moneys paid on behalf of the city in settling the suit in question, the city should, in a written response, itemize which records it has and if it denies inspection of any of such "other" records, it should state a specific basis for denial based upon the exceptions set forth in this section; if it has no record setting forth the amount of the settlement paid or payable, it should specifically so state, vis-a-vis the city government as a whole, and not just in relation to a record in the possession of the city manager. OAG 90-36.

Records in the possession of city's insurance company concerning settlement of legal action against city are not reachable under Open Records provisions. OAG 90-36.

Where a request was made for portions of taped conversations between a police department hostage negotiation team and an individual who allegedly held his family hostage for several hours until he apparently killed his estranged wife and himself, and where these were all conversations in which the alleged perpetrator was a participant, since excepted information could properly be omitted from those portions of the tape, the remaining nonexcepted information had to be produced since the information requested was not so voluminous so as to constitute an unreasonable burden. OAG 90-56.

A document setting forth preliminary information concerning certain air samples, which did not represent a final investigative report or study, and which did not represent a final action, decision or determination on the matter, was a preliminary document which may be withheld from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 90-57.

State agency properly handled request to inspect public documents even though the agency did not furnish requested copies of certain test results because no such documents existed when the request was received and the agency's response was made; and the agency properly utilized its discretion to withhold from public inspection a copy of a preliminary draft or study. OAG 90-57.

A decision to take disciplinary action or not to take disciplinary action against a public employee for actions related to that employee's job performance is a matter about which the public has a right to know and a request for records regarding same does not constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy of that public employee. OAG 90-58.

An intra-office memorandum from an employee of a municipal division to another employee of the division in which oral allegations by a citizen against a division employee were reported and which included an expression of an opinion as to the implication of the citizen's oral allegations was exempt from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 90-58.

The members of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association are neither state employees nor state licensees; they much more closely resemble members of a voluntary organization receiving at least twenty-five percent (25%) of its funding from state or local funds, and although the home addresses of those members are not required to be divulged by subdivision (1)(a) of this section, their work addresses do not fall under the exemptive language of this section. OAG 90-60.

Where a University of Kentucky Alumni Association member's work address and home address are one and the same, the address should be deemed the member's home address for the purposes of this section. OAG 90-60.

A juvenile court's orders appointing specific attorneys as juveniles' guardians ad litem and orders authorizing their payment in specific cases are confidential juvenile court records and as such are excluded from public view, although, a public agency's records that a specific attorney was paid a sum certain out of public funds for his or her service in a specific court as a guardian ad litem are not; if the agency's records include the names of the juveniles involved, making release of such information an invasion of the juveniles' privacy, those names may be removed from the records before allowing access thereto. OAG 90-62.

Cabinet records of a disbursement to an individual for discharging the duty of guardian ad litem in juvenile court are not juvenile court records as envisioned by KRS 610.340(1); rather, they are public records of a public expenditure made by a public agency to a person in consideration of a public service which was performed under the auspices of the juvenile court. OAG 90-62.

Investigative files, reports and other documents maintained by criminal justice agencies are not subject to public inspection until after the prosecution is completed or the investigation has been concluded and a determination has been made not to prosecute. OAG 90-64.

If various documents, including memoranda of meetings and telephone conversations, constitute preliminary intraoffice communication setting forth opinions, observations and recommendations of various agency personnel, and they do not represent the agency's final decision or determination on any matter, then they may be withheld from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 90-66.

Responses that certain requested items do not exist or cannot be located are proper responses when they represent the true state of events. OAG 90-66.

Where the State Police had been asked by the FBI to withhold certain documents pending completion of the FBI's investigation into the same matter, the State Police acted in accordance with the open records law in denying inspection of these documents. OAG 90-67.

Salaries of public employees are not exempt from disclosure under the Open Records Act. OAG 90-71.

There is no specific exception in the Open Records Act that authorizes a public agency to withhold public records from an applicant because access to the records may be obtained from another public agency, even if the requested records might more appropriately or more easily be obtained from that other public agency. OAG 90-71.

Where a governmental board does have custody or control over public records that contain certain requested information, according to the requirements of the Open Records Act, the board should have given the person making the request either: (1) access to the records; or (2) a statement of the specific exceptions authorizing the withholding of the records. OAG 90-71.

Where an agency's denial of a permit was not a final decision, but rather was a draft tentatively denying the application, such denial was a preliminary step in the decision-making process and release of the requested information would have been premature; thus, the open records request with regard to testimony relied upon by the agency was properly denied pursuant to subdivision (1)(f) of this section. OAG 90-72.

A request for “notes, copies of all correspondence and taped conversations ... in negotiating the plea bargain” was properly denied because those items are preliminary drafts, notes and memoranda. OAG 90-77.

In the interest of protecting the employee’s right of privacy it is proper for the public agency to require written permission from the employee before anyone else, including her attorney, examines her entire personnel file. OAG 90-83.

The public agency is not required to search for material which the requesting party cannot describe with some degree of clarity. OAG 90-83.

Because subdivision (1)(f) of this section withdraws any exemption from such records “after enforcement is completed or a decision is made to take no action,” not all records compiled in the process of law enforcement are exempt, and even those that are exempt may subsequently lose that protected status. OAG 90-89.

Since these interview transcripts are the property of the FBI and as this federal government agency requests that the documents not be disseminated, the state police was correct in denying release of these documents. OAG 90-90.

A letter or document written by an elected public official such as a sentencing judge or prosecuting attorney which contains an opinion as to whether the Parole Board should or should not grant a parole hearing is exempt from inspection unless incorporated into, or made a part of, the Parole Board’s final decision on the matter. OAG 90-97.

Documents are exempt from inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(f) even though the agency in possession of the documents is not the agency involved in a prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication. OAG 90-97.

The word “preliminary” as used in subdivision (1)(h) obviously refers to recommendations made by a person prior to a final decision or action being made by a state agency; it does not matter whether the recommendation is the first, second or last recommendation if the state agency has not yet taken final action. OAG 90-97.

Subdivision (1)(j) of this section and KRS 17.150 (2) exempt from open records disclosure the files of law enforcement agencies which have not been closed. OAG 90-104.

Drafts of agreed orders are not notices of final action of a public agency; only the final agreed order actually signed and agreed to by the parties is correspondence giving notice of final action of a public agency. OAG 90-107.

There is no allowance in the Open Records Act for nondisclosure of documents pertaining to subjects of “litigation pending”; thus, denial of a request for this reason is facially defective. OAG 90-110.

Where information requested was compiled by agency during its investigation of claimants’ claims for unemployment insurance benefits, as a product of that investigation it clearly constituted records preliminary to agency’s final decision on the claims, and was excepted from the disclosure requirements of the Open Records Act pursuant to the exceptions found at subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 90-111.

An agency may not justify its refusal to permit inspection solely on the grounds that the agency has elected to adopt a policy of separating exempt and non-exempt material from public records. OAG 90-112.

Responses denying inspection of public records should include reference to a specific statutory exception authorizing the withholding of the record. OAG 90-112.

Applications and resumes from unsuccessful applicants for state jobs are exempt from inspection or copying under the Open Records Law pursuant to subdivisions (1)(a) and (1)(g) of this section. OAG 90-113.

To the extent that public records request sought access to copies of all applications for the position of Director—Facility Construction received by Jefferson County Public Schools on or after April 17, 1989, such documents are private rather than public records, as defined by subdivisions (1)(a) and (1)(g) of this section; these documents are exempted from release since they contain information of a personal nature where the public disclosure thereof would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 90-113.

Although allowing inspection of a subpoena delivered to the office of the State Veterinarian by the Federal Bureau of Investigation would not be as intrusive and harmful as allowing inspection of the documents requested in the subpoena, such inspection still could harm the investigation by prematurely indicating the documents, materials, or issues that are being reviewed and scrutinized by the federal government; once, however, the investigation is concluded, inspection of the subpoena should be permitted. OAG 90-116.

The Department of Agriculture, Division of Animal Health, is a law enforcement agency and the request for any subpoena delivered to the office of the state veterinarian by the Federal Bureau of Investigation is a record of the Department that was compiled by the Department in the process of detecting and investigating statutory or regulatory violations. The fact that the subpoena was served on the Department by the federal government does not change the fact that the subpoena was one of the documents compiled by the Department in this process. Moreover, the fact that the compilation of documents may not have begun until the subpoena was received by the Department does not change the fact that the Department did compile such documents, including the subpoena. OAG 90-116.

It is simply not feasible to protect the complainant’s identity if a copy of an audio recording of her voice on a 911 telephone call is released; disclosure of the complainant’s identity by providing a copy of the tape for use on a television show would be an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, even if the caller’s name and address are deleted, and it is not outweighed by the public’s right to governmental information. Release of the complainant’s identity would effectively chill many 911 telephone calls. OAG 90-117.

Public records which have been inadvertently released for inspection by non-custodial persons with access to public records does not prohibit an agency from subsequently denying inspection or copying of the same record by the official custodian. OAG 90-117.

County Board of Education did not act consistent with the provisions of this act in denying attorney’s request to inspect a letter from police chief in which the chief expressed his concern to school superintendent as to misgivings regarding a promoter engaged to arrange a fund raising event to be staged at a school facility; even though there was a police investigation concerning the promoter, the letter was not a record of the police, and thus, the board’s reliance on subdivision (1)(f) of this section to withhold the letter was not justified, nor would the board be justified in withholding the letter based on subdivision (1)(g). OAG 90-140.

A letter verifying an electrician’s qualifications to sit for a licensure examination was not viewed as having been made with an expectation of privacy, nor as correspondence with a private individual. OAG 90-142.

All information obtained by a licensing agency about a potential licensee should not necessarily be available for inspection. Some data, such as test scores or confidential letters of recommendation, may remain private. However, the public’s interest in verifying that licensees meet educational or work experience requirements outweighs the minimal privacy interests of a licensee in the name and address of his former employer. OAG 90-142.

As to request to inspect all documentation that was given on electrical code enforcement officer’s job application for obtaining his job as such, masking the information other than the names and addresses of former employers was justified; a government employer may block out such personal information as the employee's home address, social security number, phone number and the like. OAG 90-142.

The need for disclosure is particularly strong where the records are from a licensing body, established to protect the public, the public also has a substantial interest in seeing that a government agency enforces its statutes and ordinances in an evenhanded manner. OAG 90-142.

Urban County Government's reliance on subdivision (1)(a) of this section to deny a request to inspect documents containing the name and address of an electrical licensee's former employer, under whom the licensee served his apprenticeship, was not justified under the circumstances of the facts presented, where the licensee was required to work under a licensed contractor a certain number of years in order to be eligible to take a qualifying licensure examination, as the public's right to this information outweighs the licensee's and licensee's former employer's right to privacy; neither may the government agency exclude the document, in reliance on subdivision (1)(g), as information contained in correspondence from private individuals, where the agency relied on the information in permitting an applicant to take the licensure exam. OAG 90-142.

Where a local government establishes minimum qualifications that a person must achieve before he is eligible to take a licensure examination, the public should be provided access to enough information to verify that these qualifications have been met; the public should not be required to simply take the government's word that minimum qualifications were satisfied in a given case. OAG 90-142.

Writings from private citizens to government agencies are not considered correspondence from private citizens where an agency is expected to rely on the correspondence to take some action, such as take a disciplinary action against a licensee, or enter into a government contract based on bids; in each instance disclosure is mandatory upon request, after the final governmental action, and verification of an applicant's qualifications to take a licensure examination as following this same rule. OAG 90-142.

The Kentucky State Police acted consistent with the Open Records Act and KRS 17.150(2), when it denied a request to inspect death investigative reports in its custody which were part of an active, ongoing investigation, notwithstanding that the investigation was almost one and one-half (1½) years old at the time of the request. OAG 90-143.

It is within the sound discretion of the law enforcement agency to decide when a case is active, merely inactive, or finally closed. OAG 90-143.

Although water district has not complied with various procedural requirements set forth in KRS 61.880(1) and KRS 61.872(4) relative to the handling and disposition of requests to inspect documents, the water district's refusal to permit the inspection of polygraph test results is justified under the Open Records Act as such documents may be excluded from public inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 90-144.

Open and active investigative files of the Kentucky State Police are exempt from inspection, and this includes medical or autopsy reports. OAG 91-6.

A Kentucky State Police case file is not open for inspection while the investigation is ongoing and, therefore, where prosecution has not been completed the records sought from the State Police file for inspection may be and were properly excluded. OAG 91-8.

A Letter of Intent issued by a city to an industrial entity considering locating in the city, was not final agency action because the "incentive package" was subject to negotiation and change until such time as final agreement was reached among the parties and, therefore, the Letter of Intent was a preliminary document that may be withheld from inspection pursuant to subsections (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 91-21.

A presentation prepared as part of preliminary negotiations does not reflect final agency action and therefore is exempt from disclosure as a preliminary record, pursuant to subsection (1)(h) of this section. OAG 91-21.

School district improperly denied the request of the Department of Public Advocacy for access to material pertaining to the internal investigation conducted by school authorities relative to a disciplinary proceeding involving a student, for the provisions of subsection (5) of this section require such a disclosure to a public agency in the performance of its legitimate governmental functions. OAG 91-22.

A report from the Commissioner to the Governor concerning the Commissioner's opinion on the Union Underwear-Jamestown Pipeline issue is a preliminary memoranda and records of this nature are not required to be made available for public inspection under the Open Records Act. OAG 91-23.

Where an attorney requested a case record of a child for whom her clients had been foster parents, the Cabinet for Human Resources acted consistently with the open records law by denying inspection of a case record pursuant to subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 91-30.

Guidelines of the Metropolitan Sewer District (MSD) for acquiring sewer treatment plants are exempt from open records treatment pursuant to subsection (1)(d) of this section as it contains real estate appraisals, engineering or feasibility estimates and evaluations made for MSD relative to the acquisition of small sewer systems, but once the acquisition of all of the sewer systems is complete, then this information would cease to become exempt under the Open Records Law. OAG 91-31.

The Metropolitan Sewer District Guidelines for the purchase of small sewer systems is a preliminary memoranda reflecting opinions and policies and is exempt from open records pursuant to subsection (1)(h) of this section. OAG 91-31.

Cabinet for Human Resources acted consistently with the Open Records Laws to the extent that it withheld from inspection the names of informants which spawned its investigation pursuant to subdivisions (1)(a) and (j) of this section and KRS 620.050(5)(a), and to the extent that it denied inspection of the verbal complaint or oral allegations made by an individual to an employee of the cabinet. However, the cabinet acted inconsistently with the Open Records Law to the extent that it denied inspection of the written complaint which initially spawned the investigation, although, the names of informants contained within the written complaint may properly be withheld. OAG 91-33.

The substantial privacy interests of suspects investigated but not charged with criminal activity by the Medicaid Fraud Division of the Attorney General's office outweighs the public's right of access to the closed files. OAG 91-35.

Although OAG 89-87 held that subdivision (1)(f) of this section supersedes the more ambiguous language in subdivisions (1)(a), (g), and (h) of this section, OAG 89-87 does not accurately state the law and should be overruled. OAG 91-35.

An agency relying on the exemptions under KRS 17.150(2)(b) and subdivision (1)(a) of this section has a duty to provide for inspection of that part of its records that are nonexempt and justify that part which it has excluded with specificity, briefly explaining how the exception applies to those parts of the record withheld. OAG 91-35.

A public employee reprimanded after an investigation of alleged misconduct may have a cognizable personal privacy interest in records pertaining to a privately issued reprimand, because such a reprimand is intended for a particular class of persons. However, the employee's privacy interest is outweighed by the public's interest in being informed about the conduct of public employees when that conduct is job related;

the public has a right to know about the employee's misconduct and any resulting disciplinary action taken against the employee. OAG 91-41.

The privacy interest of disciplined public employees is outweighed by the public's right to be informed about the job related conduct of the employees. OAG 91-41.

Subdivision (1)(b) of this section does not authorize nondisclosure of "Form Es" filed by motor carriers with the Transportation Cabinet. OAG 91-44.

The Open Records Act does not apply generally to records generated by the Judicial Retirement and Removal Commission inasmuch as the commission is an agency of the Court of Justice, created under authority of the Kentucky Constitution and Supreme Court Rule; records of the court and agencies of the court enjoy a special status and are placed under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Court of Justice pursuant to KRS 26A.200 and KRS 26A.220. OAG 91-45.

The Kentucky Bar Association is an agency of the court created and supervised by it and court records are given a special status under KRS 26A.200 and 26A.220, and are exclusively governed by the Court of Justice. OAG 91-47.

A water district is a public agency, created under authority of KRS Chapter 74, and is therefore subject to the Open Records Act. Accordingly, its records are open for inspection by any person, unless those records are exempt under one of the statutorily authorized exceptions. OAG 91-48.

Inspection of letters of reference written on behalf of an applicant who became commissioner of a water district may be denied under the exception that has been carved out of the Open Records Act for correspondence with private individuals. Such letters are not correspondence between two (2) public officials on official business within the contemplation of the act, and are therefore exempt. OAG 91-48.

The public is entitled to know the name, position, work station and salary of a public employee however, a public employee is entitled to privacy in his personal life and off-duty activities, and this right to privacy extends to the public employee's home address, social security number and marital status. OAG 91-48.

The public's interest in inspecting the resume of a water district chairman to assess his qualifications to serve, outweighs his right of privacy about such matters since one does not typically work or attend school in secret. However, information of a personal nature contained in the resume, such as home address, phone number, social security number and marital status should be separated and withheld. OAG 91-48.

Written notes, shorthand notes or tape recordings made during a meeting solely to assist the agency's clerk in preparing the official minutes are preliminary records and may be withheld from public inspection. OAG 91-49.

A copy of an accident report, masking any exempted information such as social security numbers, should be made available to the requester. OAG 91-50.

Case files in the possession of the State Police are not open to inspection while the case is active. OAG 91-50.

Upon completion of the prosecution or after a decision not to prosecute is made, a State Police file will be subject to public inspection unless the documents contained in it are exempt under another exception to the Open Records Act. OAG 91-50.

Records which are the work product of an attorney in the course of advising a client are not discoverable under CR 26.02(3); such records are therefore exempt from public inspection under KRS 447.154, which provides in part that no act of the General Assembly shall be construed to limit the right of the Court of Justice to promulgate rules, and subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 91-53.

Records which are privileged under the rules of discovery are exempt from mandatory disclosure under subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 91-53.

Although it receives federal funding and supervision for many of its myriad activities, the Cabinet for Human Resources is a state, and not a federal, agency. Its records are subject to the Kentucky Open Records Act. The Federal Freedom of Information Act has no force as to state records, only the records of federal agencies. OAG 91-56.

It is not permissible to cite an exemption under the Federal Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), 5 USCS § 552, or a regulation citing a FOIA exemption, as the federal law or regulation prohibiting disclosure of public records under subdivision (1)(i) of this section. OAG 91-56.

Where individual requesting records concerning his arrest and subsequent investigation, had indicated that he intends to seek post-conviction relief, his conviction was not final, and the documents pertaining to his arrest, and the investigation of his case, were available through the discovery provisions of the Rules of Criminal Procedure, prior to trial. They will again be available to him, and the public generally, unless otherwise properly exempt, once his conviction has been affirmed by the court of last resort to which it is taken. OAG 91-57.

If a document is exempt under subdivision (1)(a) of this section, it does not lose this status after the agency takes final action. OAG 91-62.

Inspection of employee evaluations may be denied under subdivision (1)(a) of this section; the privacy interests protected are as much those of the evaluator as those of the person being evaluated inasmuch as the evaluator generally makes his evaluation with the understanding that it will be kept confidential. OAG 91-62.

Riverport Authority violated the Open Records Act in denying request for access to invoices of company as they were not trade secrets referred to in subsection (1)(b) of this section; however, authority was correct in withholding the worksheets used by the company in calculating the figures contained in the invoices inasmuch as these were preliminary documents exempt from inspection under subsections (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 91-70.

Annual audits of state dock and state park are not a secret commercially valuable plan or formula but are public documents and are therefore subject to the public inspection unless there is a possibility of prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication; audits that fall into the latter category are exempt under subdivision (1)(f) of this section. OAG 91-72.

Although marina management services is a private corporation, and not a "public agency" within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1), its records are "public records" within the meaning of KRS 61.870(2) to the extent that they are transmitted to, and retained by, the Department of Parks, and since under KRS 61.870(2) the term "public record" includes records that are prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency if records of private entities or agents are in the possession of or retained by a state agency, they are, in general, subject to inspection. If the records are not retained by a public agency, on the other hand, they are private records and are therefore beyond the reach of the Open Records Act. OAG 91-72.

Since the Department of Parks receives a percentage of the licensee's monthly gross income and requires that it submit an annual audit a portion of the licensee's receipts become public money, and because its required year-end audit remains in the possession of the department, that audit is a public record and therefore is subject to inspection under the Open Records Act. OAG 91-72.

Where with respect to request for financial data although department improperly relied on subdivision (1)(b) of this section in refusing to release the information, the request was not sufficiently definite to permit it to formulate a response for while the purpose and intent of the Open Records Act is to permit the free and open examination of public records, the right of access is not absolute; as a precondition to inspection, a requesting party must identify with "reasonable particularity" those documents which he wishes to review. OAG 91-72.

The Hardin County Schools may refuse to release its recommendations on salary increases under subdivision (1)(h) of this section. The requested documents fit squarely within this exception, and if upon final action of the school board, these recommendations are adopted, they will become public records and must be made available for inspection. OAG 91-78.

Although the public is entitled to know the name, position, work station, and salary of a public employee, that employee is entitled to privacy in his personal life and off-duty activities. OAG 91-81.

An agency cannot be penalized for releasing exempted documents, such as social security numbers, but it may invoke an exception if it wishes to maintain a uniform policy with regard to records that are exempt under the Open Records Law, such as home addresses. OAG 91-81.

Pursuant to subdivision (1)(d) of this section, when the necessary acquisitions for a project are within a relatively compact area and the limits of the project are reasonably drawn, it is the legislative intent that the appraisals on the property should not be made available for inspection until such time as all of the parcels of land owned by various owners have been acquired. OAG 91-83.

Preliminary interoffice and intraoffice memoranda or notes setting forth opinions, observations and recommendations, as well as investigative reports that do not represent the agencies' final action may be withheld from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. Any such documents that are incorporated into final agency action, however, are public records and must be released. OAG 91-90.

Where university president adopted the recommendations of the Grievance Committee in concluding that no violations of personnel policy had occurred, and thereafter attempted to conciliate faculty member by requiring the Director to explain those policies to her but did not order that any remedial action be taken, nor did he offer any other explanation for her decision, or reject the findings and recommendations of the Committee, although the president failed to employ any legal "terms of art" in incorporating these findings, it is clear that she adopted the Committee's report, and that the report thereafter lost its preliminary status and was not exempt under subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 91-90.

Where defendant in criminal case indicated that he intended to seek post-conviction relief, his conviction was not final; therefore tape recordings of his statements to the police were available through the discovery provisions of the Rules of Criminal Procedure, prior to trial and will again be available to him, and the public generally, unless otherwise properly exempt, once his conviction has been affirmed by the court of last resort to which it is taken, thus denial of defendant's request for access to tape recordings was proper under subdivision (1)(f) of this section. OAG 91-91.

If a criminal case is on appeal, records pertaining to the case are exempt from disclosure under subdivision (1)(f) of this section and a criminal conviction is not final until it has been upheld by the last appellate court to which the conviction can be taken. OAG 91-91.

State police properly denied request to inspect state police file of murder investigation where victim's husband had entered a plea of guilty, for until a plea of guilty has been formally accepted and incorporated in a final judgment or order, a defendant is free to seek to withdraw his plea, and the court is free to accept or reject it and the State Police may therefore properly treat this case as active since the defendant has not been sentenced and the "enforcement action" is not "complete." OAG 91-92.

Where person requesting documents regarding detention of student at a school and the report and findings of an investigation conducted by the Department for Social Services did not demonstrate that he fell under any of the statutorily recognized classifications of KRS 620.050 or this section or that his particular situation warrants the release of the requested material his request was properly denied. OAG 91-93.

Whenever the personal privacy exemption is raised by an agency to justify withholding public records the preliminary question which must be addressed is whether the interest in nondisclosure is a type of privacy the exemption was intended to protect; if the preliminary question is answered in the affirmative, then the privacy interest of the individual must be balanced against the right of the public to be informed about the conduct and affairs of state government and its officers and employees. OAG 91-94.

The Kentucky Personnel Board was not justified in redacting from the records the names of the employees who testified in open hearings before releasing the records to the newspaper requesting the records under subdivision (1)(a) of this section for when individuals voluntarily testify in an open hearing, whether in court, or before an administrative tribunal, they do not have a reasonable expectation of privacy concerning their testimony or their identities. OAG 91-94.

The exemptions of subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section are intended to protect the integrity of an agency's internal decision-making process by encouraging the free exchange of opinions and ideas. If the requested records reflect final agency action, on the other hand, they are not exempt. OAG 91-97.

Once an offered leasing rate, service and concession package has been accepted or rejected by a lessee of the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center or the Commonwealth Convention Center, the matter is final and inspection of documents relating thereto is proper. OAG 91-97.

Regarding material pertaining to public bids only those records generated in the competitive negotiation process, while it is ongoing, are exempt. Once those negotiations are concluded, either by the award of a contract to one bidder or the rejection of all bids, the public agency must make the records available for public inspection. OAG 91-99.

Correspondence between corporation that has been awarded a public contract as a result of public bids and a public agency cannot be considered correspondence with a private individual insofar as it was exchanged by a public agency and a corporation under public contract, and involved issues pertaining to that contract. All correspondence exchanged prior to the award of the contract which relates to bids, quotations or proposals is a public record. All correspondence exchanged after the award of the contract, is also public record. OAG 91-99.

Reports on the investigation of fires are exempt from mandatory disclosure under subdivision (1)(j) of this section since reports of investigations of fire losses conducted by a fire department may, in the discretion of the chief of the fire department, be withheld from the public. OAG 91-100.

Denial of request for access to lists of fire and building code violations prepared by the chief, or his designee, and the city inspector, was improper as KRS 227.370 does not vest the chief with discretion to withhold information pertaining to violations noted in his inspection and thus subdivision (1)(j) of this section is inapplicable; moreover inspection reports are not "preliminary" within the meaning of subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 91-100.

Where the letter of reprimand issued by public school to an individual who was the subject of investigation which enumerated the charges against him and advised him of the action taken against him and did not refer to, or incorporate any portion of, a report compiled in the course of the investigation, the documents which comprise the report were preliminary to the final decision and were properly withheld from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 91-102.

To successfully raise the exception of subdivision (1)(b) of this section, an agency must establish that the requested records: (1) were confidentially disclosed to it; (2) in conjunction with an application for a loan; and (3) that release of the records would permit an unfair advantage to competitors of the subject enterprise. OAG 91-105.

Since financial information relating to capital investments and employment figures for businesses located in an enterprise zone has been disseminated to the public in the past, since by the rule of strict constructions the requirement that the records be disclosed in conjunction with an application for a loan was not satisfied and since it was not established that businesses seeking certification will be placed at a competitive disadvantage by disclosure of the information, denial of request to inspect the documents under subdivision (1)(b) of this section was improper. OAG 91-105.

Public's interest in monitoring the activities of Enterprise Zone Authority to determine if the businesses certified for the zones qualify for the benefits received by virtue of their investments and the number of jobs they claim to create, outweighs those businesses' interest in maintaining the confidentiality of information relating to capital investments and employment figures for businesses located in enterprise zones, therefore, to the extent that the requested information does not relate to the businesses' personal financial data, but merely reflects their compliance with the requirements for certification of KRS 154.655(5) (renumbered as KRS 154.45-010) such information should properly be disclosed under subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 91-105.

While it is undoubtedly true that communications between joint clients are fully protected in litigation between the clients and a third party, documents which pursuant to KRS 61.880(2) demonstrated that they pertained to more general zoning and land use questions and, although they contained communications between attorney and client, they were not made in confidence, within the meaning of former KRS 421.210(4), since they were circulated to other public agencies and thus did not fall under the exemption of subdivision (1)(j) of this section; however, such documents being preliminary interoffice or intraoffice memoranda or notes setting forth opinions, observations and recommendations, were properly withheld pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section, and were properly shared with other public agencies pursuant to subsection (5) of this section. OAG 91-108.

An agency cannot withhold every document which relates to a particular matter under subdivision (1)(j) of this section and the attorney-client privilege simply because it is represented by an attorney in that matter; however, it is the attorney who is best able to make a ready determination of what papers come under the attorney-client privilege. OAG 91-108.

Those specific documents which are actually generated in the course of the attorney-client relationship, and therefore fall squarely within the privilege, or are the work product of an attorney, may be withheld from public inspection pursuant to Kentucky Rules of Civil Procedure, CR 26.02(1) and (3), KRS 447.154 and subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 91-108.

Tapes of investigative proceedings involving university and client of attorney requesting tapes were, for purposes of the Open Records Act, public records since the hearing at which the tapes were made was conducted by a public agency and involved an employee of a public agency, the tapes were not made solely to assist the university in preparing minutes of the hearing and thus subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section were inapplicable; the tapes were used as the basis for report of university's counsel to the president, upon which final disciplinary action was taken, thus to the extent that they were adopted into this final action, they lost whatever preliminary status they may have enjoyed as internal investigative materials; therefore the university improperly denied attorney's request for access to the tapes of the investigative proceeding of which his client was the subject as it was clear that the tapes were not exempt from disclosure pursuant to subdivision (1)(j) of this section, and the attorney-client work product doctrine. OAG 91-109.

While an agency must release public records stored on a database, subject to the exceptions codified as subdivisions (1)(a) to (l) of this section, if requested for a noncommercial purpose, it may, in its discretion, withhold the same records if requested for a commercial purpose. Purpose is relevant, however, only for requests to copy databases and geographic information systems; however, the purpose for which a person seeks access to public records, as defined by KRS 61.870(2), is irrelevant. OAG 91-116.

Release of any final documents pertaining to the Transportation Cabinet's original decision to build a proposed road will not permit an unfair negotiating advantage to landowners implicated by that decision. OAG 91-117.

Clearly, the Open Records Act in no way supersedes a protective order entered by a court of competent jurisdiction when a public agency is properly before that court as a party to the litigation. Indeed, the entry of a protective order removes a document within its terms from the application of the Act; that order is not less valid because it was entered into by agreement of the parties. OAG 91-121.

Reports and documents involving a criminal prosecution are subject to discovery by the accused pursuant to the Kentucky Criminal Rules of Procedure, and will be available under the Open Records Act, if at all, only after the prosecution is concluded. OAG 91-124.

Much of this language of subsection (3) of this section has relevance only to KRS Chapter 18A personnel policies and procedures. It is entirely foreign to university personnel policy. This suggests that the General Assembly intended to limit the scope of subsection (3) of this section to state personnel governed by KRS Chapter 18A. OAG 91-128.

Clearly, the Personnel Department of state government has no authority to regulate university personnel matters, and any changes wrought in the laws pertaining to state employees governed by KRS Chapter 18A have no bearing on university employees. Accordingly, KRS 18A.020 and, to the extent that it merely cross references the latter provision, subsection (3) of this section are inapplicable to university personnel policies and procedures. OAG 91-128.

The 1986 amendments, of KRS 18A.020 and subsection (3) of this section, do not preclude the university from properly withholding records under subdivisions (1)(a) to (l) of this section when a request is made by a university employee for records pertaining to him. OAG 91-128.

An agency cannot require a requesting party to state his purpose in making a request, nor can it, as a matter of policy, allow inspection and copying of records for certain purposes and deny it for other purposes. It is the content of the record itself which makes it either mandatorily accessible to public inspection and copying or exempt from the mandatory requirement. OAG 91-129.

The privacy exemption may not be used to deny inspection of a public agency's denial letter to an open records request. OAG 91-130.

Unless the law enforcement action, out of which arrest records are generated, has not been concluded, or another of the exceptions codified in KRS 17.150(2) or subdivision (1)(f) of this section applies to the records, the local police department must make them available for public inspection. OAG 91-131.

Records disclosing the names of persons arrested or incarcerated, and photographs taken at the time of the booking, are open to public inspection. OAG 91-131.

The general rule of nondisclosure for investigative reports prior to the conclusion of criminal prosecution or a decision not to prosecute does not contain an exception for individuals who are themselves the victims of the crime which spawned the investigation. OAG 91-132.

Salary recommendations are exempt from inspection under subdivision (1)(h) of this section until such time as they are acted upon and adopted by a governing board, OAG 79-469, OAG 91-78, and although the party requesting the documents is an employee of the University of Kentucky, and is therefore an employee of the state, he is not entitled to inspect and copy any record that relates to him pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. OAG 91-133.

As a matter of policy "conflict sheets" are not released to inmates unless the requester's name appears at the top of the page, indicating that it was he who reported the "conflict." OAG 91-136.

A public agency cannot furnish access to documents which it does not have, and it is not the Attorney General's duty to investigate in order to locate documents which the requesting party maintains exist, but which the public agency states do not exist. OAG 91-138.

A coroner's autopsy report is exempt from the requirement of mandatory public disclosure by operation of subsection (1)(f) of this section. OAG 91-147.

The coroner may keep intelligence and investigative reports confidential until such time as the prosecution is completed or a determination not to prosecute has been made, but once the coroner's verdict is filed with the circuit court clerk at the close of the coroner's inquest, the verdict is a public record and may be examined by the public. OAG 91-147.

The coroner's autopsy report is not an open record under subsection (1)(f) of this section but voluntarily releasing portions of the report to attorney was consistent with the Open Records Act. OAG 91-147.

Although preliminary records are generally exempt under the Open Records Act, their preliminary status is lost to the extent that they are used in an agency's response and are thus adopted as part of its final action. OAG 91-154.

As a member of the supervisory staff of the Department for Adult and Technical Education, employee was subject to the personnel policies of that Department, and not governed by KRS Chapter 18A; accordingly, subsection (3) of this section was not applicable to his open records request. OAG 91-154.

Inter- and intra-office memoranda, setting forth the opinions, observations and recommendations of agency personnel, which do not represent the agency's final decision on the matter, may be excluded from public inspection pursuant to subsections (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 91-154.

A public employee is entitled to privacy in his personal life and off-duty activities which extends to the public employee's home address, social security number, and marital status. OAG 91-155.

Interest in inspecting the resumes of individuals who have been raised to a new pay grade outweighs those individuals' right of privacy in such matters since one does not typically work [or attend school] in secret, but information of a personal nature contained in the resume or employment application, such as home address, phone number, social security number, and marital status should, however, be separated and withheld in accordance with subsection (4) of this section. OAG 91-155.

Resumes and employment applications are subject to inspection. OAG 91-155.

The public is entitled to know the name, position, work station and salary of a public employee. OAG 91-155.

There must be a case by case analysis of the privacy interest in nondisclosure, rather than a per se approach. OAG 91-155.

Cabinet properly denied inspection of the appraisal of one parcel of land acquired for bypass where proceedings involving several other properties had not been finalized. OAG 91-159.

Complaints which initially spawn an investigation may not be excluded from inspection because the public has a right to know what complaints have been made and the final action taken, but the complainant's identity is exempt from public inspection, except upon court order, pursuant to subsection (1)(a) of this section. OAG 91-160.

County Health Department must release the complaint which spawned the investigation; however, the Department may adopt a policy of withholding the names of the complainants and this information should be masked so as not to disclose his or her identity pursuant to subsections (1)(a) and (4) of this section. OAG 91-160.

There are occasions when a complainant has a reduced expectation of privacy, as, for example, where the individual has testified in an open hearing, and therefore these individuals do not have a cognizable personal privacy interest in keeping their identities confidential. OAG 91-160.

A university may properly withhold performance evaluations under authority of subsection (1)(h) of this section, which authorizes nondisclosure of preliminary recommendations, and preliminary memoranda in which opinions are expressed or policies formulated or recommended. OAG 91-161.

Although a writing was generated in the course of the annual review of the university president, that writing did not represent a "final report" as it was not prepared on official letterhead, nor did it bear the signature of the chairman or any member of the board. OAG 91-161.

If the disputed document, pertaining to university president's evaluation, describing his overall performance, was considered "final," it nevertheless would fall squarely within the parameters of subsection (1)(h) of this section. OAG 91-161.

Case files involving still open investigations were exempt from inspection and copying pursuant to subsection (1)(j) of this section and KRS 17.150. OAG 91-173.

Attendance sheets verify that employees were present and on the job during any particular time period, and are not protected by the privacy exemption. OAG 91-176.

The employment applications of school system employees, and other records of educational qualifications requested were subject to inspection; information of a personal nature contained in these documents, such as home address, phone number, social security number and marital status, should be separated and redacted in accordance with subsection (4) of this section. OAG 91-176.

School was required to release to a parent a copy of the internal investigative report prepared by employees of the public school following an incident involving her son at a middle school. OAG 91-177.

A public employee's medical records may be excluded from inspection pursuant to subsection (1)(a) of this section. OAG 91-185.

Any preliminary documents, such as predecisional memoranda and investigative reports, are exempt pursuant to subsections (1)(g) and (h) of this section. OAG 91-185.

Government acted consistently with the Open Records Act in releasing the nonexempt portions of the workers' compensation claim file, including copies of bills submitted by chiropractor's office and the final decision of the Workers' Compensation Board. OAG 91-185.

Records which are privileged under the rules of discovery, such as attorney work product, are exempt from mandatory disclosure under subsection (1)(j) of this section. OAG 91-185.

Court records are exempt from the mandatory disclosure provisions of the Open Records Act and the reasonable fee provision of KRS 61.874(2). OAG 91-193.

Criminal defendants were not entitled to release of their presentence investigation report, but KRS 532.050(4) was amended in 1990, and precludes waiver of the presentence investigation report as well as requiring a court to provide defendant's counsel with a copy of the report, excluding the sources of confidential information. OAG 91-194.

A memorandum to the County Board of Education concerning the preferment of charges against a teacher, and a letter to the Office of Legal Services of the Kentucky Department of Education advising that agency of the commencement of disciplinary action were properly withheld under subsection (1)(h) of this section. OAG 91-198.

A report written under KRS 161.120(2)(a) and (b) does not represent final agency action, but is more closely analogous to an internal affairs report and is exempt under this section. OAG 91-198.

Disciplinary action taken against teacher, and the charges from which that action stemmed, were related to the performance of his public duties, and therefore the records were not shielded from disclosure by subsection (1)(a) of this section. OAG 91-198.

Teacher's letter of resignation and the board minutes adopting same were properly released. OAG 91-198.

Records disclosing place of employment and educational qualifications can not properly be withheld from public inspection. OAG 91-202.

The Board of Nursing may adopt a policy of withholding information pertaining to the age, gender, and race of its licensees. OAG 91-202.

The name and address of a person licensed to practice a profession is not a matter of personal privacy. OAG 91-202.

The names of licensed nurses and their work addresses cannot be withheld from the public and, in the event that the only address furnished is the home address of the licensee, should be made available to the public. OAG 91-202.

As long as an agency acts consistently in responding to requests for like documents, it need not state that its actions are based on an express policy. OAG 91-203.

The requesting party must reasonably identify the records contained in a personnel file which he wishes to inspect to enable the custodian of the file to determine if the records are exempt under subsection (1)(a) of this section, the privacy exemption to the Open Records Law. OAG 91-203.

A document generated in the course of a criminal investigation and prosecution may continue to be characterized as exempt after enforcement action is contemplated; therefore, county attorney properly relied on subsection (1)(g) of this section to authorize the continued nondisclosure of preliminary documents and attorney work product. OAG 91-214.

An individual has a substantial privacy interest in his home address and telephone number and this interest becomes particularly compelling when the individual whose address and phone number are sought has been the subject of repeated incidents of harassing contact and calls; therefore, there was no substantial "public interest" in the disclosure of the telephone bills under the facts presented, pursuant to subsection (1)(a) of this section. OAG 91-214.

Records which are generated by an attorney for the Commonwealth, or his staff, in prosecuting a criminal action are clearly work product and as such, the records fall squarely within the parameters of the subsection (1)(j) exemption, and may be withheld from inspection. OAG 92-214.

While it is certainly true that a number of the exceptions to the Open Records Act lose their exempt status upon the occurrence of a specific event, this has never been the rule with respect to attorney work product. OAG 91-214.

Written communications from an attorney setting forth legal analysis, investigative reports, and witness interviews retain their exempt status unless they are somehow adopted into final agency action; such documents must be made available for inspection if, and only if, they are, or have been, so adopted. OAG 91-214.

Correspondence between the Kentucky Heritage Council and the owner of the property, in which the terms and conditions of the easement were informally discussed, fell squarely within the parameters of the exception of subsection (1)(g) for correspondence with private individuals and accordingly, the council properly withheld these records. OAG 91-229.

The Kentucky Heritage Council properly refused to release preliminary documents consisting of drafts of the instrument creating a conservation easement because they were excludable under subsection (1)(g) of this section. OAG 91-229.

Kentucky Revised Statutes 209.140 and subsection (1)(j) of this section operate in tandem in authorizing the Department of Social Services to withhold information compiled in the course of an investigation of adult abuse except to persons who are suspected of committing abuse, neglect, or exploitation. OAG 91-230.

A public agency cannot furnish access to documents which it does not have and it is not the office of the Attorney General's duty to investigate in order to locate documents which the requesting party believes exist, but which the public agency states do not exist. OAG 92-5.

The city erred in failing to release the memorandum written by doctor, authorizing paramedic's reinstatement, and the memorandum prepared by a second doctor, also dated the same day, adopting the first doctor's recommendation, as the latter document represented final action of a public agency relative to a personnel decision, and the former document represented the recommendation upon which that decision was based; while all post demotion memoranda are not subject to disclosure, the documents in this case cannot properly be characterized as preliminary in nature, and must be released. OAG 92-5.

The city erred in failing to release the memorandum written by a doctor which reflected his decision to withdraw employee's privilege to practice as a paramedic, because the city adopted the doctor's memorandum as the basis of its final action, and the document lost its preliminary characterization to that extent. OAG 92-5.

The Office of Attorney General is not empowered to rule on the propriety of nonrelease of a paramedic's testing results, absent a formal request and denial. OAG 92-5.

City must release the monthly statements prepared by the city's attorneys which reflect the general nature of the legal services rendered to city; but should those invoices disclose substantive matters protected by the attorney client privilege, which are exempt under subsection (1)(j) of this section, the exempt material should be separated from the nonexempt materials, and the nonexempt materials released for public inspection. OAG 92-14.

Request for access to annual compliance reports prepared since January 1, 1980 by the Justice Cabinet under the Juvenile Justice and Protective Delinquency Act could be satisfied by production of 11 or 12 documents, and redaction of exempt materials should not constitute an undue burden; therefore, the cabinet should make these documents available for inspection. OAG 92-16.

Request for "All grant applications, proposals, responses and budgets by, for or from the Commonwealth of Kentucky under the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act" was properly denied pursuant to KRS 61.872(5) and subsection (5) of this section. OAG 92-16.

Where requests were not limited to a particular subject, but instead all records of a particular character were requested, e.g., correspondence and memoranda of communication, relating to the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act for the period since January 1, 1984, given the vast number of documents which fell within the parameters of the request and the difficulties which would have attended any attempt to separate exempt from nonexempt materials, reliance on KRS 61.872(5) in denial of the request was proper. OAG 92-16.

Editor of paper properly requested inspection of documents in possession of sheriff's department which were the records reflecting actual monetary settlement between sheriff's department and insurance company; records reflecting settlements of civil suits by public agencies are subject to full public disclosure. OAG 92-17.

City erroneously withheld the disciplinary charges leveled against former police officer and the documents evidencing the outcome or resolution of charges; a confidentiality clause in a settlement agreement between the city and the officer did not bar release of such documents. OAG 92-34.

A letter relating to the building level portion of an audit of the school district fiscal activity written to the superintendent by the public accountant is a public record subject to inspection. It is not exempt as "correspondence with private individuals." A contractor to a governmental entity loses any character of "private individual" in connection with correspondence regarding administration or issues associated with administration of a governmental or public contract. OAG 92-44.

Once an investigation has been completed and the prosecution concluded, or a decision not to prosecute has been made the records will be subject to inspection unless exempt under another recognized exception. OAG 92-46.

A police incident report is not part of the investigative file, as such incident reports are public records because there is no provision in the Open Records Act exempting them. OAG 92-46.

Case files in the possession of a law enforcement agency are not open to inspection while the case is active. OAG 92-46.

The Kentucky Revised Statutes proved for such nondisclosure of intelligence and investigative reports maintained by criminal justice agencies prior to the completion of the prosecution or the decision not to prosecute at KRS 17.150(2). That same provision, at subsection (2)(d), exempts such records if inspection would disclose information to be used in a prospective law enforcement action. OAG 92-46.

Investigative files of law enforcement agencies are not open to inspection while the case is pending. OAG 92-46.

KRS 620.050(4) clearly requires that the Cabinet for Human Resources and the Department for Social Services withhold from all persons information acquired as a result of an investigation conducted pursuant to KRS 620.050, unless the requesting party can demonstrate that he or she satisfies one of the requirements set forth in KRS 620.050(4)(a) to (f). OAG 92-53.

The requesting party did not demonstrate that he fell under any of the statutorily recognized classifications of KRS 620.050(4) or that his particular situation warranted the release of the requested material; although the requesting party was the noncustodial parent, the allegations of dependency, neglect, or abuse were not substantiated. OAG 92-54.

The Cabinet for Workforce Development was directed to release the employment application and resumes of the named employees of a state vocational-technical school, after separating or otherwise masking any information of a personal nature which appeared on those documents, including the employees' home addresses, social security numbers, and medical information; if the employees' teaching certificates were contained in the file, they too should have been released. OAG 92-59.

Although one section of the contract, lease, and option agreement between the City and the Public Hospital corporation required that a copy of the annual audit and supporting documents be filed in the office of the city clerk, those documents were, by the express terms of the agreement, released by the Hospital for the limited purpose of allowing inspection by, or on behalf of, holders of outstanding bonds or coupons; the agency established that the requested records: (1) were confidentially disclosed to it; (2) for one of the four (4) purposes delineated in subdivision (1)(b) of this section, e.g., regulation of a commercial enterprise; and (3) that release of the records would permit an unfair advantage to competitors of the subject enterprise; therefore, the release of the requested records was properly denied. OAG 92-66.

A public agency may adopt a policy of confidentiality relative to ambulance run reports to the extent that they contain personal information the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy; this includes, but is not limited to, the name, address, and age of the person being transported, as well as the nature of his or her illness or injury. However, information of a general nature, such as the number of runs made, the destination of the runs, whether an individual or individuals were transported to a hospital or treatment facility, and if so, where they were taken does not fall within the parameters of the privacy exemption. OAG 92-75.

A city may elect to release all of the information contained in an ambulance run report, since the exceptions to the Open Records Act are discretionary; in the alternative, the City may release a sanitized version of its ambulance run reports or prepare a summary of those reports containing only general information and continue to withhold information of a personal nature which appears in the reports. OAG 92-75.

The training and examination rating scale, used in reviewing candidates for certain positions can be characterized as an inactive examination, and therefore falls squarely within the parameters of the exception to Open Records codified in subdivision (1)(e) of this section. OAG 92-80.

Where private investigator originally asked for copies of all documents in the possession of the Kentucky State Police which related to suspended state trooper, request was properly denied because blanket requests for information on a subject without specifying certain documents need not be honored. OAG 92-85.

It is the policy of the Kentucky State Police (KSP) to withhold reports of background investigations on job applicants conducted by KSP; the Attorney General's office opined that these reports contain information of a personal nature the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, and are exempt from public inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section; moreover, background investigation reports may be withheld under authority of subdivisions (1)(g) and (1)(h) of this section. OAG 92-85.

State police custodian of records' response to private investigator's open records request was substantively correct; custodian advised private investigator that custodian had provided private investigator with all of the pages of a suspended state trooper's employment application, but had deleted specific personal information pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section "which provides for exclusion because of the unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." OAG 92-85.

State police custodian of records' response to private investigator's request for all documentation regarding the reasons for suspension of former state trooper contained in Personnel Orders was consistent with the Open Records Act; police internal affairs reports are exempt from public inspection as preliminary memoranda; only internal affairs reports which indicate the final action taken and the underlying complaint are open to public inspection. OAG 92-85.

Occupational safety and health compliance officer's work note which are compiled in the ordinary course of an investigation of an employer work site, and which contain preliminary handwritten drafts of possible citations and correspondence with private persons which are not intended to give notice of final action, are exempt from public disclosure pursuant to subdivision (1)(g) of this section. OAG 92-90.

Work papers and intraoffice memoranda are exempt from public inspection under subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 92-90.

Work notes containing a compliance officer's observations, opinions and preliminary drafts of possible citations may be withheld pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) of this section. OAG 92-90.

Information about attorney fees is privileged only if its disclosure would reveal confidential communications between the attorney and client. OAG 92-92.

Billing sheets or time tickets "which indicate the nature of documents prepared, issues researched or matters discussed could reveal the substance of confidential discussions between attorney and client." OAG 92-92.

If the requester desires access to a governmental database for a noncommercial purpose, an agency must make it available, subject to the exceptions codified in this section. On those occasions when the request requires the creation of a “non-standardized unique, custom-made record[],” an agency may assess a fee which “shall not exceed the reasonable cost of computer and personnel time and printing cost needed to produce such products.” OAG 92-99.

Court records are outside the scope of the Open Records Act. OAG 92-100.

Subdivision (1)(a) of this section, the privacy exemption, is not applicable to public employee time sheets inasmuch as the protection against an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy does not extend to time spent in public service for which the public employee is compensated by public funds. OAG 92-102.

Witness statements are exempt from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (1)(h) of this section. OAG 92-103.

Correspondence with private individuals, other than correspondence which is intended to give notice of final action of a public agency, is exempt from public inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(g) of this section. OAG 92-106.

Where an incident was being investigated by the Kentucky State Penitentiary, the records generated in the course of the investigation were considered property withheld until enforcement action was completed or a decision was made to take no action. OAG 92-109.

The time sheets of a specific individual for a stated period constitute a discrete category of documents. These time sheets are not information or research services simply because employees must expend time and effort in locating and retrieving these documents. OAG 92-102.

Where credit cards that bear the state university logo are privately owned, are the financial responsibility of the individual whose name appears on them, and no university funds are expended to discharge the debts incurred by the card holders or in payment of the annual fee, they are exempt under subsection (1)(a) of this section, even though printouts of charges of such credit cards must be considered a public record within the meaning of subsection (2) of KRS 61.870, since such printouts contain information of a personal nature, the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 92-110.

Inspection of credit card charges must be permitted when the charges are incurred by a public agency and involve the expenditure of public funds. OAG 92-110.

If an agency elects to make a tape recording of its public meetings, and that tape is owned, used, or in its possession, it may not properly be treated as a preliminary document, but should be made available to the public upon request. OAG 92-111.

Access to office procedure manual should be made available, where employee was subject to those procedures during the course of employment, and was presumably aware of it. OAG 92-112.

Preliminary inter-office and intra-office memoranda or notes setting forth opinions, observations and recommendations, as well as correspondence with private individuals, may be withheld from public inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(g) and (h) of this section, unless such documents are incorporated into, or give notice of, final agency action. OAG 92-112.

Prior to entry of a protective order, the Open Records Act operates independently of the rules of discovery, and may compel release of nonexempt documents and an agency may assert other grounds for nondisclosure in its response, or, upon issuance of an Attorney General's opinion requiring disclosure, initiate action in the appropriate circuit court to enjoin release of those documents where a protective order was entered before the Attorney General undertook his review of this matter the requested records are not subject to disclosure. OAG 92-119.

The Open Records Act in no way supersedes a protective order entered by a court of competent jurisdiction when a public agency is properly before the court as a party to the litigation. Indeed, the entry of a protective order removes a document within its terms from the application of the Open Records Act. OAG 92-119.

There is no unwarranted invasion of personal privacy in examining relevant prior work experience and educational qualifications of employees or former employees. Education qualifications, meaning education levels obtained, reported upon applications for employment and resumes submitted by those who are hired are subject to inspection but city may, of course, separate or otherwise mask any information of a personal nature which appears on those documents, including, but not limited to, the employee's home address, social security number, and medical information, pursuant to subsection (4) of this section. OAG 92-121.

The pre-parole progress report is prepared by the inmate's caseworker, and represents a summary of his progress. It contains the caseworker's opinions in such areas as staff interaction, psychological and psychiatric condition, medical condition, and work performance and may also include an inmate's formal psychological evaluation. The pre-parole progress report is a preliminary document containing opinions, observations, and recommendations and is purely advisory and is one of several documents submitted to the Parole Board for its consideration. Unless it is incorporated into the Parole Board's final decision, it is exempt from public inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(h) of this section. OAG 92-125.

Subsection (1)(h) of this section has been interpreted to authorize nondisclosure of preliminary reports and memoranda containing the opinions, observations, and recommendations of personnel within a public agency. Those reports and memoranda that are strictly advisory, and that are submitted for review and consideration by the agency relative to a final decision, but which are not incorporated into the final decision, are exempt from public inspection. OAG 92-125.

Public records which have been placed under a court ordered seal of confidentiality may not be disseminated to the public. The reasoning is that if any agency is a party to the litigation, and the requested documents come within the purview of the protective order, the agency and its employees may be in contempt of court and subject to other civil liability if they release the documents in question. OAG 92-126.

Disclosure of communications for purpose of receiving third-party payment for professional services does not waive any privilege with respect to such communications. This provision is applicable to insurance companies and governmental entities. OAG 92-ORD-1024.

Disclosure of privileged communications for the purpose of receiving third-party payment for professional services does not constitute a waiver of the privilege. OAG 92-ORD-1024.

A report or other communication made by an insured to his liability insurance company, concerning an event which may give rise to a claim against him and which is covered by the policy, is a privileged communication, as if it were between an attorney and client. Therefore, a party to any subsequent litigation may not discover the content of those communications. OAG 92-ORD-1024.

Documents generated in the course of meetings at which city employees, and attorneys were present, including notes, statements, transcripts of meetings, work product, recordings of meetings, photographs of meetings, and evidence of meetings, are exempt from inspection pursuant to subdivisions (1)(h) and (1)(g) of this section. 92-ORD-1024.

KRS 61.878(1)(g) and (h) have been interpreted to authorize nondisclosure of preliminary reports, worknotes, and memoranda containing the opinions, observations, advice, and recommendations of personnel within an agency, as well as outside of an agency. These subsections are intended to insure the integrity of the decision making process by protecting all pre-decisional documents. 92-ORD-1024.

Balance sheets, financial statements, profit and loss statements, audits and other records held by the commission concerning the financial condition of a county steeplechase association and its owners, wherein there is a 100% beneficial owner of the track, is subject to the Act and must release the records. Although it was revealed that the records were confidentially disclosed in conjunction with regulation of the steeplechase association and its license to do business, it was not shown that the association would be competitively disadvantaged by disclosure of the information. 92-ORD-1020.

To successfully raise the exception codified in subdivision (1)(b) of this section, an agency must establish that the requested records: (1) were confidentially disclosed to it; (2) in conjunction with an application for a loan, the regulation of commercial enterprise, or the grant or review of a license to do business; and (3) that release of the records would permit an unfair advantage to competitors. 92-ORD-1020.

Members of board of education may only inspect the nonexempt records contained in the personnel files of certified and classified employees. Since the board of education no longer plays any role in personnel actions, it does not enjoy any greater right of access to the files by virtue of subsection (5) of this section. The board's right to inspect the personnel files of certified and classified employees of the school system is therefore the same as the right of inspection enjoyed by any citizen under this section. OAG 92-141.

The superintendent of a county's public school improperly invoked this section to authorize nondisclosure of his performance evaluation. The public's interest in reviewing those portions of the evaluation which have a direct bearing on his management of the school system, and the progress of the school system generally is superior to the reduced expectation of privacy in that document which the superintendent of public schools might have. Only those portions which contain personal information, the release of which would serve no legitimate public interest, are exempt from public inspection. OAG 92-ORD-1145.

The Real Estate Commission violated this section in denying access to application for a real estate broker's license. Although the Real Estate Commission would be justified in masking information of a personal nature, such as the licensee's home address, social security number, phone number, and the like, it could not withhold information relating to the applicant's educational qualifications and prior work experience. Moreover while an individual does not have a privacy interest in arrest records, and the public is entitled to inspect this portion of the application, information bearing on an individual's personal finances implicates privacy concerns which are superior to the public's right of access to this information, and can, accordingly be withheld. OAG 92-ORD-1238.

University's board of regents did not forfeit its right to invoke the legitimate exceptions to the Open Records Act just because it violated the Open Meetings Law. The records reviewed by the board relative to the proposed budget which occurred during an improperly closed meeting, and all other records of a preliminary character, still enjoyed the protection of subsection (1) (i) of this section, independent of the Open Meetings issue, until final action was taken by the Board. OAG 92-ORD-1346.

University's board of regents denial of a request for access to certain records which were generated in the course of a closed session conducted by the board of regents in its regular meeting was improper. The board of regents violated this section to the extent that its closed discussions focused on classes of, as opposed to specific, individuals. However, only those records which reflected discussions of classes of individuals were subject to inspection. OAG 92-ORD-1346.

University violated the Open Records Act in denying a third party's request under this section where the documents which gave rise to this appeal consisted of a one paragraph letter from a newspaper reporter to university counsel in which the newspaper requested copies of the evaluation report and supporting documents regarding the university board of trustees' evaluation of the university president, and a two (2) paragraph response on university letterhead in which the official custodian of records, denied the request. Nothing in this correspondence could be deemed to touch on the intimate or personal features of the newspaper reporter's life and the university asserted no other privacy interest which might be implicated by release of the documents. OAG 92-ORD-1440.

School which received federal funds was prohibited by operation of subsection (1)(j) of this section from releasing education record to person who was interested in the record in order to ascertain if he was listed on the record as the father of the child since a federal law, the Buckley Amendment, bars the release of an education record, such as an enrollment application to a third person, without the prior written consent of a parent, for while such person believed he was the father of the named child, paternity had apparently never been established and such person must be treated as a third person, for purposes of the Buckley Amendment, until such time as paternity has been established, and the child's education records should not be released to him without the child's mother's written consent. OAG 92-ORD-1640.

OAG 90-24 is overruled; records of a campus law enforcement unit maintained by the unit for the purpose of law enforcement are no longer subject to the federal law, but are instead governed by the Kentucky Open Records Act. OAG 93-3.

Legislators may release to the public information supplied to them by the Kentucky Lottery Corporation pertaining to the corporation's accounts receivable. OAG 93-19.

Western Kentucky University properly denied a request for portions of student evaluations of instructors in the Physics and Astronomy Department for the past five (5) years which "were used in determining whether a professor received any particular benefit or detriment," or "which have a direct bearing on the management and functions of the department." OAG 93-ORD-17.

Subdivisions (1)(j) and (1)(k) of this section authorize nondisclosure of records made confidential by federal or state law and are not overridden by subsection (3) of this section. OAG 93-ORD-19.

Subsection (3) of this section overrides any of the exemptions to public inspection set forth in subdivisions (1)(a)-(i) of this section, with the exception of examinations and documents relating to ongoing criminal or administrative investigations even when they are requested by the public agency employee and relate to him, when an open records request is submitted by a public agency employee or university employee. OAG 93-ORD-19.

Where disputed records were prepared in the course of an interview with a university employee, and related to his complaint filed with the Affirmative Action Office, those records fell squarely within the parameters of subsection (3) of this section and should have been released by the university. OAG 93-ORD-19.

The question of the propriety of an agency's invocation of subdivision (1)(a) of this section to authorize nondisclosure of a police incident report, or a portion thereof, must be reviewed on a case by case basis; the decision in each such case must be made by a comparative weighing of the antagonistic interests that exist in the specific situation. OAG 93-ORD-21.

University violated the Open Records Act in redacting portions of a police incident report pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) of this section on records requested by a newspaper where release of the redacted portions of the report did not constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of an individual's privacy since the public's interest in disclosure was superior to his privacy interest. OAG 93-ORD-21.

The Governor's schedule is a preliminary document which does not represent final agency action. OAG 93-ORD-25.

Where the Governor's daily schedule was a mixture of family, social and public events, as it was impossible to schedule his public events without keeping track of his private schedule, subdivision (1)(h) of this section authorized nondisclosure of the entire record. OAG 93-ORD-25.

Although as a rule of general application subdivision (3) of this section mandates release of otherwise exempt records to a public agency employee, where the employee is under investigation and the documents relate to that investigation the request can properly be denied. OAG 93-ORD-37.

Subdivision (1)(k) of this section and KRS 610.320(3) and 620.050(4) are aimed at protecting juveniles, and not adults who are criminally prosecuted for victimizing juveniles. OAG 93-ORD-42.

The Kentucky State Police improperly relied on subdivisions (1)(a) and (1)(k) of this section, and KRS 610.320(3) and 620.050(4), in denying a request to inspect the files generated in the course of its investigation into a candidate for county sheriff who was charged with sodomy, sexual abuse and unlawful transaction with a minor. Although the privacy interests of the juveniles whose names appeared in those records were superior to the public's interest in disclosure of their identities, that interest could be protected by redaction of the juveniles' names and personally identifiable information. The candidate's privacy interests, however, were outweighed by the public's interest in assessing his fitness to serve as county sheriff, and the public's interest in evaluating the performance of the Kentucky State Police in investigating the case. OAG 93-ORD-42.

Mere invocation of a statutory exception to the release of records and reference to prior opinions, without an adequate explanation of how the exception applies or the opinions are relevant, does not satisfy the burden of proof imposed on the agency under KRS 61.880(2) and KRS 61.882(3). OAG 93-ORD-43.

The Department of Insurance failed to meet its burden of proof in sustaining its denial of a request for correspondence with the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, other states' departments of insurance, and Kentucky Central Life Insurance Company, and memos, reports, or analyses of Kentucky Central's financial condition where the Department failed to describe the nature of the documents withheld, and to state how the statutory exception relied upon applied to the documents withheld from inspection. OAG 93-ORD-67.

The Department of Insurance properly advised a requester that no minutes or reports were generated during its meetings with Kentucky Central Life Insurance Company officials, and that therefore that portion of his request could not be satisfied; the department met its burden of proof relative to its invocation of subdivision (1)(h) of this section to support nondisclosure of any notes taken at these meetings. OAG 93-ORD-67.

Although a document was not "predecisional" in chronological terms, where it was submitted by the site protection manager, who was apparently unaware that a final decision had been reached, to the Executive Director of the Kentucky Heritage Council in anticipation of a final decision as a "preliminary memorandum" in which opinions are expressed or policies formulated or recommended," it fell squarely within the parameters of subdivision (1)(i) of this section, and could properly be withheld from public inspection. OAG 93-ORD-82.

The Kentucky Industrial Revitalization Authority must release those portions of General Electric's (GE) application and report which have a direct bearing on GE's eligibility for the authority's tax incentive program, specifically, its need for the economic revitalization program, the projected amount and timing of capital investment of GE in the economic revitalization project, and the projected number of employees to be retained and to be hired in the future; KIRA may, however, withhold those portions of the application and report that contain information which reveals GE's private financial affairs may be withheld. OAG 93-ORD-85.

Where the requested records were created in the normal course of business for purposes not related to the prospect of a grand jury proceeding and even though the records had been subpoenaed for use in a grand jury investigation, this fact, standing alone, did not insulate the documents from the mandatory disclosure provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 93-ORD-91.

Since the policy of disclosure is purposed to subserve the public interest, not to satisfy the public's curiosity, there is no blanket or per se applicability of subdivision (1)(a) of this section to a given category of records; in each case a decision must be made by a comparative weighing of the antagonistic interests that exist in the specific situation. OAG 93-ORD-102.

When the privacy interest of the individual does not clearly outweigh the public's interest, the balance must be tipped in favor of disclosure; therefore, since neither the public's interest in disclosure of the visitors log of a county detention center nor the individual's interest in nondisclosure is manifestly superior, in view of the statutes general basis favoring disclosure and in absence of any direct evidence that release of the log would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, such log should be released under authority of subdivision (1)(a) of this section. OAG 93-ORD-102.

The Commissioner of Insurance acting as a rehabilitator of an insurance company is a public agency within the meaning of subsection (1) of KRS 61.870 and documents which disclose the names of corporations or individuals who submitted bids for insurance company under KRS 304.33-010 et seq. are public records of a public agency and are not excluded from public inspection under subdivision (1)(h) of KRS 61.878 and thus are subject to disclosure. OAG 93-ORD-113.

Department of Personnel improperly denied request for computer printout of the salaries of all paralegals and legal secretaries employed by state agencies, their places of employment, and their classifications, if it maintains a database containing such information; it must release such information in electronic or hard copy format, but may redact any nonpublic information also contained in the database such as social security numbers or home addresses. OAG 93-ORD-118.

Where requester of graphs which were generated during polygraph examination was the subject of the examination the privacy exception of subdivision (1)(a) of this section was not implicated and neither was subdivision (1)(i) of this section since the graphs, absent any analysis or commentary, cannot be characterized as "preliminary memoranda in which opinions are expressed or policies formulated or recommended." OAG 93-ORD-124.

Videotape made as requester underwent polygraph examination cannot be characterized a preliminary memorandum in which opinions are expressed or policies formulated or recommended and therefore release of such videotape could not be denied on exemption of subdivision (1)(i) of this section. OAG 93-ORD-124.

Department of Personnel improperly denied request for computer printout of the salaries of all paralegals and legal secretaries employed by state agencies, their places of employment, and their classifications, if it maintains a database containing such information; it must release such information in electronic or hard copy format, but may redact any nonpublic information also contained in the database such as social security numbers or home addresses. OAG 93-ORD-118.

The Department for Social Services improperly denied the Kentucky Board of Nursing's Credentials Consultant's request for a report prepared by the Department in the course of its investigation into suspected adult abuse pursuant to KRS 209.140, which is incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of subdivision (1)(k) of this section. OAG 93-ORD-131.

The Department of Social Services improperly denied the Kentucky Board of Nursing's request for medical records referenced in a report prepared by the Department in the course of an investigation into suspected child abuse pursuant to KRS 620.050(4), which is incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of subdivision (1)(k) of this section. OAG 93-ORD-132.

The Kentucky State Police properly denied defendant's request for a videotape made at the time of her arrest for alcohol intoxication where the videotape contained footage of defendant's companion, who was charged with DUI, and where the State Police did not have the option of segregating that portion of the tape showing defendant at the time of her arrest. OAG 93-ORD-133.

Since the general counsel of Department of Insurance represents the Commissioner of Insurance as rehabilitator and outside attorneys appointed by the court also represent the Commissioner as the rehabilitator, each represents the same client, and confidential communications between them made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of professional legal services are protected from disclosure by attorney client privilege; therefore, the Department properly denied request of newspaper reporter for correspondence between general counsel of Department and outside counsel since the documents requested are protected from disclosure by the attorney client privilege of KRE Rule 503 and are therefore exempt from public inspection under subdivision (1) (k) of this section. OAG 93-ORD-139.

Subdivision (1) (k) of this section and KRS 7.510 operate in tandem to preclude the release of the Kentucky Administrative Regulations to anyone other than agencies of the Commonwealth and its political subdivisions; therefore, request for copy of an Administrative Regulation promulgated by the Kentucky State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education stored on diskette by publishing company was properly denied. OAG 93-ORD-142.

School district properly denied request of attorney representing the board of education of one (1) county for records of second school district in second county under authority of Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA) which is incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of subdivision (1)(j) of this section although educational officials in the second county may release education records to state and local educational officials in connection with the audit and evaluation of a federally or state supported program pursuant to 20 USCS § 1232g (b) (5), they are not required to do so. OAG 94-ORD-17.

The 1992 amendment to subsection (1) of this section applies only to parties to litigation, and Department of Corrections improperly relied on such exception in denying request for public records to persons who were not parties in civil litigation; further stay of discovery which did not suggest that the materials pertaining to the litigation had been sealed or placed under protective order did not prevent release of such records. OAG 94-ORD-19.

The Department of Corrections improperly denied a request for correspondence between itself and U.S. Corrections Corporation, a private provider, concerning institutional parole officers. OAG 94-ORD-27.

The Department of Corrections properly denied a request for records relating to canteen operations at the Lee and Marion Adjustment Centers pursuant to subsection (1)(k) of this section, which incorporates the prohibition on release of financial records maintained by the private provider found at KRS 197.510(7). OAG 94-ORD-27.

City Commission violated the Open Records Act in withholding the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of callers whose comments directed at requester of information were generated during the course of City Commission's televised meetings. OAG 94-ORD-45.

Since the shroud of secrecy mandated by KRS 620.050(4) is "not intended to protect the identities of adults and employees of a public agency charged with violations of the criminal laws," but is instead intended to protect the affected families, and in particular, the affected children, the Cabinet for Human Resources could not persuasively argue that it was bound by the confidentiality provision found at KRS 620.050(4) in withholding unsubstantiated complaints of abuse against its employees, and, at the same time, that it was free to release most, if not all, of the remaining records it compiled in its investigation of alleged employee misconduct. OAG 94-ORD-76 (overruling OAG 88-4 where inconsistent).

Assertion that KRS 11A.080(2) precluded the release of the second page of a subpoena issued by the Auditor's office because the Auditor's services, enlisted by the Executive Branch Ethics Commission, failed where the Auditor was acting independently at the time the subpoena was issued. OAG 94-ORD-81.

Attempt by auditor's office to justify its refusal to release second page of subpoena, which contained the names of state employees, who were the recipients of gifts as well as entertainment expenses from firms who had been awarded state contracts, on the grounds that Auditor's records could possibly be used in a future investigation by the Attorney General was too speculative to warrant invocation of the exception contained in subsection (1)(g) of this section. OAG 94-ORD-81.

Request for inspection of the contents of real estate appraisal relative to the sale of city property, although improperly denied under subdivision (1)(f) of this section, could properly be denied under subdivision (1)(j) of this section where such document was almost entirely opinion and recommendations and while it was a final report of the company employed by the city to appraise the subject property, it was preliminary until the property is finally purchased. OAG 94-ORD-85.

Where state board in refusing a request for copies of employee responses to job salary and classification plan not only failed to adequately explain how the exception of subdivision (1)(a) of this section applied, but it failed to cite the exception, the board did not meet its burden of proof and must immediately release the requested records. OAG 94-ORD-89.

Where state board took final action on its job classification and pay compensation plan on May 10, and where it solicited employee response on May 27, such employee responses were not "preliminary" documents within the meaning of subdivision (1)(j) of this section. OAG 94-ORD-89.

Portions of Synthetic Gypsum Sales and Purchase Agreement between municipal utility and gypsum company which were deemed confidential and proprietary by gypsum company, and thereafter redacted from the agreement by municipal utility before it was released, were properly withheld pursuant to subdivision (1)(l) of this section and KRS 365.880 et seq., where the information was derived from independent research and a thorough evaluation of utility's scrubber system which yielded a commercially valuable, and hitherto unknown, formula for using synthetic gypsum by-product. OAG 94-ORD-97.

Documents reflecting the identities of corporations and/or individuals who submitted bids for insurance company being rehabilitated or its subsidiaries are public records subject to disclosure under the Open Records Act. OAG 94-ORD-102.

Records containing contents of bids submitted for purchase of insurance company being rehabilitated are public records, within the meaning of KRS 61.870(2), for the same reasons that documents revealing the identities of bidders are public records; specifically, the bids are used in the possession of or retained by a public agency, the Commissioner of the Department of Insurance, in his role as Rehabilitator, and in the discharge of his duties, relative to the bidding process. OAG 94-ORD-102.

Documents which were submitted to University Administrator by the Office of Legal Counsel relative to the University's meeting policy and which were the basis for Administrator's memorandum to requester of documents, were not shielded by the attorney-client privilege. OAG 94-ORD-108.

Handwritten notes taken by a public employee in the discharge of his public duties may properly be treated as public records. While in most instances, such notes would be excluded from public inspection by operation of subdivision (1)(h) of this section, subsection (3) of this section mandates the release of "any record including preliminary and other supporting documentation" to a public employee, including a university employee, upon request, as long as those records "relate to him." OAG 94-ORD-108.

Request for each document used as a reference for University's faculty handbook section on conducting meetings, and each document used as a reference for the section on access to and destruction of records was improperly denied as a "request for a list of reference sources"; in light of the preface appearing in the handbook, the University could not legitimately claim that the request was too nonspecific. OAG 94-ORD-108.

Request for formal merit evaluation forms containing the final merit evaluation ratings for two (2) faculty members for each year they were employed by the University was properly denied based on subdivisions (1)(a), (1)(h), and (1)(i) of this section. OAG 94-ORD-108.

University improperly denied release of unredacted copies of letter of resignation submitted by a number of University employees, but University was permitted to redact those portions of one resignation letter which pertain to employee's merit evaluation and student evaluations. OAG 94-ORD-108.

University improperly redacted portions of the Chancellor's letter to the Dean of the College of Agriculture notifying the Dean that the recommendation to promote a faculty member to the rank of full professor was not approved. OAG 94-ORD-108.

University must release the departmental recommendation that a faculty member be placed on a terminal contract but the University may redact those portions of the recommendation which contain personal opinions not adopted by the Dean. OAG 94-ORD-108.

Transportation Cabinet violated the Open Records Act in denying a request for certain information in the rail highway grade crossing database based on 23 USCS, § 409. OAG 94-ORD-124.

Where faculty committee appointed by the dean to evaluate faculty member had no independent authority to determine what final action would be taken relative to faculty member's continuing service as chairman of department, and where the dean did not memorialize his decision to retain faculty member as department chair nor did he incorporate the committee's evaluation or adopt it as his final action, request for release of performance evaluation was properly denied by the university as a predecisional document. OAG 94-ORD-132.

A policy of blanket exclusion relative to the names and identifying information of persons requesting fire service is inconsistent with the Open Records Act. To be exempt from inspection, particulars regarding given notations on the log must be articulated in terms of the requirement of the statute. OAG 94-ORD-133.

County dispatch center may not adopt a policy of blanket exclusion relative to entries on the daily dispatch logs, but must articulate its reasons for withholding a particular entry. OAG 94-ORD-133.

The protection provided by KRS 610.320(3), which is incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of subsection (1) of this section, is not expressly, or by implication, limited to living juveniles nor does it exclude from its coverage situations where the juvenile has died; thus, the Urban County Government properly denied a reporter's request to inspect documents and records regarding the suicides of two (2) juveniles. OAG 95-ORD-7.

Pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, if a public record contains both excepted and nonexcepted material, a public agency is obligated to separate the material and make the nonexcepted material available for examination. OAG 95-ORD-12.

The work product doctrine protects from discovery, and access under the Open Records Act, materials prepared or collected by an attorney in the course of preparation for litigation; however, travel expense records are not in the nature of attorney work product since they cannot be characterized as mental impressions, conclusions, opinions, or legal theories of an attorney concerning that litigation. OAG 95-ORD-18.

Travel expense records do not, in general, disclose communications by the client or attorney in relation to the specific matter for which the attorney was retained, and where there has been little or no effort to insure confidentiality in the handling of the records, or to protect the information contained therein from general disclosure, the assertion of attorney/client privilege fails to protect such records from public inspection. OAG 95-ORD-18.

Where the Lottery Corporation denied an open records request to inspect portions of a survey apparently commissioned by the Lottery Corporation without any explanation of the nature of the record withheld, how it could be characterized as "preliminary" and how the exceptions of KRS 61.880(1) applied to the withheld information, the Lottery Corporation failed to meet its statutory burden of proof to sustain the denial. OAG 95-ORD-27.

A bare allegation that the records withheld are proprietary is not sufficient under the law. OAG 95-ORD-27.

Generally, records of the county clerk are public records, and while portions of these records may properly be excluded from inspection by operation of one or more of the exceptions to public disclosure codified at KRS 61.878(1)(a), the county clerk must make all nonexempt portions of these records available for inspection and copying, regardless of whether they are maintained in electronic or hardcopy format. OAG 95-ORD-43.

Although the county clerk is required by subsection (4) of this section to make all nonexempt portions of public records available for inspection or copying, the clerk is not required to designate an employee to assist the requesting party in inspecting nonexempt records stored in electronic or hardcopy format. OAG 95-ORD-43.

Even if the requested information contained in the public records was exempt from disclosure under this section, the recipient of the records could release it to others without violating the Open Records Act. OAG 95-ORD-77.

The type of storage system in which an agency has chosen to maintain its records, whether by hard copy or electronic database, does not diminish its duties under the Open Records Act, nor does it relieve the agency of the costs attendant to this duty. OAG 95-ORD-82.

Considering that subsection (4) of this section mandates redaction of excepted material when it is commingled with nonexcepted material and that the reasonable fee provision found at KRS 61.874(3) specifically excludes the staff cost required, it is clear that the General Assembly intended that public agencies bear the cost of redaction. OAG 95-ORD-82.

The deletion of juvenile law enforcement records, per KRS 610.320(3) and KRS 61.878(1), from an existing database of arrest records is not equivalent to the production of a record in a specially tailored or nonstandardized format within the meaning of KRS 61.874(3); thus, the Division of Police is required to discharge this duty under subsection (4) of this section, provide the requested records, and bear the cost of redaction. OAG 95-ORD-82.

The absence of statutory language making background investigation reports confidential, coupled with the express language in KRS 61.884 and in subsection (3) of this section mandating that any person shall have access to any public record relating to him, supports the conclusion that the Kentucky State Police acted improperly in denying a request from an applicant of the State Police cadet trooper class to review the background investigation reports. OAG 95-ORD-84.

Where a private investigator, who was retained by a driver involved in an accident to locate the other driver involved in the collision, requested copies of motor vehicle registration records and records reflecting insurance coverage, the Transportation Cabinet did not violate the Open Records Act by partially denying the private investigator's commercial request since the strong privacy interest outweighed the nominal public interest which would be served by disclosing the owner's address, birthdate and social security number. OAG 95-ORD-151.

If the nature of the request for records is unrelated to the furtherance of the citizens' right to monitor public agency action, which is the fundamental purpose of the Open Records Act, then the countervailing interests, such as the cognizable privacy interest of a vehicle owner in the nondisclosure of her home address and social security number, must prevail. OAG 95-ORD-151.

The Jefferson County Department of Animal Control did not violate the provisions of the Open Records Act by denying attorney's request for animal licensure records, where the records were to be used for mail solicitation, a commercial purpose, and not for the purpose of exposing public agency to public scrutiny, which is fundamental to the Act, and where disclosure of the information contained in these records would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 95-ORD-153.

A member of a school board is entitled to documents of the school system which relate to a legitimate governmental purpose and the board member's public function. If the request is for records which fall outside this area, then the board member's right of inspection would be the same as that of any other citizen under the Open Records Act. OAG 96-ORD-110.

If a board member makes a request for copies of records under the Open Records Act, then he or she may be charged a reasonable fee for copies of the public records. OAG 96-ORD-110.

The Lexington Fayette Urban County Division of Policy properly relied on subsection (1)(a) of this section in denying the Lexington Herald-Leader's request for an unedited copy of an incident report relating to the shooting of a juvenile. A policy of blanket nondisclosure relative to the names of juvenile victims of crimes, along with personally identifiable information, is not endorsed, although depending on the nature and circumstances of the crime, the juvenile's privacy interest may be superior to the public's interest in disclosure. OAG 96-ORD-115.

Kentucky Regional Planning and Development Agency improperly withheld unit price calculation worksheets, provider staffing matrix, and other documents included in the sealed bid packages for the social services projects identified in ElderServe's request. OAG 96-ORD-135.

The language of KRS 61.880(2)(a) clearly indicates that the Attorney General's role in adjudicating open records disputes is narrowly circumscribed. He is only authorized to review a public agency's denial of a request to inspect a public record per KRS 61.880(2)(a), or a complaint that the intent of the Act is being subverted by an agency short of denial of inspection per KRS 61.880(4). The Attorney General does not have authority to entertain a third party claim that disclosure of public records would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, or is inconsistent with any of the other exemptions codified at subsections (1)(a) to (l) of this section. OAG 96-ORD-148.

Rate filings are not excluded from the mandatory disclosure provisions of the Open Records Act by operation of subsection (1)(i) of this section, relating to preliminary drafts, notes, and correspondence with private individuals. Although these filings are predecisional, until approved or disapproved by the Department of Insurance, and thus might otherwise be treated as exempt per subsection (1)(i) of this section, KRS 304.2-150(3)(a)(1) categorically states that rate and form filings and information filed in support thereof shall be open. Whatever the merits of its arguments under KRS 61.872 to 61.884, the Department is bound by the mandatory disclosure provisions of its own statutes. OAG 96-ORD-155.

A municipal utility was within its rights in refusing to disclose sewer bills for certain customers. Specific customer billing information is private information which does not fall under the domain of the open records law. Such information can be used to infer a particular life style of a residential customer and may suggest the competitive position of commercial and industrial customers. OAG 96-ORD-176.

A city is foreclosed from adopting a policy of blanket nondisclosure of police officer's identities pursuant to subsection (1)(a) of this section. Consistent with past open records decisions dealing with public employee discipline, and the significant interest in public oversight of employee discipline, the city should exercise even greater restraint in withholding the identities of the officers against whom complaints are made, and only upon the strongest possible showing that disclosure would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 96-ORD-177.

City of Louisville violated provisions of the Open Records Act in denying the Commission on Human Rights access to records containing notations of telephone complaints against police officers which were neither signed nor verified. As to the class of open records requesters generally, the city's reliance on subsections (1)(i) and (j) of this section was misplaced, and its reliance on subsection (1)(a) of this section to authorize blanket nondisclosure of the identities of complainants and officers did not find support in recent caselaw. With respect to the Commission specifically, although subsection (5) of this section is intended to promote agency sharing of records, it is not a mandatory stricture, and the city was not obligated to release otherwise exempt information which appeared on the telephone complaints to it. OAG 96-ORD-177.

In the absence of a particularized showing that an individual complainant's identity was properly withheld, as for example where the complainant requests anonymity or could reasonably expect confidentiality, the city cannot withhold this information. Stated alternatively, if particular entries are properly excludable pursuant to subsection (1)(a) of this section, the city may withhold those entries by providing particularized justification for denial. OAG 96-ORD-177.

Subsection (5) of this section notwithstanding, the City of Louisville could properly withhold particular entries appearing on the records provided it demonstrated that the public's interest in disclosure was outweighed by the individual's privacy interest. The city was not permitted, with respect to the Commission, or the public generally, to adopt a policy of blanket nondisclosure relative to such entries. OAG 96-ORD-177.

There is no unqualified right for one entity to examine the records of another in their entirety and without restrictions. To the extent that prior decisions hint at such an "unqualified right" of access, those decisions are hereby modified. Although public agency sharing of records and information is a laudable goal, each agency must retain a reasonable measure of discretion to decline the invitation to share its records. OAG 96-ORD-177.

Although an “in-car evaluation” performed by a rehabilitation center pursuant to licensing process of attorney’s client may be excluded from the public generally, pursuant to subsection (1)(a) of this section, as a record the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, the report was not exempt as to the requester here, an attorney representing the individual who is its subject. OAG 96-ORD-267.

County public schools system properly relied upon subsection (1)(a) of this section in denying newspaper reporter’s request for information as to each individual employee’s race and gender. Providing the requester with alternative information, through a computer printout, as to the specific number of employees at each location which included personnel totals by race and sex broken down by schools, salaried employees and hourly employees met the principal purpose of the Open Records Act. This alternative information allowed the citizen to monitor the functioning and operations of the public agency and to be informed as to what their government was doing. OAG 96-ORD-232.

Denial of request of newspaper writer for copies of or access to County Urban Government’s Division of Revenue records containing information on delinquent sewer user taxes, land-fill user fees, or other Urban County Government fees and taxes for twenty individuals who were Urban County Government council members or candidates for that office was inconsistent with the Open Records Act. The disclosure of the requested records does not constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy exempted from disclosure under subsection (1)(a) of this section and the records should be made available for the reporter’s inspection. The public interest to monitor who has failed to meet their legal obligations or has been given preferential treatment outweighed any privacy interests involved. OAG 97-ORD-9.

Subsection (1)(k) of this section operated in tandem with federal drug testing statutes and regulations to prohibit the disclosure of the results of drug tests administered to school bus drivers in the county school system. Although only the results of the tests were requested and not the identities of the individuals tested, such disclosure still would have violated federal law by identifying individuals tested since one could infer that persons discharged contemporaneously with the drug testing process tested positive. OAG 97-ORD-2.

Subsection (5) of this section notwithstanding, the City of Louisville could properly withhold particular entries appearing on the records provided it demonstrated that the public’s interest in disclosure was outweighed by the individual’s privacy interest. The city was not permitted, with respect to the Commission, or the public generally, to adopt a policy of blanket nondisclosure relative to such entries. OAG 96-ORD-177.

The Legislative Research Commission (LRC) violated the Open Records Act in denying newspaper access to a search warrant issued by a federal court and executed by a federal agency relating to an LRC employee and travels of state legislators. The search warrant was a “public record” for purposes of Kentucky’s Open Records Act and it has never been held that a public agency can rely on an exemption under the federal Freedom of Information Act, the federal Privacy Act, or a federal regulation applicable to the United States Department of Justice as an exception under subsection (1)(k) of this section. OAG 96-ORD-244.

The language at the foot of a facsimile cover sheet warning against “unauthorized dissemination or copying,” which is standard prescriptive language appearing on facsimile cover sheets, does not relieve a public agency of its duties under the Open Records Act, or otherwise abrogate, abridge, or nullify the Act. The language is aimed at notifying unintended recipients of the facsimile transmission that the records contained therein may be confidential, and should be returned to the sender. It does not constitute an independent basis for denying access to public records. OAG 96-ORD-267.

Kentucky Employers’ Mutual Insurance Authority is a public agency, as that term is defined at KRS 61.870(1)(b),(f), and (i), and its records must be made available to the public unless excluded from inspection by one or more of the exceptions codified at KRS 61.878(1)(a) to (l). OAG 97-ORD-66.

Kentucky Employers’ Mutual Insurance Authority is a public agency, as defined in KRS 61.870(1)(b), (f), and (i), and its records are public records, as defined in subsection (2) of this section and its operational records, including its personnel handbook, documents reflecting hotel and car rental reservations, leases, contracts for public relations or advertising services, financial audits, travel agency invoices, and contracts and billing records for its attorneys do not qualify for exemption under subdivision (1)(a) of this section and these records must be released; however, with respect to employee personnel files, records unrelated to public employment which are found in those files are excluded from public inspection by subdivision (1)(a) of this section and because both exempt and nonexempt records are commingled in those files, it is incumbent on requester to specifically identify the personnel records he wishes to inspect. OAG 97-ORD-66.

Although the attorney client privilege, codified at KRE 503, is deemed incorporated into the Act by operation of subdivision (1)(l) of this section, the privilege does not extend to contracts and billing records of attorneys working for a public agency. OAG 97-ORD-66.

Records involving former employees of a public agency cannot be withheld under the terms of confidentiality agreements unless the public agency can demonstrate that the promises of confidentiality are consistent with one or more of the exceptions to public inspection codified at KRS 61.878(1)(a) to (l). OAG 97-ORD-66.

Records created by a public agency in the ordinary course of business are not excluded from public inspection by operation of subdivision (1)(c)1 of this section. OAG 97-ORD-66.

Attorney contract and billing records of public agency are not exempt from public inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(l) of this section and the attorney client privilege. OAG 97-ORD-66.

University properly relied on subsection (1)(a) of this section to authorize nondisclosure of the amounts of outside income of members of the athletic department, but subsection (1)(a) of this section does not authorize nondisclosure of the sources of that income. OAG 97-ORD-85.

The obvious purpose of the 1992 amendment to subsection (3) of this section was to broaden the scope of the provision to insure that all public employees, not just state employees governed by KRS Chapter 18A, enjoyed an equal right of access to records relating to them. An interpretation of this provision which does not include former public employees is clearly inconsistent with the natural and harmonious reading of KRS 61.870 considering the overall purpose of the Open Records Act. OAG 97-ORD-87.

Former employee of university was improperly denied access to all otherwise exempt records relating to university’s decision not to renew his contract and all records relating to complaints about him, except those that implicated the federal Buckley Amendment, 20 USCS § 1232g, and any records properly classified as education records within the meaning of the statute may be withheld pursuant to subsection (k) of this section. OAG 97-ORD-87.

Although subsection (3) of this section does not contain a specific reference to former employees, its expansive wording, coupled with the state of legislative intent underlying the Open Records Act, codified at KRS 61.871, that free and open examination of public records is in the public interest, and the rule of statutory construction, codified at KRS 446.080(1), that all statutes are to be interpreted with a view to promote their objects and carry out the intent of the legislature, compels the result that such subsection applies to former employees. OAG 97-ORD-87.

Cabinet for Health Service properly relied on KRS 61.872(6) and subsections (1)(a), (k) and (l) of this section and various confidentiality provisions found in both state (KRS 209.140, 210.235, 214.420, 214.625 and 620.050) and federal law, in denying request for inspection of all nursing facility licensure inspection reports for a two (2) year period where the Cabinet sustained the burden of showing that such request was an unreasonable burden on the Cabinet in describing with specificity the actual volumes of records implicated by the request and where the exemptions to disclosure provided by the state and federal law were mandatory and the difficulty of separation of confidential from releasable information constituted an unreasonable burden. OAG 97-ORD-88.

Upon request for various records relating to recruitment and hiring in the Division of Police the Civil Service Board improperly relied on subsection (1) of this section to extend its response time to thirty (30) days, under FRCP 34(b), and it was instead bound to conform to the procedural requirements of the Open Records Act, and in particular the requirement that it respond to the request within three (3) days, and the Board's failure to do so constituted a violation of the Open Records Act. OAG 97-ORD-98.

Information appearing in a grant application which does nothing more than reveal the identity of the applicant, where the applicant's identity is already known, cannot be characterized as confidential. OAG 97-ORD-132.

Subsection (4) of this section applies to all public records in which exempt and nonexempt information is commingled, including those qualifying for partial exemption under subsection (1)(c)2.a. of this section; thus since an application for a grant can, and very likely will, contain both excepted and nonexcepted material, the public agency asserting the right to withhold the excepted material is obligated to separate it and make the nonexcepted material available for examination or justify withholding with specificity. OAG 97-ORD-132.

The language of subsection (1)(c)2.a. of this section is sufficiently broad to extend to information in a grant application that discloses names of investigators, geographic target areas, types of targeted substances, and strategic plans of attack. OAG 97-ORD-132.

Subsection (1)(c)2.a. of this section does not extend to purely statistical information which is not descriptive of any readily identifiable person. OAG 97-ORD-132.

In request for copies of grant application submitted by county drug task force only those portions of the applications which contain excepted material under subsection (1)(c)2.a. of this section may be withheld and to the extent that those portions of the applications contain information which is also recognized as confidential, they may be properly withheld and pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, the Justice Cabinet Division of Grants Management must separate the excepted material and make the nonexcepted material available for examination. OAG 97-ORD-132.

502 KAR 45:065 Section (5) which mandates absolute confidentiality as to investigations conducted by the State Police to determine an applicant's suitability for employment, modifies and vitiates the terms of KRS 16.040 which directs disclosure of the contents of the investigation, with the narrow exception of the identities of witnesses and informants, specifically referencing the Open Records Act, and since 502 KAR 45:065 Section (5) and KRS 16.040 cannot be reconciled, the statute controls. OAG 97-ORD-136.

While portions of the investigation of State Police, as to applicant's suitability for employment as a police officer may be withheld by the State Police on grounds of personal nature, the State Police must state in what way the information is personal for without a brief explanation of how the exemption applies the propriety of the invocation of subsection (1)(a) of this section cannot be determined. OAG 97-ORD-136.

Investigation by State Police, in its entirety, as to applicant's suitability for employment as a police officer was not exempt per subsection (1)(i) of this section as a predecisional document not incorporated into final agency actions, since while portions of the investigation may be characterized as preliminary, the entire record constituting the background check is not preliminary as it is used to determine applicant's suitability for employment and is adopted by the State Police as the basis of its final decision to make an offer of employment. OAG 97-ORD-136.

The purpose for which subsections (1)(i) and (j) were enacted, namely to protect the integrity of the agency's internal decision-making process by encouraging the free exchange of opinions and ideas, is not served by the nondisclosure of an Internal Affairs report which is the basis for the final action taken; this rule extends to use of force inquiries. OAG 97-ORD-168.

A correctional complex's denial of an inmate's request for his FBI rap sheet was procedurally deficient under KRS 61.880(1) when it merely stated that the facility was "not the official custodian of that record" without citing the specific exception authorizing nondisclosure; however, the inmate's response was properly denied under subsection (1)(k) of this section, and 28 USCS § 534. OAG 97-ORD-178.

A list of lost and unclaimed property that is continuously updated and maintained by the Department of the Treasury pursuant to KRS 393.110 and that was displayed at the Kentucky State Fair cannot then be considered a 'preliminary' draft; furthermore the fact that the list is disclosed does not constitute a guarantee of the accuracy of the information. OAG 97-ORD-183.

The most effective vehicle to locate owners of unclaimed property is to place the record in the public domain, thus enabling ordinary claimants as well as commercial finders the opportunity to freely and openly examine it; a list of lost and abandoned property maintained by the Department of the Treasury in compliance with KRS 393.311 should therefore be disclosed. OAG 97-ORD-183.

A list of lost and abandoned property reported to the Treasury Department and posted at Kentucky State Fair cannot be characterized as a preliminary draft, note, or correspondence to qualify as an exemption to inspection under subsection (1)(i); nor is it a preliminary recommendation or memorandum in which opinions are expressed as noted in subsection (1)(j); therefore disclosure of the list was proper. OAG 97-ORD-183.

Although the Transportation Cabinet's denial of a reporter's request for the contents of the "entire statewide database of driver licenses" was procedurally deficient in that it did not cite to KRS 61.878(1)(k), the federal Drivers' Privacy Protection Act, 18 U.S.C § 2721, bars the release of this information, and the request was properly denied. OAG 98-ORD-1.

A settlement agreement involving the payment of city funds is a matter with which the public has a substantial concern, and the desire of the plaintiff in that suit to keep secret the amount of money he received can be afforded little weight; the clear presumption is that such agreements must be made available for public inspection. OAG 98-ORD-24.

A confidentiality clause in a settlement agreement reached by the parties to litigation cannot in and of itself create an inherent right to privacy superior to and exempt from the statutory mandate for disclosure contained in the Open Records Act; however, a confidentiality clause may require the government to notify an affected party so that the party may act immediately to assert the privacy claims in court. OAG 98-ORD-24.

Although allegations of sexual misbehavior are largely personal, there is no impenetrable barrier to disclosure of records relating to such allegations; this is not to say that individual notations appearing on those records may not be withheld, but in general, where the allegations arise in the context of a public employee's performance of his or her employment, the public interest in regulation outweighs the employee's privacy interest, and the government cannot adopt of policy of blanket nondisclosure with regard to a complaint of sexual harassment. OAG 98-ORD-45.

The privacy interest of public employees who have been disciplined for or exonerated of charges of misconduct in the course of their employment is outweighed by the public interest in monitoring agency action; disclosure of such records is not, in general, prohibited by this section as a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 98-ORD-45.

Executive Order 92-1059, excluding complaints of sexual harassment from the Open Records Act, has not been enacted into law; whatever binding effect this Order may have on state agencies generally, it does not operate as a statutory enactment restricting confidential records relating to complaints of sexual harassment in state government, which are therefore not excluded from public inspection. OAG 98-ORD-45.

Although there are undoubtedly occasions where there is a legitimate need by a public agency to keep telephone numbers it has called confidential, the Legislative Research Commission cannot adopt a policy of blanket nondisclosure of records reflecting telephone calls from designated state telephone numbers. OAG 98-ORD-92.

Subsection (1)(l) prohibits the disclosure of information which has been made confidential by the General Assembly; thus a teacher's request for full access to records relating to a complaint filed against her was properly denied, as release of this information is prohibited by KRS 7.410(3). OAG 98-ORD-149.

Although subsections (1)(i) and (1)(j) have generally been construed to authorize the nondisclosure of preliminary notes used in formulating a formal recommendation, but not incorporated into final agency action, such notes must be disclosed pursuant to subsection (3) if they are requested by a public agency employee and relate to him. OAG 99-ORD-3.

Subsection (1)(h) justified the denial of a request for all 911 tape recorded conversations related to a specific fatal automobile accident as it contained information the premature disclosure of which could harm a prospective law enforcement action. OAG 99-ORD-11.

A county sheriff erred in withholding a uniform traffic accident report of a fatal accident in its entirety, since only those portions of the report which were investigative in nature and were to be used in a prospective law enforcement action against one of the drivers could properly be withheld, and the remainder of the report had to be disclosed; thus, the sheriff could redact, or mask, the text under the "accident description" portion of the report, the estimated travel speed of the vehicle, the results of blood alcohol test performed on the driver, and the diagram of the accident scene, but he was required to release an otherwise unredacted copy of the accident report. OAG 99-ORD-11.

A city properly denied a request to inspect records showing the age of all persons that worked for the city during a certain period as the privacy interest of a public employee in the nondisclosure of his or her age is superior to the public's interest in disclosure where the requester sought such information only because he thought that knowing the age of particular employees might inform the public as to what the city was doing under a particular circumstance. OAG 99-ORD-12.

The Transportation Cabinet properly relied on subsection (1)(j) in partially denying a request for documents pertaining to defective concrete used for the reconstruction of an interstate highway where the disputed documents consisted of a proposal submitted by the cabinet to a contractor relating to the problems with the highway and the contractor's counterproposal since a review of the documents did not confirm the existence of a "plan" submitted by the company as the proposal and counterproposal were still on the negotiating table and no final resolution of the dispute had been reached. OAG 99-ORD-13.

Subsection (3) vests public agency employees with a right of access to otherwise exempt public records which relate to them; however, it does not relieve public agency employees of the duty to describe those records with sufficient specificity to permit the agency from which the records are sought to identify, locate, and retrieve the records and does not impose an additional duty on the agency to conduct an exhaustive exhumation of records or embark on an unproductive fishing expedition in order to satisfy a nonspecific request. OAG 99-ORD-14.

The Kentucky Revenue Cabinet properly denied a request by an employee for disclosure of documents pertaining to the requester's EEO complaint against the cabinet. OAG 99-ORD-14.

The Kentucky Revenue Cabinet properly denied a request by an employee for disclosure of applications for employment, employee evaluations, and unsuccessful nominees for distinguished service awards; however, the employee was entitled to disclosure of distinguished service award letters of justification and other supporting documents relating to employees upon whom such awards were conferred. OAG 99-ORD-14.

The Kentucky Revenue Cabinet acted within its authority in releasing employee P-1s after redacting personal information such as home address, home telephone number, and social security numbers. OAG 99-ORD-14.

The Kentucky Revenue Cabinet properly withheld attorney assignment lists, but improperly redacted entries on attorney time sheets inasmuch as those entries contained only general descriptions of services performed rather than substantive legal matters. OAG 99-ORD-14.

The Labor Cabinet properly denied a request by an attorney, on behalf of a city, for a copy of a complaint filed with the cabinet initiating a prevailing wage inspection of the city, as, pursuant to KRS 337.345, the cabinet was prohibited from releasing the complaint and any information identifying employees contacted by the cabinet in its investigation concerning the workplace violation. OAG 99-ORD-15.

The Kentucky Commission on Human Rights did not violate the Open Records Act in denying a request to inspect all records submitted by an American Legion Post to substantiate the fact that it employed less than eight (8) people and was, therefore, not subject to the commission's jurisdiction as the records which were requested contained information obtained by the commission pursuant to its authority to conduct investigations of complaints and inspect documents which are relevant to those complaints and, therefore, the commission was prohibited from making the information public without the consent of the American Legion Post except as reasonably necessary to the conduct of proceedings under KRS Chapter 344. OAG 99-ORD-20.

Subsection (3) does not apply to allow an inmate in a correctional institution to obtain all records pertaining to him or her. OAG 99-ORD-23.

The Kentucky State Penitentiary properly relied on subsection (1)(j) in denying a request by an inmate for a copy of all pre-parole progress reports submitted to the parole board by his caseworker as such a report is purely advisory and is not subject to disclosure unless it is incorporated into the parole board's final decision. OAG 99-ORD-23.

A requestor was entitled to know the names of students enrolled in a future farmers program during a specified period if the county school system had designated this information as directory information; if the school system had not done so, such information, along with all other records generally characterized as education records, was properly withheld. OAG 99-ORD-26.

A policy of blanket nondisclosure of police department records pertaining to a specified individual based on the policy that the privacy rights of victims of crime outweigh the public's interest in disclosure violates the Open Records Act; in the absence of proof that disclosure of such records will have an adverse impact on the victim, disclosure is required. OAG 99-ORD-27.

Subsections (1)(i) and (1)(j) do not authorize a city to withhold records of criminal victimization as such reports cannot be characterized as preliminary recommendations or preliminary memoranda in which opinions are expressed. OAG 99-ORD-27.

Subsection (1)(i) does not authorize nondisclosure of records of criminal victimization as "correspondence with a private individual." OAG 99-ORD-27.

A police department did not establish that the public's interest in release of police records pertaining to domestic disturbances involving a specified individual was outweighed by the individual's privacy interest. OAG 99-ORD-28.

Subsection (1)(h) did not justify the denial by a police department of a request for records pertaining to domestic disturbances involving a specified individual where the police department indicated that no arrests had been made and made no contention that there was an ongoing investigation or that information in the police report was to be used in a prospective enforcement action. OAG 99-ORD-28.

Subsections (1)(i) and (1)(j) do not authorize a police department to withhold police report records of complaints received from citizens or records they maintained or were compiled incident to or occurring in the agency's daily operation. OAG 99-ORD-28.

A police department properly denied a request for access to two (2) incident reports involving juvenile victims of crimes where the incidents at issue involved, in one case, sexual contact by forcible compulsion of a 10 year old child by her 13 year-old cousin and, in the other case, sexual contact of a 13 year-old male and a 10 year-old female by a 15 year-old male playmate. OAG 99-ORD-29.

KRS 610.320(3) prohibits disclosure of juvenile law enforcement records, but does not apply when the law enforcement records relate to a juvenile victim of crime; nevertheless, portions of those law enforcement records revealing the identity of the victim may be withheld under authority of subsection (1)(a) when, because of the nature and circumstances of the crime perpetrated against the juvenile, his privacy interests outweigh the public's interest in disclosure. OAG 99-ORD-29.

Where the requester sought information from a board of education which was contained in numerous records, the board properly afforded the requester an opportunity to examine the records and to compile the information herself. OAG 99-ORD-33.

The State Treasurer properly denied a request for copies of all unclaimed property reports filed by banks with the Treasury Department for a specified year as the reports contained information of a personal or confidential nature the disclosure of which would have constituted an unwarranted invasion of the owner's personal privacy and would have required unduly burdensome redaction in order to comply with the request. OAG 99-ORD-34.

The Department of the Treasury properly denied a request for access to either its computer database or a hard copy of property reported abandoned in a specified year as disclosure would not advance an open records related public interest. OAG 99-ORD-37.

While a city acknowledged that unofficial, unexecuted drafts of current and past ordinances, resolutions, municipal orders, and executive orders were stored in the computers of third party attorneys, state agencies, and other local agencies by whom they were authored and that such unexecuted drafts might, in some cases, mirror the ordinance, resolution, or order that was adopted, they did not represent final action of the legislative body because they were not adopted and executed and, therefore, they retained their preliminary characterization and qualified for exclusion from public inspection under subsection (1)(i), regardless of where they were reposed, as preliminary drafts. OAG 99-ORD-38.

Where the office of academic affairs of Western Kentucky University issued a reprimand to the director of its Glasgow Extended Campus after an investigation and review of a complaint of sexual harassment by the Equal Opportunity Office, the university improperly withheld the letter of reprimand and the complaint of sexual harassment from which it stemmed, notwithstanding the fact that the university characterized the reprimand as an internal disciplinary procedure; the university could take reasonable steps to protect the identity of the complainant by masking her name and any personally identifiable information which appeared in the complaint, investigative report, and reprimand along with the names of other complainants and witnesses, but the privacy interests of the director were not entitled to the same consideration as he violated the public trust by engaging in improper conduct in the performance of his official duties. OAG 99-ORD-39.

The Western Kentucky University was required to disclose the letter of resignation submitted by the director of its Glasgow Extended Campus after an investigation and review of a complaint of sexual harassment by the Equal Opportunity Office. OAG 99-ORD-39.

The Western Kentucky University was required to disclose the minutes of the open portion of a meeting of a sexual harassment grievance appeal committee pertaining to a complaint against the director of its Glasgow Extended Campus. OAG 99-ORD-39.

The Western Kentucky University was required to disclose records documenting the disbursement of public funds to the director of its Glasgow Extended Campus after an investigation and review of a complaint of sexual harassment by the Equal Opportunity Office, notwithstanding a confidentiality agreement relative to the amount and character of the consideration paid. OAG 99-ORD-39.

With respect to correspondence between the Western Kentucky University and the director of its Glasgow Extended Campus in which the director was asked to resign or threatened with termination or a change in status or duties, because the director resigned before such threats could be carried out, such correspondence could be withheld pursuant to subsection (1)(j). OAG 99-ORD-39.

Evaluations of city employees for a specified period were not subject to disclosure as they were excluded from public inspection by operation of subsections (1)(a), (1)(i), and (1)(j). OAG 99-ORD-42.

Although memoranda containing recommendations that were never adopted and forms that were never approved may properly be characterized as preliminary documents within the meaning of subsections (1)(i) and (1)(j), it is incumbent on the agency to determine if responsive records exist and, if they do not, to specifically so indicate; it is not enough to advise the requester that "if any documents exist," they are exempt. OAG 99-ORD-42.

A correctional institution properly denied an inmate's request for his own psychological and psychiatric records pursuant to KRS 197.025(1). OAG 99-ORD-47.

Subsection (1)(e) did not allow the Revenue Cabinet to deny a request for a copy of the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet Protest and Appeals Guidelines, which could be characterized as a general summary of revenue statutes, regulations, and policies and the uniform operating standards and procedures to be followed by cabinet employees to ensure fair and consistent handling of taxpayer protests and appeals. OAG 99-ORD-51.

A Commonwealth's Attorney did not violate the Open Records Act in denying a request for all records in his custody relating to a specific indictment. OAG 99-ORD-53.

A request for materials generated during the investigation of a complaint against a supervisor of the Department of Corrections was properly denied as preliminary interoffice and intraoffice memoranda or notes setting forth opinions, observations, and recommendations, as well as investigative reports that do not represent the agency's final action may be withheld from public inspection and as no final agency action occurred because the investigation was preempted by the supervisor's retirement before the investigation was completed. OAG 99-ORD-55.

A request for access to a special report to the parole board by a parole officer was properly denied as the report was prepared by a probation and parole officer in the discharge of his official duties and, therefore, the record was exempt from disclosure under KRS 439.510. OAG 99-ORD-55.

A sheriff's department properly denied a request for copies of all documents related to the department's internal investigation of a complaint filed by the requesters against one of the department's deputies as the records were preliminary in nature, contained investigative notes, witness statements, and observations, and were neither incorporated into nor made a part of the final agency action. OAG 99-ORD-56.

The Kentucky State Penitentiary properly denied an employee's open records request for a copy of his polygraph results on the ground that the polygraph test pertained to an ongoing internal administrative investigation, and the fact that the requester was an employee of the State Penitentiary did not require a contrary result. OAG 99-ORD-60.

The Cabinet for Families and Children, Department for Community Based Services, properly denied a request for copies of records generated in the course of an investigation conducted by the department of the former wife of the requester as she was a client of the cabinet and, therefore, was entitled to confidentiality. OAG 99-ORD-61.

The Kentucky State Penitentiary properly denied an open records request for a copy of an employee's polygraph results as the record was part of an ongoing investigation of both Internal Affairs and the Kentucky State Police and, thus, was exempt from disclosure. OAG 99-ORD-62.

Subsection (1) does not prohibit access by a party litigant to nonprivileged, nonexempt public records in the custody of a public agency against which the litigant had brought suit or by which he had been sued; only if the records to which the party litigant requests access are both exempt and nondisclosable does the subsection (1) authorize nondisclosure. OAG 99-ORD-64.

A Workforce Development Accident Report was not exempt from disclosure under subsection (1)(a) and was subject to disclosure, with personal information redacted, as disclosure would provide information as to how a public agency handles its workplace injuries and safety of its employees. OAG 99-ORD-65.

Medical records submitted to a public agency indicating that the health of a public employee, injured in the workplace, was such that she was authorized by attending physicians to return to work were not exempt from disclosure under subsection (1)(a). OAG 99-ORD-65.

Subsections (1)(a) and (1)(j) did not justify the refusal of a correctional facility to disclose copies of previous grievances filed with the facility against sick abuse and copies of previous grievances filed for denial of off days or shift change due to time and attendance; such grievances were synonymous with complaints and were subject to disclosure after the redaction of certain information pursuant to those subsections. OAG 99-ORD-72.

Subsection (1)(a) did not justify a correctional facility's provision of a call-in log with the "reason" column deleted; although the facility asserted that the basis for the blanket redaction was that the column contained medical information and information of a personal nature, routine call-in log reasons, such as sick, cold, doctor's appointment, late arrival, etc., would not be information in which an employee would normally have an expectation of privacy. OAG 99-ORD-72.

The time and attendance records of the security staff of a correctional facility, in relation to which public monies are expended, could not be considered as being entirely of a personal nature, the disclosure of which would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, under subsection (1)(a); such records were subject to disclosure after the redaction of confidential information, such as social security numbers and home addresses. OAG 99-ORD-72.

With the exception of the redaction of a grievant's security number and the reference to employee evaluation ratings he received for employee conduct, a correctional facility improperly redacted information contained in a grievance file since the commissioner, in reviewing the grievance, referenced the responses to his grievance at the various supervisory levels and incorporated them as a basis for his final determination. OAG 99-ORD-72.

A correctional facility was required to release information regarding sick leave and use under an open records request, notwithstanding its contention that such disclosure would nullify the aegis provided by the Americans with Disabilities Act for the same information. OAG 99-ORD-72.

Response cards submitted by parents of children enrolled at a middle school to the county public schools, reflecting the decision to transfer their children from the school, qualified for protection as education records under both federal and state acts and, therefore, were exempt from disclosure under subsections (1)(k) and (1)(l). OAG 99-ORD-73.

Response cards submitted by parents of children enrolled at a middle school to the county public schools, reflecting the decision to transfer their children from the school, were exempt from disclosure under subsection (1)(a). OAG 99-ORD-73.

The Kentucky State Police did not violate the Open Records Act in denying requests for copies of the investigative files relating to the deaths of two (2) individuals, which requests were submitted on behalf of a life insurance company, where investigations into those deaths were still active. OAG 99-ORD-74.

The burden of proving that the records withheld qualify for exclusion under subsections (1)(c)1. or (1)(c)2. rests with the public agency; thus, where the agency did little more than recite the language of the exception, without explaining how it applied to the disputed records, the agency failed to establish that the exception applied. OAG 99-ORD-81.

Subsection (1)(h) did not support a police department's refusal to release CrimeCom reports, which were compilations of city-wide crime statistics and reviews of those statistics in analyzing prospective and past enforcement actions; however, the department could withhold those portions of the reports which related to formulated strategies aimed at crime reduction in targeted areas of the city, if the information contained therein could be used to circumvent or violate the law thus necessitating an immediate revision of policy. OAG 99-ORD-83.

A city violated the Open Records Act in denying a request for copies of all applications for building permits and the building permits issued for specified years, notwithstanding the assertion that the building permits contained information of a personal nature the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, since any privacy interest at issue was outweighed by the public's interest in disclosure as inspection of the records would clearly advance the public's interest in insuring that the city is properly executing its statutory function with regard to building permits; however, the home addresses and telephone numbers of applicants could be redacted to protect their privacy. OAG 99-ORD-87.

Subsection (1)(c)1. is only applicable where disclosure would permit an unfair commercial advantage to competitors of the entity that disclosed the records, namely the applicant for the building permit, and not the architect whose building plans accompany the application; the exemption's protection simply does not extend to the records of an architect employed by the applicant or acting for the applicant in an agency capacity. OAG 99-ORD-88.

Neither subsection (1)(c)1. nor (1)(c)2. permit a city to deny a request for copies of building plans filed with the city for a particular piece of property. OAG 99-ORD-88.

If building plans have been copyrighted, the protection of the federal law, incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of subsection (1)(k), extends to those plans and they may properly be withheld. OAG 99-ORD-88.

Based on the fact that the requested records were the subject matter of a discovery dispute currently pending before the Kentucky Unemployment Insurance Commission, and the conclusion that the factual circumstances surrounding the appeal supported the Kentucky Lottery Corporation's position that the open records request was submitted on behalf of a party to that litigation, the Attorney General declined to render a decision on the issue. OAG 99-ORD-92.

The Kentucky State Police properly denied a request for a copy of a taped interview of a witness conducted by the State Police as the cases in which the interview was used were still active pending exhaustion of the appeals process. OAG 99-ORD-93.

The Office of Education Accountability properly denied a request for access to an intra-office memorandum and the identity of an informant, which related to the requester's attempt to hack into or invade the agency's computer system. OAG 99-ORD-96.

A city did not violate the Open Records Act in denying a request for records relating to a municipal utilities company and the break-up of the company as the relevant documents consisted of preliminary drafts, notes, and correspondence with private individuals. OAG 99-ORD-98.

Subsections (1)(c)1. and (1)(c)2. did not permit the blanket denial of a request for a copy of community block grant application, although the portion of the application which contained sensitive financial information, generally recognized as confidential or proprietary, could be redacted. OAG 99-ORD-99.

The Kentucky State Penitentiary properly denied a request for records containing the names and home addresses of all penitentiary employees and the penitentiary's master menu as such records did not pertain to the inmate himself. OAG 99-ORD-102.

A requester was entitled to inspect a copy of an intra-office memorandum which described a verbal complaint made against an employee of the Department of Corrections and a copy of his letter of resignation since, otherwise, there would be no way for the public to evaluate a complaint made against a public employee in a matter related to his job performance and a matter about which the public has a right to know, and more importantly, no way for the public to effectively monitor public agency action and ensure that the agency is appropriately investigating and acting upon allegations of employee misconduct. OAG 99-ORD-105.

In responding to a request for various records and information pertaining to a police officer, a county government properly redacted the officer's social security number and the grade he received on his certification exam, both of which appeared on his radar certification training records, as disclosure of this information would have constituted a clearly unwarranted invasion of the officer's personal privacy. OAG 99-ORD-113.

The Department of Corrections did not violate the Open Records Act in denying an inmate's requests for copies of his pre-parole progress reports since the reports, which were not incorporated into the final decision of the parole board, were preliminary documents exempt from disclosure under subsection (1)(j). OAG 99-ORD-114.

The Department of Corrections did not violate the Open Records Act in denying an inmate's requests for copies of his pre-parole progress reports as the reports were prepared by institutional parole officers and, therefore, qualified for exclusion under KRS 439.150, incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 99-ORD-114.

A school district improperly refused to release a copy of a letter of suspension of a former principal of an elementary school and the principal's letter of resignation, notwithstanding that no final action was ever taken against the principal because of her resignation, since, otherwise, there would be no way for the public to evaluate a complaint made against a public employee in a matter related to her job performance and a matter about which the public has a right to know, and more importantly, no way for the public to effectively monitor public agency action, and insure that the agency is appropriately investigating and acting upon allegations of employee misconduct. OAG 99-ORD-116.

Audio recordings and hand-written notes of investigators hired by the Kentucky Board of Psychology in connection with the investigation of certain psychologists were exempt from disclosure under subsections (1)(i) and (j). OAG 99-ORD-156.

A county board of education properly denied a request for records of corporal punishment conducted in the school system as the release of the information would have constituted an invasion of personal privacy of the students involved. OAG 99-ORD-160.

A county police department improperly relied on subsection (1)(h) in denying a request for various records relating to the radar unit used by a police officer when he issued a speeding citation. OAG 99-ORD-162.

Subsection (1)(h) does not permit the blanket nondisclosure of criminal investigative files of law enforcement agencies until a defendant has served out his sentence or been executed; law enforcement agencies are authorized to withhold investigative records upon a clear showing that further judicial proceedings remain a significant prospect. A county school system did not violate the Open Records Act in denying a request to inspect a videotape recording of an incident involving the requester's son that occurred on a county school bus; the videotape qualified for exclusion from public inspection under KRS 61.878(1)(k) and (1)(l) which incorporate the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act and its state counterpart into the Open Records Act as it contained information on more than one student and such information was inextricably intermingled and therefore non-segregable, and, therefore, the school system could not disclose the videotape in such a way as to meaningfully honor the rights of the requester to inspect the tape without violating the corresponding rights of the other students and their parents in nondisclosure of the tape to third parties. OAG 99-ORD-217.

OAG 00-ORD-3.

Subsection (1)(a) did not justify a school district's denial of access to a settlement agreement with a former employee since a review of the settlement agreement revealed little if anything which would cause the former employee such serious personal embarrassment or humiliation that it would overcome the presumption of openness; although brief references to the incident giving rise to her termination appeared in the agreement, these details no doubt came to light in the jury trial which resulted in her acquittal, appeared in the court record, and received media coverage, and the former employee's desire to keep secret the amount of money she received, or the terms of the settlement, could be accorded little weight. OAG 00-ORD-5.

A school district's denial of access to a settlement agreement with a former employee could not be justified by subsection (1)(l), operating in tandem with KRS 161.790(5), since the latter statute does not shield from disclosure a settlement agreement entered into by a teacher and a school district. OAG 00-ORD-29.

The Kentucky High School Athletic Association properly relied upon subsection (1)(a) in denying a request for "Top 25" and "Scratch" lists since disclosure of such records would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy in the absence of a superior public interest in inspection of the records; in the evaluative records at issue, officials' performances were rated as high, moderate, or low, and in some instances the officials were entirely disallowed, or scratched, as unacceptable, and given the passions that competitive sports ignite, and the largely subjective nature of the duties the officials performed, the records warranted even greater protection than a typical evaluation. Although neither KRS 197.025 nor KRS 197.400 et seq. invests a participant in the sexual offender treatment program with an unfettered right of access to all records in his treatment file, neither statute establishes an absolute bar to his access. As in all matters pertaining to records access, it is incumbent on the agencies to identify all records in the file that were withheld, and to articulate a basis for denying him access to them in terms of the requirements of the Open Records Act. If no legally defensible basis exists for denying the offender access to the other records in his file, these agencies are obligated to disclose them to him. OAG 00-ORD-221.

The records at issue in this decision, school district P.A.-2's disclosing student transportation codes, fall within the expansive definition of an education record under state and federal law, and may not be disclosed absent parental consent. OAG 01-ORD-3.

The Henderson Circuit Court Clerk is not bound by the provisions of the Kentucky Open Records Act, and therefore did not violate the Act in the disposition of a requester's request for a copy of grand jury records relating to the Commonwealth of Kentucky's criminal action against the requester. OAG 01-ORD-6.

If the defendant did not waive his PSI, and was advised of its contents at sentencing pursuant to KRS 532.050(6), is he foreclosed from being advised of its contents under an open records request because KRS 439.510 makes the report confidential. While the agencies are not required to furnish him with a copy of the report in either case, if he waived his PSI at sentencing, he is entitled to be advised by the prison official who has custody of it of the factual contents and conclusions therein. OAG 01-ORD-13.

The description of the Daily Inspection Reports indicates that they contain both objective report of physical facts and subjective expressions of opinion. The information constituting a report of objective facts that are neither preliminary in nature or reflect a subjective expression of opinion would not be exempt from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). However, information in the Daily Inspection Reports, such as opinions as to the quality of the work inspected, recommendations as to the appropriateness of pay requests, or opinions regarding work progress or problems, that reflects a subjective opinion or recommendation of the inspector which does not constitute final agency action, may be withheld from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). OAG 01-ORD-17.

Review of the real estate purchase agreement reveals that none of these requested preliminary documents were incorporated into or made a part of that document. Accordingly, the Board properly withheld disclosure of the documents under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). Unless the records withheld by the Board were incorporated into final action of that agency, the agreement, they do not forfeit their preliminary characterization and need not be released. OAG 01-ORD-22.

Cabinet for Health Services did not violate the Open Records Act in denying access to a statement of deficiencies concerning a health care facility since KRS 61.878, in tandem with 42 CFR 488.325(d), directs that a statement of deficiency must be disclosed within 14 calendar days after it is made available to the facility. Under these authorities, CHS could deny access to the statement of deficiencies for a period of up to 14 days after receipt of the document by the health care facility. OAG 01-ORD-32.

Although at this point the work of Professional Standards Board is final as to its own role in investigating the shooting by the police officer, the work of others in determining final disciplinary action is yet to be done. Until final administrative action is taken, or a decision is made to take no action, the requested records are protected by KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). If the records are adopted as part of that final action, they will forfeit their preliminary characterization. If not adopted, they will retain their preliminary character. The fact that these exempt public records have been transmitted to the Commonwealth's Attorney and coroner in the furtherance of their respective duties does not alter the conclusion. OAG 01-ORD-47.

Since the two-page Memorandum sought by the requester was prepared by a probation and parole officer in the discharge of his official duties, the record, pursuant KRS 439.510, would be exempt from disclosure and could properly be denied under KRS 61.878(1)(l). Accordingly, the adjustment center's denial of the request was correct and in accord with provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 01-ORD-52.

KRS 61.878(1)(l), operating in tandem with KRE 503, may authorize partial nondisclosure of the attorney billing records, but it is incumbent on the agency to describe, in at least general terms, the nature of the information redacted and the statutory basis therefore. There is no authority for its eleventh hour defense of the partial denial (redactions) of the billing records on the basis of KRS 61.878(1)(a), the personal privacy exception, unless the redacted information consisted of social security numbers or federal identification numbers. The agency's response to the request was procedurally and substantively deficient. OAG 01-ORD-56.

The public's interest in what businesses are taxed, where they are located, and whether they are delinquent in paying their taxes (but not the amount of taxes owed or any other information that reveals the affairs of their businesses), is superior to any privacy interest asserted. The City and the Tourist & Convention Commission improperly withheld records containing "the names and locations of businesses that are delinquent on the payment of their food/restaurant taxes" notwithstanding the city ordinance that deemed those records confidential. OAG 01-ORD-63.

The Cabinet for Health Services' reliance on KRS 61.878(1)(h) fails under each part of the three-part test: (1) the Cabinet has not asserted that it is acting as a law enforcement agency or an agency involved in administrative adjudication in the matter of the Medicaid payments; (2) the Cabinet has not identified for the record an agency with concurrent jurisdiction in this matter that has requested that the disputed documents be withheld until after enforcement action is taken or a decision is made to take no action; and (3) the Cabinet has not established that the disputed documents were compiled in the process of detecting and investigating statutory or regulatory violations. OAG 01-ORD-67.

Although the Cabinet for Health Services "has been put on notice" and "advised through appropriate channels" that a federal grand jury has been empanelled to examine Medicare payments to a doctor and related issues, its records of Medicaid payments for work performed by the doctor have not been subpoenaed. They are records created in the normal course of business for purposes not related to the prospect of a grand jury proceeding, which the Cabinet has an affirmative obligation to release. Physical evidence, such as a document, does not become secret merely because it has been presented to a grand jury, if it was created for purposes other than the grand jury investigation and its disclosure does not reveal matters occurring before the grand jury. OAG 01-ORD-67.

Ambulance reports and emergency and EMS records must be withheld from an open records request unless a written release is first obtained, pursuant to the confidentiality provision of former KRS 216B.410 (now see KRS 311A.190). OAG 01-ORD-75.

KRS 61.878(1) does not prohibit access by a party litigant to nonprivileged, nonexempt public records in the custody of a public agency against which the litigant had brought suit or by which he had been sued. Only if the records to which the party litigant requests access are both exempt and nondisclosable does KRS 61.878(1) authorize nondisclosure. OAG 01-ORD-75.

The fiscal court erred in not releasing the real estate appraisal. A purchase contract has been executed for the acquisition of a single parcel of property. Negotiations between these parties have been concluded, and the purposes for which the exception codified at KRS 61.878(1)(f) was enacted have been satisfied. It is the Fiscal Court's interest in avoiding unfair negotiations in the acquisition of real property that underlies the exception, and this interest cannot be compromised where only one parcel of property is being acquired, and the terms and conditions of the purchase have been contractually settled. OAG 01-ORD-81.

Because the chief of police did not adopt the investigative report as the basis for the final disciplinary action of the police officer in the internal investigation, the investigative file retained its preliminary characterization under KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j) and was properly not disclosed. OAG 01-ORD-83.

When an agency relies upon the protections afforded by KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j) as its basis for denying access to internal investigative reports/files, the ultimate decision maker should affirm that he or she did not adopt the report as the basis of the final action, and to explain on what basis he or she, in fact, determined what final action was appropriate. It is not enough to simply invoke the exceptions to shield the investigative report from disclosure without offering an explanation of what was done and why. OAG 01-ORD-83.

Although a public agency cannot indefinitely postpone access to investigative records by labeling an investigation open, three years is not an unreasonable time to investigate and prosecute a case. Having established that the disputed records consist of investigative reports maintained by a criminal justice agency, and that prosecution has not been completed, the Kentucky State Police did not abuse its discretion in invoking KRS 17.150(2) to shield those records from disclosure. OAG 01-ORD-85.

The exclusion under KRS 61.878(1)(c)1. is aimed at protecting records of private entities which, by virtue of involvement in public affairs, must disclose confidential or proprietary records to a public agency, if disclosure of those records would place the private entities at a competitive disadvantage. It is, in general, inapplicable to records generated by or for a public agency itself. The exemptions protection simply does not extend to the agency's own records, such as minutes of the agency's public meetings. OAG 01-ORD-87.

The financial projections report prepared by a sister agency on behalf of the Franklin Electric Plant Board falls squarely within the parameters of KRS 61.878(1)(j). The report contains broad opinion and conjecture based on an analysis of projected data, formulates policy, and makes recommendations relative to the expansion of services. The report enjoys the protection of KRS 61.878(1)(j) until such time as a final decision is made on this issue, including a decision not to expand services. When the Board finally acts, or decides not to act, the report will forfeit its preliminary characterization to the extent that it is adopted as part of that final action. OAG 01-ORD-87.

Since the in-house memoranda was prepared by the agency's attorney in order to provide her client, the agency, with advice on the legal matters related to the complaint and relevant statutes, and the agency has attempted to insure the legal analysis contained in the legal opinion was shielded from disclosure, the agency properly denied access to these in-house documents pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(l), operating in tandem with KRE 503. Although a number of the exceptions to the Open Records Act are forfeited upon the occurrence of a specific event, this has never been the rule with respect to attorney work product and documents shielded by the attorney-client privilege. OAG 01-ORD-92.

The documents that the agency required Humana to produce represent basic business dealings of Humana with private third parties and business decisions made by Humana regarding contracting, internal policies and procedures, how it is organized, and payment to third parties. They are records of a private corporation generally recognized as confidential or proprietary and constitute the inner workings of the company, the release of which would unfairly advantage competitors. Thus, the agency properly withheld disclosure of the documents under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(c)1. OAG 01-ORD-92.

Since the records in question come within the purview of the Circuit Court's protective orders, the agencies, as required to do so by the Protective Orders entered by the Jefferson Circuit Court, properly denied the open records request for agency records that were the subject matter of the orders staying discovery in the two pending cases. To permit otherwise would allow a party to litigation to use the Open Records Act to do an end run around the Circuit Court's protective orders. OAG 01-ORD-95.

The parole officer's "contemporaneous handwritten notes" and any other records the agency may have "relating to this matter" fall squarely within the parameters of the privilege established at KRS 439.510, incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l). This privilege does not terminate upon revocation of an individual's parole, and cannot be waived by the parolee. OAG 01-ORD-97.

The Treasury properly withheld disclosure of information that would allow the requester to determine the amount of an unclaimed property owner's individual account, disclosure of which would constitute a "clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy" under KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 01-ORD-102.

Since the record in question is a letter from the Commissioner of the Cabinet putting a public employee on notice that he is being placed on special leave with pay, pending further investigation of allegation(s) of misconduct, it was a preliminary record compiled in the process of investigating alleged employee misconduct and was exempt from disclosure under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). Accordingly, the Cabinet properly denied access to the document. OAG 01-ORD-103.

Since the record in question is a letter from the Commissioner of the Cabinet putting a public employee on notice that he is being placed on special leave with pay, pending further investigation of allegation(s) of misconduct, the letter is not correspondence with a private individual, and the Cabinet improperly relied upon the "correspondence with a private individual" clause of KRS 61.878(1)(i) as authority for denying access to the letter. OAG 01-ORD-103.

The disputed record does not qualify for exclusion under KRS 61.878(1)(i). The record is not a draft, it does not represent a tentative version, sketch, or outline of a formal and final written product, nor is it a note. Although the Cabinet argues that it was created by the State Highway Engineer as a mere aid to memory, it cannot be persuasively argued that it consists of nothing more than random notations, or written or shorthand notes created as a basis for a fuller statement. OAG 01-ORD-104.

Since the "custodian" of the disputed records is CTS, a company under contract with the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, and CTS cannot be characterized as a public agency for purposes of the Open Records Act, the disputed records themselves are not public records, because, at the time of the request, they were not "prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public agency." The Cabinet properly denied access to these documents under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). OAG 01-ORD-105.

Since the agency's records custodian affirmatively acted to permit the requesters unfettered access to the records identified in the request, and only after inspection was permitted did the agency undertake to examine the records disclosed to determine if any of them qualified for exclusion, the agency is estopped from denying the requesters copies of these records, notwithstanding their arguably exempt status. OAG 01-ORD-113.

KRS 61.878(5) is not a mandatory provision, requiring public agencies to exchange otherwise exempt information, but is instead a matter of agency discretion. Northern Kentucky University may properly share exempt information with its Department of Public Safety, under the provision of KRS 61.878(5), without waiving its right to invoke the exception as to all other requesters, and without violating the principal of uniformity in disclosure policies. OAG 01-ORD-119.

Because the records of the accident involving the police officer were not "actively, specifically, intentionally, and directly compiled as an integral part of a specific detection or investigation process" but rather were made in the usual course of police business, and because the professed harm that would flow from premature disclosure consists of little more than a bare claim, KRS 61.878(1)(h) does not authorize nondisclosure of these records. Nor do KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). OAG 01-ORD-122.

While preliminary findings and recommendations cannot be said to reflect, in themselves, the agency's final decision, when the final decision mirrors those findings and recommendations, albeit in an abbreviated form, it must logically be inferred that they were adopted as the basis of that decision, particularly when there is no persuasive proof in the record to overcome this inference. Therefore, those records should be disclosed. OAG 01-ORD-123.

Kentucky State Police improperly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(a) in partially denying the request. As a former public agency employee, the requester is entitled "to inspect and to copy any record including preliminary and other supporting documentation that relates to him" under KRS 61.878(3). If, in fact, social security numbers appear in the background investigation report, KSP may properly redact them insofar as they represent "the keys to the information kingdom" and are of a uniquely sensitive nature, but KRS 61.878(3) mandates disclosure of the remainder of the report. OAG 01-ORD-126.

The police department may rely on KRS 189.635(5) as the basis for denying any request for accident reports not submitted by the parties to the accident, the parents or guardians of a minor who is party to the accident, the insurers of any party who is the subject of the report, the attorneys of the parties, and news gathering organizations "solely for the purpose of publishing or broadcasting the news." This specific confidentiality provision overrides the general rule of openness mandated by the Open Records Act. OAG 01-ORD-127.

The Fiscal Court judge discharged his duty to disclose nonexempt information relating to emergency medical services runs in Henry County for a three (3) month period by compiling that information from the ambulance run reports in a "recap sheet" that did not violate either KRS 61.878(1)(a) or former KRS 216B.410 (now see KRS 311.190). OAG 01-ORD-137.

The Kentucky Board of Examination and Registration of Architects did not violate the Open Records Act in denying the request for a copy of the private reprimand; if a licensee receives a private reprimand, it is private and confidential and may be properly withheld from disclosure under authority of KRS 323.120(1) and KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 01-ORD-139.

Only the identifying information furnished by the horse farm owners on the Livestock Disease Diagnostic Center intake form, and mirrored in the necropsy report, qualifies as a record "confidentially disclosed to an agency." The non-identifying portion of the necropsy report that is generated by the Center, and the non-identifying "History" portion of the intake form, that provides the basis for the "Pathologist's Case Summary" cannot be so characterized insofar as they are created by, rather than confidentially disclosed to, the Center. OAG 01-ORD-143.

Because the campus safety incident report was created by the law enforcement unit of community college for a law enforcement purpose and was not created exclusively for a non-law enforcement purpose, such as a disciplinary action, the campus safety incident report and accompanying statements do not constitute education records within the meaning of 20 U.S.C. § 1232g(a)(4)(A), and partial redaction of those records was therefore not authorized by 34 C.F.R. 99.12. OAG 01-ORD-174.

Since the community college established a cognizable privacy interest on the part of one of the "victims" and the witness whose name appears on the campus safety incident report, that interest must prevail unless the public's interest in disclosure outweighs it pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 01-ORD-174.

Since the Circuit Court has enter an order prohibiting the father's access to his children's educational records, the school properly denied him access to those records under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(k), 20 U.S.C. § 1232g, and 34 C.F.R. 99.4. OAG 01-ORD-178.

Where the requester sought a copy of a subpoena issued by the FBI to the agency, since the agency had concurrent enforcement jurisdiction, the description of the harm by the agency in releasing the subpoena establishes, as a minimum, that premature disclosure of the subpoena could possibly compromise the investigation by tipping off a possible witness or target. Thus, the agency properly denied access to the subpoena under KRS 61.878(1)(h). However, if this potential of harm no longer exists, particularly in view of the time since it was served on the agency in early August, 2001, the document should be made available for inspection. OAG 01-ORD-217.

The e-mails in dispute could properly be characterized as correspondence with private individuals "under conditions in which the candor of the correspondents depends on assurances of confidentiality." In addition, these e-mail transmissions would arguably constitute "preliminary recommendations in which opinions are expressed or policies formulated" within the meaning of KRS 61.878(1)(j). If, of course, the opinions expressed or policies formulated in the exchange are ultimately adopted as part of the city's final action relative to relocation of the cellular tower, they will forfeit their preliminary characterization. OAG 01-ORD-222.

The record supports the City's position that the maps generated by Cingular were confidentially disclosed to the Mayor, are generally recognized as confidential or proprietary, and that their disclosure would permit an unfair commercial advantage to competitors of the entity that disclosed them. OAG 01-ORD-222.

Because 23 U.S.C. § 409 does not bar the disclosure of the information relating to highway skid numbers for purposes unrelated to litigation, the Transportation Cabinet improperly denied the open records request under authority of 23 U.S.C. § 409 and KRS 61.878(1)(k). OAG 01-ORD-244.

Because the agency's reliance upon KRS 61.878(1)(a) was not legally sufficient where the person was deceased, and because KRS 61.880(2) places the burden of proof in sustaining a denial of a request to inspect public records on the public agency, the school district had the burden of establishing that the former teachers involved in the request are still alive. Although the Open Records Act does not set out a time limit as to when restrictions on public records are no longer confidential, an actuarially reasonableness standard should be followed in making a determination as to whether a former employee is still living. OAG 01-ORD-245.

The school district improperly denied access to the names of individuals submitting letters of reference in the personnel files of the former teachers. The district must disclose the names of the persons who submitted letters of reference, but may withhold the contents of the letters under KRS 61.878(1)(i). It is, of course, within the agency's discretion to release copies of the entire letters of reference, KRS 61.878(1)(i) notwithstanding. OAG 01-ORD-245.

A former employee's personnel action against the agency cannot be characterized as administrative investigations undertaken by the agency, and the language of KRS 61.878(3) therefore does not operate as a prohibition on disclosure of the records to the employee. OAG 01-ORD-246.

The attorney client privilege applies only where, among other things, the attorney involved is functioning as an attorney, and not as a supervisor; documents leading up to disciplinary action cannot be lumped into a generic work-product privilege, for they are documents of ordinary business even if prepared in the shadow of litigation. OAG 01-ORD-246.

Since the 911 Center indicated that the 911 recording and its contents could not be reasonably segregated, the voice could be identifiable, the caller's residence could be ascertained from information discussed in the tape, and the caller(s) did not give a name in an apparent effort to remain anonymous, the agency provided specific justification to support a determination that protection of the caller(s) privacy interests clearly outweighed the public's right to know how the public agencies were performing their duties. OAG 02-ORD-05.

The airport agency has established that the regulation relied upon, 14 C.F.R. 191.3(b), mandates nondisclosure of airport police officers' names, annual salaries, resumes, and applications, along with records reflecting disciplinary actions against the officers. Further, the agency has established that the cited federal statutes and regulations, specifically, 14 C.F.R. 191.7(h), 14 C.F.R. 191.3, and 14 C.F.R. 107.101, preclude public access to incident reports generated by airport police officers. OAG 02-ORD-12.

Although the witness statements are varied and contradictory, it is apparent that the police chief credited the statements of some witnesses over the statements of others leading him to adopt findings of fact consistent with those statements. Accordingly, the Division of Police improperly withheld the entire investigative summary and all transcripts of witness statements on the basis of KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). OAG 02-ORD-18.

The Division of Police improperly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(a) in partially denying news-gathering requesters access to those portions of accident reports containing information of a personal nature. Because KRS 189.635(6) places no restriction on the information in the accident reports that must be disclosed to news-gathering organizations, limiting only the use to which the information may be put, these organizations are entitled to the same right of access as the parties identified in KRS 189.635(5). OAG 02-ORD-19.

The City of Louisville Division of Police may properly rely on KRS 61.878(1)(a) in withholding information identifying the victims of sexual offenses from incident reports requested by open records applicants. The Division of Police may redact the names and addresses of the victims of sexual offenses, the location of the offenses if the offenses occurred in the victim's homes, and the complainants' signatures if the complainant and victim are one and the same. OAG 02-ORD-36.

A finding of no probable cause is not a "final determination" such as one reached at the conclusion of a full-blown adjudicatory hearing conducted under KRS 11A.100(3). It is, instead, an option available to the Commission if, in the course of a preliminary investigation, it determines that the complaint does not allege facts sufficient to constitute a violation of KRS Chapter 11A. Records pertaining to such preliminary investigative findings, including minutes of executive sessions of the Commission, are expressly excluded from public inspection by operation of KRS 11A.080(2). OAG 02-ORD-44.

As a public agency employee, the requester would normally be entitled to inspect and copy any record including preliminary and other supporting documentation that relates to him at the conclusion of any criminal or administrative investigations by an agency. However, the specific confidentiality provision codified at KRS 11A.080(2) overrides KRS 61.878(3), and the requester has no greater right of access to the Commission's confidential records than the public generally. OAG 02-ORD-44.

Since the case notes of the parolee's visits with his parole officer were prepared as a result of the officer's official duties, these records, pursuant to KRS 439.510, would be exempt from disclosure and may be properly denied under an Open Records Request pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 02-ORD-51.

The memorandum in question is an internal communication in which the police chief expresses various opinions and makes recommendations concerning the department. There is no evidence that it has been adopted as the basis of any action on the part of the City, and the City steadfastly maintains that it is preliminary in nature. Thus, the memorandum is shielded from disclosure by KRS 61.878(1)(j) unless or until it is adopted into final agency action. OAG 02-ORD-52.

KRS 61.878(1)(i), relative to correspondence with a private individual, is reserved for that narrow category of public records that reflects letters exchanged by private citizens and public agencies or officials under conditions in which the candor of the correspondents depends on assurances of confidentiality. Since the police chief is not a private citizen, KRS 61.878(1)(i) does not extend to the memorandum he submitted to the city's mayor and commissioner. OAG 02-ORD-52.

Disclosure of a copy of the list that shows the eligible voters and the record of those eligible voters who cast votes within each of the units whose votes have been counted would allow the employees and the public to validate the election process and to determine that the chosen representative was properly elected by a majority of the eligible employees voting. This public interest outweighs the employee's privacy interest in whether or not he or she voted in the election. OAG 02-ORD-55.

Any records from a school counselor which identify or lead to the identification of a student or a student's parent are privileged and confidential. Hence, these records are exempt from disclosure under the Open Records law. OAG 02-ORD-61.

All records of a school counselor which have been requested and which are not privileged or confidential, for example, statistical information, a photograph of a public building, or documents concerning funding, which do not identify students, should be disclosed. Likewise, photographs of people attending public events or meetings should be disclosed. OAG 02-ORD-61.

Photographs of students performing school work are considered confidential as education records and may be excluded from public inspection if the school system has not taken appropriate steps to designate them as directory information. Photographs of students working with a school counselor or in counseling would be privileged and confidential. OAG 02-ORD-61.

Disclosure of records relating to complaints of misconduct leveled against public employees or officials by other public employees or officials does not constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, even if the allegations of misconduct are of a personal nature. Instead, they are records in which the public "has a legitimate interest." OAG 02-ORD-75.

Given the expansive language of KRS 344.250(6), the fact that the person seeking access to a record or records obtained by the Commission in discharging its duties under KRS Chapter 344 is the person who originally filed the complaint does not alter the analysis or compel a different result: the records are confidential and may not be disclosed. The fact that federal courts have interpreted similar provisions of the federal EEOC act differently likewise doesn't matter since the state law is not preempted. OAG 02-ORD-76.

Although KRS 61.884 provides that a person is entitled to inspect records concerning himself, the exemptions contained in KRS 61.878 take priority over KRS 61.884. By its own language, KRS 61.884 is subject to the provisions of KRS 61.878, and KRS 61.878(1)(h) exempts records of law enforcement agencies or agencies involved in administrative adjudication from public disclosure where the records identify informants or would harm an agency by their premature release. OAG 02-ORD-77.

Inspection of the lead poisoning reports in the custody of the county board of health serves the public interest by revealing whether the board is discharging its duties relative to the prevention, screening, diagnosis, and treatment of lead poisoning. Whatever the privacy interests of the individuals suspected or found to have lead poisoning, those interests are clearly outweighed by the public's interest in disclosure which is statutorily recognized at KRS 211.902(2). OAG 02-ORD-80.

Applications for the purchase of conservation easements through the Purchase of Development Rights Program do not qualify for exclusion from public inspection as correspondence with private individuals pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(i), but instead become open records upon submission to the Board. OAG 02-ORD-86.

An arbitration proceeding is generally private and materials presented and opinions expressed before the arbitrator are confidential. These proceedings and materials presented are exempt from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j), until the arbitrator has made a final determination. OAG 02-ORD-95.

Final audit reports are public documents and are therefore subject to public inspection unless there is a possibility of prospective law enforcement action or administrative adjudication. Audits that fall into the latter category are only exempted from public inspection under KRS 61.878(1)(h) until the enforcement action or administrative adjudication is concluded or a decision is made to take no action. OAG 02-ORD-97.

Random notations made by individuals present at a meeting setting forth opinions, observations, and recommendations which are not adopted as part of final agency action may properly be withheld from public inspection pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). OAG 02-ORD-99.

Although a police incident report in the hands of the generating law enforcement agency is a record customarily made available to the public upon request, the same record in the hands of the county or Commonwealth's Attorney charged with prosecuting the criminal conduct alleged is permanently shielded from disclosure by KRS 61.878(1)(h). OAG 02-ORD-112.

RFP proposals or portions thereof, that contain confidential or proprietary information, the disclosure of which would permit an unfair advantage to competitors, may properly qualify for exclusion under KRS 61.878(1)(c)1. The bidding companies are in the best position to assess the confidential and proprietary nature of the information submitted in response to the RFP process and whether its release would permit an unfair commercial advantage to their competitors; their arguments clearly demonstrate that the withheld information and records fall within those types of records which qualify for exemption. OAG 02-ORD-125.

Because videotapes of students in a school classroom are educational records, and because all educational records are exempt from disclosure under the Open Records Act, and since the exemptions for the Open Records Act apply based on the records rather than the status of the requester, the school district properly denied the request of a teacher for access to videotapes made of her own classroom pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(k) and (l). OAG 02-ORD-132.

Under the authority of KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j), the department properly denied an inmate's requests for a copy of any letters submitted to the Parole Board relative to the inmate's prospects of parole, as the department's supplemental response indicated that none of the requested records were adopted as part of the Parole Board's decisions concerning him. OAG 02-ORD-138.

The County Judge/Executive improperly withheld from disclosure a former county employee's job application, complaints filed against her, records documenting final action on these complaints, including the decision to take no action, and records reflecting her termination or final employment status. OAG 02-ORD-140.

With regard to the minutes of the committee meetings for which the University issued a blanket denial on the basis that "the meetings of these bodies are conducted in closed session," this is not a legally sufficient basis for withholding the minutes of meetings which might also reflect the call to order, the presence of a quorum, the names of the members present, and to which nonexempt records might be appended, such as complaints directed to the Grievance Committee. Such entries in the minutes, and records appended to the minutes, do not automatically qualify for exclusion from public inspection. OAG 02-ORD-142.

KRS 189.635(5), in tandem with KRS 61.878(1)(l), requires that a public agency deny a request for copies of accident reports not submitted by parties to the accident, the parents or guardians of a minor who is party to the accident, the insurers of any party who is the subject of the report, the attorneys of the parties, and news gathering organizations "solely for the purpose of publishing or broadcasting the news." This specific confidentiality provision overrides the general rule of openness mandated by the Open Records Act. OAG 02-ORD-155.

An occupational safety and health compliance officer's worknotes generated in the course of an investigation of a work site, and containing preliminary drafts of possible citations, along with the compliance officer's observations and opinions, may properly be withheld under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). OAG 02-ORD-157.

Employee interview statements that were obtained by a compliance officer under authority of KRS 338.101(1)(a), and that are located in the investigative file, are excluded from the mandatory disclosure provisions of the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 02-ORD-157.

Pursuant to KRS 337.345, in tandem with KRS 61.878(1)(l), the Cabinet is prohibited from releasing the complaint, the name of the complainant, and any information identifying employees contacted by the Cabinet in its investigation, and information secured from inspection of the records, or from the transcriptions thereof, or from inspection of the employer's concerning the violation. OAG 02-ORD-157.

Only those records that were generated by counsel for the Fair Board in the course of defending the complaint the requester filed against the Board with the Kentucky Labor Cabinet, including records generated by counsel relative to her open records requests, and for which adequate measures were taken to insure confidentiality, qualify for exclusion under the privileges. The protection afforded by these privileges extends to records prepared by the Labor Cabinet but attached to privileged attorney-client communications, or records prepared by counsel but directed to the Labor Cabinet, rather than the Fair Board. OAG 02-ORD-161.

The police officer's broad right of access to records relating to him under KRS 61.878(3) must yield to the exclusionary language found in the last sentence of that provision because the record he seeks is an examination related to employment, even though it is an examination for promotion. OAG 02-ORD-168.

The Kentucky Teachers Retirement System members' privacy interest in the nondisclosure of their names and addresses is superior to the nonexistent public interest in disclosure; therefore, the KTRS properly withheld this information pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a). Moreover, in addition to KRS 61.878(1)(a), KRS 161.585, in tandem with KRS 61.878(1)(l), require the KTRS to maintain the confidentiality of the KTRS members' names and addresses. OAG 02-ORD-183.

The audio recordings of the witness interviews were made as a method of keeping a more accurate record of the investigation and represented an aid to the memories of both the school investigators and the superintendent. Thus, the audio tapes are in the nature of a tool used in hammering out official action rather than the official action itself, and the School District properly denied the request for the audio tape recordings under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(i). OAG 02-ORD-193.

No matter what the stage or status of the proceedings, the County and Commonwealth's Attorney may invoke the exception set forth in KRS 61.878(1)(h) relative to such activities and endeavors and withhold those materials from public inspection. Even though no full-blown criminal investigation or prosecution was commenced, the disputed record qualifies for exclusion under the cited exception. OAG 02-ORD-194.

Although the County Attorney may have exercised his discretion to release similar documents on earlier occasions, because the exceptions "are a shield and not a shackle," the County Attorney was by no means estopped from exercising his discretion to withhold the disputed record in the instant appeal. OAG 02-ORD-194.

Applying KRS 61.878(5), even if records are exempt from inspection by the general public generally, they should be made available by one agency to another for legitimate governmental purposes. However, KRS 61.878(5) is not a mandatory provision, requiring public agencies to exchange otherwise exempt information, but is instead a matter of agency discretion. OAG 02-ORD-195.

Although the director of Metro Parks could not be characterized as a rank and file public employee, she was not "the individual who was ultimately responsible for the management of the agency she serves," since ultimate authority for the management of the city resides in the mayor, and of the county in the county judge/executive. Thus, the city properly denied the request for copies of her performance evaluations. OAG 02-ORD-197.

As the only individual terminated in the wake of the scandal, the Metro Parks employee did not expressly or impliedly waive his privacy interest in his personnel evaluations by the course of conduct the employee elected to pursue, or the statements he made in interviews with the media. OAG 02-ORD-197.

Records in investigative files remain preliminary unless they are adopted as part of final agency action. Since there was no document reflecting final agency action, the investigative files remain preliminary in nature and are exempt from disclosure, under KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). OAG 02-ORD-199.

The Kentucky State Police digital radio tapes are the functional equivalent of "electronic recordings of general radio traffic of a police agency," which were deemed nonexempt in OAG 89-11 in the absence of a specific showing that they were compiled as an integral part of a specific detection or investigative process, or that the law enforcement agency would be harmed by premature disclosure. OAG 02-ORD-204.

Financial records, such as personal income taxes, audit records, lists of equipment and existing values, and business related tax returns, are records of a private corporation generally recognized as confidential or proprietary and constitute the "inner workings" of the company, the release of which could unfairly advantage competitors. Accordingly the Cabinet properly withheld disclosure of the financial records under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(c). OAG 02-ORD-209.

Although the Kentucky State Police is a law enforcement agency, the disputed records, identifying officers currently assigned to the Executive Security detail, are not records "compiled in the process of detecting and investigating statutory or regulatory violations" and are therefore not exempt from disclosure. OAG 02-ORD-211.

Since the FBI requested that the Grand Jury subpoenas not be disclosed, the agencies properly denied the requests under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(h), even though the document in question was not prepared by the agencies in their normal course of business, but were Federal Grand Jury subpoenas compiled by the FBI in pursuing its ongoing investigation. To allow the requester access to a record indirectly which would not be available directly from the FBI negates the statutory exemption set forth in KRS 61.878(1)(h). OAG 02-ORD-215.

Since Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 6(e), in tandem with KRS 61.878(1)(k), mandate nondisclosure of the federal grand jury subpoenas, the agency properly denied the request for inspection. OAG 02-ORD-220.

A private donor's desire for anonymity often outweighs the public's interest in disclosure; although the amount of pledges, contributions, or donations to the parks board must be disclosed, the names and addresses of the private donors could properly be withheld under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 02-ORD-221.

Although the complainants' privacy interest in their names, addresses, course of medical treatment, prescriptions, and other such sensitive information that is personally identifiable or otherwise relates to their diagnosis and treatment, warrants protection under KRS 61.878(1)(a), this protection does not extend to the treating doctor, the nature of the complaints made against him, and the agency's response thereto. Pursuant to KRS 61.878(4), sensitive information relating to the complainants may be redacted, but the remainder of these complaints, as well as records reflecting the agency's final disposition of these complaints, must be disclosed. OAG 02-ORD-222.

Since the Department is currently conducting an inquiry into the matter and exploring the remedies that might be available to it, may of the records in the Department's file consisting in large part of written and email communications between the Department, local school districts and officials, and various law enforcement agencies, and records forwarded to the Department from the local districts that relate thereto, fall squarely within the parameters of KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). OAG 02-ORD-224.

Although allegations of sexual harassment may be of a very personal nature, the privacy interests implicated do not necessarily trump the public's right to know if their public servants have filed, or are the targets of, sexual harassment complaints, and if the agency properly responded to those complaints. OAG 02-ORD-231.

Where the agency has decided the final payment methodology, all other projected financial data, opinions related thereto, and analyses thereof are rejected. Those preliminary emails, memoranda, charts and other documents that represent the rejected numerical calculations, financial projections, opinions, formulations, and recommendations did not forfeit their preliminary characterization and were properly withheld pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j). OAG 02-ORD-245.

A request for access to a personnel file requires no greater degree of specificity than any other open records requests, and that the agency must therefore "determine what is and is not subject to Open Records." Pursuant to KRS 61.878(4), the agency must disclose the nonexcepted records and identify, in writing, any responsive records withheld, cite the statute(s) authorizing the withholding, and briefly explain how the statute applies to the record withheld. OAG 03-ORD-12.

Because the surveillance tape was not actively, specifically, intentionally, and directly compiled as an integral part of a specific detection or investigation process, and because the professed harm that would flow from premature disclosure consists of little more than a bare claim, KRS 61.878(1)(h) does not authorize nondisclosure of these records. Accordingly, the City improperly withheld disclosure of the requested surveillance tape. OAG 03-ORD-17.

Because the requester is a public agency employee, and because the investigative report of her complaint against the doctor relates, in part, to her, she is entitled to inspect and receive a copy of those portions of the report relating to her complaint and interview by virtue of KRS 61.878(3), even though the report did not lose its preliminary nature. OAG 03-ORD-30.

The County Clerk's reliance on KRS 61.878(1)(a) as the basis for denying access to the voter assistance forms identified in the request was, with the exception of the protection it extends to social security numbers appearing on those forms, misplaced. The County Clerk should copy the voter assistance forms to which the requester requested access and permit him to inspect those copies after redacting the social security numbers appearing thereon. OAG 03-ORD-34.

The communications at issue were made in the application of or in the course of diagnosis and treatment in the Sexual Offender Treatment Program consisting of factual admissions relating to the offense for which the defendant was convicted in October 1989 that he made to employees of the Department assigned to the SOTP. These communications therefore fall squarely within the parameters of the privilege contained in KRS 197.440 and access under the Open Records Act was properly denied. OAG 03-ORD-39.

The Justice Cabinet did not meet its statutory burden of proof in sustaining the blanket denial of the request. The Cabinet did not identify the documents, or groups of documents, withheld or adequately explain how KRS 61.878(1)(h) or (j) apply to those records. Although the Cabinet may withhold those records which qualify for exclusion under the exemptions, it is obligated to disclose any other nonexempt records and to identify in general terms the records withheld and articulate the reasons for withholding those remaining responsive records in terms of the requirements of the exemptions. OAG 03-ORD-42.

Because the confidentiality provision codified at KRS 15.400(3) does not extend by its express terms to pre-December 1, 1998, psychological examination records, and because the requester was employed in 1992, KRS 15.400(3) does not apply to psychological records in the City's custody that relate to the requester. The requester is entitled to inspect and receive copies of her psychological records under authority of KRS 61.878(3). OAG 03-ORD-43.

The agency improperly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(a), in denying the request to inspect records relating to his son. Where the requester is a student's parent and the records requested relate to that student, generally no privacy interests can reasonably be asserted. OAG 03-ORD-45.

The video recording of the basketball game falls within the definition of an education record for purposes of both FERPA and KFERPA: it contains information directly related to particular students and is maintained by the educational agency or institution; the video was part of the communications course work or extra-curricular activity of the school; and the student commentator in the recording was readily identifiable by his voice and the tape served as the basis by the school in disciplining the student for his communications activity. Thus, the School District properly denied the request on the basis that release of an education record containing personally identifiable information of a student is prohibited by FERPA and KFERPA, incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation KRS 61.878(1)(k) and (l). OAG 03-ORD-49.

KRS 61.878(4) applies to all public records in which exempt and nonexempt information is commingled, including those qualifying for partial exemption under KRS 61.878(1)(c)1. Because records submitted by private entities to the Riverport may contain both excepted and nonexcepted material, the public agency asserting the right to withhold the excepted material is obligated to separate it and make the nonexcepted material available for examination at the time the request is tendered. OAG 03-ORD-64.

The redaction of exempt information from an existing record or database does not create a new record. OAG 03-ORD-64.

The Open Records Act does not allow public records to be exempt from disclosure by contract. Accordingly, the Riverport's argument that it could withhold certain information in the contracts under a confidentiality agreement alone is misplaced. If they are exempt from disclosure, it must be under the authority of a statutorily recognized exemption, such as KRS 61.878(1)(c)1., or other applicable exception set forth in KRS 61.878(1). OAG 03-ORD-65.

Because the investigation into the teacher's conduct is not ongoing, because she is a public agency employee within the meaning of KRS 61.878(3), and because the disputed record, in its entirety, relates to her, she is entitled to inspect and copy that record in its entirety. However, the County Public Schools may redact student and parent names from the disputed document on the basis of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, 20 USCS § 1232g, and its state counterpart, KRS 160.700, et seq., which restrict access to student education records absent parental consent. OAG 03-ORD-68.

Although the requester has established that she has “relative placement” of at least one of her grandchildren, she has not established that she is the children’s custodial parent or legal guardian within the meaning of KRS 620.050(5)(b) or that she otherwise falls within one of the remaining statutorily recognized classifications. A letter prepared by a social worker does not invest her with the status of custodial parent or legal guardian. Nor has she produced a court order directing disclosure of the disputed records to her. Insofar as none of the criteria found in KRS 620.050(5) are satisfied, the requester is not entitled to receive a copy of those records pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 03-ORD-70.

Employee interview statements that were obtained by a compliance officer under authority of KRS 338.101(1)(a), and that are located in the investigative file, are excluded from the mandatory disclosure provisions of the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 03-ORD-72.

Both records at issue constitute an “education record,” maintained by the school as part of a student’s educational activity and disciplinary record. One was an e-mail from the principal of the school to the superintendent of the County Schools and the other was a Student Behavior Referral form, containing both the teacher’s and the principal’s reports on the incident and identifying the student. They both describe the details of the incident involving the student. OAG 03-ORD-78.

Because KRS 229.121 expressly prohibits the issuance of a license to participate in any professional boxing or wrestling match or exhibition to persons under eighteen years of age, the Athletic Commission improperly redacted the date of birth in the record. Access to this item of information enables the public to verify that the Commission is uniformly enforcing the minimum requirements for licensure, thereby advancing the public’s right to know. Acknowledging that an individual’s date of birth is personal information, disclosure of the information does not constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy because the public’s interest in regulation is, in this case, superior to the privacy rights of the applicant for licensure. OAG 03-ORD-80.

The Athletic Commission has “effectively promoted the public interest in regulation” by disclosing the portions of the participant’s application, and the Commission properly redacted her height and weight. The public’s interest in insuring that the Commission properly monitors the height and weight of licensed wrestlers, which is de minimis at best, is inferior to the wrestler’s privacy interest in his or her height and weight. OAG 03-ORD-80.

Eastern Kentucky University’s reliance on KRS 61.878(1)(a) in denying a request for copies of the letter of application for the position of president and all supplementary materials submitted with the application, including a resume or curriculum vitae, and letters of recommendation, was misplaced since the specific candidate publicly confirmed that he was an applicant for the position of president at EKU; EKU was foreclosed from invoking the exception in support of its denial of the request. OAG 03-ORD-84.

The language of KRS 205.796 and KRS 403.211(11) is clear on its face: they proscribe disclosure of any information received or transmitted in cases administered by the Cabinet, notwithstanding the fact that some of that information is accessible through court records, unless the requester can demonstrate that he or she otherwise qualifies for access to the records under KRS 205.175 or another provision of KRS Chapter 205. The Cabinet is strictly prohibited by the language of these provisions from disclosing the information in an Open Records request. OAG 03-ORD-90.

Since the requester is an employee of the Board of Education and that the document at issue relates to her allegations made to the Superintendent, the record, although preliminary to and not adopted as part of the Superintendent’s final determination, relates to the requester and the application of KRS 61.878(3). This mandatory stricture overrides any otherwise applicable exemption, including KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j), to compel disclosure. Accordingly, the agency should therefore make immediate arrangements for the requester to review the record. OAG 03-ORD-118.

Release of the records containing the information requested relating to the pull-tab games would affect the security and integrity of the games by enabling the requester to “decode” and obtain unfair advantage in playing those games. Accordingly, the KLC properly relied upon KRS 154A.040(1)(c), in tandem with KRS 61.878(1)(l), in denying the requests. OAG 03-ORD-119.

The list of County students awaiting enrollment in the school is a record that consists of harmless directory information which does not implicate student and family privacy interests, and which is similar, if not identical, to information the Board previously disclosed in response to another open records request. Under these circumstances, the board’s invocation of 20 USCS § 1232g and KRS 160.700, et seq., is legally unsupportable. OAG 03-ORD-120.

Despite the status as the attorney representing a defendant in the appeal of his criminal conviction, the requester stands in the same shoes as any other open records requester under KRS Chapter 61, and KRS 17.175(4) bars her access to “records produced from the samples” collected for DNA testing, including her client’s DNA profile record and report, the technician’s handwritten notes relating thereto, control sample report, and record and report in the Casework and Convicted Offender Indexes. OAG 03-ORD-126.

Since the disputed records are not records confidentially disclosed to the Authority or required by the Authority to be disclosed to it, within the meaning of KRS 61.878(1)(c)1., but are instead records generated by the Authority and thus the Authority’s own records to which the protection afforded by KRS 61.878(1)(c)1. does not extend, the Authority improperly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(c)1. in denying the open records request to review the contracts, notwithstanding that the contracts contain confidentiality provisions. OAG 03-ORD-129.

The Board must disclose the national and state criminal history background checks, required by KRS 160.380 as a condition of employment, that are located in the personnel file. Given the compelling public interest in confirming that school employees charged with the supervision and education of our students are of good character, the absence of any statutory restriction on access, and the failure of the Board to articulate a specifically protected privacy interest relative to these records, their disclosure does not constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy within the meaning of KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 03-ORD-141.

Because the School District has not implemented the statutory mechanism for designating any information directly relating to its students as directory information, the School District properly denied the request. OAG 03-ORD-146.

The public’s interest in monitoring how the Crime Victims Compensation Board discharges its duty to hear and determine all matters relating to claims for compensation does not outweigh the victim’s privacy interest in avoiding the disclosure of the details of a traumatic rape incident; because CVCB has promoted the public’s right to know how it resolved this particular claim by disclosure of its entire file with the exception of specific graphic and detailed reports, disclosure of those documents would do little to further the citizens’ right to know what CVCB is doing and would not in any real way subject agency action to public scrutiny. OAG 03-ORD-153.

Under the express terms of KRS 209.140, the Cabinet must withhold all information acquired as a result of an investigation conducted pursuant to that chapter unless the requester can demonstrate that he or she falls within one of the excepted categories codified at KRS 209.140. Neither an executrix or a representative of the alleged abused or neglected or exploited person fall within an excepted category set forth in KRS 209.140. Thus, the Cabinet properly denied the request. OAG 03-ORD-194.

Cabinet for Health and Family Services violated the Open Records Act in denying administratrix's request for a copy of investigative report prepared by the Cabinet following the death of the administratrix's mother in a nursing home; OAG 03-ORD-194 overruled. OAG 06-ORD-048.

The records in dispute are not maintained by KSU's law enforcement unit, and therefore do not qualify as records of a law enforcement unit within the meaning of the exceptions in 20 USC § 1232g(a)(4)(B)(ii) and 34 CFR § 99.8(b)(1)(i), (ii), and (iii). This is true notwithstanding the fact that some of those records were originally created by KSU's law enforcement unit for, arguably, a law enforcement purpose. When KSU's law enforcement unit provided copies to the University for disciplinary proceedings, those copies became "education records" subject to the nondisclosure provisions of FERPA. OAG 03-ORD-201.

Because the agency sharing provision codified at KRS 61.878(5) is a matter of agency discretion, the Fiscal Court and dispatch center properly elected to treat the request from the County investigator as it would treat any other requester under the Open Records Act in according him the same treatment as the public generally. Though his request may have been submitted in the furtherance of a legitimate governmental need, the agencies did not violate the Open Records Act in according him the same treatment as the public generally. OAG 03-ORD-211.

Since statutory bases may exist for denying access to individual 911 calls made to a dispatch center, including KRS 61.878(1)(a) and KRS 61.878(1)(h), and in the light of the demonstrated difficulties associated with reviewing over 17,000 hours of audio tapes to insure adequate protection of the privacy and law enforcement interests implicated as well as the technological impediments the agencies describe, the agencies properly denied the request on the basis of KRS 61.872(6). OAG 03-ORD-211.

By enacting KRS 237.110(8), the General Assembly expressly restricted disclosure of the public records requested to "hard copy form only." Since KRS 61.878(1)(l) exempts from disclosure public records or information the disclosure of which is prohibited or restricted or otherwise made confidential by enactment of the General Assembly, the Kentucky State Police properly denied the request to produce the requested list of names of concealed permit holders in electronic format. OAG 03-ORD-222.

The Detention Center failed to meet its burden in establishing that the requested records were exempt under KRS 61.878(1)(h), and thus, improperly denied access to the records. The agency failed to establish that (1) the requested dispatcher's log relating to the identified radio transmissions was compiled as an integral part of a specific investigation, and (2) failed to establish that premature disclosure of the radio transmissions would "harm" the ongoing law enforcement action. OAG 03-ORD-226.

In denying the requester's access to a KASPER report, the Cabinet for Health Services acted pursuant to KRS 218A.202(6), outlining who and what may have access to KASPER reports and under what circumstances access is to be given, and in accordance with KRS 218A.202(8), which states, "The data and any report obtained therefrom shall not be a public record." The requester, as an individual, does not fit within the limited numbers of people who can receive KASPER reports, and the General Assembly has specifically exempted records of the KASPER program from access under the Kentucky Open Records Act. OAG 03-ORD-227.

The Department for the Blind, working in tandem with the two companies, have established that the information in the RFP Proposal was of such a character that disclosure would permit an unfair commercial advantage to competitors of the Department for the Blind and the two companies, and could be properly be withheld from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(c)1. OAG 03-ORD-235.

Where the description of legal services in the billing statements contained privileged attorney-client communications and the mental impressions of legal counsel, the agency properly exercised its prerogative to redact information from its attorney billing records that would disclose substantive matters protected by the attorney-client privilege (SCR 3.130(1.6)) and the attorney work product doctrine (CR 26.02(3) and KRE 503), in tandem with KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 03-ORD-237.

An agency may not withhold release of attorney billing statements until the pending litigation is ended; attorney billing records are privileged only if their disclosure would reveal confidential communications between the attorney and client and should be available for inspection, subject to possible redactions, even during the existence of pending litigation. OAG 03-ORD-237.

Because the email communication was generated by the Mayor's special counsel for the purpose of providing legal services to "representatives of the client," consisting of the executive director and director of project development for the agency, and members of the Mayor's staff, and since it contained advice on the legal ramifications of the inquiry which prompted it, the communication satisfied the first and second parts of the three part test found in KRE 503. The Metro Government properly denied this portion of the open records request. OAG 03-ORD-243.

Based on the decision of the Court of Appeals in Hines v. Commonwealth, Department of Treasury, 41 S.W.3d 872, 2001 Ky. App. LEXIS 39 (Ky. Ct. App. 2001), and the fact that an open records related public purpose supports disclosure of the names of licensees appearing in the report required by former KRS 258.185(1), the portion of the former KRS 258.185 report that identifies the person to whom the animal license was issued must be disclosed. OAG 03-ORD-247.

Although a master list containing the tax payment information requested does not exist, since "logs" containing the amount of payments that have been received exist, no credible argument can be made that such logs do not constitute public records subject to inspection absent an applicable exemption. OAG 04-ORD-10.

Murray State University properly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j) in denying the request for records relating to the settlement of Minger v. Murray State University that have been, and are being, created in the inchoate period leading up to the execution of the final settlement agreement. OAG 04-ORD-30.

Although the question of whether an invasion of privacy is "clearly unwarranted" is intrinsically situational, and can only be determined within a specific context, the privacy interests of public employees against whom complaints have been leveled or allegations made, and the final agency action relative to those complaints or allegations, are outweighed by the public interest in monitoring agency action. OAG 04-ORD-31.

Conference records containing the information required to be kept by KRS 133.120(1) and other information of a confidential nature that is information about property that constitutes the "affairs of any person" and "affairs of a person's business," as set forth in KRS 131.190(1) and is not of general recordation or routine observation may properly be withheld from disclosure under KRS 131.190(1) and KRS 61.878(1)(l). However, information contained in the records that is either publicly recorded in records recognized as being subject to routine public scrutiny, or that may be relatively readily observed from a public street, should be made available for inspection. OAG 04-ORD-38.

The University of Louisville properly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(l), incorporating 20 U.S.C. § 1232g, the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, and KRS 61.878(1)(a) in denying the request for access to the raw data of doctorate student handwritten survey responses. A determination of what constitutes personally identifiable information in an education record, making a student's identity easily traceable, is a matter of University discretion. OAG 04-ORD-52.

While the University may invoke the exemption in KRS 61.878(1)(a) on behalf of the Coach as a basis for denying the public access to records in its custody relating to the Coach, such as his medical records or records containing personal information such as his home address or social security number, records reflecting the discharge of his official duties, namely coaching the University's football team as reflected in the video tapes of practice, do not qualify for exclusion under KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 04-ORD-58.

A recording of student athletes engaged in football practice does not qualify as an education record under FERPA. Because the content of practice tapes is the functional equivalent of the content of game tapes that are regularly broadcast to the public, the University's position with respect to the former is a somewhat perilous, and legally unsupportable, one. OAG 04-ORD-58.

Because any identifying information relating to concealed deadly weapon license holders other than a list naming all CCDW license holders (in hard copy format only) is exempt from disclosure pursuant to KRS 237.110(8), incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l), the State Police properly relied upon KRS 237.110(8) in denying the request. OAG 04-ORD-60.

The Jefferson County Public Schools cannot properly rely on KRS 61.878(1)(a) in denying requests for billing records from July 2002 to June 2003 for a cell phone issued by JCPS to the Moore Traditional Middle School Principal on the grounds that the billing records would indicate personal telephone calls that have privacy implications. OAG 04-ORD-65.

The city properly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(a) in denying the requester access to "records, lists and financial reports having to do with who asked whom for donations and an accounting of the contributors to the cemetery fund," but only to the extent that those records identify the contributors/donors by name or other personally identifiable information. OAG 04-ORD-66.

The records of the Cabinet for Economic Development relating to the proposals, financial incentives, and negotiations with the relocating corporation are preliminary in nature and were properly withheld under KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j), as no final agency action was taken. The proposals and incentives offered remain preliminary and inchoate as they were never accepted and no final agreement reached. OAG 04-ORD-81.

The Transportation Cabinet's reliance on KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j) was misplaced insofar as the requested records formed the basis of the report prepared by Cultural Resource Analysis, Inc., which concluded that the eastern bypass corridor was unsuitable due to the existence of an unavoidable historic site, and that report prompted the FHWA and Transportation Cabinet to remove from consideration early in the design process the eastern bypass corridor alternative in the published Administrative Action Environmental Assessment. OAG 04-ORD-83.

The Transportation Cabinet improperly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(k), authorizing the withholding of "[a]ll public records or information the disclosure of which is prohibited by federal law or regulation," because it failed to cite any applicable federal law or regulation prohibiting disclosure, relying instead on a FHWA Administrative Memorandum, dated September 25, 1985, and directed to Regional Federal Highway Administrators. OAG 04-ORD-83.

Police incident reports, as opposed to investigative files, are not, generally, exempt from public inspection. The Department of Parks' policy relative to nondisclosure of incident reports involving "ongoing and open law enforcement or agency administrative adjudications" conflicts with this well-established line of authority. OAG 04-ORD-104.

Since much of the information the incident report contains has already been made known to the public through news accounts, the Cabinet cannot make an adequate showing that it, or the Kentucky State Police, would be harmed by premature release of the report. However, because page 2 of the report and the second written statement identify witnesses, and contain information that might be used in a prospective law enforcement action, we affirm the Cabinet's denial of access to this portion of the report. OAG 04-ORD-104.

Privacy interest of public employees who have been disciplined for charges of misconduct or exonerated of such charges in the course of their employment is outweighed by the public interest in monitoring agency action. If inherently sensitive records such as sexual harassment complaints must be disclosed, it stands to reason that "actions" against named public employees as well as "leaves and suspensions" are also subject to disclosure. OAG 04-ORD-105.

The Kentucky Commerce Cabinet violated the Kentucky Open Records Act in denying the request for "hard copies of the final presentations" made by advertising agencies in response to a Request for Proposal issued by the Cabinet for an advertising/research agency to consolidate services across cabinet lines and develop a "brand" for the Commonwealth; the requested records do not constitute preliminary drafts, notes, or correspondence with private individuals pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(i). OAG 04-ORD-125.

The term "intelligence and investigative reports" in KRS 17.150 is broad enough to extend to forensic test result reports. The forensic test result reports may properly be withheld in an Open Records Act request so long as the possibility of further judicial proceedings in this case remains a significant prospect. OAG 04-ORD-129.

Since there is still a pending appellate proceeding with respect to the criminal matter, the open records request for forensic test results is within the scope of KRS 61.878(1)(l) and KRS 17.150(2), as well as KRS 61.878(1)(h), and records and reports generated in the course of the investigation, including the forensic test result reports, remain exempt from disclosure until the appellate proceeding is completed and so long as the possibility of further judicial proceedings in this case remains a significant prospect. OAG 04-ORD-129.

Because the Covington Police Department is not a "covered entity" for purposes of Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act analysis, records generated by police officers do not contain "protected health information," and such records are therefore not governed by HIPAA's Privacy Rule. OAG 04-ORD-143.

Disclosure of personal information beyond the identities of the crime victim or "involved persons", in this instance addresses and dates of birth, only minimally serves the purposes of the Open Records Act since disclosure of the identity of the victim and "involved persons" is sufficient to allow public scrutiny of the actions of the police department. Consequently, these personal details which are "generally accepted by society" as carrying an expectation of privacy outweigh the minimal public interest in disclosure. OAG 04-ORD-143.

Where Kentucky Retirement System's proof demonstrates that the law firm has been retained by the Board of Trustees to provide legal and business advice, and that the disputed report was generated within the course and scope of that employment, relating directly to the subject matter upon which professional advice was sought, and since the confidentiality of the report has been maintained from its creation to the present, and that its contents have only been shared with the Board during a closed session of that body, KRS properly withheld the report under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(l) and KRE 503. OAG 04-ORD-149.

Whatever the rationale underlying KRS 61.878(1)(h) may be, the protection it affords to records compiled and maintained by county attorneys and Commonwealth's Attorneys pertaining to criminal investigations or criminal litigation is absolute regardless of whether enforcement action is completed or a decision is made to take no action. OAG 04-ORD-153.

The Division of Public Safety, operating as a Public Safety Answering Point for the purpose of receiving 911 calls and dispatching public safety services as appropriate, is not foreclosed from releasing recordings of 911 calls under the narrow prohibition on disclosure of Automatic Location Identification information codified at KRS 65.752(4). Further, KRS 61.878(1)(a) may only be properly invoked where the facts of a specific case warrant invocation, and not as a matter of policy; the facts in this case do not support the denial of the request. OAG 04-ORD-161.

The Kentucky State Police adopted the investigative file at issue as the basis of its final action following the inquiry into the actions of the trooper on the night in question as evidenced by the notations located at the conclusion of the memorandum containing the findings and conclusions of the investigating officer and the express language of the captain's memorandum. Accordingly, the file's preliminary characterization was lost, as was its exempt status. OAG 04-ORD-162.

The Correctional Complex properly relied upon KRS 197.025(1) in its denial of the request for copies of the entry/exit logs, the daily rosters for the security staff, the duty rosters, and the time and attendance records for the security staff. Disclosure of the documents would pose a threat to the security of the institution because disclosure of these records could enable a requester to determine (1) when posts filled by these individuals were either unmanned or in a state of change; and (2) when these individuals may be found in close proximity to the institution for purposes of harassment. OAG 04-ORD-180.

The Cabinet erred in adopting a policy of blanket exclusion relative to the responsive e-mails and any unidentified responsive records on the basis of the attorney-client privilege. The Cabinet has provided only a bare assertion in support of its claim that unidentified responsive records, including e-mails, constitute privileged attorney-client communications, and has not identified the records or groups of records withheld or adequately explained how the privilege applies to those records as required by KRS 61.880(1) and KRE 503. OAG 04-ORD-187.

The notes of the individual committee members which formed the basis of the Cabinet's final action are subject to inspection. The Cabinet must provide the requester with copies of any existing notes which are responsive to the request, even though the content of those notes has been revealed indirectly with the disclosure of the group RFP score sheets. However, the Cabinet properly withheld any existing notes which were not adopted as a basis for the Cabinet's final action. OAG 04-ORD-187.

The incident reports are matters of public interest and are public records and the university police has a statutory duty to release them for public inspection in full and without redactions absent a particularized showing of a heightened privacy interest in the individual report predicated not on the expressed wishes of the complainant, but on specific factors. Absent that particularized showing, the public has a legitimate interest in the incident reports and disclosure of the information they contain transgresses only minimally upon the privacy of the individuals who are the subjects of those reports. OAG 04-ORD-188.

A petition signed by individuals who support the sale of the city owned property, does not qualify as correspondence with a private individual. It is a public declaration of support to which these individuals affixed their signatures. It therefore cannot be characterized as "letters exchanged by private citizens and public agencies or officials under conditions in which the candor of the correspondents depends on assurance of confidentiality," but is in the nature of a communication upon which the commission is expected to rely in taking action relative to the sale of the property. OAG 04-ORD-192.

The University presents no evidence that donations made to it by BellSouth have been conditioned upon nondisclosure of records identifying the donor or the amount donated, or any other evidence that would support a claim that the corporation's privacy interests outweigh the public's interest in monitoring the University's receipt of corporate donations and in gauging the extent to which these donations are tied to the exercise of corporate influence. The University has adduced no proof, beyond a bare allegation, that the protections afforded by KRS 61.878(1)(a) should be extended to BellSouth as a corporate donor. OAG 04-ORD-197.

KRS 197.025(2) necessarily applies to Corrections Corporation of America. Although the statute does not specifically provide that private providers such as CCA and facilities under its jurisdiction are not required to comply with such requests, to hold otherwise would yield the absurd result that inmates housed at private correctional facilities under the jurisdiction of CCA or other private providers would be able to access records which inmates housed at state facilities under the jurisdiction of the Department of Corrections are unable to access. OAG 04-ORD-205.

Because the City has not yet acquired all of the properties to be acquired in each project and is in the process of negotiations or is in litigation involving the City's various downtown redevelopment projects, the records and information pertaining to the acquisitions and relocation assistance payments of each uncompleted City project are exempt from disclosure and may properly be withheld under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(f) until a particular project is completed. OAG 04-ORD-207.

The University has not met its burden of establishing that the e-mail inquiry from a reporter of the Kentucky Kernel constituted "correspondence with private individuals"; this e-mail does not qualify for exclusion from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(i). Accordingly, unless the University can establish that all or any part of the e-mail qualifies for exclusion under another applicable exception in KRS 61.878(1), it must be made available for inspection. OAG 04-ORD-226.

Where the underlying criminal case remains open at the request of the Commonwealth's Attorney because the defendants have indicated that they are actively considering an RCr 11.42 motion based on ineffective assistance of counsel, the case is within the scope of KRS 61.878(1)(l) and KRS 17.150(2), as well as KRS 61.878(1)(h) as construed in Skaggs v. Redford, and audio and video taped interviews with the participants in the criminal act remain exempt from an open records request until prosecution is completed. OAG 04-ORD-234.

Although personal notes taken at a meeting might qualify for exclusion from inspection by the public generally, pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(i) and possibly (1)(a), such notes do not qualify for exclusion from inspection by the individual public employee who is the subject of those notes. Because they relate to the employee the notes must be released to her if they exist in the assistant superintendent's files or elsewhere within the school system. The school system must extend its search beyond the personnel file and produce for her inspection any responsive records that search yields regardless of their "preliminary" or "private" character. OAG 04-ORD-242.

Since the Athletic Directors of the public schools are public employees, not private citizens, correspondence between them and the Kentucky High School Athletic Association relating to their positions as athletic directors would not be exempt from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(i). OAG 04-ORD-244.

The implied confidentiality of polygraph examinations and materials related thereto, found in 502 KAR 20:020 Section 4(2), coupled with the unreliability of the examinations and the previously recognized privacy interest in the examinations, support the Department's denial of the request, notwithstanding the fact that the requester is apparently the mother of the juvenile who was the subject of the sexual abuse investigation of which this polygraph examination was a part. OAG 04-ORD-245.

Where an inmate receives a disciplinary report for unauthorized use of drugs, and receives a copy of the internal chain of custody form for collection of the urine sample and the laboratory chain of custody forms, to the extent the back pages of original urinalysis chain of custody documentation contains information that is not addressed to or does not specifically refer to an inmate, the Department of Corrections is authorized to except those pages from disclosure to inmates under KRS 61.878(1)(l) and KRS 197.025(2). OAG 04-ORD-248.

The agency erred in characterizing employee timesheets, resumes, applications for employment, complaints, reprimands, disciplinary records, salary histories, letters of resignation, and termination letters as non-public records. Any and all portions of such records relating to an individual's public employment are open records, and must be made available for inspection by the public upon request. OAG 04-ORD-251.

Under the express terms of KRS 342.229(1), the Department must withhold all records that personally identify an individual alleging a work related injury or occupational disease unless the requester can satisfy the commissioner of his interest in the records and the right to inspect them. Since the evidence does not indicate that the requester has presented to and satisfied the Commissioner of his interest in the records and his right to inspect them, the Department properly withheld access to the records under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(l) and KRS 342.229(1). OAG 04-ORD-252.

Documents tendered as part of competitive sealed bidding become open public records at the time the bids are opened, even if the bids are rejected. Public disclosure of bid documents associated with a competitive sealed bid cannot be delayed until the contracting public agency determined whether to move to competitive negotiation, and if a determination is made to proceed into competitive negotiation, the original bid documents cannot be considered part of the negotiation process and remain closed until a contract is awarded or negotiations are cancelled. OAG 05-ORD-001.

Portions of the Uniform Offense Report may be withheld where specific harm is shown, but blanket nondisclosure of page two of the report is impermissible. The police department may redact those portions of page two of the report that are categorized under the headings "Synopsis," "Modus Operandi," "Accused," "Suspects," "Witnesses," "Evidence and How Marked," "Evidence Disposition," and "Attachments," but only if disclosure of those entries would reveal the identities of informants not otherwise known, or compromise the investigation or prosecution of a case, and only after it advises the requester, in writing, that the request is partially denied on the basis of KRS 61.878(1)(h) and/or KRS 17.150. OAG 05-ORD-003.

Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) is not a "public agency" within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1), and is therefore not bound by the provisions of the Open Records Act. In addition, CASA officials and volunteers must keep confidential all information contained in records of the type requested except in conferring with or reports to the court pursuant to KRS 620.505(8), incorporated into the Open Records Act by virtue of KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 05-ORD-004.

Because an itinerary is functionally equivalent to the ledgers, calendars, and/or schedules adjudged exempt in Courier-Journal v. Jones, Ky. App., 895 S.W.2d 6, 1995 Ky. App. LEXIS 58 (1995), the Office of the Governor did not violate the Open Records Act in denying the request for the travel itineraries for the Governor's trade mission to Europe. OAG 05-ORD-018.

County jailer's statement that requested grievances "would contain information of a personal nature where the public disclosure thereof would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy" failed to adequately substantiate the privacy interests of inmates filing grievances, and did not meet the requirements of KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 05-ORD-24.

An internal memorandum from a subordinate to a superior containing a frank discussion regarding the fleet services and the utilization of both new and old operational processes in the operation and maintenance of the mobile fleet of a city police department included opinions expressed, and recommendations and criticisms made about agency practices and it could be properly withheld from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(j). OAG 05-ORD-27.

In regard to a request for records relating to the removal of selected political signs from the dedicated right-of-way by a county public works department, the negligible privacy interest implicated by disclosure of the complainant's name was clearly inferior to the public's interest in ascertaining whether possible political pressures affected the agency's performance of its public duties; the offense to personal privacy which would result from disclosure of the name was outweighed by the benefit to the public, and the "clearly unwarranted" language in KRS 61.878(1)(a) tipped the scales in favor of disclosure. OAG 05-ORD-30.

The Department of Corrections may properly withhold the requested personnel record of a deputy warden on the basis of KRS 197.025(1) assuming it satisfies its burden of proof by establishing that disclosure would constitute a threat to the security of any inmate, the staff of the institution, or any other person, and promptly notifies the requester in writing of its decision. OAG 05-ORD-34.

To the extent an offer to purchase made to a property owner whose property has been the subject of condemnation actions contains information that would reflect the amount or contents of a real estate appraisal, that information could clearly be withheld from disclosure under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(f). However, other information in the offer, that would inform the public of what is being done in regards to a project and that does not disclose to the public the appraised values or the contents of the appraisal or the terms and conditions of a particular offer, would be subject to disclosure. OAG 05-ORD-43.

Request for copies of documents, correspondence and responses related to the Kentucky High School Athletic Association's survey of non-public high schools was properly denied because the requested records were preliminary in nature, and were properly characterized as drafts which had not been adopted as a basis for final action. OAG 05-ORD-48.

The Office of the Inspector General and Adult Protective Services Branch of the Cabinet for Health and Family Services did not violate the Kentucky Open Records Act in denying identical requests submitted by an attorney on behalf of a hospital for copies of complaints made related to the treatment of a deceased patient while admitted at the hospital. The Cabinet, a hybrid entity under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, fully complied with state and federal law in responding to the requests. The OIG properly denied the attorney's request on the basis of 45 CFR § 164.512(c) in conjunction with KRS 61.878(1)(a), (k) and (l), and KRS 194A.060(1). In addition, the APS properly conditioned release of the requested APS records upon completion of the Cabinet's HIPAA compliant form or receipt of a court order in accordance with 45 CFR § 164.512(c) and § 164.508(6)(c)(1). OAG 05-ORD-54.

One year is not an unreasonable time to investigate and/or prosecute a case and, having established that the disputed records consisted of investigative records maintained by a criminal justice agency, the Kentucky State Police did not abuse its discretion in invoking KRS 17.150(2) and KRS 61.878(1)(h) to shield those records from disclosure. OAG 05-ORD-58.

Detention center violated the Open Records Act in failing to treat an inmate's requests for a copy of his MRI results and a copy of what a neurosurgeon prescribed for treatment as open records requests and in refusing to produce the requested records until after the inmate is released based on its security policies and procedures restricting inmate possession of paper products for fire safety reasons. OAG 05-ORD-60.

Lexington Fayette Urban County Government violated the Kentucky Open Records Act in denying the requester access to cancelled checks which are currently maintained by a private agency at the instance of and as custodian on behalf of the LFCUG. OAG 05-ORD-65.

A letter prepared by a public agency employee, an attorney, to opposing counsel in a civil action does not qualify for exclusion as correspondence with a private individual. OAG 05-ORD-72.

The Justice and Public Safety Cabinet properly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(a) in denying that portion of a request for information on an autopsy relating to autopsy photographs. OAG 05-ORD-75.

An inmate request for his "entire" or "complete" inmate file is sufficiently specific and the inmate cannot be required to provide a more specific description. OAG 05-ORD-76.

Because a police department could not establish that requested copies of radio or telephonic transmissions received, sent, or otherwise made on a particular date were "actively, specifically, intentionally, and directly compiled, as an integral part of a specific detection or investigation process," the department failed to satisfy its burden of proof relative to KRS 61.878(1)(h). OAG 05-ORD-78.

Hazard Independent Schools violated the Open Records Act in denying Perry County School District's request for a list of students and their addresses on the basis of KRS 61.878(1)(a) and 20 USCS § 1232g, but properly denied Perry County's request for "information regarding tuition paid by students" on these bases. OAG 05-ORD-81.

A mug shot of a federal prisoner incarcerated in the county jail is a public record within the meaning of KRS 61.870(2) and because the record is not shielded from public inspection by any of the exceptions to the Open Records Act, including KRS 61.878(1)(a) and (k), it must be disclosed. OAG 05-ORD-94.

Police records, are not included among those to which the General Assembly expressly afforded protection by virtue of KRS 61.878(1)(h), OAG 05-ORD-95.

A company that does not receive at least twenty-five percent (25%) of its funding from state or local authority funds, is not a public agency within the meaning of KRS 61.870(1) and therefore it did not violate the Open Records Act in denying an inmate's request for records relating to his urinalysis. OAG 05-ORD-97.

The Personnel Cabinet did not violate the Open Records Act in denying an open records request for the town of residence of a former manager of a state park. OAG 05-ORD-100.

A correctional facility did not violate the Open Records Act in its denial of an inmate's request to inspect his psychological file—mainly the psychological evaluation. OAG 05-ORD-101.

The Kentucky State Police properly invoked KRS 61.878(1)(h), and KRS 17.150(2), incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l), albeit implicitly, in denying access to the requested investigatory records. OAG 05-ORD-103.

The University of Louisville properly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(a) in withholding the names of private donors to the athletic department but not the amounts donated, and it did not meet its burden of proving personal privacy interests in corporate donations of sufficient weight to overcome the public's interest in disclosure of the identities of two corporate donors that requested anonymity. OAG 05-ORD-104.

The University of Louisville did not violate the Open Records Act in denying access by the Pick-A-Prof company to a "mailing list for the incoming freshman and transfer students" on the basis of KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 05-ORD-111.

The Commission on Human Rights violated the Open Records Act in partially denying a request for copies of "notes, incident reports or related documents from any witnesses or other parties" concerning a particular incident; because the requester is a "public agency employee," the records relate to him, and the subject investigation is apparently not ongoing, he is entitled to copies of the records still at issue by virtue of KRS 61.878(3), regardless of whether those records are preliminary and would otherwise be exempt. OAG 05-ORD-118.

The State Police properly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(m)1.c., d., and e. in denying a reporter's request for records documenting the number of sworn State Police personnel assigned for security and related duties for the landing and departure of Vice President Dick Cheney at Louisville International Airport. OAG 05-ORD-119.

Disclosure of requested public records relating to the airport expansion program and relocation program operated by the Louisville International Airport was properly denied because 49 C.F.R. Part 24.9(b) constitutes a federal law prohibiting disclosure of the records, and the information contained therein, within the meaning of KRS 61.878(1)(k). OAG 05-ORD-128.

The Motor Vehicle Enforcement Division of the Justice and Public Safety Cabinet violated the Open Records Act in denying a request for "names, addresses and violation information of all CDL class A drivers that have had out of service violations"; the requester is entitled to a copy of the entire database containing the requested information in standard format, and, in the event the Cabinet elects to redact protected information of a personal nature per KRS 61.878(1)(a), it, rather than the requester, must bear the cost of redaction pursuant to KRS 61.878(4). OAG 05-ORD-129.

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet did not violate the Open Records Act in denying a request, on behalf of an attorney's client, for copies of records reflecting any action taken by the Medical Review Board during a meeting at which it recommended that the client be allowed to take the "one (1) Final Road Test"; the Cabinet merely complied with The Driver's Privacy Protection Act, incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(k), in requiring the attorney to verify his status; any less would constitute a violation of 18 USCS § 2721(b)(13). OAG 05-ORD-131.

Lee Adjustment Center properly denied a request to inspect the records regarding the firing of an officer on the basis of KRS 197.025(1) or, in the alternative, KRS 197.025(2), both of which are incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 05-ORD-143.

The Environmental and Public Protection Cabinet, Department of Labor, did not violate the Open Records Act in denying requests for inspection reports, documents, photographs, and/or videos pertaining to inspections at a manufacturing facility and properly redacted information identifying employees pursuant to KRS 338.101(1)(a), incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l). Further, because the file relating to another inspection contains records that were compiled in the process of detecting statutory or regulatory violations which contain information, the premature disclosure of which could jeopardize a prospective administrative adjudication, the Department properly denied a request as to those records on the basis of KRS 61.878(1)(h). OAG 05-ORD-168.

The Kentucky Personnel Cabinet did not meet its burden of establishing that disclosure of the level of access of each person in state government with CICS privileges would result in a "reasonable likelihood of threatening the public safety by exposing a vulnerability" in protecting against a terrorist act, and thus, violated the Open Records Act in denying access to those records under KRS 61.878(1)(m)1.f. OAG 05-ORD-175.

County board of education properly relied upon KRS 61.878(1)(a) in redacting identifying information of the complainants, potential witnesses, and uninvolved individuals from records provided to the requester relating to investigations into the alleged misconduct of the school superintendent. OAG 05-ORD-177.

Louisville Metro Planning and Design Services improperly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(d), (i), and (j) in denying a request for public records “which pertain to any preapplication for a zoning change or a conditional use permit or to any preapplication or concept plan for a major subdivision and which are related to any property in Louisville and Jefferson County, Kentucky. OAG 05-ORD-179.

To the extent that the contents of a letter sent to elected congressional officials from a county judge/executive regarding the county sheriff's office domestic violence unit related to the sheriff, his office, and his employees, he and his employees were entitled to inspect and obtain a copy of it. The mandatory stricture found at KRS 61.878(3) overrides any otherwise applicable exception, including KRS 61.878(1)(j), to compel disclosure of the letter and supporting documentation. OAG 05-ORD-181.

The Office of the Governor improperly relied on executive privilege and KRS 61.878(1)(a), (i), and (j) in partially denying a journalist's request for copies of emails sent to and from a particular state government email address because the Office of the Governor failed to meet its burden of proof. OAG 05-ORD-185.

The Education Cabinet properly relied on KRS 341.190 and KRS 151B.280(3), incorporated into the Open Records Act by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l), in denying a request to inspect and copy decisions of the Unemployment Insurance Commission that relate to the issue of who is considered to be an employer for purposes of having to pay state unemployment insurance tax. OAG 83-405 is overruled on the basis of subsequent amendments to the law. OAG 05-ORD-186.

An industrial development corporation erred in redacting portions of the minutes from regular public meetings provided to requester regardless of whether the material would otherwise be removed from application of the Open Records Act pursuant to one or more of the exemptions in KRS 61.878(1) or could have properly been discussed during a closed session. OAG 05-ORD-209.

An email retained in the Office of the Governor that was a communication from one official to another seeking confirmation that an existing policy was being properly implemented did not qualify for exemption from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(j) since it was devoid of any subjective expressions of opinion, recommendation or policy formulations. OAG 05-ORD-210.

The Environmental Public Protection Cabinet, Division of Employment Standards, did not properly rely on KRS 61.878(1)(h) in denying a request for a copy of the documentation provided by companies against which the requester filed his prevailing wage complaint. OAG 05-ORD-215.

Under the authority of KRS 61.878(1)(l), in tandem with KRS 311.377, Child Watch Children's Advocacy Center, Inc., as a specialized children's service clinic, properly denied a request for peer review records and records developed by it in providing its services. OAG 05-ORD-220.

The Kentucky State Police violated the Kentucky Open Records Act in denying the request of an applicant for employment for copies of all paperwork prepared in his prospective hiring because KRS 61.878(3) expressly applies to applicants for public employment such as the requester, and overrides the other exemptions codified at KRS 61.878(1). OAG 05-ORD-226.

The Kentucky State Police did not violate the Open Records Act in denying a request for all reports, tests, and documentation relating to a criminal case sought by the requester for his appeal motion. OAG 05-ORD-246.

The Finance and Administration Cabinet must disclose the type of information it maintains on state employees, but not infrastructure records that are reasonably likely to expose a vulnerability through the disclosure of the location, configuration, or security of a critical infrastructure technology system. OAG 05-ORD-250.

The Kentucky State Police erred in relying on KRS 61.878(1)(h), KRS 61.878(1)(m)1.c., and KRS 61.878(1)(l), incorporating KRS 16.060 into the Open Records Act, to support nondisclosure of the names of the members of the Governor's Executive Security Detail appearing on fuel receipts. OAG 05-ORD-255.

Housing authority was obliged to honor a request for access to “the official file contents of a hearing held within the last 30 days involving a HUD resident.” OAG 05-ORD-258.

The Division of Probation and Parole did not violate the Open Records Act in denying an inmate's request for copies of certain casebook narratives on the basis of KRS 439.510 and KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 05-ORD-265.

A police department violated the Kentucky Open Records Act in partially denying the request of an individual for copies of his arrest report and documents relating to him or another person with whom he was arrested. OAG 05-ORD-273.

An attorney's requests for all records relating to the University of Kentucky's investigation of his client, a former football coach, for NCAA violations conducted over a particular period of time were specific and narrow enough for the university to identify and locate responsive records. OAG 05-ORD-274.

County schools did not violate the Open Records Act in denying newspaper reporter's request to inspect the “job performance evaluation, including any written recommendations for improvement” of a middle school principal. OAG 06-ORD-001.

Because no final action has yet been taken, a city properly denied access to a draft report by a task force addressing potential staffing changes within the fire department of the city. OAG 06-ORD-003.

By requesting to inspect “any and all” written or electronic communications between named individuals “and all others” regarding the requester or her employment status on or after a certain date, the requester failed to describe the records sought with “sufficient clarity” so as to enable her former employer to identify and locate all responsive records. OAG 06-ORD-004.

Transit authority violated the Open Records Act in denying a request for the names of bus drivers involved in “preventable” accidents. OAG 06-ORD-006.

University employee was is entitled to inspect any record including preliminary and other supporting documentation that related to her, even if not contained in her personnel file. OAG 06-ORD-014.

A university employee is entitled to copies of records that relate to her by virtue of KRS 61.878(3), regardless of whether those records are preliminary and would otherwise be exempt under KRS 61.878(1)(i). To the extent the university denied the requester access to any records which relate to her that were not in her personnel file, on the basis of KRS 61.878(1)(i), it violated the Open Records Act. OAG 2006-ORD-014.

State police did not violate the Open Records Act in denying a request for documentation of “all money transactions for drug buys” in the requester's case and “all audio recording's, statement's, and reports of any kind when it comes to [him]” because these investigative records were part of an ongoing criminal case in which the requester's underlying federal criminal conviction was not final. OAG 06-ORD-017.

City properly relied KRS 61.978(1)(i) and (j) in partial denial of a request for interagency email communications concerning certain property as well as calendars reflecting dates of meetings at which the property was discussed. OAG 06-ORD-021.

Request for an accident report involving a city truck was proper under the Open Records Act; however, the requested record was excluded from public inspection by operation of KRS 189.635(5). OAG 06-ORD-024.

In responding to the request of an inmate for copies of “all statements/occurrence reports made by any medical department employees” regarding his confinement in segregation, a correctional institution properly relied upon KRS 197.025(1) in redacting the name of a medical staff member who provided a statement that was incorporated into a report concerning the incident. OAG 06-ORD-026.

Kentucky Historical Society improperly denied access to records that disclose the names of its members. However, the agency properly withheld access to the members’ home address, email address, and telephone number. OAG 06-ORD-031.

Where the open records request requested contracts, memorandums of agreement or understanding, or similar documents reflecting the Department’s participation in the Joint Audit Program of the Multistate Tax Commission, it is highly unlikely that a contract or memorandum of agreement would contain sufficient detail to divulge information pertaining to the tax schedules, returns, reports or the affairs of a person’s business, in violation of the confidentiality provisions of KRS Chapter 131. OAG 2006-ORD-032.

Police department did not meet its burden in establishing that requested radio transmissions and incident report were exempt under KRS 61.878(1)(h), and thus, improperly denied access to the records. OAG 06-ORD-035.

The Police Department did not meet its burden in establishing that the requested radio transmissions and incident report were exempt under KRS 61.878(1)(h), and thus, improperly denied access to the records. The agency failed to establish that (1) the requested records were compiled as an integral part of a specific investigation and (2) failed to establish that premature disclosure of these records would harm the ongoing law enforcement action. OAG 2006-ORD-035.

Although a county board of education violated KRS 61.880(1) in failing to cite the applicable statutory exception and briefly explain how the exception applied to the records of policies relating to the reemployment of substitute teachers and the employment of retired teachers, the board properly redacted the contact information of substitute teachers. OAG 06-ORD-036.

Kentucky State Law Library is not bound by the provisions of the Open Records Act. OAG 06-ORD-038.

Police department properly denied the request of a newspaper reporter for a copy of a complaint against an officer filed with the department as the investigation was still ongoing and no final action on the complaint had been taken. OAG 06-ORD-043.

Police department did not violate Open Records Act in the disposition of request for offense/incident reports, in light of its modified reporting procedure; however, the department must respond to any resubmitted or subsequent requests for offense/incident reports and related investigative records. A policy of blanket nondisclosure of investigative records is impermissible. OAG 06-ORD-044.

Resolution of this issue turns on the proper interpretation of the phrase “applicable law” appearing in 45 CFR 164.502(g)(4). KRS 209.140 does not vest an executor, administrator, or any other person with authority to act on behalf of a deceased individual or the individual’s estate, but is instead a confidentiality provision the terms of which are engrafted upon the Open Records law by operation of KRS 61.878(1)(l). It is KRS Chapter 395 that grants authority to act on behalf of a deceased individual or of the individual’s estate, and that law, operating in tandem with 45 CFR 164.502(g)(4), requires the Cabinet to accord the requester, as her mother’s personal representative, the same treatment it would have accorded her mother. As the mother would have been entitled to a copy of the report per KRS 209.140(5), so the requester is entitled to a copy. To the extent that OAG 2003-ORD-194 is inconsistent with this view, it is hereby overruled. OAG 2006-ORD-048.

State police properly relied upon KRS 61.878(1)(h) and KRS 17.150(2) in denying a request for copies of all records relating to a particular case since the subject investigation was properly characterized as “open” so long as there was a possibility of further judicial proceedings in the case. OAG 06-ORD-051.

Division of police’s reliance on KRS 61.878(1)(a) to support nondisclosure of identity of suspect in a criminal case that was cleared by exception was misplaced; to the extent that the OAG 91-35 was construed to authorize nondisclosure of the suspect’s identity in all criminal cases that are cleared by exception, that decision is modified. OAG 06-ORD-052.

61.880. Denial of inspection — Role of Attorney General.

(1) If a person enforces KRS 61.870 to 61.884 pursuant to this section, he or she shall begin enforcement under this subsection before proceeding to enforcement under subsection (2) of this section. Each public agency, upon any request for records made under KRS 61.870 to 61.884, shall determine within five (5) days, excepting Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, after the receipt of any such request whether to comply with the request and shall notify in writing the person making the request, within the five (5) day period, of its decision. An agency response denying, in whole or in part, inspection of any record shall include a statement of the specific exception authorizing the withholding of the record and a brief explanation of how the exception applies to the record withheld. The response shall be issued by the official custodian or under his or her authority, and it shall constitute final agency action.

(2)(a) If a complaining party wishes the Attorney General to review a public agency's denial of a request to inspect a public record, the complaining party shall forward to the Attorney General a copy of the written request and a copy of the written response denying inspection. If the public agency refuses to provide a written response, a complaining party shall provide a copy of the written request. The Attorney General shall review the request and denial and issue within twenty (20) days, excepting Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays, a written decision stating whether the agency violated provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884.

(b) In unusual circumstances, the Attorney General may extend the twenty (20) day time limit by sending written notice to the complaining party and a copy to the denying agency, setting forth the reasons for the extension, and the day on which a decision is expected to be issued, which shall not exceed an additional thirty (30) work days, excepting Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. As used in this section, "unusual circumstances" means, but only to the extent reasonably necessary to the proper resolution of an appeal:

1. The need to obtain additional documentation from the agency or a copy of the records involved;
2. The need to conduct extensive research on issues of first impression; or
3. An unmanageable increase in the number of appeals received by the Attorney General.

(c) On the day that the Attorney General renders his or her decision, he or she shall mail a copy to the agency and a copy to the person who requested the record in question. The burden of proof in sustaining the action shall rest with the agency, and the Attorney General may request additional documentation from the agency for substantiation. The Attorney General may also request a copy of the records involved, but they shall not be disclosed.

(3) Each agency shall notify the Attorney General of any actions filed against that agency in Circuit Court regarding the enforcement of KRS 61.870 to 61.884. The Attorney General shall not, however, be named as a party in any Circuit Court actions regarding the enforcement of KRS 61.870 to 61.884, nor shall he or she have any duty to defend his or her decision in Circuit Court or any subsequent proceedings.

(4) If a person feels the intent of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 is being subverted by an agency short of denial of inspection, including but not limited to the imposition of excessive fees, delay past the five (5) day period described in subsection (1) of this section, excessive extensions of time, or the misdirection of the applicant, the person may complain in writing to the Attorney General, and the complaint shall be subject to the same adjudicatory process as if the record had been denied.

(5)(a) A party shall have thirty (30) days from the day that the Attorney General renders his or her decision to appeal the decision. An appeal within the thirty (30) day time limit shall be treated as if it were an action brought under KRS 61.882.

(b) If an appeal is not filed within the thirty (30) day time limit, the Attorney General's decision shall have the force and effect of law and shall be enforceable in the Circuit Court of the county where the public agency has its principal place of business or the Circuit Court of the county where the public record is maintained.

6. Judicial Review.
7. Attorney General.
8. Noncompliance.
18. Civil Litigation.

1. Application to Courts.

Some details of the Open Records Law present interferences inconsistent with the orderly conduct of court business, to wit, the requirement that courts adopt and post rules and regulations, that they conform to the procedure set forth in KRS 61.880, and that as to the accessibility of their records they adhere to the list of exceptions stated in KRS 61.878, and such requirements will not be accepted. Ex parte Farley, 570 S.W.2d 617, 1978 Ky. LEXIS 390 (Ky. 1978).

2. Disclosure.

3. —Exceptions.

Circuit court made an erroneous factual conclusion that all the records in the investigation file were covered by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) because although the university was prohibited from releasing for the Attorney General's in camera review education records with unredacted personally identifying information, not all the records requested were education records, and FERPA did not prohibit their release. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019)).

Where county attorney did not attempt to establish that disclosure of records relating to child support payments requested by attorney representing father of minor child would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, and where county attorney did not reference relevant state or federal law barring disclosure or explain its application to the disputed records, county attorney's response failed to conform to subsection (2)(c) of this section and KRS 61.882(3). Edmondson v. Alig, 926 S.W.2d 856, 1996 Ky. App. LEXIS 124 (Ky. Ct. App. 1996).

4. —Records That No Longer Exist.

Once it has been determined that records requested under the Kentucky Open Records Act no longer exist, the responsible agency is required to provide the requester with a written explanation for the records' nonexistence. Therefore, an inmate was entitled to relief under the Act based upon a request for certain jail records, even though the records allegedly no longer existed. Eplion v. Burchett, 354 S.W.3d 598, 2011 Ky. App. LEXIS 215 (Ky. Ct. App. 2011).

5. Time Limitations.

Because the Open Records Act, did not contain a timeframe for challenging an agency's denial to the Attorney General, an attorney's appeal to the Attorney General would have been timely whenever she chose to file it. Wyrick v. Dep't of Revenue, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 169 (Ky. Ct. App. May 30, 2008), aff'd, 323 S.W.3d 710, 2010 Ky. LEXIS 260 (Ky. 2010).

Lawsuit should not have been filed against an attorney for the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet based on an allegation that there was a failure to respond in 3 days because the Kentucky General Assembly intended suits based on violations of the Kentucky Open Records Act, including the time provisions at issue here, to be brought against the state agencies themselves and not against the individuals employed by those agencies. Taylor v. Maxson, 483 S.W.3d 852, 2016 Ky. App. LEXIS 15 (Ky. Ct. App. 2016).

6. Judicial Review.

Although the Department of Revenue (DOR) probably should have raised its defense before the Attorney General, the DOR sufficiently preserved this issue when it included the defense as an aggregate reason for denying an attorney's request for certain documents. Wyrick v. Dep't of Revenue, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 169 (Ky. Ct. App. May 30, 2008), aff'd, 323 S.W.3d 710, 2010 Ky. LEXIS 260 (Ky. 2010).

Summary judgment finding an Open Records Act (ORA) violation was proper against the Cabinet for Health and Family Services (Cabinet) because the Cabinet's failure to give the Attorney General enough information to answer a request to review the Cabinet's denial caused the Attorney General to find the Cabinet violated the ORA, which the Cabinet did not timely appeal, under Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.880(5)(a), giving the finding the force and effect of law, under Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.880(5)(b). Cabinet v. Todd Cnty. Std., 488 S.W.3d 1, 2015 Ky. App. LEXIS 171 (Ky. Ct. App. 2015).

Trial court had jurisdiction to review the decision of the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission (LRC) regarding a newspaper's request for legislative records because (1) the court's statutory jurisdiction was not limited to records requests or cases where the LRC issued no decision in 30 days, and (2) the Open Records Act's statutory judicial review right was incorporated into the governing statute. Harilson v. Shepherd, 585 S.W.3d 748, 2019 Ky. LEXIS 380 (Ky. 2019).

In this Open Records Act action, the order was reversed in part because the circuit court lacked subject matter jurisdiction to conclude the university violated the Open Meetings Act where neither party invoked the circuit court's jurisdiction to enforce provisions. Univ. of Ky. v. Hatemi, 636 S.W.3d 857, 2021 Ky. App. LEXIS 114 (Ky. Ct. App. 2021).

7. Attorney General.

In a case under the Kentucky Open Records Act, because the alleged misstatements that an attorney for the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet made that allegedly caused emotional distress were part of an adjudicatory process before the Kentucky Attorney General, the statements were entitled to absolute judicial immunity. Taylor v. Maxson, 483 S.W.3d 852, 2016 Ky. App. LEXIS 15 (Ky. Ct. App. 2016).

General Assembly certainly intended for the Attorney General (AG) to save the court and the requesters time and costs by designating the AG as the "watchdog" in open records cases; it conferred upon the AG the duty to adjudicate open records dispute and, to do so, gave the AG the ability to substantiate an agency's claims that records are exempt through an in camera review of the records requested. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op.), 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019).

8. Noncompliance.

University violated the Kentucky Open Records Act because it refused to allow the Attorney General (AG) to review redacted records requested by the student newspaper; the refusal made the AG's review of the matter impossible, leaving the AG with no alternative but to decide that the university had release the records to the newspaper. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op.), 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019).

University violated the Open Records Act because the university did not (1) show a specific exemption applied to a particular record, (2) redact personally identifying information, or (3) show records were exempt through a proper index, and (4) refused to let the Attorney General review redacted records. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op.), 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019).

18. Civil Litigation.

Public agency's response to a subpoena should be independent and separate from its response to an open records request. The reason for objecting to a subpoena should be based on the rules of discovery and not based on the Kentucky Open Records Act, Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.870 et seq., and, consequently, records exempt from disclosure through the Act may still be discoverable in a civil case and the discovery limited by the Kentucky Rules of Civil Procedure governing pretrial discovery. Parish v. Petter, 608 S.W.3d 638, 2020 Ky. App. LEXIS 100 (Ky. Ct. App. 2020).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Guest registration records at a state resort lodge are of a personal nature and should not be open to public inspection regardless of the intention of the person making the inspection. OAG 76-469.

An agency need report the denial of an inspection of a public record when the requester demands more information from the public record than the agency is willing to reveal. OAG 76-488.

There is no practical or legal reason why an agency should send a copy of its response to the attorney general to a request for personnel information unless the correspondence states that the inspection of a public record is being denied because of a specific exemption in KRS 61.878. OAG 76-488.

The Public Health and Safety Department of the City of Louisville properly withheld documents requested by journalists where they related to a closed session on a disciplinary matter and, as such, were exempted from the requirements of the Open Records Statute under KRS 61.878 (1)(j) and KRS 61.810(6) (now (1)(f)). OAG 78-11.

Where the response to a survey was voluntary, the survey forms, which were filled out and returned to the Department (now Cabinet) for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection by handlers of hazardous waste, are exempt from the requirements of the Open Records Law. OAG 79-69.

Records of court agencies, such as the board of bar examiners, are placed under the exclusive control of the Court of Justice, and if such an agency denies access to a record, appeal lies to the chief justice and not the Attorney General. OAG 79-174.

It is not for the Attorney General to tell the custodians of records what documents they may not release, but to tell them what documents they must not release. OAG 79-275.

Where a former school district employee sought examination of all records of all teachers and administrators on extended employment in the years 1973-1980, the number of days or weeks worked beyond the 185-day school year, the amounts paid each for extended employment and records of length of administrators contracts, a mere showing of the minute books was insufficient. OAG 79-380.

The school board of an independent school district is entitled to physically inspect the invoices, vouchers and other records which have been created by operation of the school district business and the written contract concerning the employment of the superintendent. OAG 79-390.

Tax records which are made confidential by KRS 131.190(1) are not within the purview of the Attorney General's appeal authority. OAG 79-444.

The appeal authority of the Attorney General under this section pertains only to public records which the public at large is entitled to inspect, not to records which are properly excluded from inspection by any member of the public. OAG 79-444.

Evaluation documents resulting from official evaluation of an officer's performance as a state trooper contain material of a personal nature where the public disclosure thereof would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy; furthermore, the mere evaluation of a state policeman's performance is a matter of opinion and, standing alone, does not constitute any action on the part of the Kentucky State Police. OAG 80-58.

The Attorney General is prevented by the administrative regulations pertaining to the Department of Law, 40 KAR 1:020 § 4, from rendering an opinion regarding the denial of inspection of a public record in response to questions involving matters being litigated or questions submitted in contemplation of litigation. OAG 80-278.

When a person requests to see bills received, bills paid, warrants requesting checks be issued for payment of bills, and cancelled checks for office equipment and supplies used by a county, it is not a sufficient answer under the Open Records Law for the county clerk to merely refer the requester to the minutes of the county fiscal court. OAG 80-367.

An urban county airport board is a public agency and all of its papers are public records under KRS 61.870. OAG 80-586.

KRS 61.810(6) (now (1)(f)), which provides an exception to the Open Meetings Law allowing hearings on personnel matters to be held in closed session, has no pertinency as to whether documents concerning the dismissal of five employees should be made available for public inspection; in denying inspection of a public record a public agency must rely on one of the exceptions provided in the Open Records Law, KRS 61.878(1). OAG 80-586.

Reports of building inspections are public records which are open to public inspection by any person under the Open Records Law. OAG 80-596.

A county housing agency is a public agency under the Open Records Law and it should make its records available for inspection by any person who makes a request to inspect records. OAG 80-597.

The custodian of municipal records may not respond to a request made under the Open Records Law by placing an "x" by the typed statement: "The records requested are exempted by law from mandatory disclosure" on a form letter since a form letter does not meet the specific statement requirement of this section and because the custodian did not cite any specific exemption in KRS 61.878 which would apply to the material requested. OAG 81-345.

A city mayor violated the Open Records Law in failing to respond to a request for copies of certain documents concerning the city sewage treatment plant by either making the records available for inspection or giving the requester a written response stating when the records would be available for inspection or stating that inspection was being denied. OAG 81-374.

It is not sufficient to cite an administrative regulation as a reason for denying the inspection of a record because a public agency does not have the authority to make records confidential by regulation; the exception relied on to preclude inspection must be one of the exceptions provided in KRS 61.878(1). OAG 82-192.

The term "question privately" in KRS 338.101, which authorizes the Commissioner of Labor to inspect working places, makes any statement taken from an employee, or other person authorized to be questioned by the statute, confidential, and, as such, it is exempted from mandatory public disclosure by KRS 61.878(1)(j); accordingly, the department of labor properly denied inspection of the statements of witnesses, taken in private interviews, concerning a fatal injury of a worker. OAG 82-192.

A mayor failed to comply with the Open Records Law by making no response to individual's request to inspect and copy public records in his custody. OAG 82-342.

Inspection of requested records containing identifiable descriptions and notations of arrest, detentions, indictments, information or other formal criminal charges and any disposition arising therefrom, including sentencing, correctional supervision and release and/or all other information a local police department may have compiled on a named individual could not be denied on the grounds of "personal privacy." OAG 82-388.

Local law enforcement agencies are required to make available for public inspection arrest records of any person, subject to the exceptions stated in KRS 17.150(2). OAG 82-388.

Attorney for Cabinet for Human Resources did not sufficiently comply with the spirit and the letter of the Open Records Law in responding to request for records by suggesting that requester direct his request to the Director of the Division of Unemployment Insurance; as an employee, agent and attorney for the Division, he should have directed the request to the proper person, i.e., the Director of the Division as official custodian, or to whomever the Director had designated to be the custodian of records. OAG 83-23.

Where proper request for records was made to attorney in Office of Counsel of Cabinet for Human Resources and attorney stated that he did not have records and instructed requester to make another request to Director of Division of Unemployment Insurance, such Division did not act in accordance with KRS 61.870 to 61.884 in its failure to allow inspection or make a proper response to such request to inspect records after three (3) months from the date of the initial request. OAG 83-23.

County sheriff did not act in accordance with the Open Records Law by failing to make a written response to a written request for a copy of an accident report; he should have either mailed requester a copy of the report in the self-addressed stamped envelope she furnished or written her that the report would be made available for her inspection in his office. OAG 83-53.

Where a county school superintendent verbally denied a written request to inspect certain educational records pertaining to teacher assignments, the superintendent did not act in accordance with the Open Records Law, in that he failed to make a written reply to the request and he failed to give a statement of reasons explaining his denial. OAG 83-144.

School principal did not act in accordance with the Open Records Law when he did not either make the requested records available for public inspection or give the requester a reason why the records, or a part of them, would be kept confidential. OAG 83-248.

A response denying inspection of a referee decision on the basis that the requester did not represent either party and that KRS 61.870 did not authorize release of such information, did not follow the mandate of this section and was therefore inadequate to deny the request. OAG 83-352.

The denial of inspection by the Secretary of the Cabinet for Human Resources of final reports stemming from investigations of complaints made about incidents or care at any of the state mental institutions, the complaints spawning final reports, and the investigatory material incorporated into the final reports was improper. OAG 83-425.

The requestor was entitled to a copy of the docket sheet showing the exact date of entry of the judgment of conviction in a certain criminal action, upon payment of the cost of the copy. OAG 84-144.

Since subsection (2) of KRS 61.872 and this section provide that an agency must respond to a request for inspection of records within three (3) days, timely access to records would thus be any time less than three (3) days from agency receipt of the request. OAG 84-300.

Since this section does not provide office of Attorney General with enforcement power it cannot require agency to refund unreasonable fees; any action for recovery of fees must be made to the Circuit Court. OAG 84-300.

A city-county human rights commission cannot rely upon local ordinances and resolutions to deny a request to inspect public records, if such records are open to public inspection under the Open Records Law. OAG 84-376.

Under subsection (1) of this section, the public agency is mandatorily required to notify the requesting party of its decision in writing within three (3) days. The notice should advise the requesting party that the records in question will be made available for inspection or should set forth specific reasons why the records cannot be inspected. OAG 85-71.

It is a failure to comply with the Open Records Law, specifically subsection (1) of this section, when no written response is made within the specified period to a request to inspect public records in the custody of a public agency. OAG 85-71.

The denial of a request to inspect a portion of a tape recording involving a firefighter's disciplinary hearing before the Civil Service Board was proper, where the release of that particular testimony would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of the firefighter's personal privacy. OAG 85-83.

Contracts of employment involving a public agency are public records and should be made available for public inspection. OAG 85-85.

When a public records dispute is taken to court, the burden of proof is on the public agency to sustain its action. Thus, a public agency should make every attempt to comply with the letter and spirit of the Open Records Act. Every legitimate request, not covered by a statutory exemption, should be complied with as quickly and courteously as possible; the availability of the records should be subject to no more restrictions than are necessary to protect the records and to avoid unduly disrupting the agency's operations. OAG 85-85.

The denial of a request to inspect the complete institutional file of an inmate was proper, as requests to inspect personnel files must specify the particular documents within such files to be inspected. OAG 85-88.

The signature log of employees and visitors eating meals in the Kentucky State Penitentiary facilities, which the corrections Cabinet's policies and procedures document requires each institution to maintain, is a public record, and furthermore, the list of meal tickets sold is a public record, as the Cabinet's policies and procedures document requires employees and visitors to purchase a meal ticket for each meal eaten in the Cabinet facilities. Thus, denial of a request to inspect the list of meal tickets was improper and in violation of the Open Records Act. OAG 85-89.

The denial of a request to inspect the letter of a disciplinary recommendation from a school principal to the Board of Education was proper, because even excising the names of those involved would not be sufficient to protect their privacy, and furthermore, because the letter was a preliminary recommendation expressing an opinion or recommending a policy. OAG 85-90.

Failure of county school superintendent to state in writing reasons for refusing to permit requesting party to inspect documents and to send a copy of the letter of denial to the Attorney General's office were violations of the Open Records Law. OAG 85-109.

A state penitentiary records clerk violated the provisions of the Open Records Act because she failed to respond to a request to inspect within three (3) working days, she failed to state the specific exception to the Open Records Act relied upon in refusing to permit inspection, she failed to send a copy of her written response denying inspection to the Attorney General, and she required the requesting party to state or verify why he needed to inspect and copy public records. OAG 85-120.

When itemized lists of receipts and expenses of a city are requested, the custodian of the municipal records should immediately advise in writing whether such lists are available; if such itemized records exist, the custodian should either make them available for public inspection or explain what specific exception to public inspection he is relying upon in denying the request to inspect. OAG 86-20.

Where the letter by the representative of the public agency was sent within the three-day time period but that letter did not state that a portion of the material would be deleted, and the material that was ultimately provided was not furnished within the time frame set forth in the letter and no adequate written response was subsequently provided relative to the delay in providing the documents requested, the public agency did not follow the requirements of subsection (1) of this section. OAG 86-21.

The Office of the Attorney General does not have the duty or the authority to perform investigations of public agencies to attempt to locate documents which the requesting party maintains exist but which the public agency states do not exist. OAG 86-35.

Subsection (4) of this section pertains to a situation where a person feels that the intent of the Open Records Act is being subverted short of denial of inspection by such acts as the imposition of excessive fees and the misdirection of the request. OAG 86-35.

The public agency should make the information requested available by either communicating it to the requesting party or permitting him to inspect those records which will reveal that information or the public agency should advise in writing the requesting party of the particular exception to public inspection it is relying upon and how it applies to the specific information and document being withheld in this situation. OAG 86-36.

The public agency's blanket denial of the requested documents was insufficient under the Open Records Act as the public agency should have advised if the documents existed and where inspection was denied each document not made available should be listed and the public agency should state how the exception to public inspection relied upon applied to the particular document withheld from inspection. OAG 86-38.

The county clerk and the property valuation administrator did not act in accordance with the requirements of the Open Records Law, specifically subsection (1) of this section, where they did not make the requested records available for inspection nor advise the requesting party in writing within the statutorily mandated time period of a specific reason why the records could not be inspected. OAG 86-75.

The sheriff's denial of the request to make available documents setting forth his salary and the salaries of his staff members (deputy sheriffs) for the fiscal year in question was improper and in violation of the Open Records Law. OAG 86-75.

It is within the discretion of the police to decide whether a case is active, inactive or finally closed, but when a demand for inspection of records is refused the burden is on the police to justify the refusal of the inspection with specificity; therefore, where the missing person's file had been maintained as an open case (active or inactive as opposed to closed) for almost eight years, the public agency's mere reference to subdivision (1)(f) of KRS 61.878 and 17.150, with no additional explanation, did not meet the burden of proof imposed by law relative to a denial of inspection. OAG 86-80.

The superintendent of the county schools did not comply with subsection (1) of this section since he did not respond in writing and he neither advised the requesting party that the records requested were available for inspection nor did he advise the requesting party the specific exception to public inspection he was relying upon in support of his decision to deny public inspection. OAG 86-86.

The mayor and the city violated the Open Records Act, specifically subsection (1) of this section, by their refusal to respond in writing to the request to inspect public records. OAG 87-60.

The city and the city attorney violated subsection (1) of this section by their insufficient response to the requesting party's original letter and by their failure to respond at all to his three (3) subsequent letters; they should have immediately advised the requesting party in writing whether he might inspect the records in question, and if they denied the request, they had to set forth the statutorily authorized exceptions to public inspection upon which they were relying. OAG 87-83.

The response of the public agency to the request to inspect public documents that the requested documents were not in the public agency's possession was sufficient and proper; a public agency obviously cannot furnish records for viewing and copying which it does not have at the time of the request. OAG 88-5.

The public agency's response to an individual's request to inspect and copy various documents was inadequate, where the body of the undated letter in its entirety stated: "All other documents requested are closed under KRS 61.876(3)"; therefore, the public agency had to prepare a proper written response to the original request, specifically stating those records, if any, which were withheld from inspection and the particular statutory exception to public inspection relied upon and how it applied to the record which was withheld. OAG 88-6.

The public agency's written response to the requesting party's request to inspect public documents was legally sufficient pursuant to KRS 61.872 and this section and afforded the requesting party a reasonable opportunity to inspect the records and materials requested to obtain the desired information. OAG 88-8.

The public agency violated subsection (1) of this section by its refusal to respond in writing to the request to inspect public records. OAG 88-22.

Although the city and sewer commission's initial response to the requesting party should have followed the requirements of KRS 61.880(1) and a copy of the letter of denial should have been sent to the attorney general pursuant to KRS 61.880(2), denial of the request to inspect the draft audit prepared by the

Environmental Protection Agency and sent to the city was supported by the exceptions to inspection set forth in KRS 61.878(1)(g), (h) and (i) as the item in question was a preliminary document containing opinions and observations. OAG 88-24.

A public agency cannot furnish access to documents which it does not have, and a request for documents which a public agency does not have is moot. OAG 88-44.

An agency cannot avoid the requirements of the Open Records Act by placing or maintaining public records with third parties. OAG 88-48.

The decision of the public agency to refuse to make available for public inspection copies of depositions taken by a private attorney under the authority of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure was not a violation of the Open Records Act as the matter was governed by the terms and provisions of those federal rules and the interpretation of those rules by the federal courts. OAG 88-48.

Although the public agency's denial of the request to inspect a document consisting of an opinion of the General Counsel to the Parole Board should have conformed to the requirements of subsection (1) of this section, the denial of the request could be justified under the concepts of the attorney-client privilege. OAG 88-49.

A partial denial of a request to inspect documents did not conform with the requirements of this section, where there was no identification as to what specific documents were being withheld and why. OAG 88-53.

Public agency from whom records were requested for inspection should respond in writing to the requesting party within three (3) days of the receipt of the request received through the mail, and if the records cannot be obtained promptly, the requesting party should be notified at once of that development. OAG 88-54.

Since subsection (1) of this section uses the phrase "upon any request" there generally is no distinction made between a written or oral request, a request made in person, or a request mailed in to the public agency; the three-day period in which the public agency must respond in writing begins when the agency receives the request regardless of the method used to communicate that request. OAG 88-54.

The General Assembly has vested the circuit courts with authority overriding that of the Attorney General in determining open records questions; it would be improper for the Attorney General to attempt to substantively determine an open records question when the same question is before a Circuit Court. OAG 88-78.

Merely citation to certain basic statutory sections of the Open Records Act does not comply with the requirements of subsection (1) of this section. OAG 89-12.

A county property valuation administrator failed to act consistently with the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 in failing to respond in writing to a verbal request for access to records, and in responding to a written request by forwarding it to another agency. OAG 89-40.

An agency failed to act consistent with provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 if it failed to respond in accordance with this section to a request to inspect public records. OAG 89-59.

Where the Department for Employment Services in responding to a request to inspect records indicated that information sought was not subject to Open Records Law, and was contained in a document accessible to all staff, such a response is not a determination in keeping with the terms of this section. OAG 89-60.

City acted consistently with Open Records provisions where it promptly responded in writing to request for broad categories of documents concerning generally described subjects, by indicating it would make records available for inspection that appeared to conform to the request, by indicating it did not have certain lists requested, and by directing the requestor to other agencies where records concerning subjects listed by requestor might be located. OAG 89-61.

Pendency of litigation does not suspend application of independent statutory requirement that response be made to one who requests to inspect records held by a public agency. OAG 89-65.

If a county agency allowed inspection of the entire tax roll of the county, the fact that certain information called for by statute or other provision, was not contained upon such roll, did not constitute denial of inspection of the roll. OAG 89-66.

While an agency is not required to provide copies of records that have not been inspected, where an agency indicated it would provide them, but did not do so, the effect was to deny inspection and, accordingly, the agency did not act consistent with the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.874. OAG 89-70.

While information derived from the property tax rolls may not be used for commercial or business purposes unrelated to property valuation or assessment, such ban does not apply to information obtained from other types of records of the Property Valuation Administrator's Office. OAG 89-77.

Requests for information, as distinguished from records, and requests that particular methods of inquiry into public records be provided, are outside the scope of Open Records provisions. OAG 89-77.

Open Records provisions do not require either the property valuation administrator, or the county clerk, to provide access to records by specific indexing methods. OAG 89-77.

There is no statutory authority to postpone or delay the agency's written response to a request to inspect certain documents, and there is no duty or obligation on the Attorney General's office to advise an agency as to how to handle a request to inspect documents which it has actually received; once the agency receives a request to inspect documents it is required to respond pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section. OAG 89-79.

Referring to requestor to a response to a prior request does not meet the response requirements of this section. OAG 89-81.

Public agencies, pursuant to this section, must respond separately and specifically to each request to inspect public records. OAG 89-81.

Although the Cabinet for Human Resources properly declined to provide information which is not consistent with its method of filing and maintaining records, the Cabinet must give the person making the request a reasonable opportunity to inspect nonexempt records pertaining to designated facilities to enable him to attempt to obtain the information he has requested. OAG 89-84.

The City of Louisville failed to act consistent with Open Records provisions in making a blanket denial of a request to inspect a "performance appraisal" and related documents regarding the Louisville Police Chief, by (1) failing to provide a brief explanation of how statutory exceptions (to the general rule that inspection of public records is permitted) applied to records withheld from inspection, (2) by denying inspection of a record on the ground it was a "preliminary draft" when it was not of such character, and (3) by denying inspection of records on the ground they constituted "preliminary recommendations," when there was no indication they were other than final unto themselves, and no subsequent product was generated that the records could be considered preliminary to. OAG 90-1.

Kentucky's Open Records provisions establish a requirement of a written response where there is a denial of a request to inspect public records. There is no statutory requirement under Open Records provisions that a written or other response be made to a request for copies of records that have not been inspected. OAG 90-8.

The cabinet for human resources failed to act consistently with Open Records provisions, by not explaining, in its initial response supplying copies of records, the "blanking out" of names of complainants and certain interviewees, upon copies of forms regarding complaints about possibly unlicensed day care facilities. Such deletion (blanking out) was nonetheless supported by KRS 61.878(1)(a), which permits an agency to withhold from inspection, records of a personal nature, where disclosure thereof would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OAG 90-12.

The masking of names constitutes a partial denial of inspection. As such, the masking of names should be explained in terms of a specific exception to the general rule allowing inspection. OAG 90-12.

Although request was for "information" rather than to inspect "records" with regard to salary figures and travel expense information concerning deputy county clerks, the county clerk failed to act consistently with Open Records provisions by failing to respond in writing, as required by KRS 61.880, to a request styled as under Open Records Law. OAG 90-19.

Where a request was for information, rather than to inspect records, and thus did not technically conform to Open Records provisions, the proper response was for the recipient of such request to promptly respond in writing, explaining that while Open Records provisions did not require a public agency to compile information, records that might yield the information sought would be made available for inspection during normal office hours; furthermore, parts of records withheld, such as the home address of an employee, or a social security number, should have been explained in a manner consistent with KRS 61.880. OAG 90-19.

A public agency, in denying part of a request to inspect public records, failed to act consistently with Open Records provisions by not citing a proper statutory basis for its denial, and in failing to briefly explain how a statutory provision it did cite, applied to a record that appeared to be withheld from inspection. OAG 90-26.

A response to a request to inspect public records should accurately cite a particular exception from among those in KRS 61.878, if it denies or partially denies such a request; additionally, a brief explanation should be given, as called for by KRS 61.880(1), regarding how a given exception cited as a basis for denial of inspection applies to a record withheld from inspection. OAG 90-26.

If a record of which inspection is sought does not exist, the agency should specifically so indicate. OAG 90-26.

A county board of education failed to act consistently with Open Records provisions by failing to make a written response stating the specific basis for its denial of inspection of records reflecting exact beginning and ending salary payments to a teacher, and in refusing to allow inspection of such records. OAG 90-30.

City failed to act consistently with KRS 61.870 to 61.884 by failing to provide a brief explanation of how exceptions cited as a basis for denying inspection of public records, applied to such records, and by making a blanket denial of inspection of employee time and attendance records, upon grounds, do not apply, at least comprehensively, to records withheld from inspection. OAG 90-34.

In response to request to inspect all documents relating to settlement of legal action against city, if the city has a record or records setting forth moneys paid on behalf of the city in settling the suit in question, such record should be promptly made available for inspection; this view applies to any record of such nature in the possession of the attorney for the city, that would be considered a record of the city, though held by counsel; if the city has records regarding settlement of the suit in question, other than one setting forth the amount of moneys paid on behalf of the city in settling the suit in question, the city should, in a written response, itemize which records it has and if it denies inspection of any of such "other" records, it should state a specific basis for denial based upon the exceptions set forth in KRS 61.878; if it has no record setting forth the amount of the settlement paid or payable, it should specifically so state, vis-a-vis the city government as a whole, and not just in relation to a record in the possession of the city manager. OAG 90-36.

Where city manager's response on behalf of city to request to inspect all documents relating to settlement of legal action against city addressed only records in the possession of the city manager, and not the city as an agency, the response was not consistent with KRS 61.870 to 61.884, and in particular, KRS 61.880(1). OAG 90-36.

The Open Records Act makes no provision for a public agency to refuse to give an applicant access to public records just because the applicant already has obtained the requested information elsewhere. OAG 90-71.

There is no specific exception in the Open Records Act that authorizes a public agency to withhold public records from an applicant because access to the records may be obtained from another public agency, even if the requested records might more appropriately or more easily be obtained from that other public agency. OAG 90-71.

Where a governmental board does have custody or control over public records that contain certain requested information, according to the requirements of the Open Records Act, the board should have given the person making the request either: (1) access to the records; or (2) a statement of the specific exceptions authorizing the withholding of the records. OAG 90-71.

No matter how the public agency views the merits of the request it must respond in writing and in a timely and proper manner. OAG 90-79.

While the requesting party's letters never referred to the Open Records Act or made requests to inspect records under that law, the public agency should have assumed that the Act has been invoked and respond accordingly. OAG 90-79.

A denial of a request relying on rules of the Administrative Office of the courts is not responsive under this section because it did not set forth a specific statutory exception listed in KRS 61.878(1). OAG 90-99.

Responses denying inspection of public records should include reference to a specific statutory exception authorizing the withholding of the record. OAG 90-112.

Where agency's response did not cite a specific statutory provision as a basis for denying inspection of records, in this respect, response was not consistent, or in compliance, with subsection (1) of this section. OAG 90-112.

A public agency cannot furnish access to documents which it does not have, and a request for documents which a public agency does not have is moot and the agency should specifically inform one seeking such documents that these documents did not exist. OAG 90-131.

Although water district has not complied with various procedural requirements set forth in subsection (1) of this section and KRS 61.872(4) relative to the handling and disposition of requests to inspect documents, the water district's refusal to permit the inspection of polygraph test results is justified under the Open Records Act as such documents may be excluded from public inspection pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a). OAG 90-144.

The burden of proof in sustaining the denial of access to a governmental database or geographic information system, on appeal, rests with the agency. OAG 91-4.

Open and active investigative files of the Kentucky State Police are exempt from inspection as well as medical or autopsy reports. OAG 91-6.

If a public agency intends to rely upon KRS 61.872(5), that producing records places an unreasonable burden upon the agency or that the requester intends to disrupt other essential agency functions, the refusal of the agency to produce documents for these reasons must be sustained by clear and convincing evidence, and where the requesting party has described the various categories of documents to which she seeks access with sufficient specificity to require the public agency to respond in a good faith manner to those requests by categories pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, documents withheld from inspection or unavailable should be identified and the specific reasons for withholding any documents should be stated in writing. OAG 91-7.

A public agency's response to an individual requesting to inspect certain documents is insufficient under the Open Records Act if it fails to advise the requesting party whether the documents exist. OAG 91-101.

Where university treated four separate requests for inspection of certain documents as one request, its response was improper for while it may well have wished to expedite this matter by issuing a single response, it nevertheless erred in failing to address the four requests in four separate responses. OAG 91-111.

In a request for inspection of certain documents where only some of the documents were readily available while others were in storage and would have to be located, those documents which were immediately accessible should have been made available for inspection, or a proper denial pursuant to subsection (1) of this section should have been issued; all documents could not be withheld until such time as those less accessible documents had been retrieved from storage. OAG 91-111.

Although response to request was improper, under the Open Records Act, to the extent that cabinet did not reply within three (3) working days, the cabinet properly advised requester that her request could not be satisfied inasmuch as no such record existed and thus appeal from denial was treated as moot. OAG 91-112.

In a request for records where the public agency initially denied inspection of certain public records, but subsequently reversed its position and made the public records open for inspection and copying by the requester, the issue of whether the initial agency response properly relied upon particular exemptions in denying inspection, is mooted by the subsequent release of the public records. OAG 91-140.

Denial of the request to inspect a number of documents in the possession of the public schools was deficient in that it did not cite a specific statutory exemption authorizing nondisclosure, as required by subsection (1) of this section, nor was a copy of the letter of denial forwarded to Attorney General's office, as required by subsection (2) of this section. OAG 91-176.

Cabinet for Human Resources' response to request was deficient, under the Open Records Act, to the extent that it did not reply in writing within three (3) working days. OAG 91-178.

Attorney General opined that Custodian of Records' actions, in denying inmate's request for a copy of his transfer authorization form pursuant to this section, because inmate's account had no money to cover the reproduction costs, were entirely consistent with the Open Records Act, because a public agency is authorized to prescribe reasonable fees for making copies of public records pursuant to KRS 61.876(1)(c) and 61.874(2). OAG 91-210.

The Open Records Act regulates access to public records, and not records management; therefore, the response that the requested records are no longer in the possession of the public agency was sufficient and proper under the Open Records Act. OAG 91-220.

When confronted with a request to inspect public records, an agency must address two (2) questions: Whether it has the documents requested, and if it does, whether the documents are subject to public inspection; under the facts presented, the requested records were not available because they had been returned to the holder of a permit issued by the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, when a revised permit, which did not require the same information, was issued. OAG 91-220.

A public agency cannot furnish access to documents which it does not have and it is not the office of the Attorney General's duty to investigate in order to locate documents which the requesting party believes exist, but which the public agency states do not exist. OAG 92-5.

The Board of Medical Licensure properly denied the open records request of a criminal defendant seeking access to psychiatric evaluations performed on a doctor, pursuant to criminal charges pending against that doctor, because that doctor had earlier evaluated criminal defendant and the criminal charges against doctor raised questions concerning doctor's earlier objectivity; in balancing the privacy interest of the doctor against the public's interest in proper adjudication of criminal proceedings, the benefit which would inure to the public by virtue of the released records did not outweigh the doctor's privacy interest. OAG 92-10.

This statute directs the Attorney General to review open records appeals without reference to the identity of the requester or to the agency issuing the denial; it does not provide for the appointment of an "independent authority" under circumstances which might appear to compromise the Attorney General's impartiality, or indeed, under any circumstances. OAG 92-10.

City must release the monthly statements prepared by the city's attorneys which reflect the general nature of the legal services rendered to city, but should those invoices disclose substantive matters protected by the attorney client privilege, and exempt under KRS 61.878(1)(j), the exempt material should be separated from the nonexempt materials, and the nonexempt materials released for public inspection. OAG 92-14.

Subsection (2) of this section requires that a copy of the written response denying inspection be forwarded immediately to the Office of the Attorney General. OAG 92-34.

Where the Western Kentucky Corrections Complex Grievance Coordinator's response to an open records request by an inmate did not constitute final agency action, inasmuch as it was not issued by the official custodian or under her authority, the inmate's appeal was not ripe for review by the Attorney General. OAG 92-51.

KRS 620.050(5)(a) clearly requires that the Cabinet for Human Resources and the Department for Social Services withhold from all persons information acquired as a result of an investigation conducted pursuant to KRS 620.050(5)(a) to (f). OAG 92-53.

The requesting party did not demonstrate that he fell under any of the statutorily recognized classifications of KRS 620.050(5)(a) or that his particular situation warranted the release of the requested material; although the requesting party was the noncustodial parent, the allegations of dependency, neglect, or abuse were not substantiated. OAG 92-54.

Inmate mistakenly asserted that he must be afforded access to nonconfidential documents before he identified those documents; accordingly, the Attorney General opined that inmate must identify the specific documents that he wishes to inspect. OAG 92-56.

The Cabinet for Workforce Development was directed to release the employment applications and resumes of the named employees of a state vocational-technical school, after separating or otherwise masking any information of a personal nature which appeared on those documents, including the employees' home addresses, social security numbers, and medical information; if the employees' teaching certificates were contained in the file, they too should have been released. OAG 92-59.

The Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils at Eastern Kentucky University may be deemed "public agencies" for purposes of the Open Records Act, only if they derive at least 25% of their funds from state or local authority; the term "funds" refers to a sum or sums of money, and while it is true that the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils derive an appreciable benefit from the University this benefit cannot be quantified, or otherwise translated into a monetary figure; therefore the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils are not public agencies within the meaning of KRS 61.870, et seq. and are not public agencies within the meaning of, or subject to, the Open Meetings Law. OAG 92-62.

Nothing in this section permits an agency to postpone or delay its written response pending review by agency counsel, such as the Correction Cabinet's General Counsel; upon receipt of a request to inspect documents, an agency is required to respond within three (3) working days, although there are limited exceptions to this general rule. OAG 92-64.

Inmate's request for a list of prison canteen items and their cost was properly denied where no such list existed. OAG 92-64.

The Kentucky State Penitentiary (KSP) should comply with this section by issuing responses within three (3) working days; if an open records request is misdirected, places an unreasonable burden on the KSP office, or the requested records are not immediately available, KSP's response should conform to KRS 61.872(3), (4), or (5). OAG 92-64.

Although one section of the contract, lease, and option agreement between the City and the Public Hospital corporation required that a copy of the annual audit and supporting documents be filed in the office of the city clerk, those documents were, by the express terms of the agreement, released by the Hospital for the limited purpose of allowing inspection by, or on behalf of, holders of outstanding bonds or coupons; the agency established that the requested records: (1) were confidentially disclosed to it; (2) for one of the four purposes delineated in KRS 61.878(1)(b), e.g., regulation of a commercial enterprise; and (3) that release of the records would permit an unfair advantage to competitors of the subject enterprise; therefore, the release of the requested records was properly denied. OAG 92-66.

The training and examination rating scale, used in reviewing candidates for certain positions can be characterized as an inactive examination, and therefore falls squarely within the parameters of the exception to Open Records codified at KRS 61.878(1)(e). OAG 92-80.

Where private investigator originally asked for copies of all documents in the possession of the Kentucky State Police which related to suspended state trooper, request was properly denied because blanket requests for information on a subject without specifying certain documents need not be honored. OAG 92-85.

It is the policy of the Kentucky State Police (KSP) to withhold reports of background investigations on job applicants conducted by KSP; the Attorney General's office opined that these reports contain information of a personal nature, the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, and are exempt from public inspection pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a); moreover, background investigation reports may be withheld under authority of KRS 61.878(1)(g) and (h). OAG 92-85.

State police custodian of records' response to private investigator's open records request was substantively correct; custodian advised private investigator that custodian had provided private investigator with all of the pages of a suspended state trooper's employment application, but had deleted specific personal information pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(a) "which provides for exclusion because of the unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." OAG 92-85.

State police custodian of records' response to private investigator's request for all documentation regarding the reasons for suspension of former state trooper contained in Personnel Orders was consistent with the Open Records Act; police internal affairs reports are exempt from public inspection as preliminary memoranda; only internal affairs reports which indicate the final action taken and the underlying complaint are open to public inspection. OAG 92-85.

Response to request for records was procedurally deficient insofar as it was not issued within three (3) working days. Some 28 working days elapsed between the date of the request and the date of the response. Allowing for delays in the mail, the response was nevertheless untimely; however, since the college acknowledged its obligation under the Open Records Law to release all documents pertaining to the contractual relationship between college and company although the response was procedurally deficient, it was substantially correct. OAG 92-120.

Since it is imprudent to entrust the weighty responsibility of responding to open records requests to individuals who may have little or no knowledge of the Act, if a request is made for a record which is not housed in the custodian's office, it should be transmitted to, and reviewed by, the custodian for a determination of the propriety of release. At a minimum, the custodian should review any denial of an open records request to insure that it conforms to the referenced provisions. OAG 92-120.

"Timely access" to public records has been defined as "any time less than three (3) days from agency receipt of the request," therefore, response to request was procedurally deficient insofar as it was not issued within three (3) working days, in fact well over a year has elapsed since the initial request, and some four months has elapsed since the latest request; a delay in excess of one year is clearly unreasonable under the Open Records Act. OAG 92-121.

Subsection (1) of this section requires an agency which elects to withhold documents to cite a specific exception authorizing nondisclosure and provide a brief explanation of how that exception applies and thus a statement by the person to whom the request was made that the requested documents were exempt from disclosure because they were absolutely irrelevant to the case was not legally sufficient grounds for exclusion and failure to cite an exception while withholding records was improper under the Open Records Law, and denial of that portion of the request was inconsistent with the law. OAG 92-121.

Mere invocation of an exception and reference to prior opinions, without an adequate explanation of how the exception applies or the opinions are relevant, does not satisfy the burden of proof imposed on the agency under subsection (2) of this section and KRS 61.882(3). OAG 92-ORD-1020.

Any notification of a delay in affording access to records in excess of three (3) days must be accompanied by a detailed explanation of the cause and a statement of the earliest date, time, and place on which they will be available for inspection; therefore, the Department for Social Services erred in postponing notification until it could decide "how to best handle a request for records." OAG 93-ORD-43.

Mere invocation of a statutory exception to the release of records and reference to prior opinions, without an adequate explanation of how the exception applies or the opinions are relevant, does not satisfy the burden of proof imposed on the agency under subsection (2) of this section and KRS 61.882(3). OAG 93-ORD-43.

Although the Attorney General may be called on to intervene in the recovery of records when it comes to the attention of the Department for Library and Archives that those records are threatened with unlawful removal, defacing, alteration, or destruction pursuant to KRS 171.530, he is not empowered to issue a legally enforceable decision relative to those acts; his decisions under the Open Records Act are limited to the question of whether the agency violated the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884. OAG 94-ORD-12.

After a request for certain public records under the Open Records Act, the custodian of such records need only advise the requester that his or her request will be honored and either append the records or notify the requester that they are available for immediate inspection per subdivision (3)(a) or (b) of KRS 61.872; failure of the custodian to state that the requested records exist or that the records provided are those requested does not constitute a violation of the Act. OAG 94-ORD-15.

Even though there was some question as to whether request to secure copies of documents was signed, city was under a legal obligation to respond to the request within the statutorily mandated time frame even if the response was merely to advise the requestor that the request did not meet statutory requirements. Every request for documents submitted to a public agency should be responded to within the required time frame no matter what decision is made or what reason is advanced in response to the request. OAG 94-ORD-101.

A bare allegation that the records withheld are proprietary is not sufficient under the law. OAG 95-ORD-27.

Where the Lottery Corporation denied an open records request to inspect portions of a survey apparently commissioned by the Lottery Corporation without any explanation of the nature of the record withheld, how it could be characterized as "preliminary" and how the exceptions of this section applied to the withheld information, the Lottery Corporation failed to meet its statutory burden of proof to sustain the denial. OAG 95-ORD-27.

Where the county clerk failed to issue a written response to an open records request and failed to cite the specific exception authorizing his decision to deny the requesting party's access to electronically stored records, the clerk failed to follow the required procedural guidelines set forth in subsection (1) of this section. OAG 95-ORD-43.

With regards to the extent that an agency failed to cite a specific exception authorizing nondisclosure in its original response, and failed to briefly explain how the exception cited applied to the records withheld in its second response, it violated the procedural requirements of the Open Records Act. OAG 96-ORD-135.

The language of subsection (2)(a) of this section clearly indicates that the Attorney General's role in adjudicating open records disputes is narrowly circumscribed. He is only authorized to review a public agency's denial of a request to inspect a public record or a complaint that the intent of the Act is being subverted by an agency short of denial of inspection per subsection (4) of this section. The Attorney General does not have authority to entertain a third party claim that disclosure of public records would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, or is inconsistent with any of the other exemptions codified at KRS 61.878(1)(a) to (l). OAG 96-ORD-148.

Had the complaint as to the legality of the Workers' Compensation Advisory Council adjourning into private caucuses meeting separately as business and labor interests been an appeal under the Open Records Act (KRS 61.870 to 61.884), which imposes the burden of proof in sustaining a denial of a request upon the public agency, subsection (2)(c) of this section, the matter could have been conclusively resolved in favor of the complaining party, however, because the Open Meetings Act contains no such provision relative to the public agency's burden of proof, it could not be decided that the public agency failed to meet its burden of proof and no definitive finding could be made. OAG 96-ORD-261.

Response of county board of education to request to inspect records containing the results of drug tests administered to school bus drivers that although records were available, counsel was reviewing the matter and a decision would be rendered in ten days was procedurally deficient as a public agency cannot postpone or delay the statutory deadline of subsection (1) of this section. Although the burden on the agency to respond in three (3) working days is an onerous one, the only exceptions to this general rule are found at 61.872(4) and did not apply here. OAG 97-ORD-2.

A correctional complex's denial of an inmate's request for his FBI rap sheet was procedurally deficient when it merely stated that the facility was "not the official custodian of that record” without citing the specific exception authorizing non-disclosure; however, the inmate’s response was properly denied under KRS 61.878(1)(k) and 28 USCS § 534. OAG 99-ORD-178.

A confidentiality clause inserted in a settlement agreement may require the government to notify a party if there is a request for a copy of the agreement; however, the government is required to proceed under subsection (1) and provide a written response to the request for information within three (3) business days; while this gives the agency scant time to notify the affected party and affords the affected party only a narrow window of opportunity to commence litigation, the existing law permits no deviation from this rule. OAG 98-ORD-24.

Because the General Assembly is a body created by the Constitution of this state in the legislative branch of government as defined in KRS 61.870(1)(g), and as there is no reasonable basis for excluding it from the definition of a public agency, its records are subject to public inspection and there is no impediment to the Office of the Attorney General discharging its statutorily mandated duty under this section. OAG 98-ORD-92.

A county fiscal court’s response to a combined meetings complaint and records request was procedurally deficient insofar as it was not issued within three (3) business days, it failed to cite a statutory basis for the fiscal court’s position, and it failed to contain a brief supporting explanation. OAG 99-ORD-221.

The failure of a sheriff’s department to timely respond, in writing, to a request was a procedural violation of the requirements of subsection (1); further, the procedural requirements are not mere formalities, but are an essential part of the prompt and orderly processing of an open records request. OAG 99-ORD-8.

The policy of a county 911 center to defer requests for audiotapes of telephone calls to the responding agency was improper as the 911 center was itself a public agency and, therefore, it was required itself to respond to such requests; however, the 911 center could consult with the responding agency before replying to such a request. OAG 99-ORD-10.

A response to an open records request that the agency is researching its files to determine if responsive records exist, and will respond “as soon as it has completed its review” is procedurally deficient. OAG 99-ORD-13.

The Kentucky Revenue Cabinet violated subsection (1) by failing to afford timely access to nonexempt records identified in a request. OAG 99-ORD-14.

A city violated subsection (1) by failing to respond in writing, and within three (3) business days, to a request; the city initially failed to respond at all and only responded after the requester initiated an appeal. OAG 99-ORD-22.

Although a county board of education issued a timely written response to a request, the board violated the procedural requirements of the statute as it failed to cite the specific open records exceptions authorizing its partial denial of the request. OAG 99-ORD-26.

To the extent that a police department failed to respond to a request, it violated the statute, and the fact that the requester did not use the standard open records application when he made his request did not alter this conclusion. OAG 99-ORD-29.

A training center violated subsection (1) by failing to respond in writing to a request for records. OAG 99-ORD-31.

The burden of proof in sustaining public agency action in the event of an appeal to the Attorney General, or to the Circuit Court, is on the agency. OAG 99-ORD-36.

A city’s response to a request under the act was deficient where it articulated a basis for denying access to the requested records, but did not cite the relevant exception supporting nondisclosure. OAG 99-ORD-38.

A fee of ten cents ($.10) per copy was not excessive and was consistent with the standard of reasonableness, notwithstanding that the two commercial photocopy companies charged a lower fee for copies. OAG 99-ORD-40.

Although memoranda containing recommendations that were never adopted and forms that were never approved may properly be characterized as preliminary documents within the meaning of subsections (1)(i) and (1)(j), it is incumbent on the agency to determine if responsive records exist and, if they do not, to specifically so indicate; it is not enough to advise the requester that “if any documents exist,” they are exempt. OAG 99-ORD-42.

A public agency’s response is deficient under the Open Records Act if it fails to advise the requesting party whether specific records identified in his or her request exist. OAG 99-ORD-43.

A board of education unreasonably postponed the requester’s right of access to public records where the board extended the deadline for inspection of an abbreviated list of records for an additional 27 days, noting that eight (8) of these days were weekends and that its offices would be officially closed on three (3) other days during the 27 day period. OAG 99-ORD-44.

There was no violation of the statute where an inmate in a correctional institution submitted to the Governor a request for copies of records relating to conditions at the institution, the Governor’s office conducted a search of its files and determined that there were no responsive records in its custody, and the request was forwarded to the Department of Corrections to conduct an additional search and to respond on behalf of the Governor. OAG 99-ORD-45.

The failure of two (2) agencies to provide a written response to a request for records under the Open Records Act within three (3) business days was a violation of the statute. OAG 99-ORD-46.

A school district properly discharged its duties under the Open Records Act by agreeing to permit the requester to inspect the nonexempt portions of records containing the information she sought during its regular business hours where the requested information was not inclusively contained in any one comprehensive document. OAG 99-ORD-48.

A sheriff’s department’s responses were procedurally flawed in failing to cite a statute as the basis for the denial of a request and in failing to contain a brief explanation of how the relevant exception applied to the records withheld. OAG 99-ORD-56.

Responses to requests for records were deficient where they failed to cite the provision of the Open Records Act upon which the requests were denied and failed to briefly explain how such provision applied to the records withheld. OAG 99-ORD-63.

To the extent that a response to a request for records consisted of little more than a bare reference to the exception upon which it relied, without a supporting explanation of how the exception applied to the records withheld, it was deficient. OAG 99-ORD-73.

To the extent that a county central dispatch failed to respond to a request in a proper and timely fashion and conditioned his right of inspection on obtaining a subpoena, it violated the Open Records Act. OAG 99-ORD-95.

A volunteer fire protection district was obligated to discharge its duties under the statute by releasing all nonexempt records which were responsive to a request or by denying access to them on the basis of one or more of the statutory exceptions, notwithstanding that the requested records were available elsewhere. OAG 99-ORD-101.

To the extent that a fire protection district’s response to an April 23 request, although apparently authored within the statutory three (3) day period of limitation, was not served on the requester until May 4, that response violated subsection (1); the fact that the mayor of the city wished to discuss the request at the next meeting of the city commission did not toll the statutory deadline or relieve the district of its duty under the law. OAG 99-ORD-101.

KRS 197.025(7) controls over subsection (1) and allows a penitentiary five (5) days to respond to an open records request. OAG 99-ORD-102.

Although an agency cannot, of course, provide access to a record that does not exist, an agency is nevertheless required to notify the requester in writing, and within three (3) business days, that no record exists that is responsive to the request. OAG 99-ORD-108.

A response to a request for records which stated that the agency was not required to accept blanket or voluminous requests was procedurally deficient in that it failed to cite a specific statutory exception which authorized the withholding of the requested records and a brief explanation as to how the exception applies to the records withheld. OAG 99-ORD-180.

The response by a correctional facility to an inmate's request for records was procedurally deficient in failing to cite the statutory exception authorizing the nondisclosure of the requested records. OAG 99-ORD-188.

A state university violated the statute where it failed to respond to a request for records until after receiving notice that an appeal would be filed. OAG 99-ORD-190.

Public agencies failed to provide the requester with timely access to the record he requested in violation of the statute where (1) the request was submitted on August 5, (2) a response was issued on August 18 informing the requester that the record was maintained by another agency and that the request was being forwarded to that agency, (3) as of the date of his letter of appeal, September 21, the requester indicated that he had not been provided with a copy of the record, and (4) the record was released on October 6. OAG 99-ORD-194.

A city violated the statute where it did not respond to a request for records until after the notice of appeal was filed. OAG 99-ORD-198.

An agency violated the statute where it received a request for records on October 8, but failed to respond until October 18. OAG 99-ORD-200.

A city violated the statute where it failed to respond to a request for records in writing. OAG 99-ORD-210.

A county fiscal court erred in postponing action on a request for 10 days without explanation and without reference to KRS 61.872(5) and in characterizing the request as so nonspecific as to preclude the fiscal court from determining what records were requested. OAG 99-ORD-225.

A county fiscal court violated the statute when it failed to respond to a request for records and, therefore, was required to make immediate arrangements for the requester to inspect the records identified in her requests or, alternatively, to appeal the decision to the appropriate Circuit Court. OAG 00-ORD-1.

A county fiscal court violated the statute in failing to respond to a request for copies of records reflecting the county's total expenditures for its animal control program in a specific fiscal year. OAG 00-ORD-44.

An agency violated the statute where its original response to a request for records was issued four (4) business days after the submission of the request and, more importantly, neither that response nor the supplemental response issued shortly thereafter included a statement of the specific exception authorizing the withholding of the records and a brief explanation of how the exception applied to the records withheld. OAG 00-ORD-62.

An agency may properly require all records requests to be routed through its official custodian to ensure the timely and orderly processing of open records requests. OAG 00-ORD-73.

Nothing in the statute permits an agency to postpone or delay the three (3) day statutory deadline for responding to a request for records while the agency attempts to locate the records or to formulate its response, notwithstanding that the burden on the public agency to respond in three (3) working days is, not infrequently, an onerous one. OAG 00-ORD-74.

To the extent that an agency failed to respond to a request in writing, and within three (3) business days, it violated the statute. OAG 00-ORD-76.

An agency was not relieved of its duties under the Open Records Act with regard to a request for records which arose out of a year-end evaluation dispute by virtue of its decision to upgrade the requester's evaluation or by virtue of any informal, oral communications concerning the request. OAG 00-ORD-77.

The Kentucky State University violated the statute by failing to comply with the procedural guidelines for agency response set forth at subsection (1) and by failing to advise the requester in writing, and in clear and direct terms, that no records existed that were responsive to his request. OAG 00-ORD-82.

Although the presence of litigation and simultaneously filed open records and discovery requests may engender staff confusion, neither relieves a correctional facility of its duties under subsection (1) when read in conjunction with KRS 197.025(7). OAG 00-ORD-83.

A volunteer fire department violated the Open Records Act by refusing to accept service of an open records request and to respond, in writing, to that request within three (3) business days. OAG 00-ORD-93.

An agency violated the statute where it timely responded within three (3) days, but advised that because the requester had requested a substantial amount of information, it would take some time to compile the requested records and that it would respond within 30 days. OAG 00-ORD-95.

Where an agency failed to cite the exception upon which it relied in withholding access to requested records, the agency's response was procedurally deficient. OAG 00-ORD-101.

A city violated the statute in failing to respond to a request for records in writing, and within three (3) business days, in failing to cite the specific exception authorizing the withholding of each of the records that she requested, and in failing to briefly explain how the exception applies to each of the records withheld. OAG 00-ORD-104.

A city failed to afford timely access to requested records where (1) the records were not disclosed until 22 days after the request was made, and (2) the requested records were of an identified, limited class that could be readily accessed through an existing database. OAG 00-ORD-117.

A school council violated the statute by failing to respond in writing, and within three (3) business days, to a request. OAG 00-ORD-123.

A city violated the statute where it responded to a request within three (3) days, but the response only intimated that the request would be honored in time and did not contain a detailed explanation of the cause of the delay or state the earliest date on which the records would be available. OAG 00-ORD-188.

A tri-county animal control center violated the statute where it failed to respond to a request for records and also failed to respond to a notice of appeal with regard to the request. OAG 00-ORD-212.

"Excessive" requests and "invalid reasons" do not constitute legally supportable bases for denying access to public records. The written response must include a statement of the specific exception authorizing the withholding of the record and a brief explanation of how the exception applies to the record withheld. OAG 01-ORD-8.

The public's interest in what businesses are taxed, where they are located, and whether they are delinquent in paying their taxes (but not the amount of taxes owed or any other information that reveals the affairs of their businesses), is superior to any privacy interest asserted. The City and the Tourist & Convention Commission improperly withheld records containing "the names and locations of businesses that are delinquent on the payment of their food/restaurant taxes” notwithstanding the city ordinance that deemed those records confidential. OAG 01-ORD-63.

As a city police chief did not adopt an internal affairs report as the basis of final disciplinary action taken against an officer, the city properly denied a request for an investigative file of a complaint against the officer, including records in the file that were created as an integral part of the investigative process, as opposed to records in the file that were created collaterally to the investigation and later placed in the file. OAG 01-ORD-83.

Since public agencies are statutorily assigned the burden of proof in substantiating their actions pursuant to KRS 61.880(2)(c), a record that is devoid of citation to the relevant legal authority and a particular and detailed explanation of how that authority applies is inadequate to meet this burden. When an issue cannot be resolved on the record, the Attorney General will require the agency to substantiate its denial. OAG 01-ORD-83.

When an agency relies upon the protections afforded by KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j) as its basis for denying access to internal investigative reports/files, the ultimate decision maker should affirm that he or she did not adopt the report as the basis of the final action, and to explain on what basis he or she, in fact, determined what final action was appropriate. It is not enough to simply invoke the exceptions to shield the investigative report from disclosure without offering an explanation of what was done and why. OAG 01-ORD-83.

Days that a school is closed for spring vacation cannot be characterized as legal holidays, and therefore do not toll an agency’s response time in responding to an open records request. Days on which students, faculty, and staff are not present for any reason other than Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays must therefore be calculated into the three-day response time. OAG 01-ORD-94.

If the audiotape of the agency’s board meeting was purchased with agency funds and made at the agency’s direction, then it was a public record subject to disclosure. Furthermore, it was not incumbent on the requester to produce legal authority as a condition to inspection of the tape. The burden of proof in an open records appeal rests with the public agency, and the agency failed to meet this burden relative to the record withheld. OAG 01-ORD-96.

The delay of some ten (10) to thirteen (13) business days in providing the requester with copies of the records because the record custodian was on vacation constituted a subversion of the intent of the Act within the meaning of KRS 61.880(4). OAG 01-ORD-140.

An ongoing, or standing, open records request is not proper under the Open Records Act and the City therefore did not violate the Act by placing redacted copies of incident reports “at a front desk for anyone to pick up” without providing a written explanation for those redactions. OAG 02-ORD-36.

Although the Open Records Law, and in particular KRS 61.880, contains no statute of limitations for initiating open records appeals, KRS 197.025(3) requires inmates confined in penal facilities to initiate an appeal of “any denial of an open record” with the Attorney General within twenty (20) days. OAG 02-ORD-54.

It was incumbent on the school district to respond, in writing, to the requester’s July 11, 2002 request on or before July 16 and to provide her with the evidence and attachments relating to her September 21, 2001 formal complaint which the District sent to the Kentucky Department of Education. The District appears to have treated as responsive to this particular request, inter alia, correspondence generated in the period from February through July 2002, minutes, agendas, and data from ARC meetings conducted in January, February, and May, 2002, a complaint the requester filed in February 2002, and emails generated after February 14, 2002. OAG 02-ORD-150.

Campaigning for reelection, or discharging duties associated with private employment, do not provide a sufficient legal basis for temporarily suspending the legal obligations imposed on a public agency by KRS 61.880(1). Invocation of, and reliance upon, KRS 61.872(5) should occur on rare occasions and only when the circumstances are such as to clearly warrant extension of the standard three day deadline for agency response and release of records. OAG 03-ORD-05.

Electronic mail generated by public agency officials or employees is a public record as defined in KRS 61.870(2), and is therefore subject to the Open Records Act. It is for the records custodian, and not the email account holder, to locate and retrieve these records and to make the determination as to which are exempt and which must be disclosed. OAG 03-ORD-05.

The Cabinet erred in adopting a policy of blanket exclusion relative to the responsive e-mails and any unidentified responsive records on the basis of the attorney-client privilege. The Cabinet has provided only a bare assertion in support of its claim that unidentified responsive records, including e-mails, constitute privileged attorney-client communications, and has not identified the records or groups of records withheld or adequately explained how the privilege applies to those records as required by KRS 61.880(1) and KRE 503. OAG 04-ORD-187.

Where the open records request was received by the University on Wednesday, October 6, this would be the date or day of the act after which the three-day period of time begins to run. Thus, Thursday, October 7 would be day one. Friday, October 8 would be day two. The intermediate Saturday and Sunday are excluded from the computation. Monday, October 11, the day the University advised it mailed the response, would be day three. Accordingly, the University timely mailed its response within three (3) business days after receipt of the request, as required by KRS 61.880(1). OAG 04-ORD-213.

Although the Medical Licensure Board apparently provided the requester with copies of some or all of the requested records during the course of related litigation, this does not relieve the Board of its duty under the Open Records Act to provide copies of any records in its possession which are responsive to the separate but related request at issue. In relying solely upon the alleged possession of the requested records as the basis for its denial, the Board therefore failed to satisfy its burden of proof. OAG 04-ORD-220.

The school district violated KRS 61.880(1) in failing to respond to the request because the requester did not comply with a Board of Education policy requiring the submission of an open records request on a preprinted form developed by the Board. The October 25 request conformed, in all particulars, with the requirements found at KRS 61.872(2). It was therefore incumbent on the school district to respond in writing, and within three business days, to that request. OAG 04-ORD-242.

In regard to a request for a copy of a tape recording of a 911 phone call, the division of police discharged its statutory duty by advising the requester that the requested record was properly destroyed pursuant to the applicable records retention schedule. OAG 05-ORD-33.

County board of education violated the Open Records Act when it denied a request for records relating to the removal of school superintendent on the basis that the only documents from the removal hearing that could be disclosed were the minutes and findings as previously disclosed to the press, and that all other documents were requested to remain confidential by the superintendent. OAG 05-ORD-46.

A city should provide a requester with access to those records in a city employee’s personnel file which are not exempt from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1) or other applicable statutes. For records in the file for which statutory protection from disclosure exists, the agency should identify those documents and provide a brief written explanation including citation to the statute authorizing nondisclosure. OAG 05-ORD-73.

A volunteer fire department improperly denied a request for a copy of a petition; it did not matter that it was in the possession of the chairman of the board of the department and had not been presented to the rest of the board or the membership. OAG 05-ORD-106.

County judge-executive violated the Open Records Act in failing to provide a requester with copies of a franchis contract and all contractual agreements between the county and a sanitation company because the judge-executive was required to either affirmatively indicate that no written contracts existed, or provide the requester with copies of the actual contracts. OAG 06-ORD-020.

Transportation cabinet did not conduct an adequate search for email responsive to open records request; however, in the absence of proof of improper destruction of the requested email, the cabinet was not obligated to conduct a search using specialized processes for email recovery. OAG 06-ORD-022.

Although a county board of education violated KRS 61.880(1) in failing to cite the applicable statutory exception and briefly explain how the exception applied to the records of policies relating to the reemployment of substitute teachers and the employment of retired teachers, the board properly redacted the contact information of substitute teachers. OAG 06-ORD-036.

Regional jail violated the Open Records Act in failing to respond to an open records request for copies of records concerning visits made to the requester by his attorney at the jail. OAG 06-ORD-037.

Open records appeal is not the appropriate forum for adjudication of requester's claim of willful concealment of public records. OAG 06-ORD-042.

61.882. Jurisdiction of Circuit Court in action seeking right of inspection — Burden of proof — Costs — Attorney fees.

(1) The Circuit Court of the county where the public agency has its principal place of business or the Circuit Court of the county where the public record is maintained shall have jurisdiction to enforce the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884, by injunction or other appropriate order on application of any person.

(2) A person alleging a violation of the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 shall not have to exhaust his remedies under KRS 61.880 before filing suit in a Circuit Court.

(3) In an appeal of an Attorney General's decision, where the appeal is properly filed pursuant to KRS 61.880(5)(a), the court shall determine the matter de novo. In an original action or an appeal of an Attorney General's decision, where the appeal is properly filed pursuant to KRS 61.880(5)(a), the burden of proof shall be on the public agency. The court on its own motion, or on motion of either of the parties, may view the records in controversy in camera before reaching a decision. Any noncompliance with the order of the court may be punished as contempt of court.

(4) Except as otherwise provided by law or rule of court, proceedings arising under this section take precedence on the docket over all other causes and shall be assigned for hearing and trial at the earliest practicable date.

(5) Any person who prevails against any agency in any action in the courts regarding a violation of KRS 61.870 to 61.884 may, upon a finding that the records were willfully withheld in violation of KRS 61.870 to 61.884, be awarded costs, including reasonable attorney's fees, incurred in connection with the legal action. If such person prevails in part, the court may in its discretion award him costs or an appropriate portion thereof. In addition, it shall be within the discretion of the court to award the person an amount not to exceed twenty-five dollars ($25) for each day that he was denied the right to inspect or copy said public record. Attorney's fees, costs, and awards under this subsection shall be paid by the agency that the court determines is responsible for the violation.

1. Assessment of Costs.

Where city acted under authority of law in withholding requested police department files rather than having done so in willful violation of the law, assessment of costs and reasonable attorneys' fees in favor of appellees under subsection (5) of the section necessarily failed. Louisville v. Courier-Journal & Louisville Times Co., 637 S.W.2d 658, 1982 Ky. App. LEXIS 232 (Ky. Ct. App. 1982).

An inmate was entitled to an award of costs where the Department of Corrections improperly denied the inmate access to records pertaining to a disciplinary proceeding against him. Blair v. Hendricks, 30 S.W.3d 802, 2000 Ky. App. LEXIS 69 (Ky. Ct. App. 2000), overruled in part, Lang v. Sapp, 71 S.W.3d 133, 2002 Ky. App. LEXIS 452 (Ky. Ct. App. 2002).

2. Standing to Contest Agency Decision.

A party affected by the decision of a public agency to release records pursuant to the Kentucky Open Records Act had standing to contest the agency decision in court where the disclosure of information in the public record would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Beckham v. Board of Educ., 873 S.W.2d 575, 1994 Ky. LEXIS 22 (Ky. 1994).

3. Response.

Where county attorney did not attempt to establish that disclosure of records relating to child support payments requested by attorney representing father of minor child would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, and where county attorney did not reference relevant state or federal law barring disclosure or explain its application to the disputed records, county attorney's response failed to conform to KRS 61.880(2)(c) and subsection (3) of this section. Edmondson v. Alig, 926 S.W.2d 856, 1996 Ky. App. LEXIS 124 (Ky. Ct. App. 1996).

Since emails between a city mayor and the city council members were preliminary discussions concerning what course of action to take with respect to a financial controversy regarding a local convention center, they were within the exemption from disclosure of the Open Records Act pursuant to KRS 61.878(1), and a city and the mayor were not liable for willfully withholding records under KRS 61.882(5). Baker v. Jones, 199 S.W.3d 749, 2006 Ky. App. LEXIS 12 (Ky. Ct. App. 2006).

4. Fines.

An inmate was properly denied the discretionary fine provided for in the statute in connection with the Department of Correction's denial of access to records of a disciplinary proceeding against him where there was no proof that the department's actions were willful or that the failure damaged the inmate in any way, and it appeared that the department merely made a good faith denial of records. Blair v. Hendricks, 30 S.W.3d 802, 2000 Ky. App. LEXIS 69 (Ky. Ct. App. 2000), overruled in part, Lang v. Sapp, 71 S.W.3d 133, 2002 Ky. App. LEXIS 452 (Ky. Ct. App. 2002).

Circuit court's award of attorney's fees and costs to the newspapers was affirmed where substantial evidence supported the finding of willfulness under Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.882(5), and the circuit court properly interpreted the statute to permit an award of up to $25 per day for each particular record that an agency improperly and willfully withheld. Cabinet for Health & Family Servs. v. Courier-Journal, Inc., 493 S.W.3d 375, 2016 Ky. App. LEXIS 18 (Ky. Ct. App. 2016).

Court of Appeals of Kentucky cannot agree that the General Assembly's mere use of the word "person" in Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 61.882(5) demonstrated so clear an intent that penalties be imposed on a per person basis as to show the trial court's reading unreasonable or erroneous. Cabinet for Health & Family Servs. v. Courier-Journal, Inc., 493 S.W.3d 375, 2016 Ky. App. LEXIS 18 (Ky. Ct. App. 2016).

5. In Camera Inspection.

Where a teacher's open records request to view videotape recordings of her own classroom was denied on grounds this would violate the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), 20 USCS § 1232g, and the Kentucky Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (KFERPA), KRS 160.700 et seq., the Circuit Court properly denied her request to view the tapes in camera since this would have rendered the entire controversy void. Medley v. Bd. of Educ., 168 S.W.3d 398, 2004 Ky. App. LEXIS 305 (Ky. Ct. App. 2004).

University violated the Kentucky Open Records Act because it refused to allow the Attorney General (AG) to review redacted records requested by the student newspaper; the refusal made the AG's review of the matter impossible, leaving the AG with no alternative but to decide that the university had release the records to the newspaper. Kernel Press, Inc. v. Univ. of Ky., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 92 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 905 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019).

6. Attorney Fees.

Where a senator sought attorney billing statements prepared by nongovernmental lawyers retained by a Governor's administration in connection with an investigation of its hiring practices, it was error to award attorney fees to the senator. Because the attorney-client privilege was favored to be a valid exception to at least a portion of the records, and because the trial court's solution of allowing documents the administration believed to be privileged to be reviewed in camera appeared to be novel, it could not be said that the administration willfully withheld records. Commonwealth v. Scorsone, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 18 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 18, 2008), op. withdrawn, sub. op., 251 S.W.3d 328, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 40 (Ky. Ct. App. 2008).

Former medical resident student did not establish that a university's initial decision to withhold records from her was done willfully, particularly when there was evidence that university officials were not aware that the other documents existed, and once they learned of the other records, they produced them to the student; also the student could not recover the requested attorney's fees and costs. Shyamashree Sinha v. Univ. of Ky., 284 S.W.3d 159, 2008 Ky. App. LEXIS 375 (Ky. Ct. App. 2008).

Newspaper was entitled to fees, costs, and sanctions due to a city's total refusal to furnish even previously released materials. The trial court's failure to make such an award was an abuse of discretion. Cincinnati Enquirer v. City of Fort Thomas, 2011 Ky. App. LEXIS 202 (Ky. Ct. App. Oct. 21, 2011).

Matter was remanded to the circuit court for a supplemental award of attorney's fees and costs incurred on appeal; under KRS 61.882(5), upon a showing of a willful withholding, the reporters were entitled to any fees and costs incurred with the legal action, which would include fees and costs incurred in defending the judgment on appeal. Commonwealth v. Lexington H-L Servs., 382 S.W.3d 875, 2012 Ky. App. LEXIS 216 (Ky. Ct. App. 2012).

When it was determined that a city erroneously denied a newspaper's request for a police department's entire file in a murder case, it was not an abuse of discretion to deny the newspaper's request for fees and costs because, inter alia, the city had a plausible, if erroneous, justification for denying the newspaper's request. City of Fort Thomas v. Cincinnati Enquirer, 406 S.W.3d 842, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 375 (Ky. 2013).

When it was determined that a city erroneously denied a newspaper's request for a police department's entire file in a murder case, it was not an abuse of discretion to deny the newspaper's request for fees and costs, even when a prosecutor had previously disclosed part of the file to a television station, because (1) the city was not required to research whether another agency had previously disclosed part of the file, (2) the part disclosed was a very small part of the records requested, (3) the newspaper did not specify this part of the file, and (4) this part of the file was disclosed before the Attorney General opined that disclosure was required. City of Fort Thomas v. Cincinnati Enquirer, 406 S.W.3d 842, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 375 (Ky. 2013).

Circuit court properly dismissed a city's complaint against a petitioner and awarded him attorney's fees and statutory penalties because the city and its ethics commission wrongfully withheld public records from the petitioner without a good faith basis or plausible justification, they continued in a pattern of improperly denying and delaying the petitioner's exercise of rights under the Open Records Act, and, while the commission was the entity that withheld the documents, it was merely a division of the city. City of Taylorsville Ethics Comm'n v. Trageser, 604 S.W.3d 305, 2020 Ky. App. LEXIS 73 (Ky. Ct. App. 2020).

Where the Legislative Research Commission (LRC) erred in denying an open records request regarding a complaint made by an LRC staffer against a representative, attorneys fees under statute were properly awarded. Hartz v. McClatchy Co., LLC, 643 S.W.3d 286, 2022 Ky. App. LEXIS 10 (Ky. Ct. App. 2022).

7. Access Improperly Denied.

Where a school district employee settled her lawsuit against one school district for sexual harassment by a district official and a second lawsuit against another district for allegedly wrongfully failing to hire her, the lower courts erred in denying a newspaper's request for access to the settlement agreements under the Kentucky Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 to 61.884, because the settlement of litigation between a government agency and one of its employees and a private citizen and a governmental entity were matters of legitimate public concern that the public is entitled to scrutinize. A confidentiality clause in such agreements was not entitled to protection. Cent. Ky. News-Journal v. George, 306 S.W.3d 41, 2010 Ky. LEXIS 72 (Ky. 2010).

8. Willfulness.

Whether the assessment of penalties will have any coercive effect is not a proper consideration under KRS 61.882(5); rather, the only basis upon which penalties may be awarded is a finding that the officials' noncompliance with the Kentucky Open Records Act was willful. Even though the trial court erred by making this improper consideration, a reversal was not warranted because an inmate requesting certain records waived the right to contest the error where he did not raise the issue of willfulness. Eplion v. Burchett, 354 S.W.3d 598, 2011 Ky. App. LEXIS 215 (Ky. Ct. App. 2011).

It was not clearly erroneous to award a newspaper attorney's fees, costs, and penalties for a violation of the Open Records Act by the Cabinet for Health and Family Services (Cabinet) because, by first denying the requested records existed, the Cabinet acted willfully. Cabinet v. Todd Cnty. Std., 488 S.W.3d 1, 2015 Ky. App. LEXIS 171 (Ky. Ct. App. 2015).

Circuit court properly award a newspaper penalties and attorney's fees because the Cabinet for Economic Development had no legal basis for denying the names of a private company's shareholders after the company disclosed them. Commonwealth v. Courier-Journal, Inc., 2019 Ky. App. LEXIS 90 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019, sub. op., 2019 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 633 (Ky. Ct. App. May 17, 2019).

9. Harm.

Nothing in the Kentucky Open Records Act conditions an individual's right to obtain public records on his purpose in seeking those records; further, the propriety of assessing a penalty against non-compliant officials does not depend on whether harm befell the person who is denied records under KRS 61.882(5). Therefore, the fact that an inmate might not have been harmed by the failure to disclose jail records was irrelevant. Eplion v. Burchett, 354 S.W.3d 598, 2011 Ky. App. LEXIS 215 (Ky. Ct. App. 2011).

10. Construction.

General Assembly mandated the non-disclosure of exempt records, a mandate the person or entity whose interest the exemption protects may seek to enforce in the circuit court; disclosure of an exempt record is not precluded if the intended beneficiaries waive their right to non-disclosure, and the statutory mandate that prosecutorial files be and remain totally exempt accords the prosecutor an unlimited discretion to deny disclosure, but it does not preclude him or her from allowing it. Lawson v. Office of the AG, 415 S.W.3d 59, 2013 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 2013).

11. Against Agency.

Lawsuit should not have been filed against an attorney for the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet based on an allegation that there was a failure to respond in 3 days because the Kentucky General Assembly intended suits based on violations of the Kentucky Open Records Act, including the time provisions at issue here, to be brought against the state agencies themselves and not against the individuals employed by those agencies. Taylor v. Maxson, 483 S.W.3d 852, 2016 Ky. App. LEXIS 15 (Ky. Ct. App. 2016).

12. Immunity.

In a case under the Kentucky Open Records Act, a claim against an attorney for the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet in his official capacity was properly dismissed because the Commonwealth had not waived its immunity. The suit against the attorney in his official capacity was essentially a suit against the Cabinet. Taylor v. Maxson, 483 S.W.3d 852, 2016 Ky. App. LEXIS 15 (Ky. Ct. App. 2016).

13. Judicial Review.

Trial court had jurisdiction to review the decision of the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission (LRC) regarding a newspaper's request for legislative records because (1) the court's statutory jurisdiction was not limited to records requests or cases where the LRC issued no decision in 30 days, and (2) the Open Records Act's statutory judicial review right was incorporated into the governing statute. Harilson v. Shepherd, 585 S.W.3d 748, 2019 Ky. LEXIS 380 (Ky. 2019).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Under this section if an agency does not comply with an Attorney General Opinion upholding a request for inspection and does not take affirmative action to have the opinion declared erroneous, the circuit court may enhance the penalties and damages if the court finds that the agency was wrong. OAG 77-511.

The statements made and data furnished by persons applying to be recognized as in-state residents for the purpose of tuition at a state university are not exempt from inspection under KRS 61.878(1)(a), since subsection (4) of this section indicates that the basic policy is to allow free and open examination of public records and to strictly construe exceptions to that policy, and also because the public interest in the administration of the policy on classification of students for fee assessment purposes outweighs the privacy rights of the individuals who have applied for classification as in-state residents. OAG 80-352.

Records which disclose the names of persons who are inmates of the county jail are not exempt from public disclosure under the personal privacy exemption of subsection (1)(a) of KRS 61.878 since it is contrary to the principles of personal liberty for persons to be secretly held in jail and the embarrassment caused to them or to members of their family is of secondary importance; moreover, the strict construction rule contained in subsection (4) of this section requires disclosure regardless of inconvenience or embarrassment caused to anyone. OAG 81-395.

When a public records dispute is taken to court, the burden of proof is on the public agency to sustain its action. Thus, a public agency should make every attempt to comply with the letter and spirit of the Open Records Act. Every legitimate request, not covered by a statutory exemption, should be complied with as quickly and courteously as possible; the availability of the records should be subject to no more restrictions than are necessary to protect the records and to avoid unduly disrupting the agency's operations. OAG 85-85.

The General Assembly has vested the circuit courts with authority overriding that of the Attorney General in determining open records questions; it would be improper for the Attorney General to attempt to substantively determine an open records question when the same question is before a circuit court. OAG 88-78.

Balancing the privacy interests of the parties to a settlement against the public's right of access to a written out-of-court settlement where a public agency is a party to that settlement, and measured by the standards of a reasonable man, the public's right of disclosure outweighs the privacy interests which might be identified. OAG 91-20.

Certainly if city funds are expended that would weigh heavily toward public disclosure in balancing the privacy interests of those involved in a suit against the city, and the public's right to know. OAG 91-20.

Litigants frequently document in writing the terms of settlements, and they are seldom "generated for" or "received by" the trial court, and settlement records of this nature are not court records and are therefore within the scope of the Act. OAG 91-20.

This Act must be strictly construed in favor of disclosure, and the parties' understanding of confidentiality will not be binding on the courts. OAG 91-20.

When settlement records are prepared, they will be subject to public inspection and must be made available to the requesting party unless the trial court orders that the parties keep the terms confidential, and in such an event, the requesting party remedy is to intervene in the suit, and move to reverse that order. OAG 91-20.

Where with respect to request for financial data although department improperly relied on KRS 61.878(1)(b) in refusing to release the information, the request was not sufficiently definite to permit it to formulate a response for while the purpose and intent of the Open Records Act is to permit the free and open examination of public records, the right of access is not absolute; as a precondition to inspection, a requesting party must identify with "reasonable particularity" those documents which he wishes to review. OAG 91-72.

A "standing request" for all documents compiled by the Hardin County Schools for use by the board may properly be denied on the grounds that it fails to reasonably identify the records sought. While the purpose and intent of the Open Records Act is to permit the "free and open examination of public records," the right of access is not absolute. As a pre-condition to inspection, a requesting party must identify with "reasonable particularity" those documents which he wishes to review. OAG 91-78.

This section does not specify the mode or method by which a written request must be made and it is intended to circumvent disputes relative to the identity of the records requested, and not to create additional obstacles to the release of those records; therefore, a fax transmission satisfies this purpose. OAG 92-13.

Inmate mistakenly asserted that he must be afforded access to nonconfidential documents before he identified those documents; accordingly, the Attorney General opined that inmate must identify the specific documents that he wishes to inspect. OAG 92-56.

Mere invocation of an exception and reference to prior opinions, without an adequate explanation of how the exception applies or the opinions are relevant, does not satisfy the burden of proof imposed on the agency under KRS 61.880(2) and subsection (3) of this section. OAG 92-ORD-1020.

Mere invocation of a statutory exception to the release of records and reference to prior opinions, without an adequate explanation of how the exception applies or the opinions are relevant, does not satisfy the burden of proof imposed on the agency under subsection (3) of this section and KRS 61.880(2). OAG 93-ORD-43.

The purpose and intent of the Open Records Act is to permit "the free and open examination of public records." 95-ORD-2.

Travel expense records do not, in general, disclose communications by the client or attorney in relation to the specific matter for which the attorney was retained, and where there has been little or no effort to insure confidentiality in the handling of the records, or to protect the information contained therein from general disclosure, the assertion of attorney/client privilege fails to protect such records from public inspection. OAG 95-ORD-18.

This section is not a remedy for denial of access only; it also provides standing for a party who may possess a right to have documents excluded to assert that right; however, the government must continue to comply with the procedural requirements of KRS 61.880(1) so that the aggrieved party may act in a timely manner. OAG 98-ORD-24.

The burden of proof in sustaining public agency action in the event of an appeal to the Attorney General, or to the Circuit Court, is on the agency. OAG 99-ORD-36.

Open records appeal is not the appropriate forum for adjudication of requester's claim of willful concealment of public records. OAG 06-ORD-042.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Analysis

1. Applicability.
2. Construction.

1. Applicability.

Other than the exception found at KRS 197.025, the open records laws identify no class or type of persons, even prisoners, who are held to a more stringent standard when submitting open records requests. This presumption in favor of broad availability of public records is even stronger when a person, like an inmate, seeks access to public records pertaining to himself, under KRS 61.884; the Department of Corrections bears the burden to rebut the strong presumption in favor of disclosure. Commonwealth v. Chestnut, 250 S.W.3d 655, 2008 Ky. LEXIS 116 (Ky. 2008).

2. Construction.

Notwithstanding that this section allows any person to have access to any public record relating to him or in which he is mentioned by name, a citizen was not entitled to a copy of a tape recording of a 911 call reporting that the citizen had threatened to kill his own wife and other members of his family, as the disclosure of such recording would have constituted a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy of the 911 caller in violation of KRS 61.878. Bowling v. Brandenburg, 37 S.W.3d 785, 2000 Ky. App. LEXIS 22 (Ky. Ct. App. 2000).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Under this section a person is entitled to inspect a document in which he is mentioned unless it is exempt under the provisions of the Open Records Law. OAG 79-128.

University officials properly withheld inspection of the personnel file of the requester, which included letters of evaluation by faculty members, because the university was entitled to protect the privacy of the faculty members who wrote the letters of evaluation and because the letters contained preliminary recommendations and preliminary memoranda in which opinions were expressed; such faculty letters were exempt from inspection under KRS 61.878(1)(a) and (h). OAG 82-204.

The qualifying clause at the end of this section means that a public agency is entitled to withhold from a person a record in which he is mentioned if the record comes under one of the exemptions from mandatory public disclosure in KRS 61.878. OAG 82-211.

A comprehensive care center does not have to comply with a request for a copy of records by the person who is the subject of the records and who is a minor or who has been legally adjudged incompetent, but if the person is a competent adult he is entitled to have a copy of the records. The center may charge him a reasonable fee per page for a copy of the record which shall not exceed the actual cost thereof not including the cost of staff required. OAG 82-414.

Requester was entitled to inspect records of State Board of Medical Licensure in which he was mentioned by name and which were not made exempt under KRS 61.878(1). OAG 83-60.

A person who previously attended a police academy is entitled to inspect and obtain a copy of his transcript of grades received at the academy even though he did not graduate from the academy. OAG 83-108.

Suspended student had the right, under this section and KRS 164.283, to inspect his transcript as it related to the classes he had taken while at the University and the grades received therefor. OAG 83-332.

Suspended student had the right to have a tape or transcript of any part of the disciplinary hearing which pertained to him and to documents relating to other disciplinary proceedings involving him. OAG 83-332.

Suspended student had the right of access to copies of all documents regarding financial aid agreements between him and the University since they pertained to his financial status at the University. OAG 83-332.

Documents pertaining to student's suspension were open to inspection by him, except documents which contained preliminary drafts, notes, correspondence with private individuals or preliminary recommendations and memoranda in which opinions were expressed or policies formulated or recommended, which could be properly exempted from his inspection; any complaints against him were also open to his inspection as were any written decisions by the disciplinary board. OAG 83-332.

Witness statements that were referred to during grand jury testimony on official misconduct were preliminary documents in police investigative files that were exempt from inspection under KRS 61.878(g) and (h), even after the charges were dropped; the preliminary status of the statements exempted them from inspection even by a person who was mentioned in the statements since this section is subject to the KRS 61.878 exemptions. OAG 84-249.

While this section provides that any person shall have access to any public record relating to him or in which he is mentioned by name, it is subject to the provisions and exemptions set forth in KRS 61.878. OAG 85-69.

The denial of a request to inspect the complete institutional file of an inmate was proper, as requests to inspect personnel files must specify the particular documents within such files to be inspected. OAG 85-88.

The State Police had the authority to withhold from public inspection pursuant to subdivision (1)(h) of KRS 61.878 a document in the nature of an intraoffice memorandum, from employees to a supervisor setting forth their opinions of a fellow employee, when that memorandum has neither "spawned" an investigation nor served as the basis for any kind of personnel action involving the employee mentioned in the memorandum. OAG 86-53.

The right to inspect public records under this section would not apply if the records consist of the materials set forth in subdivision (1)(f) of KRS 61.878. OAG 86-81.

The Department for Social Services acted properly when it refused to make available for inspection to the alleged perpetrator of child abuse the names of informants and those portions of the statements of a judge and an informant wherein those parties set forth personal opinions, observations, and recommendations not related to the child abuse investigation and the findings resulting from that investigation. OAG 87-82.

A county property valuation administrator failed to act consistently with the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.882 and this section in failing to respond in writing to a verbal request for access to records, and in responding to a written request by forwarding it to another agency. OAG 89-40.

Any records which refer to defendant by name or nickname, and were properly characterized as attorney work product, may be withheld, the conclusion of criminal proceedings notwithstanding. OAG 91-214.

The absence of statutory language making background investigation reports confidential, coupled with the express language in this section and in KRS 61.878(3) mandating that any person shall have access to any public record relating to him, supports the conclusion that the Kentucky State Police acted improperly in denying request from an applicant of the State Police cadet trooper class to review the background investigation reports. OAG 95-ORD-84.

The release of records under this section is subject to the provisions of KRS 61.878. OAG 99-ORD-60.

A training center did not violate KRS 61.884 by not releasing a copy of an inmate's entire prison file either to the inmate or his attorney of record as some portions of the file were exempt from disclosure under various exemptions of KRS 61.878. OAG 00-ORD-190.

Since the case notes of the parolee's visits with his parole officer were prepared as a result of the officer's official duties, these records, pursuant to KRS 439.510, would be exempt from disclosure and may be properly denied under an Open Records Request pursuant to KRS 61.878(1)(l). OAG 02-ORD-51.

Although KRS 61.884 provides that a person is entitled to inspect records concerning himself, the exemptions contained in KRS 61.878 take priority over KRS 61.884. By its own language, KRS 61.884 is subject to the provisions of KRS 61.878, and KRS 61.878(1)(h) exempts records of law enforcement agencies or agencies involved in administrative adjudication from public disclosure where the records identify informants or would harm an agency by their premature release. OAG 02-ORD-77.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Airport safety and security officers have all of the powers and authority enumerated for special law enforcement officers in KRS 61.900 to KRS 61.926, in addition to those powers enumerated in KRS 183.881, since subsection (6)(e) of this section includes public airport authority security officers in its definition of "special law enforcement officer." OAG 81-396.

Since a water district is a unit of government (a special district), it may apply to the Secretary of the Justice Cabinet for the commissioning of a special law-enforcement officer to protect and enforce the law on the public property of the water district. OAG 84-242.

61.902. Appointment of special law enforcement officers by secretary.

(1) The secretary of the Justice and Public Safety Cabinet may commission special law enforcement officers, for such time as he or she deems necessary, to protect and to enforce the law on public property.

(2) Notwithstanding subsection (1) of this section, in the case of a special law enforcement officer employed as a school resource officer, the commission shall be for four (4) years, provided the officer continues to meet all statutory and regulatory requirements.

(3) Upon application of a unit or agency of state, county, city or metropolitan government, the secretary may appoint those persons recommended by the unit or agency who satisfy the requirements of KRS 61.900 to 61.930.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 3, effective January 1, 1977; 2007, ch. 85, § 133, effective June 26, 2007; 2020 ch. 5, § 7, effective February 21, 2020.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A county board of education, as a unit of the state government, would not be required to file an application to have any of its employees commissioned as special law enforcement officers, but any security guards who are not commissioned would possess no more powers than a citizen. OAG 76-676.

“Special law enforcement officers” may not be appointed pursuant to this section to guard patients being transported by ambulance from a forensic psychiatry unit to a public hospital for emergency medical treatment, since this section covers the appointment of guards for public real property, but not for public personalty, nor can guards be appointed pursuant to KRS 61.924, since that section only allows special officers to use emergency vehicles within the premises of public property or in pursuit of a person fleeing such property after committing a felony or misdemeanor. OAG 81-125.

61.904. Administration — Administrative regulations — Employees.

KRS 61.900 to 61.930 shall be administered by the secretary, or by any agency within the cabinet designated by the secretary and acting under his authority. The secretary shall promulgate and enforce such administrative regulations as may be reasonable and necessary to carry out the provisions of KRS 61.900 to 61.930. The secretary may appoint such employees, and delegate such duties to the same, as he or she, in his or her sound discretion, deems appropriate.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 4, effective January 1, 1977; 2007, ch. 85, § 134, effective June 26, 2007.

61.906. Requirements for appointment.

In order to qualify for a commission as a special law enforcement officer under KRS 61.900 to 61.930, an individual must present satisfactory evidence of compliance with the following conditions and requirements:

(1) No person shall be eligible for a commission who:

(a) Has been dishonorably discharged from the Armed Forces of the United States;

(b) Has been convicted in any jurisdiction of any felony or of any crime involving moral turpitude for which he or she has not received a full pardon;

(c) Has been convicted of any other offense or offenses more than five (5) times within the previous three (3) years;

(d) Has by any court of competent jurisdiction been declared mentally disabled by reason of an intellectual disability or disease and has not been restored; or

(e) Suffers from habitual drunkenness or from narcotics addiction or dependence, or from any physical defect or deficiency which the secretary determines to materially impair the applicant's ability to perform the duties of a special law enforcement officer.

(2) Every person to be eligible for a commission shall:

(a) Have reached his or her twenty-first birthday;

(b) Provide, on forms supplied by the secretary, such information pertaining to himself as may reasonably be requested thereon, including, but not limited to his: name; age; date of birth; current address and employment; prior addresses and employment for the past ten (10) years; aliases, if any; arrest and conviction record, if any; Social Security number; fingerprints; photographs; and general physical description. The accuracy of such information shall be attested by the applicant and his or her attestation shall be notarized by one authorized to administer oaths;

(c) Be of good moral character;

(d) Provide references from two (2) reputable individuals who are not related to him or her and who have known him or her well for a period of not less than three (3) years, attesting to his or her good character;

(e) Pay the fees provided in KRS 61.908; and

(f) Provide evidence satisfactory to the secretary that he or she meets the following requirements:

1. Is a graduate of an accredited high school or of an equivalent technical or vocational training or education program satisfactory to the secretary; or holds a High School Equivalency Diploma; provided, however, that all special local peace officers formally commissioned under KRS 61.360 and with unexpired commissions on December 31, 1976, shall be deemed to have met the requirements of this subsection;

2. Has successfully completed not fewer than eighty (80) hours of training in a program approved by the council and dealing comprehensively with the subjects of criminal law and the law of arrest, search and seizure; or has been employed as a full-time sworn public peace officer for a period of not less than one (1) year within the past five (5) years, and has never been discharged for cause from employment as a sworn public peace officer; or has been employed in a full-time capacity as a military policeman engaged in law enforcement for the United States Armed Forces for a period of not less than one (1) year within the past five (5) years; or has successfully completed a written, oral and practical examination approved by the council and dealing comprehensively with the subject matter of criminal law and the law of arrest, search and seizure; and

3. Demonstrates, in written and practical examinations approved by the council, knowledge of and proficiency in firearms safety, range firing, the moral and legal aspects of firearms use, and first aid. Compiler's Notes.

This section was amended by § 48 of Acts 1980, ch. 396, which would have taken effect July 1, 1982; however, Acts 1982, ch. 141, § 146, effective July 1, 1982, repealed Acts 1980, ch. 396.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

All special local peace officers formally commissioned under KRS 61.360 and with unexpired commissions on December 31, 1976 were not required to meet the requirements of subdivision (2)(f)(ii) (now (2)(f)(2)). OAG 76-723.

“Special law enforcement officers” may not be appointed pursuant to KRS 61.902 to guard patients being transported by ambulance from a forensic psychiatry unit to a public hospital for emergency medical treatment, since KRS 61.902 covers the appointment of guards for public real property, but not for public personalty, nor can guards be appointed pursuant to this section, since it only allows special officers to use emergency vehicles within the premises of public property or in pursuit of a person fleeing such property after committing a felony or misdemeanor. OAG 81-125.

61.908. Fees.

The following fees shall be required with respect to applications, examinations, and training for commissions:

- (1) With the initial application, a fee of twenty-five dollars ($25);
- (2) With application for renewal, a fee of twenty-five dollars ($25);
- (3) Prior to any written examination approved by the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council, a fee of fifteen dollars ($15);
- (4) Prior to any practical examinations on firearms proficiency approved by the council, a fee of twenty dollars ($20); and
- (5) Prior to any training program approved by the council for special law enforcement officers, a reasonable fee as determined by the secretary to cover the cost of training;

(6) All funds received by the cabinet as fees pursuant to this section shall be available for use by the secretary in administering the provisions of KRS 61.900 to 61.930, and any excess funds not expended at the end of the fiscal year shall revert to the general fund.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 6, effective January 1, 1977.

61.910. Revocation or suspension of commission.

The secretary shall revoke or suspend the commission of any special law enforcement officer whenever he shall determine:

- (1) That the commission-holder does not meet, or no longer meets, the requirements and conditions for the commission; or
- (2) That the commission-holder has knowingly falsified an application or portion thereof, or has made any knowingly false or misleading statement of a material fact to the secretary or any of his delegates, agents or officers; or
- (3) That the commission-holder has violated: any provision of KRS 61.900 to 61.930; or any rule, regulations or order of the secretary; or any law of the Commonwealth or of the United States, the violation of which the secretary determines to bear a reasonable relationship to eligibility for the commission.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 7, effective January 1, 1977.

61.912. Power of arrest.

Any duly commissioned special law enforcement officer shall, while performing law enforcement duties upon the public property he or she is hired to protect, be empowered to arrest:

- (1) Persons committing, in his or her presence and upon the public property he or she is hired to protect, any misdemeanor, any traffic violation, or any other violation as defined by KRS 500.080;
- (2) Provided there exists probable cause to believe a felony has been committed upon the premises he or she is hired to protect, any person whom the officer reasonably and actually believes to have committed such felony upon the public property.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 8, effective January 1, 1977; 2022 ch. 151, § 18, effective July 14, 2022.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Jefferson County special law enforcement officers employed as security for the County's Hall of Justice do not have arrest powers to execute all types of warrants in the Hall of Justice; moreover, even though KRS 61.926 designates special law enforcement officers as peace officers, this does not invest them with the broad authority of what might be termed “general law enforcement officers” for that designation expressly relates only to KRS 527.020, regarding authority to carry concealed a deadly weapon on or about one's person and such designation for purposes of KRS 527.020, does not overcome or broaden the specific terms of authority set out in this section, KRS 61.914, and 61.920 giving such officers power to execute all types of warrants in the Hall of Justice. OAG 91-65.

61.914. Other powers.

Duly commissioned special law enforcement officers shall have the power to issue tickets for parking violations committed upon the public property in their presence and the power of peace officers under KRS 431.015 to issue citations for misdemeanors, and other violations as defined by KRS 500.080, committed in their presence upon the public property.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 9, effective January 1, 1977; 2022 ch. 151, § 19, effective July 14, 2022.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Jefferson County special law enforcement officers employed as security for the County's Hall of Justice do not have arrest powers to execute all types of warrants in the Hall of Justice; moreover, even though KRS 61.926 designates special law enforcement officers as peace officers, this does not invest them with the broad authority of what might be termed "general law enforcement officers" for that designation expressly relates only to KRS 527.020, regarding authority to carry concealed a deadly weapon on or about one's person and such designation for purposes of KRS 527.020, does not overcome or broaden the specific terms of authority set out in this section, KRS 61.912 and 61.920 giving such officers power to execute all types of warrants in the Hall of Justice. OAG 91-65.

61.916. Use of deadly force to make an arrest.

A special law enforcement officer may, in the course of accomplishing any lawful arrest for a felony committed upon the public property as herein provided, use and apply that force which he believes is necessary to make the arrest, except that he may only use deadly force to make such an arrest if:

- (1) The officer, in making the arrest, is authorized to act as a special law enforcement officer; and
- (2) The arrest is for a felony involving the use or threatened use of physical force likely to cause death or serious physical injury; and
- (3) The officer believes that the person to be arrested is likely to endanger human life unless arrested without delay.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 10, effective January 1, 1977.

61.918. Use of force less than deadly force.

A special law enforcement officer may, in the course of accomplishing any lawful arrest for a criminal offense other than a felony committed upon the public property as herein provided, use and apply that force, less than deadly force, which he believes is necessary to make the arrest.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 11, effective January 1, 1977.

61.920. Area of jurisdiction of special officer.

The powers and duties of special law enforcement officers shall be confined to the premises of the public property to be protected, except while in pursuit of a person fleeing from the property after committing any felony or misdemeanor, other than traffic violations, on the property. In such case the officer may pursue the person and make arrest anywhere within this state. In the course of making a lawful arrest for a felony after such pursuit, he may use and apply that force which he believes is necessary to make the arrest, except that he may only use deadly force in making such an arrest if the conditions specified in KRS 61.916 are satisfied. In the course of making a lawful arrest for a criminal offense other than a felony after such pursuit, he may use and apply that force, less than deadly force, which he believes is necessary to make the arrest.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 12, effective January 1, 1977.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Jefferson County special law enforcement officers employed as security for the County's Hall of Justice do not have arrest powers to execute all types of warrants in the Hall of Justice; moreover, even though KRS 61.926 designates special law enforcement officers as peace officers, this does not invest them with the broad authority of what might be termed "general law enforcement officers" for that designation expressly relates only to KRS 527.020, regarding authority to carry concealed a deadly weapon on or about one's person and such designation for purposes of KRS 527.020, does not overcome or broaden the specific terms of authority set out in KRS 61.912, 61.914, and this section giving such officers power to execute all types of warrants in the Hall of Justice. OAG 91-65.

61.922. Construction.

Nothing in KRS 61.900 to 61.930 shall be construed as being in derogation of the common law, or of any statute of the Commonwealth, pertaining to:

- (1) Arrest by a private citizen; or
- (2) In any civil or criminal case, the defenses of protection of self, protection of another, protection of property, prevention of a suicide or crime and any other applicable justification defense set forth in KRS Chapter 503.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 13, effective January 1, 1977.

61.924. Use of public emergency vehicles.

Duly commissioned special law enforcement officers shall have the right to use and operate public emergency vehicles in accordance with KRS 189.910 through 189.993.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 14, effective January 1, 1977.

61.926. Special officers designated peace officers — Authorization to carry a concealed deadly weapon.

Special law enforcement officers duly commissioned under KRS 61.900 to 61.930 shall be deemed "peace officers" within the meaning of KRS 527.020 and shall be authorized to carry a concealed deadly weapon on or about their persons when necessary for their protection in the discharge of their official duties.

History.

Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 15, effective January 1, 1977.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Jefferson County special law enforcement officers employed as security for the County's Hall of Justice do not have arrest powers to execute all types of warrants in the Hall of Justice; moreover, even though this section designates special law enforcement officers as peace officers, this does not invest them with the broad authority of what might be termed "general law enforcement officers" for that designation expressly relates only to KRS 527.020, regarding authority to carry concealed a deadly weapon on or about one's person and such designation for purposes of KRS 527.020, does not overcome or broaden the specific terms of authority set out in KRS 61.912, 61.914, and 61.920 giving such officers power to execute all types of warrants in the Hall of Justice. OAG 91-65.

61.928. Revocation of existing commissions — Issuance of new commissions. [Repealed.]

Compiler's Notes.

This section (Enact. Acts 1976, ch. 178, § 16) was repealed by Acts 1978, ch. 383, § 3, effective June 17, 1978.

61.930. Citation of act.

KRS 61.900 to 61.926 may be cited as "The Special Law Enforcement Officer Act."

History.

61.9305. Working group on facial recognition technology — Members — Duties — Use policy requirements for law enforcement agencies that use facial recognition technology.

(b) "Law enforcement agency" means any:

1. Public agency that employs a police officer as defined in KRS 15.420 or a special law enforcement officer as defined in KRS 61.900;

(1/1/2015). 2014 Ky. Acts ch. 74, sec. 10 provided that "the provisions of this Act shall not impact the provisions of KRS 61.870 to 61.884." That proviso applies to this statute as created in Section 1 of that Act.

61.932. Personal information security and breach investigation procedures and practices for certain public agencies and nonaffiliated third parties.

(1)(a) An agency or nonaffiliated third party that maintains or otherwise possesses personal information, regardless of the form in which the personal information is maintained, shall implement, maintain, and update security procedures and practices, including taking any appropriate corrective action, to protect and safeguard against security breaches.

(b) Reasonable security and breach investigation procedures and practices established and implemented by organizational units of the executive branch of state government shall be in accordance with relevant enterprise policies established by the Commonwealth Office of Technology. Reasonable security and breach investigation procedures and practices established and implemented by units of government listed under KRS 61.931(1)(b) and (c) that are not organizational units of the executive branch of state government shall be in accordance with policies established by the Department for Local Government. The Department for Local Government shall consult with public entities as defined in KRS 65.310 in the development of policies establishing reasonable security and breach investigation procedures and practices for units of local government pursuant to this subsection. Reasonable security and breach investigation procedures and practices established and implemented by public school districts listed under KRS 61.931(1)(d) shall be in accordance with administrative regulations promulgated by the Kentucky Board of Education. Reasonable security and breach investigation procedures and practices established and implemented by educational entities listed under KRS 61.931(1)(e) shall be in accordance with policies established by the Council on Postsecondary Education. The Commonwealth Office of Technology shall, upon request of an agency, make available technical assistance for the establishment and implementation of reasonable security and breach investigation procedures and practices.

(c)1. If an agency is subject to any additional requirements under the Kentucky Revised Statutes or under federal law, protocols or agreements relating to the protection and privacy of personal information, the agency shall comply with these additional requirements, in addition to the requirements of KRS 61.931 to 61.934.

2. If a nonaffiliated third party is required by federal law or regulation to conduct security breach investigations or to make notifications of security breaches, or both, as a result of the nonaffiliated third party's unauthorized disclosure of one (1) or more data elements of personal information that is the same as one (1) or more of the data elements of personal information listed in KRS 61.931(6)(a) to (f), the nonaffiliated third party shall meet the requirements of KRS 61.931 to 61.934 by providing to the agency a copy of any and all reports and investigations relating to such security breach investigations or notifications that are required to be made by federal law or regulations. This subparagraph shall not apply if the security breach includes the unauthorized disclosure of data elements that are not covered by federal law or regulation but are listed in KRS 61.931(6)(a) to (f).

(2)(a) For agreements executed or amended on or after January 1, 2015, any agency that contracts with a nonaffiliated third party and that discloses personal information to the nonaffiliated third party shall require as part of that agreement that the nonaffiliated third party implement, maintain, and update security and breach investigation procedures that are appropriate to the nature of the information disclosed, that are at least as stringent as the security and breach investigation procedures and practices referenced in subsection (1)(b) of this section, and that are reasonably designed to protect the personal information from unauthorized access, use, modification, disclosure, manipulation, or destruction.

(b)1. A nonaffiliated third party that is provided access to personal information by an agency, or that collects and maintains personal information on behalf of an agency shall notify the agency in the most expedient time possible and without unreasonable delay but within seventy-two (72) hours of determination of a security breach relating to the personal information in the possession of the nonaffiliated third party. The notice to the agency shall include all information the nonaffiliated third party has with regard to the security breach at the time of notification. 2. The notice required by subparagraph 1. of this paragraph may be delayed if a law enforcement agency notifies the nonaffiliated third party that notification will impede a criminal investigation or jeopardize homeland or national security. If notice is delayed pursuant to this subparagraph, notification shall be given as soon as reasonably feasible by the nonaffiliated third party to the agency with which the nonaffiliated third party is contracting. The agency shall then record the notification in writing on a form developed by the Commonwealth Office of Technology that the notification will not impede a criminal investigation and will not jeopardize homeland or national security. The Commonwealth Office of Technology shall promulgate administrative regulations under KRS 61.931 to 61.934 regarding the content of the form.

In addition, an agency shall notify the secretary of the Finance and Administration Cabinet or his or her designee if an agency is an organizational unit of the executive branch of state government; notify the commissioner of the Department for Local Government if the agency is a unit of government listed in KRS 61.931(1)(b) or (c) that is not an organizational unit of the executive branch of state government; notify the commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Education if the agency is a public school district listed in KRS 61.931(1)(d); and notify the president of the Council on Postsecondary Education if the agency is an educational entity listed under KRS 61.931(1)(e). 1. If the agency determined that a security breach has occurred and that the misuse of personal information has occurred or is reasonably likely to occur, the agency shall:

b. Within thirty-five (35) days of providing the notifications required by subdivision a. of this subparagraph, notify all individuals impacted by the security breach as provided in subsection (2) of this section, unless the provisions of subsection (3) of this section apply; and

c. If the number of individuals to be notified exceeds one thousand (1,000), the agency shall notify, at least seven (7) days prior to providing notice to individuals under subdivision b. of this subparagraph, the Commonwealth Office of Technology if the agency is an organizational unit of the executive branch of state government, the Department for Local Government if the agency is a unit of government listed under KRS 61.931(1)(b) or (c) that is not an organizational unit of the executive branch of state government, the Kentucky Department of Education if the agency is a public school district listed under KRS 61.931(1)(d), or the Council on Postsecondary Education if the agency is an educational entity listed under KRS 61.931(1)(e); and notify all consumer credit reporting agencies included on the list maintained by the Office of the Attorney General that compile and maintain files on consumers on a nationwide basis, as defined in 15 U.S.C. sec. 1681a(p), of the timing, distribution, and content of the notice; or

2. If the agency determines that the misuse of personal information has not occurred and is not likely to occur, the agency is not required to give notice, but shall maintain records that reflect the basis for its decision for a retention period set by the State Archives and Records Commission as established by KRS 171.420. The agency shall notify the appropriate entities listed in paragraph (a)1. of this subsection that the misuse of personal information has not occurred.

(2)(a) The provisions of this subsection establish the requirements for providing notice to individuals under subsection (1)(b)1.b. of this section. Notice shall be provided as follows:

1. Conspicuous posting of the notice on the Web site of the agency;

2. Notification to regional or local media if the security breach is localized, and also to major statewide media if the security breach is widespread, including broadcast media, such as radio and television; and

3. Personal communication to individuals whose data has been breached using the method listed in subdivision a., b., or c. of this subparagraph that the agency believes is most likely to result in actual notification to those individuals, if the agency has the information available:

a. In writing, sent to the most recent address for the individual as reflected in the records of the agency;

b. By electronic mail, sent to the most recent electronic mail address for the individual as reflected in the records of the agency, unless the individual has communicated to the agency in writing that they do not want email notification; or

c. By telephone, to the most recent telephone number for the individual as reflected in the records of the agency.

(b) The notice shall be clear and conspicuous, and shall include:

1. To the extent possible, a description of the categories of information that were subject to the security breach, including the elements of personal information that were or were believed to be acquired;

2. Contact information for the notifying agency, including the address, telephone number, and toll-free number if a toll-free number is maintained;

3. A description of the general acts of the agency, excluding disclosure of defenses used for the protection of information, to protect the personal information from further security breach; and

(c) The agency providing notice pursuant to this subsection shall cooperate with any investigation conducted by the agencies notified under subsection (1)(a) of this section and with reasonable requests from the Office of Consumer Protection of the Office of the Attorney General, consumer credit reporting agencies, and recipients of the notice, to verify the authenticity of the notice.

(3)(a) The notices required by subsection (1) of this section shall not be made if, after consultation with a law enforcement agency, the agency receives a written request from a law enforcement agency for a delay in notification because the notice may impede a criminal investigation. The written request may apply to some or all of the required notifications, as specified in the written request from the law enforcement agency. Upon written notification from the law enforcement agency that the criminal investigation has been completed, or that the sending of the required notifications will no longer impede a criminal investigation, the agency shall send the notices required by subsection (1)(b)1. of this section.

(b) The notice required by subsection (1)(b)1.b. of this section may be delayed if the agency determines that measures necessary to restore the reasonable integrity of the data system cannot be implemented within the timeframe established by subsection (1)(b)1.b. of this section, and the delay is approved in writing by the Office of the Attorney General. If notice is delayed pursuant to this subsection, notice shall be made immediately after actions necessary to restore the integrity of the data system have been completed.

(4) Any waiver of the provisions of this section is contrary to public policy and shall be void and unenforceable.

(5) This section shall not apply to:

(a) Personal information that has been redacted;

(b) Personal information disclosed to a federal, state, or local government entity, including a law enforcement agency or court, or their agents, assigns, employees, or subcontractors, to investigate or conduct criminal investigations and arrests or delinquent tax assessments, or to perform any other statutory duties and responsibilities;

(6) The Office of the Attorney General may bring an action in the Franklin Circuit Court against an agency or a nonaffiliated third party that is not an agency, or both, for injunctive relief, and for other legal remedies against a nonaffiliated third party that is not an agency to enforce the provisions of KRS 61.931 to 61.934. Nothing in KRS 61.931 to 61.934 shall create a private right of action.

This section applies only to officers required to qualify both by giving bond and taking oath. Lewin v. Ft. Mitchell, 148 Ky. 816, 147 S.W. 922, 1912 Ky. LEXIS 550 (Ky. 1912).

This section is to be read into and as a part of every act creating an office and an officer, unless the act provides otherwise. Sewell v. Bennett, 187 Ky. 626, 220 S.W. 517, 1920 Ky. LEXIS 179 (Ky. 1920).

2. Elected Officers.

One elected to fill a vacancy may qualify and begin his duties at once. Jones v. Sizemore, 117 Ky. 810, 79 S.W. 229, 25 Ky. L. Rptr. 1957, 1904 Ky. LEXIS 248 (Ky. 1904).

One elected to fill a vacancy must qualify within a reasonable time after he has received the certificate of election. Brown v. Rose, 233 Ky. 549, 26 S.W.2d 503, 1930 Ky. LEXIS 611 (Ky. 1930).

Thirty-three days following receipt of certificate of election to fill a vacancy is an unreasonable delay in qualification, and a vacancy may be declared without notice. Brown v. Rose, 233 Ky. 549, 26 S.W.2d 503, 1930 Ky. LEXIS 611 (Ky. 1930).

The oath of office is the only oath required of commissioners of second-class cities, and they are not required to take another oath before commencing hearing for removal of manager. Rawlings v. Newport, 275 Ky. 183, 121 S.W.2d 10, 1938 Ky. LEXIS 397 (Ky. 1938).

The innocent and inadvertent omission of school board members, who had taken the constitutional oath (Const., § 228) referred to in this section, to take a further oath prescribed by KRS 160.170 until five (5) months later when they discovered the omission at which time they executed the oath in writing and caused it to be filed in the records of the school board did not forfeit their office or authorize their removal particularly where the statute creating KRS 160.170 did not specifically provide any penalty for failure to take the oath. Commonwealth ex rel. Breckinridge v. Marshall, 361 S.W.2d 103, 1962 Ky. LEXIS 228 (Ky. 1962).

3. Appointed Officers.

Lapse of more than a year between date of commission of railroad policeman and time of qualification raises presumption that qualification was not within thirty days after receipt of notice of appointment. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Cundiff, 166 Ky. 594, 179 S.W. 615, 1915 Ky. LEXIS 755 (Ky. 1915).

4. Officer Not Required to Execute Bond.

An officer not required to execute bond may take the oath of office within a reasonable time after the day fixed for taking the oath, provided reasonable excuse exists for the delay. Lewin v. Ft. Mitchell, 148 Ky. 816, 147 S.W. 922, 1912 Ky. LEXIS 550 (Ky. 1912).

5. Sufficiency of Qualification.

Under a similar statute, it was held that when the date for qualification fell on a holiday, the qualification might take place on the following day. Jewett v. Matteson, 148 Ky. 820, 147 S.W. 924, 1912 Ky. LEXIS 551 (Ky. 1912).

Compliance with the Constitution and statutes is sufficient qualification. Oakes v. Remines, 273 Ky. 750, 117 S.W.2d 948, 1938 Ky. LEXIS 713 (Ky. 1938).

6. Expiration of Statutory Period.

A county judge (now county judge/executive) has no authority to approve bond or administer oath tendered after the statutory date. Barnett v. Hart, 112 Ky. 728, 66 S.W. 726, 23 Ky. L. Rptr. 2116, 1902 Ky. LEXIS 217 (Ky. 1902).

7. Assumption of Duties.

There is nothing in either the Constitution or statutes fixing the time when one elected or appointed to fill a vacancy must assume the duties of his office. Jones v. Sizemore, 117 Ky. 810, 79 S.W. 229, 25 Ky. L. Rptr. 1957, 1904 Ky. LEXIS 248 (Ky. 1904).

8. Removal.

Charges presenting grounds for removal are unnecessary in an action against one who makes no attempt to qualify. Chatham v. Davenport, 187 Ky. 801, 220 S.W. 1062, 1920 Ky. LEXIS 209 (Ky. 1920).

9. Forfeiture.

Issue of forfeiture of office may not be raised collaterally in suit to compel fiscal court to fix salary. Peak v. Akins, 237 Ky. 711, 36 S.W.2d 351, 1931 Ky. LEXIS 678 (Ky. 1931).

10. Status of Officers Not Qualifying Within Prescribed Time.

A person elected as marshal who fails to take the oath or give bond is neither a de jure nor a de facto officer, but is a trespasser and usurper. Creighton v. Commonwealth, 83 Ky. 142, 7 Ky. L. Rptr. 70, 1885 Ky. LEXIS 48 (Ky. Ct. App. 1885).

Officers not required to give bond who take the oath after the statutory date are de jure officers. Lewin v. Ft. Mitchell, 148 Ky. 816, 147 S.W. 922, 1912 Ky. LEXIS 550 (Ky. 1912).

An officer not qualifying within the time prescribed is not a de facto officer. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Cundiff, 166 Ky. 594, 179 S.W. 615, 1915 Ky. LEXIS 755 (Ky. 1915).

A person appointed as county road engineer who fails to qualify is not a de facto officer. Chatham v. Davenport, 187 Ky. 801, 220 S.W. 1062, 1920 Ky. LEXIS 209 (Ky. 1920).

11. Precinct Officers.

Assuming that an oath were required under this section, the failure of precinct officers to take such oath would not invalidate a primary election in that precinct. Sims v. Atwell, 556 S.W.2d 929, 1977 Ky. App. LEXIS 826 (Ky. Ct. App. 1977).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Where five (5) months after taking office school board members had not yet taken the statutory oath, the State Board of Education was required to fill the resulting vacancies pursuant to KRS 160.190. OAG 61-485.

When the 31st of December falls on Sunday and the following day on which county officers are to take office for the ensuing term is a legal holiday, the county officers may be sworn in and execute bond when required on or before the first Monday in January, a legal holiday. OAG 61-886.

It is permissible for a successful candidate for the school board to take the statutory oath of office at a school board meeting to be held the second Monday in January. OAG 65-4.

Where a person who was elected a member of the county board of education and who had received a certificate of election refused to take the oath of office, such office became vacant thirty days after the beginning of the term or thirty days after receipt by the person elected of the certificate of election, whichever event was later and the other members of the board should thereafter immediately make an appointment to fill the vacancy under the duty imposed on them by KRS 160.190. OAG 69-60.

A person who is elected county coroner while voluntarily employed overseas by the department of the army as a civilian embalmer and who cannot return at the proper time to take the oath and assume the office, cannot be granted four (4) or five (5) months temporary leave and then return and assume the office because failure to take oath and make bond within the prescribed time would result in the automatic vacation of the office. OAG 69-239.

Where a duly elected city councilman did not appear at the first regularly called council meeting to take the oath of office but took such oath in the afternoon prior to the council meeting called for that evening, he took oath prior to the inception of his term and was qualified for office. OAG 70-61.

As the members of the fiscal court must take their oath of office on or before January 7, 1974, the present members' terms expire upon the new members' taking office so that the present fiscal court could hold a meeting in 1974 prior to January 7. OAG 73-850.

No person shall be eligible to be police judge of a city of the fifth or sixth class under KRS 26.200 (repealed) unless he is a resident and qualified voter of the city and has resided therein for a year next preceding his election or appointment and, before entering the duties of his office, must execute a bond to the commonwealth with good and sufficient sureties approved by the county judge (now county judge/executive) and must also take the oath of office as prescribed by the Constitution and required in this section. OAG 74-441.

A person may execute the oath of office within a reasonable time after the day the term of office to which he has been elected begins and still be qualified to serve. OAG 78-50.

Failure to execute an oath of office due to illness is a sufficient excuse for a delay and if the oath is executed within a reasonable time after the date his term of office begins, the individual would be qualified to serve despite the delay. OAG 78-75.

Assuming a councilman has either not executed the oath at all or did not do so within 30 days following appointment, nevertheless his acts would be valid as that of a de facto officer until he is either removed or his prosecution under the penalty section sustained by court judgment, thereby creating a forfeiture of office. OAG 78-707.

If an appointed councilman failed to execute the oath within 30 days, and if the oath has been executed within a reasonable time thereafter, it would be in compliance with the requirements of subsection (3) of this section and what is a reasonable time is a question for the court to decide, but if he never executed the oath of office, then he obviously would not be a legally qualified member of the city council and subject to prosecution under the penalty section which includes the forfeiture of office. OAG 78-707.

The oath of office may be administered anywhere, as long as the oath is administered by one who is legally authorized to do so under the terms of KRS 62.020. OAG 78-707.

Though subsection (2) of this section provides that each person elected to an office shall take the oath of office on or before the day the term of office begins, the courts have nevertheless held that a person may execute the oath within a reasonable time after said date and still be qualified to serve. OAG 78-707.

Where councilman elected in November, 1983 failed to qualify in January, 1984 and in May, 1984 council declared the office vacant, the vacancy actually occurred on January 10 or within 30 days thereafter, the time frame mentioned in Brown v. Rose, 233 Ky. 549, 26 S.W.2d 503, 1930 Ky. LEXIS 611 (1930), as being a reasonable time to qualify. The council's declaration as to the vacancy was not controlling and the Governor had the sole authority to fill the vacancy by appointment, subject to an election in November, 1984 to fill the unexpired term of one year. OAG 84-245.

While a Notary Public should make every effort to take the required oath of office within thirty days after receiving notice of appointment, apparently the oath of office may be taken within a reasonable time thereafter provided there is a reasonable excuse for the delay; failure to take the required oath within a reasonable time after the time period set forth in the statute would subject the Notary Public to the penalty provisions of KRS 62.990. OAG 90-139.

A council member who had a valid excuse, illness, for not taking the oath of office on January 1 and who took the oath two days later on January 3, was not disqualified from holding office. A city councilmember who takes the oath of office within a reasonable time after January 1 is not disqualified from office. OAG-13-003.

2. Notaries.

1. In General.

Persons authorized to administer oaths may by direction of a trial judge swear witnesses in open court. Bush v. Commonwealth, 198 Ky. 226, 248 S.W. 522, 1923 Ky. LEXIS 411 (Ky. 1923).

2. Notaries.

Notaries public had no common law authority to administer oaths, and their authority to take oaths must be statutory. Anderson v. Commonwealth, 117 S.W. 364, 1909 Ky. LEXIS 497 (Ky. 1909).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Under the provisions of KRS 87.130 (now repealed), the mayor of a fifth-class city can administer the oath of office to duly elected councilmen of that city. OAG 61-799.

It is the duty of the county election commission in reviewing the certifications on absentee ballots to make every effort to determine the validity of the notarizations and reject only those papers that they clearly feel are not properly notarized giving the voter the benefit where there is reasonable doubt and approving the notarization. OAG 64-814.

An attorney, as an officer of the court, would not be competent to acknowledge legal instruments without the necessity of acquiring a notary's commission or other authority. OAG 71-22.

The oath of office for members of the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors need not be given at a duly convened meeting of the Board but may be taken anywhere in the commonwealth and administered by any officer listed in this section as empowered to administer the official oath of office, including a notary public, and said oath is not required to be attested to by the chairman or any other officer of the Board. OAG 73-189.

Justices of the peace cannot administer oaths of office, since they are no longer judges in the judicial and constitutional sense. OAG 78-57.

KRS 423.010 prevails over this section only to the extent that the former authorizes the county judge/executive to administer the oaths of notaries before they assume office. OAG 79-289.

The language "within his district or county" refers to the entire geographical territory for which the officers were elected or appointed. OAG 82-199.

Under the language of Const., § 99, a justice of the peace may administer the official oath of any officer within his magisterial district. OAG 82-199, (modifying OAG 78-57).

All notary publics, residents of Kentucky, including those appointed under KRS 423.110, must take the oath mentioned in KRS 423.110 before the county judge/executive of the county in which the notary resides, and must take the oath prescribed in Const., § 228 before one of the applicable officers mentioned in this section. OAG 85-36.

In light of Bernal v. Fainter, 467 U.S. 216, 104 S. Ct. 2312, 81 L. Ed. 2d 175, 1984 U.S. LEXIS 93 (1984), the citizenship requirement of Const., § 228 is not enforceable as to the Office of notary public under the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution and Const., § 3; thus, an alien residing in a particular county in Kentucky may qualify as a notary public, provided that he satisfies the requirements of KRS 423.010 and takes the oath before the county judge executive of his county that "he will honestly and diligently discharge the duties of his office," as required by KRS 423.010. In addition, he must take the oath of officers prescribed in Const., § 228 before any applicable officer listed in this section, even though he is not a citizen of the United States or Kentucky; in view of the holding in Bernal v. Fainter, the requirement of citizenship, as it applies to the oath of Const., § 228, would be, as a practical matter and in harmony with the cy pres doctrine of equity, considered waived. OAG 85-37, modifying OAG 77-297.

Kentucky Constitution, § 103, this section and KRS 62.055, which state that a county clerk before taking office shall post bond, are mandatory in nature. Elective clerks must post required bond before assuming the duties of office. Substantial compliance with these provisions is not sufficient. Bowen v.

An appointee failing to give bond within 30 days after notice of appointment is not in legal possession of the office, and is a de facto officer only as against innocent third parties. Wheeler v. Collins, 222 Ky. 801, 2 S.W.2d 646, 1928 Ky. LEXIS 251 (Ky. 1928).

3. Tender of Bond.4. — Sufficiency.

Tender of bond is sufficient when officials authorized to approve same refuse arbitrarily to do so. Dorian v. Paducah, 136 Ky. 373, 124 S.W. 369, 1910 Ky. LEXIS 495 (Ky. 1910).

7. Approval.

A county court has no authority to approve bond tendered after the statutory date. Commonwealth Yarbrough, 84 Ky. 496, 2 S.W. 68, 8 Ky. L. Rptr. 483, 1886 Ky. LEXIS 92 (Ky. 1886). See Barnett v. Hart, 112 Ky. 728, 66 S.W. 726, 23 Ky. L. Rptr. 2116, 1902 Ky. LEXIS 217 (Ky. 1902).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

When the 31st of December falls on Sunday and the following day on which county officers are to take office for the ensuing term is a legal holiday, the county officers may be sworn in and execute bond when required on or before the first Monday in January, a legal holiday. OAG 61-886.

The term of an official bond is limited to the term for which the official is elected, regardless of the fact that the term of the bond fails to so state, but the term of such bond can be extended to cover succeeding terms where there exists a verbal agreement to this effect. OAG 63-49.

Where bond was not executed prior to assuming office, the officer cannot execute a new bond during the term of his office. OAG 63-49.

A person who is elected county coroner while voluntarily employed overseas by the department of the army as a civilian embalmer and who cannot return at the proper time to take the oath and assume the office, cannot be granted four or five months temporary leave and then return and assume the office because failure to take oath and make bond within the prescribed time would result in the automatic vacation of the office. OAG 69-239.

Failure of a duly elected constable to qualify and execute bond creates a vacancy for the office which may be filled by an appointment but an election will be required to fill the office at the next regular election. OAG 71-159.

When an elected constable fails to take the oath of office and execute the required bond, he may be removed from office under KRS 62.990 by action initiated by the commonwealth attorney pursuant to KRS 415.050, or the county judge/executive may declare the office vacant and fill the vacancy pursuant to KRS 63.220. OAG 80-2.

Once the county jailer passed the statutory deadline of subsection (2) of this section without making bond, the office became vacant; there is simply no provision of statutory law permitting the making of effective bond after the deadline. OAG 83-483.

The failure of the county jailer to execute bond before entering upon the duties of his office created a vacancy in that office. See Campbell v. Dotson, 111 Ky. 125, 63 S.W. 480, 1901 Ky. LEXIS 193 (1901). Subsection (2) of this section requires the elected official who must make bond to give bond on or before the day the term of office to which he has been elected begins; the statutory deadline for executing bond is mandatory and failure to give bond by the deadline vacates the office. OAG 83-483.

Public officer's bond as subject to forfeiture for malfeasance in office. 4 A.L.R.2d 1348.

62.060. Bonds of officers, depositories and fiduciaries — Form — Conditions — Amount — Renewal.

(1) Except as provided by KRS 395.130, the bond required by law to be executed and given by any public official, depository of public funds, or any fiduciary, and other bond required by law for the discharge or performance of any public or fiducial office, trust or employment, shall be a covenant to the Commonwealth of Kentucky from the principal and surety or sureties that the principal will faithfully discharge his duties, and there shall be no other obligation in the bond. The bond shall be limited in a definite penal sum, which shall be determined and fixed by the officer or officers whose duty it is to approve the bond. The bond of each fiduciary shall be fixed in a penal sum of not less than the estimated value of the estate which the fiduciary is in charge of. The officer or officers taking any bond mentioned in this section may, at any time when it appears to be to the interest of the obligee, increase the penal sum of the bond or require a renewal thereof with other or additional sureties.

(2) A bond or obligation taken in any form other than that required by subsection (1) shall be binding on the parties thereto according to its terms.

(3) This section shall not apply to bonds given pursuant to KRS 62.160 to 62.200.

1. Constitutionality.

This section does not violate Const., § 54. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Commonwealth, 231 Ky. 346, 21 S.W.2d 452, 1929 Ky. LEXIS 271 (Ky. 1929).

2. Construction.

This section must be read in connection with bonds executed under it. Connelly v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 113 Ky. 903, 69 S.W. 959, 24 Ky. L. Rptr. 714, 1902 Ky. LEXIS 119 (Ky. 1902); Bankers' Surety Co. v. Newport, 162 Ky. 473, 172 S.W. 940, 1915 Ky. LEXIS 101 (Ky. 1915).

In executing an official bond, only substantial compliance with the statute is required. Growbarger v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 126 Ky. 118, 102 S.W. 873, 31 Ky. L. Rptr. 555, 1907 Ky. LEXIS 24 (Ky. 1907).

This section is merely directory as to the penal sum, and does not invalidate a bond otherwise properly executed. Hegarty v. Arkle's Guardian, 213 Ky. 15, 280 S.W. 139, 1926 Ky. LEXIS 440 (Ky. 1926); Miller v. Rockcastle County, 248 Ky. 290, 58 S.W.2d 598, 1933 Ky. LEXIS 230 (Ky. 1933); Cornett v. Duff, 282 Ky. 332, 138 S.W.2d 478, 1940 Ky. LEXIS 165 (Ky. 1940).

This section is mandatory. Rider's Ex'x v. Sherrard's Guardian, 231 Ky. 112, 21 S.W.2d 147, 1929 Ky. LEXIS 229 (Ky. Ct. App. 1929).

3. Application.

This section and KRS 67.070 do not cover contractors' bonds. Moss v. Rowlett, 112 Ky. 121, 65 S.W. 153, 23 Ky. L. Rptr. 1411, 1901 Ky. LEXIS 287 (Ky. 1901), overruled, Taylor v. Westfield, 233 Ky. 619, 26 S.W.2d 557, 1930 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 1930).

This section and KRS 62.070 do not apply to a bond given by a deputy sheriff to the sheriff. Casey v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 278 Ky. 426, 128 S.W.2d 939, 1939 Ky. LEXIS 449 (Ky. 1939).

4. Sufficiency.

A guardian's settlement showing a balance in excess of the amount of the bond is notice to the county judge (now county judge/executive) that the bond is insufficient. Rider's Ex'x v. Sherrard's Guardian, 231 Ky. 112, 21 S.W.2d 147, 1929 Ky. LEXIS 229 (Ky. Ct. App. 1929).

It is the duty of the county judge (now county judge/executive) to require guardians' bonds to conform to this section, and if the bond is insufficient to give notice at once to the guardian that a new bond or additional surety on the old one is required. Rider's Ex'x v. Sherrard's Guardian, 231 Ky. 112, 21 S.W.2d 147, 1929 Ky. LEXIS 229 (Ky. Ct. App. 1929).

If a bond is sufficient except as to naming of penalty, it is the duty of the approving officer to insert a proper penal sum, with the consent of the sureties, and then approve it. Cornett v. Duff, 282 Ky. 332, 138 S.W.2d 478, 1940 Ky. LEXIS 165 (Ky. 1940).

5. Conditions.

A bond is not void because it contains conditions not prescribed by statute, although the statute prescribes its conditions, unless the statute expressly provides that it shall be void on that account. Sauer v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 192 Ky. 758, 234 S.W. 434, 1921 Ky. LEXIS 148 (Ky. 1921).

Unless the statute so provides, only those parts of the bond which are contrary to statute are void, and the rest of the conditions are enforceable. Sauer v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 192 Ky. 758, 234 S.W. 434, 1921 Ky. LEXIS 148 (Ky. 1921).

6. — Depository.

The bond of a depository is a guarantee of the security of the funds and the assurance that they will be delivered on demand, and such bond imposes a greater responsibility than a bond conditioned upon the faithful performance of the duties of an officer. Phillips v. Board of Education, 283 Ky. 173, 140 S.W.2d 819, 1940 Ky. LEXIS 292 (Ky. 1940).

7. — Guardian.

A guardian's bond must necessarily include interest that will accrue, and any other funds that reasonably may be expected to come into the guardian's hands during the succeeding biennial period. Rider's Ex'x v. Sherrard's Guardian, 231 Ky. 112, 21 S.W.2d 147, 1929 Ky. LEXIS 229 (Ky. Ct. App. 1929).

8. Obligee, Naming.

Naming of city as obligee instead of commonwealth does not prevent recovery by individuals. Connelly v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 113 Ky. 903, 69 S.W. 959, 24 Ky. L. Rptr. 714, 1902 Ky. LEXIS 119 (Ky. 1902); Growbarger v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 126 Ky. 118, 102 S.W. 873, 31 Ky. L. Rptr. 555, 1907 Ky. LEXIS 24 (Ky. 1907).

A bond is not vitiated by being made to the commonwealth, as provided by this section, instead of to the obligee stipulated in the act providing for the bond. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Commonwealth, 104 S.W. 1029, 31 Ky. L. Rptr. 1179 (1907).

9. Obligor, Naming.

That the obligor was styled "trustee" instead of "treasurer" did not vitiate the bond, the duties of the offices being the same. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Commonwealth, 104 S.W. 1029, 31 Ky. L. Rptr. 1179 (1907).

10. Limitation in Bond.

Any limitation in a bond in derogation of statutory requirements is not binding. Bankers' Surety Co. v. Newport, 162 Ky. 473, 172 S.W. 940, 1915 Ky. LEXIS 101 (Ky. 1915).

Neither the principal nor the surety may complain that the obligations of the bond are less than prescribed by statute. Sauer v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 192 Ky. 758, 234 S.W. 434, 1921 Ky. LEXIS 148 (Ky. 1921).

11. Approval.

The approval required by statute need not be evidenced by an indorsement on the bond, it being sufficient if the record shows acts raising a presumption of approval. Hall's Ex'rs v. Robinson, 291 Ky. 631, 165 S.W.2d 163, 1942 Ky. LEXIS 285 (Ky. 1942).

If a bond is required to be executed before a particular officer or to be approved by him, it must be so executed or approved else it will be considered no bond at all. Hall's Ex'rs v. Robinson, 291 Ky. 631, 165 S.W.2d 163, 1942 Ky. LEXIS 285 (Ky. 1942).

12. New Bond, Requirement.

When full or partial recovery on a bond has been had, the officer taking the bond may require a new bond. Waddle v. Wilson, 164 Ky. 228, 175 S.W. 382, 1915 Ky. LEXIS 367 (Ky. 1915).

13. New Bond, Increase in.

Where a county judge/executive rejected a proffered performance bond of $50,000 from the county sheriff, citing the fact that the revenue bonds posted were inadequate to secure the aggregate tax receipts of the county, that a recent federal case had held that the county sheriff's department was not protected by sovereign immunity in a civil rights suit against the police department, and he instead set the performance bond at $300,000, while issuing an order limiting the power of the sheriff to act within her capacity until the bond was posted, the county judge/executive acted within his statutory authority under this section which makes it mandatory for the officer whose duty it is to fix the amount of the bond to approve it also, and to increase it when it appears to be in the interest of the obligee to do so. Muncy v. Keen, 619 S.W.2d 712, 1981 Ky. App. LEXIS 270 (Ky. Ct. App. 1981).

14. Notice of Default.

Requirement of notice of default within six months, not being required by statute, is void. Bankers' Surety Co. v.

Newport, 162 Ky. 473, 172 S.W. 940, 1915 Ky. LEXIS 101 (Ky. 1915).

Heirs are under no duty to give notice to sureties on administrator's bond of defaults or mismanagement by administrator known to heirs. Kaufman v. Kaufman's Adm'r, 292 Ky. 351, 166 S.W.2d 860, 1942 Ky. LEXIS 102 (Ky. 1942).

15. Sureties, Liability.

Bond specifying no amount upheld as common-law obligation on which liability of sureties was unlimited. Hite v. Hite's Ex'r, 133 Ky. 554, 118 S.W. 357, 1909 Ky. LEXIS 203 (Ky. 1909); Miller v. Rockcastle County, 248 Ky. 290, 58 S.W.2d 598, 1933 Ky. LEXIS 230 (Ky. 1933).

It is the sufficiency of the sureties, not the solvency of the principal, that is looked to. Allen v. Jenkins, 157 Ky. 406, 163 S.W. 234, 1914 Ky. LEXIS 298 (Ky. 1914).

Statutory provisions bind the surety, though not incorporated in the bond. Rice v. Lavin, 199 Ky. 790, 251 S.W. 990, 1923 Ky. LEXIS 927 (Ky. 1923).

Sureties on jailer's bond were not liable for money received by him in excess of the amount appropriated for him by the fiscal court, where bond provided that he would faithfully discharge the duties of his office and pay over to all parties entitled thereto any funds that may come into his hands by virtue of his office, as sums paid the jailer illegally were not within the contemplation of the bond. Wolfe County v. Tolson, 283 Ky. 11, 140 S.W.2d 671, 1940 Ky. LEXIS 287 (Ky. 1940).

Whether the annual renewals of an official bond constitute merely a continuation of the original bond contract, so as to limit the total liability of the surety to the original penal sum, or whether each renewal constitutes a separate contract, so as to make the surety liable each year for a sum equal to the penal sum of the original bond, depends upon the terms and conditions stated in the bond and renewal clauses. Middlesboro v. American Surety Co., 307 Ky. 769, 211 S.W.2d 670, 1947 Ky. LEXIS 1035 (Ky. 1947).

In action by Commonwealth against sureties on bonds of clerk of county court, sureties on second bond could not be held liable for defalcations in accounts that occurred prior to execution and approval of the second bond where the second bond did not have retroactive operation. Commonwealth v. Slack, 291 S.W.2d 553, 1956 Ky. LEXIS 387 (Ky. 1956).

Surety on bond is liable for interest from date of judgment and he cannot avoid liability by asserting claim against him was not liquidated. Commonwealth v. Slack, 291 S.W.2d 553, 1956 Ky. LEXIS 387 (Ky. 1956).

Where the bond executed by the surety guaranteed the faithful performance of the administrator in carrying out his duties and further guaranteed proper distribution of any surplus money, effects and returns which might come to his hands or to anyone for him by color of his office, the surety was liable on a certificate of deposit wrongfully cashed by the administrator under color of office. Maryland Casualty Co. v. McCormack, 488 S.W.2d 347, 1972 Ky. LEXIS 42 (Ky. 1972).

Trial court erred by finding that a surety bond written by the insurance company for the city clerk created $300,000 in liability for each of the seven years the bond was in force because the city clerk was appointed to one open-ended term that lasted seven years, and under the terms of the bond it was for the penal sum of $300,000 "during the term aforesaid." There was no need for the trial court to resort to extrinsic evidence, and there was no credible evidence that the city thought it was buying $300,000 of coverage for each successive year. Ohio Cas. Ins. Co. v. City of Providence, 2014 Ky. App. LEXIS 9 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 10, 2014, sub. op., 2014 Ky. App. Unpub. LEXIS 1024 (Ky. Ct. App. Jan. 10, 2014)).

16. Principal, Liability.

The principal being already liable, his failure to sign the bond does not render it a common-law bond. Allen v. Jenkins, 157 Ky. 406, 163 S.W. 234, 1914 Ky. LEXIS 298 (Ky. 1914).

Public officials may not restrict their liability on official bonds by inserting conditions not authorized by statute. Bankers' Surety Co. v. Newport, 162 Ky. 473, 172 S.W. 940, 1915 Ky. LEXIS 101 (Ky. 1915).

17. Liability of Official Approving Bond.

An approving official not requiring sufficient bond is liable for interest only for a period of two years from his last delinquency. Rider's Ex'x v. Sherrard's Guardian, 231 Ky. 112, 21 S.W.2d 147, 1929 Ky. LEXIS 229 (Ky. Ct. App. 1929).

An approving official is not liable for approving an insufficient bond when that fact is not the cause of loss. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Drinkard, 250 Ky. 695, 63 S.W.2d 916, 1933 Ky. LEXIS 761 (Ky. 1933).

An approving official is not an insurer against depreciation. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Drinkard, 250 Ky. 695, 63 S.W.2d 916, 1933 Ky. LEXIS 761 (Ky. 1933).

Neither KRS 395.640 or this section contain provisions which make the district judge personally liable if he fails to require a new bond or additional surety on the old one or if he fails to fix the bond in a penal sum which is less than the estimated value of the estate, or if he fails to, when it appears to be in the interest of the obligee, increase the penal sum of the bond or require a renewal thereof with other or additional sureties. Vaughn v. Webb, 911 S.W.2d 273, 1995 Ky. App. LEXIS 197 (Ky. Ct. App. 1995).

18. Public Official Sued in Personal Capacity.

Since the plaintiff recovered a judgment against a police officer solely in his personal capacity and not in his official capacity, and since there was no recovery against the city by which he was employed, plaintiff could not recover against fidelity bond naming officer as principal, and binding the officer and surety to the city, as obligee, since it only insured actual losses sustained by the city. Thornsberry v. Western Surety Co., 738 F. Supp. 209, 1990 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6717 (E.D. Ky. 1990).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The county judge (now county judge/executive) is the appropriate official authorized to determine and fix the penal amount of the official bonds of the county clerk, as required by KRS 28.020 (now repealed); the constables, as required by KRS 70.310; and the coroner, as required by KRS 72.010, while the circuit court clerk determines and fixes the penal sum of the official bond of the county judge (now county judge/executive). OAG 61-1095.

A public administrator must execute a bond for each separate estate for which is appointed. OAG 66-242.

When it appears to be to the interest of the Commonwealth the county judge (now county judge/executive) may, at any time, increase the penal sum of the bond of a deputy sheriff or require a renewal thereof with other or additional sureties. The county judge (now county judge/executive) has no authority to cancel a deputy sheriff's bond. OAG 67-324.

The bond executed by a railroad policeman with the railroad company as surety would have to follow the requirements of this section. OAG 71-11.

Unless the surety contract states otherwise, death does not discharge the liability of a surety and the deceased sureties' executors and administrators remain liable on the contract. OAG 74-553.

In fixing the official bonds for each county officer the county judge (now county judge/executive) should set the bond for not less than an amount reflecting the estimated aggregate amount of money coming into the officer's hands each year during the effective period of the bond. OAG 76-224.

Inasmuch as the justice's bond was intended to cover the justice's entire range of statutory duties, a raise in the bond amount from $5,000 to $10,000 by the county judge (now county judge/executive) during the term of a justice of the peace would be legal if the county judge (now county judge/executive) reasonably concluded that the aggregate amount of money subject to the justice's control warranted the raise in bonding. OAG 76-283.

62.070. Action and recovery on bond.

Actions may be brought from time to time on any bond required by law for the discharge or performance of any public or fiducial office, trust or employment, in the name of the Commonwealth, for its benefit or for that of any person injured by a breach of the covenant or condition, at the proper costs of the party suing, against the parties jointly or severally, together with the personal representatives, heirs and devisees or distributees of such of them as may be dead. 1. Construction.

The covenant or bond mentioned in this section is the one required by KRS 62.060. Moss v. Rowlett, 112 Ky. 121, 65 S.W. 153, 23 Ky. L. Rptr. 1411, 1901 Ky. LEXIS 287 (Ky. 1901), overruled, Taylor v. Westerfield, 233 Ky. 619, 26 S.W.2d 557, 1930 Ky. LEXIS 640 (Ky. 1930).

This section must be read in connection with bonds executed under it. Connelly v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 113 Ky. 903, 69 S.W. 959, 24 Ky. L. Rptr. 714, 1902 Ky. LEXIS 119 (Ky. 1902); Growbarger v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 126 Ky. 118, 102 S.W. 873, 31 Ky. L. Rptr. 555, 1907 Ky. LEXIS 24 (Ky. 1907); *United States Fidelity & G. Co. v. This section and KRS 62.020 and 62.080 did not repeal KRS 95.750 (now repealed) as to liability on bonds of policemen in fourth-class cities for unlawful arrest. Fidelity & Casualty Co. v. Noger, 245 Ky. 416, 53 S.W.2d 746, 1932 Ky. LEXIS 616 (Ky. 1932).

The purpose of KRS 134.200 is to authorize the sheriff to require bond of his deputies in the collection of revenues, and that bond does not come within the purview of KRS 62.060 and this section. The latter sections relate to bond obligations which are required by law for the discharge of a public office or trust. Casey v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 278 Ky. 426, 128 S.W.2d 939, 1939 Ky. LEXIS 449 (Ky. 1939).

12. — Liability.

Surety is liable on official bond which was voluntarily renewed or continued in effect by the surety's acceptance of premium covering the period during which the officer was openly and publicly performing the duties of his office as a "de facto" officer with knowledge of the surety or under such circumstances as would have disclosed such fact to the surety by the exercise of ordinary care. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. American Surety Co., 307 Ky. 769, 211 S.W.2d 670, 1947 Ky. LEXIS 1035 (Ky. 1947).

17. Sovereign Immunity.

Fire protection district's suit against tax collection officials, including a county court clerk, a sheriff, and a county assessor or property valuation administrator, based on the officials' failure to collect personal property tax pursuant to KRS 75.015, was properly dismissed because sovereign immunity shielded the officials from liability; contrary to the district's claim, the fact that the officials posted performance bonds did not amount to a waiver of sovereign immunity. Such waiver was found only where it was established by express language or by overwhelming implications. St. Matthews Fire Prot. Dist. v. Aubrey, 304 S.W.3d 56, 2009 Ky. App. LEXIS 47 (Ky. Ct. App. 2009).

CHAPTER 63
RESIGNATIONS, REMOVALS, AND VACANCIES

Removals.

Section

63.080. Officers appointed by Governor may be removed without cause — Exceptions — Removal of university or KCTCS board members for cause or to comply with proportional representation requirements.

Vacancies.

63.190. Vacancies filled by the Governor.

REMOVALS

63.080. Officers appointed by Governor may be removed without cause — Exceptions — Removal of university or KCTCS board members for cause or to comply with proportional representation requirements.

(1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section and otherwise provided by law, any person appointed by the Governor, either with or without the advice and consent of the Senate, may be removed from office by the Governor for any cause the Governor deems sufficient, by an order of the Governor entered in the executive journal removing the officer.

(2)(a) Except as provided in subsections (3) and (4) of this section, members of the Kentucky Board of Education; the board of trustees of the University of Kentucky; the board of trustees of the University of Louisville; and the board of regents respectively of Eastern Kentucky University, Western Kentucky University, Morehead State University, Kentucky State University, Northern Kentucky University, Murray State University, and the Kentucky Community and Technical College System shall not be removed except for cause.

(b) Members of the Council on Postsecondary Education shall not be removed except for cause.

(c) A member of a board of trustees or board of regents specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection may be removed for cause as follows:

1. The Governor or the board of trustees or board of regents, as applicable, shall notify, in writing, the member and the Council on Postsecondary Education that the member should be removed for cause and shall specify the conduct warranting removal;

2. The member shall have seven (7) days to voluntarily resign or to provide evidence to the Council on Postsecondary Education that the member's conduct does not warrant removal;

3. Within thirty (30) days after receipt of notice from the Governor or the board, the Council on Postsecondary Education shall review the written notice, investigate the member and the conduct alleged to support removal, and make a nonbinding recommendation, in writing, to the Governor as to whether the member should be removed, a copy of which shall also be provided to the Legislative Research Commission;

4. The Governor shall then make a determination, in writing, whether the member should be removed and shall notify the member, the applicable board, the Council on Postsecondary Education, and the Legislative Research Commission of the determination; and

5. If the Governor's determination is to remove the member, the Governor shall remove the member by executive order, and shall replace the member with a new appointment according to the applicable statutes for the board of trustees or board of regents.

(d) For the purposes of this subsection, a member may be removed for cause for conduct including but not limited to malfeasance, misfeasance, incompetence, or gross neglect of duty.

(3) For a board specified in subsection (2)(a) of this section that is required by law to have proportional representation in its membership based on residence, political affiliation, gender, minority racial composition, or professional qualifications, the Governor or other appointing authority may remove any member of the board and replace him or her with another individual in order to bring the membership into compliance with the statutory proportional representation requirement for the board, provided that the Governor or other appointing authority shall:

(a) Only exercise the removal authority granted in this subsection if appointment at the end of the next expiring term of a member, or at the end of the next expiring term of members if two (2) or more members' terms expire at the same time, cannot cure the deficiency in the proportional representation requirement;

(b) Remove the fewest number of members necessary to bring the membership into compliance with the proportional representation requirement for the board;

(c) Identify the order in which the members were appointed to their current terms on the board and, beginning with the most recently appointed member who may be removed and replaced to bring the membership into compliance with the proportional representation requirement, remove the member or members according to the length of their tenure on the board, without taking into account any prior term of service on the board by the member;

(d) Provide any member proposed to be removed with the following:

1. Written notice, at least seven (7) days prior to the member's removal from the board, stating the statutory proportional representation requirement that the member does not satisfy; and

2. An opportunity during the seven (7) day notice period for the member to voluntarily resign or to provide evidence to the Governor or other appointing authority that the member does satisfy the proportional representation requirement or that another member on the board who also does not satisfy the requirement has a shorter tenure than the member proposed to be removed;

(e) Replace any removed member with only those individuals who will bring the board into compliance with the proportional representation requirement; and

(f) Appoint any new member in the same manner as provided by law for the member being removed and to fill the remainder of the removed member's unexpired term.

(4) For a board of trustees or board of regents specified in subsection (2)(a) of this section, the Governor may remove for cause all appointed members of the board and replace the entire appointed membership as follows:

(a) The Governor shall notify, in writing, the board and the Council on Postsecondary Education that the entire appointed membership of the board should be removed for cause and shall specify the conduct warranting removal;

(b) The board or its members shall have seven (7) days to voluntarily resign or to provide evidence to the Council on Postsecondary Education that the conduct of the board or of individual members does not warrant removal;

(c) Within thirty (30) days after receipt of notice from the Governor, the Council on Postsecondary Education shall review the written notice, investigate the board and the conduct alleged to support removal, and make a nonbinding recommendation, in writing, to the Governor as to whether the appointed board membership should be removed, a copy of which shall also be provided to the Legislative Research Commission;

(d) The Governor shall then make a determination, in writing, whether the entire appointed board membership should be removed and shall notify the members, the Council on Postsecondary Education, and the Legislative Research Commission of the determination; and

(e) If the Governor's determination is to remove the entire appointed membership of the board, the Governor shall remove the members by executive order, and shall replace the members with new appointments according to the applicable statutes for the board of trustees or board of regents.

For the purposes of this subsection, the entire appointed membership of a board of trustees or board of regents may be removed for cause if the board is no longer functioning according to its statutory mandate as specified in the enabling statutes applicable to the board, or if the board membership's conduct as a whole constitutes malfeasance, misfeasance, incompetence, or gross neglect of duty, such that the conduct cannot be attributed to any single member or members.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Analysis

1. Constitutionality.
2. Nature of Removal.
3. Right to Hold Office.

1. Constitutionality.

2. Nature of Removal.

The power of removal herein vested in the Governor is administrative or executive in its character, and this would be so even if hearing were required. Johnson v. Laffoon, 257 Ky. 156, 77 S.W.2d 345, 1934 Ky. LEXIS 505 (Ky. 1934).

Removal extends not only to the office to which appointed, but also to other offices held by virtue thereof. Johnson v. Laffoon, 257 Ky. 156, 77 S.W.2d 345, 1934 Ky. LEXIS 505 (Ky. 1934).

3. Right to Hold Office.

12. Unauthorized Appointments.

1. In General.

An appointee to fill a vacancy may be commissioned by the Governor, although appointed by another agency or officer. Frost v. Johnston, 262 Ky. 592, 90 S.W.2d 1045, 1936 Ky. LEXIS 82 (Ky. 1936).

2. Construction.

Legislature is authorized to provide for filling vacancies in county offices or offices in districts smaller than counties. Frost v. Johnston, 262 Ky. 592, 90 S.W.2d 1045, 1936 Ky. LEXIS 82 (Ky. 1936); Barton v. Brafford, 264 Ky. 480, 95 S.W.2d 6, 1936 Ky. LEXIS 354 (Ky. 1936), overruled, Gearhart v. Kentucky State Board of Education, 355 S.W.2d 667, 1962 Ky. LEXIS 76 (Ky. 1962).

Statute authorizing Governor to fill vacancies by appointment, in any office for which no provision is made by law, though construed as applying to appointive offices, does not grant Governor power in excess of that authorized by Const., § 152, in view of the provision of Const., § 160 specifically authorizing General Assembly to prescribe manner in which vacancies in both elective and appointive offices in cities of the commonwealth may be filled. Culbertson v. Moore, 302 Ky. 768, 196 S.W.2d 308, 1946 Ky. LEXIS 742 (Ky. 1946).

3. Purpose.

The law abhors vacancies, and the presumption is against a legislative intent to create or to allow a condition which may result in an executive or administrative office remaining unoccupied. Board of Trustees v. Kercheval, 242 Ky. 1, 45 S.W.2d 846, 1931 Ky. LEXIS 711 (Ky. 1931).

4. Application.

This section pertains to vacancies in office not covered by Const., § 152, which deals with vacancies in elective offices. Rouse v. Johnson, 234 Ky. 473, 28 S.W.2d 745, 1930 Ky. LEXIS 220 (Ky. 1930).

5. Circuit Judge.

Vacancy in office of circuit judge is filled by the Governor. Feck v. Commonwealth, 264 Ky. 556, 95 S.W.2d 25, 1936 Ky. LEXIS 362 (Ky. 1936).

6. Common Council.

Where a commission form of government for a city of the third class was abolished by an election under KRS 89.290

(now repealed) and the incumbent officers lost such rights as they had in their offices when the certificate of election was spread upon the city records it was proper for the Governor to appoint councilmen under this section to serve as the common council and divide the city into wards from which members of the council could be elected at the next election. Payne v. Davis, 254 S.W.2d 710, 1953 Ky. LEXIS 606 (Ky. 1953).

7. Mayor Pro Tem.

Under this section the Governor had the authority to appoint mayor pro tem of second-class city upon board of commissioners' failure to do so. Culbertson v. Moore, 302 Ky. 768, 196 S.W.2d 308, 1946 Ky. LEXIS 742 (Ky. 1946).

8. Board of Education.

Vacancies in offices of board of education are to be filled by the board so long as a quorum remains, but when no quorum remains then by the Governor. Glass v. Hopkinsville, 225 Ky. 428, 9 S.W.2d 117, 1928 Ky. LEXIS 798 (Ky. 1928); Board of Trustees v. Kercheval, 242 Ky. 1, 45 S.W.2d 846, 1931 Ky. LEXIS 711 (Ky. 1931).

When a board of education is without any members, the Governor may appoint the entire body. Board of Trustees v. Kercheval, 242 Ky. 1, 45 S.W.2d 846, 1931 Ky. LEXIS 711 (Ky. 1931).

9. Justice of Peace.

Vacancy in office of justice of the peace is filled by the Governor. Daugherty v. Arnold, 110 Ky. 1, 60 S.W. 865, 22 Ky. L. Rptr. 1504, 1901 Ky. LEXIS 54 (Ky. 1901).

10. Police Judge.

Vacancy in office of police judge in city of fourth class is to be filled by the council. Traynor v. Beckham, 116 Ky. 13, 74 S.W. 1105, 1903 Ky. LEXIS 167 (Ky. Ct. App. 1903); Jarvis v. Stanley, 176 Ky. 630, 197 S.W. 183, 1917 Ky. LEXIS 94 (Ky. 1917); Dillon v. Stubbs, 267 Ky. 17, 100 S.W.2d 823, 1937 Ky. LEXIS 266 (Ky. 1937).

Vacancy in office of police judge in city of sixth class is to be filled by the Governor. Willson v. Hahn, 131 Ky. 439, 115 S.W. 231, 1909 Ky. LEXIS 31 (Ky. 1909).

The mere fact that under KRS 61.020 the Governor issues commissions to police judges does not of itself vest in him exclusive power of appointment to fill vacancies. Heringer v. Rolf, 287 S.W.2d 149, 1956 Ky. LEXIS 442 (Ky. 1956).

11. Boards of Trustees.

When a vacancy is to be filled by the remaining members of a board, such members as remain in office may act but if the remaining members are deadlocked, the Governor may appoint. Board of Trustees v. Kercheval, 242 Ky. 1, 45 S.W.2d 846, 1931 Ky. LEXIS 711 (Ky. 1931); Middleton v. Lewis, 248 Ky. 86, 58 S.W.2d 251, 1933 Ky. LEXIS 186 (Ky. 1933); Horn v. Wells, 253 Ky. 494, 69 S.W.2d 1011, 1934 Ky. LEXIS 695 (Ky. 1934).

12. Unauthorized Appointments.

Unauthorized appointments by Governor are invalid and vest no title. Barton v. Brafford, 264 Ky. 480, 95 S.W.2d 6, 1936 Ky. LEXIS 354 (Ky. 1936), overruled, Gearhart v. Kentucky State Board of Education, 355 S.W.2d 667, 1962 Ky. LEXIS 76 (Ky. 1962).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Where a vacancy occurs in the office of police judge and there is no other provision by law for filling the vacancy, the vacancy is to be filled by the Governor as provided in this section, subject to the provisions of Const., § 152. OAG 61-231.

Where it was anticipated that the police judge would resign, the vacancy could be filled by an appointment of the city council but the appointment would only be valid until the next regular election that embraced the city. OAG 65-877.

In view of a prolonged deadlock among the remaining members of a city council concerning the filling of the vacancy in the city council and the resulting lack of a quorum which affects the city's power to function as a governmental unit, the Governor is authorized to fill the vacancy. OAG 67-19.

Where a city of the sixth class is reactivated the police judge vacancy must be filled by an appointment of the Governor under KRS 63.190. Both the police judge and the trustees who were previously appointed will serve only until the next regular election. The term of office of the police judge being four (4) years will not expire however and the vacancy in the position created by the city's activation will have to be filled at the coming election for the unexpired term. OAG 67-218.

When two or more cities elect to merge to create a new city the vacancy for police judge of the newly created city should be filled by the Governor. OAG 67-488.

Where the candidates for mayor, police judge and five (5) out of six (6) candidates for city commissioner failed to qualify for nomination, three vacancies on the four (4) man commission should be filled by the Governor pursuant to KRS 63.190. Following the Governor's commission appointments, the commission in turn should select a mayor pro tem under the provisions of KRS 89.520 (now repealed) and while one commissioner is serving in effect as mayor on a permanent basis, the remaining members must select another commissioner to complete the four (4) member board. The police judge vacancy should be filled pursuant to KRS 86.240 (now repealed) giving authority to the commission. All appointments mentioned should be held only until an election can be held pursuant to Const., § 152. OAG 69-447.

A police judge appointed by the county judge (now county judge/executive) to fill a vacancy was an invalid appointment since only the Governor can make such an appointment. OAG 70-807.

Where a magistrate died after the primary election in a year in which a statewide election was to be held, a replacement could be appointed to hold office only until the November election at which time a magistrate would be elected to take office immediately. OAG 71-257.

A vacancy created by the resignation of the police judge in a sixth-class city must be filled by the Governor pursuant to this section. OAG 72-197.

When a member of the fiscal court resigns, the Governor has the authority to fill the vacancy and there is no reason that the person who resigned can not be appointed to fill that same position. OAG 72-389.

Vacancies in the office of police judge must be filled by the Governor with a person who has resided within the city for the time prescribed and is a registered voter. OAG 73-722.

Where a magistrate resigns, the only provision for filling a vacancy in the office is by appointment by the Governor until the next regular election. OAG 73-809.

Governor is authorized to fill any vacancy created in the office of magistrate since there is no other specific provision in the statutes for filling such vacancy. OAG 73-809.

As ASC regulations provide that an elected official is not eligible to serve as a member of the county ASC committee, a magistrate elected committeeman must resign by submitting his resignation to the Governor, who has the authority to fill the vacancy, but the resignation must be received and accepted prior to the date on which the individual entered the office of county committeeman in order to be effective. OAG 74-36.

Upon the reclassification of a city of the fourth class to a city of the third class, since the city under KRS 86.030 (now repealed) formerly had only six (6) councilmen, the quorum of seven required by KRS 85.080 (now repealed) could not exist for appointment under KRS 85.310 (now repealed) (providing for filling of vacancies) of the six (6) additional members required by KRS 85.040 (now repealed) (providing for twelve (12) councilmen in third class city); thus since the Governor is the appointing power under this section and he may either fill the remaining vacancies on the council or appoint one member so as to constitute a quorum and enable the council to fill the remaining vacancies under the provisions of KRS 85.310 (now repealed). OAG 74-308.

Where a justice of the peace, whose term was to expire at the end of December, 1981, moved out of his district in July, 1980, a vacancy was thereby created on the fiscal court; the Governor fills the vacancy by appointment until the November, 1980, general election, at which time the vacancy will be filled by election for the remainder of the unexpired term. OAG 80-425.

Where county increased its magisterial districts from four (4) to five (5), then a vacancy would automatically exist in the fifth district which must be filled for the unexpired term in accordance with the requirements of Const., § 152 and said election would be held in the coming November election; prior to the election for the unexpired term, the Governor could fill the vacancy by appointment, pursuant to this section, which would end when the person elected in November received his certificate of election and qualified for the office. OAG 83-55.

1. Construction.

Where fees were paid the sheriff on written but unsigned fee-bills and where payment of some other fees was directed by the county court without fee-bills this section was directory only and an omission to literally comply with this section did not create liability. Fannin v. Davis, 385 S.W.2d 321, 1964 Ky. LEXIS 158 (Ky. 1964), overruled in part, Scalise v. Sewell-Scheuermann, 566 S.W.3d 539, 2018 Ky. LEXIS 451 (Ky. 2018).

2. Common Law Rule Discarded.

Common law rule that right of compensation is incidental to title to public office and not to performing functions of same, thereby entitling officer to receive emoluments under the office even though he performs no duties or services providing he does not abandon the office, was discarded upon adoption of the present constitution and the enactment of KRS 61.120 and this section. Whitworth v. Miller, 302 Ky. 24, 193 S.W.2d 470, 1946 Ky. LEXIS 592 (Ky. 1946).

3. Statutory Compensation.

An officer is not entitled to a fee for services performed for which his statutory compensation has not been fixed. Owen County v. Walker, 141 Ky. 516, 133 S.W. 236, 1911 Ky. LEXIS 43 (Ky. 1911); Graves County v. Wallace, 144 Ky. 194, 138 S.W. 306, 1911 Ky. LEXIS 630 (Ky. 1911); Elliott v. Commonwealth, 144 Ky. 335, 138 S.W. 300, 1911 Ky. Mercer County*, 174 Ky. 566, 192 S.W. 638, 1917 Ky. LEXIS 216 (Ky. 1917); Grinstead v. Carter, 181 Ky. 331, 204 S.W. 87, 1918 Ky. LEXIS 515 (Ky. 1918); Lewis v. James, 191 Ky. 769, 231 S.W. 526, 1921 Ky. LEXIS 392 (Ky. 1921); Graves County v. Roach, 197 Ky. 734, 248 S.W. 175, 1923 Ky. LEXIS 715 (Ky. 1923); Logan County v. Russell, 203 Ky. 592, 262 S.W. 953, 1924 Ky. LEXIS 958 (Ky. 1924); Dorris v. Logan County, 205 Ky. 152, 265 S.W. 512, 1924 Ky. LEXIS 70 (Ky. 1924); Nichols v. Board of Education, 232 Ky. 428, 23 S.W.2d 607, 1930 Ky. LEXIS 18 (Ky. 1930); Harlan County v. Blair, 243 Ky. 777, 49 S.W.2d 1028, 1932 Ky. LEXIS 193 (Ky. 1932); Baker v. Tedders, 244 Ky. 736, 52 S.W.2d 715, 1932 Ky. LEXIS 511 (Ky. 1932); Talbot v. Caudill, 248 Ky. 146, 58 S.W.2d 385, 1933 Ky. LEXIS 206 (Ky. 1933); Taylor v. Scoville, 252 Ky. 809, 68 S.W.2d 423, 1934 Ky. LEXIS 868 (Ky. 1934); Taylor v. Jones, 253 Ky. 285, 69 S.W.2d 372, 1934 Ky. LEXIS 648 (Ky. 1934); McNally v. Grauman, 255 Ky. 201, 73 S.W.2d 28, 1934 Ky. LEXIS 217 (Ky. 1934); Goodlett v. Anderson County, 267 Ky. 166, 101 S.W.2d 421, 1936 Ky. LEXIS 761 (Ky. 1936); Bates v. Greenup County, 282 Ky. 268, 138 S.W.2d 463, 1940 Ky. LEXIS 160 (Ky. 1940); Smothers v. Washington County Fiscal Court, 294 Ky. 35, 170 S.W.2d 867, 1943 Ky. LEXIS 366 (Ky. 1943); Wilson v. Ball, 323 S.W.2d 840, 1959 Ky. LEXIS 336 (Ky. 1959).

4. — Limitation.

No officer is entitled to demand or receive for the performance of his public duties more than is authorized by law. Webster County v. Nance, 362 S.W.2d 723, 1962 Ky. LEXIS 261 (Ky. 1962).

Where the sheriff did not provide any of the services to the District Court which would give rise to his entitlement to the fees established in subsection (7) of KRS 24A.175 and subdivision (7) of KRS 64.092, the trial court properly denied the sheriff's claim to the sums being held for such purposes by the clerk of the Circuit Court. Baskett v. Radcliff, 709 S.W.2d 463, 1986 Ky. App. LEXIS 1131 (Ky. Ct. App. 1986).

5. Form.

Fee-bills are to be made out against those to whom the services have been rendered. Howard v. Commonwealth, 231 Ky. 54, 20 S.W.2d 1011, 1929 Ky. LEXIS 204 (Ky. 1929).

6. Service Rendered.

An officer is not entitled to fee for services not actually rendered. Ray v. Woodruff, 168 Ky. 563, 182 S.W. 662, 1906 Ky.

LEXIS 277 (Ky. 1906); Wright v. Morris, 212 Ky. 403, 279 S.W. 631, 1926 Ky. LEXIS 157 (Ky. 1926); Webster County v. Vaughn, 365 S.W.2d 109, 1962 Ky. LEXIS 283 (Ky. 1962).

KRS 69.530 (repealed), construed in the light of subsection (2)(c) of this section and KRS 69.520 (repealed), contemplates the payment of compensation to a prosecuting attorney of a city of the third class only for services rendered in actual prosecution of cases in the police court. Grant v. Winchester, 310 Ky. 417, 220 S.W.2d 993, 1949 Ky. LEXIS 944 (Ky. 1949).

The prosecuting attorney in a city of the third class is not entitled to receive as compensation 30% of $1.00 penalties paid for violation of parking meter regulations. Grant v. Winchester, 310 Ky. 417, 220 S.W.2d 993, 1949 Ky. LEXIS 944 (Ky. 1949).

If the county attorney, though not physically present, actually renders some service in the particular case in quarterly court or magistrate's court, by some means of communication with the court, he is entitled to the fees, and the question of whether or not the written notice has been given is not material. Funk v. Milliken, 317 S.W.2d 499, 1958 Ky. LEXIS 100 (Ky. 1958).

7. Overcharges.

Overcharges collected by officer are recoverable. Goodlett v. Anderson County, 267 Ky. 166, 101 S.W.2d 421, 1936 Ky. LEXIS 761 (Ky. 1936).

8. Excess Receipts.

All of the fees, or portions thereof, may be given to the officer performing the service for the public and if part only is allotted to the officer he is required to pay to the county the excess receipts over and above the amounts allowed for his maximum compensation and reimbursement of his expenses of office, if any. Webster County v. Nance, 362 S.W.2d 723, 1962 Ky. LEXIS 261 (Ky. 1962).

9. Absence of Officer.

In light of KRS 61.120 this section as enacted in conformity to Ky. Const., §§ 42, 97, 98, 106, 108 and 235, Commonwealth's Attorney was not entitled to receive emoluments of office while absent therefrom in army. Whitworth v. Miller, 302 Ky. 24, 193 S.W.2d 470, 1946 Ky. LEXIS 592 (Ky. 1946).

10. Justice of Peace.

Fees collected by a justice of the peace do not belong to him personally but represent the charges which the county makes for services rendered through him as an officer and constitute a fund subject to the control of the county. Webster County v. Nance, 362 S.W.2d 723, 1962 Ky. LEXIS 261 (Ky. 1962).

Where a county fiscal court could not justify paying at least $9,600 to each of its three (3) justices of the peace based upon the present absence of public services performed by them, the solution would be for the magistrates to request the General Assembly to either increase the duties of those not serving on a fiscal court, or, in the alternative for fiscal court, to be permitted to establish a salary below $9,600 in line with services actually performed. Roland v. Jefferson County Fiscal Court, 599 S.W.2d 469, 1980 Ky. App. LEXIS 320 (Ky. Ct. App. 1980).

11. Collateral Attack.

Allowance of fee for services for which statutory compensation has not been fixed is void and subject to collateral attack. Elliott v. Commonwealth, 144 Ky. 335, 138 S.W. 300, 1911 Ky. LEXIS 626 (Ky. 1911); Elliott v. Commonwealth, 144 Ky. 341, 138 S.W. 303, 1911 Ky. LEXIS 627 (Ky. 1911); Logan County v. Russell, 203 Ky. 592, 262 S.W. 953, 1924 Ky. LEXIS 958 (Ky. 1924); Dorris v. Logan County, 205 Ky. 152, 265 S.W. 512, 1924 Ky. LEXIS 70 (Ky. 1924); Taylor v. Jones, 253 Ky. 285, 69 S.W.2d 372, 1934 Ky. LEXIS 648 (Ky. 1934); Goodlett v. Anderson County, 267 Ky. 166, 101 S.W.2d 421, 1936 Ky. LEXIS 761 (Ky. 1936).

12. Ex Officio Duties.

Subsection (6) recognizes right of Legislature to impose new ex officio duties upon a public officer, without compensation. Greene v. Cohen, 181 Ky. 108, 203 S.W. 1077, 1918 Ky. LEXIS 501 (Ky. 1918); Lewis v. James, 191 Ky. 769, 231 S.W. 526, 1921 Ky. LEXIS 392 (Ky. 1921); Smothers v. Washington County Fiscal Court, 294 Ky. 35, 170 S.W.2d 867, 1943 Ky. LEXIS 366 (Ky. 1943).

Where no compensation is fixed by statute for services rendered by an officer, and where the services are ex officio, the officer is entitled to make no charge by way of fee-bill, or on account of necessarily entailed expenses. Fulton v. Shanklin, 275 Ky. 772, 122 S.W.2d 733, 1938 Ky. LEXIS 490 (Ky. 1938).

Cited:

Miller v. Robertson, 306 Ky. 653, 208 S.W.2d 977, 1948 Ky. LEXIS 631 (Ky. 1948); Polston v. King, 965 S.W.2d 143, 1998 Ky. LEXIS 34 (Ky. 1998).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Where the circuit clerk does not attend to the collecting of fines imposed by the county judge (now county judge/executive) but which were not reported to the circuit clerk nor make out the reports on such fines, nor forward them to the state, he is not entitled to the 5% allowed by subsection (2) of KRS 28.180 (now repealed). OAG 61-409.

Where a county judge (now county judge/executive) appointed his wife to serve as juvenile officer at a salary although she performed no services, the judge had an indirect interest in a contract or claim against the county contrary to KRS 61.220. OAG 61-527.

A magistrate or constable cannot properly charge a collection fee which is in excess of the charges permitted for the simple writing of a warrant. OAG 65-403.

A mayor, even though he had qualified as such, would not be entitled to the emoluments of the office where he had never performed any of the duties of the office. OAG 66-69.

Where the county attorney does not personally participate in the prosecution but has another attorney, not an assistant county attorney, acting in his behalf, the county attorney could not collect the statutory fees. OAG 66-382.

Fees earned by the county clerk who resigned must be paid to him instead of to his successor. OAG 67-442.

Under subsections 2(a) and 2(b) of this section, it is unlawful for a constable in Fayette County to conduct the inspection of out-of-state motor vehicles required by subsection (1) of KRS 186.235 (now repealed) and collect a fee therefor. OAG 67-496.

A chief of police is not authorized to receive additional fees or a percentage of the taxes collected for acting as tax collector. OAG 68-16.

Where, due to incapacitating illness, the regular judge was unable to return to his duties following his statutory vacation and a pro tem judge served in his place, if the regular judge continued to receive his salary during his illness his estate was liable to the county for the money except for that received for the vacation period. OAG 69-660.

Where a pro tem judge was appointed to serve during the regular judge's statutory vacation and continued to serve due to the regular judge's incapacitating illness, the fiscal court was legally responsible for paying the county judge pro tem for his services in that capacity for the period of time he served. OAG 69-660.

Where the regular police judge of a fourth-class city has been ill and unable to perform his duties for a reasonable period of time, the city would not be compelled to pay the regular judge for services not performed, especially when the regular judge has appointed a pro tem judge to take his place. OAG 72-164.

Section would prohibit a constable from collecting a fee for service of summons when the defendant could not be found and served. OAG 72-437.

County attorney may not collect a fee for processing support payments under the Uniform Support of Dependents Act. OAG 72-485.

Salaries city policemen have no authority to demand the sheriff's arresting fee and the illegal arresting fees can be recovered by the city in an action against the policemen on behalf of the person who originally paid the fees. OAG 73-197.

The arresting fee for a sheriff serving process or arresting a party in a misdemeanor case in a fifth-class city where the defendant is convicted is seven dollars ($7) but if a city policeman or a state trooper makes such an arrest, he is not entitled to an arresting fee. OAG 74-49.

Chief of police of fifth-class city, who is entitled to a salary plus arresting fees, may not claim the arresting fee where state trooper makes the arrest. OAG 74-188.

A sheriff cannot receive compensation or a fee for guarding the jury overnight and for several days and nights as there is no statute expressly authorizing such compensation. OAG 74-309.

Where the coroner retains a copy of the report of his inquest and makes copies of it for interested persons, there is no statutory basis for a coroner's fee. OAG 75-248.

Although subsequent to January 2, 1978 persons may still be elected to the office of justice of the peace and justices of the peace would retain any nonjudicial powers found in the statutes, in a county having the commissioner type of government in 1978 there are practically no authorized statutory functions for a justice of the peace and since performance of some statutory duties is necessary to entitle justices of the peace to compensation and expense allowances in 1978, payment of any compensation or expense allowance to such justices not serving on fiscal courts would raise a serious constitutional question. OAG 77-133.

To the extent that any salary paid to constables under KRS 64.200 would not reflect payment for services rendered, such payment would be unconstitutional and in violation of this section. OAG 77-257.

Where the county jail was condemned and closed and the incumbent county jailer performed only janitorial services at the courthouse but had no duties in relation to keeping prisoners since they were housed in jail facilities in surrounding counties the payment of any portion of such jailer's salary not reflecting services actually rendered would be illegal. OAG 77-523.

This section contemplates the use of tax money to pay public officials only for services actually rendered. OAG 78-206.

Where a police officer was on work-related disability for approximately one (1) year and, consequently, rendered no public service during that period since he did not work in his capacity as a city police officer, he was not entitled to paid annual leave time for that period of time. OAG 78-206.

The fiscal court can approve the payroll prior to the actual pay period so that the clerk can issue checks without having to wait for the next fiscal court meeting for approval as long as, at the time the checks are actually issued and delivered to the county employees, the checks relate only to services actually performed prior to the issuance and delivery of the checks to the payees. OAG 78-248.

Any practice of making full or partial payments on state personal service contracts in advance of the actual and full performance of the contract is unconstitutional. OAG 80-38.

A city employee cannot, in lieu of receiving the fringe benefit of a Blue Cross, Blue Shield hospital insurance policy paid for by the city, receive the cash value of the insurance policy as salary. OAG 80-276.

The county clerks have to charge one (1) uniform fee for release of real estate mortgages; it has to be precisely the fee authorized under KRS 64.012 and the clerks cannot vary that fee. OAG 80-484.

A county sheriff or local police officer cannot be paid an arrest fee and transportation expenses for arresting and transporting a member of the National Guard pursuant to a "Warrant of Arrest on Military Charges." OAG 83-487.

Where fiscal court magistrates served on a number of boards and committees, but none of these boards or committees were official committees of the fiscal court, no part of the expense allowance provided by KRS 64.530(6) could be paid since such moneys can only be expended in consideration for public services. OAG 84-71.

COMPENSATION OF PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES GENERALLY

64.480. Compensation of elective state officers — Adjustment of salaries.

(1) Effective, with respect to the offices of Governor on December 11, 1979, and Lieutenant Governor on the fifth Tuesday following the regular November election in 1975, and with respect to the other offices named in this section on the first Monday in January, 1976, the compensation of the following named officers, payable monthly out of the State Treasury, shall be the sum per annum designated for the respective offices, as follows: Governor, forty-five thousand dollars ($45,000) until December 11, 1981, then fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) until December 13, 1983, and then sixty thousand dollars ($60,000) until January 1, 1985; Lieutenant Governor, twenty-seven thousand nine hundred dollars ($27,900) per annum, plus any compensation received while acting in the place of the Governor; Attorney General, Commissioner of Agriculture, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Auditor of Public Accounts, and clerk of the Supreme Court of Kentucky elected in November, 1975, as clerk of the Court of Appeals, twenty-seven thousand nine hundred dollars ($27,900).

(2) In order to equate or adjust the compensation of the Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Commissioner of Agriculture, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Auditor of Public Accounts, and clerk of the Supreme Court of Kentucky with the purchasing power of the 1949 dollar, the Department for Local Government of Kentucky shall compute by the second Friday in February of every year, beginning in 1977, the maximum permissible compensation of the officials mentioned in this subsection based precisely upon the consumer price index formula approved in Matthews v. Allen, Kentucky, 360 S.W.2d 139 (1962). Thus the maximum permissible compensation effective for the entire year of 1977 and subsequent years will be the actual compensation to be paid said officials. The year of adjustment will be the particular full calendar year involved.

(3) It is the intention of the Legislature that the constitutionally permissible adjustment of salaries of these officials be framed around equating current salaries with the purchasing power of the dollar in 1949 when Section 246 of the Constitution of Kentucky was amended. Section 246 of the Constitution of Kentucky, as amended, established a monetary level of twelve thousand dollars ($12,000) per annum for said officials. The formula merely effects an adjustment of the constitutional monetary level in terms of the current consumer price index.

(4) In order to adjust the compensation of the Governor to reflect changes in the purchasing power of the dollar, the Department for Local Government shall compute by the second Friday in February of every year, beginning in 1985, an adjusted salary of the Governor by multiplying sixty thousand dollars ($60,000) by the increase in the consumer price index during the period from January 1, 1984, to the beginning of the then-current calendar year. The actual compensation paid to the Governor for the entire calendar year of 1985 and subsequent years shall be the adjusted salary.

1. Construction.

The treasurer's salary as fixed by this section was not changed by the biennial budget appropriation bills. Dishman v. Coleman, 244 Ky. 239, 50 S.W.2d 504, 1932 Ky. LEXIS 397 (Ky. 1932).

KRS 64.480 to 64.760 (KRS 64.760, now repealed) did not impliedly repeal KRS 89.250 (now repealed) relating to initiative procedure in cities operating under the commission form of government. Maysville v. Kenton, 252 S.W.2d 39, 1952 Ky. LEXIS 976 (Ky. 1952), overruled, Newport v. Gugel, 342 S.W.2d 517, 1960 Ky. LEXIS 95 (Ky. 1960).

2. Limit on Compensation.

Under KRS 64.480 to 64.760 (KRS 64.760, now repealed) and the amendment to Const., § 246 compensation up to $7,200 per annum is authorized to be fixed for local officers. Funk v. Milliken, 317 S.W.2d 499, 1958 Ky. LEXIS 100 (Ky. 1958).

3. Power of Local Bodies.

KRS 64.480 to 64.760 (KRS 64.760, now repealed) gave the legislative bodies of various political subdivisions the power and duty to fix the salaries of officials who served that unit, limit the number and amount of salaries of deputies and assistants, and generally to control or define proper expenditures to be made in connection with the operation of the office. Wilson v. Ball, 323 S.W.2d 840, 1959 Ky. LEXIS 336 (Ky. 1959).

4. Increase During Term.

Nothing in KRS 64.480 to 64.760 (KRS 64.760, now repealed) is intended to authorize an increase in the compensation of any officer in office on June 30, 1950, during his term except where these sections make such an increase or where the public officer or body having authority under these sections to fix the compensation or the limits of compensation takes specific action to make such increase. Farnsley v. Henderson, 240 S.W.2d 82, 1951 Ky. LEXIS 951 (Ky. 1951).

5. Jefferson County Commissioners.

KRS 64.480 to 64.760 (KRS 64.760, now repealed) affirmatively state that no change was being made in the salaries of Jefferson County commissioners. Shamburger v. Duncan, 253 S.W.2d 388, 1952 Ky. LEXIS 1090 (Ky. 1952).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

An increase of the Lieutenant Governor's salary as provided for in the 1972 amendment to this section by Acts 1972, chapter 22, is considered a salary adjustment and not a salary change and is, therefore, not prohibited by Const., § 235 as it conforms to the consumer price index when the amendment was passed. OAG 72-567.

Following the 1980 adjustment, the maximum compensation permissible for constitutional officers who are in the $12,000 limit category mentioned in Const., § 246 would be $38,640. OAG 80-74.

The officers listed in subsection (2) of this section must be paid the maximum permissible under "rubber dollar." OAG 80-74.

Although state officials must, under this section, receive the maximum indexed compensation figure, under KRS 15.755 and 15.765, the maximum compensation of the Commonwealth's Attorneys and county attorneys is not mandated. OAG 82-80.

The Governor's salary for 1988 was $68,364. OAG 88-10.

The maximum annual compensation for the Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Commissioner of Agriculture, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Auditor of Public Accounts, and clerk of the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth was $58,101. OAG 88-10.

The maximum annual compensation possible for the Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Commissioner of Agriculture, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Auditor of Public Accounts and Clerk of the Supreme Court of Kentucky for 1990 would be $63,462. OAG 90-17.

The Department of Local Government accurately computed the maximum annual compensation for the Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Commissioner of Agriculture, Secretary of State, Treasurer, Auditor of Public Accounts, and Clerk of the Supreme Court, as $67,378 for 1991. OAG 91-29.

The Department of Local Government is required to compute, by the second Friday in February of every year, beginning in 1985, an adjusted salary of the Governor; such computation is to be made by multiplying the base compensation of sixty thousand ($60,000), by the increase in the CPI during the period from January 1, 1984, to the beginning of the then-current calendar year (here 1991), and the Department computed accurately the Governor's maximum annual compensation for 1991 as $79,255. OAG 91-29.

Pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, the Department of Local Government is required to compute, by the second Friday in February of every year, beginning in 1985, an adjusted salary of the Governor; such computation is to be made by multiplying the base compensation of sixty thousand ($60,000), by the increase in the CPI during the period from January 1, 1984, to the beginning of the then-current calendar year. OAG 92-27.

For an opinion verifying the accuracy of computations to be used in adjusting salaries of constitutional officers in relation to changes in the Consumer Price Index, see OAG 93-21.

For the adjustments to salaries of constitutional officers in relation to changes in the Consumer Price Index salary adjustment computations and therefore, the maximum annual compensation allowable by law for such positions in 1994 see OAG 94-7.

For the adjustments to salaries of constitutional officers in relation to change in the Consumer Price Index salary adjustment computations and therefore, the maximum annual compensation allowable for such positions in 1995 see OAG 95-5.

In the case of any political subdivision or local governmental unit or district other than a county or city, having a governing body or authority composed of more than one (1) member, such governing body or authority shall fix the compensation of every officer and employee of the political subdivision, local governmental unit, or district whose compensation is payable from the funds of the political subdivision, governmental unit, or district, except that in the case of officers elected by popular vote the same limitations and restrictions shall apply as are applicable under KRS 83A.070 to the fixing of compensation of city officers elected by popular vote. Nothing in this section is intended to confer any power on any governing board or authority, with respect to the compensation of its own members, that it does not specifically possess under other statutes. This section applies to school districts, but is not intended to supersede any present provision of law relating to the fixing or payment of the compensation of teachers.

64.640. Compensation of state officers and employees generally.

(1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2) of this section, and excepting officers elected by popular vote, employees of the General Assembly, including employees of the Legislative Research Commission, members of boards and commissions, those officers and employees of Kentucky Educational Television exempt from classified service as provided in KRS 18A.115, presidents and employees of the state universities and the state colleges, officers employed by the Department of Kentucky State Police under KRS Chapter 16, and persons employed by the commissioner of parks on a temporary basis under KRS 148.026, the Personnel Cabinet shall prepare schedules of compensation, payable out of the State Treasury, with a minimum salary rate, and other salary rates as are deemed necessary or advisable, for the office or position of employment of every state officer and employee, including specifically the offices and positions of employment in every constitutional administrative department, statutory administrative department, independent agency, board, commission, or other unit of state government. The language of any statute empowering a board, commission, authority, or other administrative body for which the Personnel Cabinet provides personnel and payroll services, except for any board governing any of the Kentucky Retirement Systems, the County Employees Retirement System, the Kentucky Public Pensions Authority, the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority, the Kentucky Authority for Educational Television, or the Council on Postsecondary Education, to establish, set, or approve the salaries of its administrative head and other employees to the contrary notwithstanding, the establishment or setting of salaries for administrative heads or other employees shall be subject to the approval of the secretary of the Personnel Cabinet. The schedules and rates shall be based upon studies of the duties and responsibilities of the offices and positions and upon a comparison with rates being paid for similar or comparable services elsewhere, and in the preparation of such schedules, the Personnel Cabinet shall ascertain and record the duties, responsibilities, and authority pertaining to the various offices and positions in the state service, and classify such positions in the manner provided in KRS 18A.030, 18A.035, 18A.110, 18A.130, 18A.135, and 18A.150 to 18A.160. No such schedule shall become effective until it has been approved by the Governor by executive order.

(2) The Governor shall set the compensation payable out of the State Treasury to each officer or position in the state service, which officer or position heads a statutory administrative department, independent agency, or other unit of state government, except for those excluded under subsection (1) of this section. Such compensation shall be based upon studies of the duties and responsibilities and classification of the positions by the Governor and upon a comparison with compensation being paid for similar or comparable services elsewhere, provided, however, such compensation shall not exceed the total taxable compensation of the Governor derived from state sources, the provisions of KRS 64.660 to the contrary notwithstanding. For the purposes of this section, the total taxable compensation of the Governor from state sources shall include the amount provided for compensation to the Governor under KRS 64.480 and any benefits or discretionary spending accounts that are imputed as taxable income for federal tax purposes.

(3) The compensation payable out of the State Treasury to officers and employees subordinate to any office or position covered by subsection (2) of this section shall not exceed the maximum rate established pursuant to subsection (2) of this section for such office or position, except with respect to physicians as provided in KRS 64.655 and employees of the Public Service Commission of Kentucky whose compensation shall be fixed, within constitutional limits, by the Personnel Cabinet with the approval of the Governor as provided in subsection (1) of this section.

(4) Nothing in this section shall preclude the allowance of maintenance to officers and employees of the state.

Legislative Research Commission Notes.

(7/15/2016). This statute was amended in 2016 Ky. Acts ch. 109, sec. 11 and ch. 110, sec. 12. 2016 Ky. Acts ch. 110, sec. 15 provided that ch. 110 takes precedence over ch. 109. Chapter 110 was also the later-passed bill. Therefore, 2016 Ky. Acts ch.

110, sec. 12 has been codified and 2016 Ky. Acts ch. 109, sec. 11 has not.

Compiler's Notes.

Section 15 of Acts 2016, ch. 110 read: "Sections 6 to 12 of this Act shall take precedence over the provisions of Sections 5 to 11 of 16 RS HB 535 [Act 109] should that bill be enacted."

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Governor is privileged, without reference to Const., § 246, to raise the salary of the commissioner of mental health to any amount which, in his opinion, is reasonably commensurate with the services rendered. OAG 61-594.

Subsection (3) of this section relates primarily to officers and employees subordinate to any office mentioned in subsection (2). OAG 70-195.

Salaries in excess of $7,500 per annum to officers and employees of the Crime Commission are legal provided they do not exceed $20,000 per annum. OAG 70-769.

The Crime Commission is a statutory agency within the meaning of subsection (2) of this section. OAG 70-769.

Where the commissioner of personnel indicated his approval of the worth of a salary increase for the executive secretary of the state and county retirement systems but denied it on the basis of the limitations set by this section which did not apply to the position, it was an abuse of discretion to deny the increase. OAG 71-369.

Section 246 of the Constitution and this section have no application to personal service contracts, and KRS 18.140 (now repealed), as amended in 1978, expressly exempts persons employed in a professional or scientific capacity from the classified service. OAG 78-692.

The statutes do not grant sole authority to Kentucky Authority for Educational Television to determine who may be exempt from KRS Chapter 18 (now Ch. 18A); at most, they exclude from the commissioner of personnel's determination of salary those positions exempted by the merit system under KRS 18.140 (now KRS 18A.115); and Kentucky educational television was not given authority to exempt other positions not so listed, nor was it given the sole right to determine the salary of nonexempted positions. OAG 80-537.

An annual salary increment under KRS 18A.350 to 18A.360 (KRS 18A.360, now repealed), governing employees of the executive branch, may not take an employee's salary beyond the maximum established in this section (the amount provided for compensation to the Governor). OAG 82-355.

Just as this section provides an upper limit for all employees with regard to their potential salary, including any 5 percent increases, KRS 161.340 must be read into KRS 18A.350 to 18A.360 (KRS 18A.360, now repealed) to provide an absolute upper salary limit for the executive secretary of the Teachers' Retirement System to be the maximum set for commissioners by subsection (2) of this section. OAG 82-355.

Constitutional officers are not entitled to vacation pay over and above their base salary; they may take vacations without reduction in salary and are not entitled to additional compensation, either as vacation, sick, or compensatory pay. OAG 88-7.

Upon review of this section, KRS 346.030, and 12.020 II 6. (k), as well as of KRS 18A.350, 18A.355, and 18A.360 (now repealed), the incumbents of the Crime Victims Compensation Board are included under the language of KRS 18A.350 which defines employee as any officer or employee of the executive branch of government; therefore, it would appear that the members of the Crime Victims Compensation Board are eligible for annual increments, although it is entirely possible that this was not the intent of the Legislature. OAG 90-25.

Upon review of this section KRS 346.030, 44.070 and 12.020 II 6. (k), as well as of KRS 18A.350, 18A.355, and 18A.360 (now repealed), the incumbents of the Board of Claims are included under the language of KRS 18A.350 which defines employee as any officer or employee of the executive branch of government; therefore, it would appear that the members of the Board of Claims are eligible for annual increments, although it is entirely possible that this was not the intent of the Legislature. OAG 90-25.

Upon review of this section, KRS 439.320(1) and (3), and 12.020 II 10. (a), as well as of KRS 18A.350, 18A.355, and 18A.360 (now repealed), the incumbents of the Parole Board are included under the language of KRS 18A.350 which defines employee as any officer or employee of the executive branch of government; therefore, it would appear that the members of the Parole Board are eligible for annual increments, although it is entirely possible that this was not the intent of the Legislature. OAG 90-25.

Upon review of this section and KRS 229.151, as well as of KRS 18A.350, 18A.355, and 18A.360 (now repealed), the incumbents of the Athletic Commission are included under the language of KRS 18A.350 which defines employee as any officer or employee of the executive branch of government; therefore, it would appear that the members of the Athletic Commission are eligible for annual increments, although it is entirely possible that this was not the intent of the Legislature. OAG 90-25.

Upon review of this section and KRS 338.071, as well as of KRS 18A.350, 18A.355, and 18A.360 (now repealed), the incumbents of the Occupational Safety Health and Review Commission are included under the language of KRS 18A.350 which defines employee as any officer or employee of the executive branch of government; therefore, it would appear that the members of the Occupational Safety Health and Review Commission are eligible for annual increments, although it is entirely possible that this was not the intent of the Legislature. OAG 90-25.

While assistant county attorneys are appointed with the approval of the Prosecutors Advisory Council, salaries are merely comparable with the classification and compensation plan for comparable positions maintained by the state department of personnel, pursuant to this section, not synonymous with them. OAG 91-218.

The Governor did not violate provision of 2003 budget bill (Part IV, Item Three of HB 269) in establishing the initial salaries of his newly appointed Cabinet Secretaries and other appointees pursuant to his authority under subsection (2) of this section. OAG 04-003.

OAG 70-542.

The mayor of a third-class city cannot, in addition to his regular pay as set by statute, receive a stipulated amount of money per month for expenses and not make an accounting for such additional sums so received. OAG 70-542.

Commissioners of a water district created pursuant to KRS Ch. 74 are public officers and as such are prohibited from receiving lump sum expense allowances. OAG 70-641.

Members of the board of business schools and the board's employees should be reimbursed only for their travel and other actual expenses. OAG 70-715.

No member of the State Board of Business Schools or any employee of the Board may receive a per diem allowance. OAG 70-715.

A lump sum expense account for constables would be illegal. OAG 70-751.

Where an ordinance was properly passed granting the mayor a lump sum expense account but it was invalid under the statute, any payment pursuant thereto could possibly be recovered in a taxpayer's suit with the possible exception of actual expenses incurred during the period in which it was paid. OAG 71-55.

The county judge (now county judge/executive) is required to document his actual official expenses as they occur in order that his claims may be properly presented to the fiscal court. OAG 71-417.

A city ordinance allowing the mayor a lump sum allowance of $50 per month for automobile expenses is invalid under this section, since no statute authorizes such an allowance. OAG 72-127.

Pursuant to KRS 64.258 (now repealed), a county may establish for each of the magistrates on the fiscal court a monthly expense allowance not to exceed $100 providing county has sufficient excess funds and all of the magistrates in the county are paid equal amounts. Allowance does not constitute a salary within the meaning of KRS 64.255 (repealed), and if the necessary official expenses of a magistrate exceed the established allowance for a particular month the magistrate may be reimbursed for such excess out of the county treasury provided that such claims are properly documented. OAG 73-551.

Lump sum amount for expenses cannot be paid to a public officer without express statutory authority and unless the expenses were actually incurred and properly documented. OAG 73-597.

A blanket sum from revenue sharing money allocated to the sheriff's office is not valid since it does not conform to KRS 64.530 in providing specific sums for specific purposes, lump sum expense accounts generally being prohibited by this section. OAG 74-79.

Fiscal court could not make a blanket advance appropriation to sheriff for expenses incurred for automobiles, deputies' salaries and expenses incurred by night patrolling of county roads. OAG 74-159.

The fiscal court cannot provide for lump sum expense payments to constables. OAG 74-282.

An ordinance of the fiscal court which approves the selection of a detective by the county attorney is in conflict with this section if it provides for a lump sum expense account for the detective. OAG 74-303.

A county fiscal court order under authority of KRS 67.083, providing that the county will reimburse the county judge (now county judge/executive) for the added expenses of the extra duty involved in executing extra matters not to exceed $50.00 per week, is not a flat amount or lump sum prohibited by this section and, is legal, provided it does not duplicate state payments made under KRS 25.320(2) (repealed) to county judges (now county judges/executives) to defray or partly defray the expenses of their office. OAG 74-347.

It would be improper to pay a city attorney a flat monthly sum of $250 for office expense as he is entitled to be reimbursed only for those office expenses that are actually incurred and for which an itemized accounting has been made. OAG 74-696.

Payment of regular expense allowances to justices of the peace under the authority of KRS 64.258 (now repealed) does not violate this section. OAG 74-716.

The city prosecuting attorney as a public officer is prohibited from receiving any lump sum expense allowance for personal or official expenses except when expressly authorized by statute but is entitled to receive reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses incurred in connection with the performance of his duties. OAG 75-29.

This section would prohibit a county sheriff from providing an expense account for his deputies from the excess fees of his office. OAG 75-317.

This section prohibits the granting of a lump sum expense account to the county treasurer. OAG 75-342.

In a county where the finance system of KRS 64.345 applies, the sheriff's expenses must be paid out of the 75% account as fixed by the fiscal court no later than January 15 of each year and, as KRS 64.346 was designed to pay for expenses actually incurred and documented by the sheriff, the fiscal court has no authority to grant the sheriff a lump sum expense allowance as this section provides that no officer shall receive a lump sum expense allowance except where such allowance is expressly provided for by statute. OAG 75-484.

A city council resolution setting a fixed amount for monthly expenses to be paid each city official in combination with his monthly salary would be illegal, since the city officers are entitled only to expenses actually incurred in connection with official business, and such expenses must be itemized and documented. OAG 76-70.

Under this section no expense account system could be set up for the mayor and/or commissioners since there is no statute authorizing such. OAG 77-110.

The setting of an expense account cannot be considered part of the overall salary for city employees because this section specifically prohibits a city from establishing a lump sum expense account for such employees. OAG 80-276.

No county employee can be given an expense account each month, except where such allowance is expressly provided by statute. OAG 80-334.

A commissioner under the city manager form of government may not receive a monthly lump sum gasoline allowance out of the general revenues of the city in addition to his salary since this section prohibits the payment of lump sum expenses unless the state legislature has provided otherwise, which it has not done with respect to municipal officers. OAG 81-22.

A county fiscal court does not have to allow an expense account for an elected constable since this section prohibits the fiscal court from providing a lump sum expense account for any officer where there is no statute or specific appropriation by the General Assembly, and there is no law requiring that a constable's office expenses be paid by the county. OAG 81-186.

An annual lump sum allowance of $3600 for travel expenses for a mayor was illegal since public officials and employees are entitled to travel expenses only in response to detailed evidence of the actual expenses incurred. OAG 82-168.

The mayor, in addition to his regular salary, cannot be granted an expense account of a certain amount of money each month, to take care of any expenses; of course, the mayor would be entitled to be reimbursed for any actual expenses incurred in the performance of his duties, such as his travel, etc. OAG 84-351.

This section prohibits payment of a lump sum expense allowance to officers or employees, but it does not preclude payment of actual and necessary expenses. OAG 91-192.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Analysis

1. Housing Federal Prisoners.
2. Application.

1. Housing Federal Prisoners.

Entering into an agreement to house federal prisoners pursuant to this act and KRS 441.025, is a power, not a duty, imposed upon county government. Lexington-Fayette Urban County Detention Center v. Crockett, 786 S.W.2d 869, 1990 Ky. LEXIS 16 (Ky. 1990).

2. Application.

A county's participation in a self-insurance fund does not waive its sovereign immunity from tort suits. Franklin County v. Malone, 957 S.W.2d 195, 1997 Ky. LEXIS 105 (Ky. 1997), overruled in part, Commonwealth Bd. of Claims v. Harris, 59 S.W.3d 896, 2001 Ky. LEXIS 198 (Ky. 2001), overruled in part, Yanero v. Davis, 65 S.W.3d 510, 2001 Ky. LEXIS 203 (Ky. 2001).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Any agreement made pursuant to this section through KRS 65.300 must be submitted to the Attorney General for examination and approval and failure to disapprove an agreement within two (2) days of its submission shall constitute approval thereof. OAG 72-465.

This section through KRS 65.300 would allow a complete merger of a department of one governmental unit with a department of another so long as the merger is not used to avoid any existing and continuing legal functions and obligations. OAG 72-465.

The city and county could enter into a contractual agreement to administer the building and housing codes under the Interlocal Cooperation Act, which agreement must contain the information referred to in KRS 65.250 and be approved by the office of the attorney general. OAG 73-570.

When a county or counties make provision for a public defender, a county is a political subdivision but two (2) counties acting jointly do not make a single political subdivision and when the fiscal court acts legally for the county it means that the county, which is a political subdivision, is so acting and the fiscal court in such situation is an instrumentality of a political subdivision or county of a state. OAG 73-638.

A fiscal court cannot contract, under authority of KRS 64.530, with a fourth-class city located within their jurisdiction to detail a deputy sheriff to perform a majority of his duties within the city in return for the payment of his salary and expenses by the city; but, the city and county may enter into a contractual arrangement for police protection pursuant to the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300. OAG 74-578.

Under the Interlocal Cooperation Act cities within a county could enter into a contract to contribute funds, equipment and employees to the county for a county program to operate a landfill and collect and dispose of garbage throughout the county. OAG 74-706.

Under this act a county and a city therein may enter into a joint city-county contract to establish a joint heritage commission. OAG 74-719.

Where a city and county created, under the Kentucky Interlocal Cooperation Act, a new joint library with its board of trustees to conduct the affairs of the existing public library, they created, by virtue of KRS 65.250, a "body corporate" and any additional creation by the board of trustees of a separate library corporation would be superfluous. OAG 75-288.

If several cities execute an interlocal cooperation agreement to purchase materials and supplies, the agent for the cities, in advertising for bids, should identify the cities which are parties to the agreement as being the real contracting parties and buyers of materials and supplies. OAG 77-498.

Where the Kentucky-Tennessee state line is a common boundary between two (2) cities, the cities could enter into a valid mutual aid contract relating to use of fire-fighting staff and equipment. OAG 77-632.

An interlocal agreement is utilized where cooperative action in the utilization of peace officers and police department members is needed by which means governmental units can take advantage of the extraterritorial police power authorized in KRS 65.255, and while in the performance of their duties, under an interlocal agreement, police officers outside their own city or county shall have the full power of arrest and all other powers they possess in their own city or county. OAG 78-364.

Police officers are officers of the governmental entity in which they serve but under an interlocal agreement, for example, police officers involved in a cooperative undertaking between a city and a county or two (2) cities can avoid the prohibitions in KRS 61.080 and § 165 of the Kentucky Constitution against a person being, at the same time, a county officer and a city officer or an officer in two (2) different cities. OAG 78-364.

The Interlocal Cooperation Act is a device whereby governmental units (including political subdivisions of the state and agencies of the state government) may jointly exercise their power on a basis of mutual advantage and thus provide services and facilities in a more efficient, economical and beneficial manner than they could individually, but only those powers which can be exercised individually can be exercised collectively. OAG 78-364.

Where the several units of local government within the Bluegrass Area Development District sought to upgrade police services in the area of narcotics enforcement by forwarding to BGADD their proportionate share of matching funds for a Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant, and then have BGADD contract on their behalf with the Kentucky State Police to provide those services, there was no cooperative and joint exercise of police powers requiring utilization of procedures of the Interlocal Cooperation Act. OAG 78-364.

Since a city and a county, individually, may directly operate an ambulance service, they could utilize the provisions of KRS 79.110 to 79.180 or KRS 65.210 to 65.300 to agree to directly operate, jointly, an ambulance service even though KRS 65.730 has been repealed. OAG 79-104.

The intent underlying the Interlocal Cooperation Act is that whatever a unit of government may do alone, it may do jointly with another governmental unit. OAG 79-208.

Each of the local superintendents who comprise the Board of Directors of Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (EKEDC) may be held liable for the commission of an act or omission to take action regarding EKEDC matters which is a legal cause of injury to another. OAG 79-502.

A county, or two (2) or more counties, acting under an agreement executed pursuant to the provisions of the Interlocal Cooperation Act may issue mortgage revenue bonds to finance the redevelopment of existing housing and to purchase existing housing units so long as the purchase is only a phase or part of the overall redevelopment plan under subsection (3)(j) of KRS 67.083 which will result in the ultimate transfer of title from county government to a private purchaser or to a governmental entity specifically authorized to administer a housing program. OAG 81-346.

A sixth-class city may contract to furnish police protection to other sixth-class cities who are participating in agreements executed under the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300, as long as the city is able to handle police services within its own boundaries and also has the capabilities to furnish police protection services to other cities. OAG 83-363.

An agreement under the Interlocal Cooperation Act is a joint or cooperative undertaking between or among those governmental entities who have become parties to a formal agreement by satisfying the statutory requirements of KRS 65.210 to 65.300; the agreement is limited to public agencies and cannot be extended to include nonpublic agencies. OAG 84-200.

While "public agencies" may enter into agreements executed under the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300, assuming they can exercise unilaterally those functions they seek to exercise collectively, the agreements, including the benefits to be obtained therefrom, are limited to those units of government who have satisfied the statutory requirements of KRS 65.210 to 65.300 and are actually parties to the agreements. OAG 84-200.

Cities and counties through the utilization of the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300, may own and operate a hot mix bituminous asphalt plant for constructing and maintaining the roads and streets for which the member public agencies are responsible. OAG 84-200.

An agreement pursuant to the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300, is open to public inspection as it constitutes final action by the city; copies of such agreements must be filed with the county clerk of the county which is party to the agreement before the agreement becomes operative. OAG 84-217.

With regard to fire protection services in rural areas, and a proposal concerning the merger of three fire departments, the cities and the county seeking such merger could possibly utilize the provisions of this act to more effectively and efficiently deliver fire protection services in the areas involved. OAG 90-134.

Other than the requirements of KRS 304.1-120(6) a self-insurance liability pool organized under the Interlocal Cooperation Act which provides coverage to local governments is not subject to the insurance code. OAG 92-124.

The KACo Reinsurance Trust Program (KRT) is an interagency body of two (2) or more public agencies within the meaning of subdivision (1)(k) of KRS 61.870 and is therefore subject to the Open Records Act. OAG 93-65.

Since the four subsections of KRS 224.40-315 are internally inconsistent, Senate Bill No. 2, Acts 1991 (Ex. Sess.) ch. 12, did not give a local solid waste management area's governing body the authority to determine whether management facilities (which are not disposal facilities) are consistent with the local solid waste management plan. OAG 93-67.

The Northern Kentucky Solid Waste Management Area is a cooperative arrangement between three units of government created under KRS 65.210 — 65.300; it can incorporate and enter into contracts as a separate entity, if permitted by the interlocal agreement itself. OAG 93-67.

Three counties joining together pursuant to an interlocal agreement for the purpose of handling solid waste problems does not create a "special district" or a "waste management district" under KRS Chapter 109. OAG 93-67.

Action of two (2) counties in executing an Interlocal Cooperation Act in which they created a trust which issued tax-exempt bonds and used the proceeds to acquire all the stock of a corporation was prohibited by Const., § 170 since the trust's authority is no greater than that of either county, and since the counties cannot own stock in a corporation, neither can the trust. OAG 94-1.

KRS 65.150 did not authorize action of two (2) counties executing interlocal cooperation agreement action in which they created a trust which issued tax-exempt bonds and used the proceeds to acquire all the stock of a corporation which sought to be licensed as an insurance company in order to provide reinsurance to various self-insured groups of the Kentucky Association of Counties since subsection (4) of KRS 65.150 contemplates the purchase of insurance not the purchase of an insurance company and states that the insurance obtained by revenue bonds must be for participating members and not as contemplated by the agreement to entities other than the two (2) participating members. OAG 94-1.

A city may withdraw its participation from an existing tourism commission in accordance with its "home rule" powers under KRS § 82.082. The legislature allows for a separate tax by allowing local governments to act separately in forming tourism commissions in KRS § 91A.350(1) and (2). OAG 2015-07

65.220. Purpose of KRS 65.210 to 65.300.

It is the purpose of KRS 65.210 to 65.300 to permit public agencies to make the most efficient use of their powers by enabling them to cooperate with each other on a basis of mutual advantage and thereby to provide services and facilities in a manner and pursuant to forms of governmental organization that will accord best with geographic, economic, population, and other factors influencing the needs and development of local communities.

History.

Enact. Acts 1962, ch. 216, § 2; 2000, ch. 464, § 2, effective July 14, 2000; 2020 ch. 98, § 1, effective July 15, 2020.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A city and county may enter into an agreement to combine the city and county purchasing departments under the terms of the Interlocal Cooperation Act and by so doing relieve the county of its obligation and requirement under KRS 68.160 to appoint a purchasing agent. OAG 64-400.

Jails of a second-class city and the county can be combined. OAG 67-64.

Park and recreational facilities of a second-class city and the county may be merged. OAG 67-64.

The police departments of a city of the second class and the county could be merged under the Interlocal Cooperation Act. OAG 67-64.

One or more cities of the fourth, fifth or sixth class would be authorized to join with the county under the Interlocal Cooperation Act to jointly establish a dog pound, appoint a dog warden and administer such a program if a written agreement was entered into by the parties and approved by the office of the attorney general. OAG 68-108.

The police departments of a city and the county could be merged under the Interlocal Cooperation Act. OAG 68-443.

Where a project was to be undertaken to relocate a highway, a railroad, and divert a river within the cut, the urban renewal and community development agency of the city could serve as the contracting agency, or project authority, to administer the project on behalf of the city, the railroad and the Department (now Bureau) of Highways. OAG 69-96.

Agreements between volunteer fire departments to send men and equipment to assist each other can legally be entered into by virtue of the Interlocal Cooperation Act. OAG 69-213.

Counties could combine in an agreement to construct, operate, or procure the operation of a juvenile detention facility, but such interlocal agreement would have to observe the provisions of KRS 208.130 (now repealed) and would be restricted to those counties of the same category as measured against KRS 208.130. OAG 70-118.

Where a combined project between counties for the construction of a juvenile detention home is entered into under KRS 65.210 to 65.300, the cost may be allocated to each participating county on some agreed upon and equitable basis. OAG 70-118.

A consolidation of the city and county health departments could be accomplished under the Interlocal Cooperation Act. OAG 70-212.

Although the fiscal court can establish a direct county disposal system or garbage collection in the unincorporated area of the county, a city could enter into a joint venture with the county in those areas. OAG 71-449.

The police systems of the three (3) fifth-class cities in a county and a proposed county police system could be legally merged or consolidated. OAG 71-478.

Both the city and county can enact measures to control flooding problems which, in turn, means that they can jointly participate in such a program under the Interlocal Cooperation Act. OAG 80-93.

A sixth-class city may contract to furnish police protection to other sixth-class cities who are participating in agreements executed under the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300, as long as the city is able to handle police services within its own boundaries and also has the capabilities to furnish police protection services to other cities. OAG 83-363.

A city may withdraw its participation from an existing tourism commission in accordance with its "home rule" powers under KRS § 82.082. The legislature allows for a separate tax by allowing local governments to act separately in forming tourism commissions in KRS § 91A.350(1) and (2). OAG 2015-07

NOTES TO DECISIONS

N. Ky. Area Dev. Dist. v. Wilson, 612 S.W.3d 916, 2020 Ky. LEXIS 460 (Ky. 2020).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Under the Interlocal Cooperation Act Ashland and other cities in Kentucky have the authority to enter into an agreement with Huntington and other cities in West Virginia to establish and operate a metropolitan planning agency. OAG 67-193.

Kentucky area development districts created under KRS 147A.050 to 147A.120 are political subdivisions of the state and at the same time are units of local government qualifying under the intergovernmental personnel act of 1970 for the receipt of funds under certain federal programs. This opinion also affirms OAG 73-318. OAG 73-529.

A Kentucky city, which is a “public agency” as defined by this section, may, pursuant to the authority set forth in KRS 82.082, enter into a contract for sewerage services with another unit of government, including a unit located in another state, under the provisions of the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 et seq., and the Kentucky city can utilize, pursuant to KRS 65.250, the existing administrative machinery of the other “public agency” which is supplying the sewerage service for a designated fee, to serve as the administrative unit for the cooperative undertaking. OAG 81-220.

An agreement under the Interlocal Cooperation Act is a joint or cooperative undertaking between or among those governmental entities who have become parties to a formal agreement by satisfying the statutory requirements of KRS 65.210 to 65.300; the agreement is limited to public agencies and cannot be extended to include nonpublic agencies. OAG 84-200.

While “public agencies” may enter into agreements executed under the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300, assuming they can exercise unilaterally those functions they seek to exercise collectively, the agreements, including the benefits to be obtained therefrom, are limited to those units of government who have satisfied the statutory requirements of KRS 65.210 to 65.300 and are actually parties to the agreements. OAG 84-200.

Cities and counties through the utilization of the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300, may own and operate a hot mix bituminous asphalt plant for constructing and maintaining the roads and streets for which the member public agencies are responsible. OAG 84-200.

The Kentucky Association of Counties may not, on behalf of the counties, issue revenue bonds under the Interlocal Cooperation Act to partially finance the self-insurance fund since it is not a public agency. OAG 87-20.

A city may withdraw its participation from an existing tourism commission in accordance with its “home rule” powers under KRS § 82.082. The legislature allows for a separate tax by allowing local governments to act separately in forming tourism commissions in KRS § 91A.350(1) and (2). OAG 2015-07

65.240. Joint exercise of power by state agencies with other public agencies — Permissible agreements among private institutions of higher education, county school districts, and independent school districts.

(1) Any powers, privileges, or authorities exercised or capable of exercise by a public agency of this state may be exercised and enjoyed jointly with any other public agency of this state, and jointly with any public agency of any other state or of the United States to the extent that the laws of the United States permit such joint exercise or enjoyment. Any agency of the state government when acting jointly with any public agency may exercise and enjoy all of the powers, privileges and authority conferred by KRS 65.210 to 65.300 upon a public agency.

(2) Any two (2) or more public agencies may enter into agreements with one another for joint or cooperative action pursuant to the provisions of KRS 65.210 to 65.300, including but not limited to for the sharing of revenues and physical assets. Appropriate action by ordinance, resolution or otherwise pursuant to law, of the governing bodies of the participating public agencies shall be necessary before any such agreement may enter into force.

(3) Any public agency may enter into agreements with another public agency or agencies pursuant to KRS 65.210 to 65.300 to acquire by purchase or lease, any real or personal property, or any interest, right, easement, or privilege therein, outside of its municipal or jurisdictional boundaries, in connection with the acquisition, construction, operation, repair, or maintenance of any water, sewage, wastewater, or storm water facilities, notwithstanding any other provision of the Kentucky Revised Statutes restricting, qualifying, or limiting their authority to do so, except as set forth in KRS Chapter 278.

(4) A private institution of higher education and one (1) or more county school districts or independent school districts may enter into agreements under KRS 65.210 to 65.300 for the purposes of establishing and operating a program or facility, including a center for child learning and study, designed to help one (1) or more schools meet the goals set out in KRS 158.6451, or for the investment of funds if the Attorney General determines that the proposal is compatible with the United States Constitution as part of the review of the agreement provided in KRS 65.260(2), notwithstanding any other provision of the statutes restricting, qualifying or limiting their authority to do so.

History.

Enact. Acts 1962, ch. 216, § 4(1), (2); 1964, ch. 114, § 2; 1982, ch. 97, § 2, effective July 15, 1982; 1988, ch. 393, § 2, effective July 15, 1988; 2018 ch. 196, § 4, effective July 14, 2018; 2020 ch. 98, § 4, effective July 15, 2020.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

For the purpose of the indebtedness limitations of the constitution under Sections 157 and 158 of the Kentucky Constitution, the revenue sharing money actually made available to the city and county for the year in which the proposed new indebtedness for the buildings will be incurred, is a valid part of the two governmental units' revenue for that particular year. OAG 73-263.

In view of the explicit language of this section and KRS 65.270, the Campbell County solid waste management authority can condemn land in its own name for its governmental and contractual purposes as the pre-existing rights of eminent domain vested in the participating governments may be collectively focused and utilized. OAG 73-787.

A joint solid waste disposal authority may contract with a local garbage collector to provide garbage collection services to a city in the interlocal cooperation agreement since the agreement anticipates that the solid waste disposal program will be effectuated on a joint basis rather than a separate, city by city and unilateral basis. OAG 74-42.

A city marshal of one city can be employed as a part-time deputy marshal, police officer, or patrolman of another city through an agreement between the two cities under an Interlocal Cooperation Act containing the information required in KRS 65.150 and approved by the Attorney General. OAG 74-537.

As long as cities and counties comply with KRS 65.210 to 65.300 and meet the financial requirements of the Workmen's Compensation Board and rules and regulations thereof, there is no impediment to cities joining with other cities and/or counties to provide workmen's compensation self-insurance. OAG 78-115.

This section would permit a city and county to grant jointly one cable television franchise, upon advertised bid solicitation, which would service the county and city. OAG 79-208.

By reasonable implication the Interlocal Cooperation Act permits two major types of agreements: (1) the joint conduct by two or more governmental units of a particular function or joint operation of a particular governmental facility, and (2) the provision of governmental services on a contractual basis by one unit of government to one or more additional units. OAG 79-309.

The Interlocal Cooperation Act envisions that governmental units may exercise certain powers jointly, provided each unit participating in the joint activity has the statutory authority to exercise such powers separately or unilaterally, and an interlocal agreement involving even one party which does not have the requisite statutory authority would render such contract null and void. OAG 79-309.

Local school districts are public agencies which may take advantage of the benefits to be derived from entering into an interlocal agreement with each other. OAG 79-500.

What a public agency can do by itself can usually be done jointly with other public agencies under an interlocal cooperation agreement, assuming no statutory bar exists to the contrary. OAG 79-500.

An entity formed through the legal device of an interlocal cooperation agreement by public agencies which are sovereignly immune as a separate administrative entity, would be subject to the doctrine of sovereign immunity. OAG 79-502.

Pursuant to this section, and Ky. Const., §§ 163 and 164, a city and county may engage in a joint cable television franchise, but where the city already has a franchise and is bound until May 31, 1984, unless the holder of the franchise and the city and county all agree to start over and the city and county advertise for a new and joint franchise, this is not possible before that date. OAG 79-566.

A fourth-class city in Kentucky has the authority to operate various utility services and could, under the terms and provisions of the Interlocal Cooperation Act 65.210 et seq., execute a contract with another city to jointly operate such utility services. OAG 79-574.

An interlocal agreement involving one party which does not have the requisite statutory authority would render the contract null and void. OAG 79-574.

Concerning school and educational matters generally, a Kentucky city could not execute an interlocal agreement because cities do not have statutory authority to participate in school matters. OAG 79-574.

A public housing agency operating under interlocal cooperation agreement may carry out a services project, in connection with a HUD section eight existing housing program, within the boundaries of all governmental units participating in the agreement; the Interlocal Cooperation Act provides authority for the public housing agency's performing such function extraterritorially. OAG 79-617.

Since a public housing agency operating under an interlocal cooperation agreement neither owns nor operates the actual buildings rented to persons assisted by the HUD section eight existing housing rent subsidy program, the extraterritoriality involved does not conflict with the concept of housing projects "acquired and operated" by a public housing authority envisioned by KRS Chapter 80. OAG 79-617.

Although a sheriff normally has no authority to enforce city ordinances, pursuant to an interlocal cooperation agreement between a fourth-class city and a county the sheriff could be given complete jurisdiction to enforce city ordinances, as well as state law, within the municipal boundaries. OAG 80-42.

A city housing agency may not operate a section 8 existing housing program (42 USCS § 1437f) within the boundaries of another city. OAG 80-55.

Exclusive of the Interlocal Cooperation Act (KRS Chapter 147A), there is no statutory authority for the Kenton fiscal court to expend money on a railroad bridge located in Boone County a short distance from the Kenton County line which is part of a road which provides the only access to an industrial park, the commercial area of Boone County and I-75 for residents in the southern end of Kenton County; under this section, however, Boone County and Kenton County may execute an interlocal agreement wherein both counties may expend their general or road fund moneys in the reconstruction or repair of the bridge, subject, of course, to the availability of such funds in the county budgets and funds which were not previously committed to specific road and bridge projects. OAG 80-642.

Since cities and counties have the authority under KRS 79.080(2) to establish and operate, individually, plans for the payment of hospitalization benefits, they may, under the authority of the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300 operate such plans jointly with other cities and counties. The agreement must ultimately be approved by the attorney general. OAG 82-294.

Although local governments are responsible for the enforcement of the state building code within the boundaries of their jurisdictions, the department of local government may participate in the local enforcement program to the extent of providing funds for the research and planning of a program whereby various local governments will jointly conduct and operate an enforcement program. (Decision prior to 1982 enactment of KRS 147A.021.) OAG 82-312.

KRS 441.006 (now KRS 441.025) provides for jail agreements under the Interlocal Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300. OAG 82-334.

Since a county cannot furnish county equipment and road employes to maintain or construct a city street unless such street is made a part of the county road system, the mere fact that an interlocal agreement is being entered into that does not encompass the city street's being made a part of the county road system would not convert it into a lawful project. OAG 82-418.

Not only may cities enact dog control ordinances but they may join together with other cities in joint or cooperative undertakings to handle such matters of common concern. OAG 82-447.

The county has definite and prescribed obligations under KRS Chapter 258, but they do not include the duty to accept dogs at the county pound which were picked up by municipal dog control authorities, particularly where violations of municipal ordinances are involved. While the cities and the county have the authority to enter into a joint or cooperative agreement concerning dog control and the use of the county dog pound, which could include a boarding fee for dogs delivered to the pound by city dog control officers, the cities, in the absence of an agreement with the county, cannot require the county to accept dogs picked up for violations of municipal ordinances; absent an agreement between the cities and the county relative to dog control, the cities will enforce their ordinances only and the county and all peace officers will enforce the provisions of KRS Chapter 258. OAG 82-447.

Where a city and county had not entered into an interlocal agreement relative to a joint cable television franchise, the unilateral solicitation of bids by the county, and the county's acceptance of a bid which included the area of the city, resulted in an illegal award of franchise. OAG 83-321.

While Ky. Const., §§ 163 and 164 dealing with franchises are self-operative in nature, the Interlocal Cooperation Act (KRS Chapter 147A), this section, would permit the city and county to grant jointly one cable television franchise (upon advertised bid solicitation) which would service the county and city and there is nothing in the joint action which would militate against the self-executing nature of Ky. Const., §§ 163 and 164 or against the exclusivity of separate governmental control over the streets and roads of the county and city respectively. OAG 83-321.

Where bridge was entirely located in one county but was used by a few residents of adjacent county, the two (2) counties could enter into an interlocal agreement wherein both counties would contribute money to the repair or reconstruction of the bridge; however, for such an agreement to be valid, it must clearly appear that both counties had a definite public interest in such project and, in addition, the county in which the bridge was located would in no manner surrender its jurisdiction over the bridge. OAG 83-340.

In addition to the express authorization of a contract between an airport authority and a city by which the authority undertakes emergency service involving UPS Aircraft either on UPS runways or on the UPS ramps by KRS 75.050, this section expressly permits any two (2) or more public agencies of Kentucky to contract to do jointly what each can do alone. However, in view of the formalities of this and the following sections, KRS 75.050, standing alone, is sufficient authority for the contract. OAG 85-97.

Pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and subsection (3) of KRS 65.150, counties may associate to self-insure. OAG 87-20.

All peace officers in the Commonwealth of Kentucky are authorized, if not required, to cooperate with federal officials, i.e. the DEA, in enforcing appropriate federal laws against illegal drugs and drug trafficking. Also Kentucky peace officers may, to the extent permitted by federal law, enforce federal drug laws regarding crimes that have occurred in Kentucky in whole or in part, or that otherwise affect a business or person residing in Kentucky. OAG 92-104.

A city may not unilaterally expend funds to maintain a waterway that is not within its boundaries. OAG 12-009, 2012 Ky AG LEXIS 110.

A city may withdraw its participation from an existing tourism commission in accordance with its "home rule" powers under KRS § 82.082. The legislature allows for a separate tax by allowing local governments to act separately in forming tourism commissions in KRS § 91A.350(1) and (2). OAG 2015-07 posed agreement by sending a written response of its approval or disapproval within thirty (30) days of the receipt of the notification from the public agency. (b) Make no response. If the governing body of the local government makes no response within thirty (30) days of the notification as set out in subsection (1) of this section, the nonresponse shall be deemed to be approval of the proposal.

65.242. Change in parties to interlocal agreement.

(1) Provided that the terms of the agreement are not being substantively changed, whenever an existing agreement that complies with the requirements of KRS 65.210 to 65.300 is amended solely to join new parties or to remove existing parties, approval of the Attorney General or the Department for Local Government under KRS 65.260 and approval of the agency or officer with jurisdiction under KRS 65.300 shall not be required for the amendment to be effective.

(2) When an agreement is amended pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, a public agency subject to the agreement or the interlocal agency created by the agreement shall not be required to file a copy of the amended agreement with the Secretary of State as set out in KRS 65.290 in order for the amended agreement to become effective.

(3) Public agencies may, by the terms of an agreement made pursuant to KRS 65.210 to 65.300, specify the manner in which parties may be added to or removed from the agreement pursuant to this section. The language may authorize the addition of new parties or the removal of existing parties with or without the requirement of action by each public agency that is a party to the existing agreement or with a requirement of action by a minimum percentage of the legislative bodies of the public agencies that are parties to the agreement.

65.243. Status and authorities of interlocal agency created by interlocal agreement — Interlocal agreement controls if more restrictive than KRS 65.210 to 65.300 — Status and authorities are cumulative — No statutory power to tax granted to interlocal agency — Interlocal agency deemed a public agency.

(1) An interlocal agency created by the interlocal agreement shall constitute an agency and instrumentality of the public agencies party to the interlocal agreement for the purpose of performing the essential governmental functions and the public purposes authorized by the interlocal agreement.

(2) Unless restricted, limited, or otherwise conditioned under the terms of the interlocal agreement, an interlocal agency is authorized to exercise any powers not in conflict with local, state, or federal law or in conflict with the interlocal agreement that are necessary and convenient to accomplish the purposes for which the interlocal agency was created.

(3) To the extent that any of the provisions of the interlocal agreement are more restrictive, or limit the powers, privileges, or authority of the interlocal agency that are otherwise allowed by KRS 65.210 to 65.300, the provisions of the interlocal agreement shall control.

(4) The status and authorities of an interlocal agency granted in this section, unless limited by the interlocal agreement, is cumulative and in addition to the powers and authority of an interlocal agency that may otherwise exist and that are granted or implied under any other laws of the Commonwealth to a specific type of public body that may also function as an interlocal agency under KRS 65.210 to 65.300.

(6) An interlocal agency created by an interlocal agreement shall be deemed to be a public agency as defined in KRS 61.805 and 61.870, and as such shall be subject to KRS 61.800 to 61.850 and 61.870 to 61.884.

- (b) If the agreement creates an interlocal agency:

1. The organization, composition, authority, and nature of the interlocal agency, including the terms and qualifications of the members of the governing authority and their manner of appointment or selection;

2. A statement of the powers delegated to the interlocal agency or any restrictions, limitations, or conditions the contracting parties wish to place on those powers; and

(a) Provision for an administrator responsible for the joint or cooperative undertaking; and

(b) The manner of acquiring, holding, and disposing of real and personal property used in the joint or cooperative undertaking.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Where a city and a county acting under the Interlocal Cooperation Act and with intent to take advantage of the extraterritorial police power permitted by the act enter into an agreement authorizing all members of the city police force to exercise the power of arrest and other powers that they possess, in any territory of the county outside the city limits, this does not represent a cooperative and joint exercise of police power as required by KRS 64.240 (now repealed) nor does the failure to mention the matter of financing the joint or cooperative undertaking conform with subsec. (1)(d) of this section and the failure to create a separate legal or administrative entity does not conform to subsec. (2) of said section. The agreement therefore does not comply with either the intent or the terms of the Interlocal Cooperation Act and cannot be approved by the attorney general as required by this section. OAG 69-113.

An interstate cooperative agreement could legally provide that the Tennessee watershed district would acquire such easements or flowage rights on Tennessee lands from Tennessee landowners whose lands might be flooded as a result of the construction and operation of two Kentucky dams, subject to the Tennessee district's being reimbursed, by the Kentucky district, for its expenses in acquiring, recording and transferring such rights to the Kentucky district if such agreement complied with the requirements of this section, KRS 65.260 and 65.290. OAG 69-204.

Where a city and county created, under the Kentucky Interlocal Cooperation Act, a new joint library with its board of trustees to conduct the affairs of the existing public library, they created a "body corporate" and any additional creation by the board of trustees of a separate library corporation would be superfluous. OAG 75-288.

An interlocal agreement and the steps taken to effectuate Ky. Const., §§ 163 and 164 may properly include joint advertising, joint consideration of bids, joint awarding of a cable television franchise covering city and county areas, a provision that the consideration payable to the city and county shall be a certain percentage of the gross receipts from city subscribers going to the city and a percentage of gross receipts of county subscribers going to the county respectively, and the joint control over the franchise. OAG 79-208.

Where either a joint or cooperative agreement is involved, the agreement may provide for either a separate legal or administrative entity to conduct the undertaking or it may utilize the existing administrative machinery of one or more of the governmental units which are parties to the contract. OAG 79-309.

Although the articles of incorporation of an entity purported to show that the apparent purpose of the corporation was to perform governmental activity, specifically to assist those political subdivisions of the state of Kentucky located in Campbell County in performing their municipal functions, the articles did not fully comply with this section and there was no indication that it had complied with KRS 65.260, therefore, since the entity had no formal statutory authority that would make it an instrumentality of a political subdivision as defined in KRS 61.420(5) for social security purposes, social security should be paid by the entity directly to the social security administration as any other nonprofit corporation would do. OAG 80-348.

A Kentucky city, which is a "public agency" as defined by KRS 65.230, may, pursuant to the authority set forth in KRS 82.082, enter into a contract for sewerage services with another unit of government, including a unit located in another state, under the provisions of the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 et seq., and the Kentucky city can utilize, pursuant to this section, the existing administrative machinery of the other "public agency" which is supplying the sewerage service for a designated fee, to serve as the administrative unit for the cooperative undertaking. OAG 81-220.

A city of the fifth class which entered into an interlocal agreement concerning fire protection could not pass the yearly charge on to its citizens in the absence of a statutory authorization for such special assessment. OAG 84-61.

65.260. Limitations upon agreements — Approval by Attorney General or Department for Local Government — Exemptions.

(1) No agreement made pursuant to KRS 65.210 to 65.300 shall relieve any public agency of any obligation or responsibility imposed upon it by law, except that to the extent of actual and timely performance thereof by an interlocal agency, that performance may be offered in satisfaction of the obligation or responsibility.

(2) Except as provided in subsections (3) and (4) of this section, every agreement made pursuant to KRS 65.210 to 65.300 shall, prior to and as a condition precedent to its entry into force, be submitted to the Attorney General who shall determine whether the agreement is in proper form and compatible with the laws of this state. The Attorney General shall approve any agreement submitted to his or her office under this subsection unless he or she finds that it does not meet the requirements set forth in KRS 65.210 to 65.300. If the agreement does not meet these requirements, the Attorney General shall detail in writing, addressed to the public agencies concerned, the specific respects in which the proposed agreement fails to meet the requirements of law. The failure of the Attorney General to disapprove an agreement submitted under this subsection within thirty (30) days of its submission shall constitute approval thereof.

(3)(a) In lieu of the requirements of subsection (2) of this section, agreements involving only local governments, an agency, board, instrumentality, or commission created exclusively by one (1) or more local governments, or any combination thereof, shall prior to and as a condition precedent to its entry into force, be submitted to the Department for Local Government. The department shall determine whether the agreement is in proper form and shall approve any agreement submitted to it under this subsection unless it finds that the agreement does not meet the requirements set out in KRS 65.210 to 65.300. If the agreement does not meet these requirements, the department shall detail, in writing, addressed to the public agencies concerned, the specific respects in which the proposed agreement fails to meet the requirements of KRS 65.210 to 65.300. The failure of the department to disapprove an agreement submitted under this subsection within thirty (30) days of its submission shall constitute approval thereof.

(b) The approval of an agreement by the Department for Local Government under paragraph (a) of this subsection shall be deemed final and conclusive that the agreement meets the requirements of KRS 65.210 to 65.300, and the agreement shall not thereafter be subject to challenge as to the validity of its formation.

(4) The submission of an interlocal cooperative agreement to the Attorney General or the Department for Local Government as provided in subsections (2) and (3) of this section shall not be required for any cooperative agreement which involves:

(a) Only the construction, reconstruction, or maintenance of a municipal road or bridge, provided a written agreement is approved by each of the affected governing bodies of the public agencies, or the administrative head of a public agency if there is no governing body; or

(b) Interlocal cooperative agreements between school boards and local governments.

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Although two (2) cities have entered into an interlocal agreement, such agreement could be mutually dissolved by the cities at any time and no binding effect would result from a contract with a police authority and any contract between the Kentucky crime commission through the Kentucky law enforcement foundation fund would need to be entered into with the actual subdivisions involved. OAG 73-603.

Although the articles of incorporation of an entity purported to show that the apparent purpose of the corporation was to perform governmental activity, specifically to assist those political subdivisions of the state of Kentucky located in Campbell County in performing their municipal functions, the articles did not fully comply with KRS 65.250 and there was no indication that it had complied with this section, therefore, since the entity had no formal statutory authority that would make it an instrumentality of a political subdivision as defined in KRS 61.420(5) for social security purposes, social security should be paid by the entity directly to the social security administration as any other nonprofit corporation would do. 65.270. Revenue bonds.

(1) Whenever any two (2) or more public agencies, as defined in KRS 65.230, enter into an agreement for joint or cooperative action pursuant to the provisions of KRS 65.210 to 65.300, any public agency acting separately or jointly with one (1) or more of any other public agencies, may acquire, construct, maintain, add to, and improve the necessary property, real and personal, which is required in order to perform the functions under the agreement, and for the purpose of defraying the costs incident to the performance of the agreement, may borrow money and issue negotiable revenue bonds.

(2) Any public agency or agencies may borrow money and issue bonds under this section pursuant to an order, resolution, or ordinance of its or their legislative or administrative body or bodies, which order, resolution, or ordinance shall set forth the terms of the agreement in full, the amount of the revenue bonds to be issued, and the maximum rate of interest. In every instance the order, resolution, or ordinance shall provide that the joint or cooperative action is being undertaken pursuant to the provisions of KRS 65.210 to 65.300.

(3) The bonds may be issued to bear interest at a rate or rates or method of determining rates as the public agency or agencies determines, payable at the times and at a place or places as the public agency or agencies determines.

(4) The bonds may provide that they or any of them may be called for redemption prior to maturity.

(5) Any public agency is empowered to accept donations or gifts to the joint or cooperative action from any source and to accept appropriations and grants to the joint or cooperative action from the federal government or its agencies and appropriations from the state or any county, city, or other political subdivision and, at the option of the public agency or agencies, to pledge any donations, gifts, or appropriations to the payment of revenue bonds issued to finance the cost of a joint or cooperative action.

(6) Bonds issued pursuant to this section shall be negotiable and shall not be subject to taxation. If any officer whose signature or countersignature appears on the bonds or coupons ceases to be an officer before delivery of the bonds, his signature or countersignature shall be valid and sufficient for all purposes the same as if he had remained in office until delivery. The bonds shall be sold in a manner and upon terms as the public agency or agencies deem best. The bonds shall be payable solely from the revenue derived from the joint or cooperative action and shall not constitute an indebtedness of the state, county, city, or political subdivision. It shall be plainly stated on the face of each bond that it has been issued under the provisions of KRS 65.210 to 65.300.

(7) All money received from the bonds shall be applied solely for the acquisition, construction, maintenance, improvement, or operation of the joint or cooperative action, and the necessary expense of preparing, printing, and selling the bonds, or to advance the payment of interest on the bonds during the first three (3) years following the date of the issuance of the bonds.

(8) The rents, royalties, fees, rates, and charges for the service or sale of the joint or cooperative action shall be fixed and revised from time to time so as to be sufficient to provide for the payment of interest upon all bonds and to create a sinking fund to pay the principal of the bonds when due, and to provide for the operation and maintenance of the joint or cooperative action and an adequate depreciation account.

(1) In the event that a public agency or agencies determine to transfer any of its employees to the joint or cooperative action, which employees are subject to any civil service laws or regulations, such employees shall not lose any rights or benefits which have accrued prior to such transfer. Such employees, when transferred, to the joint or cooperative action from a public agency or agencies that are subject to any civil service laws or regulations, and who have completed probationary appointments with the public agency or agencies prior to the date of transfer, shall be considered as having satisfied all of the qualifications of the joint or cooperative action and shall be given full and regular appointments as defined in such laws or regulations as of the date they are transferred to the joint or cooperative action.

(2) In the event that the joint or cooperative action is such that its employees would be afforded civil service rights or benefits if they were employees of a county or city, such employees shall be afforded the protection of civil service laws or regulations; provided, however, that such protection is available under the laws of this state.

(3) In the event the joint or cooperative action employs a person employed immediately prior thereto by a component city or county, or by a special district, such employee shall be deemed to remain an employee of such city, county or special district for the purposes of any pension plan of such city, county, or special district, and shall continue to be entitled to all rights and benefits thereunder as if he had remained as an employee of the city, county, or special district, until the joint or cooperative action has provided a pension plan to which such employee is eligible and such employee has elected, in writing, to participate therein. Until such election, the joint or cooperative action shall deduct from the remuneration of such employee the amount which such employee is or may be required to pay in accordance with the provisions of the plan of such city, county, or special district and the joint or cooperative action shall pay to the city, county, or special district any amounts required to be paid under the provisions of such plan by employer and employee, unless an agreement, not adversely affecting the employee's interest, or expectancy, has been made pursuant to KRS 65.250(1)(c) for the payment of the employer's pension obligation.

(4) Sheriffs, county clerks, county attorneys, and jailers, who for the purposes of this section shall be known as county officials, may invest and reinvest money subject to their control and jurisdiction, including tax dollars subject to the provisions of KRS Chapter 134 and 160.510, as permitted by this section.

(5) The provisions of this section are not intended to impair the power of a county official, city, county, urban-county, charter county, school district, or other local governmental unit or political subdivision to hold funds in deposit accounts with banking institutions as otherwise authorized by law.

(6) The governing body or county official may delegate the investment authority provided by this section to the treasurer or other financial officer or officers charged with custody of the funds of the local government, and the officer or officers shall thereafter assume full responsibility for all investment transactions until the delegation of authority terminates or is revoked.

If counties and county officials and cities create a pool, each group may select a manager to administer their pool and invest the assets. Each county and each county official and each city may invest in a pool created pursuant to this subsection. Investments shall be limited to those investment instruments permitted by this section. The funds of each local government and county official shall be properly accounted for, and earnings and charges shall be assigned to each participant in a uniform manner according to the amount invested. Charges to any local government or county official shall not exceed one percent (1%) annually on the principal amount invested, and charges on investments of less than a year's duration shall be prorated. Any investment pool created pursuant to this subsection shall be audited each year by an independent certified public accountant, or by the Auditor of Public Accounts. A copy of the audit report shall be provided to each local government or county official participating in the pool. In the case of an audit by an independent certified public accountant, a copy of the audit report shall be provided to the Auditor of Public Accounts, and to the state local debt officer. The Auditor of Public Accounts may review the report of the independent certified public accountant. After preliminary review, should discrepancies be found, the Auditor of Public Accounts may make his or her own investigative report or audit to verify the findings of the independent certified public accountant's report.

(b) If the state local debt officer creates an investment pool, he or she shall establish an account in the Treasury for the pool. He or she shall also establish a separate trust and agency account for the purpose of covering management costs, and he or she shall deposit management charges in this account. (c) Before investing in an investment pool created pursuant to this subsection, a local government or county official shall allow any savings and loan association or bank in the county, as described in subsection (1)(d) of this section, to bid for the deposits, but the local government or county official shall not be required to seek bids more often than once in each six (6) month period.

(10)(a) With the approval of the Kentucky Board of Education, local boards of education, or any of them that desire to do so, may associate to create an investment pool. Each local school board which associates itself with other local school boards for the purpose of creating the investment pool may invest its funds in the pool so created and so managed. Investments shall be limited to those investment instruments permitted by this section. The funds of each local school board shall be properly accounted for, and earnings and charges shall be assigned to each participant in a uniform manner according to the amount invested. Charges to any local school board shall not exceed one percent (1%) annually on the principal amount invested, and charges on investments of less than a year's duration shall be prorated. Any investment pool created pursuant to this subsection shall be audited each year by an independent certified public accountant, or by the Auditor of Public Accounts. A copy of the audit report shall be provided to each local school board participating in the pool. In the case of an audit by an independent certified public accountant, a copy of the audit report shall be provided to the Auditor of Public Accounts, and to the Kentucky Board of Education. The Auditor of Public Accounts may review the report of the independent certified public accountant. After preliminary review, should discrepancies be found, the Auditor of Public Accounts may make his or her own investigative report or audit to verify the findings of the independent certified public accountant's report.

Compiler's Notes.

The Federal Investment Company Act of 1940 referred to in subdivision (1)(j)1. of this section is compiled as 15 USCS §§ 80a-1 — 80a-52.

The reference to State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education in this section has been changed to Kentucky Board of Education on authority of Acts 1996, ch. 362, § 6, effective July 15, 1996.

Legislative Research Commission Notes.

(7/15/94). This section was amended by 1994 Ky. Acts chs. 275 and 508. Where these Acts are not in conflict, they have been codified together. In cases where stylistic changes made in Acts ch. 508 conflict with substantive changes in Acts ch. 275, the provisions of Acts ch. 275 have prevailed. Cf. KRS 7.123(1).

(7/13/90). The Act amending this section prevails over the repeal and reenactment in House Bill 940, Acts ch. 476, pursuant to section 653(1) of Acts ch. 476.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Marshall v. Commonwealth, 20 S.W.3d 478, 2000 Ky. App. LEXIS 62 (Ky. Ct. App. 2000).

OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Greater Cincinnati Airport Authority, as a governmental unit, must abide by the mandates of this section and cannot accept as security for its deposits types of collateral which do not qualify under this section even though such collateral would be sufficient to secure State funds under KRS 41.240. OAG 78-481.

A county may invest in school revenue bonds, either city or county, pursuant to subsection (b) of this section which authorizes investments in bonds or certificates of indebtedness of this state and of its agencies and instrumentalities, for all county and municipal school boards are state agencies. OAG 79-317.

A county may invest in the notes or certificates of indebtedness of the Kentucky state property and building commission board and the Kentucky Housing Corporation as these are statutorily designated state agencies. OAG 79-317.

A county may invest its funds in those banks mentioned in the Farm Credit Act, 12 USCS § 2001 et seq., and in the Federal Home Loan Banks pursuant to the authority vested in it by this section. OAG 79-317.

A county may not invest in the general bonds of other counties or municipalities. OAG 79-317.

Investment by a county in Federal National Mortgage Association discount notes and debentures is not authorized by this section. OAG 79-317.

Since cities and counties unilaterally have the authority to invest their temporarily idle funds pursuant to this section in those types of securities specifically listed in this section, cities and counties could enter into an agreement under the Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300, providing for a cooperative investment program; however, cities and counties cannot, either unilaterally or collectively, turn over their funds to an area development district to manage for investment purposes as such action is not permitted under this section. OAG 80-472.

For guidelines as to investment of money receipts of office by sheriffs, see OAG 82-244 (modifying OAG 78-491).

Under the 1982 amendment of this section, the state local finance officer is required to assist the sheriff in the investing of funds coming into his hands which are temporarily in excess of "operating needs"; that obviously does not include tax moneys collected. OAG 82-244.

Under subdivision (1)(d) of this section, governmental units mentioned in subsection (1) of this section may invest and reinvest their money in interest-bearing deposits in national banks. OAG 84-343.

A public library created pursuant to KRS 173.300 to 173.410 is not a local governmental unit nor a political subdivision within the meaning of this section. OAG 84-343.

A local government can invest in a mutual fund that itself invested solely in United States Government securities. OAG 88-52.

Based on the reasoning contained in OAG 82-29 and 88-52, this section can be interpreted to allow a county to invest its funds in mutual funds that invest solely in federal securities, including such securities subject to repurchase agreements with state banks, national banks and brokerage firms. OAG 90-28.

The second sentence of subdivision (1)(a) of this section should not be read as restrictive, but rather as permissive; by the use of the term “may” the provision would allow the method set forth therein but would also allow the use of other methods, such as purchase through brokerage firms. OAG 90-28.

Subdivision (1)(d) of this section establishes a statutory requirement that deposits of local governmental monies in specified institutions, exceeding the amount insured by an agency of the government of the United States, must be “collateralized” by a pledge of obligations, as permitted by subsection (4) of KRS 41.240, “having a current quoted market value at least equal to any uninsured deposits.” OAG 94-22.

“Deposits,” as used in this section with regard to “uninsured deposits,” refers to the total value of such “deposits,” which includes items that have not yet been “collected” by the institution in which a deposit has been made given check processing or clearance time. OAG 94-22.

67.753. Apportionment of net profit or gross receipts of business entity to local tax district.

(1) Except as provided in subsection (4) of this section, net profit or gross receipts shall be apportioned as follows:

(a) For business entities with both payroll and sales revenue in more than one (1) tax district, by multiplying the net profit or gross receipts by a fraction, the numerator of which is the payroll factor, described in subsection (2) of this section, plus the sales factor, described in subsection (3) of this section, and the denominator of which is two (2); and

(b) For business entities with sales revenue in more than one (1) tax district, by multiplying the net profits or gross receipts by the sales factor as set forth in subsection (3) of this section.

(2) The payroll factor is a fraction, the numerator of which is the total amount paid or payable in the tax district during the tax period by the business entity for compensation, and the denominator of which is the total compensation paid or payable by the business entity everywhere during the tax period. Compensation is paid or payable in the tax district based on the time the individual’s service is performed within the tax district.

(3) The sales factor is a fraction, the numerator of which is the total sales revenue of the business entity in the tax district during the tax period, and the denominator of which is the total sales revenue of the business entity everywhere during the tax period.

(a) The sale, lease, or rental of tangible personal property is in the tax district if:

1. The property is delivered or shipped to a purchaser, other than the United States government, or to the designee of the purchaser within the tax district regardless of the f.o.b. point or other conditions of the sale; or

2. The property is shipped from an office, store, warehouse, factory, or other place of storage in the tax district and the purchaser is the United States government.

(b) Sales revenues, other than revenue from the sale, lease, or rental of tangible personal property or the lease or rental of real property, are apportioned to the tax district based upon a fraction, the numerator of which is the time spent in performing such income-producing activity within the tax district and the denominator of which is the total time spent performing that income-producing activity.

(c) Sales revenue from the lease or rental of real property is allocated to the tax district where the property is located.

(4) If the apportionment provisions of this section do not fairly represent the extent of the business entity's activity in the tax district, the business entity may petition the tax district or the tax district may require, in respect to all or any part of the business entity's business activity, if reasonable:

(a) Separate accounting;

(b) The exclusion of any one (1) or more of the factors;

(c) The inclusion of one (1) or more additional factors which will fairly represent the business entity's business activity in the tax district; or

(d) The employment of any other method to effectuate an equitable allocation and apportionment of net profit or gross receipts.

(a) Twenty-two and one-half percent (22.5%) of the current taxable year tax liability;

(b) Twenty-five percent (25%) of the preceding full year taxable year tax liability; or

(c) Twenty-five percent (25%) of the average tax liability for the three (3) preceding full year taxable years' tax liabilities if the tax liability for any of the three (3) preceding full taxable years exceeded twenty thousand dollars ($20,000).

(3) Any business entity that fails to submit the minimum quarterly payment required under subsection (2) of this section by the due date for the quarterly payment shall pay an amount equal to twelve percent (12%) per annum simple interest on the amount of the quarterly payment required under subsection (2) of this section from the earlier of:

(a) The due date for the quarterly payment until the time when the aggregate quarterly payments submitted for the taxable year equal the minimum aggregate payments due under subsection (2) of this section; or

(b) The due date of the annual return.

A fraction of a month is counted as an entire month.

(4) The provisions of this section shall not apply to any business entity's first full or partial taxable year of doing business in the tax district or any first taxable year in which a business entity's tax liability exceeds five thousand dollars ($5,000).

(b) The Secretary of State approves the request for an exemption and obtains the return form or forms that will be accepted by the tax district and any applicable instructions for inclusion on the one-stop business portal or another public Web site maintained by that office. In exercising his or her discretion to grant an exemption under this subsection, the Secretary of State may impose any reasonable terms and limitations upon the exemption.

(4) Upon receipt of an order pursuant to subsection (2) of this section or upon the issuance of an exemption under subsection (3) of this section, the Secretary of State shall provide notice to the Kentucky Society of Certified Public Accountants of the tax districts that have submitted a written order to opt out under subsection (2) of this section or that are granted an exemption under subsection (3) of this section.

Nor shall the adoption or use of a standard form or forms developed under this section release the taxpayer from any liability or responsibility to the tax district for the correct payment of taxes, penalties, and any other obligations imposed by the tax district.
